Not long ago, when Miller was in his prime, he took off his hat to nobody as a hitter or a fielder. The Red fans would bet their last cent on him. He should have many more good years of usefulness in him, and his presence should go a long way toward gingering up the Cardinals. Then there is Ferris, who formerly played second with the Boston Pilgrims, and who more recently has been let go to Minneapolis by the Browns. Hobe always was a powerful fine hitter, and a no less prominent man on covering his position.

He did not do well when he was switched to third sack, which may be taken to mean that a second baseman once is a second baseman always. Williams was a cracking good man when he was with the New York Highlanders. He always was up with the best of the New York batters. He also hit well for the Browns for a while after going to St. Louis.

Miller, of the Pirates, is no slouch, and his work helped them win the world's championship not long ago from the Tigers. He also is of the new school, so-called. All of which goes to prove the point.

"Germany" Schaefer," who was traded to Washington for Delehanty, has a reputation for past performance for batting. He made one home run against the Sox a few years ago that was the second longest hit ever recorded at the South Side park. The longest was that batted by Jake Stahl last season, which landed in the right centre tier of seats on the left. Schaefer not only is a hard hitter, but he fields his position in a grand fashion.

Then there is Doyle, of the Giants, a rattling good hitter and second baseman. When he went to New York from the Three League he set the fans crazy with his continual hitting prowess. His presence has been a stimulus to the other Giant players. It is not known right now who will play second for the White Sox, but in past days when Frank Isbell was there, he was one of the best batters on the club, with his four two-baggers against the Cubs one day in the world's series will never be forgotten.

Few fans of today remember Pitcher Hudson, and fewer have seen him. But Hudson's record shows *him to be one of the greatest pitch*ers who ever drew breath. He twirled for Comiskey when the St. Louis team won the world's championship, and still later was several years with the Detroits. His last game was played in 1889. Hudson had a fanning bee with Comiskey a day or so ago, and during the course of the conversation it was shown how a ball player is sometimes "discovered."

"I remember one day when we lost our best pitcher," remarked Comiskey. "Carruthers left me, and I was in a quandary who to get to fill his shoes on the old Browns. Well, I was having a shave in a barber shop in this city, and happened to be telling the barber that I was shy a twirler and was up against it."

"Why, Commy," said the barber, "I can tell you where the best pitcher in the world lives, and the funny part of it is, he lives across the street from you."

"Well," said Comiskey, "you've got me. Who is it?"

"He is a young chap named Hudson, and he's now pitching out in Denver. Ask your brother about him; he also thinks he is the finest pitcher in the world."

"I took the hint," explained the master of the Browns. "I inquired from my brother, and Hudson certainly got a boost there. So I went ahead and signed up the young chap, and he was as fine a pitcher as I have ever seen."

Hudson at present is an election commissioner in Chicago. He has lost track of the trend of baseball, and only sees a couple of games a year. He had even forgotten that he once pitched to won for Comiskey during the famous world series a score of years ago. But he still believes he can strike out a batter and that he can lift out a single himself, despite his gray hairs.

AUXILIARY POWER FOR WIRELESS CURRENT URGED.

When the steamer Kentucky was sinking off Cape Hatteras, the last throb from its wireless flashed the word that water was coming in to the hold and in a few minutes its dynamo would stop, putting an end to further message sending. This exigency is likely to be repeated in the case of other vessels. The boilers and machinery are placed as low as possible in the ship, on account of their weight, but this means they are quickly put out of action when the water comes in.

It would seem essential that provision be at once made for auxiliary power, placed on an upper deck, to provide current for the wireles up to the moment the entire hull goes under, says main floats even when half submerged, and in such con*dition needs the help of its wireless* more than ever, to assist rescue ships in finding her.

A gas engine and generator of sufficient power would not occupy much space, and would be usable long after the fires below had been extinguished, or a small steam plant would furnish all the power required but to depend on the below-decks plant seems to be only half equipped.

NEW TABLE DECORATION.

The girl who is looking for an attractive way to brighten her table for a society affair should adopt the new idea of ribbon bows around the fern dish. This is very effective and easily managed. Six-inch, leaf green satin ribbon is used, unless one wants to carry out some other color scheme. Green is mostly used because it is the safest color on the table. However, peach color was recently used with great success where the candle shades and the flowers were yellow and pink.

The ribbon is arranged in a series of eight-inch loops, which have feather-bone in the middle to make them stand erect. These loops are made along the line of folded ribbon. They are not cut separately and attached.

The foundation of the ribbon is also featherboned to keep its shape, and when the fern dish or Japanese bowl of flowers is placed in the middle of the table this upright ribbon decoration is massed around it.

If a girl wants to give a spring dinner, luncheon or supper, she can use spring green satin ribbon around an immense cut glass bowl of ferns and pink roses, cut glass candlesticks with pink candles and pink shades made of tarletan, edged with a fringe of pink and crystal beads, and silver dishes filled with white candy and green mints.

BUSTLING JAPANESE INVADE STEAMERS TO SELL WARES.

The struggle for business carries the salesman of the Japanese business house in launches and rickety sampans clear out to every door of the harbor in an effort to reach the visitor before the foreigner or the lagging countryman in town gets a chance at his pocket. Seemingly the Japanese merchant is cognizive to see that the merchants have plenty of opportunity to sell.

All the time the ship lies at an*chor these persistent peddlers* sent out by the leading houses will be with the traveler; he cannot lose them says the Honkeepen. A Shanghai masters are so accustomed to the practise that it has become good policy to assign them to the after-deck on which to display their wares. The decks of the ships ofttimes resemble good-sized industrial exhibits. One may buy anything from a Basket of cholcest fruit to a set of Satsuma ware. Walking about through the crowd are Japanese tailors who will measure you while you buy a trinket and deliver you aboard ship a broadcloth suit the following evening.

The Girls.

Dottie—I hate this windy weather. Lottie—Why, dear?

Dottie—It ruins my complexion.

Lottie—And I don't suppose you could help things by putting it on a little thicker?

PANHANDLERS ADOPT CODE OF OPERATIONS

A regularly organized gang of panhandlers which operates on systematic lines, known officially as Plainfield Chapter 2,333, Benevolent and Protective Pandhandlers, has adopted a new code of rules. (Police please take notice.)

Section No. 1 will report on the Somerset street bridge on the westerly side of that thoroughfare at 7 a. m. daily for the purpose of "touching" New York commuters of the borough.

Section No. 2, will station itself on the northeasterly corner of Front and Somerset streets to solicit "dues" from citizens who escape the vigilant eye of the members of Section No. 1.

Section No. 3 will guard the Grove street bridge during the exodus of commuters.

Section 4 will hold down the Madison Avenue bridge for the same purpose.

Section No. 5 will guard all territory in the vicinity of East Fourth street and Watchung avenue leading to the approach of the Plainfield station.

After the departure of the 8:30 express to New York, Sections No. 1 and and No. 2 will take a position in the corner of Front and Somerset streets, and squads Nos. 3, 4 and 5 will congregate on Park avenue and Second street.

"Sugar" Cane, president of the local chapter who was a noted "tightwad" in the days of prosperity, recently instructed members not to accept less than a three cent piece from "philanthropists" except on rainy days.

SOME SIDE LIGHTS ON MR. SHELDON'S WORK

No matter what the disguise the man assumes there is no possible chance of his value and ability escaping the experts. Of course this refers to one of the people in the cast of "Thelawny of the Wells," who performed at the Plainfield theatre Friday night.

Edward Sheldon, who took the Edward Sheldon.

part of Mr. Mortimer, which, by the *way is one of the parts which de*mands but little exertion on the part of the actor, was the recipient of several salvos from New York managers, three of which are reproduced here.

The first bouquet came in the form of a telegram from Abe Er*langer and read as follows: "Will* give you fifty per cent. of my bookings commissions to retain your services as actor." Close upon the heels of this flattering encomium came the touching message from Louise Strasser Hall who said, "Control the desire to act. Implore you check it, with your hat." Then came the planted game of securing Mr. Sheldon's services for the coming Mr. Worimer will be hailed with delight tonight.

Mr. Sheldon is the author of "Salvation Nell" and "The Nigger."

Have You Got Brown Hair?

Blue eyes may accompany light brown hair, and they often do. Such light brown hair is a legacy from a blonde progenitor who has married with one of the brown-haired people. Brown-haired folks are equable, well balanced, not prone to go to extremes and seldom quick-tempered. Their steady nerves will carry them through many a rough place in the world. They go with the multitude and are, as a rule, contented, having no thirst for ambitious things, as often the blacks and blondes of pure type have.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

F. L. C. Martin.

New Jersey possesses a real live wire in F. L. C. Martin of the automobile company which bears his name at Plainfield, Newark, Trenton and other places. He is an able business man, and for many years was in the bicycle trade in Newark as a member of the Keer & Martin Bicycle Company. When he obtained the agency for the Wichell for New Jersey he secured a good line, and has prospered with it. He next took hold of that most wonderful of little cars, the Hupmobile—known as the "Ponk Packard" or "Toy Packard." This little car startled the east last year with its performances at Brighton Beach, and Mr. Martin recently got away with two clean scores—in the Trenton run, and again in the run around Jersey last Tuesday and Wednesday, when the two cars came through in great style. It is a make that has been developed in accordance with the public's "long felt want." There is nothing else like it.—New York Globe.

Another Voting Machine Test.

There is little doubt but that Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh, of Plainfield, is right in his opinion that the law governing the referendum on the retention or rejection of the voting machines in election districts is unconstitutional. One of his reasons follows in the line of Supreme Court Justice Garrison's memorandum accompanying the decision of the Court of Errors in connection with the voting machine referendum in Bayonne. Justice Garrison makes it plain that he considered the act in question invalid for the reason that "such supplemental act is unconstitutional as a delegation of the law making power directly to the electory at the polls."

Still another reason why Mr. Marsh considers the act unconstitutional is that the election districts whose voters are permitted by the act to pass on the use of the voting machines, are political districts of the State, but are only portions of such districts, and the Legislature has no power to confer the right to vote on only a part of the voters of a political district.

Plainfield's Common Council has accepted Mr. Marsh's opinion, and has refused to comply with the petitions calling for a special election. The result is that the petitioners, if they persist, will have to begin mandamus proceedings to compel the Council to order an election, and the case will be fought through to the court of last resort once more.

While it is important to secure a final decision as to the constitu*tionality of the voting machine referen*dum act, the propriety of the method of bringing about such a test is questionable. No administration is justified in considering an act of the Legislature unconstitutional until the law has been passed upon by the courts. The position of the Plain*field Common Council is a dangerous* one to assume. On the same grounds, any municipal body might refuse to obey a law that was objectionable to its members, and would be able to justify itself by securing an opinion from a lawyer that the act was unconstitutional. Such a course is a usurpation of the powers and prerogatives of the judicial branch of the State government.

There is precedent for this action, however. Jersey City and Hudson County authorities refused several times to obey laws on the advice of the late Allan L. McDermott that the acts were invalid. Bayonne's Common Council also did the same thing in the voting machine matter. These precedents, however, are not sufficient to warrant the action taken in Plainfield.

Nevertheless, when the test is made, it will be of widespread importance in the State. If the stand taken in Justice Garrison's memorandum is concurred in by the Court of Errors, then every referendum held on the voting machines throughout the State will be nullified and the machines can be returned to use in the districts from which they have been ousted. With certain modifications and improvements on the device that result might do away with a lot of false counting, ballot-box stuffing and corruption.—Newark News.

Jeweled Trimming.

It would be difficult to find anything more beautiful in the way of trimmings than the exquisite jewel trimmings of this season. To begin with, the designs are most artistic and unusual, and the blending of the colors positively superb. One may choose trimming as brilliant in all its barbarity as a sand storm in the Sahara or as exquisite in the colors are so subdued and soft that it compares favorably with some famous works of art. It is not surprising, therefore, that even a small amount of such alluring embellishment can make of a gown a creation worthy of all our admiration.

A Pressing Hint.

A woman who understands the art of pressing says that a large bottle, uncorked, or even a broomstick, will be found most useful to use when pressing seams. Then there will be no shining streak to mark the length, as is the case when seams are pressed upon a flat surface. When using the curved surface only the point of the seam is touched by the iron.

KING'S DAUGHTERS CIRCLE ELECT NEW OFFICERS

The election of officers, presentation of various reports, including those from thirteen of the fourteen circles, and other business, combined to make the annual meeting of the City Union of the King's Daughters at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, Friday afternoon, one of unusual interest. Mrs. Frank W. Jones, president of the union, was in the chair. The devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. C. L. Goodrich, of the Congregational church, who also made a few encouraging remarks.

The report of the treasurer showed *a balance of $1,454.89, which in*cludes $1,123 received from "Tag Day." The report for the past six months showed that the city nurse had made 666 visits, and the report from The Day Nursery showed that 2,100 children had been cared for there during that time. It was stated that many repairs to The Day Nursery, as well as the baby camp will be necessary this summer. The expenses of the City Union are $250 a month and it means hard work to raise this amount. The baby camp will be opened in July for the reception of sick babies.

The following circles reported these pledges for the coming year: Benevolent Band, $250; Charity Circle, $200; Cheerful Workers, $100; Daughters of the Cross, $240; Whatsoever Circle, $25; Brightside Circle, $30; Golden Rule, $25; Cup Bearers, $75; Silver Cross, $100; Loyal Daughters, $200; in His Name, $50, making a total of $1,255. The Emanuel and Unity Circles have not held their annual meetings and they will report later. One circle, it was stated, raised over $1,000 last year, but in addition to its pledge did many charitable acts with the balance.

After the regular business meeting the trustees met and elected these officers:

President, Mrs. Frank W. Jones; vice-president, Miss Anna Garrigues; treasurer, Mrs. Anna Most; recording secretary, Mrs. F. W. Butler; corresponding secretary, Mrs. L. C. Laggren. The board of trustees comprise one member from each of the fourteen circles.

At the conclusion of the meeting there was a tea, to which the members of the Cup Bearers' Circle, of which Miss Alice Titus is president, served. The social features were greatly enjoyed.

NOVEL GARNISHINGS.

When making fritters cook sections of orange in water and sugar until it begins to thicken like a syrup. Dip each piece of orange into a delicate batter and fry in boiling lard to a golden brown. Dust with powdered sugar and serve in a ring around orange marmalade.

Roll slices of calf's liver in a thin slice of bacon, hold together with a silver skewer, flour and cook a delicate brown. Serve on chop dish with garnishings of cress. Pass a thick creamy gravy in silver sauce boat.

Instead of cold deviled eggs try these: Stuff in usual way; put two halves together, dip in egg and bread crumbs and fry at the last minute in boiling fat. Serve on round silver platter with a center of green peas and a border of thick tomato puree.

A refreshing drink at afternoon card parties is made from equal parts of ginger ale and grape juice. Serve in straight, thin glasses with a maraschino cherry floating on top.

WALKING COSTUMES.

Any attempt to shorten the walking frock and at the same time to narrow the skirt is doomed too fallure, because the figure of its wearer must indeed be beautiful to withstand the grotesque effect produced by the appearance of a princess dress brought to a sudden and inglorious end.

The skirts of walking costumes must be full, then, to be graceful and becoming. They are to be of a length that escapes the ground, but you must not err on the side of extreme shortness, as the foot, above the ankle, is not attractive.

Coats of these walking suits should be plain, or simply trimmed with bands of braid or fur. The desire for ornamentation should be submerged in the primary use of the suit.

A lovely example of the white walking suit, which has taken Paris by storm, is of cream serge, bonespun, trimmed with wide cord that edges the collar and cuffs and ornaments the front of the double-breasted coat, almost in military lines.

The skirt is made with a pleated under skirt, over which a square tunic drops. This opens at the side and is treated to the frogtike ornamentation of the black cord.

An idea for any light-colored walking suit for the cool spring days.

A Sad Story.

New York is to have a thirteen-story all night restaurant.

And the penniless diner who puts himself outside a good dinner on the thirteenth floor is going to consider it mighty unlucky.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

ATHLETES SHOW PROWESS

Gesang and Turn Verein Gymnasts Display Cleverness in Exhibition.

HONORS FOR FRED BECKER.

Bert Hansen, Louis Menzenbach and Anton Madsen Star in Specialties—Dance Followed Exhibition.

Nearly two score of athletes of the Turning Section of the Gesang and Turn Verein exhibited their prowess before a large audience at Saengerbund Hall Friday. It was the annual exhibition of the physical culture pupils of Director Fred Becker and those who witnessed the feats of the performers pronounced it as one of the finest exhibitions of its kind ever presented in the hall.

The exercises included marches and drills, calisthenics and bar work. One of the popular numbers on the program was the pyramid act in which seventeen members participated. In the senior events Bert Hansen's tumbling act and bar work found favor with the audience. Louis Menzenbach's giant swing on the horizontal bar and Anton Madsen's balancing acts also scored big hits. In the boy's events August Meyer and Fred Becker performed creditably.

Owing to an accident on Thursday night in practice in which he fell and injured his arm, Anderson, one of the star giant swingers of the Section, was unable to perform. The participants displayed much cleverness in the events and were liberally applauded for their efforts.

Physical Director Fred Becker came in for a lot of praise for the splendid showing of his pupils and at the completion of the program he was presented with a cut glass lemonade set in appreciation of his services from the society. The presentation speech was made by President Stephen Schleif. The gift was an agreeable surprise to Mr. Becker and in accepting the token he congratulated the pupils on their splendid showing and thanked them for their faithful attendance at the classes. Those who participated in the exhibition are as follows:

Senior division—Physical Director Fred Becker, Bert Hansen, Fred H. Becker, Ernest Luthman, Nelson Luthman, George Staggard, Charles Kreutzfeld, Herman Klinsman, Jr., Clark Hammil, Anton Madsen, Charles Meyer, Jr., Louis Menzenbach, Howard Post, Jack Alster, Charles Allen, Augustus Bremmer and Bert Ayers.

Junior division—Raymond Becker, August Meyers, George Luthman, Andrew Greves, Harry Schleif, "Booby" Schleif, Hyman Abrams, August Bohren, John Wirth, Jr., Harold Denlinger, Leroy Taynor and Herman Fass.

Following the athletic exhibition dancing was enjoyed. The committee in charge was composed of officers of the section, as follows: Herman Klinsman, Jr., Charles Kruetzfeld, Nelson Luthman, Fred Becker, Bert Hansen.

COST HIM FIFTEEN DOLLARS TO THREATEN FOREMAN

William Ryan, a discharged employee of the Pond Machine Tool Works, was fined fifteen dollars with the alternative of spending twenty days in the county jail on attempting to assault Thomas Bowman, a foreman in the foundry of the works. William Adair and Michael McNamara, two other employes, testified as to the circumstances of the fracas. The alleged assault took place on last Monday morning.

Two coachmen in the employ of the Plainfield Cab Company were arraigned before Judge William N. Runyon Saturday for defying the police after the performance of the Plainfield theatre last night. Charles Sharp was given a suspended sentence while Alexander Cuff, whom Sergeant Higgins declared used vile language to him, was fined five dollars.

Manager James W. Davis, of the cab company, in speaking for his men, both of whom are colored, declared that Sergeant Higgins used vile language in speaking of the two coachmen after the incident had passed. Chief Kiely tersely informed Mr. Davis that if he had any grievance against the officer there was a tribunal before which charges of this kind should be properly brought.

Mr. Davis declared that it was not his intention to bring charges against Higgins.

An upholstered chair can be cleaned of a great amount of dust if an old towel is dampened and placed over the upholstered part and then beaten with a rattan carpet beater. As the towel collects the dust it should be rinsed clean and the process repeated. This is a method of dusting the chair when there is no yard for one to take the furniture into, and it is done to keep the dust from flying over the room, settling on other pieces.

The Constitutionalist.

AN INDEPENDENT WEEKLY.

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

Terms: $2.00 per year.

Plainfield, N. J., May 26, 1910.

HOMEOPATHISTS WILL OBSERVE SEMI-CENNTENIAL

A half-century of homeopathic medical teaching in New York city will be celebrated in that city next week at the semi-centennial exercises of the New York Homeopathic Medical College. Plainfield will be represented at the exercises for six of its physicians are graduates of the college, and all have received invitations to attend. They are Dr. Daniel C. Adams, Dr. Thomas D. Blair, Dr. Roger L. Cooley, Dr. Jefferson C. Anderson, Dr. E. L. Finch and Dr. Frank W. Cornwell.

Commencement exercises will on held Tuesday evening, May 31, Wednesday, June 1, there will be clinics for the benefit of visiting physicians at Flower Hospital, which is owned and controlled by the college. Luncheon will be served at the college for the alumni, who will be greeted by the dean, Dr. Royal S. Copeland.

This will be followed by the annual business meeting of the Alumni Association, of which Dr. George Royal, of Des Moines, Ia., is president. Reunions of nearly all of the fifty classes will be held in various parts of the city, and in the evening there will be a vaudeville entertainment and smoker for all the alumni.

A public meeting to fittingly celebrate the semi-centennial, will be held Thursday afternoon, June 2, at Mendelssohn Hall. Melbert B. Cary, president of the trustees, will preside and there will be prominent speakers. In the evening there will be a banquet at Hotel Astor.

EQUAL SUFFRAGE LEAGUE HAS INTERESTING MEETING.

The Equal Suffrage League, of Plainfield and North Plainfield, held their last regular meeting Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Maxwell, 1006 Seventh street, but it is decided that a social meeting will be held in the home of the president early in June, whose sole business will be the making of a banner for the local league to be used on the occasions of State.

Three new committees were appointed at yesterday's meeting as follows: Enrollment, program and press. Besides this the work for the coming year was discussed. Mrs. *Dorr, of Minnesota, gave an en*couraging address on the subject of suffrage in the West. At the close of Mrs. Dorr's address refreshments were served.

"They That Go Down to the Sea in Ships."

A beautiful custom, associated with the observance of Memorial day, has within recent years become established in Gloucester, Mass. Flowers are gathered and strewn upon the waters of the harbor in memory of the men of the fishing fleet who have sailed for the Banks and never come back. The sentiment which formed this custom is pictured in a larger, national sense on the cover of the Memorial Day Number of The Youth's Companion. Columbia is there depicted scattering flowers on the sea in memory of her *sons whose graves are in the un*fathomed depths of ocean. The background gleam against the dark blue of the sea, and a squadron at anchor in the distance fires a salute to the nation's lost sailors.

LACE FOR HATS.

White chantilly lace forms the crown and drapes the brim of a white hat from Paris.

Delicate lace veils made of white cotton tulle are bordered with exquisitely patterned edges of duchess lace.

Large round bows, ends of figured lace cut from allover patterns, in black and white, are hemmed and then wired through the hem.

Each bunch of wired bows or loops consist of many single ones. Some of these groupes show almost countless units to make up the whole.

The lace frill like those worn by Charlotte Corday, has once more been introduced under the hatbrim.

Hats are faced with lace by the ravel of its scalloped edge is turned in toward the crown, or out toward the brim, to your liking.

Silver or bronze paint is not new on the gown, but the milliner has but recently taken it up. The dab of silver paint now takes on a rose-colored tinge.

Delicately woven black, gold or silver lace covers whole turbans of crisp white tulle.

Benson—This anti-trust movement is spreading rapidly everywhere.

De Broke—Yes, my tailor has caught the fever now.—Boston Transcript.

SOCIAL DEMOCRACY A PASTOR'S SUBJECT

"The Church as the Focal Point of Our Social Democracy," was the subject of an interesting discourse by Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring at the First Presbyterian church Sunday night. In part Dr. Herring said:

"Professor Giddings, of Columbia University, said at the Alumni dinner of the Union Theological Seminary last week, that he believes that we are going to have in this country a social democracy not a democracy where men will be asserting their individual rights, but a democracy where men shall strive to understand and sympathize with each other, and do team work.

"He further said that though he respects the trade union, he does not believe that it will be the focal point of this coming democracy, neither does he believe that the corporation will be the center. He believes, however, that the church will be the focal point, for the reason that the church respects all conditions of men. He stated as his belief, too, that in the future, we shall have a social struggle where existence instead of an individual struggle.

"Professor Giddings gives voice to these sentiments because of his wide and profound study of the whole social question. A busines man who is close to his own business methods may think that there is no other way of doing business and that there can be no economic change for everybody carries on business in the same way. But it certainly is not right that large numbers of people in this country should be in want and poverty at the very time when wealth is accumulating as never before. I sincerely hope that the prophetic vision of Dr. Giddings will be realized and that in the futre we shall have a democracy where men in business relations will strive to never before to understand and sympathize with each other and do team work."

WOMEN'S EXCHANGE REPORTS SHOW CONTINUAL PROGRESS.

*Carrie M. Dunham, superintend*ent, and Mrs. Annie E. Hyatt, treasurer, of the executive board of the Plainfield Exchange for Woman's Work, have presented their annual reports for the past year. The report of the superintendent shows among other things that the total business amounted to $8,-179.05, and $51 from consignors' Tickets. The consignors received $6,-881.15. The total receipts were $8,-686.02.

There was paid to consignors, $6,-881.15, and the treasurer received $483.26, representing 15 per cent. commission on sales. The total expenditures were $8,240.15, with a balance of $445.87.

The treasurer reports total receipts of $2,298.86, and expenditures of $2,209.53, leaving a balance of $89.33. These reports have been audited and found correct by David K. Sutphen, auditor.

HOW CONNIE MACK WORKS HIS PITCHERS.

One reason why the Athletics are safely perched on the top rung of the American League pennant race is the masterful way in which Connie Mack has manipulated his pitchers.

There is no such thing as a regular turn for the pitchers on his staff. Mack plays the game with the men whom he believes his pitchers will do their best, without any regard to rotation. For instance, one man may pitch twice against the club in one series. Often a star pitcher gets a rest of ten days, because the clubs that he is always brilliant against are not about.

Krause has been in the American League for two seasons, but hasn't pitched against every one of the Athletics' rivals. There are some teams that never get a chance to bat against Morgan, Bender, Plank, Coombs or Dygert.

Boston seldom gets a chance against any of Mack's right-handers, Plank, Krause and Atkins pitched against the Speed Boys in the games in Boston, and each came out triumphant. Bad weather cut the series at Shibe Park with Boston to two games. Again Mack used Plank and Krause and they both justified his confidence in them.

When Cleveland played in Philadelphia last week, Mack didn't use a single left-hander. Morgan started the series Tuesday and held the Naps to a twelve-inning tie. Bender pitched his famous no-hit shutout Thursday, and Morgan was again sent against the Naps Friday and obtained an impressive victory.

An Inducement.

Lady—I want to put in this advertisement for a cook. It will go in three lines, won't it?

Clerk (after counting)—No, madam. We'll have to charge you for four lines, but you can put in four more words if you wish.

Lady (suddenly inspired)—Say, "Policeman stationed opposite corner"—Answers.

Inheritance.

Knicker—Jones is all the time wanting more money.

Backer—No wonder; his father was a college president and his mother was a woman.—New York Sun.

PRIEST FOR 25 YEARS

Celebration of Rev. B. M. Bogan's Ordination Anniversary on Monday.

A MASS OF THANKSGIVING.

St. Mary's School Graduates and Pupils to Present a Drama in His Honor—Sketch of Much Beloved Priest.

Rev. Bernard M. Bogan, the beloved pastor of St. Mary's church, on Monday will observe the twenty-fifth anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood and his parishioners, as well as a host of friends from distant parishes are preparing to join him on the happy occasion. On Monday, the anniversary day, a solemn mass of thanksgiving will be celebrated at the church. Father Bogan will be the celebrant, assisted by Rev. John B. Burke, of New York, as deacon; Rev. M. J. White, of Newark, as sub-deacon, and Rev. James T. Delehanty as master of ceremonies.

Rev. B. M. Bogan.

The clerical friends of Father Bogan will assemble about the sanctuary. The sermon on this occasion will be preached by a former schoolmate of Father Bogan, the Rt. Rev. Mgr. Charles L. Kelly, rector of St. Mary's church, Hoboken.

On Tuesday night, an entertainment will be given at the Plainfield theatre by the recent graduates and the pupils of St. Mary's Parochial School. The feature will be a drama entitled "Rowena's Triumph" with dramatic interest in the early days of the Roman Empire. Drills, tableaux and choruses have been rehearsed with much care by the children, who are delighted to take part in this tribute to Father Bogan. They are jealously guarding some secrets of the entertainment to be *divulged only on that happy occa*sion.

The young players have recently had the valued direction of Walter Sherwin, who has just returned from a trans-continental trip with the Ben Hur Theatrical Company. This will be the dramatis personae:

Rowena, niece of Emeptor Valerian, Miss Elizabeth Brown; Emperor Valerian, Francis P. Cullen; Emilius, Rowena's child, Master Rufus Laffue; Bertole, William Sullivan; Evaristus, Garret Keuhn; Corvinus, Francis Donnelly; Claudian, Cornelius Regan; Corella, Mary Donnelly; Maida, Mary Murray; Cornelia, Elizabeth Connelly; Claudia, Regina Brady; Erita, Bessie Parent; Lucia, Madeline Seaman; Agatha, Nora McCarthy; Emilia, Elizabeth Mara; Alba, Mary Traynor. Guards, soldiers, populace, by the pupils.

Father Bogan was born in Newark over fifty years ago. He attended the Cathedral School and St. Benedict's College in Newark. He began his studies of the Classes in St. Charles College, Maryland, where he remained four years. In 1879 he entered the junior class of Seton Hall College, receiving the degree of Bachelor of arts at the end of that year. A year later he was graduated from the college, taking the degree of master of arts being valedictorian of the class on the day of graduation, and the following September he returned to Seton Hall and entered the seminary to study for the priesthood.

Father Bogan finished his theological course in 1885 and was ordained a priest on May 30 of that year, by the Rt. Rev. Winand M. Wigger, then Bishop of Newark. His first year of the priesthood was spent as an assistant in the Church of St. Paul of the Cross and church of St. Bridget, Jersey City. From 1886 to 1895 he was assistant at the church of the Holy Cross, Harrison, whence he received his appointment as rector of St. Mary's church, Rahway, where he remained until appointed by the present Rt. Rev. John J. O'Connor, Bishop of Newark, to the pastorate he now occupies, St. Mary's church, this city.

The hope Father Bogan expressed when he first addressed his Plainfield congregation that he would try to continue the excellent work of his predecessors in the pastorate has evidently been fulfilled. To his people he gives the credit, under God, of all that has marked with success his endeavors in their behalf, and he enters upon the day of jubilee with the good will and affection of a loyal congregation.

Father Bogan is one of the most popular and beloved men of the community.

TEETH OF THE PUPILS AS A RULE ARE POOR

Only thirty-five pupils in the North Plainfield High School have good teeth, according to report presented by Dr. Frank W. French, dental examiner, at the meeting of the North Plainfield Board of Education Monday night.

Out of a total of 805 pupils examined, 186 don't own brushes, said Dr. French. Of the total number of pupils examined, 640, it is said, were sufferers from toothache, and in the same number of pupils 3,740 cavities were discovered. Three hundred pupils, he declared, used tooth brushes.

Preceding the session the school commissioners were entertained at dinner at the visiting class. The guest of honor being Charles W. McCutchen, the founder of the manual training department.

In the routine business transacted, *$150 was appropriated for com*mencement; $20 for senior class day and $20 for the alumni dinner.

HEROLD'S BODY FOUND IN JERSEY CITY MORGUE

The body of a man found on top of a freight car in the Jersey City yards of the Lehigh Valley Railroad on Saturday, May 14, was identified Monday as that of Joseph P. Herold, aged 41 years, a brother-in-law of Henry Windham, proprietor of the Hotel Waldorf. The remains had been detained at a Jersey City morgue awaiting identification. Yesterday a card bearing the address of a relative residing on 51st street, New York, was found in the man's clothes.

Railroad detectives went to the address, explained the details of the case and through this relative the dead man's family in Brooklyn was notified and they identified the body last night. Mr. Windham went to Jersey City Tuesday and also identified his brother-in-law.

Just how Harold met his death is not known, but it is the opinion of the railroad company that he was riding on top of a freight car and was struck by an overhead bridge. Mr. Herold was a railroad man and had been employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad. The Lehigh Valley officials declared that no person of that name was in the employ of the company.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF MRS. WILLIAM H. ABBOTT.

The funeral services of Mrs. William H. Abbott were held Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the late residence on West Seventh street, and were largely attended by relatives and friends. Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, of the First Baptist church, of which Mrs. Abbott was a member, assisted by Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church, was in charge of the services.

William Holmes sang "Abide With Me," and "Saved by Grace," following the prayer and remarks of the ministers. There were a great many beautiful floral tributes, completely hiding the casket. They included cut flowers, wreaths and set pieces. The bearers were Jo Hillard Brown and the pall-bearers, relatives of the family, were Richard Randolph, Edward S. F. Randolph, Clifford D. Manning, Edward Abbott, John Abbott and L. W. Randolph.

TOWNSHIP SOCIETY'S COMMITTEES NAMED.

W. de LaR. Anderson, president of the Improvement Society of North Plainfield Township, has announced some of his list of committees. The committees on the care of roads, police, township fire department and district lighting will be announced later. A meeting of the committees will be held soon to outline policies. The regular meeting of the society will be held Tuesday night, June 14, at 8 o'clock at Texler's Mills. These committees were announced last night:

Committee on Watching avenue and Somerset street, C. C. Wheeler; Henry R. Kennedy, L. M. French; road, trolley and gas, Dr. Richard Moldenke, H. Texier and Theodore H. A. Leurssen; entertainment, Mrs. C. C. Wheeler and Mrs. M. H. Cleaves; legal matters, Charles E. Neier, F. R. Stevens and H. O. Hance; taxation, Francis E. Bodine, M. H. Cleaves and Dr. M. P. E. Grossman.

A Considerate Girl.

Madge—He said you were very punctual.

Marjorie—Why shouldn't he? I evidently kept him waiting more than half an hour in my life.—Lippincott's.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Mr. Fowler.

It is an amusing illustration of the vagaries of current politics that Representative Fowler, of this State, is advocated for re-election as a particularly meritorious person, because he is opposed to the majority of his party in the House of Representa*tives and has been refused* advancement in committee appointments. The plain truth is that Fowler is a kicker because he was turned down for his inefficiency and neglect of duty. He has given his duties no proper attention, his absenteeism has been notorious, his foolish proposals for currency reform have been laughed out of the House, his attempt to influence voters by promise of public buildings has been a scandal, while his failure to keep these promises has been ridiculed throughout the country.—Newark Call.

The Fowler Letter.

Those familiar with the situation in the Fifth Congressional district, who will take the trouble to read the letter written by Congressman Fowler and published in our news columns today, will agree that in such an untimely, unjust and even vicious attack on United States Senator Kean is made a serious political blunder has been committed. The character of the attack, so unsupported as it is by such evidence as intelligent men will demand before they take seriously the charges which are contained in the letter, will come as a surprise even to the friends of Mr. Fowler, who, even though they have long been familiar with his views of Senator Kean, must have credited him with more political foresight and common sense, to say nothing of justice and fair play, than to jeopardize his own political future for the sake of giving vent to feelings of personal animosity.

Every man who has any under*standing of the* political situation in the Fifth Congressional district, possibly, even State Treasurer Voorhees himself, has believed for a year or more at least, that Mr. Fowler would secure a renomination as a candidate for re-election to the *House of Rep*resentatives. The opposition talked about, whatever Mr. Voorhees may have believed it to be, has probably never at any time this year been serious as far as Union county is concerned, the attitude of Senator Kean is understood to have been opposed to any move which would arouse political differences within the party. There has been no wavering in this policy. Except for the sour, unsympathetic statement made by the county chairman and the interview of Mr. Voorhees, not a word has been heard against Mr. Fowler from anyone prominently connected with the politics of the Fifth Congressional district, today, except for the facts mentioned, it has been plain sailing for Mr. Fowler.

It is not to be expected now, how*ever, that those who have been so* bitterly attacked by Mr. Fowler, the friends of those men, and those who have been associated with them in politics, will take off their coats and work with enthusiasm for his nomination or re-election. That would be expecting too much of human nature. The result is that in a year in which the situation calls for a united front, the Republicans of the Fifth district face a decidedly unpleasant mix-up—a condition of affairs which any person understanding politics at all will say would have been avoided by any candidate for office who had the best interests of the party at heart.

The attack on Senator Kean is built upon such a flimsy basis that *the force of the criticism and invec*tive is broken at once. That the "crime" of which Senator Kean and *State Treasurer Voorhees are ac*cused in committee to secure the latter a re-election is, of course, absurd, especially in view of the fact that Mr. Voorhees had no opposition for the office he sought. Such a trade as is suggested, therefore, would have been too foolish for two experienced political leaders to think of. To support the serious allegation of "crime" all the evidence produced is that Mr. Voorhees did not visit Congressman Fowler on New Year's Day, and that Mr. Voorhees and Senator Kean are known to have called on Speaker Cannon at Washington. "This is the story of the crime," says Mr. Fowler with these significantly weak closing words, "as far as I am able to read and interpret the evidence."

Had Congressman Fowler proceeded in his letter to discuss in a statesmanlike manner the question of the popular election of United States Senators, the voters would have been interested without doubt, and possibly influenced. This is one of the political subjects of the day which thoughtful citizens are considering. But what can they think of Mr. Fowler's ability to discuss this interesting issue say, dispassionately and without prejudice when he starts off by saying:

"Of all the subservient, truculent, literal 'me-too's' and perfect cuckoos of all the political poodle dogs that Senator Aldrich prized most highly, undoubtedly Senator Kean wears the blue ribbon. He never gets off the Aldrich reservation, right or wrong, and on the tariff bill gave 128 votes out of 129 to Mr. Aldrich, if my recollection is correct, rebelling only to insist that polo ponies should go on the free list."

It is difficult to reconcile all this with the broad, clear and admirably comprehensive statement of issues and principles as Congressman Fowler has set them forth in his platform. Even though the views as stated may not correspond to those of Senator Kean or a multitude of others, the straightforwardness and courageousness of this progressive platform as it is given to the voters would appear to come from a clear-headed practical politician, using the term in its best sense—from a stateman incapable of being turned aside from his high purpose to settle publicly any personal difference with a fellow townsman.

The only explanation for all the violent accusation, railing, ridicule and unbridled censure which is contained in this letter is that way down at the bottom there is a personal grudge, which has long been harbored, and about which the public is not concerned at all—a matter of business and not politics. Or else the spirit of insurgency, whether making for the advancement of better government or not—a spirit which is full of suspicion of the patriotism of others, abnormally bitter and keenly alive to opportunity for conflict—has taken hold of the Congressman from the Fifth district so strongly, and so mingled with his personal disappointments, that he is not always himself when imagining another political commotion at hand. —The Elizabeth Journal.

Mr. Fowler's Letter.

There is the flavor of the fish market in Mr. Fowler's screed when he reaches the point where he declares that United States Senator John Kean and State Treasurer Daniel S. Voorhees are "place-mongers, pure and simple." He adds that they are "office brokers" and "political merchants." We know or no more persistent place-hunter than Mr. Fowler, who has, for sixteen years, sought to retain some that he now holds, in spite of the fact that two years ago the people in his own county were opposed to his re-election. There has certainly been no public demand for his return to the house of representatives by the people this year, and yet we find Mr. Fowler sniffing along the trail of the "progressive" or New Idea Republicans in the hope that they will place him in the field for United States Senator. Congressman Fowler has a fight ahead of him, and he apparently realizes that fact.—Trenton State Gazette.

THE MADE-OVER PARASOL.

Fix up last season's parasol in advance, and listen now to a note of the season before you venture on this timely renovation.

Fringe to match or to harmonize is the fresh touch to be added in imitation of the newest.

It is the quaintest looking twisted silk fringe, ranging in width from one to three and a half inches and having a fussy little gimp border, which there is no effort to conceal.

The parasol has been cleaned with a soft brush or sponge dipped in gasolene (do it in the open air), and allowed to dry, still wide open. the fringe is basted on the edge and sewed by hand with silk to match.

All of the work is done upon the open parasol, of course.

Some slight embroidery, like a row of polka dots, may be done where fringe joins parasol. They are put on in the flat Japanese stitch, and if of a contrasting color there should not be chosen a note that is too startlingly different.

The conspicuous parasol is not necessarily the most beautiful.

MAYOR FISK DISCUSSES LOCAL OPTION AT RIDGEWOOD.

Mayor Charles J. Fisk was among the speakers at the banquet of the Men's Club of the Reformed church, Ridgewood, held Saturday night. During the course of his remarks he paid a glowing tribute to Judge Demarest in whose hands the granting of licenses rests, speaking of his high character and good judgment.

Mr. Fisk concluded, after all, that the best way to control the liquor situation was to have the licensing power vested in the governing body of each municipality, which could best regulate such affairs to meet local conditions and which could at the same time be held strictly responsible to the citizen-voters whom they represented in office.

Imported Parasols.

The newest style in imported parasols is of flowered mousseline de soie, with a white ground, stretched tightly over a lining of colored India silk, the tone of which is chosen instead of a silk strap to hold the folds in place when the parasol is closed an ivory ring is used. This is fastened to the handle by a cord.

Still Imparting Information.

Mrs. Chugwater (taking off her glasses and wiping them)—Josiah, what does the paper mean when it talks about the "eternal feminine"?

Mr. Chugwater—Lillian Russell, I suppose. Takes too much work to dig out a fact for yourself once in a while, does it?—Chicago Tribune.

His Panacea.

Borton—Just hurt my hand on a railroad train.

Morton—Going to a doctor, I suppose?

Borton—No, to a lawyer.

SOUTH PLAINFIELDS HUMBLES PURITANS

South Plainfield forged another link in its winning chain Sunday by defeating the Puritans, of Perth Amboy, by the score of 9 to 3. Franklin's pitching arm was never in better shape. In the game he slowed the Amboy aggregation just one solitary single and fanned seventeen batters. Quinlan the Amboy twirler was touched freely by the "Southerners."

South Plainfield started operations in the first round. With two down, Franklin walked, and scored on Captain Mullen's double. The Southerners scored one run in each inning thereafter excepting the fifth and sixth sessions.

In the eighth inning Billy Mullen electrified the spectators by making a fancy stop. Next Sunday South Plainfield will tackle the Franklins of Perth Amboy. The score:

So. Plainfield	.	.	1	1	1	0	0	0	1	4—9
Puritans	.	.	.	.	.	.	0	0	0	0	0	2	0	1	0	0—3

South Plainfield—T. Mullin, c; Franklin, p; Moran, 1b; W. Mullin, 2b; Ramsberger, 3b; Smith, ss; Sofield, lf; A. McDonough, rf; P. McDonough, cf.

Puritan—Hanerhan, c; Deegan, 1b; Coyne, ss; Elle, lf; Nolting, 3b; Cantlon, cf; Alexander, 2b; Reade, rf; Quinban, p.

Umpire—Conger.

MUSIC TREAT AT Y.M.C.A.

(Continued from page 1.)

Wm. Tallamy, Master Raymond Manley, Bert Tallamy; chorus, Gloria from XII Mass, Mozart, choir and orchestra; duet, Love Divine, Stainer, Master C. Chamberlain and Wm. Tallamy; violin obligato, Messrs. J. Castelin and A. S. Mosher; flower song, Alpine Rose, Lincoln.

Part II.—Orchestra. Fifth Nocturne, Leybach; solo with chorus, King All lorious, Barnby, Wm. Tallamy and Bert Tallamy; soprano solo, Swallows, Cowen, Master Chester Chamberlain; male quartet, The Night Hath a Thousand Eyes, Nevin, Wm. Tallamy, Vincent Miner, Harry Yaeger, Bert Tallamy; 'cello obligato by Dr. Leonard Waldo; 'cello solo, Crade Song, Schubert-Becker, Dr. Waldo; Miss Ruth Waldo at the piano; chorus, Wedding Hymn from Lohengrin, Wagner; O, Perfect Love, Mendelssohn, from Midsummer Night's Dream); orchestra, The King of the Forest, Loesch.

FETE DE MAI IS READY

(Continued from page 1)

Bulgarian Dance—Mrs. William Merrill, chaperon; The Misses Grace Burke, Eva Browne, Josephine Lapsley, Isabel Ashwell, Ruth Brandageo, Margaret Mosher, Ellen Merrill, Harriett Goddard, Abi Sykes, Florence Wildey, Helen Stevens, Mrs. Norman L. Snow.

Millies and Billikens—Miss Anna M. Day, chaperon; The Misses Gladys Williams, Janice Hall, Marguerite Sampter, Madelyn Moy, Jenny Peacock, Clara Neumann, Esther Brownlee, Esther Philips; Voorhees Borden, Philip VanDeventer, Clement Moore, Fred Mygatt, F. Warren Butler, Jr., Augustus VanDeventer, Jr., Garrett DuBois, Phillip Phillips.

Rough Riders—Mrs. Frederic W. Butler, chaperon; The Misses Annie Fisk, Helen Timpson, Katherine Mc*Cutcheon, Edith Mellick, Mabel* Hooley, Gabrille McQuaide, Marion Hall, Ethel Most, Verna McCutcheon, Charlotte Finch, Anna Garrigues, Ruth Carlee; Gordon Abbott, Tom Eastman, Harold McCollum, Don Kilner, Edward Sharrett, Ames Brooks, Jac VanDeventer, Herbert Rogers, William Schoonmaker, Gerald Easton, Gurth Williams, Hart Farlee; solo, Mrs. Hart Farlee.

Tyrolean Dance—Mrs. Harry W. Marshall, chaperon; The Misses Hazel Williams, Ella Barrett, Edna Hyatt, Kathleen Peacock, Edith Beers, Grace Woolston, Ida Englehardt, Ethel Hudson, Marie Kling, Millwood Lutz, Madeline Streator; Robert Bellows, Edward Kuentzler, Charles Lee, Herman Kling, Fred Zweifel, A. Treadwell Slauson, Edwin Williams, Harry Nash, Louis VanZandt, VanZandt, Edward Jenkins, Edson Vail; duet, Miss Hazel Williams and Robert Bellows.

Will Present Three Sketches.

Amateur theatricals will be given at The Casino on Friday morning, June 8, at 10 o'clock and Thursday evening, June 9, at 8:15, when the young women will present three sketches: "The Land of Heart's Desire," "The Violin Maker of Cremona," and "The Orange Girl." Rehearsals have been in progress for sometime and a finished performance is anticipated.

Plainfield Women to Graduate.

Miss Edna D. Doughty, Miss Edith Ganun, Miss Rose M. Nash, Miss Rose E. Rothberg, of this city, are among the 152 young women who will be graduated from the State Normal School at Trenton on June 16. The address on that occasion will be delivered by Dr. Charles S. Chapin, principal of the new State Normal School at Montclair.

GRAND JURY TO ACT ON A THEFT CHARGE

After a lengthy contention between Counsellors V. W. Nash, Jr., representing George L. Forsyth, and J. Henry Crane, representing Henry A. O'Rourke, the latter was allowed to go on his own recognizance in the city court Tuesday, to await the action of the October grand jury, the charge being theft from the recently purchased premises of Mr. Forsyth, at 1131 East Second street.

According to the records O'Rourke was arrested on the complaint made by Mr. Forsyth for taking away some window frames and a door frame after being warned that he was not to take anything away from the place. It developed that Mr. Forsyth had purchased the property from "Count" Van Loan and had made a contract with a house wrecking firm to demolish the house then on the premises. The wrecking firm sublet the contract to G. A. Clark, of Scotch Plains and O'Rourke it appears was hired by Mr. Clark to tear down the building.

The total value of the stuff alleged to have been stolen by O'Rourke is $25. After hearing all the evidence Judge William N. Runyon rendered the decision above noted.

MARY GARDEN TALKS OUT IN MEETING.

"Frenzied? The life of a grand-opera singer frenzied? Why, that is a mild word, a mere euphemism! From the moment I put my foot on American soil my season with Mr. Hammerstein, I am a slave—a slave both to my art itself and to the physical demands upon me as an artist.

"I was quoted from abroad as having said that America is nothing but a railroad station. I was misunderstood by many, but anyone who knows what my life means during the America opera season will understand exactly what I intended to say. Here is the explanation:

"About half my time I spend on railroad trains or in hotels. To be sure, I have an apartment with my sister in New York, which I call my American home—but how much enjoyment do I get out of it? I hardly have a moment to myself. If it were not for my splendid physical health, I would be in a state of collapse before the New York season is half over.

"Just consider; I sang about three times a week and am meantime constantly studying new roles. The latter means that I must attend frequent rehearsals. You know that I am a believer in thoroughly rehearsing an opera before it is presented, and I never shirk my duty in that respect. I never allow any other artist in the cast to say that he or she has given more time to rehearsals than I.

"Last season I sang nearly sixty times in America. I expect to reach that total this season. You can easily imagine from this record how few moments are left for anything but work, travel and work. Why, an hour devoted to a social entertainment or an extra hour's sleep seems stolen.

"Do not let any young woman deceive herself with the idea that the operatic artist's career is a 'flowery path!' It is long, steep and rocky. There is only one thing that keeps an artist going, and that is enthusiastic love of her art.

"When the season is over, can you wonder that I eagerly hasten to my quiet home in Paris to recuperate the forces of nerve, brain and brawn that I have almost exhausted during my season in America? Frenzied, did you say? Hyper-frenzied would come a little nearer to it!"—From "Frenzied Opera," in Everybody's.

Y. M. H. A. ENJOYS SPLENDID MUSICAL TREAT.

The Y. M. H. A. at their hall last Sunday gave an entertainment which surpassed in excellence anything heretofore attempted by the organization. Several first class musical artists from New York took part in the musical program and Judge William Newcorn delivered an address, having for his topic "The Y. M. H. A. as a Local State and National Factor."

Space today precludes giving the program in detail but it must go on record as the musical offerings were above the ordinary and the audience of 150 people were charmed with the excellence of the performances. The committee having the concert in charge were: Mrs. William Newcorn, Samuel Rothberg, Jacob Abrams, Arthur Richards and Henry Rosenbaum. One of the features was the violin solo. "Traumerie," rendered by Alexander Haeckel, a member of Walter Damrosch's symphony orchestra of New York. Jockers Brothers, Mrs. Newcorn and Miss Netta Newcorn together with the impersonations of Albert Jockers, did much toward the pleasure of the audience.

Oh! Very Likely.

Mr. Styles—I see that nearly 39,000 persons visited Shakespeare's home in 1909.

Mrs. Styles—And I suppose a good many who were told by the maid that Mrs. Shakespeare wasn't at home didn't believe her.—Yonkers Statesman.

HE DRAWS A LESSON FROM THE HALLEY COMET

Taking his text from the Eighth Psalm, v. 3, "When I Consider Thy Heavens," Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church, delivered an impressive and instructive sermon in which the career of Halley's comet played a most significant part. This celestial visitor which has had the entire universe gazing heavenward for so many days, is one of the glories of God, so many of which are manifest in the firmament. Mr. Goodrich dwelt at length on the history of the comet, tracing its various appearances for centuries before Christ and drew from it three lessons.

He declared that two marvels are prominent in the study of the subject; first, the comet itself and, second, that man understands it so now.

"Astronomers today, although the celestial traveler is 14,000,000 miles away, can tell its shape, size, composition and its rate or travel, as well as the space it will go through before its return. This," he said, "is a sure proof that man is the son of God, for his attributes are similar and from his understanding gives evidence of God's special care of him. Among the people of olden time, superstition held the upper hand and each recurring visit of the comet caused consternation and apprehension. But we are thankful for the great advance in human knowledge. What a reason there is for gratitude to God that man should rise to such a height. It should give us greater faith in God and a greater reverence for His works.

"An increasing knowledge of God's world does not detract from our Christianity, but rather should fasten more securely our belief in the word of God as given in His book. Scientific discoveries do not alter the truths of the Bible, the differences being merely in the abstract. Bigness is not a test of value. The greatness of Christ did not prevent Him from taking little children in His arms. The comet, however big, is not as great as the love of God for man. It is more than all this to know God Himself who made the heavens and the earth."

REGIMENTAL TEAMS FOR NAT. GUARD MATCH.

Officers and enlisted men who will compose the regimental teams for competition in the New Jersey National Guard Trophy match at Sea Girt on Monday, May 30, are as follows:

Major William B. Martin, Captain Charles F. Sylvester, Lieutenant Albert L. Littell, Company K; Lieutenant Marcus S. Farr, Company L; Sergeant James R. Daab, Company C, Sergeant Albert C. Mayer, Company A; Sergeant George C. Apgar, Company K; Sergeant Charles R. Bonn, Company L; Sergeant George W. P. Sylvester, Company L; Sergeant Charles R. Ogden, Company K; Private Anthony Walter, Company I; Private J. R. Wilcox, Company E, and Private William R. Hixson, Company K.

Thus it will be seen that Company K, of this city, has four men on the teams which are held in high esteem by the inspector of small arms practice and judging from the improvement made during the past year the men are sure to give a good account of themselves at Sea Girt on Decoration Day. Company K now stands second in the State being led by less than nine points by Company L.

BUGLE SONG.

The splendor falls on castle walls
And snowy summits old in story;
The long light shakes across the lakes,
And the wild cataract leaps in glory.
Blow, bugle—blow! set the wild echoes flying!
Blow, bugle! Answer, echoes! dying, dying dying!

O hark! O hear, how thin and clear,
And thinner, clearer, farther going!
O sweet and far from cliff and scar
The horns of Elfland faintly blowing!
Blow! let us hear the purple glen replying.
Blow bugle! Answer, echoes! dying, dying, dying.

O love, they die in yon rich sky!
They faint on hill, or field, or river;
Our echoes roll from soul to soul,
And grow forever and forever.
Blow, bugle—blow! set the wild echoes flying!
And answer, echoes—answer! dying, dying, dying.

—TENNYSON.

Mercy!

"Here's a prose sketch," the writer said,
The editor breathed a curse,
And then remarked, as he shook his head,
"Ah, well—it might be verse!"

—Cleveland Leader.

Constitutionalist ads. pay.

SPEEDY PACERS TO RACE ON JUNE 4

The 1910 racing season will be inaugurated at the Plainfield Driving Park on Saturday afternoon June 4, with a card of four races. The star attraction will be a match race between James Lawless' Blon Girl, driven by George Gatlin, and H. Brautigan's Dick Welsh, driven by Johnny Osborne. The race will be for $200. Both of the horsemen interested in this contest hail from Metuchen.

In addition to the special match race there will be three trotting and pacing events for local horses. One event is carded for 2:20 trotters and pacers and the other two races will be for trotters in the 2:25 and 2:30 classes.

On July 4 the Plainfield Driving Club has arranged for its annual star meet. Purses of $200 are offered and some of the speediest horses in the State have been entered for the meet. Entries are being received by Thomas P. Quinn, secretary, Plainfield.

Y.M.C.A. AND DUNELLEN PLAY A TIE CONTEST

Y. M. C. A. and Dunellen battled to a 1 to 1 tie game on Saturday, which was brought to an end in the sixth inning by rain. Both teams scored their tallies in the second round. Monitross and Slocum twirled fine ball. "Smiling Jimmy" having the best of the argument. The score:

Y. M. C. A.	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.
Gilmore, 3b	1	1	0	1	0
Murphy, rf	0	2	0	0	0
Fritts, lf	0	0	1	0	0
Hand, c	0	0	7	2	0
Stover, cf	0	0	2	0	0
Taylor, 2b	0	1	3	2	0
Coyle, ss	0	0	0	2	1
Dumont, 1b	0	0	7	1	0
Slocum, p	0	0	0	2	1
Totals	1	4	20	10	1

Dunellen.	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.
Giddes, ss	0	0	1	4	2
Giles, 2b	0	1	2	2	0
Miller, cf	0	0	2	0	0
Montross, p	0	0	0	1	0
Nonemaker, lf	1	0	0	0	1
Piddington, 1b	0	1	9	0	0
Ramsberger, 2b	0	0	2	5	0
Dodwell, c	0	0	2	7	0
Clark, rf	0	0	0	0	0
Garretson, rf	0	0	0	0	0
Totals	1	4	21	12	4

Score by innings:
Y. M. C. A. ..... 1 0 0 0 0 0 0—1
Dunellen ..... 0 1 0 0 0 0 0—1

Struck out—By Slocum, 4; by Montross, 6. Bases on balls—Off Slocum, 3. Sacrifice hit—Hand. Three-base hits—Gilmore, Murphy, Taylor, Piddington. Double play—Ramsberger to Giles to Piddington. Hit by pitcher—Stover. Left on bases—Plainfield, 7; Dunellen, 4. Umpires— C. Lake, A. Coriell. Scorer, C. H. Line. Time of game —1h. 10m.

DODGERS TRIM BOW-WOWS BY A LARGE SCORE.

The Dodgers trimmed the Bow-wows to the tune of 20 to 0 on the Elton street grounds Saturday morning. The teams lined up as follows:

Bow-wows—A. Luthman, c; W. Soden and . McCarthy, p; R. Daws, 1b; E. Shilinger, 2b; S. Taub, 3b; W. Soden and J. McCarty, ss; C. Taylor, lf; E. Stevens, rf; Smelson, cf.

Dodgers—W. Saunders, c; G. Jackson, p; H. Douglas, 1b; V. Stobor, 2b; J. Schmeyer, 3b; F. Force, ss; C. Kroner, lf; T. Higgins, cf; W. Schorb, rf.

Dodgers ..... 5 1 3 2 3 0 2 0 5—20
Bow-wows ..... 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0— 0

MR. LOVELL GOVERNOR OF MAYFLOWER SOCIETY.

The New Jersey Society of Mayflower Descendants, prior to taking a trip up the Hudson river, Saturday with the New York State Society, when they visited West Point, held its semi-annual meeting and elected these officers:

Governor, Leander N. Lovell; deputy governor, William S Tyler; captain, Benjamin Shepard; elder, Rev. Charles Augustus Brewer; secretary, Arthur Lovell; treasurer, Elijah Thompson Farnham; surgeon, Dr. William Gray Schauffler. The two societies spent about three hours at the Military Academy, returning home on the Steamer Albany.

English Plum Pudding.

Two pounds of raisins, stoned; 2 pounds of currants, 1 pound of suet, 1 quart of grated bread crumbs, one-half pound of mixed peel (citron, lemon and orange), one cup of flour, four eggs, two cups of sweet milk, one teaspoon salt, one-half pound of brown sugar, one nutmeg grated, two teaspoons cloves and cinnamon. Steam or boil six hours. This pudding material will make three small puddings or one large one.

WESTFIELD NO MATCH FOR THE P.H.S. TEAM

In a one-sided game at Crescent Oval Monday, the P. H. S. baseball team easily defeated the Westfield nine with a score of 9 to 1. The stellar attraction will be a match race between James Lawless' Blon Girl, driven by George Gatlin, and H. Brautigan's Dick Welsh, driven by Johnny Osborne. The race will be for $200. Both of the horsemen interested in this contest hail from Metuchen.

In addition to the special match race there will be three trotting and pacing events for local horses. One event is carded for 2:20 trotters and pacers and the other two races will be for trotters in the 2:25 and 2:30 classes.

On July 4 the Plainfield Driving Club has arranged for its annual star meet. Purses of $200 are offered and some of the speediest horses in the State have been entered for the meet. Entries are being received by Thomas P. Quinn, secretary, Plainfield.

Y.M.C.A. AND DUNELLEN PLAY A TIE CONTEST

Y. M. C. A. and Dunellen battled to a 1 to 1 tie game on Saturday, which was brought to an end in the sixth inning by rain. Both teams scored their tallies in the second round. Monitross and Slocum twirled fine ball. "Smiling Jimmy" having the best of the argument. The score:

Y. M. C. A.	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.
Gilmore, 3b	1	1	0	1	0
Murphy, rf	0	2	0	0	0
Fritts, lf	0	0	1	0	0
Hand, c	0	0	7	2	0
Stover, cf	0	0	2	0	0
Taylor, 2b	0	1	3	2	0
Coyle, ss	0	0	0	2	1
Dumont, 1b	0	0	7	1	0
Slocum, p	0	0	0	2	1
Totals	1	4	20	10	1

Dunellen.	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.
Giddes, ss	0	0	1	4	2
Giles, 2b	0	1	2	2	0
Miller, cf	0	0	2	0	0
Montross, p	0	0	0	1	0
Nonemaker, lf	1	0	0	0	1
Piddington, 1b	0	1	9	0	0
Ramsberger, 2b	0	0	2	5	0
Dodwell, c	0	0	2	7	0
Clark, rf	0	0	0	0	0
Garretson, rf	0	0	0	0	0
Totals	1	4	21	12	4

Score by innings:
Y. M. C. A. ..... 1 0 0 0 0 0 0—1
Dunellen ..... 0 1 0 0 0 0 0—1

Struck out—By Slocum, 4; by Montross, 6. Bases on balls—Off Slocum, 3. Sacrifice hit—Hand. Three-base hits—Gilmore, Murphy, Taylor, Piddington. Double play—Ramsberger to Giles to Piddington. Hit by pitcher—Stover. Left on bases—Plainfield, 7; Dunellen, 4. Umpires— C. Lake, A. Coriell. Scorer, C. H. Line. Time of game —1h. 10m.

DODGERS TRIM BOW-WOWS BY A LARGE SCORE.

The Dodgers trimmed the Bow-wows to the tune of 20 to 0 on the Elton street grounds Saturday morning. The teams lined up as follows:

Bow-wows—A. Luthman, c; W. Soden and . McCarthy, p; R. Daws, 1b; E. Shilinger, 2b; S. Taub, 3b; W. Soden and J. McCarty, ss; C. Taylor, lf; E. Stevens, rf; Smelson, cf.

Dodgers—W. Saunders, c; G. Jackson, p; H. Douglas, 1b; V. Stobor, 2b; J. Schmeyer, 3b; F. Force, ss; C. Kroner, lf; T. Higgins, cf; W. Schorb, rf.

Dodgers ..... 5 1 3 2 3 0 2 0 5—20
Bow-wows ..... 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0— 0

MR. LOVELL GOVERNOR OF MAYFLOWER SOCIETY.

The New Jersey Society of Mayflower Descendants, prior to taking a trip up the Hudson river, Saturday with the New York State Society, when they visited West Point, held its semi-annual meeting and elected these officers:

Governor, Leander N. Lovell; deputy governor, William S Tyler; captain, Benjamin Shepard; elder, Rev. Charles Augustus Brewer; secretary, Arthur Lovell; treasurer, Elijah Thompson Farnham; surgeon, Dr. William Gray Schauffler. The two societies spent about three hours at the Military Academy, returning home on the Steamer Albany.

English Plum Pudding.

Two pounds of raisins, stoned; 2 pounds of currants, 1 pound of suet, 1 quart of grated bread crumbs, one-half pound of mixed peel (citron, lemon and orange), one cup of flour, four eggs, two cups of sweet milk, one teaspoon salt, one-half pound of brown sugar, one nutmeg grated, two teaspoons cloves and cinnamon. Steam or boil six hours. This pudding material will make three small puddings or one large one.

PLAINFIELD HIGH IS VICTOR OVER BAYONNE

Plainfield High's baseball aggregation conquered Bayonne High Saturday morning on Crescent Oval by the score of 7 to 5. The game was called at the conclusion of the seventh inning, owing to the late arrival of the visiting nine.

Nash starred in the third round for the local school boys when he boosted Doane and Lidgate on a triple which dropped into left field territory. In the fourth round Terry smashed out a pretty double. The fifth inning was enlivened by a smart double play executed by Malony and Schwartz. The former clutched Lidgate's hot liner and chucked Riffert out at the middle station.

Terry pitched splendidly for Plainfield and his teammates accorded him excellent support. The lineups:

P. H. S.—Riffert, ss; Doane, cf, Lidgate, c; Nash, 1b; Runyon, lf; Carty, rf; Van Zandt, 2b; Terry, p; Bristol, 2b.

Bayonne—Schwartz, 2b; Sharkey, 1b; Maloney, ss; Chase, rf; Magner, c; Smith, 3b; Herman, cf; Eisenberg, p; Jack, lf.

P. H. S. ..... 2 0 2 2 1 0 x—7
Bayonne ..... 0 3 0 2 0 0 0—5

Umpire—Clarke.

N.P.H.S. AND MONTCLAIR IN A DRAWN BATTLE

N. P. H. S. played its fastest game of the season on Hyde Field Saturday afternoon when it played Montclair High to a 0 to 0 score in six innings. The game was cut short by the downpour of rain. C. Smith, was in great form, the borough twirler holding the Montclairites to two hits, and Raymond the first sacker of the visitors goth both of the bingles. Meyer, the visiting twirler, was also in fine fettle, and the locals were limited to three hits.

The catching of Stine was the stellar feature of the game. Stine's throwing was operated in fine style and during the game six ambitious base stealers from Montclair perished at the middle station. The score:

N. P. H. S.	R.	H.	O.	A.	E.
Pierson Bailey, 1b	0	0	7	1	0
Conroy 3b	0	0	1	0	0
C. Smith, p	0	0	1	2	0
Percy Bailey, ss	0	0	1	3	0
Taylor, 2b	0	0	1	6	2
H. Smith, lf	0	0	0	0	0
Dunning, rf	0	0	0	0	0
Townley, lf	0	0	0	0	0
Stine, c	0	0	3	4	0
	0	0	13	16	2

Montclair.	R.	H.	O.	A.	E.
Jeaggli, 3b	0	0	0	0	0
Balmos, lf	0	0	2	0	0
Kenan, ss	0	0	0	0	0
Meyer, p	0	0	0	3	0
Deazle, c	0	0	7	1	0
Rittenhouse, 2b	0	0	3	2	0
Raymond, 1b	0	0	2	3	0
Weyman, rf	0	0	0	0	0
Craig, cf	0	0	0	0	0
	0	0	15	4	0

Montclair ..... 0 0 0 0 0 0—0
N. P. H. S. ..... 0 0 0 0 0 x—0

Umpire, H. George.

HOPE CHAPEL LOWERS Y. M. C. A.'S COLORS.

Hope chapel's baseball nine was victorious over the Y. M. C. A. Juniors Saturday morning by the score of 9 to 7. The chapelites clinched the victory in the fifth inning when they peppered the delivery of Bergen, the Y. M. C. A. twirler for five runs. Both nines played exceptionally well in the field. The lineups: Y. M. C. A. Juniors—Dickerson, 3b; Crook, lf; Dunning, 1b; Hetfield, 2b; Serviss, cf; McNamee, c; Angerhauer, rf; Waller, ss; Bergen, p.

Hope chapel—Leighs, cf; J. Heron, ss; Brown, p; T. Heron, c; C. Bunn, 2b; Overland, 3b; Porter, lf; Snyder, 1b; P. Bunn, rf.

Hope Chapel. 2 0 0 1 5 1 9 0 0—9
Y. M. C. A. Jr.. 1 2 1 1 0 0 0 0 2—7

NETHERWOOD NINE IN A REDHOT BATTLE.

The Netherwood A. C. and Netherwood Juniors engaged in an interesting contest on Saturday, the latter team winning by the score of 9 to 5. The clubs lined up as follows:

Netherwood A. C.—Bowe, c; Sumner, p; Conklin, 1b; C. Costales, 2b; H. Dunn, 3b; F. Costales, ss; C. Canfield, lf; S. Christe, rf.

Netherwood Juniors—H. Huff, c; J. Tenny, p; E. Hand, 1b; A. Luthmanß 2b; I. Wahl, 3b; D. Morrow, ss; A. Soldo, lf; S. Hansel, rf; W. Rickter, cf.

N. A. C. ..... 1 0 0 1 1 0 2 0 —5
N. J. Juniors ..... 0 1 2 2 0 0 0 2 2—9

Umpire—W. Hankerson.

Somewhat Suspicious.

"Why do you refuse me an interview, Mr. Gotrox? I only wanted to ask you how you earned your first thousand dollars."

"Excuse me, young man. I thought you wanted to know how I got that last million."

PLAINFIELDS DOWN FLEMINGTON AGAIN

Plainfield showed Flemington the way again on Saturday by the score of 3 to 1. The contest was halted at the close of the seventh round owing to the interference of Jupiter Pluvius.

The locals outhatted and outfielded the visitors. Although thirteen hits were made off Warren the locals were unable to score more than three tallies. McLaughlin was in speedy form and had the Hunterdon athletes guessing all the way, holding them to a pair of lonely hits and striking out seven batters.

The failure of Joe Harter to show up necessitated a shift in the lineup, Boyd going to third base, and O'Loughlin playing in center garden.

A couple of hits and some loose fielding enabled Plainfield to tally three runs in the opening round. Martin smashed a single to left and Boyd followed with an infield tap in the direction of P. Hart. Hart made a wild chuck to first base which permitted Martin to score and Boyd to reach third. After Barnes flied out, Carlstrom bunted, and Boyd tallied. Carlstrom stole second and scored when Hampton dropped Warren's throw of McLaughlin's easy grounder.

Some weird playing took place in the second when the visitors recorded their tally. Chatten was safe on O'Loughlin's muff, but he was later forced out at second by Warren. Warren's successful attempt to steal second drew a bad throw from Nelson. The ball dropped into center field and O'Loughlin continued the circus by executing a wide throw to Boyd. In the meantime Warren kept on running around the bases and scored. McLaughlin retired the side by fanning Parker and Brewer. The score:

Plainfield.	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.
Martin, 2b	1	3	3	1	0
Boyd, 3b	1	2	0	3	0
Barnes, 1b	0	1	7	0	0
Carlstrom, ss	1	1	4	1	0
Nelson c	0	1	6	2	1
McLaughlin, p	0	2	0	1	0
O'Loughlin, cf	0	2	0	0	0
Schott, lf	0	1	1	0	0
Lidgate, rf	0	0	0	0	0
Totals	3	13	21	8	1

Flemington.	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.
H. Hart, lf	0	1	0	0	0
Rothfuss, c	0	0	7	3	0
P. Hart, 2b	0	0	3	2	2
Zanetti, cf	0	0	1	0	0
Hampton, 1b	0	0	7	0	1
Chatten, ss	0	1	1	1	1
Warren, p	0	1	0	4	0
Parker, rf	0	0	0	0	0
Brewer, 3b	0	0	1	1	0
Totals	1	3*20	10	4

*Shoot out in first inning, hit by batted ball.

Plainfield ..... 3 0 0 0 0 0 0—7
Flemington ..... 0 1 0 0 0 0 0—1

Struck out—By McLaughlin, 7; by Warren, 4. Base on balls—Off McLaughlin, 2. Stolen bases, Shott, 3; O'Loughlin, 2; Martin, Carlstrom and McLaughlin. Sacrifice hit—Shott. Hit by pitched ball—Carlstrom. Passed ball—Nelson. Double play—Carlstrom and Barnes. Left on bases—Plainfield, 8; Flemington, 2. Umpire—Richard Scott.

FINDING HIS LEVEL.

Once there was a bachelor,
Who moved into a flat;
Everyone had children, and
He wouldn't stand for that;
Found one where they weren't allowed;
Then with rage was torn,
For in the rooms above, one night,
A little babe was born!

Moved into another place;
Then he wouldn't stay,
When he noticed children
In the house across the way!

Finally he died. And,
As is everybody's fate,
Found himself a-knocking at
St. Peter's golden gate.

"Can't come in? Why not?" says he.
Says the saint, "Oh dear!
I'm afraid you couldn't stand
The way we run things here!
Children, children, all about—
No, sir, isn't fair;
You go to the Other Place—
You'll find no children there!"

—Cleveland Leader.

Just Leaked Out.

"I think I'll introduce a few amendments to the bill," remarked the Senator, who had entered the chamber a trifle late on February 22.

"Cut it out," whispered his colleague. "That was Washington's farewell address."

Ought to Go.

"I have a new scheme for a magazine."

"Unfold it."

"Each page is divided into three columns. Down the middle column runs the love story, and in the other two columns are suitable ads."

Of Course.

"George, what is the 'Rockefeller foundation' made of?"

"Rocks, of course."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL
My new barber shop at
143 NORTH AVE.
a new open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.
EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

W. R. CODINGTON,
Counsellor-at-Law
Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-Chancery, Notary Public. Offices corner of Park avenue and Second street.

Guaranteed Salary
$900 YEARLY.
Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel appointing agents, others for local work looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and expenses, rapid advancement, old established house. Grand chance for earnest man or woman to secure permanent, pleasant position. Unusual income and future. Now, brilliant lines. Write at once.
STAFFORD PRESS,
23 Church St., New Haven, Conn

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.
Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Sanitary Plumbing
Brick and Portable Furnace
Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,
Etc., Etc., Etc.
I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.
Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in all cases.
D. W. LITTELL

DIED.

M'GARRIGLE—At Lincoln, N. J., May 17, 1910, Elizabeth M. McGarrigle, aged 41 years.

PEARSON—On Sunday, May 22, 1910, William W. Pearson, in his 69th year.

HEROLD—At Jersey City, N. J., May 14, 1910, Joseph P. Herold, in his 41st year.

GAYLE—On Tuesday, May 17, 1910, George Gayle, in his 75th year. Services at the residence of his son-in-law, Scott, 3; O'Loughlin, 2; Martin, Carlstrom and McLaughlin. Sacrifice hit—Shott. Hit by pitched ball—Carlstrom. Passed ball—Nelson. Double play—Carlstrom and Barnes. Left on bases—Plainfield, 8; Flemington, 2. Umpire—Richard Scott.

FINDING HIS LEVEL.

Once there was a bachelor,
Who moved into a flat;
Everyone had children, and
He wouldn't stand for that;
Found one where they weren't allowed;
Then with rage was torn,
For in the rooms above, one night,
A little babe was born!

Moved into another place;
Then he wouldn't stay,
When he noticed children
In the house across the way!

Finally he died. And,
As is everybody's fate,
Found himself a-knocking at
St. Peter's golden gate.

"Can't come in? Why not?" says he.
Says the saint, "Oh dear!
I'm afraid you couldn't stand
The way we run things here!
Children, children, all about—
No, sir, isn't fair;
You go to the Other Place—
You'll find no children there!"

—Cleveland Leader.

Just Leaked Out.

"I think I'll introduce a few amendments to the bill," remarked the Senator, who had entered the chamber a trifle late on February 22.

"Cut it out," whispered his colleague. "That was Washington's farewell address."

Ought to Go.

"I have a new scheme for a magazine."

"Unfold it."

"Each page is divided into three columns. Down the middle column runs the love story, and in the other two columns are suitable ads."

Of Course.

"George, what is the 'Rockefeller foundation' made of?"

"Rocks, of course."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Constitutionalist ads. pay.

JOSEPH A. PATTERSON DIES AT LOS ANGELES.

Joseph A. Patterson, son of the late Joseph Patterson, one of the pioneer tobacconists of this city, died at Los Angeles, Cal., on Sunday, May 15, after an illness of two years with stomach and other troubles. He was about sixty years of age, and when he retired from the tobacco business on West Front street, about five years ago went to California with his brothers, Charles and Henry Patterson.

Juniors on a Picnic.

The Junior Epworth League of the First M. E. church enjoyed its annual picnic Saturday at Washington Rock. The little folks started from the church at 9:30 o'clock, three stages being required to convey them to the Rock. Al sorts of games and a general good time was enjoyed, and fortunately the heavy shower in the afternoon did not mar the pleasures to any extent. At noon a fine lunch was served.

A Mongolian Future.

"What a stolid, impentrable face a Chinaman has."

"Yes," replied Col. Stillwell. "One of these days the Chinese will learn to play poker, and then people of other nations will change their ideas about them."—Washington Evening Star.

An Unscientific Opinion.

And if the comet hits the earth,
We'll feebly turn in mute disgust,
We'll wager all that we are worth
It couldn't even "bust" a trust.

—Washington Evening Star.

—Constitutionalist's ads. pay.

SEVEN NURSES GRADUATE

Annual Commencement of Muhlenberg Hospital Training School.

DR. VANHORN THE SPEAKER.

Percy H. Stewart Presents Diplomas and Mayor Charles J. Fisk the Pins—W. H. Wherry Also Speaks.

Seven young women were graduated from the Muhlenberg Hospital Training School for Nurses Thursday night, when interesting exercises were held at the Hratridge School Auditorium. The auditorium was well filled with relatives and friends of the graduates, and all the honors possible were conferred on the young women who have completed the prescribed course.

Those in the graduating class were Miss Nellie Wilbee and Miss Josephine Culberson, of this city; Miss Maude Davidson, of London, Ont.; Miss Clara E. Charlton, of Meadowvale, Ont.; Miss Sophia Scherpeitz, of Koln, Germany; Miss Florence MacDonald, of Elizabeth, and Miss Iva Aipaugh, of Califon. They occupied special seats reserved for them directly in front of the stage.

The auditorium was appropriately decorated for the occasion, especially the stage, where there was a handsome display of the American flag, the Canadian flag and a large Red Cross flag, together with palms and flowers.

Percy H. Stewart, representing the Board of Governors; Mayor Charles J. Fisk, W. H. Wherry and Dr. A. F. Van Horn, the last named representing the medical board of the hospital, occupied seats on the stage. During the evening there were instrumental selections by L. M. Hummer's orchestra of three pieces. At the close of the exercises an informal reception was held by the graduates, then followed dancing and the serving of refreshments.

William H. Wherry was the first speaker, after the invocation by Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, and he referred briefly to the importance and value of the profession of nursing, recalling the great work performed by Florence Nightingale during the Crimean War, and others who have since brought honor to the profession. He congratulated the members of the graduating class upon their achievements and wished them success as they now begin their life work.

The address of the evening was by Dr. A. F. Van Horn, and he held the close attention of the large audience as he treated his subject, one bearing directly on the profession of nursing and tending to show the progress made in recent years. The first part of his talk was devoted to a description of the early days of the practice of medicine and surgery and he then compared this with present-day methods.

Continuing Dr. Van Horn said: "Training schools were very few in the early days, the teaching most elementary and the nurse was hardly trusted to give a hypodermic injection unless a physician was present. Nurses had scarcely any part in an operation, for they were not considered, nor were they, competent to assist in this work. But the dawn of a brighter day was breaking and during my last year in the medical school antiseptic methods were coming into vogue.

"Having briefly reviewed things as we have seen them, we will turn to a brighter picture, and tell you how things are done in Muhlenberg Hospital today, and the part that our nurses take in the work.

"We will first give you a scant outline of the work of the nurse during her three years of training. When a pupil nurse enters the training school she is on probation for the first two months, if her work is satisfactory and she successfully passes her examination she receives her cap and is a pupil nurse. During the probationary period she is taught the elementary branches of her profession, such as the making of beds, bathing patients and the general hygiene of the ward.

"As the nurse advances in her training her duties are enlarged and more responsibility is placed upon her, but during the first year she is always under the supervision of a more experienced nurse. The nurse has twelve hours on duty and as many more as the exegencies of the work may require, often she is on duty until eleven or twelve o'clock at night or may be called at any time during the night to assist in some emergency case or operation.

"Besides the twelve hours on duty she is required to attend lectures given by various members of the medical staff or superintendent. During the second and third years she is given more and more advanced work as she is fitted for it and must keep up with her study and lectures."

Dr. Van Horn then described in detail the countless duties performed by a nurse during an operation and in the treatment of other kinds of cases. Addressing the graduates, Dr. Van Horn said:

"Young ladies of the graduating class of 1910: As I stand here tonight and see you facing your chosen career, it carries me back to the time when in the first flush of my young manhood I stood on the threshold of my life work, wondering how the world had gotten along without my help in its affairs and thinking that now things would move more swiftly and smoothly, that I was on the scene.

"I had my ideals then and although they have received many a hard knock and show the effects of contact with the world, they are my ideals still and are there they are fostered on one side they are smoothed out on another so that they have not lost all their symmetery. You too have your ideals and tonight I want to advise you to 'hitch your wagon to a star.' As the years go by the wagon will bump along and it flies over the cobblestones and mountains that impede its progress, here and there a spoke will be missing from the wheels, the bright paint will be marred and scratched but still it will be your wagon and the star will not have lost any of its brilliance when your shadows fall toward the east and the sunset of life is near.

"If I were asked what I considered the essential qualifications for a successful nurse my reply would be that the most important are, capability, adaptibility and dependability.

"First, capability. It is an assured fact that you are capable of taking up the duties of your profession or these exercises would not be held tonight. You have had precept and example before you in the work of the teachers of this school and Miss Jadwin from the first day of your probation until now and we know that you are perfectly capable of doing any work that may come to you, but you must realize that with all the time and care that have been spent upon your instruction only the foundation has been laid and now it is for you to put upon this foundation a building that will be an honor to yourselves and your alma mater. The advances in medicine and surgery are so rapid that it is only by strict application to study that you or any nurse can keep in touch with what is going on in their line of work and it is for your interest that you so apply yourselves that you will remain as capable as you are today.

"One year's relaxation from study and you will find yourselves behind, a lot more are upon you than possible of constant study that you may not fall by the wayside and be numbered among the has-beens.

"Second, adaptibility. As you leave the hospital with its routine work, its certain hours for doing certain things and take up nursing in the private home, you will find in order to be successful you will be obliged to adapt yourselves to different conditions. You cannot have set hours for doing things now, for, perhaps, at just the time you think you will give your patient a bath or do some other needed thing she may be having the only sleep that has come to her in the twenty-four hours and everything must wait until the needed rest is obtained.

"As you enter a home, while you maintain your dignity, you must adapt your life to that of the home, and not expect to have the whole household change their plans to suit you or your ideas. You will meet grouchy patients and while you must keep your work well in hand you will have to use your diplomacy to meet their whims.

"You will also meet grouchy doctors and should you ever get up against the combination of a grouchy patient and grouchy doctor the prayer of the old minister when he invoked a blessing upon New Jersey in the following words: 'Oh, Lord, be a pity for they especial blessing upon New Jersey, with New York upon one side and Philadelphia upon the other,' will apply to you, for you will need an especial measure of Divine grace if you are placed between a crank for a patient and a biggest crank for a doctor.

"Our third and last essential is dependability. A nurse may be fully capable, may be able to adapt herself to any conditions and still be a failure if she cannot be depended upon to use all the faculties and powers with which she has been endowed. The nurse that enters the profession with the idea that when she has done just what she is paid for, and no more, she his discharged her full duty, had better never take up the work, for, unless she is perfectly willing to throw her whole soul, mind and strength into her work and be depended upon to do all that comes to her hand to do she can never succeed. I would not be understood as saying that the nurse must tax herself beyond reason or yield to unreasonable demands upon her, still she must be endowed with an abnormal conscience and an enthusiasm that will enable her to sink self for the good of her patient. From this time on you must depend upon your own judgement or guide you, no more will you have the undivided attendent to settle matters with your own conscience and you must act upon your own responsibility.

"You have proven yourselves dependable while you have been in the training school, for never have you failed to respond to any demand made upon your time and strength, never have you been found lacking when the call came for a serious emergency night or day, and the medical board desires to thank you for your willing and cheerful response to any and all calls that have been made upon you and wish you success and honor in your profession."

Following Dr. Van Horn's admirable address, Mr. Stewart spoke briefly, touching upon the work of the hospital and the self-sacrifice of the superintendent, Miss Josephine Hughes, and the nurses. He said that the great work of the hospital is only possible through the self-sacrifice of the faithfulness of the city. He spoke praise-worthy words for the training school and its high standard of efficiency and said that all were proud of the nurses who have been graduated from the institution. Mr. Stewart then presented the graduates with their diplomas.

The exercises closed with the presentation of the pins to the nurses by Mayor Charles J. Fisk, who spoke in a happy vein. He congratulated the graduates told them to be jolly and cheerful and if they continued the star will not have lost any of its brilliance when your shadows fall toward the east and the sunset of life is near.

"If I were asked what I considered the essential qualifications for a successful nurse my reply would be that the most important are, capability, adaptibility and dependability.

"First, capability. It is an assured fact that you are capable of taking up the duties of your profession or these exercises would not be held tonight. You have had precept and example before you in the work of the teachers of this school and Miss Jadwin from the first day of your probation until now and we know that you are perfectly capable of doing any work that may come to you, but you must realize that with all the time and care that have been spent upon your instruction only the foundation has been laid and now it is for you to put upon this foundation a building that will be an honor to yourselves and your alma mater. The advances in medicine and surgery are so rapid that it is only by strict application to study that you or any nurse can keep in touch with what is going on in their line of work and it is for your interest that you so apply yourselves that you will remain as capable as you are today.

"One year's relaxation from study and you will find yourselves behind, a lot more are upon you than possible of constant study that you may not fall by the wayside and be numbered among the has-beens.

"Second, adaptibility. As you leave the hospital with its routine work, its certain hours for doing certain things and take up nursing in the private home, you will find in order to be successful you will be obliged to adapt yourselves to different conditions. You cannot have set hours for doing things now, for, perhaps, at just the time you think you will give your patient a bath or do some other needed thing she may be having the only sleep that has come to her in the twenty-four hours and everything must wait until the needed rest is obtained.

"As you enter a home, while you maintain your dignity, you must adapt your life to that of the home, and not expect to have the whole household change their plans to suit you or your ideas. You will meet grouchy patients and while you must keep your work well in hand you will have to use your diplomacy to meet their whims.

"You will also meet grouchy doctors and should you ever get up against the combination of a grouchy patient and grouchy doctor the prayer of the old minister when he invoked a blessing upon New Jersey in the following words: 'Oh, Lord, be a pity for they especial blessing upon New Jersey, with New York upon one side and Philadelphia upon the other,' will apply to you, for you will need an especial measure of Divine grace if you are placed between a crank for a patient and a biggest crank for a doctor.

"Our third and last essential is dependability. A nurse may be fully capable, may be able to adapt herself to any conditions and still be a failure if she cannot be depended upon to use all the faculties and powers with which she has been endowed. The nurse that enters the profession with the idea that when she has done just what she is paid for, and no more, she his discharged her full duty, had better never take up the work, for, unless she is perfectly willing to throw her whole soul, mind and strength into her work and be depended upon to do all that comes to her hand to do she can never succeed. I would not be understood as saying that the nurse must tax herself beyond reason or yield to unreasonable demands upon her, still she must be endowed with an abnormal conscience and an enthusiasm that will enable her to sink self for the good of her patient. From this time on you must depend upon your own judgement or guide you, no more will you have the undivided attendent to settle matters with your own conscience and you must act upon your own responsibility.

"You have proven yourselves dependable while you have been in the training school, for never have you failed to respond to any demand made upon your time and strength, never have you been found lacking when the call came for a serious

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Safe and Sane Fourth.

Rahway ought not to hesitate to pass a safeguarding Fourth of July ordinance. All over Union county action is being taken which will protect men, women and children from serious accidents and loss of life. To refuse to recognize the problem presented is to fall behind the times very noticeably in an important reform movement. For the first time the municipalities have the authority of the State for establishing safeguarding regulations. Chapter 131 of the laws of 1910 gives the widest authority to the towns and cities in the passing of ordinances regulating the sale or use of explosives of all kinds. The act specifically states that they may absolutely prohibit the sale of fireworks, etc. The severe penalty permitted by the act for violations of municipal ordinances which may be passed—a sum not to exceed $200—shows how seriously the members of the State Legislature looked upon the dangers threatening on every birthday of the boys and girls of New Jersey, through the action taken by the Legislature this year, has placed itself firmly behind the safe and sane Fourth movement. It has backed up the municipalities in their efforts to protect themselves. It has encouraged them by its action to go just as far as they think wise in connection with keeping down and ruling out the explosives. Both the Rahway and Elizabeth councils must be familiar with the fact that few municipal movements have made such rapid progress as that of the campaign to abuses which have crept into the observance of Independence Day. The governors of many States have been enlisted in this reform, including Governors Comer, of Alabama; Shafroth, of Colorado; Pennewill, of Delaware; Brady, of Idaho; Deneen, of Illinois; Sanders, of Louisana; Fernald, of Maine; Crothers, of Maryland; Draper, of Massachusetts; Warner, of Michigan; Eberhardt, of Minnesota; Hadley, of Missouri; Morris, of Montana; Dickerson, of Nevada; Fort, of New Jersey; Hanna, of North Dakota; Bensen, of Oregon; Ansel, of North Carolina; Vessey, of South Dakota; Patterson, of Tennessee; Prouty, of Vermont; Hay, of Washington, and Davision, of Wisconsin. Sixty-three cities are known to be definitely planning sane celebrations this year. These are in addition to such cities and location as New York city, Derby, Conn.; Racine, Wis.; Philadelphia, Kalamazoo, Denver, Boston and San Francisco. Cities which are continually behind hand in matters pertaining to the welfare of the people cannot hope to keep up in the very active race now going on among municipalities in this section of New *Jersey to win intelligent homeseek*ers.—Elizabeth Journal.

Doesn't Inspire Confidence.

The Democratic Union of New Jersey announces as its purpose "a revival of the Democratic faith and the principles of government laid down by Jefferson and indorsed by Jackson and Lincoln."

In an effort to bring about this revival the union proposes to have a number of "distinguished men" address the citizens of New Jersey.

The first meeting is announced for tonight, the place is Krueger's Auditorium and the speakers are Senators Bailey, of Texas; Hughes, of Colorado, and Johnston, of Alabama.

The Hon. Joseph W. Bailey's connection with Standard Oil is melodorous. In the Senate he is classed with the corporation Senators and there is nothing in his record to demand a reclassification.

The Hon. Charles J. Hughes is Secretary of Colorado by grace of the Guggenheim interests, by affiliations with the combined corporation interests in both parties has been fully detailed by Judge Lindsey in Everybody's Magazine. Senator Hughes posing as a reformer, an exponent of the principles of Jefferson, Jackson and Lincoln, is a joke.

The Hon. Joseph Forney Johnston is Senator from Alabama. He is a fossil. If it is desired to show the people of Newark an example of the methods of the Bourbon Democracy, it is doubtful if a better selection could be made. If, however, the union desires to present Progressive Democracy, which has learned something in the past forty years, Senator Johnston will be as much out of place as a presiding elder at a dog fight.

In its initial performance the Democratic Union is in bad. It announces among those who have been invited to speak Senators Gore and Owen, of Oklahoma. Unfortunately, however, neither of these will appear on the first meeting. There is little in common between the Oklahoma Senators and those named above. Gore and Owen are Progressives, the others are standpatters.

If the union hopes to attract Republicans who are disgusted with the leaders of their own party, it has gone the wrong way about it. As between Aldrich, Kean, Lodge, Smoot and their ilk on the one side and Bailey, Hughes and their like on the other, it is merely a difference in name and not of kind. There is nothing to be gained by taking the government from the hands of one crowd of corporation servants labeled Republican and giving it to another crowd of the same kind labeled Democrats.—Newark News.

ENTERTAINMENT GIVEN AT MONROE AVE. CHURCH

Before an audience of 150 people an entertainment of merit was presented by the Standard Bearers of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church Thursday in the church auditorium. The program included two one-act playlets, a dialogue, piano duets and solos. Mrs. McNeill Hopcraft was the soloist, rendering two songs with much expression and feeling. The Misses Helen Pierce, Mildred Barnes and Gertrude Gray played a number of classical selections on the piano.

The playlet, "Tangles," was presented, and the antics of "Eary Jenkins, alias N. Y. Z., Bill Tracy's valet, (Louis Berger,) caused convulsions of laughter. He was uncommonly good in his part. Miss Bessie Gunzleman, as Elsie, the maid, showed a natural aptitude for acting and she played her part with great effect. Others were in the cast: Lloyd Miller, Stella Rink, Louis Mulford, Morris Warrick, Louis Berger, Bessie Gunzleman.

A humorous dialogue, "Two Wandering Jews," was given by Louis Mulford and Harry Ludge. The playlet, "Gertrude Mason, M. D.," was presented by seven young women. These were in the cast: Miss Ethel Rink, Minnie Gunzleman, Irene Sawyer, Louise McCormick, Marian Praed, May Stafford.

The proceeds of the entertainment will be used in the missionary work to which the Standard Bearers are pledged. The committee consisted of Miss Mary Matthews, Miss Minnie Gunzleman and Miss Alice Ludle. The coaches were George H. Fisher and Charles Lewis. Mr. Fisher was also the electrician and property manager with John McCormick.

PLAINFIELDERS WIN HONORS AT RUTGERS

The annual exhibition drill of the Rutgers' College batallion was held on Neilson Field, New Brunswick, Friday. A large crowd witnessed the drill, which consisted of successive formations, skirmish drills and flank manoeuvrings.

A sham battle featured the celebration, two companies taking part in the "fight." The drill closed with dress parade and the announcement of promotions for the ensuing year. Frederick M. Smith, of this city, received commission as captain and adjutant. Arthur B. Titsworth was appointed sergeant, and G. Stanley Robbins was advanced to corporal.

In the evening the military ball was held in the Ballentine gymnasium. The affair was largely attended, including a large representation of Plainfielders.

Frederick Smith was recently elected vice-president of the Civil Engineering Club. This is an honorary organization consisting of juniors and seniors of the civil engineering course.

J. De Lancy Ferguson has been winning prizes this year. He recently took the Parker Winner Memorial prize, valued at $25, and also the Wall Targum prize, valued at $10.

Y. M. C. A. State Meet.

Physical Director Listman is receiving entries for the State Y. M. C. A. meet which will be held in Orange on saturday, June 17. Local athletes will compete in the events.

Patience—When Mr. Huggins attempted to kiss me, last night, I called out for help.

Patrice—What was the matter? Were you afraid he'd get away without doing it?

FORT'S SUCCESSOR TO FILL THESE BERTHS

The Republican victory at the coming gubernatorial election will be particularly significant, as the successor to Governor Fort will have the naming of about fifty appointees to offices of greater or less importance. Among these will be the offices of Secretary of State and Commissioner of Banking and Insurance.

The patronage at the disposal of the next Governor includes the following:

Supreme Court Justices—Alfred Reed, 1911; T. W. Trenchard, 1912.

Circuit Court Judges—Allen B. Endicott, 1911; Wilbur A. Heisley, 1911; Benjamin August Vail, 1912; Frank L. Lloyd, 1913.

Court of Errors—Garret D. W. Vroom, 1913; James Brooks Dill, 1911.

Law judges in Atlantic, Bergen, Camden, Cape May, Essex (2), Gloucester, Hudson (2), Mercer, Morris, Ocean, Passaic, Samuel, Sussex, Union and Warren.

Secretary of State—S. D. Dickinson, 1912; Assistant, J. B. R. Smith, 1912.

Supreme Court Clerk—William Riker, 1912 (November 2); deputy, Charles N. Codding, 1912.

Superintendent of Schools—Chas. J. Baxter, 1912.

State Prison Keeper—George O. Osborne, 1912; supervisor, Samuel W. Kirkbride.

State Banker of Banking and Insurance—Vivian M. Lewis, 1912; deputy, Thomas K. Johnson.

Chief of Labor Statistics—Winton C. Garrison, 1913.

State Board of Assessors—Theodore Strong, 1911; Obadiah C. Bogardus, 1912; Charles C. Hendrick, 1913.

State Board of Tax Equalization—Henry J. Irick, 1912; Theodore Simonson, 1911, and George R. McCarthy, 1913.

Civil Service Commissioners—Willis Fletcher Johnson, 1912; James R. Mullholland, 1913.

State Labor Commissioner—Lewis T. Bryant, 1911.

Supervisor—Robert A. Murphy, 1912.

State Charities Commissioner—The Rev. George Wight, 1912; assistant commissioner, George E. Poole, 1912.

One member of each of the county tax boards.

Chief of Shell Fisheries—Charles R. Bacon, 1911.

District Court Judges—Camden, 1912; Elizabeth, 1913; Jersey City, 1913; Newark, 1913; Paterson, 1911; Orange, 1911; Hoboken, 1911; Passaic, 1911; Atlantic City, 1911; Bayonne, 1911; New Brunswick, 911; Perth Amboy, 1911, Plainfield, 1912; Morris, 1911.

State Board of Education, twelve members.

Fish and Game Commission—All.

State Forestry—Two out of three.

Geological Survey—Five members-at-large and six district members.

State Health Board—Three members.

Motor Vehicle Department.

State Oyster Commission—Two members.

Ocean County Oyster Commission—Three members.

Ocean County Superintendent—1912.

Shark River Superintendent—1911.

Atlantic County Superintendent—1911.

Palisades Park Commission—Two members.

Police Justice, South Orange—J. Martin Roll, 1912.

Rahway Reformatory Commission—Five members.

Riparian Commission—One member.

Passaic Valley Sewerage—Three members.

Tenement House Commission—Three members.

Commissioner of Highways—Henry W. Schroeder, 1913.

Water Supply Commission—Voorhees, 1912; Howell, 1911; Bacheler, 1913.

Managers and members of State boards, commissions and institutional managers.

Fifteen county prosecutors, Atlantic, Bergen, Camden, Cape May, Essex, Gloucester, Hudson, Hunterdon, Mercer, Morris, Ocean, Passaic, Sussex, Union, Warren, with six assistant prosecutors.

DUNELLEN GIRL WEDS A HOBOKEN BANKER.

Miss Mary Brass, a niece of Mrs. Helen Brown, of Greenbrook road, Dunellen, and Forest Brown, of Hoboken, were nited in marriage at 9:30 o'clock Wednesday morning, at Mrs. Brown's home in the presence of a few relatives. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Ernest O. Brown, pastor of the Presbytesian church at Dunellen.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown are now enjoying a honeymoon at Niagara Falls. At the completion of the will reside at Hoboken where Mr. Brown holds a position of paying teller in the Hoboken Trust Company.

Brothers Dissolve Partnership.

Frank B. Vanderhoff is now sole proprietor of the Vanderhoff meat market in the city market, his brother, T. Vanderhoff, having signed articles of dissolution of partnership.

TRINITY REFORMED HOME DEP'T SOCIAL

Encouraging reports and interesting addresses, combined with social features, made the Home department social at Trinity Reformed church, Thursday, a delightful occasion. There was a large attendance of the department members as well as officers and others were invited to participate in the affair. Mrs. Henry VanName, as superintendent of the Home department, was in charge of the program. Each member of the department was distinguished by a small orange colored badge.

The exercises opened with the singing of the Home department hymn and prayer by Rev. John Y Broek, pastor of the church. The quarterly report was then read by F. E. Smith, superintendent of the Sunday school. This showed that seven new members had been received, four withdrawn and two joined the Sunday school. On April 1, the membership was 342 and at present it is 390. There are thirty-two visitors and three officers. Of the membership reported and 172 studied every lesson. The whole number of lessons was 2,955.

The address of the evening was by Philip Lindsley, of Raritan, who is Home department superintendent for Somerset county. He spoke on the topic, "What the Home Department Stands For." The remarks were listened to with great interest, providing a source of much encouragement. He congratulated the department of Trinity church for its fine showing during the past quarter and wished it success in the future.

After the address Rev. John Y. Broek made a few remarks appropriate to the occasion and conducted a round table, which proved of great benefit to the Sunday school work. Following a closing hymn, there was a social hour and refreshments were served. A feature of the program were mandolin and piano selections by Mr. and Mrs. William Townsend, and a recitation by Alfred Willett.

These were the committees in charge: Refreshment—Mrs. T. R. Vanzandt, chairman; Mrs. F. P. Stoer, Mrs. Emma Lee Bartlett, Mrs. George Freidag, Mrs. Philip Vroom, Mrs. Charles Dutcher, Mrs. J. G. Pratzner, Mrs. H. A. Humbert, Mrs. Gunagan, Mrs. Werner Heidloff. Decorating—Mrs. A. T. Runyon, chairman; Mrs. David Krymer, Mrs. Charles H. Dollner, Mrs. M. Pann, Miss Stires. Badge—Mrs. Joseph Angerbauer, chairman; Mrs. Alburtus Swaim and Mrs. William Townsend.

"HELLO, CENTRAL! I WOULD LIKE TO HEAR 'KELLY.'"

Phonographic Music by Telephone a Popular Innovation.

Phonographic music, carried over the wires from central telephone exchange to the homes of the subscribers to this unique service, is a novelty tried out with such success in Wilmington, Del., that the idea may spread to other cities. Popular Mechanics tells how the service is arranged for.

"At the central telephone exchange is a music room which contains a number of phonographs, and an operating board to which the wires of the music subscribers are attached. Each subscriber to the music service is supplied with a special directory giving names and numbers of records. When music is desired the subscriber calls the music department on the telephone, asks for a certain record, and screws the horn piece into the audio operator plugs up a free phonograph to the line, slips on a record and starts the machine. At the conclusion of the piece the connection is pulled down, unless more records have been requested.

"When several subscribers call for the same piece all the wires can be connected to the one phonograph. The telephone company requires each musical subscriber to guarantee $18 per year. The rate of charge for the service is 3 cents for ordinary records and 7 cents for grand opera.

The Real Harbingers.

The jonquil
The jay
Are both at hand
Today.
As harbingers they duly hark,
Each in its own peculiar garb,
But we refuse
To sing,
We can't enthuse
On spring
Until the sycamores are green,
And one or two straw hats are seen.

A Mild Splurge.

"Wife, if business continues good"
"I can have a spring hat, can't I?"
"I was going to say that we would get little Johnny an Easter egg."

After the Quarrel.

"I asked him for my lock of hair."
"What then?"
"He sent me back enough locks of hair to make a beautiful set of puffs."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Dunellen is Growing.

The stork is busy at Dunellen. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Beek are the happy parents of a young son, and Mr. and Mrs. Willard R. Martin are rejoicing over the arrival of a young daughter.

HEARD KING PROCLAIMED

Former Plainfielder Also Saw George V. on His Way to Take Oath.

DESCRIBES HIS IMPRESSIONS.

Francis E. Powell Writes Graphically of Historic Incidents Following Death of Edward VII.

Charles S. Powell, of Mercer avenue, has received an interesting letter from his brother, Francis E. Powell, a director in the Anglo-American Oil Company, located at 22 Billiter street, London, in which there is a graphic description of the ceremonies attending the death of KiKing Edward, and the taking of the oath of allegiance by King George V.

Part of Mr. Powell's letter is quoted below: "On Saturday we went to St. James Palace and saw the new king drive out from Marlborough House to the garden entrance of St. James' where he held his levee. The office before the Privy Council. He was dressed in the uniform of an Admiral and looked, I thought, a little better than usual. He had only two attendants and no escort. A pretty incident was that of the appearance of the little princess at the window of Marlborough House just opposite where we were standing. They seemed greatly interested in the crowds and remained there for some time.

"After remaining there for an hour the king drove out by the garden exit and this time we saw him quite plainly. Just at that moment the artillery which had been firing the sixty-eight gun salute in memory of the dead king, went by on its way to Knightsbridge barracks. We then went around by the Ambassadors' gate and saw many of the dignitaries leave, among others Sir Samuel Evans. Lady Evans was not admitted, in fact, I do not think any of the ladies were at the ceremony.

"This morning we came to town and stood in the Quadrangle of St. James' Palace to see the proclamation of the new King read by the Garter King of Arms. There was a dense crowd. The roadway was lined with the famous Grenadier Guards and inside was a cordon of policemen. The colors of the Guards and Household Cavalry on hand were draped in black, while a troop of Horse Guards were stationed at the foot of St. James' completely blocking the road and approaches. Pall Mall was lined with troops, in fact, I understand that all the way to the city was lined with soldiers.

"Although we could not hear the proclamation read we saw the Royal Heralds and the fanfare of trumpets both before and after the ceremony. Following this came the 'God Save the King,' played by the band and every head in the great crowd was uncovered. A moment later through the crowd came the strains of the anthem, borne by many voices. The music was taken up by the crowd all around us. It was most impressive. The guns in the Park began to boom. There were a few cheers, but only a few as the crowd was most unruly and deferential."

"CHANTECLER'S" FAVOR IN PARIS CAUSES SURPRISE.

More than one surprise has been caused by the success of "Chantecler" with the Parisians. Not the least of these lies in the fact that, despite the ample opportunity which the play affords for introducing risque situations and lines, without which it has been more or less truthfully said Frenchmen cannot enjoy a play, "Chantecler," absolutely clean, has won out. It is about the only play now in Paris that has not some objectionable feature, yet all other plays are being neglected by the public for it.

Again, it has been affirmed that Parisians detest fantasy; and, to prove the truth of this, criticn point to the utter and discouraging failure of "Peter Pan," which last year was produced in Paris with winsome little Pauline Chase as Peter, says Leslie's Weekly. The delightful whimsicality of Barrie's fantasy bored the worldwise boulevardiers to distraction, although Paris enjoyed no end of laughs at the expense of the English, who like "Peter Pan" so much that the play has run in London for several years and is still on the boards.

It is to marvel, then, that "Chantecler, with its approach to clean pantomime in some acts and its philosophic sobriety in others, has caught the fancy of the erotic Parisians.

Papa Is Wise.

Stella—Know anything about the English budget?

Bella—Yes; pap says he won't buy me a lot till he knows where they are at.—New York Sun.

H. C. VanEmburgh Honored.

The township committee of Piscataway Township, and the township committee of South Bound Brook, have both selected H. C. VanEmburgh, of this city, as their township engineer.

SILZER FOR GOVERNOR BOOMED BY SULLIVAN

Democrats at Dinner Also Hear Nugent and Lippincott Tell What Should Be Done to Insure Party Victory.

Plainfield's Democracy fired its first gun of the 1910 campaign at the first annual dinner of the West End Democratic Club which was held at Hotel Kensington Wednesday. The fuse was ignited by Assemblyman Mark A. Sullivan, of Hudson, leader of the minority in the last Assembly, when that brilliant young orator declared that Senator George A. Silzer, of Middlesex, was the logical candidate for Gubernatorial honors next fall.

Assemblyman Sullivan's sentiments struck a popular chord among local Democrats and Silzer's candidacy was hailed with a spontaneous outburst of enthusiasm which lasted several minutes. The words that thrilled the banqueters were:

"The people did exactly what was right when they arose in 1892 and kicked the Democratic party out of power. The grafters, the dishonest men who carried the party to defeat in that year are not the dominating influence in the Democratic party today. To bring New Jersey back into the ranks of Democracy, the party must nominate a young man, one who is honest, and with red blood running through his veins.

"He must be a man of the stamp of Senator Silzer, he is the kind of a man we must nominate, a man who is not tainted with the old crowd and one who has made a record for himself in the State."

The dinner was a complete success and every chair around the table was occupied. The dining-room was adorned with American flags and music was furnished by Professor Meisner during the eating period. Calvin E. Brodhead, after being introduced by P. J. Reville, chairman of the committee, acted in the role of toastmaster. The speakers were James R. Nugent, of Newark, chairman of the State Democratic Committee; Senator George A. Silzer, of Middlesex; Assemblyman Mark A. Sullivan, of Hudson; Police Commissioner Job Lippincott, of Jersey City, and T. R. Russell, editor of the Evening Times of Elizabeth. Mayor H. Otto Wittpenn, of Jersey City, who was scheduled to make an address, was unable to attend. A telegram, however, was received from him, in which he expressed regrets at not being able to be present.

James E. Martine, Plainfield's favorite native son, loyal Democrat, and the hero of scores of political battles, was not on the program, but Democracy's old warrior, when he entered the dining hall, was greeted by a volley of applause, which eclipsed the greetings accorded to the other notables. It's really unusual not to hear "Farmer Jim" exhort at a Jeffersonian gathering, but he was heard when he moved that a vote of thanks be tendered to the visiting orators.

Mr. Nugent, the first speaker of the evening, confined his remarks chiefly to organization. The State chairman assumed an optimistic attitude and predicted a sweeping Democratic victory in the State at national fall. "I don't know what defeat is," said Mr. Nugent, "there is no such word as defeat to me. Democrats of the State two years ago chose me as their general, and I am going to ask all to follow me to victory next fall. The Democratic party of the State is entitled to the support of young men. If the young men will work in Plainfield their efforts will be crowned with success. Plainfield is not too Republican to be made Democratic. Newark ten years ago gave a Republican majority of 30,000 and afterward gave a 10,000 majority for the Democratic ticket."

Voting machines also came in for a bit of attention from Mr. Nugent. He contended that local Democrats were justified in protesting against the further use of voting machines. Without doubt, he said, they were unconstitutional. "Now," he said, "if you are not satisfied in the treatment received from the machine you are privileged to have the abuse obliterated by going to the courts. That is what the courts are for."

"Honest Elections and Good Government" was the theme of Senator Silzer, in which he directed considerable criticism against tactics used in the last Legislature by the Republicans. The Senator quite declared that the people of New Jersey hasn't had much good government in ten years. There is hardly a day passes that evidence of bad government doesn't crop out. A new phase of misgovernment is appearing every twenty-four hours, and almost every day, one department in the State is uncovering the other.

"But the people want change and there is going to be one next fall," added Mr. Silzer. "Here's a sample of Republican misrule and extravagance. When the Democrats were shorn of their power the annual expense in running the State government was $1,800,000, now it is $8,000,000 per annum. At the last session the Republicans "economized" by taking $540,000 from the public school monies, instead of taking it out of the pockets of the office holders."

*Mr. Silzer also reviewed the Demo*cratic record in the Legislature during the last session. In giving local Democrats a line of advice he said: "If the Democrats can prevent the purchase of votes in Plainfield at elections they will be surprised. If the Democratic party can get a square deal in the State this fall it will surely win. Get back to Jeffersonian principles. It's a good foundation. Organize the young men and consult with the old men for advice. There's a spirit of unrest all over the country. It means success. If we are successful let us keep up to all promises we shall make it our platform."

Assemblyman Mark Sullivan was accorded an enthusiastic greeting when introduced. He dwelt on doings in the Legislature in which he criticised the Republican committees for the alleged smothering of measures which would be of direct benefit to the people-at-large if passed.

"The Republicans smothered every decent bill that was introduced," declared Mr. Sullivan. Anything that is dishonest fears the light, and the darkest place to kill a bill is in committee.

"The dishonesty in the Republican party today," said the speaker, "is common knowledge. The dishonesty and graft in the Democratic party seventeen years ago. There is no such thing as a Republican or Democrat when it comes to stealing money, he is a criminal or he is an honest man. Let us organize for common decency and honesty." At this point Mr. Sullivan introduced the boom of Senator Silzer as the next candidate for Governor.

Police Commissioner Job Lippincott urged that all young Democrats organize for the impending campaign in the months to come, and Editor T. R. Russell gave an able talk on the tariff question.

The menu served by Proprietor Alexander Riley was an excellent one.

The committee in charge of the banquet was composed of P. J. Reville, chairman; Frank A. Shattle, secretary; Edward Fluck, treasurer; Thomas Monsell and John A. Connolly. The guests were:

F. M. Wagner, Charles Baker, Walter L. Wetfield, Chris Bock, John Whalen, J. Weinberger, Alex. Lusardo, H. Harkins, Thomas Walbridge, James McCann, Peter Galbraith, Thomas McGrath, Thomas Moore, John Moran, Lynus Walpole, G. W. Davis, F. G. Wikoff, F. J. Shattle, G. Meisner, Judson Todd, Ralph Mazy, John Harding, D. H. Galbraith, Jr., Joseph Mc Cabe, Jacob Schlick, W. E. Fullard, E. McCaffrey, William Hickey, A. Conway, Fred Kirch, Thomas Flynn, John Dorgan, Joseph Kennedy, M. J. Watson, E. C. Westcott, D. Courlan, T. J. Meany, John Connolly, John Caulfield, R. H. Shields, E. J. Carty, Hugh Sweeney, M. F. Elderton, John Hickey, Frank Cullen, W. B. Smith, Ed. Feiring, C. Walden, F. McCabe, C. E. Broadhead, Garret Broadhead, Mr. Broadhead, Mr. Smith, S. Fish, William Meisner, Robert C. Kelly, Edward Fluck, T. Nugent, August W. Jordan, L. Bray, Jr., Wilbur Schafer, Thomas Boyle, Thomas Monsell, Geo. E. Firstbrook, John Townsend, Mr. Crook, J. C. Callahan, J. P. Owens, J. J. Callahan, Walter Sharkey, P. H. Burns, L. J. Mc Cann, J. J. Mc Cann, Mr. Day, O'Keefe, John F. Connolly, P. J. Reville, Joseph Bourke, John Burrop, James Scott, Daniel J. Mack, J. J. Hines, Richard O'Neill, Arthur Fluck, Robert Skinner, Hugh Reilly, M. J. O'Keefe, John Geary, Thomas Kennedy, George Taylor, Ed. Larkin, George Ord, Maldin Watson, John J. Lynch, Thomas Newman, Frank Sheppard, Andrew McConnell, Robert Crane, William Willis, James Ennis, Clinton Shannon, Edward Killoran, W. J. Jenkins, E. S. Martin, Daniel Mack, Mr. Day, James R. Nugent, J. E. Martine, Mr. Teets, Hon. George Silzer, Hon. Job Lippincott, Mark A. Sullivan and T. R. Russell.

MR. KELLY SURPRISED ON HIS BIRTHDAY.

Robert Kelly, of East Front street, was tendered a surprise party Friday night in honor of his forty-ninth birthday. The affair was arranged by his daughter, Mrs. William J. Firstbrook, and was a success in every detail. Those present were present from this city, Newark, Elizabeth and Jersey City. Mrs. Firstbrook was assisted in arranging the celebration by Mrs. George McVoy.

Music and games furnished unlimited enjoyment for the guests. Mr. Stevens entertained with songs and dances. Edward Kelly rendered piano selections, duets were rendered by Mrs. Firstbrook and Mrs. McVoy, and Mrs. Edward Shearer rendered violin and piano solos. The interior of the parlor was decorated in red and white. At midnight refreshments were served.

—Constitutionalist's ads. pay.

CHANGE AIDS DETECTIVES

Cahill's Slayer Betrays Himself to the Newark Officials.

SOME TREASURE UNEARTHED.

Suspects in Other Black Hand Crimes Under Arrest—Gang Broken Up—No Threats of Violence Here.

What is probably the most amazing circumstance in the revelations Thursday surrounding the slaying of Patrick Cahill near New Market, ten days ago, was made public by the police Friday. It is an instance of where luck played into the hands of the authorities in a most unusual way.

The prisoner, Luigi Cirefice, as told in the Press, was arrested in the belief that he was a man wanted on suspicion of having been connected with the bomb outrages in the Second Newark Precinct. He supposed, however, that the police had discovered the killing and confessed all, telling how he concealed the body in the rear of the shack in which he lived on the road between New Market and Plainfield.

It now develops that in wrestling Cirefice Detectives Cordano and Tenore had mistaken him for the man they were really looking for in connection with the Newark case. Cirefice was entirely ignorant of any "Black Hand" crimes, and but for the "error" of the detectives the tragedy of New Market might never had been discovered.

The confession in which the detectives stumbled across the man, and the conditions under which he revealed the fact that a murder had been committed, all go to make up one of the most remarkable stories in local police annals.

The confession was made voluntarily to Detectives Cordano and Tenore, and was true in every detail, as was afterward found out by the police, who yesterday afternoon dug up the body of Cahill, whom the man had killed and buried in the night of May 11 in the shack on a lonely road near New Market. He had then, so he informed the two detectives, dragged the body to the back yard and buried it under some cornstalks.

According to Tenore and Cordano, when they came upon Cirefice Wed*nesday night he was leaving his* shack with a jug to go after cider.

"Come here, we want you," demanded the two officers, and in the usual police manner they started to inform Cirefice how they had it all on him, and that there was no use of his trying to wriggle out of it as he would only be punished more severely. However, the two detectives failed to state to the man what the crime was. It was a fortunate oversight on the part of the two of*ficers.*

Both were sure from the prisoner's manner that he was guilty of being implicated in the "Black Hand" outrages. They did not question him further, but started on their trip back to the station. While walking the tracks, Cirefice suddenly blurted out:

"Well, what would you do if a man came to your house at night, and broke open your door, and threatened to kill you if you did not give him money?"

"Kill him," promptly responded Tenore, not knowing what the man was talking about.

"Well, that's just what I did," responded Cirefice to the two amazed detectives.

Fearing to question him further lest they betray their ignorance of what he had revealed, the two detectives took him to the Second Precinct, and before Captain Brown, where he openly told of the details of the crime to the three.

Cirefice's confession was to the effect that Cahill had called at his house on the night of May 1, and knocked on the door, stating that he wanted some money.

The prisoner said that he refused to admit him, and the man then became angry and threw large stones against the door of the dwelling, which soon gave way. Believing Cahill meant to harm him, Cirefice declares, he took him on the side of head, and struck him with an axe. Becoming frightened at what he had done he dragged the body to the rear of the shack, buried it in the yard and threw cornstalks over it.

Chief Kiely and Detective Sergeant Fleming arrived at the scene of the disinterment in time to make effective witnesses in case their testimony should be needed. The Daily Press reporters were also on the ground and questioned some of the neighbors regarding the previous conduct of the self-confessed murderer.

Quite in keeping with the theory that Cirefice was the treasurer of the Black Hand are the revelations of the searchers yesterday afternoon. It was said this morning that sums of money of various denominations had been unearthed from different locations in the earth surrounding the shack in which Cirefice lived. The amounts thus recovered have not yet been made public, but it is believed that it is a considerable sum.

The finding of the treasure bears out the statement of the boy, John Pisetti, who while acting as interpreter for the census taker, noticed the digging up of money which he declared was divided between Cirefice and his two companions. The Newark police art hot on the trail of other conspirators in the Black Hand game and it is quite probable that the "system" will be put out of business in this State.

The recent disclosures of threats against residents in this city have not been borne out by circumstances, although the excitement has not entirely disappeared.

HIS WILL WAS NOT A WILL

Martin Brennan's Testament Looked Like One But It's No Good.

COURT REFUSES PROBATE.

Widow and Daughter Practically Cut Off—Victory Won for the Children by Craig A. Marsh.

Martin Brennan, of Dunellen, who died a few months ago thought that he left a will. The paper looked like a will; it was called a will; and it had the red seal and the subscribing witnesses and all the other formalities. But the Middlesex Orphans' Court has just decided that it is not Martin Brennan's will. The court says that the paper was the result of undue influence exerted by the executor who drew the will. The court, therefore, denies probate.

When the will was read after Mr. Brennan's death, it was found that it cut off one daughter and one son with only $100 each and the widow with $500, besides legacies of $25 each to some grandchildren, and left the bulk of the estate, estimated to be worth *over $5,000, to the fa*vorite son of the testator.

On the cross examination of the executor, it was brought out that the testator wanted to cut off his wife without a dollar, but the draftsman said he would not draw such a will and that the testator had to leave her one-third of his real estate. Later on the testator wanted to make the widow's share $300, but again the draftsman declined to draw the will. It took several interviews before the testator was willing to make the will the way the draftsman drew it right, and then the will was drawn and execu*ted with all the required formalities.*

Contestants' counsel argued that these facts proved that the will was the product of undue influence exerted by the dominating mind and will of the executor over the mind and will of the testator, and it was an answer to say that the executor was an honest man and acted with good motives. The court sustained this view and held the will to be invalid.

HERBERT HAND FINED FOR ASSAULTING BOY

Herbert Hand, son of Charles Hand, the real estate dealer of Warchung avenue, was fined ten dollars Saturday by City Judge William N. Runyon and twenty dollars Gorman, who was a passenger on a main line trolley car, and who was coupled with Hand in the complaint to the police, received a suspended sentence.

Herbert Hand, the young man who attempted to throttle twelve-year-old Benny Weintrob, presented a sorry sight when arraigned before Judge Runyon Saturday. His eyes were blackened and several cuts decorated his face. The story of the fight in which young Hand was worsted was graphically told by Mr. Rummel. He said that while passing through the city at about 5:30 he noticed a big fellow pound*ing the head of a little boy on the* sidewalk and thinking that the big fellow was more than enough for the prostrate boy decided in a flash to stop the cruelty.

Mr. Rummel also declared that when he interposed and attempted to stop the raging conflict, that young Hand picked him up bodily and attempted to strike him with a rock. "Then," Mr. Rummel said. "I struck the young man two or three times and made him desist. But after it was all over he came over where I was standing holding a rock in his hand, threatening to kill me with it I made him let the rock drop and I was ready to board the car when arrested."

Judge Runyon heard the stories of the boy who was assaulted, also the testimony of an eye witness and decided that young Hand was the aggressor and find him accordingly. The scrap arose over the loss of a dime which young Weintrob lost *while playing a game of mumblety*peg on the vacant lot opposite Hand's red estate office. Young Weintrob exhibited several black and blue marks which he claimed were due to the rough handling he received from Hand. Weintrob's father declared that the little fellow had been under treatment all night for his wounds and had been really ill from the mauling he received.

BIDS WERE RECEIVED FOR ROAD IMPROVEMENT

The road committee of the Union County Board of Freeholders met at the courthouse, Elizabeth, Tuesday to receive bids for macadamizing four different roads in the county—Lake avenue and Raritan road, two and a half miles in length; Palisade avenue and Madison Hill road, two and a half miles in length; Springfield avenue and Turkey road two miles in length, and Shanpike road, one and a half miles in length. There were five bidders, the McGovern Contracting Company, of Trenton; C. H. Winans, of Linden; Weldon Contracting Company, Rahway; Standard Bitulithic Company, of New York, and Bamberger & Chapman, of Newark.

County Engineer Frank J. Hubbard, of this city, had charge of preparing the specifications upon which the bids were received and he will *supervise the construction work dur*ing its progress.

These bids were received for the Lake avenue and Raritan road, according to different materials:

McGovern Contracting Company: Macadam and asphaltum binder, $41,105.80. C. H. Winans: Macadam and asphaltum binder, $29,236.08; Amiesite, $52,142.08; Warrenite, $51,666.08; Filbertine, $54,432.08; Headley binder, $42,104.08. Weldon Contracting Company: Macadam and asphaltum binder, $32,469.30; Amiesite, $41,073.30; Warrenite, $44,685.30; Headley binder, $31,620.30. Standard Bitulithic Company: Macadam and Warrenite binder, $46,635.60.

These bids were received for Palisade avenue and Madison Hill road: C. H. Winans: *Macadam and asphal*tum binder, $38,492.90; Amiesite, $51,761.90; Warrenite, $50,858.90; Filbertine, $53,365.90; Headley binder, $39,164.20. McGovern Contracting Company: Macadam and asphaltum binder, $39,164.20. Weldon Contracting Company: Macadam and asphaltum, $36,882.50; Amiesite, $39,219.51; Warrenite, $42,651.30; Headley binder, $33,041.70. Standard Bitulithic Company: Macadam and Warrenite, $44,463.80.

These bids were received for the Shunpike road: McGovern Contracting Company: Macadam and asphaltum binder, $43,555; C. H. Winans: Macadam and asphaltum binder, $41,421.49; Weldon Contracting Company: Macadam and asphaltum, $31,944.55; Amiesite, $37,332.60; Warrenite, $40,[illegible]2.76. Standard Bitulithic Company: Macadam and Warrenite, $47,192.52.

These bids were received for the Springfield avenue and Turkey road, McGovern Contracting Company: Macadam and asphaltum, $29,372; C. H. Winans: Macadam and asphaltum, $32,387.94; Amiesite, $43,179.14. Weldon Contracting Company; Macadam and asphaltum binder, $25,382.85; Amiesite, $31,741.95; Warrenite, $34,839.15; Headley binder, $27,209.85. Standard Bitulithic Company: Macadam and Warrenite, $34,303.60. Bamberger & Chapman: Macadam and asphaltum, $32,296; Amiesite, $35,093; Warrenite, $46,748.50; Filtertine, $52,493; Headley binder, $37,113.

SOMERSET FIELD CLUB DOWNS NEW MARKETS

The Somerset Field Club defeated the New Market nine in a close game at the Watchung park Friday by 6 to 5 yesterday afternoon. Bodine, the Watchung boy, did excellent work behind the bat for the boroughites and Lefty Townley, the N. P. H. S. twirler, pitched a fine article of ball. Force did Taylor's part performed in A No. 1 fashion. The score:

Somerset Field Club.

	R.	H.	E.
Krewson, lf	0	0	1
Walker, ss	0	2	0
Bailey, 3b	2	3	1
W. Taylor, 2b	1	1	0
G. Townley, p	1	1	0
Force, 1b	0	0	0
Wyckoff, rf	0	0	1
W. Townley, cf	0	0	1
C. Bodin, c	2	0	1
Totals	6	7	5

New Market.

	R.	H.	E.
Penrose, 1b	2	1	1
Nelson, 2b	1	1	1
E. Nelson, p	0	0	2
Brone, 3b	1	0	0
Randolph, rf	0	0	0
Randolph, cf	1	0	1
Sheahan, ss	0	1	1
VonMinden, c	0	0	0
Burdick, lf	0	0	1
Totals	5	3	5

Somerset	0	0	1	2	0	1	2	0	0	—6
New Market	0	0	3	1	0	0	0	0	1	—5

Revenge is a debt, in the paying of which the greatest knave is honest and sincere, and, so far as he is able, punctual. But there is a difference between a debt of revenge and every other debt. By paying our other debts we are equal with all mankind; but in refusing to pay a debt of revenge we are superior.

YOUNG AMERICA HEARS JAS. E. MARTINE ORATE

James E. Martine entertained the pupils of Stillman school Thursday with a speech about New Jersey, in which he told of its splendid position among the States of the union and its pre-eminence as a source of patriotism and its unfailing resources. Mr. Martine is never better at home than when dilating upon the virtues of Jersey, Jerseymen and the soil, and this morning was no exception to the rule. Upward of three hundred pupils gave the speaker their closest attention and greeted him with round after round of applause at the conclusion of the lecture.

Among the other interesting things which rivetted the attention of the pupils was the story of the first telegraph which Morse made here and the material from which the "Savannah," the first steamer to cross the Atlantic also came from the foundry of Alfred Vail at Morristown.

The sympathetic chord among young people was struck when Mr. Martine told of the prominent part taken by New Jersey in the early struggles of the patriots. He emphasized the fact that New Jersey was one of the original thirteen States to break away from the yoke of the oppressor, King George III, and said that our beautiful and productive State reminded him of a bag tied in the middle with a string while she sheds her bounties from both ends.

Referring to Puritan rights, conservation to countless which today occupy so much of the time of the thoughtful people of the country he urged the boys to think seriously on these things so that in days to come they would be able to look back and say that they had a hand in helping the State, the community and the nation to keep what God intended them to have for their children and their children's descendants.

Mr. Martine paid his respects to the suffragettes and what he termed their imaginary grievances; told the boys to be partisans for anything that was good and upheld the inspection of their own consciences and ended by thanking the pupils for their close attention. He referred to Julius Links, the president of the class for his introductory remarks and incidentally told of having trundled Master Links on his knee. The entire hour was voted as having been well spent by the pupils.

CONCERT AND EXHIBITION OF SEMINARY PUPILS

Seventeen musical numbers comprised the program offered by the pupils of the Misses Jennie May and Florence Nicholl at the Seminary Wednesday afternoon. The program was a varied one and introduced some of the most versatile pupils of the city. It was considered to have been the most recherche entertainment in the history of the school which aims to produce efficient and artistic pupils.

After the final number the guests, of which there were nearly a hundred, remained to inspect the sketches and water colors executed by the students and enjoy refreshments. This exhibit is one of which the teachers could be justly proud. Miss Mira Edson is in charge of the art department. Following is the musical program:

Ensemble, Grace Moore, Dorothy White, Julia Scribner, Marie Sill; Hantland, Consolation; An Play, Gurlitt; Bertha Tilney, Waltz, Gurlitt; Elizabeth Benson, Undismayed, Gurlitt; Dorothy White, In the Holy Loft, Dancing Daisies Fields, Mokrejs; Grace Moore, Dance Lightly, Norse Cradle Song, Gaynor; Julia Scribner, Boat Song, The Dance, Newcomb; Bertha Tilney, Catch Me, Lullaby, Gaynor; Marie Sill, In the Spring; The Brownies, Gaynor; Elizabeth Burke, March, Reinhold; Mazurka, Von Wilm; Katharine Sill, Barcarolle, Scharwenka; Elizabeth Benton, Dolly, Funeral, Tschaikowsky; The Nightingale, Kuliak; Augusta Burke From the Hills, Mokrejs; Bessie Jewett, Ghost in the Chimney, Kuliak; The Swallow, Burgmuller; Constance Harris, Il Penseroso, Heller; Wald Elfen, *Schytte; Miss Eleanor Hatch, Mo*ment Musical, Schubert; Polonaise, Bach-Paelton; Miss Dorothy Beaken, Reverie, Schutt; Minuet, Bach-McDowell.

Hammering the Billboards.

It is said that during a strike of the Billposters' Union a number of theatre managers made exclusive use of newspaper advertising to announce their attractions and found that they were drawing bigger houses during that period than when they were making free use of the billboards. Our theatres had hard times trying to abolish the billboard nuisance. Perhaps a general realization that billboards are unprofitable as well as unsightly would help a lot in having their use discontinued. —Success Magazine.

Constitutionalist ads. pay.

WANT MAYOR TO RESIGN

Sanford's Attitude in Equitable Land Co.'s Controversy Brings Forth Criticism.

DUNELLEN IS ALL STIRRED UP.

Board of Trade Pledges Its Support for the Establishment of a Public Library—Philanthropist to Aid.

Mayor William A. Sanford, of Dunellen, is in a peck of trouble, a result of the controversy between the Board of Trade and citizens of that place and the Equator Realty Company over the extension of Dunellen *avenue on a straight line from Madi*son avenue to Gallagher's Corner.

No surprise will be occasioned, it is reported, should the Mayor be asked to resign from office within the next week. At a committee meeting, which preceded the regular session of the Board of Trade Friday night, it was suggested that a petition be prepared and presented to the Mayor, asking for his resignation, but it was decided to lay the matter over until next week.

At the meeting last night the Board of Trade appointed a committee consisting of F. D. Baerman, George Sumner Smith and Wilson S. Frederick, to aid in the movement to have Dunellen avenue extended as intended. Unless the Realty Company change their present plans mandamus proceedings will be instituted in the courts.

F. D. Baerman, chairman of the committee, in a speech criticised Mayor Sanford for the attitude he has assumed in the matter. "Mayor Sanford," said Mr. Baerman, "has never done anything to advance improvements in Dunellen, and his only object in advocating bonding the borough for $10,000 for street improvements, was for the purpose of using the money to drain the *Sanford plot which was recently pur*chased by the Equator Company.

"While the Board of Trade," continued Mr. Baerman, "has made many suggestions and various lines of public improvements, Mayor Sanford has never lent a helping hand, although he is the creator of that organization."

It was announced at the meeting that a Dunellen philanthropist had recently announced his willingness to donate a substantial contribution toward the establishment of a Free Public Library in the town. A resolution was adopted by the board endorsing the idea and pledging its support.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF GEORGE GAYLE HELD

The funeral services of George Gayle were held at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon from the residence of his son, H. E. Gayle, on Vine street. Rev. John W. Brock, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, of which Mr. Gayle was a member for twenty-seven years, conducted the services. He spoke from the text, Hebrews 4: 9, "There remaineth therefore a rest to the people of God."

Pastor Brock spoke of the long Christian life of Mr. Gayle, of his devotion to his church and his long and faithful service as treasurer of the church, referring also the fact that he was very patient throughout his suffering. Mr. Brock concluded his remarks by reading two beautiful verses, "Servant of God, Well Done," by James Montgomery.

There were many beautiful tributes, including a wreath from a sister, Mrs. William J. Allen, of Philadelphia; also numerous bouquets and bunches of flowers from family relatives and friends.

The burial was in Hillside cemetery and the pall-bearers were Horace J. Martin, Sr., Philip A. Vroom and J. P. Laire, elders of Trinity Reformed church, and Frank Schack, Peter Doeringer and Michael Kohler, neighbors of Mr. Gayle.

NARROW ESCAPES FOR THESE TWO CHILDREN.

Two little coal pickers, Hazel Hanlanson and Albert Curry, of South Second street, have these lucky stars that they are not now being mourned over by their parents and friends. The two youngsters were caught between the fence palings on the Watchung avenue bridge at about 4 o'clock Friday evening when the 4:16 express passed through here going at sixty miles an hour.

The two colored boys were hemmed in between the fence rails and two trains. One going west and the express east. Rather than take a chance of being hurled into eternity they both laid down pressing their little bodies up against the outside rails and emerged unharmed from their predicament.

She—Tell me what is the difference between a ready-made tie and one you tie yourself.

He—Oh, about half an hour.

CONGRESSMAN MAKES A BITTER ATTACK ON U. S. SENATOR AND STATE TREASURER

"Unspeakable Impulse" of John Kean, "Political Poodle Dog," Held by the Hon. Charles N. Fowler Responsible for "Despicable Plot" to End His Self-Confessed Brilliant Political Career.

BRANDS F. H. SMITH AS "KEAN'S ECHOING PARROT BOSSLET."

Ackerman's Vote for State Treasurership, He Discovers, Was Bartered —His Former Lieutenant, Voorhees, and Kean Are the Men Who Swap the People's Votes as They Would Trade Hogs—Admits His Own Political Virtues.

In a six column statement issued Monday, which he entitles a "letter from Hon. Charles N. Fowler on Two Political Bosses Addressed to the Republicans of the Fifth district of New Jersey," Congressman Fowler bitterly attacked United States Senator John Kean and State Treasurer Daniel S. Voorhees. Incidently he scores Republican County Chairman Frank H. Smith; denounces the records of John Kean, lauds his own records and tells the voters who, in his opinion, would make fit candidates for the United States Senate.

First of all, Mr. Fowler charges a conspiracy with Speaker Cannon of the House of Representatives as one of the plotters. For the first time in many years, he says, State Treasurer Daniel S. Voorhees, Republican leader of Morris County, failed to make a New Year's call this year. To his amazement, Mr. Fowler goes on, he has seen the termination of an almost lifelong friendship with the present State Treasurer. It is charged that Voorhees was bound to the Kean machine by the delivery of the three Union county Assemblymen and Senator Ackerman of Union to him on the occasion of his re-election as State Treasurer in joint session of the last Legislature.

It is related that "Uncle Dan" Voorhees called upon Fowler in Washington two months or more ago and apparently the question of this Congressman Charles N. Fowler.

State Treasurership was discussed for Fowler says Voorhees said there was no other candidate for his office before the Republican Legislative caucus.

After leaving him, Mr. Fowler dramatically goes on to state, State Treasurer Voorhees during his Washington visit was "ushered into the presence of Cannon" and there "rivetted" to an agreement to put him (Fowler) out of business.

The New District Congressman pays his respects to Chairman Frank H. Smith, of the Union County Republican Committee. He says that Smith not long ago declared there was no opposition to Fowler, but that he had now "discovered" very serious opposition. County Chairman Smith is designated as the "me too political lapdog" of Senator Kean, and Senator Kean is declared to be the "me too" of Aldrich, with whom, Fowler says, the Jersey senior Senator voted 128 times during the consideration of the Payne-Aldrich tariff law.

If Senator Kean didn't have such a "fat checkbook," Mr. Fowler hazards the opinion that he couldn't be elected to anything. Votes have been secured by Kean, insinuates the ready letter writer, through his contributions to campaign funds of Republican candidates for Senate and Assembly. He suggests that if Hamilton F. Kean, the Senator's brother and political lieutenant, would lock up his check book Senator Kean will not be re-elected. Mr. Fowler says harsh things about the odor of the money outside interests will put up for Kean's campaign.

But Senator Kean will find this year, asserts the Congressman in his most vitriolic style, that he cannot deal in votes as he deals in gallons of water sold by his corporations and cubic feet of gas dispensed by his gas companies.

The cream of the Fowler letter follows:

Ever since I entered public life, from my first nomination down to the present despicable plot—the chief ambition of Senator Kean seems to have been to defeat me. For wat reason I do not know, unless it be envy, jealousy, hate, malice, or some other unspeakable impulse that is unworthy of any true man.

The present scheme is a simple and complete transaction—one boss trading the people of one country to another boss for the people of another country. But there has been one of the most amusing, interesting and suggestive incidents connected with deal that has come under my political observation.

It will be readily recalled that while nine months ago, in the opinion of certain people my political career was ended, very recently indeed, within the last three weeks, they all with one accord had announced that there would be no opposition to my renomination, apparently because they felt that public sentiment was strong, to me, not particularly on account of my opposition to Cannonism.

Again there seemed to be another reason for temporarily withdrawing their opposition to me and that was that under the particular circumstances it would be unwise; for their lord and master, Senator John Kean, was beginning to realize that his chances for succeeding himself were rapidly waning.

Almost simultaneously, Frank H. Smith, the Kean echoing parrot "bosslet" of Union county, who is always here or there—wherever the wind bloweth or Baleth, or the long green is ready for distribution—privately stated and publicly announced that there would be no opposition to me. And Daniel S. Voorhees declared in my office at Washington during the very last days of April that all candidates in the district now mentioned would disappear as usual before the convention arrived.

From my office Mr. Voorhees went to see Senator Kean, and Senator Kean took Mr. Voorhees to see Joseph G. Cannon. Presto, the scene changed. Senator Kean proceeded immediately to foreclose his mortgage on Voorhees, presumably at the dictation or suggestion of Cannon. This is the story of the crime up to date, so far as I can read and interpret the evidence.

A step over the boundary of the Fifth Congressional District into the State and note a fact or two.

Of all the subservient, truculent, literal "me-too's" and perfect cuckoos, of all the political poodle dogs the Senator Aldrich prized most highly, undoubtedly Senator Kean wears the blue ribbon. He never gets off the Aldrich reservation, right or wrong, and on the tariff bill gave 128 votes out of 129 to Mr. Aldrich, if my recollection is correct, rebelling only to insist that pork ponies should go on the free list.

If Senator Kean should lock up his political check book until after the election in November, lock it up even now, and his brother, Hamilton F. Kean, should lock up his political check book, too, even now, and Senator Kean should content himself with going about the State and trying to tell the people why he should be returned to the Senate, is there one single person in the whole State who honestly believes that Senator Kean would be re-elected? Then what a sad commentary the present practise and political immorality of the State are upon the intelligence, independence, self-respect and character of our citizenship, simply because the attention of the people has not been called to them and in a past made to outrage their sense of moral obligations as men, and civic duties as members of society.

Convinced from all the facts in the case that John Kean and Daniel S. Voorhees entered into a corrupt political deal, either expressed or implied in all its parts, I deem it my duty under the circumstances to state the facts and point out my position on several public questions for a more complete and perfect understanding between the people of the Fifth Congressional District and myself.

The corrupt contract which I have been compelled to conclude was entered into by John Kean and Daniel S. Voorhees was quadrilateral, or consisted of four distinct propositions.

One—Voorhees wanted to be elected State treasurer and therefore bargained for the four votes from Union County.

Two—John Kean wanted to cut my political career short, and therefore bargained for the delegates from Morris County to consummate this purpose by defeating my renomination.

Three—John Kean wanted to succeed himself as United States Senator, and therefore bargained that the Assemblymen and Senator from Morris County vote for him for United States Senator.

Four—John Kean was willing and anxious to pay the "freight," whatever it might amount to; in other words, to spend whatever money was necessary to be re-elected.

Part of the goods have been delivered—John Kean delivered the votes of Union County to Voorhees for State treasurer; and now the second act in the drama, the delivery of the Morris County delegates to anybody to beat Fowler, has been undertaken.

John Kean and Daniel S. Voorhees are place-mongers, pure and simple. They are office brokers. They are political merchants. But these two self-constituted proprietors of the voters of Union and Morris counties call themselves leaders. Leaders in what? In the moral growth, progress, advancement and elevation of the people, which is the very soul of our national life, must depend upon such leadership as theirs, God help the republic!

I challenge Senator Kean to name a single appointment made by him during the twelve years he has been in the United States Senate in which he has demanded, asked for, or even recognized the recommendation of any Republican organization.

I challenge him to name a single boy that he has recommended to the Military or Naval academies that has not been for the sole purpose of building up a personal political machine.

I challenge him to quote a single sentence that he has ever uttered, or a single paragraph that he will swear that he ever wrote, that will be worth the paper upon which he makes it public.

I charge him with having considered and treated the great office of United States Senator as private property, to be used and prostituted to his own personal political advantage, instead of a sacred political trust to be expended for the benefit of the whole people and the advancement of the Republican party organization, unless he claims that he is himself the Republican party.

It is a matter of no particular importance whom your choice for United States Senator may be this fall, if only you shall select him by your votes. You may vote for the Honorable J. Franklin Fort, Honorable John W. Griggs, Honorable Franklin Murphy, Honorable Edward C. Stokes, Honorable W. P. Martin, Honorable David Baird, Honorable John F. Dryden, Honorable William Barber, Honorable Jos. S. Frelinghuysen, Honorable James G. Blauvelt, Honorable Edmund B. Osborne, Honorable Franklin Murphy, Honorable Edward C. Stokes, Honorable W. P. Martin, Honorable David Baird, Honorable John F. Dryden, Honorable William Barber, Honorable Jos. S. Frelinghuysen, Honorable James G. Blauvelt, Honorable Edmund B. Osborne, or Honorable Franklin Murphy, Honorable Edward C. Stokes, Honorable W. P. Martin, Honorable David Baird, Honorable John F. Dryden, Honorable William Barber, Honorable Jos. S. Frelinghuysen, Honorable James G. Blauvelt, Honorable Edmund B. Osborne, Honorable Franklin Murphy, Honorable Edward C. Stokes, Honorable W. P. Martin, Honorable David Baird, Honorable John F. Dryden, Honorable William Barber, Honorable Jos. S. Frelinghuysen, Honorable James G. Blauvelt, Honorable Edmund B. Osborne, or Honorable Franklin Murphy, Honorable Edward C. Stokes, Honorable W. P. Martin, Honorable David Baird, Honorable John F. Dryden, Honorable William Barber, Honorable Jos. S. Frelinghuysen, Honorable James G. Blauvelt, Honorable Edmund B. Osborne,

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST

VOL. XLII — PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, JUNE 2, 1910. — NO. 22.

"Support the Constitution, which is the Cement of the Union, as well in its Limitations as in its Authorities."—Madison.

GOVERNORS MEDDLESOME

Senator Saxe Says Legislatures are Becoming Mere Rubber Stamps.

"While the people are looking to the executive to reflect the sentiment of the legislative branch of our system of government, the tendency today is for the executive not only to suggest the laws to be enacted, but to draft them, and the Legislature is becoming simply a rubber stamp." This was the declaration of Sen. Senator Martin Saxe, '93, of New York, at the annual smoker of the Princeton Club, of Plainfield, held at the Watchung Hunt Club last night.

"Legislation should originate in the Legislature," continued Senator Saxe. "Our government is still maintained by public opinion and should be properly expressed by a proper party. The executive should lead, but a question more or less agitated is to change our form of government, abolishing the legislative body. I don't believe that change will ever come, but we have got to improve the legislative branch.

"We expect the executive to recommend, but there it should end. The Legislature should do the work. I favor the English system of taking representatives from any locality and not the particular one in which they live. What we want are men of courage who will stand and work for a wider and larger policy of State."

In connection with his talk, Senator Saxe read an abstract from a speech of James Bryce, written twenty years ago, showing the tendency of the time which is applicable today so far as the executive and legislative branches of government are concerned.

"The Fighting Edge," so recently made famous by Roosevelt, was the keynote of the remarks made by William W. Roper, '02, head coach at Princeton, and he stirred every Princeton man present by his earnest words. He said that he wanted to see Princeton excel in everything, studies as well as athletics.

"I realize that studies are paramount, and that athletics have their place," said Mr. Roper. "First, I want to try and make Princeton win square and fair. In the past we have lacked system and I think the fault has been with the undergraduate body. The social spirit has crept in and has increased. The most important thing to many of the students has been 'what club do I get in?' Any club that interferes with Princeton activity must stand aside. The alumni association can prevent this and help to maintain the honor of the University. I do not believe for one minute that the true spirit of Princeton has degenerated, and I still believe that the Princeton man today is cleaner and better than any other college man. But there has been the wrong spirit, and we must pull for Princeton first, last and always."

About 10 o'clock a delegation of about a dozen men from the Princeton Club, of Orange, arrived in automobiles, and they were received with many cheers and the singing of college songs which was continued until late hour. Among the other speakers interspersing the song-fest were Kenneth Kirtland and George "Silver Tip" McCampbell, of Orange; Henry J. Cochran, James R. Blake, Dr. Ellis W. Hedges and Edward S. Patterson.

Professor Stockton Axson, who represented the Princeton faculty, was given a rousing reception by the Princeton men. He referred to the recent Wyman bequest to the University, the amount of which no one seemed to be actually sure about, but he believed that it would be at least $4,000,000. In his opinion this bequest would not only help to settle many differences that have existed at the University, but he had learned upon good authority that the famous Proctor gift would be renewed, that the graduate school would become a famous institution, liberally endowed with new chairs attracting men of prominence from all parts of the world.

The speaker said that he believed that in ten years Princeton would have one of the most able body of teachers of any university or college. He said that the standards are constantly being raised and the discipline is being tightened.

"The majority of the graduates today enter business," said Prof. Axson, "and the college man must recognize that fact, and become more of a unit. The other day Joe Cannon had something to say about the non-necessity of education, but this only tends to show that he is a little antiquated and out of place.

"What we need today is an intelligent citizenship and I believe that President Wilson has seen this thing more clearly than anyone else. I hope that the president and the faculty will get together and work together for the accomplishment of this object."

(Continued on page 4.)

RECEIVES $1,000 PURSE

Father Bogan, of St. Mary's Church, Surprised by Gift from Parishioners.

Little Rufus Larew may some day rival the late Sir Henry Irving if the promising histrionic ability shown last night on the stage of the Plainfield theatre has a chance to develop. Master Larew is a little genius. The entertainment was the final part of the celebration in honor of Rev. Bernard M. Bogan's silver jubilee and the theatre was packed to the doors. Pretty dances, tableaux, singing and an impressive lesson of love and devotion were the features unmistakably impressed upon the vast audience.

The whole spectacle will leave the happiest of memories with both pastor and people which will last for many years to come. Father Bogan's heart must have beaten with emotion at the splendid tribute to the love expressed in the tumultuous reception which he received at the hands of his parishioners.

Precisely at 8:15 the curtain arose on a scene of splendor. From little tots to the graduates, tier on tier of children in pink and blue and golden hue, bespangled with silver tinsel—three hundred in all—sang a chorus of welcome to the priest, sweet voices and rafters rang with the joyous echo. This was followed by a drill by thirty boys whose precision, cadet-like and accurate, spoke of days of preparation. The "Children's Tribute to the Silver Jubilee Day" was introduced by a "Silver Cycle Dance," a veritable revelation to the enthusiastic audience. Dance followed dance in bewildering galaxy—children trained to the moment pirouetted and glided to rythmic cadence of the inspiring music—and as each group fulfilled its part of the program, the children retired, banked against a scene of dazzling brilliancy, only to make a fitting setting for the "Charade Jubilee Acrostic"—a unique feature of the evening. Here are the names of those who took part in the Acrostic: Madeline Dorgan, Catherine Lynch, Elizabeth O'Connor, Mabel Jackson, Helen Kane, Margaret Higgins, Marie Whelan, Madeline McGuire, Dorothy Galbraith, Catherine McCue, Madeline McCann, Annie Deyine, Francis McCarthy, Helen Mack, Mary O'Keefe, Elizabeth Hagan, Marie Dorgan, Helen McCarthy and Bertha Frazier.

Here are the names of the dancers: Grace White, Sarah Doyle, Margaret McCarthy, Marion Kane, Gertrude Brown, Marie Brandt, Mary Mack, Helen Clarke, Anna Fosbre, Grace McKenna, Carl Schindewolf, Joseph Schuler, Charles Ward, George Ward, John Smith, Matthew Quinn, Joseph Griffen, Edwin Sullivan, Joseph Regan, Bernard O'Sullivan, William Clarkson, Edward Powelson, Robert Clarkson, and James White; Margaret McCarthy, Catherine Nolan, Jennie Quinn, Agnes Heffren, Elizabeth Schuck, Mary Wilson, Sarah Traynor, Agnes Phillips, Anna Sullivan, Margaret Keating, Martha Wearren, Mollie Traynor, Jane Higgins, May McAfee, Mary Smith and Lavina Fulmer. Mary Harrington, Margaret Powers, Lulu Regan, Margaret Regan, Mary Daly, Dorothy Feirig, Mary Miller, Margaret Markey, Helen Regan, Nora Regan, Margaret Strapp, Helen Bowers, Elizabeth Ellis, Catherine Honan, Catherine Fitzgerald, Elizabeth Brown, Florence Rust, Margaret Connor and Fours, of Pennsylvania. This road was also let in two sections, $23,610 and $29,985. The Bedminster road was secured by W. R. Moore, of that place, the contract figures being $17, 708.88.

The work in building the road from Watchung to Smalleytown will begin tomorrow morning. The freeholders went over the course today to may out bridge repairs needed on the thoroughfare.

Salvation Army Meeting.

Special service will be held at the Salvation Army tomorrow evening to be conducted by Colonel and Mrs. Margetts from the National headquarters, New York city. Colonel and Mrs. Margetts are prominent officers and have charge of the young people's work in the United States, and their visit to the local corps has been looked forward to with much expectation for some time and a large crowd is expected to hear them. The service will begin at 8 o'clock and a cordial welcome is extended to all to hear these interesting people speak and sing.

Board of Trade Meeting.

The regular June meeting of the Board of Trade will be held at the Board of Trade rooms, 109 Park avenue, tomorrow night, at 8 o'clock. James D. Clifford, of Brooklyn, will address the board on the subject of "Fire Departments." A large attendance is expected as it is claimed by some members of the board that the equipment of the city of Plainfield is not satisfactory.

(Continued on page 4.)

COLUMBUS CLUB BUILDING

New Edifice to Be Ready for Occupancy October 12 Next.

The new clubhouse for Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, will soon be a fact and one in which the members of that growing organization may naturally take pride. Property on West Front street, adjoining the First Baptist church, which formerly belonged to the Lindsay estate, has been secured and operations looking toward the remodeling of the property will be begun within a couple of weeks.

The present house on the premises will be entirely remodeled and will have ample accommodations for the prospective increase in the membership. The basement will contain the bowling alleys, billiard and pool tables and in the rear of these will be the dressing rooms and an up-to-date kitchen. An addition will be built of brick which will have a width of forty feet and will be one hundred feet in length.

On the floor above the basement will be the hall, 40x70, with an ample stage equipped with all modern appliances. Here there will be a balcony and retiring room for women which may be approached by way of staircases on either side of the hall. Above this on the next floor will be a parlor and smoking room and a large reception hall. On the second floor will be the card rooms and tables for games and other incidental features of a first-class club. The top floor will be occupied by the janitor of the club.

The name of the club will be "Columbus" and it is hoped that the new premises will be ready for the opening on October 12 next, Columbus Day.

The council was instituted in January, 1901, and these men have occupied the chair of Grand Knight: Jan J. O'Keefe, A. L. La Porte, A. A. Cannon, John J. Hines, Francis J. Blatz and H. P. Greenwood. The building committee under whose supervision the work will be completed are: A. A. Cannon, Theodore J. Shirley, M. D. O'Keefe, John J. Kenney, John C. Taylor, John T. Trainor and H. P. Greenwood.

The Knights of Columbus are now meeting at Columbus Hall, East Front street.

SOMERSET TO SPEND $162,644 ON ROADS

Road contracts to the extent of $162,644.25 were awarded by the Somerset County Board of Freeholders yesterday. The State pays for one third of the work and the townships ten per cent. It was announced at the meeting that the county would receive this year $30,000 for road repairs as its share of the automobile money.

Mobus and Burke, of this city, received a large bulk of the work. They received the contracts for the road from Watchung to Smalleytown, $39,187.75; the Liberty Corner and Far Hills road was let out in two sections, $27,296 and $17,215.72; the Chester road, $6,735.43.

The successful bidders for the Blackwell's Mills road were Sigafoos and Fours, of Pennsylvania. This road was also let in two sections, $23,610 and $29,985. The Bedminster road was secured by W. R. Moore, of that place, the contract figures being $17, 708.88.

The work in building the road from Watchung to Smalleytown will begin tomorrow morning. The freeholders went over the course today to may out bridge repairs needed on the thoroughfare.

Salvation Army Meeting.

Special service will be held at the Salvation Army tomorrow evening to be conducted by Colonel and Mrs. Margetts from the National headquarters, New York city. Colonel and Mrs. Margetts are prominent officers and have charge of the young people's work in the United States, and their visit to the local corps has been looked forward to with much expectation for some time and a large crowd is expected to hear them. The service will begin at 8 o'clock and a cordial welcome is extended to all to hear these interesting people speak and sing.

Board of Trade Meeting.

The regular June meeting of the Board of Trade will be held at the Board of Trade rooms, 109 Park avenue, tomorrow night, at 8 o'clock. James D. Clifford, of Brooklyn, will address the board on the subject of "Fire Departments." A large attendance is expected as it is claimed by some members of the board that the equipment of the city of Plainfield is not satisfactory.

AGED HOSTLER BEATEN; FUGMAN IS ARRESTED

On the complaint of Adolf Limon, a hostler employed at Hugo Maul's Hotel, Watchung, Peter Fugman, a brother-in-law of Mr. Maul, was arrested Monday night on a charge of assault and battery, and a hearing was fixed for Saturday morning at 9:30 o'clock. Winfield S. Angleman represents Mr. Limon.

The alleged assault took place Sunday night at the hotel, following an argument between the men as to the ownership of a lot of pigeons in the barn. Limon says that they had been pets of the complainant, it is said, but on Sunday night, it is alleged, he saw Fugman descending a ladder at the barn carrying a bagful of pigeons. Limon asked Fugman, it is said, what he had and where he was going, and according to Limon's story this angered Fugman, who immediately proceeded to strike and beat the latter.

The hostler's face presented a sorry appearance after his encounter. His eyes were practically closed for two days, one tooth was knocked out, his lips was cut, and his chest was so sore from the alleged beating that ever since he has been raising blood. Limon says that Fugman claimed that the pigeons belonged to the latter's wife.

Limon was treated by Dr. Albert Pitts, after which he went to Borough Police eHadquarters to make a complaint. He was informed that the borough had no jurisdiction. He then swore to a complaint before Justice Hughes at Watchung.

Limon is about sixty-five years old, and it is said, has always borne a good reputation. He has been employed at Maul's Hotel since August, 1906, and prior to that was employed at Pedeflous for nearly six years.

FIREWORKS' ORDINANCE UP IN COUNCIL TONIGHT

An amended fireworks' ordinance, said to be greatly modified over the original one, will be introduced at the special meeting of the Common Council, tonight. It is understood that Mayor Charles J. Fisk is behind that movement to secure the enactment of an ordinance which will give Plainfield a safe and sane Fourth" in some degree, as the ordinance adopted last year will not stand the test.

It is said that the new ordinance specifies the kind of fireworks to be sold and used on the Fourth and places some restrictions about the way the day is to be celebrated. Several other ordinances which were not presented at the last meeting, will probably be brought up tonight. One of these is an amendment to the dog ordinance. Another relates to street work.

COUNCILMAN'S SON WEDS AT ST. MARY'S.

Miles S. Wilson, son of Councilman W. W. Wilson, and Miss Ella Veronica Lappin, daughter of Mrs. Mary Lappin, of the Fourth street, were married this morning in St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock. Father B. M. Bogan celebrated a nuptial mass. A wedding breakfast followed the church ceremonies at which Father Bogan also presided.

The bride was attended by Miss Catharine Harding and Miss Mary Wilson, a sister of the groom, and the groom was attended by Martin J. McGinley, of New York, and David B. Doyle.

Mrs. Charles Dodge, of New Brunswick, sang with much expression Gounod's Ave Maria. The couple will spend their honeymoon in Washington, D. C., and on their return will reside on West Fourth street.

Twenty-six Years a Cop.

Thomas McCue, the veteran policeman, is receiving congratulations today from his associates and friends because he has just completed twenty-six years of service in the department. Doorman McCue has been ill for some time, but is rapidly improving.

Plainfield Normal Graduates.

Among the members of this year's graduating class at the State Normal School, Trenton, are the Misses Edna D. Doughty, Edith Ganun, Rose M. Nash and Rose E. Rothberg, of this city. The commencement exercises will be held on Thursday, June 16.

Miss Myra Donavan a Graduate.

It is Miss Myra Dunavan, and not "Miss Mira Donovan," as previously published, who is a member of the '10 graduating class of the Plainfield High School.

—Buick cars and all Buick business will be handled at 157 East Fourth street, Plainfield. Kent Bender, agent. 6 1 4

MACHINISTS MAY STRIKE

Unless Demands are Granted by Friday They Threaten to Quit.

Unless the local printing press manufacturers accede to the demands of the International Association of Machinists, District No. 47, for an increase in wages, by Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock, a strike will be declared in the shops. The action was approved at a meeting of District 47, in Newark, on Sunday, and the official sanction of the general executive board at Washington has been received.

The manufacturers have been notified of the intended action by registered letter. The shops affected here are those of the Walter Scott Printing Machine Company, the Potter Press Works and the Hall Printing Press Works; also the shop of Fuchs & Lang at Rutherford.

The demands of the association are a $3 rate for inside work and $4 for outside work with an allowance of $2.50 for expenses while on the road. This will mean an increase of between 10 and 15 per cent. Some of the men in the mentioned shops receive a $3 rate and a 10 per cent. increase is demanded for them. At present the average rate for the inside men is between $2.50 and $2.70 a day.

The association has been working on this matter about seven months and while other press manufacturers throughout the country have been granting the desired increase in wages no advance has been made in the local shops. Only a few days ago The Goss Company, of Chicago, granted a $3.50 rate for its inside men.

SCOTCH PLAINS PLANS A RIP-ROARING FOURTH

Scotch Plains is going to have one of those rip-roaring old fashioned Fourth of July celebrations. If you don't believe it, ask Phil Jahn. The village folk plan for a band concert, trap shooting contest, baseball game, bicycle races, track and field sports and dancing. What more do you want?

These are the committees:

Executive, George Harper, chairman; Philip Van Raensaalen Jahn, secretary; E. L. Hand, Chas. Fuchs, George Johnson, James Johnson, Philip Meyer, Andrew Bazon, Philip Jahn, Fancher, Henry Meyer, James Fitzgerald, Harry Flannery, Charles Eller, John Z. Hatfield and Samuel Hollingsworth.

Band concert, George Harper, Philip VanR. Jahn; trap shooting, James Johnson, Philip Jahn; bicycle races, Andrew Bozack, Edwin Fancher; fireworks, George Harper, Samuel Hollingsworth; baseball, Edwin Fancher, E. L. Hand; dancing, the Bachelors' Club; athletics, E. L. Hand, Samuel Hollingsworth; contributions, George Harper, George Johnson, E. L. Hand, J. Z. Hatfield.

Charles Callahan Arrested.

While patrolling his beat this morning at 2 o'clock Officer Meyers discovered a man lying near the bridge on Grove street just this side of the brook. Alongside the prostrate figure was a revolver which had apparently fallen from the man's pocket. Later he was identified as Michael Young from Watchung and he appeared to be dazed and unable to give an account of his predicament. Charles Callahan, who was seen in his company at about 11 o'clock at night was later apprehended by Patrolman Flatley. Callahan was turned over to the North Plainfield police this morning.

Plainfield Graduates at Stevens.

Among those who received degrees at the thirty-eighth annual commencement exercises of Stevens Institute yesterday were David Napier Manger and Daniel Duclos Van Mater, of this city. The Cyrus J. Lawrence prizes of $50 and $25, for the members of the senior class showing the greatest activity for the betterment of the class and college, aside from recitation work were awarded to Mr. Mauger, of this city, and Charles M. Cunningham, of Paterson.

Gave a Dinner Party.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fincke, of South avenue, entertained a number of friends at dinner on Memorial Day. Covers were laid for fifteen. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. John Curley and Miss Elisabeth Curley, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Westervelt, Allen and Stewart Westervelt and Miss Marie Hacker, of Newark; Mr. and Mrs. W. Verschurr, of Canada, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Leveridge.

MRS. J. R. TRUELL DEAD

Proprietress of Truell Hall, Inn and Court Passes Away.

Mrs. John R. Truell, owner and manager of Truell Hall, Truell Inn and Truell Court, which resorts were conducted by her for many years, died at her home in Truell Hall late yesterday afternoon. For a year she made a gallant fight against failing health, but the best of medical skill proved of no avail.

Mrs. Truell was born May 15, 1842, in County Roscommon, Ireland, coming to America when a child. She had never revisited the place of her birth until last summer, when, with her husband, she went to her old home and had a delightful visit with her few living relatives. Soon after coming to this country she was taken into the home of Jonathan Maxson, of Westerly, R. I., father of Dr. Henry M. Maxson, superintendent of the Plainfield Public Schools. Here she lived until her marriage with Captain Henry R. Jennings, of the 21st Regiment, Connecticut Volunteers, when she was seventeen years of age. Her maiden name was Rose B. Fallon.

During her husband's service in the Civil War, Mrs. Truell spent much time with the army at the front, becoming greatly endeared by her voluntary administrations to the soldiers in the camp and the hospitals, finally returning home with the body of her husband who died in the service. These experiences made devotion to the army one of the passions of her life. She was a constant attendant at the great reunions of the veterans, becoming widely known to the members of the Grand Army of the Republic.

In 1878 she married John R. Truell, of Lawrence, Mass., and in 1883 took up her home in Plainfield. Mrs. Truell was a woman of unusual executive ability in business. During her widowhood she gained a wide experience in various commercial enterprises, rising to one of the highest positions in the establishment of Field & Leiter, of Chicago. Her commercial instincts led her to start a model boarding-house on Madison avenue which she extended in time until it reached around Fourth street and through New street. This family boarding-house she named Truell Court. She appeared to develop real genius for inn-keeping which led her later to take over the old Park Avenue Hotel. With its unsuccessful career, she transformed it into a successful family hotel and filled it with guests, naming the resort Truell Inn.

About four years ago, Mrs. Truell took charge of the old Netherwood Hotel and refitting and remodelling it, named the place Truell Hall, making the place an attractive, high-grade hotel, open throughout the year. Throughout her hotel career Mrs. Truell tried to make her guests her friends. Her ambition was to make them happy and comfortable.

Mrs. Truell had a large and generous heart and there were but few public enterprises that did not receive her support. No one in need was turned from her door. She enjoyed a wide acquainance and was generally esteemed.

Mrs. Truell is survived by her husband, one daughter, Mrs. Violet Truell-Johnson; two brothers, Thos. and Andrew Fallon, and one sister; also by five grandchildren, the two children of Mrs. Johnson and the three children of her older daughter who was the wife of Franklin Butler, of Lawrence, Mass.

The funeral services will be held from the Seventh-Day Baptist church, of which she was a devout member, Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Mrs. Catharine McCarthy.

The death of Mrs. Catharine McCarthy, wife of Owen McCarthy, which occurred this morning came as a shock to a wide circle of her friends. Mrs. McCarthy was in her seventieth year and had lived for some years at 963 South Second street. She is survived by four children. Charles J. and Catharine McCarthy, of this city, and Mrs. Mary Lippitt and Mrs. Margaret Beasey, both of New London, Conn. The interment will take place in New London. The funeral services will be announced later.

Cost $5 to Throw Stones.

William Peel, seventeen years old, of Washington street, was arraigned before Judge William N. Runyon this morning by Railroad Detective Regan on a charge of malicious mischief, and was fined five dollars. The offense consisted of throwing stones at the glass insulators on the railroad company's wires in the local yards.

Harry Nash, of DeLacy avenue, has gone to Washington.

ON TRIAL FOR HIS LIFE

Young Buckley Faces the Charge Murdering Mrs. Fred V. Covely.

John V. Buckley, the alleged murderer of Mrs. Fred V. Covely, was arraigned before a jury in the Somerset county court this morning with Judge Parker on the bench.

Alvah H. Clark represented the defence with Robert Newton Crane as his assistant. Prosecutor Pope opened the case for the State detailing the crime and saying he would ask the jury to render a verdict of murder in the first degree. Walter Richardson was the first witness called and produced a diagram which was marked as an exhibit in the case. Alfred Fritch, George B. Alling, John Y. Barrett, street commissioner of North Plainfield; Emil Compton, all testified to the circumstances of the finding of the body and the story of the crime as they knew it, and at 2:30 o'clock Theodore Englund, a driver for Henry Nischwitz from whom Buckley got a ride, was still on the stand.

A delay of half an hour marked the opening of court owing to the non-appearance of former Congressman Alvah A. Clark, whom it was reported had withdrawn abruptly from the case. After a walt Judge Parker dispatched a messenger to Mr. Clark's office with the result that the latter reached court at 10:30 o'clock.

John V. Buckley was brought in the court room by Detective Totten. He presented a dapper appearance, attired in gray coat and light trousers. Many of the spectators believed him to be a young lawyer instead of a self-confessed murderer.

Buckley's hair was neatly combed and he appeared considerably heavier than when placed under arrest for the crime on April 21. Buckley failed to exhibit any signs of nervousness but on the contrary he appeared interested in the proceedings.

During the delay before selecting the jury Buckley smiled and nodded to acquaintances in the courtroom.

The youth of the prisoner and the cold blooded nature of the crime attracted a large crowd including a large representation of North Plainfield citizens. The spectator included scores of women who occupied seats in the main room and in the galleries. James Moore, a brother of the murdered woman, was also among the spectators.

The task of selecting the jury occupied fifty minutes. The foreman is Howard F. Snyder, of Somerville, a young man who bears a resemblance to the prisoner in size and looks. The other jurors are Martin Jenning, Warren township; Harry J. Brokaw, Bridgewater; Austin Wright, Bernards; Peter S. Terhune, Montgomery; John Hulick, Bedminster; Andrew B. Corzine, Franklin; Chris Conover, Bridgewater; Robert Garrabrant, Bernards; A. V. D. Williamson, Hillsboro; James Flynn, Branchburg; Harmon P. Sutton.

Judge Parker's charge to the jury was brief and recess was taken at 11:30 o'clock to 1 o'clock.

Lawyer Crane expressed himself as highly satisfied with the jury. In the makeup of the body are seven farmers, two blacksmiths and one retired merchant. In completing the jury the defense made nineteen challenges.

Simon Mantz, of North Plainfield, was acceptable as a member of the jury, but he was challenged by the State. Charles Lyman was also challenged by the State.

Gave a Luncheon.

Mrs. Charles H. Leveridge, of 432 Spooner avenue, gave an informal luncheon to a small number of relatives and friends yesterday afternoon at her home on Spooner avenue. Covers were laid for ten. Among those present were Mrs. Walter Leveridge and daughter, Miss Dorothy Leveridge, of Brooklyn; Mrs. John Curley and Miss Elizabeth Curley, of Newark; Mrs. Isabelle Harradon, Mrs. Edward Fincke and Mrs. Charles H. Leveridge, of this city.

Waldron Case Postponed.

At the request of Walter Hetfield, this morning counsel for Michael Crowley and Robert Wallace, of the West End, the charges against the two men for alleged assault will be heard next Wednesday. The postponement was made to permit of the subpoening of other witnesses in the case. John Waldron, also of the West End, is the complainant.

—Use Press Want ads. They pay.

—Neuman Brothers for tomorrow's trade will have Jersey strawberries, asparagus, peas, beans, lettuce, new beets, cauliflower, carrots and in fact everything seasonable in vegetables.

COMMON COUNCIL RAKED

Over one hundred men, including Chairman George W. V. Moy and Secretary Zerega answered the call to a meeting of voters held Friday in the Young Men's Christian Association hall to protest against the action of the Common Council in refusing to call a special election on the matter of voting machines. Speeches by Mr. Moy, James E. Martine, Winfield S. Angleman, Walter L. Hetfield Sr., and others led to the adoption of the following resolution, which was introduced by Mr. Martine:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this meeting that we respectfully urge the Common Council of this city that they reconsider the action taken by their body in refusing to call an election according to statute, Laws of 1908, Chapter 163, page 266."

The resolution was adopted unanimously.

Mr. Moy in calling the meeting to order explained the object of it and among other things declared that our laws were made for a purpose and not to be ignored. He said there can be no constitutional limitation arising out of a condition which the Legislature may remove.

"If the Legislature has the power to create it must also have the power to control, and the attitude of the Common Council deserves some consideration at our hands," Mr. Moy also referred to the action taken by the Common Council in the matter of a safe and sane Fourth of July, without wasting any compliments on those resounible for the deferred ordinance.

Mr. Martine's speech was full of vigor. He declared the voting machine to be a contrivance made for the special purpose of preventing the voters depositing their own ballot. He would be glad to see the "Little King of Plainfield" taught that the people have rights which even the king must respect.

A lively tilt ensued between Robert Newton Crane and Mr. Martine, when the former took issue with Mr. Martine on some of his allegations of Mr. Marsh's official opinions. Mr. Crane's defense of the corporation counsel was a splendid effort, but Mr. Martine's had the crowd with him.

In order that a fair discussion of the action by the Common Council might be had and that its action might be defended, Mr. Stevens, on Dunellen, suggested that the body be represented in the argument by a member, but unfortunately none of the city fathers was present.

The general impression was given by the tone of the speakers that the Common Council will be forced to order a special election to let the voters decide, as is their privilege and right, whether the voting machine shall be kept in use in the four districts of the city.

EAST ORANGE OFFICIALS FETE MANAGERS GUESTS

Mayor Charles J. Fisk, together with George P. Mellick, Harry W. Marshall and Joseph W. Gavett, comprising the local Playground Commission, entertained Mayor William Cardwell and other officials of East Orange, at the Old Day Pageant, Friday. The visitors arrived in the six automobiles about 6 o'clock, and were entertained at dinner at Truell's Inn, before going to the entertainment in the City Park.

The visitors from East Orange included Mayor William Cardwell, Thomas R. Crerde, president; Joseph P. Schiller and Edward E. Reed, playground commissioners; Councilmen Joseph Leonard Merrill, Joseph Lee, Frank Bancroft, Harry J. Burr; members of Board of Education, Charles P. Titus, Robert M. Crater; and Frank E. Blake; City Engineer Frederic A. Reimer; David L. Pierson, city editor of The Daily Chronicle, and Lincoln E. Rowley, city clerk.

In addition to the above the Plainfielders at the dinner were Mayor Charles J. Fisk, George P. Mellick, Harry W. Marshall, A. J. Gavett, Herbert E. Parker, W. H. P. Veysey, Stephen J. Voorhees and G. Stuart Simons.

Speeches were made by the two Mayors, also Messrs. Mellick, Rowley, Merrill and Titus. The visitors thanked the Plainfielders for their hospitality and they were also loud in their praise of the May Day Pageant. The East Orange people are very enthusiastic over the playground proposition and commended the action of Plainfield.

The Motor Races.

"Have you opened the door of the temporary hospital?"

"Yes."

"Is the ambulance corps scattered along the course?"

"Yes."

"Are the stretcher men in line?"

"Yes."

"And the first aid men waiting?"

"Yes."

"And the special wire to the Coroner's office working?"

"Yes."

"Then let the races begin."

FACULTY TRIUMPH OVER THE SENIORS

A mixed team of janitors, students, professors, algebra experts and science instructors, representing the Plainfield High Faculty, defeated the Seniors in the annual baseball contest on Crescent Oval yesterday afternoon by the score of 7 to 5. The contest was witnessed by a good sized crowd of school teachers and boy and girl students.

The lolly-pop merchant did a rushing business as about every representative of the schools indulged in these sticked sweets. The camera brigade was also in evidence and the modest diamond artists were embarrassed on several occasions by being obliged to pose in battle array. In connection with the picture taking feature it is supposed that Commander-in-Chief Lindsley Best of the Faculty aggregation submitted to the snap-shooting torture at least on three times. There were five official scorers doing duty on the bench including "Obituary Jack" Nicol, but none of the photo experts came there way.

There was little science connected with the contest although there was some class to the encouraging cheer yells that were furnished for the occasion by the teacher's brigade.

There were bunches of loose plays and there were also some fancy work executed.

It was the first time in the baseball history of the school that the faculty triumphed over the Seniors, 'tis said.

There is no guessing where the educators would have finished in the contest had it not been for the superb work contributed by the janitorial pair, Ben Evans, who covered second, and George Broadbent, who played shortstop. The janitors carried off all honors in the bingling department with three hits each. They also fielded in splendid style.

Professors Bostwick and Hubbard, may we suppose, were the two atmosphere punchers in the cast. Each hammered the air in terrific style three times, to the great joy of Miller, the red sweatered slab artist of the Seniors. Harry Brick, at second base, starred for the latter aggregation. To his credit in the fielding line and looked strong enough for a position on the P. H. S. nine.

The Faculty held the upper hand all through the game. "Shake" Clark held the Seniors in fine style for seven innings, when Lindley Best assumed the mouth. The Seniors looked like winners in the ninth when Best passed three men and allowed three bingles but the Goddess of Luck smiled sweetly on Best from the horizon and he succeeded in retiring the Seniors after three runs came across the plate. The score:

Faculty.

	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.
Best, 1b-p	2	1	11	2	0
Van Zandt, c	2	1	11	4	1
Clarke, p-1b	0	1	1	4	0
Evans, 2b	1	3	1	1	3
Broadbent, ss	0	1	2	3	0
Hubbard, lf	1	0	0	0	0
Riffert, 3b	1	0	2	2	0
Bostwick, cf	0	1	0	0	0
Howe, rf	0	0	0	0	0
	7	10	27	15	1

Seniors.

	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.
Miller, p	0	0	0	2	0
Runyon, c	1	1	10	2	2
Ricketts, 3b	1	1	2	1	0
Overton, 1b	1	1	5	0	1
Hamilton, ss	1	1	1	3	1
Brick, 2b	0	1	2	5	0
Loizeaux, c	1	1	1	0	0
Bullock, lf	0	0	1	0	1
Putnam, lf	0	0	1	0	0
Earle, rf	0	0	0	0	0
Hovey, rf	0	0	0	0	0
	5	7	24	13	5

Faculty ..... 0 1 0 1 1 0 2 2 x — 7
Seniors ..... 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 1 3 — 5

Two-base hits—Brock, Loizeaux. Stolen bases—Best, Hubbard, Riffert, Overton, Hamilton, Loizeaux. Struck out—By Clark, 7; by Best, 2; by Miller, 2. Base on balls—Off Clark, 3; off Miller, 3. Balks—Miller, 2. Hit by pitcher—Evans. Passed ball—Van Zandt. Umpires—Beals and Line.

MOTHER GOOSE TABLEAUX GIVEN BY A GIRLS' CLUB.

A large audience enjoyed a novel entertainment by the Girls' Club of St. Stephen's church Thursday in which several of the young women posed in tableaux from "Mother Goose." The ten numbers of the program were received with applause particularly the series of four representations of the "Mistletoe Boughs." After the entertainment dancing continued until midnight.

The overture by Suhr's orchestra was followed by the Mother Goose tableaux. Miss Ida Agnar made a hit as "Mary Quite Contrary," following which songs by Miss Pearl Evans, advertising novelties, posed by the girls and one boy, made the audience laugh heartily.

Miss Eleanor Vollmer, Mr. Van Auken and "Kelley" contributed in no small measure to the evening's entertainment. To Miss Clara Davison is due in large measure the success of the performance.

—Constitutionalist's ads. pay.

MOVEMENT FOR PUBLIC PLAYGROUNDS IN BORO

The necessity of public parks in the borough was the keynote of the meeting of the North Plainfield Association held in the Borough Council Chamber Thursday. David J. Carney began the discussion, by offering a suggestion that the association make an effort to acquire certain sites within the borough limits that are adapted for "breathing spots" for poor children. He mentioned a plot of land owned by the Curry estate on Brook avenue and a site along Stony Brook on Grove street and Greenbrook road. The two suggested locations were considered, and following an informal discussion, President Alex. Milne appointed Mr. Carney chairman of the committee to investigate the situation, and was empowered to appoint two associates on the committee.

Professor B. J. Phelps, of the North Plainfield High School, secretary of the association, was among those who spoke in favor of the establishment of parks and ball grounds for high school boys. "A ball ground is a safeguard for a community," declared Professor Phelps. "It is better to have boys playing ball than to have them standing on street corners in front of pool rooms and other similar places.

"I think the matter should be considered seriously by the association, continued Mr. Phelps. "A baseball team has a great bearing on the spirit of a school, a great bearing on a school and a school that slights athletics is not a school."

Councilman William L. Smalley in a discussion along the line of the necessity of parks suggested that the opening up of Albert street to Greenbrook road would be a move in this direction, and he and Meredith Dryden were appointed a committee to look into the matter.

Former Councilman James K. Arnold advised the extension of Myrtle avenue, from West End avenue to Dunellen avenue, holding that it would be a big improvement to the borough. Councilman Smalley was appointed as chairman of the committee to investigate the feasibility of this projected improvement.

The municipal ownership of a water plant by the borough was touched on and the association voted to co-operate with the Borough Council as to whether it was advisable to take up the matter. Secretary Phelps was authorized to communicate with J. J. Stahl, chairman of the water committee, urging cooperation in the matter.

David J. Carney, chairman of the banquet committee, presented a report showing that the association netted a profit of $60 on the banquet held on April 28. A vote of thanks was extended to the committee.

Rev. Joseph O. McKelvey made some remarks favoring public parks.

SAW THE HALLEY COMET SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO.

While scores of New Market residents are skeptical on the Halley Comet craze, George Larkin, aged eighty-three years, who resides near that village, entertains the belief that scientists are correct and that the comet will appear in the skies in due time.

In conversation with a Daily Press reporter Mr. Larkin declared that he saw the comet seventy-five years ago, when he was a lad of eight years. He related the incident when his father awakened the household one morning about 3 o'clock and he and the other members of the family witnessed the comet whisk its tail through the skies.

Appleton—Miller.

Announcement is made of the approaching marriage of Rev. Floyd Appleton and Miss Mildred E. Miller, daughter of Dr. Francis H. Miller, of East Side Park. Mr. Appleton is rector of St. Clemens' Protestant Episcopal church, East New York. The ceremony will take place on Wednesday, June 15. He was the assistant of the late Rev. E. M. Rodman, of Grace church a number of years ago. He has many friends in this city.

HOLY CROSS CHOIR IS HEARD TO ADVANTAGE

Holy Cross choir in one of the best of the five concerts given by the mheld up their reputation Thursday before one of the best audiences ever assembled in the parish house. After the singing of Molloy's "Song of the Triton" the listeners were ready for a special treat —and they were not disappointed. What could have been sweeter than "Ma Curly Headed Baby" when Miss Lorke made everybody think they were among the cradle. And what could be better than the "Song of the Vikings," which ended the entertainment?

Will S. O'Brien, the organist of the church, has reason to be proud of his young singers. Interpretations of songs by Pinsuti and the Beriot such as those rendered last night are not often heard in Plainfield and more the reason why discriminating music lovers should prefer the songs of youth rather than the lisping, halted notes of those who depend upon the present day ragtime songs and dances for entertainment.

Mr. Ball's coster songs delighted the audience and many of those present would have been glad to have had them repeated. The work of the choir was admirable. Mr. Scanlon's contributions were heartily received and deservedly so. The concert was a success from every standpoint.

UNITY LODGE, K. OF P. ENTERTAINS VISITORS

On invitation of Unity Lodge, No. 102, K. of P., the third rank Inititory team of Harmony Lodge, of Elizabeth, visited the local lodge Thursday and conferred the third rank on two candidates.

There were more than one hundred Knights present, including Past Grand Chancellor John Ulrich, of this city; Grand Prelate W. D. Quick and Deputy Grand Chancellor Mossburger, of Somerville; also delegations from Bound Brook, Rahway, Cranford, Elizabeth and High Bridge. The visiting officers made speeches after the initiatory work. Samuel Rothberg, chancellor commander of Unity, was master of ceremonies. One proposition was received for membership.

After the session there was a social time and refreshments were served and a smoker enjoyed. The entertainment committee comprised Samuel Rothberg, chairman; Horace J. Martin, Sr., Jeremiah Van-Winkle, A. E. Causbrook, James D. Anderson and Frank Putnam.

Frank Putnam on May 19 completed the twenty-fourth year of his membership in Unity Lodge, and on May 9 his eighteenth consecutive year as keeper of records and seal. During the social hour there was vocal and instrumental music.

A Cheery Nature.

The Mohammedan bandit looked up and beheld a caravan approaching.

"Ha!" he cried, "the gentle spring is here!"

"How do you know?" inquired his trusted lieutenant.

"I see the first robbin'!"

Then he chuckled within his beard murmuring, "And yet they say I have not a gentle, fun-loving disposition!"

"Touch one hair of that lady's head and you will answer with your life!" said the hero, striking a perfectly defenseless attitude.

"Gee!" hissed the villian, "and a new set of puffs would only cost $7. Why go to extremes."—Cleveland Leader.

ENDEAVORERS CONDUCT A PATRIOTIC EXCURSION

Under the auspices of the social committee of the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church an entertainment called a "Patriotic Excursion," was held in the lecture room of the church Thursday. The young people selected partners for a trip on an imaginary train destined from "Plainfield to Pleasantville," and three minutes were allowed to elapse between stations. Frederick Soper, as "Uncle Sam," was the conductor. During the three minute intervals between stations there was a discussion of the following subjects:

Halley's Comet, Was Jackson's Administration a Benefit to the Country, Would the Consolidation of Plainfield and North Plainfield be a Benefit? Should Summer Flirtations be Encouraged, How Did You Spend Your Most Pleasant Vacation, Are Men More Extravagant Than Women, Discuss the Best Generals of the Civil War, Is the World Growing Better or Worse, How Can a Christian Endeavor Society Be a Benefit to a Church, and Why is a Man Like a Shoe? In response to the last question, Miss May Randolph read a clever poem.

Upon the arrival of the passengers at Pleasantville, the party enjoyed two or three fine tableaux; also a clever sketch entitled "Washington's Dream," written by Miss Marie Hahn, who also took the part of "Molly Pitcher." The dialogue was especially good and was filled with patriotism. The participants were all in costume. Those representing the characters were: "Washington," Alfred W. Dunavan; "Betsy Ross," Miss Minnie Hahn; "Mrs. Griswold," Miss Elsie Dunavan; "Mrs. Pond," Miss Myra Dunavan; "Martha Washington," Miss Edna Cole; "Mary Knight," Miss Edna Dilts; "Emily Geiger," Miss Harriet Randall; "Molly Pitcher," Miss Marie Hahn. At the close of this Miss Etta Raybert sang, "Love's Old Sweet Song," accompanied on the piano by Ida Randolph-Smalley.

Then followed two tableaux, the first being "The Spirit of 1776, those taking part being William Bellerjeau, Russell Doeringer and Elmer Gayle, and the second was "The Spirit of 1996," in which Miss Harriet Randall, Miss May Randolph, Mrs. William Krimey and Elmer Gayle took part.

Afterward a fishing game was enjoyed, the young people fishing for partners before refreshments were served. This afforded lots of fun, an improvised fishing pond being arranged for the occasion. The refreshments comprised sandwiches, cake and lemonade. A feature of the evening was a soprano solo by Miss Etta Raybert, accompanied by Ida Randolph-Smalley, in which the young people joined in the chorus. The rest of the evening was given up to social pastime. The committee in charge comprised Miss May Randolph, chairman; Miss Minnie Hahn, Miss Marie Hahn, Miss Elsie Dunavan, Miss Edna Cole, Miss Edna Dilts, Miss Myra Dunavan, Elmer Gayle, Alfred W. Dunavan, Russell Doeringer and Edward Honeyman.

The rooms were attractively decorated for the entertainment with American flags, carrying out the spirit of patriotism intended by the committee.

AUTO OIL-SPRINKLER AT WORK ON STREETS

Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett has secured two oil-sprinkling cars of the auto type, known as the "Saybolt," from the Standard Oil Company to sprinkle oil on the streets of the city. The device is the patent of George Saybolt, of the Standard Oil Company.

The cars are provided with tanks holding 1,000 gallons of oil. The machine is equipped with an air compressor, operated by a gas motor, and the air forces the oil through the apparatus in a fine spray. It puts a thinner coat of oil on the street and with more power than in the ordinary way. It puts the oil on in less quantity, requiring more frequent treatment, but permits the immediate use of the road.

Arrangements have been made with the Standard Oil Company to put this oil on here by contract, the price being one and one-fifth cents per square yard. The roads treated thus far include East Front street from Leland avenue to Terrill road, Franklin place, Watchung avenue, Crescent avenue, part of West Eighth street, East Sixth street and East Third street.

"You know, Fred, I am observing Lent. No more kisses for forty days."

"That puts the microbes on a diet."

Cruelty to Bugs.

Dorothy—It seems strange that of all women you should love me alone.

Dartie—That's right. You don't expect me to make a fool out of myself in public?

BASEBALL LAW NEEDS NO CHANGE

Tinkerers with baseball law are trying to change the game so that batting might increase. Various suggestions have been made, some of them worthy and some of them absurd.

One writer goes so far as to say that a return to the old style in which the batsman asks for a high ball, low ball or any kind of ball he desires might solve the so-called problem. This writer was not trying to be humorous, but was dead serious, which reflects some of the absurdities one occasionally encounters in baseball literature.

In all the mass of suggestions to promote batting, nobody has pointed out how present-day baseball was so disgustingly unsatisfactory that it ought to be changed at all.

Would a fan like an 18-7 game better than a 2 to 1 contest? What is wrong with modern baseball?

The people want lots of hitting, they answer. How do they know? they ask? Do the men who go out to games every day want to see two and a half hours of aimless slugging? Possibly the man who sees one game a year would like to see a quarter season of hitting on the one day he enriches the club's treasury, but how about the others who go regularly and are the backbone and support of the game?

To take drastic legislation to increase hitting would simply ruin the game. It would be taking a step backward. It would put inferior managers on a footing with the competent managers.

Nobody ever hears the Macks, Jennings, McGraws, Clarkes and Chances making a wail about the lack of hitting. These shrewd managers are always able to gather about them a number of men who will average a pitcher once in a while. Look at the Collinses, Murphys, Bakers, Davises, Cobbs, Crawfords, Doyles, Bridwells, Wagners, Leaches, Millers, Tinkers and Hofmans. They are not thinking much about the pre-eminence of the pitcher.

The writer believes that the game as it is played today cannot be improved. It is a battle of wits, with one team trying desperately to outguess the other and the opponent equally on the alert to know what is going on.

The game today a hit has some meaning. We are sure to see a contest and not eighteen men in a rough, witless, leather-mauling duel. The pitchers today are good. That is a fact. When a Mathewson, Bender, Joss or Walsh is carded to perform, you may be given a take for granted that you will see high-class work in the box.

There is no need to return to old cat or town ball. The sport is satisfactory to the majority of persons that support the game today, even to some writers, who are always barking about the glorious past, want to go back to the seventies.

FIRST M. E. CHURCH CHOIR HONORS RETIRING MEMBERS.

The choir of the First M. E. church met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Elmund Skiff on West Seventh street, Thursday, and gave a farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dunham, who have been members of the choir for five years and who are about to remove to New York city. A loving cup was presented to the couple by Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, on behalf of the choir.

Mr. Dunham, who has been employed by the Metropolitan Street Railway Company, in New York, has just been made a superintendent of one of the departments, requiring his residence in New York.

An Expert Stenographer.

Miss Grace Beeching, daughter of S. H. Beeching, of Grandview avenue, has been notified that she passed the stenographic examination given by the Smith Company in New York yesterday with a percentage of 100. The rules of these examinations are very strict, and the person taking the test is penalized for the slightest error. Miss Beeching's work is certainly a credit to her, as well as to the Drake College, where she has been a pupil for the past five months.

Be Not to Modest.

To start out in a modest way,
My modest friends, is very well,
But don't forget to say your say
About the things you have to sell.

Your store may be a modest place
Upon a very modest block;
But go ahead and hire some space
And advertise your modest stock.

To be too modest does not pay;
You are no daisy in the dell.
Prepare your 'ad' and say your say
About the things you have to sell.

A Toast.

Here's the health to you
And the best of luck.
As you spend a sou,
May you save a buck.

Upon my tongue
The phrase now quivers.
Let's crown John D.
The king of givers.

ORDAIN ROYAL A. STOUT

Before a congregation which completely filled the new church edifice,

Rev. Royal A. Stout.

Rev. Royal A. Stout was ordained and made pastor of the Netherwood Reformed church Friday evening. The Classes of Newark consisted of Rev. Dr. Charles B. Condit, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, Newark; Rev. Albertus Brock, pastor of the Clifton Avenue Reformed church, of the same city; Rev. P. T. Pockman, D. D., pastor of the First Reformed church in New Brunswick; Rev. Henry J. Vyverberg, of Hurly, N. Y., and Rev. John Y. Brock, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, this city, assisting the pastors were elders J. S. Mundy, S. O. Rush, James C. Hansen, F. E. Smith, Horace J. Martin, Sr., and William Carson.

Just preceding the benediction which was given by the new pastor, Elder Rush presented Mr. Stout with a leather cushioned case of the topical and indexed Bible. Rev. Mr. Stout responded to the presentation with a few appropriate remarks and thanked the people of his congregation for their thoughtfulness and expressed his appreciation of the gift. Some fine music was sung by the choir of Trinity church including for the offertory "The Great Way of the Lord." A duet by F. S. Cutter and Miss S. Etta Raybert followed the charge to the congregation.

The sermon delivered by Rev. Dr. Peck was most impressive and in part was as follows: "The church is the custodian of the Word of God and the Holy Spirit is the instrument God uses in this life. The main characteristics of the church are its unity, efficiency a world-wide sphere of activity and a present and future glory. A church possesses unity but not necessarily uniformity. It has a variety of religious experience and character.

"The purpose of the church is to save from sin and to develop Christian character. It has but one God and one Saviour; one revelation of God and one heaven. She is also the pillar and ground of Truth and truth finds expression in the life of the members of the church. She is the greatest institution in the world and is the unrelenting foe of wickedness; helps to strike down unrighteousness and is the leader in every reform movement; This is what makes America so free and it is our highest joy in holding up the living God."

In his charge to the pastor Dr. Vyverberg congratulated the pastor as a man, declaring that it is manhood and life which count in Gospel ministry. The pastor must be a man with a message and his equipment must be the Word of God and Christ's fellowship.

Rev. Albertus J. Brock in his charge to the people told them not to expect too much from the pastor. He is but human and his duties call him at times when some minor things need not be placed upon him as an extra tax. Visits to members of the congregation should not be expected every week. Souls are souls outside the Kingdom which must be saved. Be liberal, he said, in your contributions to the work of the Lord being sure that you are paying the Lord's tax. Every church needs the pastor and remember that the object of the church is to spread the spirit of Jesus Christ throughout the community.

The services opened with the singing of the Doxology, followed by the invocation by Rev. John Y. Brock. Owing to the inability of Rev. W. Warren Giles, of East Orange, president of the Classis, to be present, Rev. John Y. Brock was elected to assume the president's duties and read the form of ordination and installation. Following the benediction there was the laying on of hands by the ministers present, adding greatly to the impressiveness of the occasion.

Under the guidance of Rev. Mr. Stout, the Netherwood Reformed church has had a wonderfully successful career in its short life and indications for the future are most encouraging.

A Perplexing Publication.

Dat cook book means all right," said Miss Miami Brown, reflectively, "but I bet it gits me into trouble yet."

"What's the trouble?"

"'Bout every page it says, 'take six eggs.' Now, de question is, who is I g'in teer take 'em f'um?"—Exchange.

HORSE SHOW'S SCHEDULE

The official time program for the seventh annual Plainfield Horse Show to be held at the club's new show grounds on Woodland avenue and Randolph road, June 2, 3 and 4, was announced Saturday. It was expected that Col. J. G. Beresford, of London, Eng., would judge the hunters and jumpers with Clarence F. Levin, of Avon, N. Y., but the death of King Edward resulted in his being called home and Mr. Levin will judge alone. The time program follows:

Thursday.

Class 15—Three pairs harness horses (novice) 1:15; Class 38—five saddle horses (novice) 1:25; Class 17—three pairs harness horses (novice) 1:35; Class 7—eleven single harness horses, $1:50; Class 28—five ponies in harness, 2:10; Class 21—three pairs harness horses (Lawson cup) 2:20; Class 34—nine saddle horses, 2:40; Class 54—ten single harness horses (local), 3:00; Class 1—five roadsters, 3:15; Class 10—two pairs harness horses (ladies to drive), 3:25; Class 19—four tandems, 3:35; Class 45—six green hunters (light weight), 3:50; Class 46—five green hunters (heavy and middle weight), 4:10; Class 61—one stallion and three of his get, 4:25; Class 62—one hackney mare, 4:30; Class 36—seven saddle horses (ladies to ride), 4:35; Class 31—three single harness horses (ponies), 4:50; Class 58—seven combination horses (local), 5:00; Class 49—twenty hunters or jumpers (open to all), 5:20.

Friday.

Class 55—three pairs harness horses (local), 1:15; Class 16—six single harness horses (novice), 1:30; Class 39—eleven saddle horses, (novice), 1:50; Class 29—three ponies in harness, 2:05; Class 14—eleven single harness horses (novice), 2:15; Class 41—three ponies under saddle, 2:40; Class 27—seven single harness horses (Dr. Selwonk's cup), 2:45; Class 35—ten saddle horses (up to 2000 pounds), 3:00; Class 18—two tandems, 2:15; Class 6—three pairs harness horses, 3:25; Class 56—two ponies in harness (local) 3:30; Class 11—six horses shown to runabouts, 3:35; Class 37—fourteen saddle horses (ladies to ride), 3:50; Class 47—thirteen ladies' hunters (ladies to ride), 4:10; Class 3—five single harness horses, 4:35; Class 27—three combination ponies, 4:45; Class 43—eight qualified hunters (light weight), 5:00; Class 44—six qualified hunters (heavy and middle), 5:20.

Saturday.

Class 8—five pairs harness horses, 1:15; Class 42—four ponies under saddle, 1:30; Class 26—fifteen combination horses, 1:40; Class 5—seven single harness horses, 2:00; Class 52—six draught mares, 2:15; Class 53—four draught stallions, 2:25; Class 60—six breeding stallions, 2:35; Class 63—nine hackney mares, 2:50; Class 9—four single harness horses (ladies to drive), 3:05; Class 32—thirteen saddle horses (local), 3:20; Class 23—five single horses (Plainfield Riding and Driving cup), 3:40; Class 20—two four-in-hands (teams), 4:00 Class 57—twelve saddle horses (local), 4:10; Class 40—saddle horses for the championship, 4:25; Class 24—single harness horses under 15.2 for the championship, 4:40; Class 25—single harness horses 15.2 or over for the championship, 4:50; Class 48—fourteen hunters (Corinthian class), 5:00; Class 50—eleven hunters (Watchung Hunt Club cup), 5:30.

Entertained at Luncheon.

Mrs. Charles W. Leveridge entertained a number of relatives at an informal luncheon yesterday afternoon at her home on Sherman avenue. The luncheon afforded an opportunity to introduce her daughters, Mrs. Charles Leveridge, of Spooner avenue; Mrs. Poland Leveridge, of Oak Tree, and Mrs. Walter Leveridge, of Brooklyn. After the luncheon at which covers were laid for fifteen, Mrs. Charles Leveridge rendered piano selections and Mrs. William Hillman sang.

Among those present were Mrs. Charles H. Leveridge, Mrs. Roland Leveridge, Mrs. Walter Leveridge Miss Dorothy Leveridge, Mrs. William Hillman, Dr. Nell S. Wilcox, Mrs. G. H. Fountain, Mrs. Robin Brown, Miss Emma Brokaw, Mrs. Clarkson Woodcock, Mrs. Frank T. Clawson, Mrs. Isabell Harradon, Mrs. Charles H. Leveridge and Miss Mary Leveridge.

Jealous Little Pussies.

Ella—There's that cat Nellie Hibbs's receiving a bouquet. I bet she says them herself. Must cost her a bit.

Tella—No, dear. She's had one made of everlasting flowers.

"The boy who stood on the burning deck was a brave lad."

"Yes," replied the school teacher, "he doesn't appear to have been nearly as scared as some of the boys who have since been called on to recite about him."—Exchange.

Vanity. Not Charity.

"Is he vain?"

"I should say so. He won't put his name to a subscription list unless he's permitted to give more than anybody else."

LOCAL JR. O. U. A. M.'S VISIT BOUND BROOK

A delegation of fifty or more Jr. O. U. A. M.'s from the four Plainfield councils attended the rally at Bound Brook Wednesday which was conducted under the auspices of Pioneer Council, of that place. There were also delegations present from William G. Hutton Council, of Dunellen, and Friendship Council, of New Market.

The guest of honor was State Vice-Councillor La Rue and other State officials of the order. Mr. LaRue delivered an interesting address in which he depicted the rapid growth of the lodge in New Jersey and other sections of the United States. Plainfielders who joined in the speech-making were George Watts, P. H. Latourette and W. C. Walker, of Somerset Council, No. 104; Ephraim Compton, of Franklin Council, No. 41; Councilor Smith, of Plainfield Council No. 293, and Past Councilor Wyckoff, of Benevolent Council No. 256.

There was a record breaking attendance and after the speech making refreshments were served under the supervision of the social committee of Pioneer Council.

SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS MEET AT SCOTCH PLAINS

The district institute of Sunday school work of Fanwood and Scotch Plains, was held at the Baptist church, Scotch Plains, Wednesday, and was largely attended by Sunday school workers from this section. The devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews, pastor of the church, after which Walter S. Irving, chairman of the executive committee of the New Jersey Sunday School Association, gave a practical talk on Home department work.

There was also an address on "The Adult Class," by James E. Church, of this city, former superintendent of county adult class work of the New Jersey Sunday School Association; followed with addresses by Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews and Edward Gabler, the latter of All Saints Episcopal church, Scotch Plains, and one by George H. Gabler, secretary and treasurer of the Union County Sunday School Association, on "Our County Associa*tion." The service closed with a* hymn, after which there was a social hour.

FIRE DEPARTMENT GETS THIRTY MORE HYDRANTS

The Councilmanic fire committee at a meeting held in the office of Mayor Fisk Wednesday decided to recommend the installation of five new fire-alarm boxes and about thirty additional fire hydrants throughout the city. Chief T. O. Doane made a careful survey of the city for the purpose of ascertaining just where the boxes and hydrants are needed the most and he reported to the committee last night. In his opinion there should be fifty-two additional boxes but the committee decided to recommend thirty for the present.

It was also reported that the committee had traded in the old gray horse formerly driven by Chief Doane, for a new horse to be used at No. 4 engine house in the Netherwood district. The new animal cost $350 and an allowance of $150 was made for the old one on the trade.

There was also a discussion regarding an automobile for Chief Doane and one will doubtless be purchased within a short time. The new gasolene ordinance was discussed and it is the intention of the committee to allow a public hearing on it before it is recommended for adoption. This ordinance is intended to safe-guard the interests of people in the storage of gasolene about the city.

An Interruption.

England's King was delivering a charming speech on the beauties of peace.

An unpleasant sound of hammering annoyed him. He paused and looked around. A flunkey hastily stepped forward and closed the open window.

The King turned to the first lord of the shoe closet.

"What noise was that?" he asked.

"They are laying the keel of a new dreadnought, your majesty," the officer replied.

Then the king resumed his praise of peace.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Her Heirloom.

I have an ancient little comb,
Which worked so much upon my dome
That now for work it is not fit.
It has no tooth,
That is the truth:
But still, you see,
It stays with me.
Because—I canot part with it.

ENDOWMENT FUND FOR 7TH-DAY BAPTISTS' S.S.

There is a movement on foot among the members of the Seventh-Day Baptist church to put their schools on a basis of greater usefulness by raising a "Twentieth Century Endowment Fund." The report of the committee on education has been adopted and the denomination has given its hearty approval of an effort to raise an endowment fund for the benefit of four schools; designated by the executive board of the Seventh-Day Baptist Education Society, or the Board of Trustees of the Seventh-Day Baptist Memorial Fund according to the choice of each contributor, as a trustee to receive and hold in trust contributions to the proposed contributions.

It has been recommended that ninety per cent. of the income be divided equally between Salem College, Milton College and Alfred University and ten per cent. paid to the income be divided equally between Salem College, Milton College and Alfred University, and ten per cent. paid to Alfred Theological Seminary, and the presidents of the three colleges together with Dean A. E. Main, of the Seminary have been appointed a committee to work out plans for raising the fund.

The general committee in charge of the matter comprise President W. C. Daland, Milton, Wis., chairman; Dean A. E. Main, Alfred, N. Y., secretary; President W. C. Clark, Salem, W. Va., and President B. C. Davis, of Alfred, N. Y. The plan is to raise $100,000 for Christian education.

THIRTY-SECOND WEDDING ANNIVERSARY OBSERVED

Mr. and Mrs. George Staats, of Netherwood avenue, celebrated the thirty-second anniversary of their wedding Thursday by giving what they called a "house dedication," which marked the possession of their new home. Fifteen years ago when they moved into a new house a similar affair was held and Rev. Dr. J. S. Bunker, pastor of the Second Plains Baptist church, but now of the First Baptist church, Lynn, Mass., conducted an informal religious service.

Dr. Braker was among those present last night and he and Rev. J. W. Musson, of the Park Baptist church, of which Mrs. Staats is a member, officiated at a religious service prior to the wedding festivities. Dr. Braker made a few remarks appropriate to the occasion and Mr. Musson offered prayer and read the story from the Bible of the dedication of the Temple. Congratulations were then offered. During the evening Mr. Musson on behalf of the Ladies' Aid Society and the King's Daughters of the Temple Baptist church, presented Mrs. Staats with a dozen silver tea spoons.

During the festivities there was a pleasing musical program, including a vocal solo by Mrs. David C. Patterson, vocal duets by Miss Thomas and Henry Thomas; Mrs. Charles Quint and David C. Patterson and Mrs. David C. Patterson and George Staats, Jr.; instrumental duet by Mrs. J. H. Cubberly, mando*lin, and Miss May Richardson, piano.* The program was well received and the musicians responded to several encores. The program was conclud*ed with the singing of "Praise God* from Whom all Blessings Flow," after which refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Staats have lived in Plainfield throughout their married life and have a host of friends here. There were about two hundred guests present at last night's affair.

How to Fold a Dress.

To fold a dress skirt properly for packing and to avoid the crease down the middle of the front breadth, fasten the skirt band and pin the back to the middle of the band in front. Lay the skirt on a table or other flat surface, right side out, with the front breadth down. Smooth out all creases and lay folds flat. Then begin at the outer edges and roll each side toward the centre back until the rolls meet. In this way the hang of the skirt is not injured, there are no wrinkles and the front breadth is smooth and flat. If the skirt is too long for the trunk fold it over near the top and place a roll of tissue paper under the fold.

Prize Winner at Rutgers.

Among the prize-takers at Rutgers College, for this year are John DeLancey, son of Chaplain Ferguson, of the New Jersey Soldiers' Home. Mr. Ferguson is a graduate of the Plainfield High School Class '07. He has taken the Wall-Targium prize in English and the Winner prize in Philosophy.

A Business Conference.

"The junior partner wants to see you right away," announced the bookkeeper. "I guess it's the bounce for yours."

"Nix," responded the office boy. "He only wants to find out what new players have been signed."

Constitutionalists Ads Pay.

MISSIONARY WORKERS HOLD CONFERENCE

More than 200 delegates were in attendance at the thirty-second annual meeting of the Woman's Baptist Foreign Missionary Society of the East Association of New Jersey, which was conducted in the First Baptist church at New Market Friday. 34 churches were represented from the following places: Plainfield, Scotch Plains, New Market, Stelton, Westfield, Perth Amboy, Rahway, Roselle, Elizabeth, Newark, Harrison, Jersey City and Roseville.

In the election of officers to serve during the ensuing year Mrs. Gabriel Reid Maguire, of this city, was elected a vice-president to succeed Mrs. J. W. Sarles, of Stelton. There were about twenty representatives of local Baptist congregations at the sessions.

Mrs. W. T. S. Lumbar, of Newark, was re-elected to the presidency; vice-presidents, Mrs. Maguire and Mrs. D. J. Yerkes, of this city, and Mrs. J. Madison Hare, of Jersey City; corresponding secretary and treasurer, Miss Grace M. Davis, of Newark; recording secretary, Miss Florence Bogart, of Roselle Park; junior secretary, Mrs. F. C. Foster, of Dunellen.

The morning session started at ten o'clock with a devotional service conducted by Mrs. George H. Gardner, of New Market. Following this service the delegates were welcomed by Mrs. L. Squier, of New Market. The routine business consisted of reports and minutes presented by Miss Grace Bogart, Miss Grace Davis and Mrs. F. C. Foster.

Miss Topping, who recently returned from Japan gave an interesting talk on missionary work in that country. Miss Topping's address was followed by a discussion on "Our Missionary Course," by Mrs. J. Schlettman, of Elizabeth, and "Our Deficit" was discussed by Mrs. Caton L. Decker, of Orange.

At the afternoon session, the Rev. Gabriel R. Maguire, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, gave an interesting address on his missionary experiences in Africa. Mr. Maguire during his remarks exhibited idols, photographs and other souvenirs of his campaign in that country. Addresses were also made by Mrs. E. O. Silver, of East Orange, president of the State association, and Mrs. Lewis E. Gurley, of Troy.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF WILLIAM W. PEARSON

The funeral services of William W. Pearson were held at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon from late residence, 826 West Fifth street. There was a large attendance of rel*atives, friends and neighbors,* including delegations from Jerusalem Lodge, No. 6, F. and A. M., and Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, of which Mr. Pearson was a member for many years. There were many beautiful floral tributes from relatives and friends; also the two lodges, while a touching tribute was from the children in the neighborhood.

Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, officiated at the service at the house, reading Scripture selections, offering prayer and making a few remarks. The members of Jerusalem Lodge conducted the burial services at the grave in Hillside cemetery. The pallbearers, members of Jerusalem Lodge, were B. Frank Corlell, T. O. Doane, Charles Uhler, Edward D. Fluck, W. W. Mills and William Thompson.

BILL DOANE, DIPLOMAT.

"Bill Doane, he was the durndest chap
Thet ever left this town, I snore,"
Said Uncle Matthew Underwood,
To us one night in Stokes' store.
"He warn't no more like other folks
Than black's like white, or chalk's like cheese;
Why, durn my buttons, if he warn't
Wus nor an Injun chief to please.

"Bill Doane, he never will agree.
No matter what the subject is;
An' then he's talkin' politerics
They's only one opinion—HIS!
Wuz alus mystery to me
How Roosevelt app'inted him
To thet position over 'erost;
The pickin' must be'n awful slim

"Bill Doane, he's got, to my idee,
A mind too strong to represent
Our nation on the other side,
An' yit, by jingoes, he jest went!
Man'd orter be more meller like
To be a diplermat, I snore;
Some mighty cur'ous things take place,"
Said Matthew, "down to Stokes' store."

—Boston Herald.

Teacher—Now, boys, tell me how many commandments there are.

Tommy—Please, teacher, ten.

Teacher—Now, if you break one, what then?

Tommy—Please, teacher, there will only be nine.

OBSERVE MEMORIAL DAY

Exercises in Public and Private Schools of the City and Borough.

VETERANS ADDRESS PUPILS.

L. V. F. Randolph Heard at the City High School—Commodore John Finley at Parochial School.

Exercises appropriate to Memorial Day were held in the Plainfield High School Auditorium, Friday ing, the pupils of the school taking part and several G. A. R. veterans being present, occupying seats on the stage. After singing several patriotic songs, during which Charles L. Lewis sang, "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," Former Mayor L. V. F. Randolph gave a brief address on "The Meaning of Memorial Day.' "Speaking of the veterans," Mr. Randolph said, "you do not tire of hearing of the struggles made by them. Today, we are constantly looking back on those things. The Civil War veteran represents these four things: Truth, traditions, events and titles." Mr. Randolph referred to the republics which permitted slavery before this country was dreamed of, such as Rome, Greece and Carthage. Their whole civilization was enveloped in slavery. The speaker concluded by saying that Memorial Day stands for something far above the general idea and it is a day set aside in memory of those who gave their lives that this country might live.

At the close of Mr. Randolph's pleasing address, Stephen R. Struthers expressed his regrets that the high school cadet corps had disbanded, but in a stirring address called upon the young men to volunteer to march with the old soldiers on Memorial Day. Many responded. He then called on the girls to form a chorus and sing at the cemetery. He was also successful in this as many of the girls gladly responded. The exercises closed with the singing of "America."

The children of the Irving School sang patriotic songs at their exercises this morning, allowing most of the time to the veterans who visited the school. Among those who spoke were T. O. Doane, William Hand, Isaac Houston, while J. N. Bogert interested the children with the army bugle calls. Charles Lewis sang a solo during the exercises.

The program at the Franklin School Friday p. m. consisted chiefly of the singing of patriotic songs by the children with an address by W. W. Coriell.

The children at the Stillman School held their exercises at 2 o'clock this morning, with the singing of patriotic songs. The address was by Dr. Henry M. Maxson, superintendent of schools.

The Memorial exercises at the Whittier School were held at 12:30 Friday afternoon. The children sang songs and gave several recitations and a patriotic address was delivered by S. R. Struthers.

Commodore John Finley was the veteran speaker at the Parochial School, and in addition the children presented a fine program of songs and recitations. The program was held at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Comrade W. I. Chittenden was the speaker at the exercises held at the Bryant School, and after his interesting remarks, this program was rendered by the pupils:

"America," school; salute to flag; three cheers for the flag, White and Blue; Psalm 1, school; song by *school, "The Battle Hymn of the Re*public;" recitations, "Decoration Day," Florence Huntsman; "Peace," five boys from 4A; song, "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground," school; recitation, "Love of Country," Warren Moyer; song, "Decoration Day," Fifth grade B; recitations, "Old Ironsides," Fifth grade 8; "Remembrance," Grace West; song, "Marching through Georgia," school; class exercise, "Emblems of Decoration," girls from grade 3A; recitation, "The Old Soldier's Debut;" song by school, "The Stars and Stripes," school; presentation of flag; songs, "Barbara Frietchie," and "The Star Spangled Banner," school.

Elaborate observance of Memorial Day was conducted in the borough public school Friday where patriotic exercises, consisting of the rendition of songs and anthems, addresses and declamations by the pupils in all departments. Detachments of Winfield Scott Post, G. A. R., attended the exercises in each department.

High school pupils listened to an able address by Superintendent H. M. Maxson, of the city schools. A patriotic musical program was rendered, including "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground," "America," and "Old Glory." All of the schoolrooms were profusely adorned by the national colors.

In the primary department of the Somerset School patriotic songs were rendered while musical selections and recitations were given by the pupils. The children who participated included Dorothy Seader, Edith Debele, Gertrude Rittenhouse, Helen Willett, Hamilton Shoop, Fred Sheelen, Frederic Attlee, John Hermann, Lillie Smith, Roswell Ewart, Martha Emmons, Lillian MacDonald, Marion Woolley, Edward Clay, Mabel Saffron, Marguerite Johnson and Mildred Boyle.

At the celebration of the first grade at the Watchung School these pupils took part: Eleanor King, Jesse Hummer, Alfred Thorne, Shirley Hosmer, George Chandler, Marguerite Lewis, John Mogey, Edith Kirchner, Alma Herrmann, Leonard Cobb. Singing by the choruses were also a feature.

Pupils of the second grade, who took part in special exercises were Dorothy Skalarew, Victoria Bogaa, Katie Johnson, Beatrice Maxwell, Irene Daley, Mildred Swick, Myrtle Bird, Grace Wyckoff, Elida Townley, Rosanna McDonough, Carl Klots, James Conroy, Beatrice Lee, Leroy Jones, Charles Hewitt, Thomas Egan, Herbert Huff, Alfred Currin, Edna Barrett, Marie Wilson, Eldora Bolomey and Annie Herlihy.

Members of the third and fourth grades confined their celebration to the rendition of anthems which included, "Marching Through Georgia," "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp," "Tenting Tonight," "The Star Spangled Banner," "Dixie Land," "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean" and "Tmerica." The pupils also listened to a patriotic address.

In the Third B grade those participating in the program were Sydney Dunning, Alfred DeNise, Elta Titus, Dorothy Jacot, Anais Johnson, Lydia Jacot, Raymond Bowen, Norman Pope, Robert Journeaux, William Cornell, William Feiring, Pauline Mowery, Dorothy Keller, Mildred Wyckoff, George Cary, Grace Mosher, Irving Scarborough, Grace Boles, Ida Marcarcino, Annabel Schnegas, Laura Smalley.

YOUNG MEN'S HEBREW ASSOCIATION OFFICERS.

At the regular meeting of the Young Men's Hebrew Association Thursday the following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Samuel Rothberg; vice-president, Louis Goldstein; recording secretary, A. Victorson; financial secretary, A. H. Richards; treasurer, Henry Rosenbaum.

President Rothberg named Harris Siegal, Jacob Abrams and I. J. Friedman as trustees to serve for one year. Reports of the various departments of the association were read and showed the association to be in a most flourishing condition.

PAYING LEGACIES OF HOWELL WILL.

The will of Henry B. Howell, for fifty years grand scribe of the Sons of Temperance of New Jersey, of which he was founder, and for whom Howell Division, Sons of Temperance, of this city, was named, is being settled.

To the three hospitals of Trenton he left $500 each, to the Widows' and Single Women's Home, $500, the Mercer Hospital, $500, society, $500, State Woman's Christian Temperance of New Jersey, $500. In addition to these bequests he gave by his will, hundreds of dollars to benevolent organiztions in Trenton. Five young men named for him were bequeathed $500 each. One of them, Henry Howell Drake, a lawyer of Elizabeth, died a month before Mr. Howell, and the legacy lapsed into the estate.

After leaving many thousands of dollars to relatives he bequeathed $200 each to Edward K. Drake, a retired newspaper man, of Elizabeth, James Fowler, of Trenton, and the Rev. Dr. Grady, a city missionary.

Mr. Howell, who was wealthy, was one of the founders of the Republican party in this State, and printed and edited its first newspaper. There was no contest over his will. He was a bachelor and the last of his family.

CONTRACTS AWARDED FOR ST. MARY'S CONVENT.

Contracts have been awarded for the erection of the new St. Mary's convent at the corner of Liberty and West Sixth streets. Frank Meinerker, of this city, will do the mason work, and Michael Byrne, of Elizabeth, was awarded the carpenter work.

The structure will cost about $20,000 and will be fully completed by next spring. Contractor Meinerker started work in making excavations preparatory to erecting the foundations.

Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, has been secured to deliver a lecture at the Madison Avenue Baptist church New York, on June 14. This is the church of which Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton is the pastor. On June 24, Mr. Maguire will lecture at Worcester University, Worcester, Ohio.

New Yorker Buys Nearby Farm.

The Lewis Hunn farm, situated near New Market, has been purchased by Irving H. Wolff, who is reputed to be a wealthy New Yorker. The deal was engineered by Pierce and Garretson, the Dunellen real estate agents.

When Halley's comet hits the earth, say what will pork chops then be worth?

BAPTISTS TO MEET HERE

The sixty-ninth anniversary of the East New Jersey Baptist Association will be held at the First Baptist church on Tuesday, June 7, with morning, afternoon and evening sessions. Rev. Samuel J. Skevington, of Newark, is the moderator, who will preside, and Rev. W. F. Meyerend will be the clerk. The women of the church will serve dinner and supper to the more than two hundred delegates expected. The program will be as follows:

Morning.

Devotional service, Rev. Samuel Alden Perrine, Fifth Baptist church, Newark; election of moderator and clerk; words of welcome and response; rules of order read from the chair; report of committee of arrangements for this year; report on letters from the church, Rev. C. T. Brownell, chairman; introductory sermon, Rev. Everett T. Tomlinson, Central Baptist church, Elizabeth; report on obituaries, Revs. Perrine, Arthur and Lombard; appointment of committees; miscellaneous business, adjournment.

Afternoon.

Devotional service, Rev. Carter J. Greenwood, Baptist church, Westfield; reports on ministerial conference, Rev. J. W. Musson, secretary; report of permanent council, Rev. Trevis B. Thames; report of committee on application of churches. Themes for consideration: What is the Church? Rev. James Madison Hare, Parmly Memorial Baptist church, Jersey City; How Far Have We Departed from the New Testament Church? Question opened by Rev. William T. S. Lumbard, Mount Pleasant Baptist church, Newark; Would Faithfulness to the New Testament Church Bring Similar Results Now? Question opened by Rev. Charles Hillman Fountain, Plainfield; discussion, adjournment for supper.

Evening.

Devotional service, Rev. George W. Gardner, Baptist church, New Market; reports of committees, Rev. Samuel J. Arthur, chairman; report of committee on resolutions, place of next meeting, preacher for 1911, auditing accounts of clerk and treasurer. Address, The Permanent and Passing in the Gospel, the Place of the Church in Modern Society, Rev. Franklin Mathiews, Baptist church, Scotch Plains; unfinished business; prayer and benediction.

EASY FOR INDIAN MAIDENS TO GET WHITE HUSBANDS.

In Gregory, S. D., I saw a bright-eyed, hard-muscled, clean-looking young fellow from Iowa who had just returned from a honeymoon trip to Sioux Falls with as neat a piece of red calico as you would find in a long day's journey. The girl was suspiciously close to the age limit fixed by the government, but intelligence, good humor, true womanly nature beamed from her button-bright eyes. I happened to follow this couple into a restaurant, and I took a seat next to them. The girl was plainly dressed in a neat, plum-colored traveling suit, and the only thing about her make-up that suggested the Indian was a pair of wide beaded bracelets of striking color and design. The honeymoon pair talked low over the table, the girl looking proudly at her new husband while he ordered dinner, and when he laid down the bill of fare her hand stole under it and pressed tightly on his. She blushed a little, just as a white girl would have done, when a ranchman came in, slapping her husband on the back, and exclaimed: "Well, I'll be d——d! Is this crude prairie-folk way. When the meal was served she ate with her fork, and mind you, she was a full-blooded Sioux whose people wer carving up white men only a few years ago and didn't know a fork from a French horn. After they had gone out, the man and I congratulated them told me all about it.

"She's got a pretty piece of government land as there is on White river," said he; "good rich gumbo. She's a nice girl—been to school six or seven years, and she'll make Charlie a good wife. If they have as many as three children he'll land a whole section, counting her's, and that's going to be worth $16,000 to $20,000 in ten years, the way land's going up now."

No great wonder is it that so many young men of the prairies, who know

The Constitutionalist.

AN INDEPENDENT WEEKLY.

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

Terms: $2.00 per year.

Plainfield, N. J., June 2, 1910.

N. Y. AMUSEMENTS.

Next Monday night at the Grand Opera House, New York, David Warfield will begin a week's engagement, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday in the Klein play, "The Music Master." It will be Warfield's first engagement in Greater New York in about a year. "The road" has claimed the Belasco star all season, which has been a remarkable series of triumphs in cities he had not visited before in his most notable success. Although his welcome in the tenderlittle play was not worn out in New York or the larger cities of the East, Mr. Belasco decided that this season theatre-goers in all parts of the country should be given an opportunity to see his eminent star in the play that he has made so popular. And so a transcontinental tour was arranged to the exclusion of cities that have seen Mr. Warfield. Each corner of the country was reached, and about 20,000 miles covered. Advanced prices were charged on tour on account of the increased traveling expenses, and seldom was a theatre large enough to hold all who sought admittance.

"Seven Days" is so popular it has been booked for Boston and Philadelphia for practically all next season. The company now at the Astor theatre in New York will go to these cities. That will not interrupt the New York run, as another company will go on with the comedy. Wagenhals & Kemper believe other cities wish a company with a New York reputation, while New York doesn't care who is in a cast so long as they can act.

Florence Reed, daughter of the late Roland Reed, who has made a hit as the psychic girl in "Seven Days," has abandoned a starring tour for next season to remain with Wagenhals & Kemper, who will place her in a new Broadway production.

LARGE CLASS RECEIVES DIPLOMAS ON JUNE 23

Diplomas, prizes and other awards will be presented at the annual commencement exercises of the Plainfield High School on Thursday night, June 23, when a class of fifty-one pupils will be graduated. The exercises will be held at the First Baptist church. More than 100 prizes will be presented and they are not confined to the graduating class alone. Miss Meta Pennock has been chosen to deliver the valedictory and Miss Margaret Leggett, the salutatory.

The members of the class follow: Clifford Vail, John Kenney, Arthur Johnson, Osgood Sewell, Harry Brick, Ted Hamilton, Lester Sutton, Miss Katharine Ball, teacher; Maude Green, Agnes Moffet, Cora Gray, Edna Bird, Frances Newell, Elizabeth McClay, Lila Duy, Russell Morris, John Riffert, Otis Hovey, Grace Parker, Miss Helen Horne, Ethel Rogers, Edna Cole, Ruth Klein, Edith Bush, Mabel Whitford, Mira Donovan, Nettie Stillman, Bessie Alpaugh, Barbara Fleming, Horace Earle, Frank Putnam, Grace Woolston, Helen Macallum, Beula Van Winkle, Annie Major, Arline Brown, Celestina Waldron, Mary Radford, Alice Doane, Marion Praed, Marguerite Van Zandt, Muriel Collins, Thos. Ricketts, William Bullock, Katharine Moynihan, Louise Andrews, Russell Miller, Amy Abel, Oouida Hetfield, Alan Overton, Margaret Leggett, Fred Loiseaux, Howard Runyon, Meta Pennock.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

The anticipated visit of the Coburn Players to this city has awakened much interest, both in artistic and social circles, and the demand for tickets to their out-of-doors production of "As You Like It," on June 7, which they will give at the Plainfield Country Club, has exceeded the most sanguine expectations. In the leading colleges of the country, the interest in Coburn and the Players is seeking to produce Shakespeares in a manner approaching the simplicity that is consistent with their proper presentation, is recognized as educational as well as entertaining. They have appeared at Yale, Harvard, Columbia, Princeton, Smith, Bryn Mawr and Radcliffe as well as many of the Southern universities, where they have given Al fresco performances.

—Alex Kane, the "house-wrecker," is planning to remove to New Brunswick next month, where he will open a lumber yard and conduct a business similar to the one in this city.

GOVERNORS MEDDLESOME

(Continued from page 1.)

The members of the local Princeton Club gathered at the hunt club about 9 o'clock, and prior to the smoker, a short business meeting was held to receive reports of the secretary and treasurer, C. Ames Brooks, and elect officers. Henry J. Cochran was elected president, J. Whitney Baker vice-president and C. Ames Brooks secretary and treasurer. Duncan W. Taylor, J. P. Murray and D. H. Barrows were appointed a nominating committee for next year.

Dr. J. Hewitt Buchanan was chosen toastmaster for the evening's festivities which followed, and he made a capital one. In a purely informal manner he introduced the various speakers, frequently eliciting shouts of laughter and applause by his witticisms. He had a gentle knock for various members of the club and all were received good naturedly. After the speechmaking a buffet lunch was served and at an early hour this morning, the happy affair terminated.

A feature of the evening was the instrumental music furnished by Fred Van Epps on the banjo and Joseph Denny on the piano. The spirited playing put everyone in good humor for singing popular college and other songs.

RECEIVES $1,000 PURSE

(Continued from page 1.)

power of her voice and the clearness of her enunciation made listening a pleasure and added a wonderful charm to the whole drama.

During the Second Act of the Christian Festival there was a perfectly wonderful exhibition of the most delightful dancing ever seen in Plainfield. The girls were trained by Miss A. C. Grant and her pupils reflected great redit on her efforts. The "Temple Dance," the "Silver Bells Dance" and the "Dance of the Roses" were done with a precision and a grace which would be expected only from professionals.

The drama was concluded, amid the deafening plaudits of the people, by a magnificent "Hymn of Victory" and a grand tableau illustrating the words of St. Paul: "This is the victory that overcometh the world—our faith."

The curtain descended and arose almost immediately on a most beautiful scene. Amongst a fine display the stage were all the children of the performance and in the center were seated the Rev. Jubilarian, together with Mr. Joseph Noonan and the Rt. Rev. Mgr. M. J. Lavelle, Vicar-General of the Arch-Diocese of New York. Mr. Noonan in a few excellent words of congratulation to Father Bogan and on behalf of the congregation presented him with a purse of one thousand dollars.

On arising to respond, Father Bogan was obliged to wait several minutes till the applause died away. When voice could be heard, he showed his thorough appreciation of the magnificent proofs of affection and esteem shown so unmistakably before him. He refused, however, to take it as a mere personal tribute to himself, but rather as a principle; he was a man bearing a message, and that was a message from God. He was one sent by constituted authority, and the great heart of the people rose up to show their reverence and their love for the message he brought and the church which sent him.

Monsignor Lavelle closed the evening's festivities with a neat speech. His love and respect for Father Bogan had begun many years ago and was still in full vigor. No one among his many friends was dearer to him, because no one so exquisitely combined in one character the ability, nay, the gift of being a wit who never wounded the feelings of any, who like his Divine Master had always a word of commendation for the lowest of the low, and was always, under all circumstances, a true, devoted, edifying priest of God.

To Mr. Walter Sherwin is due much of the success of the dramatic presentation. In the few rehearsals he was able to give them, the young theatrians found his tasteful direction an inspiration, and the result of his helpfulness was a real tribute to his theatrical ability.

Miss Mary A. Smith, in charge of the music, gave on this occasion a splendid rendition, adding new laurels to her record as a musical director.

The following clergymen occupied the boxes at the theatre: Rt. Rev. Mgr. M. J. Lavelle, of New York, Mary John E. Burke, Rev. Wm. Livingston, Rev. Thomas M. O'Keefe, likewise of New York; Rev. Wm. Miller, and Rev. Father Baldwin, of North Plainfield, and Rev. Father Butscher, of Newark, with Father Hogan and Father Bolla of St. Mary's. Wm. L. Saunders and many of the cast of "Trelawny of the Wells," occupied Box C as interested members of the audience.

Mrs. Pearson, wife of Captain Samuel Pearson, formerly of this city, is spending a week with friends in this city. This is her first visit here since she was married.

Lieut. N. P. Rogers, Jr., is planning to go to West Point during contend a reunion of his class. He has been given an extended leave of absence until October.

PERSONAL.

Charles Stearn, of New York, is visiting Valentine Goldsmith, of Evergreen avenue.

Mrs. Frank McInerney and family, of Lenox avenue, are spending several days in Paterson.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Edgar, of Fairview avenue, are spending several days at Ocean Grove.

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Boyer, of Fairview avenue, are spending a few days at Atlantic City.

Mr. and Mrs. John Loose, of Jackson avenue, are spending the summer at Southampton, L. I.

Mrs. John Brewer, of Philadelphia, has returned home after spending several days with relatives in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. John Smith, of New York, have returned home after spending a few days with friends in the borough.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clark, Jr., of Newark, are visiting Mr. Clark's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Clark, of Jackson avenue.

Ralph Taylor, of Fairview avenue, who has been detained at home the past two weeks with an attack of rheumatism, is much improved.

Miss Irene Stewart, of Homestead, Pa., has returned home after spending a few days at the home of Miss Kathleen Hanlon, of Westervelt avenue.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD IS STILL WINNING.

South Plainfield was victorious over the strong Franklins, of Perth Amboy, on Decoration Day by the score of 11 to 5. Catz Miller performed well in the box for South Plainfield. On next Sunday South Plainfield will tackle the Delta A. C., of Keasbey. The score:

South Plainfield.

	R.	H.	E.
Franklin, 1b	2	4	0
Smith, cf	2	0	1
Ramsberger, 3b	2	1	1
T. Mullin, c	3	2	0
W. Mullin, ss	1	2	2
Hand, 2b	0	2	0
P. McDonough, lf	0	0	0
Miller, rf	0	0	0
Sofield, rf	1	0	0
Totals	11	11	4

Franklin A. C.

	R.	H.	E.
Foster, cf	2	2	1
Sullivan, 1b	0	1	0
Brosley, 3b	0	1	0
Ayers, rf	0	0	2
Fullerton, ss	0	2	0
Yenk, c	1	1	0
Applegate, p	1	2	0
Bath, 2b	1	1	0
Miller, rf	0	0	0
Totals	5	10	5

So. Plainfield..0 0 5 0 0 3 0 2 x—11
Franklin A. C..0 3 0 0 0 0 1 0 1—5

Home run—Foster. Two-base hits—Franklin (2), T. Mullin. Haad (2), Fullerton. W. Mullin (2), Ramsberger. Double plays—Ramsberger to Hand, Applegate to Brosley. Struck out—By Miller, 6; by Applegate, 4. Umpire—Conger.

WEST END FIELD CLUB HUMBLES PATERSON.

The West End Field Club easily defeated the Paterson A. C. Saturday afternoon on the Clinton avenue grounds. The score was 16 to 1. Earl Fulton, the New Market pitcher, twirled a fine game for the West Ends and made nineteen opponents fan the air. Dixon caught him in fine style. Apgar and Gunzelman starred for the Patersons.

The score:

West End F. C.

	R.	H.	E.
Dow, 1b	2	2	0
Fulton, p	1	1	0
McClinton, ss	2	2	0
Dixon, c	1	3	0
Tremble, cf	3	1	0
Nugent, 2b	2	4	0
Malang, rf	2	2	0
Wiegman, 3b	2	0	1
Glentzer, lf	1	1	0
Totals	16	16	1

Paterson F. C.

	R.	H.	E.
Hoffman, rf	0	0	2
Mott, 1b	0	0	1
Nelson, lf	0	0	0
Jeager, 2b	0	0	0
Apgar, ss	1	1	0
Patterson, 2b	0	0	1
Gunzelman, cf	0	1	0
Dorriman, c	0	0	0
Erbeck, p	0	0	0
Totals	1	2	3

Umpires—Firstbrook and Heron.

—Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hollander, of Westervelt avenue, have removed to New York city.

—Moses N. Terrill, formerly of this city, but now of Newark, is spending a few weeks in town on business.

Mrs. James Wilcox, of Fairview avenue, has returned home after spending several days at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Tayne, of Westfield.

SERVICES FOR VETERANS

Old Soldiers Hear Rev. Mr. Brock at Trinity Reformed Church.

With handsome decorations of flags for a background the Memorial Day services were held in Trinity Reformed church on Sunday evening at which members of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., and the Women's Relief Corps attended in a body. Special music marked the services consisting of patriotic hymns and for an offertory piece "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground" was sung effectively by the church quartet. The sermon preached by Rev. John Y. Brock was a masterly effort and was full of the kind of patriotism of which true religion is the basis.

Rev. Mr. Brock said in part: "I extend a cordial and hearty welcome to you veterans of the Civil War to these services. I consider myself honored by your presence and hope the influences of the services will remain with us all for many days to come."

From Psalm 83, verse 12, the pastor drew three lessons. He said: "We come together at this time every year to freshen our love and keep green the memories of those who died in battles for our common country. Not to talk war but to decry it in any form. Is war justifiable? If war has a just cause, then religion can have no scruples against it. We believe that the Civil War was a just one.

"You men went to the front to uphold the invincible principle of liberty and freedom. The North as well as the South thought they were right. But one was fighting for the preservation of the Union while the other fought for the separation of it. Far be it from us to glory in our army and navy as a menace to other nations. From remote ages right up to the latest war of this country the wars for just causes have been followed by blessings. The influence of the Civil War did not remain alone in this country, but spread all over the world and begat for us the homage of the world.

"Today we have a united nation. Breaches have been healed and one grand and glorious commonwealth was created by the final result of the sanguine contest. And being a just war what a lesson it bears for the young American of today. It ought to inculcate patriotism, the kind which is a sacred enthusiasm for our country and loyalty to its institutions, especially in the commonwealth of which it is the liberty, although it cost us dear, is here and that should be a part of the meaning of Memorial Day. It is because of your patriotism and valor we owe what we now are. A country more blessed than ever it was before your bravery and patriotism safeguarded its sacred name. Your sacrifice and devotion should be another lesson to the youths of coming generations.

"A patriot is one who gives his best manhood to his country in both times of peace and days of war. The need for strong men is great in this country. It is a crying need. Men whose principles cannot be questioned. Men endowed with a spirit of honesty itself to assume their places in our national life with absolute incorruptibility. Future wars will be fought out on moral lines. Intemperance one of the greatest of the country's enemies, must be driven from the land. Vice and other social conditions will have to be fought out on the same lines. And when won their victories will be just as great in a sense as any of the other great wars.

"Our flag is the emblem of liberty, the Ark of Truth and the Standard of Righteousness. Let us always keep it unsullied."

After the benediction the men of the G. A. R. marched out ahead of the rest of the congregation. The choir sang with feeling the Star Spangled Banner, being joined by the congregation at the end of each verse. The final hymn, "My Country 'Tis of Thee" was heartily sung by the whole audience.

Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., desires to acknowledge with thanks the services rendered by those assisting in the observance of the day. To Co. K for its escort and firing the salutes, to the pupils of the public schools in Plainfield and North Plainfield for their generous gifts of flowers for the decoration of the graves, to the boys of the Plainfield High School who joined in the parade of honor, to the girls of the Plainfield High School who, by their singing added so greatly to the beauty of the services at the cemetery and to the younger boys and girls who took part in the services in the afternoon.

Making an Impression.

"Madam, if you had a child to weep over," suggested the lawyer, "the alimony might be bigger."

"But I have none."

"At least you have a dog."

"Alas, no."

"Then, there is nothing else to do. We'll have to take the rubber plant into court."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Constitutionalism Adapts Itself

LITERARY

A most unusual story in the locale it presents is Thomas Samson Miller's "The Ship-builders," a tale of the west coast of Africa. It is one of several stories by the same author, all located in the same little known corner of the world that The Red Book Magazine is published from time to time.

This is of greatest importance. Always select a subject that will not offend anybody. To do this, take a pastor, a prude, and a politician, and consider whether the subject would be pleasing to them. If it is pleasing to each, or to all, you may be sure that no editor will object to it.—Thomas L. Mason in June Lippincott's.

Probably the most remarkable action in which any model played a part, was Andrew Soutar in the June Strand, was one that arose in a South of England town. A factory was erected near a church, and it was alleged that the vibration caused by the machinery in the former interfered with the mid-week services in the latter; during prayer, it was said, the church shook and rattled ominously. I had to prepare models of church and factory; the factory is still being worked, so I assume that the action failed.

Full of interest and valuable information the Wide World Magazine for June upholds its reputation for unique among present day periodicals. The stories and articles are all founded on facts and deal with every corner of the civilized and uncivilized world. From Alaska to San Pedro Bay, from Mexico to German East Africa, the amount of territory which a single number covers is remarkable. Big game hunting, show boating, swimming, etc., are all dealt with, while the stories of exploration and adventure are full of fascination.

The June number of "Success Magazine" opens with an article of unusual interest, entitled "The Marriage Factory," which is the first of a series on "Marriage in America," by Robert Haven Schauffler "The Evils of the Night Messenger Service," by Leroy Scott, contains an appeal to every thoughtful American citizen for the protection of the boys in that service. A noteworthy business article is "Our Chance in South America," by Charles Johnson Post. "Congress—Help!ess and Hopeless" is an article by Arthur I. Street on conditions in the United States Treasury Department.

The best chapter so far of Theodore Roosevelt's hunting experiences leads the June number of Scribner's Magazine. In "Elephant Hunting on Mount Kenia" he gives all the romance and adventure that is associated with the huge animal that is the subject of unflagging interest around the camp fires of African hunters. Mr. Roosevelt has never before trained as the Indian elephant, therefore neither the natives nor the hunters have the kind of intimacy and knowledge which demestication gives; moreover hunting in the forest is surrounded with danger and excitement, which Mr. Roosevelt has graphically portrayed in his article. Indeed, there could not be a better description of all that attends a great elephant hunt than this aricle gives. The pictures are among the best ever taken. It is doubtful whether any herd of wild African elephants was ever before photographed so successfully. Of the pictures by Kermit Roosevelt. He secured three successive snapshots of the herd in the heart of the forest.

The June Metropolitan Magazine touches what is perhaps one of the sorest spots in the body of the American public today in its leading article, "The Allen Peril." It gets at the heart of the problem of foreignborn criminals and points the way to a solution. "Back to the Land" is an old theory that is being put into practise during the last few years with a vigor. H. W. Hillinghead sets forth the subject in a thoroughly practical fashion, showing how the city man may become a farmer to his advantage.

In the June Hampton's Peary gets down to the meat of his story of his "Discovery of the North Pole," and in the course of the article makes plain to the readers why his own expedition was successful, and why no other expedition, especially a "sporting" one, could have accomplished the work. Peary makes no mention of Dr.Cook, but his statement of the reason for his success makes plain the only basis on which an expedition could be successful.

We believe in Fraternal Life Insurance, say the editors of Everybody's Magazine in introducing an article entitled, "Will Your Widow Get Her Money?", but we know that the system has certain faults which the leaders of the associations have themselves long been trying to correct. This is our effort to help them. It has been read with approval by the highest and most thoughtful authorities in the fraternal field. The subject and the revelations of this article are of the utmost importance to millions.

The first of a series of three papers by George Kennan, reviewing the events that have taken place in Russia since the "Bloody Sunday" of January, 1905, makes its appearance in the June Century. During the last thirty years Mr. Kennan, through his articles published in The Century and elsewhere, has become one of the leading authorities on political and social conditions in Russia. His revelations of the barbarities involved in the convict system of Siberia attracted the attention of the civilized world, and gained for him the fear as well as the respect of the Czar's government. T. R. MacMechen and Carl Deinstbach, special students of aeronautics, present a novel forecast of some of the possibilities of aerial warfare based on recent investigations of some of the peculiarities observed in the flight of birds. Another article, by Andrew Carnegie, gives a careful analysis of recent contributions to the movement having universal peace for its object, and shows wherein President Taft's pronouncement before the Peace and Arbitration Society on the 22d of March is one of the most vital helps to the Anti-War Crusade.

The current springtime number of this alway interesting magazine contains an extraordinary variety of spring and summer suggestions. The cover design is unusually attractive, even for the Woman's Home Companion, and the entire magazine lives up to the standard set by the cover. A superb new painting by Jessie Wilcox Smith, "Let Dogs Delight to Bark and Bite," is reproduced in full color on a large mat.

Men and women who feel that call of the great outdoors which every healthy and normal human being experiences at this season, will be especially interested in Physical Culture for June—a special outdoor number containing many timely and readable contributions on outdoor life, and numerous beautiful and striking illustrations. Among the many topics akin to health building discussed in this issue in an interesting manner are: "When, Where and How to Camp Out," "Turning Up the Ball Players of the Big Leagues," "On the Road With Weston."

PLANS JERSEY TROOPS FOR GETTYSBURG TRIP

The problem of moving the Second Brigade of the New Jersey National Guard to the army manoeuvres at Gettysburg, Penn., in July has been completed by Quartermaster General C. Edward Murray. On July 9 Company G, Second Infantry, will start from Freehold and go to Elizabeth. Company C, Companies D and I from Elizabeth, Company K from Plainfield, Company M from Somerville and Company H from Bound Brook, will join it.

The horses for the officers, including the commandant, Brig. Gen. Dennis F. Collins, and his staff, will be loaded in Newark and sent to Elizabethport. This section will go by special train to Gettysburg over the Central Railroad of New Jersey.

At the same time the second section of the regiment will assemble at Trenton, together with the commandant of the brigade and his staff. Companies A, B, and D from Trenton, will march to the Philadelphia & Reading station, where Company I will have preceded them from Princeton by trolley, together with Company F from Lambertville. Company C of the Trenton battalion has been disbanded and a new company recruited, but as the army regulations say that no troops can participate which have been enlisted since March 31 that company can not go.

The Third Regiment will concentrate at Camden, and will go by the bridge route over the Pennsylvania Railroad, through Lancaster, York, Hanover, and to Gettysburg. The Second Troop of Red Bank will go with their sixty horses over the Central Railroad and the First Troop will follow. All of the troops will go on July 9 and remain until July 18, excepting the. First Troop of Essex, which goes July 16 and gets back July 23, and the Second Troop, which goes July 23 and gets back July 30.

Death of Mrs. T. J. Stead.

Older residents of this city will learn with sorrow of the sudden death on Friday, May 27, of Sallie Parker, wife of Thomas J. Stead, of New York. Mr. and Mrs. Stead removed from this city a number of years ago to Newark, where they were active in church work and Mrs. Stead was actively interested in the work of the Y. W. C. A., of Newark. Her funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at 769 High street, Newark.

"Oh, let the other fellow do the worrying," said the happy-go-lucky man.

"A great many people say that," replied the man who worries, "and it seems as if I were nearly always picked out to be the other fellow.—Washington Evening Star.

—Mr. and Mrs. Edward Texier of New York, have removed into the house formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. John Loose on Jackson avenue.

CONGRATULATE FR. BOGAN

Mgr. Falconio and Others Send Greetings on 25th Anniversary of Ordination.

Rev. Bernard M. Bogan, rector of St. Mary's church who celebrated his twenty-fifth anniversary of his entry into the priesthood Monday, had many notable divines of the Roman Catholic church at high mass which was celebrated in the morning some of whom were old classmates of the rector, besides receiving from Rome the Papal blessing through Bishop O'Connor, of Newark, who is now in Rome. Among other messages of congratulation was one from Mgr. Falconio papal delegate resident in Washington; Mgr. O'Grady, of New Brunswick and several others.

After the services at the church which was handsomely decorated for the occasion, a dinner was held in the old Washington school building. This was a quiet and sociable affair in which no formal speechmaking was done. Father Bogan received the congratulations of his colleagues and appeared happy to know that he was appreciated not alone in his work in the parish but because of his wholesouled devotion to his parishioners.

A mass for thanksgiving was celebrated in the morning at which Father Bogan was celebrant, assisted by Rev. James E. Burk, of New York, as deacon and Rev. M. T. White, of Newark, as sub-deacon. Rev. James Delehanty was master of ceremonies. Monseigneur C. J. Kelly, of Hoboken, preached the sermon taking for his subject "The Priesthood." He told of the unvarying characteristics of the studies; the self effacement of the person in matters of the world and the duties imposed upon candidates for the priesthood. The church was filled to its utmost capacity.

CLOSING PROGRAM OF PRINCETON OUT

The full program for the commencement exercises at Princeton University was announced Monday. It is as follows:

Friday, June 10—2 p. m., golf match, graduates vs. undergraduates; 4 p. m., regatta on Lake Carnegie; 8 p. m., "freshman parade."

Saturday, June 11—10 a. m., 109th annual reunion of Princeton class; 3 p. m., thirty-third championship game, Yale vs. Princeton, on University Field; also "reunion parade;" 8:15 p. m., Triangle Club in "His Honor the Sultan" at the Casino.

Sunday, June 12—11 a. m., baccalaureate address by President Woodrow Wilson in Alexander Hall; 5 p. m., alumni religious conference, Murray-Dodge Hall.

Monday, June 13—8:30 a. m., annual meeting of Phi Kappa Society; 10 a. m., annual meetings of American Whig Society and Cliosophic Society; 11 a. m., opening exercises of class day; Commander Hall; 11:15 a. m., 162 annual commencement meeting of board of trustees; 12 m., planting of the class ivy and the ivy oration in front of Nassau Hall; 2:30 p. m., cannon exercise (class prophecy, history, etc., about "Cannon"); 8:15 p. m., Glee Club concert, Alexander auditorium; 10 p. m., sophomore promenade, gymnasium.

Tuesday, June 14—10:30 a. m., 163d annual commencement, Alexander Hall; academic procession will form at 10:15 in front of Nassau Hall; 12 m. to 1 p. m., polls open for election of alumni trustee; 1 p. m., class day luncheon, gymnasium; 3 p. m., swimming exhibition, Brokaw tank; 4 to 6 p. m., reception by President and Mrs. Wilson at "Prospect."

The classes of 1860, 1865, 1870, 1875, 1880, 1885, 1890, 1895, 1900, 1905, 1905, 1907 and 1909 will hold reunions.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Preparatory services will be held at Trinity Reformed church Friday night and the communion service on Sunday morning.

Children's Day exercises will be observed at Trinity Reformed church Sunday morning, June 12. A feature will be the baptism of children.

The Young Women's Mission Band, of Trinity Reformed church, will hold its regular meeting in the church parlor, Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Elder F. E. Smith will lead the prayer meeting at Trinity Reformed church this evening in the absence of the pastor, Rev. John Y. Brock, who is attending the meeting of the General Synod at Asbury Park.

The meeting of the General Synod of the Reformed church in America, convenes at Asbury Park today for a week. Rev. John Y. Brock, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, will attend some of the sessions. Rev. J. Tucker Lansdale, of Marcoinier chapel, is also a delegate.

Clarence Hand, of Fairview avenue, is visiting at Ithaca, N. Y., for several days.

WATCHUNG HUNT RACES

Sixth Annual Meet Witnessed by Fashionable Crowd at the Club's Grounds.

Five races on the flat and one steeplechase afforded fine sport for the one thousand spectators at the spring meeting of the Watchung Hunt Club Monday afternoon. The weather was ideal and the grounds thronged with handsomely gowned women, presented an attractive sight.

There were a few minor accidents that only added excitement to the fine racing. Among the best races of the day were those for the Netherwood cup and the steeplechase for the Somerset cup.

Rufus C. Finch's Lady Ann, Schuyler Casey up, in the first race for the Union cup, had a narrow escape from injury. Coming around the first time, Mr. Casey's mount bolted through the paddock gate and crashed into a table upon which two men were seated. They were bowled over, but escaped serious injury, while Casey slid off the horse's back and also escaped. The animal ran home before stopping.

Hugh Gormley had a series of exciting experiences throughout the afternoon, and he certainly was in hard luck. In the fifth race mounted on Rufus C. Finch's Harry Baylor, he was making a strong bid for first place against Essex B, when on the third round the horse stumbled and fell, throwing its rider. In an instant both horse and rider were on their feet and off again, but too late to figure in the race.

The race for the Netherwood cup, furnished the most exciting battle between J. H. Mulchay's Hammon Lass, owner riding, and James Hever's Sir Gaze, with Wildey up, and P. F. Brunner's Victory Belle, with Alpers up. Victory Belle was picked for a winner, until the animal stepped in a hole on the home turn and almost went down. The animal quickly regained its feet, but not in time to prevent Hammon Lass from winning by a scant length. Wildey brought Sir Gaze home ahead of Victory Belle.

The farmer's race was as usual an exciting event. A. P. Brener's Spitfire and Charles Kelly's Flora were the principal contestants and finished in a dead heat. In the run-off, Spitfire won easily, as Flora took her rider off the track first time around.

Marcus Hoyt's entry, Killer, Yorkshire, won the sixth race in clever fashion, and won lots of money for the former and his many friends present.

The bookies were out in large numbers and they plied their trade without interference throughout the afternoon. Betting was started a shell game, but the officials soon stopped it and it was not resumed.

Among the interested spectators at the races was Reginald C. Vanderbilt and his party. The hunting colonies throughout the metropolitan district were well represented. The summaries:

Union cup, for hacks or hunters. For horses used as hacks or hunters, to carry 165 pounds, one and one-half miles on the flat; cup presented by Hart Furlee; First, Al H. Woods, David Dows. (Dows); second, Big Ben, J. R. Pollard, (Gormley).

Farmers' race, for work horses the property of farmers in the neighborhood of Plainfield, about five furlongs on the flat; post entries. Spitfire. E. F. Bremer, (Bremer), and Flora, Charles Kelly, (Glaser). Dead heat. On the run-off Spitfire won.

Third race, Netherwood cup, for galloways, fifteen hands or under, to carry 150 pounds, professionals 7 pounds extra; half mile on the flat; cup presented by C. F. Wildey, Jr.; First, Hammon Lass, J. H. Mulchay, (Mulchay); second, Sir Gaze, James Hever, (Wildey); third, Victory Belle, P. F. Brunner, (Alpers).

Fourth race, open race, for horses three years old and upward, winner of a race in 1910 to carry 5 pounds extra; two or more, 10 pounds, sex allowances as by rule, gentlemen riders allowed 5 pounds; about six furlongs on the flat. First, Ardenia, James Hever, (McDaniel); second, Genesee, K. B. Schley, (Tuckey); third, Punch, P. F. Bruner, (Alpers).

Fifth race, Somerset cup, Steeplechase for hunters, to carry 165 pounds without three miles over a fair hunting country; cup presented by Henry L. Finch, First, Essex B, Peter Hauck, Jr., (Dows); second, Gypsic, Charles Pfizer, (Clapp); third, Harry Baylor, Rufus C. Finch, (Gormley).

Sixth race, open race, for horses three years old and upward; winner of a race on the flat in 1910 to carry 5 pounds extra; two or more, 10 pounds; sex allowances as by rule, gentlemen riders allowed 5 pounds, about six furlongs on the flat. First, Killer, Marcus Hoyt, (Yorke); second, Dr. Fizz, David Dows, (Tone); third, Tivolini, James Hever, (Mulchay).

Will Attend Playground Convention.

Harry W. Marshall, of the Playground Commission, will attend the annual convention of the Nation Playgrounds' Association to be held at Rochester, N. Y., early in June. More than three thousand delegates are expected to attend and an exhibition is to be given by 12,000 children of Rochester.

RANK UMPIRING FOR LOCALS IN BRUNSWICK

New Brunswick and Umpire Sheehan, who hails from the Squash League, near Trenton, defeated Plainfield on the former's grounds on Saturday by the score of 6 to 2. All close decisions, and those that were not close, were handed to New Brunswick, much to the disgust of the local combination, but it all goes in a game of baseball.

Loose fielding on the part of the locals also aided the Brunswicks in their easy conquest. The Middlesex nine secured a commanding lead in the first three rounds by tallying five runs. In the seventh Cosgrave reached home on a triple and sacrifice by Stallings.

Doremus, the actor-twirler of the Brunswicks, had the locals hypnotized until the eighth inning. In this round the Dorflingerites kicked the Brunswick whitewash bucket over and scored a pair of tallies. Carl*strom was the hero in this round* when he slammed out a triple that scored Emery. Carlstrom negotiated his tally through an error by Bragen.

Driscoll, Gauven, Dalton and Cosgrave, former Plainfield players, were given vociferous receptions as they made their re-appearance in Brunswick uniforms. The score:

Plainfield.

	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.
Martin, 2b	0	0	2	0	0
Boyd, cf	0	0	1	0	0
Barnes, 1b	0	1	7	0	0
Emery, 3b	1	1	1	0	0
Carlstrom, ss	1	1	2	3	0
Halfoster, rf	0	0	0	0	0
Nelson, c	0	0	8	2	1
McLaughlin, p	0	2	0	1	3
Schott, lf	0	0	3	0	0
O'Loughlin, rf	0	0	0	0	0
Totals	2	5	24	6	4

New Brunswick.

	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.
Harter, cf	0	0	1	0	0
Cosgrave, rf	2	3	0	0	0
Dalton, 3b	0	1	2	3	0
Stallings, lf	1	1	2	0	0
Keane, 2b	1	2	3	3	0
Bragen, ss	1	1	0	1	2
Driscoll, 1b	1	1	10	0	0
Gauven, c	0	1	9	1	0
Doremus, p	0	0	0	2	0
Totals	6	10	27	10	2

New Brunswick...1 1 3 0 0 0 1 0 x—6
Plainfield ..... 0 0 0 0 0 0 2 0 0—2

Three-base hits—Carlstrom, Cosgrave. Two-base hits—McLaughlin, 2. Stolen bases—Carlstrom, Harter, Stallings (2). Sacrifice hits—Stallings (2), Harter. Hit by pitched *ball—Barnes. Wild pitch—McLaugh*lin. Doremus. Struck out—By McLaughlin, 9; by Doremus, 9. Bases on balls—Off Doremus, 3; off McLaughlin, 2. Left on bases—Plainfield, 7; New Brunswick, 5. Umpire—Sheehan.

HALLEY COMET HEALS DUNELLEN FACTIONS

The Halley Comet appeared at Dunellen Friday night and served as a dove of peace to the warring factions of the Board of Trade of that place. The meeting was well advertised by rumors as to the effect "that there is something liable to drop," etc., and there was a large turnout of members to expectations of seeing something drop; but the only thing known to have dropped in the town was the tail of Halley's comet. Owing to the arrival of the comet the janitor of the town hall did not "light up" until 9 o'clock.

George R. Day presided and the only matter of interest was the introduction of a 1,500 word resolution by F. D. Baerman in reference to the story appearing in The Daily Press last Saturday to the effect that Mayor Sanford's resignation may be requested by certain citizens, and a subsequent communication appearing in The Daily Press, signed by Dr Thomas Hogan and Frank Wynkoop, officers of the Board of Trade.

The purport of the resolution was to mildly censure Messrs. Hogan and Wynkoop for taking the assumption of power and publishing the letter as being the sentiment of the board. Mr. Baerman, who introduced the resolution entangled the situation by offering an amendment. A vote was taken on the amendment and original resolution and both were adopted. After the session was over nobody appeared to know whether the amendent or motion was carried.

The controversy, in which Mayor Sanford figured in the chief role, was threshed out at an executive meeting on Thursday night. There was considerable talk before Friday night's meeting that legal steps would be taken to compel Mr. Sanford to resign from office, but there were no developments of that nature Friday night. Mr. Sanford left Dunellen on a business trip Friday and will return this week.

A Churchman's View.

Magistrate—You were here the other day charged with speeding. Now you are back again.

Accused—Your honor forgets that it is Lent. I'm making a fast record.

Magistrate—Forty days.

JERSEY CITY RIDER CAPTURES BOY RACE

Jesse R. Pike, of Jersey City, won the twenty-five mile bicycle race in a field of 102 riders here Monday. Percy Haberel, of this city, finished at close second, only three inches of space separating him from the winner. John Stafko, of New York, was third. The winner's time was 1 hour 5 minutes 48 seconds. The first sixteen riders were bunched so thickly that the judges had difficulty in locating them at the time.

G. Orlando, the Italian champion, of Brooklyn, who started with a two-minute handicap, captured the time prize, his time being 1 hour 4 minutes and two-fifths seconds. J. Struber, of Brooklyn, was one fifth of a second behind.

There were numerous spills on the road, but there were no serious injuries. Ten thousand people lined the course all the way from this city to Mountainside a distance of 6¼ miles.

The one-mile race was won by Jerome Steinert, of Hicksville, with John Struber, of Brooklyn, second, and Carl Ericson, of Brooklyn, third.

In the boy's two-mile race Plainfield captured all honors: W. Drake, first; Eddie Simon, second; Willie Simon, third. Eddie Simon, a 14-year-old boy, who finished in second place in this race, secured eleventh place in the twenty-five mile race. The summary of the twenty-five mile race follows:

1—Jesse R. Pike, (two minutes), Jersey City.
2—Percy Haberel, Plainfield.
3—J. Stafko, Philadelphia.
4—T. Kennedy.
5—A. E. Rhodes, Brooklyn.
6—A. F. Miller, Plainfield.
7—W. Pofhal, Newark.
8—P. Sorenson, Brooklyn.
9—Max Hoffman, New York.
10—J. C. Kopsy, New York.
11—Eddie Simon, Plainfield.
12—M. Carey, Plainfield.
13—G. Orlando, Brooklyn.
14—John Struber, Brooklyn.
15—J. Hecht, Brooklyn.
16—J. Schuster, Brooklyn.
17—P. Damino, Brooklyn.
18—W. Smith, Newark.
19—C. O. Hausenbaum, Brooklyn.
20—L. Ricalton, Maplewood.
21—W. Hauck, Passaic.
22—A. Hausenbaum, Jr., Brooklyn.
23—B. Dorn, Brooklyn.
24—J. DeBruin, New York.
25—Thomas La Ross, Newark.
26—A. Rovere, New York.
27—W. Seeclenan, New York.
28—H. L. Lind, Brooklyn.
29—W. Goslin, Brooklyn.
30—George Simon, Plainfield.

HOLIDAY EVENTS ON COUNTRY CLUB LINKS

The chief event of interest at the Plainfield Country Club, yesterday was a four-ball match, 36 holes, for Class A and B players, those of each class playing together. A large number availed themselves of both, tea was served in the afternoon and the clubhouse was tested to its capacity for the dinner dance in the evening.

These scores were returned in the four-ball match:

Class A—S. H. Patterson and J. E. Erickson, 165, 30-135; Arthur Murphy and W. Lester Glenney, 152, 10-142; D. H. Barrows and H. R. Stockton, 152, 10-142; E. T. Willson and H. D. Hibbard, 163, 20-143; Leighton Calkins and S. D. Lounsbery, 164, 16-148; W. T. Glenney and L. Wells, 162, 14-148.

Class B—Henry Williams and I. H. Gates, 193, 52-141; T. W. T.] Maxwell and B. F. Krafferi, 184, 40-146; C. W. King and W. L. C. Glenney, 198, 48-150; A. W. Kleinecke and G. S. Clay, 194, 50-144; A. S. Barclay and G. F. Earl, 190, 36-154.

The leading scores at the Plainfield Country Club for the Spring Handicap cups, Classes A and B, on Saturday, were as follows:

Class A—Leighton Calkins, 85, 5-76; Arthur Murphy, 85, 8-77; H. D. Hibbard, 86, 9-77; S. D. Lounsbery, 87, 9-78; E. P. Goodwin, 95, 15-80; J. Whitney Baker, 88,7-81.

Class B—Silas P. Wood, 93, 22-71; George S. Clay, 103, 25-78; C. W. King, 103, 25-78; W. T. Kaufman, 97, 17-80; H. S. Brown, 98, 18-80; F. P. Fox, 99, 18-81; H. A. G. Taylor, 106, 18-88.

These scores were returned in the boys' handicap competition:

L. S. Church, 101, 2-99; E. A. Walbridge, 110, 0-110; J. D. Warren, Jr., 158, 45-113; J. P. Stevens, 151, 30-121.

GOVERNOR FORT TO SPEAK AT MT. ST. MARY COLLEGE.

The closing exercises and commencement of Mt. St. Mary College will be held at the college on Tuesday, June 14, at which time there will be raised a large American flag, together with the college pennant. The occasion will be an auspicious one, for among the speakers will be Governor J. Franklin Fort, General D. F. Collins, who will attend with his staff, and John Green, vice-president of the Board of Education of New York city.

ALUMNAE HOLDS REUNION

Graduates of Mt. St. Mary College are Addressed by Mgr. Kelly.

The members of Mt. St. Mary Academic Alumnae Association held their annual reunion and banquet at the college Monday. The president, Miss Matilda A. Gregory, of Newark, who presided, made a graceful and witty speech, and presented a loving cup to the former president: Miss Hnna Coad, of Brooklyn. Mrs. George N. J. Somers, of Trenton, ac*cepted the gift on behalf of Miss* Coad, who was detained by illness.

In a few well-chosen words, Rt. Rev. Mgr. Kelly, of Hoboken, urged the young women to absolute loyalty to their alma mater on which depended to a great extent the propagation of the faith of Christ. "How many times when all is desolate within the influence of the women of the family," said the speaker. "In how many homes the lamp of faith would burn dimly if it were not for the saintly influence of a devoted mother."

There were speeches by Mrs. George N. J. Somers, of Trenton; Miss Helen Coll, of Philadelphia; Miss Annie Gilbert Drummond, of Brooklyn. At the conclusion of the banquet all assembled in the college library and an informal meeting was held. The treasurer, Miss Margaret C. Gray, of Princeton, then presented Rev. Mother M. Gabriel, in the name of the alumnae, with a purse for the scholarship fund of the college. Mother Gabriel expressed her sincere appreciation of the loyal support and devotion of the members to their alma mater. After a visit to the chapel the guests sought the college campus and there amid woodland beauties and a riot of wild flowers the time sped rapidly by until the hour of departure arrived.

Among those present were Miss Catharine Fedden, Miss Mary R. Sullivan, Miss Marguerite McDonough, Miss Irene N. Duchesne, Miss S. Snyder and Mme. Alice Jaccard, of Plainfield; Mrs. G. N. J. Somers, Miss A. McGrory, Miss Grace Convery, of Trenton; Miss Agnes Allen, Miss Bessie C. Smith, Miss Mabelle Griswold Townsend, Mrs. Edward Styles, Miss Jane Uyllet, Miss Etta Loftus, Miss Irene A. Smith, of New York; Miss Margaret C. Gray, of Princeton; Miss Annie Gilbert Drummond, of Brooklyn; Miss Flora Harley and Miss Elsie Burman, of Camden; Miss Catherine Ratty, Miss Helen C. Coll, Miss Bertha C. Neely, of Philadelphia; Miss Hanna Henry, *of Cape May; Miss Alva May Tay*lor, of Chespeake City, Md.; Miss Jennie Dunnigan, of Woodbridge; Mrs. Joseph Carlton, of Orange; Miss Julia Blake and Miss Florence Conlin, of Bordentown.

RESULTS OF PLAY AT THE PARK GOLF CLUB

Numerous events attracted an unusually large field of golfers to the Park Golf Club yesterday. The chief event on the course was the qualifying round for the Spring championship, first sixteen players to qualify. The scores:

Dr. H. K. Carroll, 93; S. St. J. McCutchen, 96; C. W. McCutchen, 97; W. V. Byard, 99; W. R. Faber, 101; C. Chapman, 104; H. B. Titsworth, 105; C. B. Morse, 105; Rev. C. L. Goodrich, 109; J. H. Howell, 112; A. M. Morrell, 112; N. A. Miller, 112; Samuel Townsend, 114; F. H. Sill, 115; R. V. Carpenter, 120.

These scores were returned for the Summer cup:

C. W. McCutchen, 97, 26-71; W. V. Byard, 99, 25-74; G. A. Chapman, 104, 30-74; Samuel St. J. McCutchen, 96, 20-76; Dr. H. K. Carroll, 93, 16-77; Rev. C. L. Goodrich, 106, 29-77; Alexander Cochran, 109, 30-79; W. R. Faber, 103.22-81; N. A. Miller, 112, 30-82; F. H. Sill, 115, 30-85; R. B. Titsworth, 105, 19-86; C. B. Morse, 105, 19-86; A. M. Morrell, 112, 26-86; Samuel Townsen1, 114, 25-89.

The scores were posted for the Ladies' Summer cup:

Miss Grace A. TenEyck, 60, 16-44; Miss Bess R. TenEyck, 83, 30-53; Miss Louise Fuller, 83, 28-55; Miss Harriett R. Shreve, 74, 16-58.

In the putting and approaching contest five competed and for first place and in the play-off Miss Harriet R. Shreve and Raymond Carpenter won with a score of 9.

In the weekly competition for the President's and Park Golf Club cups at the Park Golf Club Saturday, the leading scores were as follows:

U. G. Tingley, 97, 28-69; W. V. Byard, 105, 25-80; Dr. H. K. Carroll, 99, 16-83; S. St. John McCutchen, 105, 20-85; R. B. Titsworth, 104, 19-85; Charles B. Morse, 103, 19-89.

Dress Rehearsal.

Owing to the fact that all the seats were sold for the entertainment in the Plainfield theatre in celebration of Father B. M. Bogan's silver jubilee a special dress rehearsal was given on Saturday afternoon at a nominal price for those who had been unable to secure tickets.

DUNELLEN'S WINNING STREAK SMASHED

Dunellen's winning streak was shattered yesterday morning by the Newark Y. M. C. A. by an 8 to 7 score. The Dunellenites retaliated in the afternoon by winning by a score of 11 to 3. On Saturday afternoon Dunellen defeated Rahway, 8 to 7. The scores:

Dunellen.

	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.
Giddes, ss	2	0	0	6	2
Giles, 2b	1	1	4	2	0
Ramsberger, 3b	1	1	1	2	0
Montross, p	1	2	0	2	0
Nonamaker, lf	2	2	0	0	3
Piddington, 1b	0	1	10	0	1
Dodwell, c	0	3	9	2	0
Clark, rf	0	1	2	0	0
Garretson, cf	0	1	0	0	1
Totals	8	10	*26	14	3

*No one out when winning run was scored.

Rahway.

	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.
Atkinson, rf	1	2	0	0	0
H. G. Hoblitzell, ss	2	2	1	6	1
W. Hoblitzell, lf	1	2	3	0	1
Smith, 1b	1	2	7	0	0
Young, 2b	1	1	4	2	1
Pennington, p	0	1	0	2	1
Worth, cf	0	0	0	1	0
Vanderhoven, c	1	1	6	0	0
Hamilton, 3b	0	0	3	1	0
Totals	7	11*24	12	4

*Young hit by batted ball.

Rahway ..... 3 2 0 0 0 0 0 2—7
Dunellen ..... 0 0 0 2 5 0 0 0 1—8

First base on balls—Off Montross, 3; off Pennington, 1. Three-base hit —Ramsberger. Two-base hits—Piddington, Pennington, Vanderhoven and W. Hoblitzell. Struck out—By Montross, 8; by Pennington, 6. Umpire—Mr. Scott.

Dunellen.

	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.
Giddes, ss	1	3	1	2	0
Giles, 22b	1	1	0	4	3
Ramsberger, 3b	1	0	0	2	2
Montross, lf-p	1	0	0	1	2
Nonamaker, p-lf	1	1	1	4	1
Piddington, 1b	2	3	14	1	2
Dodwell, c	1	0	4	1	1
Clark, cf	1	3	3	0	0
Garretson, rf	1	0	1	0	0
Totals	7	11	30	17	11

Newark.

	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.
Rae, c	0	0	5	0	3
Pollard, rf	0	1	0	0	0
Williams, 1b	1	2	14	0	1
Holaday, cf	1	0	0	1	0
Francis, 3b	3	4	5	2	0
Walsh, ss	1	1	1	4	2
Jewel, lf	1	2	1	0	0
Gabs, 2b	0	1	3	3	0
Furnam, p	1	2	1	5	0
Totals	8	13	30	15	6

Two-base hits—Francis (2). First base on balls—Off Nonamaker, 3; off Furman, 1. Struck out—By Furman, 3; by Nonamaker, 1; by Montross, 1. Umpire—Mr. Scott.

Dunellen.

	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.
Giddes, ss	1	1	5	5	2
Clarke, 2b	2	2	0	0	1
Ramsberger, 3b	1	1	6	2	0
Montross, p	0	0	0	5	0
Nonamaker, lf	1	2	2	1	0
Piddington, 1b	1	1	6	0	0
Dodwell, c	1	1	8	0	0
Fromneyer, cf	2	0	0	0	0
Garretson, rf	1	1	0	0	1
Totals	11	9	27	12	5

Newark.

	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.
Rea, c	1	2	0	0	0
Pollard, rf	1	0	0	0	0
Williams, 1b	1	0	1	12	0
Holiday, cf	0	0	0	5	1
Jewel, lf	1	1	2	0	0
Blair, ss	0	0	1	2	2
Furman, 2b-p	0	0	2	3	0
Shiller, 2b	0	0	0	1	2
Gabs, 2b	0	1	1	1	2
Walsh, p	0	0	1	1	0
Totals	3	6	21	9	6

Newark ..... 0 1 0 0 2 0 0 0 0—3
Dunellen ..... 0 0 0 0 0 1 0 1 x—11

Three-base hit—Nonamaker. Two-base hits—Dodwell, Giddes, Garretson. First base on balls—Off Montross, 1; off Walsh, 4; off Furman, 1. Struck out—By Montross, 7 Umpire—Mr. Scott.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH BIBLE SCHOOL DAY.

Bible School Day was observed at the First Baptist church on Sunday morning, afternoon and evening, and as a result several new members were enrolled. At the morning service, Elmer E. Eagon, of Trenton, president of the Home department council of the New Jersey Sunday School Association, made an address on "Home Department Work."

Exercises were held by the school in the afternoon and in the evening Rev. Samuel Guy Snowden, pastor of the Madison Avenue Presbyterian church, Elizabeth, spoke on "How to Make the Bible School Work While." At the close of the service Dr. Chambliss baptized two members of the Sunday school.

—The partnership of James H. Boling and John W. Hamilton, under the firm name of Hamilton & Boling, was dissolved today. See adv.

PLAINFIELD TROUNCES BOUND BROOK NINE

Plainfield trimmed Bound Brook Monday afternoon at the latter place by the score of 12 to 3. The locals had the Bound Brook team shut out until the ninth round when they scored three runs. The score:

Bound Brook.

	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.
Washburn, 3b	0	0	2	0	0
Bollinger, rf	0	2	1	0	0
Nolan, cf	0	1	5	0	0
Roberson, 1b	1	1	6	0	0
Shaw, 2b	0	0	2	1	1
Power, ss	1	3	2	2	3
Bruggy, c	0	2	7	1	0
Ortleib, p	0	0	0	2	0
Harney, lf, p	0	0	1	1	0
Totals	3	9	27	7	3

Plainfield.

	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.
Martin, 2b	1	1	1	3	0
Boyd, lf	1	1	0	0	0
Lidgate, lf	0	1	1	0	0
Barnes, 1b	0	1	10	0	0
Emery, 3b	2	3	3	3	1
Carlstrom, ss	2	2	3	2	0
Halfoster, rf	1	1	1	0	0
Nelson, c	1	1	7	0	0
McLaughlin, p	2	2	*0	2	0
Schott, lf	1	0	0	0	0
O'Loughlin, cf	0	0	0	0	1
Totals	12	13	27	15	2

Three-base hits — McLaughlin, Carlstrom, Bruggy. Two-base hits — Power (2), Nelson. Struck out—By McLaughlin, 6; by Ortleib, 4; by Harney, 3. Hit by pitcher—Ortleib, 1. Bases on balls—By Ortleib, 1; by Harney, 1. Sacrifice hits—Carlstrom, Halfoster. Stolen bases —Washburn, Nolan, Power. Dropped fly—By Roberson. Wild pitch—Ortleib. "Wild throws"—Martin, Shaw. Left on bases—Plainfield, 6; Bound Brook, 5.

Y.M.C.A.'S VICTORS IN A GARRISON FINISH

Y. M. C. A.'s aggregation of ball tossers won a sensational game with the Bedford Y. M. C. A. on Crescent Oval on Saturday afternoon by the score of 5 to 4.

After being goose-egged for six successive rounds, and the score standing 4 to 0 in favor of the visitors, the locals rallied in the seventh inning and tied the score. The winning tally came in the eighth.

It was one of the most exciting climaxes to a ball game in local sport history. Slocum was in fine form and fanned fourteen Brooklynites. Schuyler, the visiting twirler, only fanned one batter, but the locals were unable to hit his delivery to any extent until the "lucky seventh." The score:

Plainfield Y. M. C. A.

	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.
Gilmore, 3b	1	0	0	1	2
Murphy, rf	0	0	1	0	0
Taylor, 2b	1	2	1	1	0
Hand, c	0	1	4	5	1
Wilcox, cf	0	1	0	0	0
Coyle, ss	0	0	0	0	0
Dumont, 1b	0	1	12	0	1
Miller, ss, cf	1	0	1	1	0
Collier, lf	0	0	1	0	0
Slocum, p	2	2	0	3	0
Totals	5	6	27	11	4

Bedford Y. M. C. A.

	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.
Bowman, ss	2	0	1	7	2
Kreusler, c	0	2	5	0	0
Bergreen, 1b	0	0	12	0	0
Heise, cf	0	0	1	0	0
Johnston, lf	1	0	4	0	0
Schuyler, p	0	0	1	0	0
R. Kreusler, 3b	1	1	0	1	1
Augustine, rf	0	0	0	0	0
Plympton, 2b	0	1	0	3	0
Totals	4	4	24	13	3

Score by innings:

Plainfield ..... 0 0 0 0 0 0 4 1 x—5
Brooklyn ..... 1 0 2 1 0 0 0 0 —4

Struck out—By Slocum, 14; by Schuyler, 1. Bases on balls—Off Slocum, 3; off Schuyler, 3. Stolen bases —Murphy, 2; Wilcox, Coyle, Dumont, Slocum, Miller, 3. Two-base hits—Plympton. Umpire—Payne. Scorer, C. H. Line. Time of game—1h. 30m.

JERSEY RIFLEMEN SHOOT.

Under fine weather conditions, the New Jersey National Guard rifle match was won at Sea Girt Monday by the Second regiment shooters, whose members scored 1,306 points out of a possible 1,800. The successful team was composed of Major Martin, Captain Silvester, Lieutenant Farr, Sergeant Mayer, Sergeant Dabb and Sergeant Silvester.

Other scores were—Second troop, 1,226; First regiment, 1,246; Third regiment, 1,236; Fourth regiment, 1,287; Fifth regiment, 1,172; Signal Corps, 982.

Miss Hansen Engaged.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hansen, of Johnston avenue, announce the engagement of their only daughter, Miss Hannah Hansen, to Andrew T. Bozack, of Bernardsville. The wedding will take place the latter part of June.

—Constitutionalist's ads. pay.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL
My new barber shop at
143 NORTH AVE.
a now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.
EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

W. K. CODDINGTON,
Counsellor-at-Law
Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-Chancery, Notary Public. Offices corner c. Park avenue and Second street.

Guaranteed Salary
$900 YEARLY.
Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel appointing agents, others for local work looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and expenses paid as advancement, old established house. Grand chance for earnest man or woman to secure permanent position with liberal income and future. New, brilliant lines. Write at once.
STAFFORD PRESS,
23 Church St., New Haven, Conn.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Sanitary Plumbing
Brick and Portable Furnaces.
Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,
Etc., Etc., Etc.
I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.
Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in all cases.
D. W. LITTELL

DIED.

HILL—At Dunellen, N. J., May 27, 1910, Catherine Hill, widow of the late Nathaniel Hill.

EDGERTON—At her late residence, 427 East Front street, on Monday, May 30, 1910, Minnie E. Edgerton, sister of the late James T. Closson.

THE TOUR OF A SMILE.

My papa smiled this morning when
He came downstairs, you see,
At mamma; and when he smiled, then
She turned and smiled at me;
And when she smiled at me, I went
And smiled at Mary Ann,
Out in the kitchen, and she lent
It to the hired man.

So then he smiled at some one, who
He saw, when going by;
Who also smiled and ere he knew
Had twinkles in his eye;
So he went to his office then
And smiled right at his clerk,
Who put some more ink on his pen
And smiled back from his work.

So when his clerk went home he smiled
Right at his wife, and she Smiled over at their little child
As happy as could be;
And then their little child she took
The smile to school, and when
She smiled at teacher from her book,
Teacher smiled back again.

And when the teacher passed on one
To little James McBride,
Who couldn't get his lessons done.
No matter how he tried;
And Jamesy took it home and told
How teacher smiled at him
When he was tired, and didn't scold,
But said "Don't worry, Jim!"

And when I happened to be there
That very night to play,
His mother had a smile to spare
Which came across my way;
And then I took it after while
Back home, and mamma said:
"Here is that very self-same smile,
Come back with us to bed."

Hospital Women's Board.

At the annual meeting of the Women's Auxiliary Board of Muhlenbery Hospital held on Friday last the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson; vice-presidents, Mrs. F. H. Andrews and Mrs. Howard McWilliams; honorary vice-president, Miss Emily Cock; corresponding secretary, Mrs. F. D. Warren; recording secretary, Mrs. Daniel Runkle, and treasurer, Mrs. W. L. C. Glenney. Mrs. F. J. Hub*bard and Mrs. F. W. Butler* were elected auditors.

THE RETURN VISIT

"I understand that you have some visitors from the country at your house," said Mrs. Wilson, cheerily, when she met Mrs. Warburton waiting for the car on the corner. "That makes a pleasant change."

Mrs. Warburton coughed—one of those noncommittal coughs that may mean almost anything.

"Yes," she said, "they are relatives of my husband from down in the country, where we stayed part of last summer. They came up to do some fall shopping and, of course, camped down on us."

"Of course," chirruped Mrs. Wilson. "It's a case of turn about. Now you have a chance to repay them for your delightful stay on the farm. I think it's so nice to have a big house and—"

"You just try having a big house some time and see how you like it," suggested Mrs. Warburton, grimly. "Not that these aren't the nicest people in the world," she said, hastily, recalling Mrs. Wilson's predilection for retailing gossip, "but it was rather unexpected, if the truth must be told. When I invited them last summer in a general sort of way I certainly never expected five of them to come piling in on me after telephoning from downtown."

"Five?" said Mrs. Wilson, elevating here eyebrows.

"Five," repeated Mrs. Warburton. "My husband's brother and his wife and the three girls. What do you think of that? And me just breaking in an immigrant maid that never saw a gas range until last week!

"You can talk all you like," went on Mrs. Warburton, "about paying up for visiting on the farm by entertaining your country relatives in town, but let me tell you they get the best of it."

"Why, I don't see—" began Mrs. Wilson.

"Of course you don't," retorted Mrs. Warburton, decisively, "because you've never been through it. When James and I were in the country in June with little Bobbie these people never had to do a hand's turn for us. At least they didn't seem to feel called upon to do anything to entertain us and we were satisfied to be let alone to wander around in the woods or sit in the shade while they went on with their work as though we weren't on earth. The only time they put themselves out was when they got up a picnic and it would have been a lot better if they had never thought of it. We went trailing off to some creek in a wagon without springs and sat down to a cold lunch in the damp woods, eating stuff overrun with ants and fighting mosquitoes and little Bobbie fell into the creek and was dried out behind a blackberry bush."

"The idea!" said Mrs. Wilson, peering up and down the street for the missing trolley car.

"Yes, but when they come up here and pile in on top of us we have to turn everything upside down to entertain them," went on Mrs. Warburton, bitterly. "Oh, the bliss you'd like most women from the country, the girls want to go trailing about gaping in at the windows of the big stores. So I have to pilot them around. You know I detest shopping—I don't go downtown once a month. Honestly, I've been in some of those stores so often in the last few days that I believe the house detectives are keeping an eye on me, expecting to see me pick up a waist or a pair of shoes."

"Why, you poor thing!" said Mrs. Wilson, sympathetically.

"But that isn't the worst," continued the indignant hostess. "Oh, dear, no! James has to come in for his share of it. After dragging me all over town every day until I'm tired out, they have to haul us both out to a theater nearly every night. Why, I need a rest cure."

"You can hardly blame them, though," argued Mrs. Wilson. "They don't have big stores or theaters at home, you know."

"That's not my fault," snapped Mrs. Warburton. "Why should I be made to suffer for the shortcomings of the rural districts? Country people think that city people live in a whirl of excitement and have nothing on their minds except racing downtown to shop in the daytime, tearing home on crowded elevated trains to eat a picked-up dinner and dashing back downtown again to the theater. I declare, as James says, I'm all in!"

"Why, you poor dear!" exclaimed Mrs. Wilson. "You must be really fagged out!"

"Well, I am," admitted Mrs. Warburton, "but don't mention a word to anybody, because they're James' relatives and really they're the nicest people in the world."

"When they are at home," suggested Mrs. Wilson, motioning to the motorman.

"Exactly," said Mrs. Warburton.

Won by Diplomacy.

In 1747 Mr. John Brown was invited to become the pastor of a church at Hingham. There was but one opponent to his settlement, a man whom Mr. Brown won over by a stroke of good humor. He asked for the grounds of his opposition. "I like your person and your manner," was the reply, "but your preaching, sir, I disapprove." "Then," said Mr. Brown, "we are agreed. I do not like my preaching very well myself, but how great a folly it is for you and me to set up our opinion against that of the whole parish." The force of this reasoning appealed to the man, and he at once withdrew his objections.

If you are dissatisfied

with your paper service call on or 'phone

The Hustler

The best service in the city

Morning, Evening & Sunday Papers

'Phone 668-J

William H. Olmsted

331 Watchung Ave.

YOUR DULL Headaches

Probably come from overstrained eye sight. Nine-tenths of the headaches are the direct result of eye trouble. Bring those troubles to us and let us prescribe for you.

All work guaranteed.

FREE EXAMINATION BY

Stiles & Co.

PHILADELPHIA EYE SPECIALISTS

at 107 East Front Street, Every Thursday.

Hours 11:30 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Arrival and Departure of Mails

PLAINFIELD POSTOFFICE.
August 1, 1909.

Office opens 7 a. m., closes 7 p. m. On Saturdays closes half hour later.

NEW YORK MAILS.

Arrive—7.20, 9.40, 11.30 a. m., 2.30, 5.00, 6.30, 8.30 p. m., midnight.
Close—8.00 a. m., 12.15, 2.30, 5.15, 11.45 a. m., 2.30, 5.00, 7.45, 9.00 p. m.

SOMERVILLE AND EASTON.

Arrive—9.00 a. m., 1.20, 2.15 and 7.00 p. m.
Close—8.00 a. m., 1.30 and 4.30 p. m.

PHILLIPSBURG.

Arrive—7.30, 9.40, 11.30 a. m., 2.30, 7.00 p. m.
Close—8.00, 8.15, 11.30 a. m., 12.35, 2.30, 4.00, 12.45, 8.00 p. m.

THROUGH FAST MAIL FOR EAST.

Close—11.50 a. m. and 7.15 p. m.

DIRECT THROUGH FAST MAILS FOR CINCINNATI.

Close—11.50 a. m., 12.35, 4.00 and 7.45 p. m.

PENNSYLVANIA, WEST OF EASTON.

Close—8.30 and 8.00 a. m., 12.35, 2.00 p. m.

ELIZABETH, DIRECT.

Arrive—2.00 a. m., 2.30, 5.20 p. m.
Close—8.15 a. m., 12.35, 2.30, 4.00, 8.00 p. m.

NEWARK, DIRECT.

Arrive—8.40, 10.30 a. m., 5.30 p. m.
Close—6.30, 8.15, 8.30 a. m., 12.35, 2.30, 5.00 p. m.

WATCHUNG.

Arrive—1.00, 8.45 p. m.
Close—8.00 a. m., 4.30 p. m.

WARRENVILLE.

Close—1.00 p. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open from 8.30 to 9.30 a. m.
Mail closes at 8.15 p. m.

R. H. BIRD, P. M.

J. HIMMELFARB,

Ladies' Tailor and Fashionable Dressmaker

Suits to order at very Low Prices for this month. Fit Guaranteed. My Workmanship Speaks For Itself

309-311 NEW ST.
TELEPHONE 903-J.
Near Truett's Court

TIMBO'S Stock for Smokers

Romeo and Juliets, La Carolinas, Bocky's, Manuel Garcias, Acker, Merrall & Condit's La Elegancias, and a fine line of New York and Tampa makes. Fancy Smoker's Articles.

138-138 North Avenue.

AUR-MIN-O

CURES DRUNKENNESS whether with or without the knowledge of the patient. Cure effected or money refunded. AUR-MIN-O a secret remedy. AUR-MIN-O a Voluntary Remedy. $1.00 per box, or six boxes for $5.00. Free book. For sale at G. M. NAGLE'S DRUG STORE, Front and Grove Streets.

THE AUR-MIN-O Co., Inc.,
263 West 101 St., 23-tu-th-s-tf NEW YORK.

Central R. R. News Stands.

You can get it at the C. R. R. News Stands, both depots, Plainfield Daily Press and Plainfield Courier on sale at both stands, 5—Plainfield Morning, Evening and Sunday Papers. Largest assortment of Magazines and Weekly Papers in the city. Back numbers supplied. Special Orders for Periodicals promptly filled. Daily and Sunday Papers delivered. Orders left at stand receive prompt attention. Open Sundays.

SHERIFF'S SALE—In Chancery of New Jersey. Between Eudoxie Barnett, complainant, and William Judson Courtney et al., defendants. Fi. fa. for sale of mortgaged premises.

By virtue of the the above-stated writ of fieri facias to me directed I shall expose for sale by public vendue, at the Sheriff's office, in the Courthouse, in the City of Elizabeth, N. J., on at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of said day, one 24x24 inch Boomer & Boschert two-piston press, one thirty-five-horsepower Westinghouse motor, their No. 21645, one 16x36 inch Birmingham Mill, their No. 6; one 18x42 inch three-roll Birmingham Calendar, one 8x18 inch Birmingham Mill, one 12x27 inch Birmingham washer, one twenty-five-horsepower Westinghouse motor, their No. 21649A; one ten-horsepower General Electric motor, one hose-making head, one Clark tubing machine, one hose machine, Birmingham; one hose machine, Birmingham; one vacuum dryer and vacuum pump, one Adams wrapping machine, one Hadaway mixer, one Biggs boiler works vulcanizer, one boiler.

WEDNESDAY, THE EIGHTH DAY OF JUNE, A. D., 1910,

Also so much or all that tract or parcel of lands and premises, situate, lying and being in the City of Plainfield, in the County of Union and State of New Jersey:

Beginning at a point in the southeasterly line of North Avenue as the same is now laid out and opened, said point being distant three hundred (300) feet in a magnetic course of north fifty-nine degrees and twenty minutes east along said southeasterly side line of North Avenue from the northerly corner of property owned by the Vacuum Cleaner Company; thence running along said southeasterly side line of North Avenue north fifty-nine degrees and twenty minutes east, a distance of three hundred (300) feet to a point and making a new corner; thence running south thirty degrees and forty minutes east at right angles with said North Avenue and making a new line between the parties hereto a distance of one hundred and eighty (180) feet to a point in the northwesterly line of property belonging to the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey, said line being distant twenty (20) feet northwesterly from, and parallel with the northwesterly line of the right of way of said Central Railroad of New Jersey as filed in the office of the Secretary of State; thence running along the northwesterly line of said railroad company's land south fifty-nine degrees and twenty minutes west three hundred (300) feet to a point; thence running north thirty degrees and forty minutes west and at right angles with said North Avenue a distance of one hundred and eighty (180) feet to the place of beginning.

Being the same premises conveyed to the said William Judson Courtney, by David T. Kenney and Catherine A. Kenney, his wife, by deed dated April 24, 1907, and recorded in the Union County Register's office, in Book 484 of Deeds, page 466, etc.

ROBERT J. KIRKLAND, Sheriff.
LINDABURY, DUNCE & FISHER, Sol'rs.
$ 9 5m EDJ&DP Fees—$30.24

SHERIFF'S SALE—In Chancery of New Jersey. Between Charles A. Urner, complainant, and Emma Moore et al., defendants. Fi. fa. for sale of mortgaged premises.

By virtue of the above-stated writ of fieri facias to me directed I shall expose for sale at Public Vendue, now at Sheriff's office, in the Courthouse, in the City of Elizabeth, N. J., on at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, all that tract or parcels of lands and premises situate, lying and being in the Township of Westfield, now in Fanwood in the County of Union and State of New Jersey:

WEDNESDAY, THE EIGHTH DAY OF JUNE, A. D. 1910,

First Tract—Beginning on the road leading to the Scotch Plains at a point in the line of lands of Rachel Hetfield and others; thence running along said Rachel Hetfield and others' line south forty-five degrees west thirty-six chains and forty links to another line of lands of Rachel Hetfield and others; thence along said last mentioned line north forty-five and one-half degrees west seventy-six links to Cooper street; thence along said street north forty-five degrees and forty-five minutes east thirteen chains and forty links to the road leading to Scotch Plains; thence along said road south forty-five and one-half degrees east seven chains and eighty-two links to the beginning.

Containing ten acres, more or less.

The Second Tract—Beginning at a stake by the side lane, being a corner of the widows thirds; thence north thirty-three and a half degrees east and binding on the northwest side of said lane three chains seventy-six links to a stake standing by the south side of the road leading from Fanwood to the Scotch Plains; thence northwest and binding on the south side seven chains eighty-six links to a corner of the heirs of Aaron Hetfield, deceased; thence northeast and binding on said Hetfield heirs' line thirteen chains nineteen links to a stake; thence northwest and binding on the said heirs' line one chain thirty-eight links to a stake; thence southwest and binding on the lands of Phebe Clark twelve chains eighty-eight links to a stake; thence southeast on a direct course to the place of beginning.

Containing twenty-two acres, more or less. Excepting thereout four and fifteen hundredths acres.

By an survey the above tracts are found to contain thirty-one and a quarter acres, exclusive of the exception mentioned in the description of the second tract.

ROBERT J. KIRKLAND, Sheriff.
THEODORE C. ENGLISH, Sol'r.
$ 7 5m EDJ&DP Adv. Fees—$26.46.

Advertisements
—FOR—
New York Herald.
World, Times, Sun, Journal, Telegram, American, Brooklyn Eagle
—and—
Newark Evening News
Received at
The Daily Press
AT REGULAR OFFICE RATES

J. C. POPE & CO.,
INSURANCE AGENTS!
110 E. Front St., Plainfield, N. J.

Kindling and Grate Wood.
Cedar Posts and Bean Poles. Prompt deliveries. Orders received at 80 SOMERSET STREET.
JOHN MOBUS,
P. O. Box 320. Telephone 19-F-42

McCULLOUGH'S STEAM MILL,
21 Stelner place, North Plainfield, N. J.
R. McCULLOUGH, Prop.
Sash, Blinds, Doors, Mouldings, Scroll Sawing, Turning etc.
Estimates cheerfully furnished.

PAINTERS AND DECORATORS.

Take a Look in our Window and you will be convinced that the latest in interior work—Aerochrome Washable Wall Decoration—is very handsome and effective.

Woolston & Buckle
Painters and Decorators
143 NORTH AVENUE.

MOVING DAY
Are you moving? If so, you want the finest
WALL PAPERS
for your new home.
If you are a tenant, tell your landlord that you want to make your selection from our new and complete stock. The result will please you both.

Jas. C. Hansen
Dealer in WALL PAPERS, PAINTS, OILS
141 East Front Street
TEL. 346 ESTIMATES FURNISHED

M. WARREN
PAINTER, DECORATOR
and PAPERHANGER
85 SOMERSET ST.,
opposite Sangerbund Hall.

Special Notice!

For the month of May we will take orders for STYLISH SUITS from $18.50 to $35.00.

No finer tailoring than ours, none so good for the price. We invite your inspection.

Rogoff, the Tailor,
110 West Second St.,
Next to Plainfield Theatre.

Vail
JEWELER AND OPTICIAN
103 Park Ave.,
calls your attention to his
Kimless Glasses.
They Look Good and You See Good.

JOS. F. BURKE
718 Monroe Ave. Tel. 145-R.
Successor to
Mrs. Kathrin Brown
General Contractor and Grader
Cesspools and Vaults Cleaned
Satisfaction Guaranteed.
Positively the only odorless Excavator in the City.
Estimates cheerfully given.
Leave orders at
J. T. Vail's, North Avenue. 'Phone 394.
Postoffice Box 718.
For prices address
FRANK BURKE, Manager.
825 W. Third St. Tel. 1306-W.

ICE 35 cents
Commencing April 1, I will deliver ice to families in Plainfield and North Plainfield at 35c per hundred. The quality is the finest natural ice ever cut and the service will be first-class. I solicit the patronage of Daily Press readers and others.
JOHN MORTON
Office 145 North Ave. 'Phone 1086.
Residence, 52 Mountain Ave.
'Phone 454-J. 3 22 tf

Strawberries
Just the right berries for your tables—large, fresh and red ripe. You will enjoy their sweet, delicious flavor.
Reasonable prices and prompt, free deliveries.
W. W. DUNN
THE PARK GROCER
Door St. and Lincoln Pl

Hoagland's Express
FURNITURE MOVING VAN
Careful & Experienced Men
Office 205 Park Av. Tel. 833-w
Home Tel. 648-L.

ALEX. LUSARDI.
Foreign and Domestic Fruits, Choice Confectionery, Nuts, Cigars, etc.
211 W. Front St. Tel. 807-W.

COAL DEALERS.

JOS. HARRIGAN
OLD COMPANY'S LEHIGH COAL
929 South Avenue
Telephone 198.

TenEyck & Harris,
Dealers in
LEHIGH VALLEY COAL
Office: Bowler's Drug Store, 118 West Front Street. Telephone 648-w.

Coal I have on hand some very fine Hard and Medium Coal, All kept undercover. Prices Cool. Coal
It costs a ton reduction on cash orders.
L. A. RHEAUME
148 East Fourth St. Telephone 88-W
Yard, 674 South Second St. Telephone 221

GEORGE O. STAVELY
747 West Front St.

R. L. CLINE
(Successor to C. H. Rugg & Co.)
Best Quality Lehigh Coal
Yard and office 430 West Third St. Tel. 28

TenEyck & Kelley
Successors to Kealey Co.
COAL
741 SOUTH AVE. Tel. 1155

To Whom It May Concern.
This is to notify the Trade in general, Hotels, Saloons, etc., that D. Lopreto, of Newark, N. J., the largest Bottle Dealer in the State, has opened a Branch of his business at No. 40 Maple Avenue.
Anyone having Bottles, Papers, Iron and Metals, etc., to dispose of, call No. 1855 Talbot, and same will be promptly attended to.
I have on hand all kinds of Bottles, new and second hand.
Hotel Trade a Specialty.
Newark address, 189-203 Frelinghuysen Avenue.

JOHN WINZENRIED'S
Storage Warehouse
816-318 WEST FRONT ST.
Separate Rooms—Clean and Dry.
Furniture removed With care.
Tel. 850-R. Residence 812 Lee place.

A. H. ENANDER,
Sanitary Plumbing, Gas Fitting
Steam and Hot Water Heating.
Contractor for Sewer Connections.
128 WATCHUNG AVE.

John Lo Presti's
405 Watchung Avenue,
California XX Fruits—Nuts and Confectionery of all kinds Spaghetti in all shapes of macaroni, at 10c lb. Pure Olive Oil of Lucca, Italy.
'Phone 404-J. 11 27 tf

FURNITURE.
Repaired and upholstered. Equal to new. Send a postal to
HARRISON, 140 CENTRAL AVE.,
Cabinet maker, Polisher, Mattress Maker.

PLAINFIELD WINDOW CLEANING CO.
H. MERSTRICH, Prop.
Stores, Offices, Private Residences, New Buildings, Cleaned, Scrubbed and Oiled. Office, 145 East Front Street. Tel. 864-J.

E. B. Maynard's
Tonsorial Parlors. Electrical Massage for face and hair. First-class work. Children's Hair Cutting a specialty.
Tel. No 758.
141 NORTH AVENUE.

L. Moraller & Son,
Watchmakers and Jewelers.
Watches, Clocks and Jewelry. Fine Watch and Clock Repairing a Specialty.
219 Park Ave., Plainfield, N.J.

JOHN WIRTH
(Successor to Henry Liefke.)
BAKERY AND CONFECTIONERY.
201-203 West Front St. Tel. 738
Orders delivered at short notice.

HENRY WIERENGA
Residence 'Phone 817-J.
Furniture, Freight, Baggage Express and Rigger.
PIANO MOVING A SPECIALTY.

Now is the time when you need a
STOVE
and you may as well buy a good stove at a very Low Price. We are selling Stoves—Good Stoves—at low prices.
KADESH & LEVINE,
16 Somerset St.

HOTELS.

HOTEL WALDORF
EAST FRONT STREET.
HENRY WINDHAM, Prop.
Gottfried Kruger's Extra Beer on draught. Imported Wines, Liquors and Cigars. Hotel accommodations and private Dining-Room.

G. J. WEINMAN
CAFE
213 Park Ave., Tel. 524-J

HOTEL KENSINGTON
NORTH AVENUE
UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT
HOUSE THOROUGHLY RENOVATED
SUNDAY DINNER From 12:30 to 2 P.M. 50c

THE Hotel IROQUOIS
Conducted on the European Plan
Park Ave. and Second St.

EDUCATIONAL.

Plainfield Business College & School of English
Students may enter at any time.
PROF. A. A. ALBEN, Prin. and Prop.
Tel. 795-w. Woodhull & Martin Building.
SEND FOR BOOKLET.

THE STARR PIANO CO.
Established 1872.
Branch Factory Office.
CHAS. M. SUHR, Mgr.
514 East 6th St., Plainfield, N. J.

DRUGGISTS.

WE ASSUME THE RISK
There is no promise exacted or formality expected when you accept our offer of money back for the asking, if KEZAL HAIR TONIC fails to give you satisfaction. Put us to the test today. We will assume all risk. THE KEZAL 25c and $1.00

MILLER'S PHARMACY
Park Ave. and Fourth St. Tel 262.

Hodge's Pharmacy.
Y. M. C. A. Building.
BELLE MEAD SWEETS.
Tel 62

Health Is Wealth
Various boards of health, government inspectors and sanitariums everywhere urge the use of manufactured ICE.
Why? BECAUSE it is pure. We manufacture the purest Ice that can be produced and sell no other. PRICES REASONABLE.
CRYSTAL ICE Co.
MacDONALD & IVAMY,
Exclusive Handlers.
307 Arlington Ave. 'Phone 1023

For $1.50
per month we will clean and press 4 suits and one overcoat. Call for them and deliver the same. Payable $1.50 per month.
Repairing and altering neatly done Suits to order $20 and up.
Howard W. Cobbs
(Successor to Leslie M. Cobbs.)
146 E. 5TH St. 'Phone 461-L
near Woman's Exchange.

SMALLEY BROS.
147 North Avenue.
BUTCHERS
CHOICE MEATS.
GAME IN SEASON.
ROASTING AND BROILING CHICKENS A SPECIALTY.
Orders called for and delivered.
Telephone 88-L.

William H. Pope, ELECTRICIAN.
All kinds of Electrical Work done at Reasonable Prices.
116 NORTH AVENUE.

Lincoln Market Frank Nolzig Proprietor
94 Somerset St. Tele. 781
CHOICE MEATS, FISH AND VEGETABLES.
Heinz's Sauer Kraut

KODAKS
Complete line of Photo Supplies.
Printing and Developing
At Doane's 115 Park Ave.

Gray's Express
The quickest and most efficient service in the city.
212 Muhlenberg Place.
Tel. 357-R. 5 17 1m

THE DAWN OF GENIUS.

He struck a pose, as if to say:
"Good people, please observe
How great I am." "A fraud," cried they,
"But we admire your nerve!"

"Oh, well," he answered, posing still,
For that you have my thanks;
The men whose fame the world doth fill
Were first looked on as cranks."

And thereupon humanity
He started in to score
And cursed the world's insanity,
Till he could curse no more.

And in the rancor of his heart
He dipped his pen and wrote.
Forthwith the world woke with a start
And hailed him man of note.

Beating Mrs. Lot.

"It was not so very wonderful that when Lot's wife looked back she turned into a pillar of salt."

"Not a very wonderful thing to have happened in the age of miracles perhaps, but nothing so wonderful happens in these prosaic days."

"Oh, I don't know; we were going out Main street last evening and when my chauffeur looked back he turned into a telegraph pole."

CHRISTMAS EVE.

The Burglar—Gimme all your money.
The Married Man—Sorry, old chap, but my wife beat you to it by about a week.

Another Change.

The juicy watermelon's fled,
The sweet ripe vegetables have aped;
In their place the sausage looms,
And the dyspeptic mince pie booms.

How It Struck Him.

"Behold the wondrous beauties of yon sunset sky," exclaimed the poet. "How prodigal nature is with its resplendent glories."

"Yes," answered the busy publisher, in an absent-minded tone, "it is going some to throw in a colored supplement every day."

The History Class.

Prof. Curt—Now, young ladies, attention. Miss Frivol, what did Caesar say to Brutus when the latter struck him?

Miss Frivol (with a giggle)—I suppose he said it was real rude in him to cut an old friend.

Her Revenge.

"She doesn't appear to be very happy."

"No, she married her husband for revenge."

"Hated him, eh?"

"No, hated the girl he was engaged to."

His Chance for Comfort.

"Can you be comfortable in bed while your brother walks the streets?" asked the social reformer.

"Yes," was the reply, "for my brother always hogs the covers."

WELL! WELL!

Miss Kidder—Sah! Carrie has dyed her hair black. Don't tell anybody.
Miss Askitt—Is it a secret?
Miss Kidder—Yes; she wants to keep it dark.

Queer Language.

Bargains aren't found at a bar
Nor do barnacles grow on a barn;
Carbuncles don't grow on a car,
Nor do pharmacists work on a farm.

The Brute.

His Wife—And did you think of me during your absence?
Her Husband—You bet I did. That's why I stayed away so long.

Not So Big.

"I see by the papers that Taft is alarmed about his size."
"He will feel better when he stacks his size up against the size of Texas."

She Has To.

"Is your wife a woman to mince matters?"
"She has to when she makes the pies."

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning June 5, 1910.

Topic—Christ our judge.—Matt. xxv, 31-46. (Consecration meeting.) Comment by Rev. Sherman H. Doyle, D. D.

A judge in civil life is an official before whom those charged with civil or criminal misconduct are brought for trial. In our country there are various degrees of courts, each one limited as to the character of cases that may be tried before it. The supreme court of the United States at Washington is the highest form of court in our land, passing judgments affecting the constitution of the United States, and these judgments are final. It is the court of last resort, and its decisions cannot be appealed to any other tribunal.* The surroundings of many courts are most brilliant, but none will be so glorious when Christ, the Son of Man, shall come, with all his holy angels, and sit upon the throne of His glory and judge the world. No human court has a universal jurisdiction, but when Christ appears as a judge it will be to judge the world, and His judgment will be final, and no appeal from it will be possible. These facts should impress us with solemnity. We should think of Christ as a judge as well as our Lord and Saviour.

The jurisdiction of Christ as a judge will in the last day be a universal one. "And before Him shall be gathered all nations." The people of every nation that lived in the history of the world will stand before Him. Therefore we ourselves will be among that number. No one can escape. Many who commit crimes against civil governments fly to some distant land and escape trial, but this cannot be done in the day of the general judgment. Men will call to the hills and rocks to fall upon them and destroy them, but nothing of the kind will happen. The righteous and the wicked will alike stand before Christ the Judge and receive sentence from Him.

In His capacity as judge Christ will divide all nations into two classes. The first, which he calls the sheep, will stand upon His right hand, and the second, designated as the goats, will stand upon His left hand. The sheep typify the innocent, the gentle, the good, while the goats represent the unworthy. The right hand signifies honor and favor, while the left hand denotes the opposite. This judicial distinction between the right hand and left hand is also found in classical writers. To the ones on the right hand Jesus will say, "Come, ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world;" to those on the left hand, "Depart from me, ye cursed, into everlasting fire prepared for the devil and his angels." What joy to those upon the right hand! What awful woe and anguish to those upon the left hand! On one of these two sides we shall stand. One of these two judgments will be pronounced upon us. Which? It depends entirely upon us in the relation we assume to Christ in this life.

Christ seems to base His judgments upon our personal goodness, but He really goes deeper than that. He recalls what they had done unto Him through doing unto His disciples and "in like manner" the unsanctified may will save no soul. Works must be founded upon faith in Christ, for when those who were condemned declared that they had had no opportunity to do such things He replied that in doing them not unto the least of His disciples they did them not unto Him. In Christ's name and by faith in Him good works alone are well pleasing to Christ and to His Father.

The judgment of Christ is final and for all eternity. No sentence ever ends. These shall go into everlasting punishment, but the righteous into life everlasting." How much, therefore, we have at stake in this judgment of Christ! "Everlasting punishment!" "Everlasting life!" Which will we choose?

BIBLE READINGS.

Gen. xviii, 23-33; Ps. i, 1-6; lxxii, 2-9, 13-17; Isa. xlii, 3-5; Mal. iii, 1-3; Matt. vii, 1-5; Acts x, 34-43; I Cor. xi, 27-34, II Cor. v, 9-11.

Hungary and Egypt Press On.

Ex-Secretary Von Ogden Vogt, who returned from a trip to Europe and the east, has many encouraging things to say about Christian Endeavor as he found it in his travels. In Budapest, Hungary, where Professor Szabo for many years has been the efficient leader, the Endeavorers are taking hold of Christian Endeavor work in a spirit of reliant faith that is most gratifying. They have taken over and become responsible for one of the finest hospitals in the city. The hospital is excellently equipped for all medical work, and, besides, it has a fine chapel which will be used for religious services. Mr. Vogt was shown over the place, and he is delighted with all that he saw, especially the enterprise that has prompted the Endeavorers to engage in this great and responsible work. The Endeavor outlook in Egypt is also most gratifying, and the society is taking forward steps. Next year the Endeavorers hope to hold a great convention there, and, in view of this, Mr. Vogt assisted the workers in organizing what mightperhaps be called an Egyptian Christian Endeavor union to push forward the cause. Thus abroad as well as at home Christian Endeavor, 1910, is closing up its ranks and pressing toward the mark.

Floating Endeavor.

On the United States battleship South Dakota there is a Christian Endeavor society with ten members. It was organized by one of the marines with the aid of Endeavorers in Honolulu.

AMERICAN MANUFACTURER IN "CANADIAN INVASION."

Many Industries There Controled by U. S. Citizens.

The exodus of American farmers into Western Canada has caused so much comment that the movements of the manufacturers have passed almost unnoticed. Yet they are over there in force. In a tour of 4,000 miles, wherever I found industries, there I would find American money. In Fort Williams, Port Arthur, Winnipeg you come upon it at every turn. One whole factory surburb is given up to American firms in Calgary. There and in Edmonton the largest plants are owned by men from the States. In British Columbia, it is notorious that the copper mines are controlled from over the line, and that American lumbermen are doing the larger half of the lumber business.

The Americans are certainly in Western Canada. They may be divided into three classes—first, those who are already established in the United States and were forced over by the tariff and patent laws; second those who, like the first class, were established at home, but went north, attracted by the quantities of material and opportunities offered in their own line, and, third, those who "just happened," says Leslie's Weekly.

Most of the first class are to be found in the older industrial centres in the East, but a few of these Eastern firms are establishing branches west of the lakes, to save transportation.

In the metal industries that are being developed at Fort Williams and Port Arthur there is American capital of this class. The duties on manufacturers of iron and steel run from 25 to 35 per cent., and as soon as a start is made in Canada in the making of certain articles, this duty forces the American manufacturer of those articles to cross the line if he wishes to hold his Canadian trade. So the new car-wheel foundry at Port Williams, employing five hundred men, is an American enterprise. It is rather difficult to find out exactly which firms are American, so many well-known concerns masquerade under Canadian names.

NEW YORK IS WORLD'S SECOND ITALIAN CITY.

New York is the second Italian city in point of population in the world. Even the great city of Naples contains but a few thousand more Italians than does our nation's metropolis. These astonishing facts signify to some extent the magnitude of the immigration question of the metropolis. There are many social forces at work to solve these problems, but one of the most remarkable is the work done by the Italian House, a social settlement institution in the midst of the Italian colony in New York.

The first complete story of the work of this institution is told by Henry W. Ludden in Leslie's Weekly. It is a remarkable story of results obtained and methods employed in building an upright and useful American citizen of the Italian immigrant.

All Ran Down.

About this months we need
A little rhyme,
And so the kindly poets bring
Their roundelays concerning spring.

The warlike news we find
Within the press
Has preyed on every mind;
We need a rest.
A mental tonic cures the blues
And now we want some baseball news.

Utilizing the Squeal.

"I understand you utilize even the squeal of an animal that passes through your slaughter house."

"Yes," answered the Chicago meat packer. "We're aranging to lease that to the ultimate consumer for use when he wants to make a holler."

Thinking About the Tickets.

"I was completely transported by the grand opera," said Mrs. N. Thuzer.

"And did your husband enjoy it?"

"No; his mind is always on business. He says transportation rates are too high."—Exchange.

Hard to Please.

"Did Bilgings enjoy himself at the banquet?"

"I'm afraid not. He was scared all evening at the possibility of being called on for a speech, and when it was over resented the fact that he was overlooked."

Instructions to Wifey.

"So I have got to meet you in a department store, have I?"

"Yes, hubby."

"In that case would you mind wearing your hat tilted back a little for means of identification."

For Settlement.

"That fellow seems to take himself very seriously."

"Yes; he thinks his personal squabbles are weighty enough to be referred to the Hague."

Howard—Bridget, did my wife come in a few minutes ago?

Bridget—No, sir. That's the parrot you hear a-hollerin'.—Harper's

POSITION HAD ITS DRAWBACKS.

"Do you know of any man who wants a stenographer?" asked Miss Timms when she had ordered a cup of extra strong coffee, relates the Chicago News.

"Why," exclaimed Miss Winkle, "surely you don't want to change. It's been only a little while since you were telling me about your lovely position at the New Women's Hotel—or the Women's New Hotel—whatever you call it."

"I call it a 'Home for Indignant Females,'" said Miss Timms, sarcastically.

Miss Winkle gasped with surprise. "The last time I saw you, as I remember, you were feeling sorry for me, because I had to work for a common, ordinary business man. You said your life in the hotel, surrounded by cultivated women, was so much more refining."

"Yes, I know," admitted Miss Timms, "but don't rub it in. I also thought it would be nice to live in the same building with my work and not have to go out into the rain and get my skirts wet, and I thought I'd save time by not having to go on the cars. From this time on I'll board at least ten miles away from my business."

"Why, what's the matter?"

"Well, the hotel is run by a board of lady managers. Did you ever work for a board of lady managers?"

Miss Winkle shook her head.

"Those lady managers picked out the office furniture as if it were for a boudoir. We have to keep our stationery in the window seat. The inkwells were as sweet as they could be, but they had to be filled every half-hour. No office boy profaned the sacred precincts of the hotel, so I had to put in a large share of the time filling inkwells."

"It's nice to make one's self generally useful," said Miss Winkle, politely.

"That wasn't the worst of it," went on Miss Timms. "The superintendent had a great many interruptions during the day, so I suggested one afternoon that I take her dictation that evening."

Miss Winkle looked at her scornfully. "Don't you know any better than that?"

"No," confessed Miss Timms, "for I had always worked for a considerate man. I did not foresee that the superintendent's housekeeper would drink tea with her friends and then would send up to my room in the evening to ask me to take a few letters and some reports for the board meetings.

"That hotel had committees for renting the building, committees for buying the curtains, committees to buy carpets, committees for the restaurant department, other committees for making out rules to govern the guests, and then various other committees besides.

"The time I did not use up in filling inkwells was put in making out reports for committees and sending telegrams to members of committees. Fortunately there was no real business women on the board, so the directors were impressed with the fact that I had written 500 letters in two months and had addressed 1,000 envelopes."

"Didn't they ask you what you did with the rest of your time?"

Miss Timms shrugged her shoulders. "No, if they had I should have answered that I used it up in waiting on the committees and filling the inkwells."

"Once I forgot that I was not working for a man and I ordered a book of quotations for typewriting ribbons. The superintendent made me return them. She said it was too risky, as a typewriter company might fail. Once I had to take back two brown scrapbooks, because the superintendent preferred blue. I suppose she wanted them to match the bathroom. One of the lady managers the other day expressed a preference for green, so now the bookkeeper is scared to death for fear she will have to balance her book with green ink instead of red."

"You are getting sarcastic," said Miss Winkle.

"Yes, I know I am," admitted Miss Timms. "That is why I am going to get a position with a real business firm. It may be more refining to work for women, but it is less irritating to work for men."

Literary Housekeeping.

She laid down her pencil and went into her room to rearrange her hair. Her husband glanced at the MSS. upon which she was working and by which she hoped to achieve literary fame.

She swept the room with a quick glance," he read. Then picking up the pencil he added:

"Ah! if she would but sweep our rooms with an ordinary broom, once in awhile."

But this passage did not appear in the completed narrative.

An Easy Post.

Scribble—I'd like to get on some big newspaper.

Dribble—What could you do on a big newspaper.

Scribble—Well, I believe I could write the unconfirmed rumors.

So Many Do.

"He's not like other men."

"No?"

"No. He doesn't expect an amateur entertainment to be up to the professional standard."

CRADLES FOR ROYAL BABES.

All sorts and conditions of people look upon the inhabited cradle as the most delightful object in the family circle, says the London Globe. Consequently the world and his wife recently perused with deep interest a little paragraph in the newspapers which gave details of the cradles to be used by the heir to the throne of Holland. These are three in number, each of them a work of art. The one given by The Hague is of round trellis-like woodwork, in white and gilt. Twelve thousand hours of work have been given by thirty-four lace makers to make the lace of which the hood is entirely made, while the rest of its accessories are of a luxurious description.

Amsterdam has also presented a cradle of rosewood, with silk curtains, but although it is stately it is not considered equal to The Hague cradle. The third tiny bed, however, is surrounded with the halo of romance, for it is one that is used by Queen Wilhelmina herself, and this is the cradle which will be most occupied by the little stranger. But although cradles of state are handsome homes of sleep for the royal babe, their getup does not put in the shade the cradle exhibited at the Paris exhibition of 1909. This was the one used by Napoleon II., and was designed by M. Prudhon. Its total cost being £240.

But nowhere can be seen in the French capital a still more historic cradle—the one occupied by the ill-fated prince imperial. It is in rosewood, with old silver and bronze ornamentation. At the head is a statue in old silver, of the city of Paris, holding over the pillow an imperial, made in gilded bronze. The pillow is of white satin, with the gold embroidered letter "N" thereon. This infant's bed was presented to Paris by the ex-Empress Eugenie, and it was originally given to her by the people of the same city.

The cradle, too, which Rome presented to the King and Queen of Italy, on the occasion of the birth of their first child, was a magnificent work of art. The support of the cradle proper are in gilded bronze, the cradle itself being in silver. At the head and foot, the cords connected with Roman trophies, surmounted by a figure of Rome, with a crown in her hand, while on the inside is the wolf of the Capitol. Opposite, at the foot, is a female figure, the genius of the House of Savoy, the wings distended as though to protect the child and wasping in the hands the arms of the House of Savoy and Montenegro. The figure of Rome is over eight feet in height, being upheld by four lions, which are connected by the arms of the twelve districts of Rome.

A still more interesting cradle to British people was the one shown at the International Exhibition of 1851—for it was the royal cradle prepared for the use of the late King Edward VII. It is of boxwood, two feet wide and two feet ten inches long, the design being symbolical of the marriage between the houses of England and Saxe-Coburg and Gotha. In the centre of one end is the armorial bearing of Queen Victoria, surrounded by foliage, flowers and birds. On the rocker beneath is seen the head of Nox, the Goddess of Night, represented by a weeping figure. At the back of the head of the cradle are the arms of the Prince Consort. On the other rocker is the head of Somnus, the God of Sleep In the interior of the head of the cradle are guardian angels, and above is the royal crown, embedded in foliage. The figures at the sides of the cradle are made up of roses, poppies, foliage, butterflies and birds, while beneath them rise a variety of pinks.

Another cradle of great historic interest occupies an honored place among the many treasures possessed by Lord Salisbury at Hatfield House. And that it is worth its weight in gold is apparent from the fact that it was occupied by Queen Elizabeth in her infancy.

Retrenchment.

"What are we going to do about this high cost of living problem?" asked one citizen.

"I don't know," replied the other, "unless we compel 'em to cut down the prices of automobiles and grand opera tickets."—Washington Evening Star.

Answered.

"I'm afraid I'm catching a cold," said Kloseman, trying to get some medical advice free. "Every once in awhile I feel an itching in my nose and then I sneeze. What would you do in a case like that, doctor?"

"Why," replied Dr. Sharpe, "I guess I'd sneeze,too."—The Catholic Standard and Times.

Right Line of Stage Talk.

He—I hear that Totty made a hit last night?

She—Rather! Why she forgot her lines so naturally that everyone thought she was a society actress.

A State Secret.

Manhattanite—Governor Hughes says he wishes to retire from public life.

Albanyite—Fishing for vice-presidency, eh?

Always Unshaved.

The trouble with the man who always shaves himself is that there are so many times when he doesn't do it.

A SPRING LUNCHEON FOR THE SPRING BRIDE.

Sweet peas make a graceful and artistic decoration for a spring luncheon, and the pink and white effects can be carried out in parts of the menu.

Use no table cloth, having doilies on the polished table, preferably lace ones, with tumbler doilies to match.

In centre of round table have a large plateau of pink sweet peas, slightly higher in centre. From this trail ropes of smilax to divide the table into four sections.

In each of the sections close to the mound of flowers have a branching silver candlestick, with unshaded pink candles, and at the corners have four low candlesticks with pink candles.

Silver dishes holding pink glace fruits and nuts, and baskets of pink iced cakes are arranged in each section. A newer idea is to have one of the small iced nut cakes on a low standard. This is not much larger than a breakfast plate and is known as a Mary Garden.

At each plate have a small gilded basket filled with sweet peas, with the place card tied to the handle with narrow pink ribbons.

An appropriate menu for such a luncheon would be an appetizer made of chopped anchovies and minced red peppers on rounds of croutons, strawberries on the hulls, or cantaloupe, with whipped cream in bouillon cups, minced salmon molded in fish forms with a cucumber sauce, a pate of sweetbreads and mushrooms, squabs, with tiny potato croquettes and individual molds of cranberries an endive salad stuffed with a cheese paste, strawberry tarts—open molds of puff paste filled with cooked fresh strawberries, and ices molded in the form of a large pink flower set in green spun sugar, with a spray of sweet peas across the top. With the ices pass a chilled fresh strawberry sauce.

For a less elaborated luncheon the pate and tarts could be omitted and lamb chops or breast of chicken substituted for the birds.

WIRELESS SIGNAL IN CAB WARNS ENGINEER OF DANGER.

Dr. Millener has constructed for the Union Pacific a cab signal, consisting of a brass arm in front of which a glass disc shows a red electric bulb and a semaphore. Attached to the outside of the box is a gong. This signal-box was so placed in the cab that the engineer could see the glass disc without moving from his position at the levers.

When the current at the sending station was thrown on, says Putnam's Magazine, the antennae on the roof of the cab caught the electric waves and the gong on the signal-box clanged loud enough to attract the attention of the engineer; at the same moment the electric bulb blazed, and the semaphore assumed the "block," or danger, position, following the motion of the semaphores of the block-signal.

After the first experiments with this apparatus Dr. Millener concentrated his attention upon the construction of a more perfect arrangement of the signal-box, with the result that the improved signal requires no battery in order to operate it, and, furthermore, it was made virtually "fool-proof."

He Quickly Complied.

She—Mother says there is a rumor that you are quite fast?

He—My darling, would you allow a thing like that to make any difference?

She (doubtfully)—N-—no. Still, I would rather have it confirmed.

Up North.

The Explorer—What was that crashing noise, mate?

The Mate—We are stove in, sir.

The Explorer—Thank goodness for some kind of stove. I am nearly frozen.

An Added Attraction.

"You say the church attendance is improving."

"Yes. A fashionable milliner has opened next door with a fine window display."

The Wrong End.

Hank Stubbs—They say the price uv beef has gone right up ag'in.

Bige Miller—I told you the ultimate consumers didn't hev the bull by the horns; they only had a-hold uv the tail.—Boston Herald.

More Horse Trouble.

First Punter—The mare ran badly. She never seemed to take hold of her bit.

Second Punter—I didn't notice. I know that Moses Lazarus has got hold of my bit.

An Ungrateful Wretch.

"Don't you think smoking a disagreeable habit?"

"It is," answered Mr. Groucher, "if you try it with 'Merry Christmas' cigars."—Exchange.

Fine Piller.

Some poets balk at staircase verse.
It has its place.
And we might well get something worse
For filling space.—Exchange.

HOW EUROPEAN KINGS ABSORB WEAKER NATIONS.

The long series of carefully planned moves which ends in the annexation of a country are fascinating in their subtlety. Let us penetrate the veil of mystery and see how Russia goes about the business. Courteous always, she begins by obtaining privileges for her merchants to pass into or through the coveted country for purposes of trade. Then comes the secret agents, most of them officers of the Russian army. Some pass themselves off as sportsmen in quest of big game, or tourists of an inquiring turn of mind. Some go on the pretense of investigating the possibilities of cotton growing or the market for agricultural machinery. Some assume the character and garb of orthodox priests and cover their political activities by religious proselytism. While others, ostensibly in quest of rugs and furs, penetrate to Ispahan and Shiraz, to Herat and Kandahar. The chauffeur of the Ameer of Afghanistan is a Russian secret agent.

The next step for Russia is to obtain permission to open stores and banks, to trade at ports, to navigate rivers, and to establish a postal service of her own. Concessions are secured for cutting timber, for growing cotton and tobacco, and for operating mines; and rights are procured whereby Russia may buy land and build consulates, stores, factories and dwellings for those who are connected with the various enterprises.

Military reconnoitering expeditions are sent into the country, accompanied by detachments of Cossacks, under the plausible disguise of parties for scientific exploration. On the plea that the native tribunals would be prejudiced, she established her own courts of justice, so that Russian settlers can be tried only by Russian judges. And, finally, as the highest mark of her esteem, she "permits" the prospective victims to employ Russian officers to reorganize their armies.

Then there is a carefully planned uprising in some interior town. A few Russian stores are burned or looted, Russian mails are interrupted, the Russian flag is torn down and trampled on by a well-trained mob, and, should necessity demand it, a Russian vice consul is killed. Before the embers are cold, a Russian punitive expedition has occupied the capital and the chief seaports, for, much as it grieves her to take so drastic a step against so dear a neighbor, she is compelled to protect her subjects.

The blue-white-and-red flag of Russia is raised over the public buildings; the shah, or the emir, or the khan, or whatever the ruler's particular title may be, is packed off on a prolonged visit to St. Petersburg; a Russian military governor or political resident is installed with due pomp and ceremony, and a series of polite but voguely worded notes is dispatched from St. Petersburg to the various European chancelleries, informing them that, in view of the threatening local disturbance, Russia has been compelled to take under her protection the dominions of her majesty the shah, or the emir, or the khan, as the case may be.—Everybody's.

Booked Ahead.

"They say that poets lived from hand to mouth."

"Not these days," said the magazine editor. "I just had to beg a poet to let me have a small lot of verses for 1912."

Combative Evidence.

Phrenologist—You want me to examine your bump of wisdom, do you?

Subject—Yes, a man just called me a dod-blasted fool and he has got to prove it.

An Unusual Case.

"What broke off the match? Didn't the duke need the money?"

"He needed the money, but he refused to let her father use his coat of arms as a trademark for a brand of axle grease."

Died of Overprosperity.

"Poor Bill's gone."

"Jugged?"

"No. He couldn't stand prosperity. He was accidentally locked in a saloon over night."

New.

"Anything original about that show?"

"Yes, the villian doesn't bite his finger nails during the exciting scenes."

Just So.

"My wife wants $60 for a spring hat. I wish they grew on trees."

"I don't. Think of the prices we'd be up against when the crop was a failure."

Salesmanship.

Country Customer (shopping in London)—"Has them shirts warm enough, do you think?"

Proprietor of Gent's Hosiery Shop—"We have only seven or dese shirts in der show window. Mine frendt did you nodits de brespiration on dor glass ven you gome in?"

Better Yet.

First Pugilist—I'll fight while there is a drop of blood in my veins.

Second Pugilist—Coward! I'll fight as long as there's an inch of film in the moving-picture machine.

LATIN-AMERICANS MAY BE STRONG BUSINESS RIVALS.

Once and for all let it be understood that South America, the Mexican, the Central American, is a foe not to be despised. Nor is he a business competitor to be fooled with. South America, with its population of 45,000,000, Mexico with its nearly 14,000,000, the Central American republics, representing an aggregate of over 60,000,000 of human beings.

Cities like Buneos Ayres, with its over a million population—$300,000 more than Liverpool—Rio de Janeiro with its $600,000—200,000 more than Manchester—are marts which force themselves to the front in the reckoning with any commercial centres of the world.

Once infuse this colossal body with the propaganda of unification—let it once apply in any comprehensive sense of maxim that in union is strength, and you have a confederation inexpugnable on its own ground, and with aggressive possibilities of immeasurable import.

And there is no doubt that slowly, with many lapses, but with a general movement palpably manifesting itself, the idea is taking root, and will assuredly give a tremendous impetus to this gradually developed policy.—From Norman E. Mack's National Monthly.

MEDITERRANEAN MOTH IS PEST OF FLOUR MILLERS.

The Miller of the Dee wouldn't have exchanged his mealy cap for the coronet of his kind, but the millers of today might be very little averse to such an agreement. It's the Mediterranean flour moth that is to blame for the discontent. This pesky insect causes more trouble to the flour-makers of the United States than all the grain weevils and flour beetles that ever infested a germ-ridden world.

Twenty years ago the Mediterranean flour moth made his debut on these shores and now the family is represented in almost every mill in the country, says Van Norden's Magazine. When the mill becomes badly infested with these insects the only thing is to fumigate. This is a very expensive undertaking, and the loss is greatly augmented by the necessary stoppage of the mill.

Not Sure About Auntie.

The teacher had called upon Freddie Brown to give an illustration of the proper manner in which to compare the adjective "clean."

"Mother is clean," said he falteringly, "father is cleaner—" Here he paused.

"And," prompted the teacher.

Freddie was still silent and very thoughtful.

"Haven't you some other relative?" asked the teacher, smiling.

"Oh, yes," replied Freddie, "there's auntie—but I ain't sure about her!"—Cleveland Leader.

There Was a Resemblance.

After the victim's car was gone, his face battered beyond recognition, two teeth loose, and his nose dislointed, the hooligans decided.

"How much do I owe you?" he asked between groans.

"Owe us!" they echoed. "What for "

The victim smiled.

"Beg pardon," he said faintly. "My mind must have wandered. I thought it was a barber giving me a face massage."

Making Sure.

He (pointing)—I understand that that new building is a very fine place.

She—Are you thinking of taking a flat there?

He—Not unless I should get married.

She—If you want to live in a flat you should be sure and get a wife who would make a good cook.

He—Wouldn't it be safer to marry a cook who would make a good wife?

The Inventor of the Sport.

Tell me, O cow, with tranquil air,
Feeding in pastures green,
Why is it that you always wear
An attitude serene?
No indigestion mars thy dreams,
No cramps provoke thy cries,
"It is," the knowing cow replied,
Because I Fletcherize."

—Life.

A Serious Operation.

It was in the surgeon's reception room and the little man near the door, who had been waiting for a half hour or more, began to get fidgety.

"I can't wait here all day," he growled.

"Waiting for an operation?" the man next to him sympathetically inquired.

"No," snapped the little man. "I'm waiting to perform one."

The other man stared at him.

"Are you the surgeon?" he asked.

"No," replied the little man, "I'm a bill collector."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

No Apology to Offer.

"Why spend three years cultivating your voice if you don't intend to go on the operatic stage?"

"For the same reason, I suppose, that you've spent fifteen or twenty years in cultivating a discriminating taste for alcoholic beverages and yet don't intend to go into the saloon business."—Chicago Tribune.

Constitutionalist ads. pay.

PLAYGROUND PAGEANTRY

Two thousand people or more gathered in the city park Friday to witness the second presentation of the Kirmess dances being held for the benefit of the public playgrounds. There was nothing lacking in the way of entertainment and some of the dances omitted in Thursday's night's performance elicited round after round of approbation. Who ever saw the Highland Fling so perfectly executed or was there ever a more graceful coterie of young people than the dancers engaged in the Rough Riders and Spanish danza.

The dances given Friday night were as follows:

Fete de Mai, Queen Flora, Spanish, Killarney, Tyrolean, Jumping Jacks, Pony Ballet, Rough Riders, Highland and Robin Hood. Everyone present agreed that it was the most brilliant affair of the kind yet presented here, and included among the spectators were several distinguished visitors comprising the Mayor and other officials from East Orange. They occupied private boxes throughout the entertainment and joined in the applause and praise accorded the dancers. They expressed the opinion that it was one of the most elaborate entertainments of this character yet witnessed by them.

From the opening dance, that of the Fete de Mai, until the last one, that of the Rough Riders, there was scarcely an interruption, everything going along as smoothly as a professional performance. Every dance reflected the careful and painstaking training of the Misses Florance, of Elizabeth, who are in charge of the affair, as well as the ideal arrangements made for the comfort and convenience of the patrons, and the general decorative effect.

Little can be added to the words of praise given the soloists in each dance. They each shared the honors at the evening. The graceful figures and intricate formations were all executed in clever fashion, keeping in perfect time with the catchy orchestral music.

It was about 10 o'clock, when the dances were concluded and then the large audience divided its time between voting for the most popular dance and patronizing the various booths. Just prior to this there was great excitement on the stage when Richard Waring appeared representing "Teddy" Roosevelt. He was mounted on a hobby horse and his general makeup was perfect. Amid the shouts of the Rough Riders and other participants of the dances he galloped about the stage.

Mayor Charles J. Fisk took charge of the voting for the most popular dance and was ably assisted by Bertram Leggett, W. H. P. Veysey, Joseph Sandford and G. Stuart Simons, while John Cose, John Todd, Harry DeMeza and Boys' Secretary Bingaman, of the Y. M. C. A., acted as "barkers." In all 1,590 votes were received for the various dances, making a total of 2,816 for the two nights. The Rough Riders lead with 592, followed by Highlands with 332 and the Killarney with 327. The contest now stands as follows: Rough Riders, 592; Highlands, 332; Killarney, 327; Pony Ballet, 293; Spanish, 291; Jumping Jacks, 277; Fete di Mai, 272; Tyrolean, 219; Robin Hood, 89; Billikens and Millies, 53; Queen Flora, 52; Bulgarian, 19.

The scene opens at the Court of the Mai Queen with the arrival of guests costumed in the period of Louis XIV. They amuse themselves with games until the entrance of the Queen and her ladies in waiting. The Pierrots and Columbines are called in to honor the Queen and to amuse the Court with their antics. The picturesque game of Ball-Tossing is introduced. The Lords and Ladies then dance a dainty Court Gavotte and after the Rose Garland Dance, led by the Queen, watch the various dances planned for the Queen's entertainment.

The program for Saturday afternoon's performance follows:

1, Fete de Mai—Dance of Pierrots and Columbines, Court Gavotte, Rose Garland dance; 2, Jumping Jacks; 3, Queen Flora's Garden and Solo; 4, Dance from Killarney and Solo; 5, Dance of Robin Hoods and Maid Marians and Duet; 6, The Millies and the Billikens; 7, Pony Ballet; 8, Bulgarian Dance; 9, Highland Fling and Duet; 10, Voting for the Most Popular Dance; 11, Grand March and Tableau.

This was the program Saturday.

1,Fete de Mai—Dance of Pierrots and Columbines, Court Gavotte, Rose Garland Dance; 2, Jumping Jacks, 3, Queen Flora's Garden and Solo; 4, Dance of Robin Hoods and Maid Marians and Duet; 5, Highland Fling and Duet; 6, Bulgarian Dance; 7, Tyrolean Dance and Duet; 8, Spanish Dance and Solo; 9, The Millies and Billikens; 10, Rough Riders and Solo; 11, Voting for Most Popular Dance; 12, rand March and Tableau.

One of the features of the whole show is the energy displayed by Mayor Charles J. Fisk. His personal enthusiasm appears to have been transfused into the blood of every member of the executive committee with the result that there is no a dull moment in any part of the pageant. Not a whit behind are Messrs. Harry W. Marshall, Joseph W. Garrett, George P. Mellick and Herbert E. Parker. They are all lending invaluable services to the cause of the children's playgrounds. It is not to be forgotten that a large measure of praise for the success of the Fete is due the women who have spared no pains in their preparation for the production. The names of the general committee follow:

Executive committee—Charles J. Fisk, chairman; Harry W. Marshall, Joseph W. Gavett, George P. Mellick, Herbert E. Parker, secretary-treasurer.

General Committee—Mrs. Frederic W. Butler, general chairman; Charles J. Fisk, Harry W. Marshall, Joseph W. Gavett, George P. Mellick, Joseph W. Sandford, W. H. P. Veysey, Henry M. Maxson, W. S. Tyler, G. Stuart Simmons, S. H. Voorhees, H. E. Parker, W. R. Townsend, Lindsey Best, D. J. Carney, W. R. Causebrook, George H. Andrews, W. C. Kinney, T. J. Shirley, A. B. Laing, Alexander Milne, Herbert H. Foster, T. B. Duyckinck, L. Wharton-Bickley.

Tickets and advertising—Joseph W. Sandford, W. C. Kinney, D. J. Carney, W. H. P. Veysey, W. R. Townsend.

Program—Herbert H. Foster, L. Wharton-Bickley, T. Butler Duyckinck.

Lighting — W. R. Causebrook, George H. Andrews.

Grounds—Harry W. Marshall, A. L. C. Marsh, T. J. Shirley, Alexander Milne.

Last night this was the program:

1, Fete de Mai—Dance of Pierrot and Columbine, Court Gavotte, Rose Garland dance; 2, Jumping Jacks, 3, Dance of Robin Hoods and Maid Marians, and Duet; 4, Pony Ballet; 5, Highland Fling and Duet; 6, Swing Song; 7, Tyrolean Dance and duet; 8, Spanish Dance and Solo; 9, Dance from Killarney and Solo; 10, Rough Riders and Solo; 11, Voting for Most Popular Dance; 12, Grand March and Tableau.

The order of the performance Thursday night follows:

1, Fete de Mai—Dance of Pierrot and Columbine, Court Gavotte, Rose Garland Dance; 2, Queen Flora's Garden and Solo; 3, Spanish Dance and Solo; 4, Dance from Killarney and Solo; 5, Tyrolean and Duet; 6, Swing Song; 7, Pony Ballet; 8, Bulgarian; 9, The Millies and Billikens; 10, Rouh Riders and Solo; 11, Voting for Most Popular Dances; 12, Grand March and Tableau.

Ladies of the Court—Mrs. John M. Charles, Mrs. Sherman B. Joost, Mrs. John Perry, Mrs. Boardman Tyler, and the Misses Dorothy Fisk, Louise Booth, Helen Cruikshank, Mary Gray Runkle.

Gentlemen of the Court—John M. Charles, Sherman Joost, Boardman Tyler, Robert H. Cox, Henry Eaton, James Middleton, William Franders, Carrol Runyon.

The Court Gavotte—Mrs. Tenney and Mr. Flanders, Miss Booth and Mr. Eaton, Miss Cruikshank and Mr. Middledith, Miss Runkle and Mr. Cox.

Columbines and Pierrots—Mrs. Henry E. Butler and Lewis Williams, Mrs. W. L. Righter and Arthur Collins, Mrs. Arthur Collins and W. L. Righter, Mrs. Lewis Williams and Henry Lovell.

Queen Flora's Garden—Miss Noel J. Bullock, chaperon; queen, Miss Stella W. Butler.

Hollyhocks—The Misses Florence Nielson, G. Helen Conklin, Mildred Burnett, Hilda Land Evelyn Meeker, Irene Moy, Isabelle MacClymont, Katherine Stout.

Pansies—The Misses Carol Grannait, Edna Smith, Caroline Avery, Florence Ryder, Marjorie Heaton, Ruth Fuller, Bessie Marchant, Florence Waglow.

Buttercups—The Misses Edith Davis, Ira Bender, Ruth Freeman, Grace Kapelsohn, Violet Johnson, Gladys Macauley, Avery Ramsome, Marjorie Mehl.

Forget-Me-Nots—The Misses Janet Marchant, Marguerite Mattie, Elizabeth Kellogg, Blanche Stout, Alma Allegar, Mildred Tier.

Butterflies—The Misses Elizabeth Johnson, Jane Van Gandt, Marion Green, Dorothy Ross, Sarah Kapelsohn, Celia Mann.

Grass Hoppers — Everett Case, Howard Stelle, Carlyle Wright, Arthur Travell, Harold Candlet, Eugene Martin, Robert Veysey, Dick Williams.

Rabbits—Martin Snyder, Jack Zelle, Carlton Moore, Charles Green.

Bees—Joseph Bush, Alexander Reid, Jack Daniels, Walter Solbert, Craig Holder, Bowen Henry.

Spanish Dance—Miss Alice Forsyth, chaperon; the Misses Marion Snyder, Barbara Flemings, Ann Johnson, Bessie Alpaugh, Margaret Russell, Margaret Leggett, Marguerite Van Deventer, Louise Bird, Edith Ogden, Marguerite Arnold, Helen Wooley, Frances Newall, and Russell Morris, Eugene Lidgate, Everett Smith, Frederick Krom, Kenneth Runyon, Allen Overton, Burnett Doane, Frank Clark, Ernest VanZandt, Edson Woodhull, John Zerega, Thomas Ricketts. Solo, Miss Bessie Alpaugh.

Pony Ballet—Mrs. Richard Waring, chaperon; the Misses Marion Archer, Florence Alpaugh, Dorla Sartelis, Violet Johnson, Eleanor Bushin, Elizabeth Martin, Sadie Sandford, Dorothy Butler.

Bulgarian Dance—Mrs. William Merrill, chaperon; the Misses Grace Burke, Eva Browne, Josephine Lapsley, Isabel Ashwell, Ruth Brandagee, Margaret Meaker Ellen Merrill, Harriett Goddard, Abi Sykes, Florence Wildey, Helen Stevens, Mrs. Norman L. Snow.

Millies and Billikens—Miss Anna M. Day, chaperon; The Misses Gladys Willsie, Grace Hall, Marguerite Sampter, Madelyn Moy, Jenny Peacock, Clara Neaman, Esther Brownlee, Esther Phillips; Voorhees Borden, Philip VanDeventer, Clement Moore, Fred Mygatt, F. Warren Butler, Jr., Augustus VanDeventer, Jr., Garrett DuBois, Philip Phillips.

Rough Riders—Mrs. Frederic W. Butler, chaperon; The Misses Annie Fisk, Helen Timpson, Katherine McCutcheon, Edith Meilick Mabel Hooley, Gabrille McQuaide, Marion Hall, Ethel Most, Verna McCutcheon, Charlotte Finch, Anna Garrigues, Mrs. Hart Farlee; Gordon Abbott, Tom Eastman, Harold McCollum, Don Kilner, Edward Sharrett, Amos Brooks, Jack VanDeventer, Herbert Rogers, William Schoonmaker, Gerald Easton, Garth Williams, Hart Farlee; solo, Mrs. Hart Farlee.

Tyrolean Dance—Mrs. Harry W. Marshall, chaperon; The Misses Hazel Williams, Ella Jarrett, Edna Hyatt, Kathleen Peacock, Edith Bears, Grace Woolston, Ida Englehardt, Ethel Hudson, Marie Kling, Millwood Lutz, Madeline Streator; Robert Bellows, Edward Kuentzler, Charles Lee, Herman Kling, Fred Zweifel, A. Treadwell Slauson, Edwin Williams, Harry Nash, Leo Keaney, Louis VanZandt, Edward Jenkins, Edson Vail; duet, Miss Hazel Williams and Robert Bellows.

Many words of commendation have been given for the souvenir program provided by the Monarch Printing Company for the fete.

—Photo by Stone.

BOYS OF THE PLAINFIELD HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATING CLASS.

From left to right, top row—Frank Putnam, Alan Overton, Russell Morris, Ted Hamilton, Harry Brick, William Bullock.
Second Row—Horace Earle, Clifford Vail, Fred Loizeaux, Howard Runyon, John Keaney, Osgood Sewall.
Bottom Row—Lester Sutton, Russell Miller, Thomas Ricketts.

SOME SOCIETY FOLK SEEN AT RACE MEET

Many persons prominent in society were noticed at the annual race meeting of the Watchung Hunt Club, Monday afternoon. They occupied their automobiles and carriages and lined up alongside the rail throughout the afternoon, thoroughly enjoying the sport, also the social features. Among those seen around the inclosure and the paddock were the following:

Reginald Vanderbilt, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Bull, Charles J. Fisk and Miss Annie Fisk, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Waring, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Colby, Mrs. Everett Colby, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Hooley, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Waring, Mr. and Mrs. Lemuel Serrell, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Van Buren, Mr. and Mrs. George P. Mellick, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Tenney, Miss Katherine McCutcheon, Miss Charlotte Finch, Mr. and Mrs. William L. Tyler, Mr. and Mrs. Reeve Stockton, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Butler, Charles Butler, Miss Helen Delafield Richards, Mr. and Mrs. John Meyer, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Vail, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Lowe, Miss Mortimer, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. Rutherford M. Sheppard, Loomis Dana, Charles Pfizer, R. A. Fairbairn, Peter Haack, Harry L. Finch and Hastings Arnold.

G.A.R. ANNUAL REUNION AT LONG BRANCH JUNE 9

For weeks past the joint committee in charge of the entertainment for the delegates to the forty-third State Encampment, G. A. R., which assembles at Long Branch June 9, 10 and 11, has been busy preparing for a hearty reception to the men who defended the nation in the dark days from '61-'65.

The three big attractions planned are the automobile ride for the delegates on the afternoon of June 10, the salute in the morning of the veterans by hundreds of school children waving flags and singing national airs, and the campfire at night, at which Governor Fort and Past Commander-in-Chief Henry M. Nevius will speak.

The Women's Relief Corps and the Ladies of the G. A. R. will also hold their conventions at the same time. Mrs. Sarah A. Reed, of this city, who is past State President of the Women's Relief Corps, has charge of planning for those two conventions.

Friends of James Campbell will insist that he be placed in nomination for State Commander. Mr. Campbell, who is the leading spirit in G. A. R. work, has served as junior vice commander and deserves promotion. He said yesterday that he would not accept even should he be elected.

Held Impressive Services.

The month of May which is given up to devotion of the Blessed Virgin, by Catholics, was brought to a fitting close at St. Mary College Sunday evening, with an imposing service by the Children of the Sodality. The children marched in a procession to the Shrine, where one of them placed a beautiful crown of Flowers.

Although outnumbered more than two to one by the girls of the class, the fourteen boys who will receive diplomas as graduates of the Plainfield High School at the First Baptist church next month have each and all "made good" in school activities during their course. The members of the class of nineteen ten are fifty-one in number, and thirty-seven of the graduates are girls.

Above the average standing in studies during the four years of their school course, the young men have been particularly active and efficient in the school life, and have won an enviable record for their class. Winning the school insignia in baseball, football, and basketball, the young men have helped the school to win many a game, and members of the class have also come into prominence on the cinder path, the stage and the burnt-cork semi-circle. Those who have served as managers of the various school teams and publications have shown unusual busines and executive ability.

Russell Miller has developed into the decade's best school runner, and has nailed up new records in the sprints and middle distance runs during his school course. Edson Vail is a shot-putter known as a point-winner, and he has pushed the metal beyond the mark of previous years in competition. Horace Earle also represented his team in the various track meets.

Executive ability among the boys is shown by the sucess as managers of its various members. Harry Brick was especially successful as manager of the Senior play; Fred Loizeaux turned in a good report as manager of the P. H. S. Oracle as did Howard Runyon, who was also manager of the nine.

Press-notice winners in the senior play was Hamilton, Bullock, Putnam and Overton and high school people say that Sewall Osgood is the real Lew Dockstader thing, and back up their statement by referring to his success in various minstrel entertainments.

Lester Sutton rushes into prominence because he is the smallest man ever graduated from the school; folks say he's a man from his chin up, anyway. Thomas Ricketts made a name for himself when he played behind the line on the school eleven.

Fred Loizeaux is the president of class. Miss Meta Pennock has been chosen as valedictorian and Miss Margaret Leggett is the salutatorian.

'TWELFTH NIGHT' AL FRESCO BY HARTRIDGE PUPILS

The pupils of the Hartridge School presented "Twelfth Night" as their annual play on the lawn of the John Taylor Johnston estate Monday afternoon before a large and appreciative audience. The natural stage settings were ideal for the production and the pupils all without an exception acted their parts exceedingly well, calling forth frequent applause.

The cast of the play was exactly as published in The Daily Press on Saturday. A feature of the production was the orchestral music in which Dr. Waldo, Miss Waldo and Mrs. Violet Truell-Johnson took part. Much praise is due the coach, Miss Elsie Goddard, as well as other teachers of the school, who assisted in the preparation for the play.

The cast was as follows: Orsino, R. Stanley Brown; Sebastian, M. Walker; Antonio, L. Hedges; Roberto, H. Harrington; Valentine, E. Foster; Curio, M. Buttfield; Sir Toby Belch, J. French; Sir Andrew Aguechece, E. Stiles; Malvolio, L. Fox; Fabian, A. Williams; Clown, A. Swann; Friar, M. Blendinger; First Officer, M. Stanley Brown; second officer, E. Hovey; Olivia, Marjory Woods; Viola, Agnes Rogers; Maria, Dorothy Lyon. Ladies in Waiting, Eleanor Brown, Susan Hartridge, Katharine Drayton.

Appointed Instructor.

James N. Steele, of this city, instructor of forging and foundry work at Pratt Institute, Brooklyn, has been engaged as instructor of the summer classes at Lehigh University. Mr. Steele will begin his duties at South Bethlehem on July 17.

Home from Conference.

Rev. Edwain Shaw, Rev. Dr. T. L. Gardner and J. D. Spicer have returned from Rockville, R. I., where they attended the annual conference of the Eastern Association of the Seventh-Day Baptist church.

Recital at Truell Hall.

A song recital of unusual excellence was given by Mlle. Bruguiere and other Metropolitan artists at Truell hall Saturday evening which was largely attended.

An Accident.

Passenger—Did you ever run into anything in the fog, Captain?

Captain—Oh, yes; I ran into a man the other day in a fog who insisted upon telling me all the bright things his young son said!—Yonkers Statesman.

MRS. M. E. EDGERTON GOES TO HER REWARD

Mrs. Minnie E. Edgerton died at her home, 427 East Front street, Monday morning after a week's illness. For many years she had been an invalid and by reason of her weakness was debarred from an active life. At one time she was president of the Women's Auxiliary Board of Muhlenberg Hospital and always has been interested in the various charitable enterprises of the city.

Every Thanksgiving for some two score of turkeys with all the other good things that go to make up the dinner were distributed to those who otherwise would have had simple fare; and every Christmas numerous homes were gladdened by the thoughtful generosity.

Though a great sufferer she always received the numerous friends who called at her home, with no mention of her own pains, but with a cordial interest and a warm sympathy that made her so beloved by all who were privileged to know her. She was the only sister of the late James T. Closson, who died a little over a year ago. She leaves no family.

ENTERTAIN IN HONOR OF MISS LOIS PECK.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy D. Peck entertained the Warren Township schools, class of 1910, at their home, Highland Farm, Mt. Bethel, on Monday evening, a graduation party for their daughter Lois.

The members of the class are the Misses Kathyrn N. Reed, Lois E. A. Peck, Edith L. Cooper, Sarah Bornmann, Lillian Williams, Bertha Kirch, Jane Sides, Martha Betzold and the Messrs. Andrew Hayes, John Betzold, Walter Koechlin and Eric Wallberg.

The house was tastefully decorated with the class colors, yellow and white, and the class motto, "Climb tho' the rocks be rugged," and the grounds were illuminated with Japanese lanterns. Over ninety guests were present. Music, games and dancing were enjoyed by all.

A Combine to Bear.

Rector—This is the season when the world, the flesh and the devil takes a back seat.

Man of the Street—No chance to beat that trust.

Family Doctor (to young lady patient)—You should take a tramp through the woods before breakfast.

Patient—I can get better company

LA PORTE PRESIDENT OF P.O. CLERK'S ASS'N

Alfred E. La Porte, of this city, was elected president of the Association of Postoffice Clerks at the annual convention held in Newark yesterday. He is mailing clerk at the local postoffice and one of the most active and experienced men in the department. He was the only Plainfielder elected to office. Charles Duffy, of Paterson, was elected president of the letter-carriers' association.

Postoffice affairs and the reforms thought to be needed in that branch of the Federal government were the chief topics for discussion at the joint banquet last night of Branch 38, of the National Association of Letter Carriers and Branch 17, of the Postoffice Clerks, in Krueger Auditorium, Newark.

Twelve hundred members and their guests, which included notables from various sections of the country, filled the auditorium. Plainfield was largely represented throughout the afternoon and evening. The business sessions were held in the afternoon.

New Jersey Central Summer Book.

The general passenger department of the New Jersey Central, of which W. C. Hope is the head, has just issued its summer book, entitled "Along the Shore and in the Foothills." It is a handsome edition, a work of art, depicting in beautiful half-tone engravings the countless desirable places along the company's lines where one may spend a delightful summer or vacation period of a few weeks. The New Jersey Central has been generous in showing the beauties of the many towns and cities along its road and full information is given as to hotels, boarding-houses, rates of board, as well as rates on the railroad. The book will be mailed to any one who sends eight cents in stamps, covering postage.

Mr. Smith Injured His Foot.

S. Frederick Smith, organist and choirmaster of Grace Episcopal church, is confined to his home with a sprained foot sustained while exercising on the floor of the Y. M. C. A. on Saturday evening. The injury is not severe although painful.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Wescott, of this city, witnessed the Pennsylvania-Cornell boatrace at Ithaca yesterday. Before returning to town, Mr. Wescott will go to Alden Springs, in western New York state, and take the baths for rheumatism.

HONOR DEAD SOLDIERS

Winfield Scott Post Decorates Graves and Holds Memorial Service.

The members of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., assisted by the Women's Relief Corps and John Hand Camp, No. 28, Sons of Veterans, as well as Co. K, N. G. N. J., and a large delegation of boys from the public schools, joined in the observance of Memorial Day. There was a noticeable depreciation in the number of those in the parade which was the feature of the morning. The veterans held a short parade about the city and visited the North Plainfield and Plainfield avenue cemeteries, where services were held. Prior to that various details visited all of the cemeteries in this vicinity, strewing flowers on the veterans' graves, the expense of which was born by the county.

While the exercises of the day were in charge of Commander H. Craig Smith, of Post No. 73, G. A. R., Past Commander L. L. McVey was chairman of the Memorial detail, and Captain William Hand was the marshal of the day, having charge of the parade.

Following the parade, the veterans adjourned to headquarters at Reform Hall, where dinner was served to the veterans and others by the members of the Women's Relief Corps. Commander Smith was in charge of the program at Reform Hall in the afternoon. A large chorus of children sang patriotic songs. Adjutant J. P. Berg read the orders of the day from National headquarters, as well as the local, and Lincoln's Gettysburg address was also read, as usual. Instrumental music was also a feature.

The oration was delivered by Rev. Dr. Herman C. Berg, of New York, a brother of Dr. J. F. Berg, adjutant of the Post. After the exercises the children and others were invited to partake of refreshments prepared and served by the members of the Women's Relief Corps.

JUMPING JACKS WON KIRMESS CONTEST

Nothing but the capacity of the grounds limited the audience which gathered in the city park on Saturday night for the final performances in aid of the city playgrounds. The Misses Florance were practically smothered in flowers thrown in great profusion upon the stage and none of those who took part in the spectacle were forgotten. The final winners of the dancing contest were announced as the Jumping Jacks.

A lively contest took place at the flower booth, probably to see who could be the most liberal with their gifts and also with the spirit of aiding a good cause. After the final spectacle in the evening the voting contest got into full swing in a jiffy and the voting was fast and furious. First one and then another was in the lead and it was only after the persistent work of the counters and cashiers that they were able to announce the winners in the different classes.

The final results follow:

In the older class the Highland Fling dancers, Spanish and Rough Riders received the flags while in the children's classes the Jumping Jacks and Pony Ballet received the trophies. The final vote was as follows:

Jumping Jacks, 2,402; Highland Fling, 2,305; Fete De Mai, 357; Queen Flora, 529; Spanish, 648; Killarney, 387; Tyrolean, 375; Pony Ballet, 743; Bulgarian, 56; Millie and Billikens, 157; Rough Riders, 785, and Robin Hood, 282. The net receipts from the fete will be between $1,000 and $1,500.

MR. AND MRS. LEVIS BOOTH ENTERTAINED FRIENDS.

Mr and Mrs. Levis Booth, of Watchung avenue, entertained about twenty members of the Delta Upsilon at a picnic on the Watchung Mountains Saturday afternoon and evening. The guests included several Plainfielders and Swarthmore College and New York members, as well as several from Hamilton College. The affair was held at the King's Daughters Baby Camp.

Among those present were Rev. Isaac O. Best, class '67, Hamilton College, father of Lindsey Best, of this city. The party had a good social time singing college songs, after which there was a spread. All remained until early evening to see the comet, returning home about 9 o'clock.

Jonas Lie in Paris.

Jonas Lie, the artist, who has during the past eighteen months been painting in his native country, Norway, is now in Paris on a tour to the European centres, exhibiting his work and studying the most prominent painters of the time, especially Matisse and Cezanne. Mr. Lie will spend the summer in Norway and in the early fall return to his studio in this city.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST

VOL. XLII — PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, JUNE 9, 1910. — NO. 23.

"Support the Constitution, which is the Cement of the Union, as well in its Limitations as in its Authorities."—Madison.

MACHINISTS WON STRIKE

Ten Per Cent. Increase Granted and Men Go Back to Work.

450 EMPLOYES ARE BENEFITED.

All the Local Shops Running With Full Forces This Afternoon as Result of the Settlement.

The strike among the printing press machinists of this city which began last Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock, was settled today at noon when a satisfactory adjustment of conditions was reached at a conference held at Trade Council Hall. The manufacturers agreed to give their men a flat increase of ten per cent. with the allowance of $2.50 for expenses for the outside men.

The offer was accepted by Hugh V. Reilly, business agent of District No. 47, International Association of Machinists, on behalf of the men, and agreements to that effect were signed. The men agreed to return to work at 1 o'clock this afternoon. Those not going back at that time were privileged to return tomorrow morning.

David E. Titsworth, representing the Potter Press Works; David Scott, representing the Walter Scott Printing Press Works and P. W. Hall, of the Hall Printing Company, met the machinists this morning and discussed the situation, coming to the agreement as stated.

The fact that practically all of the men in Potter's shop went out yesterday afternoon, tended to hasten a settlement of the strike. Conditions at the Potter shop are different from those at the other local plants. There are a number of old men who have been employed there for a great many years, and while perhaps they are not entitled to the full rate, it would be unjust to turn them off. In these few instances the manufacturer will probably be exempt from raising the rate. In all 450 men were involved by the strike. They are now pleased with the satisfactory adjustment of conditions.

The only other shop in this district affected by the strike was that of Fuchs & Lang at Rutherford, and that firm granted the increase demanded last week.

J. J. Keppler, of Buffalo, fifth vice-president of the International Association of Machinists, is expected to arrive here this afternoon to approve of the settlement.

Vice-president J. J. Keppler reached Plainfield this afternoon and announced that an open meeting for machinists will be held Monday night at Eagle Hall, to which all machinists are invited. The object is to discuss organization affairs in general.

Strawberry Festival.

A strawberry and ice cream festival will be held on the lawn of the Temple Baptist church tomorrow afternoon and evening under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society. The following committee will be in charge: Mrs. John W. Musson, Edward Baker, Jr., Mrs. Charles Griffin, Miss Bessie Van Nest and Chris Utsinger. The proceeds will be for the benefit of the church building fund. In case of rain, the affair will be held on Friday.

John Hallahan Let Off.

John Hallahan, of Short Hills, became woozy in the borough yesterday, as a result of imbibing too much applejack. He was arrested by Lemuel Pope. In court this morning Recorder Dolliver suspended sentence on Hallahan on the condition that he would never drink in the borough again.

Miss Sharkey to Wed.

Miss Agnes W. Sharkey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Sharkey, of Whitewood avenue, and Walter S. Stewart, of Washington avenue, the borough, will be married this evening at 7:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents. Rev. J. O. McKelvey, of Warren chapel, will officiate.

Funeral of Miss Ken.

The funeral of Miss Sarah Ken will be held tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock from the home of her sister, Mrs. T. J. Kaine, at Hampton Junction. Miss Ken had been at Muhlenberg Hospital two or three weeks, where she underwent an operation. She died on Monday.

Lecture on Astronomy.

Rev. Charles H. Schneegas, pastor of the German Reformed church will deliver an illustrated lecture on astronomy in the German Reformed church tomorrow night. Eighty pictures of planets will be shown. Admission to the lecture is free.

OFFER $50 REWARD FOR JOKERS' ARREST

The trustees of the Scotch Plains Baptist church have voted to offer a reward of fifty dollars for the arrest and conviction of the person or persons guilty of painting and placarding the fence surrounding the parsonage occupied by the pastor, Rev. Franklin T. Mathiews.

The fence was painted and decorated some time during last Friday night. A skull and cross bones with the word "Beware!" was painted on the fence. Pastor Mathiews recently gained the enmity of the sporting element of the village for his activity against playing Sunday ball games and it is the impression of some that some of the persons who are "sore" over the prohibition of Sunday games are responsible for the act. Others view it as a practical joke.

AN ITALIAN COMPOSER MAKES HIS HOME HERE

Signor Nino Fernando Tetamo, of Palermo, Italy, a nephew of Monsignor di Giovanni, Bishop and the Prelate of Pope Pius X, accompanied by his wife, has come to Plainfield to reside, stopping for the present at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Story on Somerset street. Signor Tetamo is a distinguished son of Italy, being a composer, director and coach of opera and also a finished pianist.

Signor Tetamo has composed in all forms, operas, symphonies, concerts for grand orchestra and many compositions for piano and song. He has given concerts through Europe and America. In this country he was formerly teacher of repertoire in the Powell Musical Institute, New York. Afterward he was engaged as director at the Imperial Institute in Winnipeg. For the past year, he has been director of music in the State Normal College of Alabama, "Musical America," of New York, said of Signor Tetamo, "he is a composer of great ability, a distinguished director and coach of opera and a magnificent performer."

Signor Tetamo's grandfather was a famous portrait painter. Many of his works are now on exhibiton in Boston, Washington and Philadelphia, where they have been greatly admired by art lovers. The signor is a personal warm friend of most of the celebrated grand opera stars who appear in New York and other large cities during the season.

NEW MARKET WANTS NO MORE DARKNESS

"Out of the Darkness Into the Light" is just now the popular song in the village of New Market. After being in semi-darkness for a period of six months, the citizens forgot their difference of last year, and voted for an appropriation of $575 which sum will provide the place with thirty-two electric lights.

The usual appropriation was $550 and last year the "insurgents" bucked the lighting commissioners and voted for an appropriation of $250. The commissioners did not reduce the number of lights but continued supplying light just the same until the appropriation ran out.

Then the village found itself in darkness and great was the wailing thereat. There was some relief afforded when a number of philanthropic citizens started a subscription in which sufficient funds were realized to provide about seven lights.

There was practically no opposition to the appropriation at yesterday's election. A total of 54 votes were cast and 44 were for $575. The remaining ten scattering votes were for amounts of $500 and over. The election was conducted in the barber shop adjoining Harkins Hotel and the polls remained open from 4 to 7 p. m.

In the election of three commissioners to serve one year there was a five-cornered competition. Those elected were Justice Clark T. Rogers, 54 votes; Abram G. Nelson, 32 votes; Harry J. Piddington, 31 votes. Township Clerk and Postmaster Charles S. Day received 20 votes and 19 ballots were cast for Herbert L. Pierce.

The election officers were: Former Assemblyman R. F. P. Vonminden, Judge; Charles Rogers, clerk, and Andrew R. Freeman, inspector.

Use Press Want ads. They pay.

DUNELLEN COMMENCEMENT FIXED FOR JUNE 16

Arrangements for the annual commencement exercises of the Dunellen public schools were made at a meeting of the Board of Education at that place last night. The exercises will be conducted at the Whittier School on Thursday night, June 16. Rev. Ernest O. Brown, will deliver the address to the graduates. The program will also include essays and recitations by the pupils and it will also be embellished by special musical features under the supervision of Professor Mullin, the musical instructor of the schools. The vacation period will extend from June 17 until September 6.

On the following night, Friday, June 17, the boys of the Whittier School will tender a reception to the teachers. A supper will be served and dancing will be a feature.

The teachers' committee announced the engagement of Miss Moser, of Fottersville, to succeed Miss Thompson, resigned, in the Fifth Grade. Bills amounting to $404 were ordered paid.

MEMBERSHIP INCREASE, THE HEPTASOPHS PLAN

A special meeting of Protective Conclave, No. 505, Improved Order Heptasophs, was held last night in the Coward building, the object being to discuss plans for the upbuilding of the order in this community. It is proposed to initiate a class of at least twenty-five young men by July 1. There were present last night Olin Bryan, of Philadelphia, general counsel of the order; O. Dodd Bryan, of Baltimore, of the organization department, and Supreme Committeeman J. V. E. Vanderhoef, of this city.

It was also decided to hold a large open-meeting June 22 at Exempt Firemen's hall and prominent speakers will be present to address the gathering. There will also be an entertainment of music and refreshments.

"AS YOU LIKE IT" AT THE COUNTRY CLUB

"As You Like It," which by many Shakespearean scholars is considered the best of all the bard's comedies, was presented on the Plainfield Country Club's lawn last night by the Coburn Players, of New York, and while the unusual cold weather interfered to some extent with the pleasure of the several hundred patrons, the affair was both a social and artistic success.

The play lends itself with especial facility to an open-air production, and the natural stage setting was ideal in every respect, in fact, the players themselves agreed that it was the best they had had in their experience. The spot selected was at the thirteenth hole, where beautiful trees, with a small body of water in the background, presented a picture of real beauty. The play was given continuously with only a minute or two intermission to denote the change in the acts. The audience was generous in its applause, and nothing was lacking to make the affair all that could be desired, except the weather.

Mrs. Coburn portrayed the part of "Rosalind," in a way that has won for her much praise, and Charles Douville Coburn appeared as "Orlando." Both gave an artistic and intelligent interpretation of their difficult parts. The rest of the cast was made up of finished players who entered into the spirit of the production in a delightful manner.

In the place of an orchestra the Coburn Players employed a quartet of men's voices which furnished the incidental music and their old Elizabethan songs coming from the shrubbery during the pauses in the play added largely to effectiveness of the production.

The performance was under the direction of Augustine Duncan, who was the clever court jester. He is a brother of Miss Isadore Duncan, whose dancing to the music of the Damrosch orchestra won her much praise last winter.

After the performance last night many of the patrons, members of the club and their friends, enjoyed the social features provided at the clubhouse.

Mr. Fowler, Please Note.

Rubber is now worth almost half as much as silver, young fer pound. There is a chance for a more elastic currency.—Minneapolis Journal.

PREACHING WON'T SAVE

Declares Rev. F. K. Mathiews in Sermon at First Baptist Church.

METHODS MUST EQUAL TIMES.

Next Convention to Be Held at Parmly Memorial Church Jersey City in June 1911.

The final session of the sixty-ninth annual convention of the East New Jersey Baptist association, held last night in the First Baptist church was well attended some of the 461 delegates, however, having left for their homes before the meeting was called to order for devotional exercises by Rev. George W. Gardner, of New Market. Reports of the resolutions committee and the auditors were read and the place for next year's meeting selected.

Two churches were considered by the committee having the next meeting in charge, but their choice, which was unanimously approved of by the delegates, was the Parmly Memorial church, of Jersey City. This church has only just been completed and will be dedicated on June 18 and a large delegation of Baptists from this city will attend the ceremonies. The minister selected to preach the sermon next year was Rev. Dr. T. J. Villiers, of Newark, whose alternate will be Rev. W. H. Bowden, of Perth Amboy. The committee having the next convention in charge will consist of the officers of the association, the pastor of the entertaining church and Rev. Albert K. Morris.

The sermon delivered by Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews, pastor of the Scotch Plains Baptist church, was a magnificent effort and made a visible impression on the assembled delegates. Mr. Mathiew's topic "The Permanent and Passing in Pentecost, same—ancient, medieval and modern Society," was handled with a consummate knowledge of the facts as they are known at the present day. He said in part: "We are living in a time when the church's place in society is not an academic one but a practical one. We are dealing with a real, not an imaginary state of affairs. The church should be the same—Ancient, medieval and Modern. Its purpose is to bring man into fellowship with Jesus Christ and its work to bring man into a knowledge of God.

"How about the reformer in the pulpit? How about all these other modern movements, the Emanuel or healing gospel, and all these other isms and ologies? It is the unique and manifest duty of the church to preach the Gospel. It is the tendency of today to magnify the passing rather than the permanent as it was with the church at Corinth. The people protested when in the nineteenth century the yaw the launching of the Salvation Army, the Y. M. C. A. and the Young People's movement, but they were new and in keeping with the advance of the conditions. Present conditions demand new methods and a new message gives the old Gospel in a new way.

"By making man's spiritual life better and giving him a sense of the infinite and spiritual we can more readily get him to assimilate the wishes of God for the conduct of his life and bring him into the brotherhood of Jesus Christ. Religion is the foundation of all good impulses and to know that God is with us in the fight is going to make the fight stronger and bring greater results. For the new times there must be a new message containing something of the old. Preaching will never save the world; it is living that must do it. The consistent life. New educational methods must be considered and heard, but we must always have the old religious motive and we must bring men into vital relation*ship with the infinite.*"

Mr. Mathiews read some extracts from the newspapers and magazines of the country to emphasize his points. In all of them it was noticeable that the opinion was expressed that without the controlling influence of religion the whole social fabric of the country would vanish.

Rev. Giulio Begano, pastor of the First Italian Baptist church, of Newark, was received formally into the Baptist Society by Moderator Samuel J. Skevington, who congratulated the new minister on the work being accomplished by him and his church in Newark.

Interesting reports, together with able addresses and a discussion on the theme, "The Church," were the features of the afternoon session which began at 2 o'clock, following the devotional service conducted by Rev. Carter J. Greenwood, pastor of the Baptist church, Westfield. More

(Continued on page 4.)

SPECIAL ELECTION IN BOROUGH ON TUESDAY

Boroughites are awakening to the fact that the special sewer election falls on next Tuesday, June 14. Judging by the drift of sentiment heard on the street the taxpayers will vote by a substantial majority to authorize the Council to have constructed a sewerage system not to exceed in cost $300,000.

Thus far there has appeared no opposition to the project and the members of the Sewer Commission, as well as the borough officials, entertain the belief that there is almost a united sentiment in favor of the improvement and that the Council will receive practically the unanimous authorization from the citizens to proceed with the matter.

The polls will be open from 6 o'clock in the morning until 7 o'clock at night and the polling places have been designated as follows by Borough Clerk Frederick A. Martin. First district, 39 Somerset street; Second district, 64 Somerset street; Third district, 185 Somerset street.

IF YOU OWN A DOG YOU'RE SOAKED $2.50

People who have dogs and have not renewed their licenses are very apt to hear from the police within a few days. Mayor Fisk is having a list prepared by his clerk of all those who have not obtained the license for their canines this year and as soon as this list is ready the police department will teem with activity. The penalty for not having a license for your dog, according to the ordinance, is $20 and the ordinance will be strictly enforced. Arrests are sure to follow the completion of the list. There are about 1,000 dogs who were licensed last year and so far less than 400 licenses have been renewed.

There is a general opposition it appears, to the fee, $2.50, exacted by the dog ordinance. It is claimed to be altogether out of reason.

BIG CROWD WILL HEAR CONGRESSMAN FOWLER

There is every indication that a capacity audience will be present at the graduating exercises of the Plainfield Business College at the Plainfield theater Friday night, when Congressman Charles N. Fowler will be the central figure of attraction. Mr. Fowler is today the chief Eastern opponent of Cannonism and his recent tirades in an open letter attacking other political leaders, including United States Senator John Kean, has also made him an important object in political discussions.

Former Mayor William L. Saunders, of the borough, will preside and introduce the speakers. Mayor Charles J. Fisk will extend a welcome to Mr. Fowler on behalf of the city, and Mayor N. B. Smalley, of the borough, will speak on behalf of that municipality. Congressman Fowler's subject will be "Your First and Highest Duty." The addresses of the evening, in addition to the one by Congressman Fowler, will be delivered by Mr. Saunders, on "Qualities that Bring Success in Business;" Prof. H. C. Gobs on "A Few Words on Education."

There will also be a musical program. Miss Grace Carroll, contralto soloist to the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, will sing. M. A. Korff will have charge of an orchestra of twelve pieces. Rev. Gabriel Delaguire will make the opening prayer.

The audience will be representative of this section of the State, as there will be people present from the various towns and cities along the line of the New Jersey Central, while the Common Council and Borough Council will occupy private boxes. The graduating class held a short re*hearsal at the theatre last night.*

Child Horsewhipped.

Louis B. Goldstein, of Cedar street, appeared in the borough court this morning and alleged that his ten-year-old daughter, Lena had been horsewhipped by Catharine Reagan, daughter of Patrick Reagan, who resides at Cedar street and Harrison avenue. Mr. Reagan has been cited to appear in court tomorrow.

—The Board of Managers of The Children's Home Association will be at the Home on Thursday afternoon, when their will be pleased to see the friends of the Home between half-past three and five o'clock. *7 2

FUNERAL SERVICES OF CHARLES F. ABBOTT

Private funeral services were held for Charles F. Abbott from the home of his daughter, Mrs. James R. Blake on Franklin place, yesterday noon, in charge of Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, of which Mr. Abbott was a trustee for fourteen years and an active member.

Among those attending the service were members of the Board of Education, with which Mr. Abbott was identified for fourteen years; also business associates from New York. The interment was in Hillside cemetery. The pall-bearers were Leander N. Lovell and H. M. Maxson, representing the Board of Education; Dr. G. W. Endicott, of this city; DeH. Warner, L. T. Warner and R. H. Macdonald, of New York city, who were business associates.

DR. PROBASCO'S WEDDING WAS LARGELY ATTENDED

Miss Olive Koons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tilghman B. Koons, of Sanford avenue, and Dr. Norman Hayes Probasco, son of the late Dr. John B. Probasco, who was for many years president of the local Board of Education, were married last evening, the ceremony being largely at*tended.*

The ceremony took place in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church which was tastefully decorated for the occasion, in a scheme of yellow and white, which was carried out in roses, marguerites, daisies and greens. Shortly after 7:30 o'clock the bridal party marched down the left aisle to the strains of the Mendelssohn wedding march played by Howard Case. At the altar the bride met the bridegroom and the nuptial knot was tied by the Rev. John Sheridan Zelie. The bridal party then left the church by the right aisle to the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march.

At the home of the bride a reception was held immediately after the ceremony. The bridal party and Mrs. Francis Tustin, of Philadelphia, an aunt of the bridegroom, received. The decorations at the house corresponded to those at the church in scheme. The reception room and dining room in yellow and the library in green.

After a two weeks' honeymoon Dr. and Mrs. Probasco will reside in this city. Dr. Probasco is a graduate of Columbia University and is a member of the New York Athletic Club.

COUNTY ENDEAVORERS PLAN FOR BOYS' CAMP

A boys' camp is to be established in Union county this year, under the *auspices of the Union County Chris*tian Endeavor Union. Those to be entertained during the months of July and August at the camp will be boys from 12 to 15 years of age, from New York city and Union county.

The union will be assisted in its effort by the advice and co-operation of Miss Sara Curry, matron of the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp, who will recommend the boys who shall visit the camp. Definite action was taken in regard to the project at a meeting of the Executive Committee of the union, held last evening in the Roselle Baptist church.

Recommendations were presented Monday night to the executive body by Fred C. Lounsberry, of this city, chairman of Fresh Air Department of the union, and adopted.

FIRE CAPTAIN RESTORES LOST CHILD BY 'PHONE.

Willie Hanrahan, the three-year-old son of Bryant Hanrahan of West Sixth street, gave exercise to his nomadic spirit this morning and wandered away from home. The lad disappeared shortly after the breakfast hour and he was consequently not missed by his mother. When the child tried to return home a little later he found himself completely at sea in the labyrinth of west end thoroughfares. His tears attracted the attention of Captain George Mehl of the West End Hose Company, who took the child in charge. After a short while Captain Mehl located the parents by telephone, and took the child home.

Mrs. P. I. Minton, of 119 East Fifth street, is spending two weeks at Long Branch.

YOUNG THIEVES CONFESS

Many Mysterious Robberies Cleared Up by Admissions Made to Chief Kisly.

ROWLEY SUFFERED THRICE.

Other Places Not Mentioned in Confession Probably Traceable to the Trio—Held in $500 Bonds.

There are several business men in this city who ought to be thankful that Clarence Cheshire, Raymond Latourette and George Francis are in the hands of the police for through confessions obtained yesterday from the trio the stores of Harry Dreier, James Blair and the City Market were marked as easy of access and soon would have fallen victims to their specialty of breaking in and stealing. All three were held in $500 bonds for the action of the October grand jury. The credit for the captures is due to Detective John Flynn and Patrolman Mot Vanderberg who had been working on the cases reported for the last six months. Following is a partial list of the depredations of the young men:

On February 24 and March 10 Cheshire and Latourette, according to their confessions, broke into Rowley's drug store on West Front street and on the first occasion secured ten dollars in money and a box of cigars worth three dollars. On the last date they got only fifty cents and a dollar's worth of postage stamps But Mr. Rowley claims that on March 15 the store was robbed of thirteen dollars in cash. This is denied by both boys.

On April 27 Thomas Timbo reported a loss of money stolen after his restaurant had been locked for the night. Here again the confession shows how adroit the thieves were. They waited in the shadow of the empty store at the corner of North avenue and Park. After the patrolman on the beat had started away on his regular rounds the boys sneaked across the street, quietly opened the screen door loose, pried open the inner door and rifled the cash register which contained $18.

The complaint of the Eastern Bottling Co. was not for so great an amount. Mr. Johnston declared that on the night of February 10 Cheshire and Francis broke open the back door of the establishment and stole two bottles of whisky and two bottles of beer. One of the bottles of booze was taken over to North Plainfield to a place where a dance was being held and there they drank the stuff.

Miss Minnie Stephenson, who keeps an art store at 241 West Front street, in her complaint alleges that on the night of February 12 Latourette and Cheshire broke into her store and stole twelve fountain pens and other things altogether valued at $35. This was admitted to be true by the two boys. N. Moledezky and Tryton Zacharopoulos also complained of loss sustained by the thefts of the boys. It is thought that the total will amount to considerably more than $100. Several peanut vending machines were broken open and the pennies stolen from them, the machines being rendered useless.

Bail was furnished this morning for Cheshire and Francis, relatives of both accused boys signing the bonds. W. V. Nash, Jr., appeared for Cheshire and William G. DeMeza appeared for Francis. Latourette was not represented by counsel.

From other confessions made by the boys it would seem that Francis was the brains of the party and planned the robberies. He furnished Cheshire with a bunch of keys with which locks might be easily opened, but force was always resorted to when the keys failed to work.

Fifteen years ago a similar gang got to work in this city, but they were finally rounded up and altogether there were nine of them trying to make a dishonest living.

Ran Into by an Auto.

Miss Mary Chandler, of 27 Orchard street, Elizabeth, was run down by an automobile owned by George E. Hall, of Belvidere avenue, while she was crossing Morris avenue, Elizabeth, Saturday afternoon, receiving bruises on her right hip and having the ligaments of her right leg torn. She says she did not hear the automobile horn and did not know the machine was approaching. Mrs. Hall, who was in the machine, ordered her chauffeur to stop and she gave Miss Chandler her card.

Graduation Exercises.

The five public schools in Warren township will hold their annual graduation exercises at Mt. Bethel tonight.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST

VOL. XLII | PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, JUNE 9, 1910. | NO. 23.

"Support the Constitution, which is the Cement of the Union, as well in its Limitations as in its Authorities."—Madison.

MACHINISTS WON STRIKE

Ten Per Cent. Increase Granted and Men Go Back to Work.

450 EMPLOYES ARE BENEFITED.

All the Local Shops Running With Full Forces This Afternoon as Result of the Settlement.

The strike among the printing press machinists of this city which began last Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock, was settled today at noon when a satisfactory adjustment of conditions was reached at a conference held at Trade Council Hall. The manufacturers offered to give their men a flat increase of ten per cent. with the allowance of $2.50 for expenses for the outside men.

The offer was accepted by Hugh V. Reilly, business agent of District No. 47, International Association of Machinists, on behalf of the men, and agreements to that effect were signed. The men agreed to return to work at 1 o'clock this afternoon. Those not going back at that time were privileged to return tomorrow morning.

David E. Titsworth, representing the Potter Press Works; David Scott, representing the Walter Scott Printing Press Works and P. W. Hall, of the Hall Printing Company, met the machinists this morning and discussed the situation, coming to the agreement as stated.

The fact that practically all of the men in Potter's shop went out yesterday afternoon, tended to hasten a settlement of the strike. Conditions at the Potter shop are different from those at the other local plants. There are a number of old men who have been employed there for a great many years, and while perhaps they are not entitled to the full rate, it would be unjust to turn them off. In these few instances the manufacturer will probably be exempt from raising the rate. In all 450 men were involved by the strike. They are now pleased with the satisfactory adjustment of conditions.

The only other shop in this district affected by the strike was that of Fuchs & Lang at Rutherford, and that firm granted the increase demanded last week.

J. J. Kepler, of Buffalo, fifth vice-president of the International Association of Machinists, is expected to arrive here this afternoon to approve of the settlement.

Vice-president J. J. Keppler reached Plainfield this afternoon and announced that an open meeting for machinists will be held Monday night at Eagle Hall, to which all machinists are invited. The object is to discuss organization affairs in general.

Strawberry Festival.

A strawberry and ice cream festival will be held on the lawn of the Temple Baptist church tomorrow afternoon and evening under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society. The following committee will be in charge: Mrs. John W. Musson, Edward Baker, Jr., Mrs. Charles Griffin, Miss Bessie Van Nest and Chris Ettinger. The proceeds will be for the benefit of the church building fund. In case of rain, the affair will be held on Friday.

John Hallahan Let Off.

John Hallahan, of Short Hills, became weary in the borough yesterday, as a result of imbibing too much applejack. He was arrested by Lemuel Pope. In court this morning Recorder Dolliver suspended sentence on Hallahan on the condition that he would never drink in the borough again.

Miss Sharkey to Wed.

Miss Agnes W. Sharkey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Sharkey, of Whitewood avenue, and Walter S. Stewart, of Watchung avenue, the borough, will be married this evening at 7:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents. Rev. J. O. McKelvey, of Warren chapel, will officiate.

Funeral of Miss Ken.

The funeral of Miss Sarah Ken will be held tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock from the home of her sister, Mrs. T. J. Kaine, at Hampton Junction. Miss Ken had been at Muhlenberg Hospital two or three weeks, where she underwent an operation. She died on Monday.

Lecture on Astronomy.

Rev. Charles H. Schneegas, pastor of the German Reformed church will deliver an illustrated lecture on astronomy in the German Reformed church tomorrow night. Eighty pictures of planets will be shown. Admission to the lecture is free.

OFFER $50 REWARD FOR JOKERS' ARREST

The trustees of the Scotch Plains Baptist church have voted to offer a reward of fifty dollars for the arrest and conviction of the person or persons guilty of painting and placarding the fence surrounding the parsonage occupied by the pastor, Rev. Franklin T. Mathiews.

The fence was painted and decorated some time during last Friday night. A skull and cross bones with the word "Beware!" was painted on the fence. Pastor Mathiews recently gained the enmity of the sporting element of the village for his activity against playing Sunday ball games and it is the impression of many that some of the persons who are "sore" over the prohibition of Sunday games are responsible for the act. Others view it as a practical joke.

AN ITALIAN COMPOSER MAKES HIS HOME HERE

Signor Nino Fernando Tetamo, of Palermo, Italy, a nephew of Monsignor di Giovanni, Bishop and the Prelate of Pope Pius X, accompanied by his wife, has come to Plainfield to reside, stopping for the present at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Story on Somerset street. Signor Tetamo is a distinguished son of Italy, being a composer, director and coach of opera and also a finished pianist.

Signor Tetamo has composed in all forms, operas, symphonies, concerts for grand orchestra and many compositions for piano and song. He has given concerts through Europe and America. In this country he was formerly teacher of repertoire in the Powell Musical Institute, New York. Afterward he was engaged as director at the Imperial Institute in Winnipeg. For the past year, he has been director of music in the State Normal College of Alabama, "Musical America," of New York, said of Signor Tetamo, "he is a composer of great ability, a distinguished director and coach of opera and a magnificent performer."

Signor Tetamo's grandfather was a famous portrait painter. Many of his works are now on exhibiton in Boston, Washington and Philadelphia, where they have been greatly admired by art lovers. The signor is a personal warm friend of most of the celebrated grand opera stars who appear in New York and other large cities during the season.

NEW MARKET WANTS NO MORE DARKNESS

"Out of the Darkness Into the Light" is just now the popular song in the village of New Market. After being in semi-darkness for a period of six months, the citizens forgot their difference of last year, and voted for an appropriation of $575 which sum will provide the place with thirty-two electric lights.

The vote on the question was $550 and last year the "insurgents" bucked the lighting commissioners and voted for an appropriation of $250. The commissioners did not reduce the number of lights but continued supplying light just the same until the appropriation ran out.

Then the village found itself in darkness and great was the wailing thereat. There was some relief afforded when a number of philanthropic citizens started a subscription in which sufficient funds were realized to provide about seven lights.

There was practically no opposition to the appropriation at yesterday's election. A total of 54 votes were cast and 44 were for $575. The remaining ten scattering votes were for amounts of $500 and over. The election was conducted in the barber shop adjoining Harkins Hotel and the polls remained open from 4 to 7 p. m.

In the election of three commissioners to serve one year there was a five-cornered competition. Those elected were Justice Clark T. Rogers, 34 votes; Abram G. Nelson, 32 votes; Harry J. Piddington, 31 votes. Township Clerk and Postmaster Charles S. Day received 20 votes and 19 ballots were cast for Herbert L. Pierce.

The election officers were: Former Assemblyman R. F. P. Voorhees, Judge; Charles Rogers, clerk, and Andrew R. Freeman, inspector.

—Use Press Want ads. They pay.

DUNELLEN COMMENCEMENT FIXED FOR JUNE 16

Arrangements for the annual commencement exercises of the Dunellen public schools were made at a meeting of the Board of Education at that place last night. The exercises will be conducted at the Whittier School on Thursday night, June 16. Rev. Ernest O. Brown, will deliver the address to the graduates. The program will also include essays and recitations by the pupils and it will also be embellished by special musical features under the supervision of Professor Mullin, the musical instructor of the schools. The vacation period to extend from June 17 until September 19.

On the following night, Friday, June 17, the boys of the Whittier School will tender a reception to the teachers. A supper will be served and dancing will be a feature.

The teachers' committee announced the engagement of Miss Moser, of Pottersville, to succeed Miss Thompson, resigned, in the Fifth Grade. Bills amounting to $404 were ordered paid.

MEMBERSHIP INCREASE, THE HEPTASOPHS PLAN

A special meeting of Protective Conclave, No. 505, Improved Order Heptasophs, was held last night in the Coward building, the object being to discuss plans for the upbuilding of the order in this community. It is proposed to initiate a class of at least twenty-five young men by July 1. There were present last night Olin Bryan, of Philadelphia, general counsel of the order; O. Dodd Bryan, of Baltimore, of the organization department, and Supreme Committeeman J. V. E. Vanderhoef, of this city.

It was also decided to hold a large open-meeting June 22 at Exempt Firemen's hall and prominent speakers will be present to address the gathering. There will also be an entertainment of music and refreshments.

"AS YOU LIKE IT" AT THE COUNTRY CLUB

"As You Like It," which by many Shakespearean scholars is considered the best of all the bard's comedies, was presented on the Plainfield Country Club's lawn last night by the Coburn Players, of New York, and while the unusual cold weather interfered to some extent with the pleasure of the several hundred patrons, the affair was both a social and artistic success.

The play lends itself with especial facility to an open-air production, and the natural stage setting was ideal in every respect, in fact, the players themselves agreed that it was the best they had had in their experience. The spot selected was at the thirteenth hole, where beautiful trees, with a small body of water in the background, presented a picture of real beauty. The play was given continuously with only a minute or two intermission to denote the change in the acts. The audience was generous in its applause, and nothing was lacking to make the affair all that could be desired, except the weather.

Mrs. Coburn portrayed the part of "Rosalind," in a way that has won for her much praise, and Charles Douville Coburn appeared as "Orlando." Both gave an artistic and intelligent interpretation of their difficult parts. The rest of the cast was made up of finished players who entered into the spirit of the production in a delightful manner.

In the place of an orchestra the Coburn Players employed a quartet of men's voices which furnished the incidental music and their old Elizabethan songs coming from the shrubbery during the pauses in the play added largely to effectiveness of the production.

The performance was under the direction of Augustine Duncan, who was the clever court jester. He is a brother of Miss Isadore Duncan, whose dancing to the music of the Damrosch orchestra won her much praise last winter.

After the performance last night many of the patrons, members of the club and their friends, enjoyed the social features provided at the clubhouse.

Mr. Fowler, Please Note.

Rubber is now worth almost half as much as silver, pound for pound. Here is a chance for a more elastic currency.—Minneapolis Journal.

PREACHING WON'T SAVE

Declares Rev. F. K. Mathiews in Sermon at First Baptist Church.

METHODS MUST EQUAL TIMES.

Next Convention to Be Held at Parmly Memorial Church Jersey City in June 1911.

The final session of the sixty-ninth annual convention of the East New Jersey Baptist association, held last night in the First Baptist church was well attended some of the 461 delegates, however, having left for their homes before the meeting was called to order for devotional exercises by Rev. George W. Gardner, of New Market. Reports of the resolutions committee and the auditors were read and the place for next year's meeting selected.

Two churches were considered by the committee having the next meeting in charge, but their choice, which was unanimously approved of by the delegates, was the Parmly Memorial church, of Jersey City. This church has only just been completed and will be dedicated on June 18 and a large delegation of Baptists from this city will attend the ceremonies. The minister selected to preach the sermon next year was Rev. T. J. Villiers, of Newark, whose alternate will be Rev. W. H. Banden, of Perth Amboy. The committee having the next convention in charge will consist of the officers of the association, the pastor of the entertaining church and Rev. Albert K. Morris.

The sermon delivered by Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews, pastor of the Scotch Plains Baptist church, was a magnificent effort and made a visible impression on the assembled delegates. Mr. Mathiew's topic "The Permanent and Passing in Pentecost, same—ancient, medieval and modern Society," was handled with a consummate knowledge of the facts as they are known to the present day. He said in part: "We are living in a time when the church's place in society is not an academic one but a practical one. We are dealing with a real, not an imaginary state of affairs. The church should be the same—Ancient, medieval and Modern—and its work bring man into fellowship with Jesus Christ and its work to bring man into a knowledge of God.

"How about the reformer in the pulpit? How about all these other modern movements, the Emanuel or healing gospel, and all these other things and methods? It is the unique and manifest duty of the church to preach the Gospel. It is the tendency of today to magnify the 'passing' rather than the permanent as it was with the church at Corinth. The people protested when in the nineteenth century the yaaw the launching of the Salvation Army, the Y. M. C. A. and the Young People's movement, but they were new and in keeping with the advance of the times and conditions. New conditions demand new methods and a new message gives the old Gospel in a new way.

"By making man's spiritual life better and giving him a sense of the infinite and spiritual we can more readily get him to assimilate the wishes of God for the conduct of his life and bring him into the brotherhood of Jesus Christ. Religion is the foundation of all good impulses and to know that God is with us in the fight is going to make the fight stronger and bring greater results. For the new times there must be a new message containing something of the old. Preaching will never save the world! It is living that must do it. The consistent life. New educational methods must be considered and heard, but we must always have the old religious motives and we must bring men into vital relationship with the infinite."

Mr. Mathiews read some extracts from the newspapers and magazines of the country to emphasize his points. In all of them it was noticeable that the opinion was expressed that, without the controlling influence of religion the whole social fabric of the country would vanish.

Rev. Giulio Begano, pastor of the First Italian Baptist church, of Newark, was received formally into the Baptist Society by Moderator Samuel J. Skevington, who congratulated the new minister on the work being accomplished by him and his church in Newark.

Interesting reports, together with able addresses and a discussion on the theme, "The Church," were the features of the afternoon session which began at 2 o'clock, following the devotional services conducted by Rev. Carter J. Greenwood, pastor of the Baptist church, Westfield. More

(Continued on Page 4.)

SPECIAL ELECTION IN BOROUGH ON TUESDAY

Boroughites are awakening to the fact that the special sewer election falls on next Tuesday, June 14. Judging by the drift of sentiment heard on the street the taxpayers will vote by a substantial majority to authorize the Council to have constructed a sewerage system not to exceed in cost $300,000.

Thus far there has appeared no opposition to the project and the members of the Sewer Commission, as well as the borough officials, entertain the belief that there is almost a united sentiment in favor of the improvement and that the Council will receive practically the unanimous authorization from the citizens to proceed with the matter.

The polls will be open from 6 o'clock in the morning until 7 o'clock at night and the polling places have been designated as follows by Borough Clerk Frederick A. Martin. First district, 39 Somerset street; Second district, 84 Somerset street; Third district, 185 Somerset street.

IF YOU OWN A DOG YOU'RE SOAKED $2.50

People who have dogs and have not renewed their licenses are very apt to hear from the police within a few days. Mayor Fisk is having a list prepared by his clerk of all those who have not obtained the license for their canines this year and as soon as this list is ready the police department will team with activity. The penalty for not having a license for your dog, according to the ordinance, is $20 and the ordinance will be strictly enforced. Arrests are sure to follow the completion of the list. There are about 1,000 dogs who were licensed last year and so far less than 400 licenses have been renewed.

There is a general opposition it appears, to the fee, $2.50, exacted by the dog ordinance. It is claimed to be altogether out of reason.

BIG CROWD WILL HEAR CONGRESSMAN FOWLER

There is every indication that a capacity audience will be present at the graduating exercises of the Plainfield Business College at the Plainfield theatre Friday night, when Congressman Charles N. Fowler will be the central figure of attraction. Mr. Fowler is today the chief Eastern opponent of Cannonism and his recent tirades in an open letter attacking other political leaders, including United States Senator John Kean, has also made him an important object in political discussions.

Former Mayor William L. Saunders, of the borough, will preside and introduce the speakers. Mayor Charles J. Fisk will extend a welcome to Mr. Fowler on behalf of the city, and Mayor N. B. Smalley, of the borough, will speak on behalf of that municipality. Congressman Fowler's subject will be "Your First and Highest Duty." The addresses of the evening, in addition to the one by Congressman Fowler, will be delivered by Mr. Saunders, on "Qualities that Bring Success in Business;" Prof. H. C. Krebs on "A Few Words on Education."

There will also be a musical program. Miss Grace Carroll, contralto soloist in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, will sing. M. A. Korff will have charge of an orchestra of twelve pieces. Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire will make the opening prayer.

The audience will be representative of this section of the State, as there will be people present from the various towns and cities along the line of the New Jersey Central, while the Common Council and Borough Council will occupy private boxes. The graduating class held a short rehearsal at the theatre last night.

Child Horsewhipped.

Louis B. Goldstein, of Cedar street, appeared in the borough court this morning and alleged that his ten-year-old daughter, Lena had been horse-whipped by Catharine Reagan, daughter of Patrick Reagan, who lives at Cedar street and Harrison avenue. Mr. Reagan has been cited to appear in court tomorrow.

—The Board of Managers of The Children's Home Association will be at the Home on Thursday afternoon, where they will be pleased to see the friends of the Home between half-past three and five o'clock. 6 7 2

FUNERAL SERVICES OF CHARLES F. ABBOTT

Private funeral services were held for Charles F. Abbott from the home of his daughter, Mrs. James R. Blake on Franklin place, yesterday noon, in charge of Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, of which Mr. Abbott was a trustee for fourteen years and an active member.

Among those attending the services were members of the Board of Education, with which Mr. Abbott was identified for fourteen years; also business associates from New York. The interment was in Hillside cemetery. The pall-bearers were Leander N. Lovell and H. M. Maxson, representing the Board of Education; Dr. G. W. Endicott, of this city; Delf. Warner, L. T. Warner and R. H. Macdonald, of New York city, who were business associates.

DR. PROBASCO'S WEDDING WAS LARGELY ATTENDED

Miss Olive Koons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thigman B. Koons, of Sanford avenue, and Dr. Norman Hayes Probasco, son of the late Dr. John B. Probasco, who was for many years president of the local Board of Education, were married last evening, the ceremony being largely attended.

The ceremony took place in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church which was tastefully decorated for the occasion, in a scheme of yellow and white, which was carried out in roses, marguerites, daisies and greens. Shortly after 7:30 o'clock the bridal party marched down the left aisle to the strains of the Mendelssohn wedding march, played by Howard Case. At the altar the bride met the bridegroom and the nuptial knot was tied by the Rev. John Sheridan Zelie. The bridal party then left the church by the right aisle to the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march.

At the home of the bride a reception was held immediately after the ceremony. The bridal party and Mrs. Francis Tustin, of Philadelphia, an aunt of the bridegroom, received. The decorations at the house corresponded to those at the church in scheme. The reception room and dining room in yellow and the library in green.

After a two weeks' honeymoon Dr. and Mrs. Probasco will reside in this city. Dr. Probasco is a graduate of Columbia University and is a member of the New York Athletic Club.

COUNTY ENDEAVORERS PLAN FOR BOYS' CAMP

A boys' camp is to be established in Union county this year, under the auspices of the Union County Christian Endeavor Union. Those to be entertained during the months of July and August at the camp will be boys from 12 to 15 years of age, from New York city and Union county.

The union will be assisted in its effort by the advice and co-operation of Miss Sara Curry, matron of the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp, who will recommend the boys who shall visit the camp. Definite action was taken in regard to the project at a meeting of the Executive Committee of the union, held last evening in the Roselle Baptist church.

Recommendations were presented Monday night to the executive body by Fred C. Lounsberry, of this city, chairman of Fresh Air Department of the union, and adopted.

FIRE CAPTAIN RESTORES LOST CHILD BY 'PHONE.

Willie Hanrahan, the three-year-old son of Bryant Hanrahan of West Sixth street, gave exercise to his nomadic spirit this morning and wandered away from home. The lad disappeared shortly after the breakfast hour and he was consequently not missed by his mother. When the child tried to return home a little later he found himself completely at sea in the labyrinth of west end thoroughfares. His tears attracted the attention of Captain George Mehl of the West End Hose Company, who took the child in charge. After a short while Captain Mehl located the parents by telephone, and took the child home.

Mrs. P. I. Minton, of 119 East Fifth street, is spending two weeks at Long Branch.

YOUNG THIEVES CONFESS

Many Mysterious Robberies Cleared Up by Admissions Made to Chief Kiely.

ROWLEY SUFFERED THRICE.

Other Places Not Mentioned in Confession Probably Traceable to the Trio—Held in $500 Bonds.

There are several business men in this city who ought to be thankful that Clarence Cheshire, Raymond Latourette and George Francis are in the hands of the police for through confessions obtained yesterday from the trio the stores of Harry Dreier, James Blair and the City Market were marked as easy of access and soon would have fallen victims to their specialty of breaking in and stealing. All three were held in $500 bonds for the action of the October grand jury. The credit for the captures is due to Detective John Flynn and Patrolman Mot Vanderberg who had been working on the cases reported for the last six months. Following is a partial list of the depredations of the young men:

On February 24 and March 10 Cheshire and Latourette, according to their confessions, broke into Rowley's drug store on West Front street and on the first occasion secured ten dollars in money and a box of cigars worth three dollars. On the last date they got only fifty cents and a dollar's worth of postage stamps But Mr. Rowley claims that on March 15 the store was robbed of thirteen dollars in cash. This is denied by both boys.

On April 27 Thomas Timbo reported a loss of money stolen after his restaurant had been locked for the night. Here again the confession shows how adroit the thieves were. They waited in the shadow of the empty store at the corner of North avenue and Park. After the patrolman on the beat had started away on his regular rounds the boys sneaked across the street, wrenched the screen door loose, pried open the inner door and rifled the cash register which contained $18.

The complaint of the Eastern Bottling Co. was not for so great an amount. Mr. Johnston declared that on the night of February 10 Cheshire and Francis broke open the back door of the establishment and stole two bottles of whisky and two bottles of beer. One of the bottles of booze was taken over to North Plainfield to a place where a dance was being held and there they drank the stuff.

Miss Minnie Stephenson, who keeps an art store at 241 West Front street, in her complaint alleges that on the night of February 12 Latourette and Cheshire broke into her store and stole twelve fountain pens and other things altogether valued at $25. This was admitted to be true by the two boys. N. Moledezky and Tryfon Zacharopoulos also complained of losses sustained by the thefts of the boys. It is thought that the total will amount to considerably more than $100. Several peanut vending machines were broken open and the pennies stolen from the machines being rendered useless.

Bail was furnished this morning for Cheshire and Francis, relatives of both accused boys signing the bonds. W. V. Nash, Jr., appeared for Cheshire and William C. DeMeza appeared for Francis. Latourette was not represented by counsel.

From other confessions made by the boys it would seem that Francis was the brains of the party and planned the robberies. He furnished Cheshire with a bunch of keys with which locks might be easily opened, but force was always resorted to when the keys failed to work.

Fifteen years ago a similar gang got to work in this city, but they were finally rounded up and altogether there were nine of them trying to make a dishonest living.

Run Into by an Auto.

Miss Mary Chandler, of 27 Orchard street, Elizabeth, was run down by an automobile owned by George E. Hall, of Belvidere avenue, while she was crossing Morris avenue, Elizabeth, Saturday afternoon, receiving bruises on her right hip and having the ligaments of her right leg torn. She says she did not hear the automobile horn and did not know the machine was approaching. Mrs. Hall, who was in the machine, ordered her chauffeur to stop and she gave Miss Chandler her card.

Graduation Exercises.

The five public schools in Warren township will hold their annual graduation exercises at Mt. Bethel tonight.

RALLY OF ENDEAVORERS

Temple Church wins Banner at Plainfield Union's Mass Meeting.

SESSION AT NEW MARKET.

Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire Gives a Talk on Africa and Its People—Officers Are Elected.

Rev. Gabriel R. Maguire made the address at the mass meeting of the Christian Endeavorers at the Seventh-Day Baptist church in New Market Thursday and impressed his hearers with the feeling of responsibility which every Endeavorer should and must have for the unconverted aborigine. These officers for the coming year were elected: President, Frank Stewart; vice-president, Charles Neagle; secretary, A. D. Gallaway; treasurer, F. L. Soper, Jr.; assistant treasurer and chairman of press committee, R. C. Burdick.

The chairman of committees appointed were as follows: Prayer meeting, J. G. Benedict; look-out, Clarence B. LaRue; missionary, Nelson VanWickle.

The society of the Temple Baptist church won the banner for attendance with a percentage of 90. The New Market Seventh-Day Society come second with 73 per cent. Warren chapel was third with a percentage of 69.

The interesting feature of the evening was the talk given by Rev. Mr. Maguire. He took his audience with him in a trip through Africa and vividly described the habits and customs of the natives. Pastor Maguire said that land and labor are both cheap on the dark continent. Tea acres of the land may be bought for the cents while some of the Africans will work all day for a brass-headed tack.

Today the traveller may go from the east to the west coast in perfect safety provided he conforms to the customs of the natives. The slga language is in vogue among these primitive people and they make known their ideas with postures of the body and workings of their limbs. Sitting with the legs crossed indicates a peaceful intent, while with the legs extended it means a declaration of war. A breach of African etiquette often means death. Mr. Maguire caused a shudder to run down the spines of his hearers when he declared that he once had to eat bean soup flavored with the flesh of field rats, the rodents which caused so much damage to the crops in that land.

The witch doctors came in for a share of the speaker's attention. These creatures, Mr. Maguire declared, were one of the worst of the workers of superstition in the world. On occasions they force their deluded victims to drink deadly poison on the assumption that if the patient throws off the stuff the evil spirit goes with it. Other atrocities are committed by these people. Mr. Maguire exhibited a string of beads everyone of which represented the heart of some victim.

Rev. Charles Sumner Kemble and twenty-eight of the members of the Epworth League of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church walked to New Market and back last evening especially to attend the meeting.

Poor Man's Muffins.

One may use half the recipe with a small egg with satisfactory results, for this amount makes thirty muffins. Mix and sift three and one-half cupfuls of pastry flour, three tablespoonfuls of sugar, six teaspoonfuls of baking powder and one teaspoonful of salt. Add gradually, while beating constantly, one and one-half cupfuls of milk, one egg well beaten and three tablespoonfuls of melted butter. Bake in buttered iron gem pans twenty-five minutes, having the pan previously heated.

She Knew Him.

"Dearest," cooed the young husband who had been on a pleasure trip and overstayed his time, "did you get those letters I wrote you every day?"

"Yes, John," responded the young wife.

"Well—er—what did you do with them?"

"Why, I placed them between the leaves of that bogus Artic explorer's book."

"Artic explorer's book! Gracious, did you think they were cold?"

"No, but I thought they would be at home among friction."

And it was five minutes before he ventured to speak again.—Detroit Free Press.

Announce Engagement.

Mr. and Mrs. [illegible]. Samson, of Dunellen, announce the engagement of their daughter, Amy Marion Samson, to Walter Simpson Craig, of this city.

A New Undertaker.

R. J. Bourke has established himself in the undertaking business at 416 Madison avenue. Mr. Bourke for the last three years was connected with the medical department of the State Hospital at Morris Plains.

FOWLER FOR U.S. SENATOR

Fifth District Congressman's Boom Sprung by James T. MacMurray.

SAYS HE WILL RUN AGAIN.

Over 1,000 of Mr. Fowler's Friends Gather to Pass Resolutions for Direct Vote for United States Senator.

More than 1,000 voters cheered themselves hoarse Friday at the Fowler mass meeting at Proctor's theatre, Elizabeth, when the pre-arranged plan to put the Fifth District Congressman in the race for the United States Senatorship was successfully launched. City Clerk James T. MacMurray, the campaign manager for the insurgent leader, sprung the resolutions which had been quietly prepared for the demonstration, and Mr. Fowler announced to the gathering of his friends that he would enter the lists to wrest the honor from United States Senator John Kean, P. R. Gray, of Elizabeth, a Standard Oil man, acted as chairman, after former Governor Foster M. Voorhees absolutely declined to serve. Mr. MacMurray's resolution follows:

"Whereas, At the next general election in this State the people of New Jersey will, for the first time, exercise their right under the law of choosing a United States Senator.

"Whereas, In the awakened public spirit now prevailing the people insist that their next Senator shall be a worthy representative of the State, a man of national reputation, high standing, character and experience, whose views are in accord with the best thought of the time and who has the courage and tenacity not only to express them, but to fight for them.

"Whereas, The Hon. Charles N. Fowler, in his long service in the House of Representatives, has come not only to represent worthily his district and State, but to be recognized by the nation as a broad and true statesman; through his devotion to the great cause of financial and currency reform, his advocacy of progressive measures for the benefit of the whole people rather than of a class, and his loyalty to the Republican party as shown by his campaigns for national candidates and policies in nearly every State of the Union, and his high conviction and purpose that any party must be right and continue right to be the party of the people; and,

"Whereas, The Hon. Charles N. Fowler, in his devotion to the interests of the people rather than of privilege, has not only consistently followed his political convictions, but has at all times announced them boldly, so that his constituents might know in what wise he was representing them, and these principles and purposes are such as not only appeal to the best judgment and patriotism of the people of New Jersey, but by their public indorsement to reflect honor upon them and him; now, be it

"Resolved, That the Hon. Charles N. Fowler is at this time the logical candidate of the Republican party in New Jersey for United States Senator; that, therefore, we do urge him to become a candidate for that high office, and that we do hereby pledge him our enthusiastic and loyal support."

Following the adoption of the resolution favoring him for United States Senator, Mr. Fowler, who had declared that he would not address the meeting, was forced to respond to an insistent demand for a speech. He spoke but briefly, simply saying:

"I am more than gratified by the splendid audience before me," said Mr. Fowler. "Your presence here is an expression of the sentiment in this State and means that now and for all time the people will select their own United States Senators.

"It is a matter of little consequence who the man is you select for Senator this year, but it is of vital importance that you select him."

After again thanking his auditors for their attendance Mr. Fowler said:

"With you I am going to do my utmost to see that this one great step for reform in the selection of our United States Senators is taken this fall."

Later in the night, just before adjournment, Mr. Fowler imparted a bit of information, as he put it, telling the big gathering that in the last few days about 2,000 voters in Union county had signed a pledge to support no candidate for Legislature who would not promise to support the Senatorial candidate receiving the highest Republican State vote in the Republican primary. He said:

"In this city of Elizabeth the great reform for the popular election of United States Senator was started by a man whom everyone loved, Foster M. Voorhees. He inaugurated the fight in this State in a message to the Legislature while he was Governor.

"Here is some information for you, a message that will ring from Sussex to Cape May, because it will decide the election of the next United States Senator. It is this: Two thousand men in Union county have signed pledges that they will not stand for any candidate for legislative office who does not promise to stand by the candidate for Senator who receives the highest vote at the primary. That number of voters is enough to determine the election."

D. E. Davis, of Elizabeth, offered the following resolutions, putting the gathering on record to force legislative candidates to declare themselves for popular expression of choice for United States Senators:

"Whereas, the Legislature of this State has already passed a law enabling the people to select their next United States Senator; and

"Whereas, the power to enforce this law resides in the people; now, therefore, be it

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this meeting that our next United States Senator shall be chosen by the people in accordance with said law.

"And, whereas, it is the interest and purpose of this meeting to secure this right to the people, not only now but hereafter; be it

"Resolved, further, That we do hereby pledge ourselves not to vote for any candidate for nomination or election to the Legislature who does not make the following declaration:

"'I do hereby solemnly declare upon my honor that if nominated and elected to the Legislature I will vote for that Republican for United States Senator who shall receive the largest number of votes cast in the State by the Republicans as their choice for United States Senator; and further, that I will do all in my power to secure the election of said Republican to the United States Senate.

"'I do further hereby solemnly declare upon my honor that I will do all in my power to secure such an amendment to the present primary law as will make it obligatory upon all candidates for the Assembly and Senate to make such a declaration as the above with regard to their respective party candidates for the United States Senate.'"

Congressman Victor Murdock, of Kansas, and Congressman George W. Norris, of Nebraska, in ringing speeches, riddled Speaker Cannon and his rules.

MRS. TRUELL'S FUNERAL

Great Gathering of Friends Pays Last Respects to Her Memory.

THREE MINISTERS OFFICIATE

American Flag Covers Casket Which is Smothered with Floral Tributes—The Burial at Hillside.

Impressive funeral services were held for Mrs. John R. Truell at the Seventh-Day Baptist church at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon, when a large number of relatives and friends gathered to pay their last respects to one whom they admired and loved. Prior to that a short service was held at Truell Hall, conducted by Rev. Edwin Shaw, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church.

Mr. Shaw had charge of the services at the church, assisted by Rev. Dr. W. S. Hubbell, of this city, and Rev. Morgan Ashley, rector of St. Stephen's church, all close personal friends of Mrs. Truell. Dr. Hubbell's remarks referred specially to the life of Mrs. Truell as he knew her during the Civil War, when she rendered valuable service. He spoke of her great patriotic character and of her devotion to the cause of the Union and how she nursed many a soldier back to strength and health.

Mr. Shaw also spoke of the personal side of Mrs. Truell's life, of her devotion to her church and home and of her beautiful Christian character, unselfish and generous to a fault. Mr. Ashley read Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar," also the Scripture lesson and offered a fervent prayer.

During the services, three selections were sung by a quartet comprising Miss Nan Randolph, Mrs. E. F. Champlin, Charles P. Titsworth and E. E. Runyon. They sang "Rock of Ages," "Abide With Me" and "Jesus Saviour Pilot Me." At the request of Mrs. Truell these same hymns were sung for her on Sunday evening at the Hall by Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Titsworth, of this city, and Mr. and Mrs. John Tanner, of Westerly, R. I., and her daughter, Mrs. Violet Truell-Johnston, then also played the violin at the request of her mother.

There was a great wealth of floral tributes not only from guests at the Hall, Court and Inn and many other friends here, but from New York and Boston. The casket was completely hidden from view with flowers, while the American flag, with which Mrs. Truell was buried by special request, rested on the casket. There were at least fifteen beautiful wreaths, including bunches of Killarney roses. The guests at Truell Hall sent a large set piece which rested on a standard.

The burial was in Hillside cemetery and the bearers were David E. Titsworth, Dr. Henry M. Maxson, William C. Hubbard, Thomas Fallon, a brother of Mrs. Truell, and Franklin Butler, of Lawrence, Mass., her son-in-law, and George H. Simonds, of Newark.

WASHINGTON SCHOOL FETE BRINGS RETURN OF $100

The assembly room of the Washington School on Darrow avenue was so full Wednesday that many late comers to the entertainment for the benefit of the picture fund were compelled to stand. Without doubt it was one of the most beautiful exhibitions of training seen in any of the public schools in the city. Recalls for the "Frog Song" and the flag drill were many and as a result of the performance the picture fund was increased nearly $100 and the principal Miss Humpstone appreciates the support given by the public.

Owing to the length of the program it was thought best to omit the eighth number on the program, the physical exercises, and a song "The Pollywogs," sung by Willie Snyder, was substituted. The little fellow was roundly applauded.

Those who took part were as follws:

Garland Drill—Marion Lynn, Mae Heideloff, Ethel Rosenson, Edith Jeffry, Grace Brown, Florence Taylor, Barbara Schlick, Madeline Pennington, Adelaide Nathanson, Paulina Nathanson.

Folk Dance — Edith Roseberry, Helen Rice, Freeda Mowen, Erma Mowen, Harriette Mortimer, Charlotte Sachar, Celia Davidson, Bessie Ahs, Frances Kline, Edith Walz, Bertha Laird, Evelyn Moore, Mary Spencer, Sarah Steinman, Rose Meyrowitz, Ruth Carlson.

May Pole Dance—Marion Lynn, Helen Newell, Elsie Theis, Miriam Smith, Sarah Schrager, Lois Loizeaux, Harriette Higgins, Theodocia Vail, Esther Rosenthal, Flora Rosenthal, Marjorie Storr, Helen Bray, Esther Loizeaux, Grace Brown, Katharine Harding, Edith Mundy.

Sleeping Beauty Sketch—Princess Helen McAfee; Wicked Fairy, Margaret Rice; Prince, Clarence Skiff; Attendants, Edith Harris, Charles Carlson, Edith Walls, Fred Close, Lily Kadish, Raymond Gerhold, Erma Mowen, Freeda Mowen, Harry Winn, Helen Rice, Eleanor Arrowsmith, Harry Williams, John Anderson, Benj. Kornfield, Putnam Newell, Esther Loizeaux.

Japanese Song and Fan Drill—Margaret Rice, Helen McAfee, Adele Rosenthal, Eva Davidson, Louise Reed, Elnora Green, Maurecia Vaughn, Ethel Weed, Alice Culhane, Fannie Kunzman.

Flag Drill—John Hull, George Hunter, Edward Glaentzer, Cecil McAfee, John Cose, Henry Himmann, Royal Banks, Bernard Hanrahan, Samuel Siegel, Moses Kunzman, Raymond Corbin, Charles Corbin, Hector Battaglia, John Rimmer, Timothy Loizeaux, Axel Braadt.

Cast for "Next Door."

A modern three-act comedy, "Next Door," will be presented by the boys of Leal's School June 14, under the auspices of the Athletic Association. Frederick B. Hanson, of New York, is coaching the company and an excellent presentation is expected. Eleanor B. Crane, also of New York, is the author of the play. The cast follows: Mr. Courtney Martin, Thomas Leggett; Mr. George Chester, Clarence Lawrence; Mr. Harry Webster, Ned Stevenson; Mrs. Fred Harper, James Murray; Miss Alice Armstead, Frank Driscoll; Miss Betty Armstead, Thomas Foote; Miss Kathleen Covington, Morris Brandegee; Mrs. Armstead, Lawrence Heely; Orange, Willie Brandegee.

—Constitutionalist's ads. pay.

PUPILS CONDUCT A DELIGHTFUL MUSICALE

An informal musicale was given Wednesday afternoon by the pupils and friends of Miss Maude Van Boskerck at the home of Mrs. P. Pierre Mali on East Front street. The piano selections from the simplified themes of Beethoven and the new masters were highly pleasing to the hearers. Those participating in the program were: The Misses Mary Warren, Susan Barnhart, Margaret Tyle, Margaret Miller, Margaret Patterson, Mildred Miller, Helen Irons, Olive Lane, Eva and Gertrude Mali and Nathaniel and Roland Stevens.

A part of the program was also rendered by Miss Van Boskerck's ensemble classes consisting of Miss Lily Moore, Mrs. Marion Ackerman, Mrs. LeRoy Gates, Mrs. Norman L. Snow, Mrs. Frank Clark and Miss Edith Porter, assisted by Mrs. Guy Bender, Dr. Leonard Waldo and Martin A. Korff.

The two pianos were very effective in dances from Dvorak and Grieg after which Mrs. Bender rendered two spring songs in her rich contralto voice. Dr. Waldo played a lullaby from Schubert. The Tanghauser Overture, with violin and 'cello obligato, was also rendered.

GODWIN BEARD WEDS MISS M. H. RANDALL

Wednesday in the United Presbyterian church, of Newville, Pa., Miss Margaret Hudson Randall, of that place, became the bride of Godwin Beard, of this city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. A. G. Reed. The maid of honor was Miss Landis, and the flower girl, Miss Helen May Hawkins. Walter LeRoy Long acted as best man. The bride was given away by her father, Robert Randall. The ushers, who preceded the bride up the church aisle, were Messrs. Class, Beck, Hawkins and Brereton.

The bride was attired in a white satin robe with a veil of rare old lace, an heirloom in the family, seven brides having worn it. The bride's mother wore a gown of satin charmeuse and gold garniture and the mother of the groom was attired in white satin princess with an entire overdress and waist garniture of black thread lace.

The guests included many friends of the couple from New York, Plainfield, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Pittsburg. Over two hundred gifts were received by the couple, among which were included several checks for substantial amounts.

Mr. Beard is a grandson of the late Daniel Godwin, of New York, and Bath, England, and Mrs. Beard is a well-known society debutante of Newville.

TEN THOUSAND DOLLAR DOG ENTERED IN SHOW.

When the entries lists were closed today, Superintendent Edmund Rushmore announced that more than 500 canines were in the 800 contests booked to take place at the annual bench show of the Plainfield Kennel Club next Saturday. All the famous kennels in the East are represented.

Among the dogs that will attract attention and this exhibition will be Shepton Hero, an old English sheep dog, which its owner, Mrs. Tyler Morse, of New York, values at $10,000. Howard Gould has entered his Castle Gould Wallaby in the Irish terrier class.

Surprised Mrs. McKelvey.

Mrs. Joseph O. McKelvey, wife of the pastor of Warren chapel, who has been in charge of the choir at the chapel for ten years, was happily surprised Wednesday night after choir practise by members of the choir in honor of her birthday. She was invited to the parlors of the chapel by Theodore Martin, and was there greeted with a large number of beautiful roses. On a table was placed a birthday cake, surrounded by sixteen candles. Afterward the choir gathered in the room and all had a jolly social time, during which refreshments were served. Mrs. Andrew Stiglitz arranged the affair.

Graduates at Barnard.

Miss Lena Bohan, of this city, has returned from Barnard College, where she was graduated on Wednesday with the degree of A. B. Other Plainfield young women in the '10 class at Barnard, are Miss Gertrude Laura Hunter, Miss Antoinette D. Hill and Miss Christobal McMurray.

Raisin brown Bread.

Three cups white corn meal, one and a half cups graham flour, one cup New Orleans molasses, one teaspoon soda dissolved in one-half cup hot water, one teaspoon salt, enough sour milk to make soft batter. Mix flour and salt, then molasses with soda, stir until foamy, then add the milk and one and a half cups sultana raisins. Fill mold half full and steam three hours.

PLAINFIELD HIGH SCHOOL'S GRADUATING CLASS.

Reading from left to right: Lester Sutton.

Second row—Miss Katharine Day, Russell Morris, John Riffert.

Third row—Otis Hovey, Grace Parker, Mirian Van Horne, Ethel [illegible]ers, Edna Cole, Ruth Klein, Edna Bush, Mabel Whitford, Myra Donovan, Nettie Stillman, Bessie Alpaugh, Barbara Fleming, Horace [illegible].

Fourth row—Frank Putnam, Grace Woolston, Helen Macallum, Bessie Van Winkle, Annie Major, Arline Brown, Celestine Waldron, Mary Radford, Alice Doane, Marian Praed, Marguerite Van Zandt, Muriel Collins, Thomas Ricketts.

Fifth row—William Bullock, Katharine Moynihan, Louise Andrews, Lindsey Best (principal), Russell Miller, Amy Abel, Ouida Hetzeld, Alan Overton.

Sixth row—Margaret Leggett, Fred Loizeaux, Howard Runyon, Meta Pennock.

Top row—Clifford Vail, John Kesney, Arthur Johnson, Osgood Sewall, Harry Brick, Theodore Hamilton, Ball (teacher), Maud Green, Agnes Moffet, Cora Gray, Edna Bird, Frances Newell, Elizabeth McClay, Lila

Miss Helen Smith is also in the class.

SLIDING SCALE TICKETS

New Arrangement for Commuters on the Jersey Central Railroad.

THE SCHEDULE OF INCREASE.

One Cent a Day More Says General Passenger Agent but the Monthly Rate Will Be Gradually Lowered.

Commuters on the Central Railroad of New Jersey have been notified that they will have to pay more for monthly tickets beginning July 1. The company filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission in Washington Thursday a new schedule of rates to go into effect on that date.

There is to be a general advance all along the line ranging from about five to twelve per cent. over the present rates, and, as in the case of the increases made by other railroads running out of New York, the new burden falls heaviest on those who travel the shorter distances.

In the new tariff filed the company announces it will continue to sell monthly tickets on a sliding scale, the rate decreasing with each succeeding month of continuous travel.

W. C. Hope, general passenger agent of the company, said the increase meant an average of one cent a day to each commuter.

The increases of interest here are shown in the following comparison of the rates for monthly tickets:

	Old Rate.	New Rate.
Fanwood	$7.25	$7.50
Netherwood	7.55	7.80
Plainfield	7.60	7.85
Grant Ave.	7.90	8.15
Clinton Ave.	7.95	8.20
Dunellen	8.10	8.35
Lincoln	8.35	8.60
Bound Brook	8.55	8.80

TIMBO OUTING PLANS ASSURE A BIG TIME.

June 19 will be a memorable day in the history of the Timbo Club if all the plans laid by the members are carried to a successful conclusion. With a band of fifty pieces and a bunch of fun makers which have been especially hired for the occasion, Atlantic City will wake up and find some of the roosters' feathers singed the morning after.

A spectacular part of the proceedings is promised when Tommy mounts the elephant and attempts to scathy down the board walk blowing the latest refrain in forms. Not a tin horn, mind you, but a regulation French horn attuned to the latest in pianola accompaniments. Nothing more elaborate has ever been conceived by the members of the club than the maneuvres laid out for consummation on the date mentioned. There will be something doing all the time from the minute the club gets started towards the seashore.

On the way back somebody is sure to hear something. Whether it be the detonating caps of dynamite or the reverberations from the big guns of the recently launched "Florida" perhaps none of the pilgrims will be able to say on the morning after, but it is safe to prognosticate that Plainfield will remember the day.

Strawberry Fritters.

Beat one egg very light, and pour it into one cupful of sweet milk, and add one tablespoonful of sugar. Into this dip stale slices of sponge cake cut into neat pieces. Fry in hot butter, arrange on a hot plate and heap each fritter with strawberries and sugar. Serve with cream, either plain or whipped, if preferred.

Beef Consomme.

The bones and trimmings of a roast may be used for broths. Have the bones cracked and cut the meat small. Use one quart of water to every pound of meat and bones. Season to taste. Cook slowly for several hours. Cool, strain through serge bags, reheat and serve.

To Clean Mirrors.

Cleanse the mirror with a sponge dampened with water. Dust the surface with the finest sifted whiting or powder blue and polish it with a silk handkerchief or soft cloth. The dried charred part of the candle, if free from grease, is an excellent polish for looking-glasses.

Clear Windows.

During the summer months the widows become dusty and look very ugly. To remedy this they should first of all be thoroughly cleaned and rubbed with pure glycerine. Polish lightly with a clean, dry cloth, and the windows will keep bright for weeks.

A Complex Rest Cure.

"Bilggins is a very vociferous person."

"Yes," replied Miss Cayenne, "but I don't blame him. The way a man of his mentality rests his nerves is by talking so loud he can't hear himself think."—Washington Evening Star.

—Constitutionalists Ads Pay.

ESCAPES ELECTRIC CHAIR

Jury Finds John Vincent Buckley Guilty in the Second Degree.

FOR SLAYING HIS PARAMOUR.

Prisoner Breaks Down When Verdict Is Announced and Hugs His Counsel—May Mean 30 Years Imprisonment.

(Reported by Thomas M. Muir).

Deliberating for a few minutes less than two hours, the jury retiring to agree upon the verdict in the case of John Vincent Buckley for the alleged murder of Mrs. Fred Covely in North Plainfield on April 21 last, made a return of guilty in the second degree Friday evening. The agreement was reached by the twelve men after six ballots had been taken. It is understood that the first expression of opinion showed six for conviction in the first degree and six for the second. From then on the first degree jurors changed to second, one by one until the unanimous agreement was reached.

Robert N. Crane, Counsel for the Slayer.

—Photo by Stone.

Judge Parker, who presided, received the verdict without comment and fixed Saturday, June 11, as the date for pronouncingsentence. The maximum penalty for murder in the second degree is thirty years at hard labor with nine years off for good be havior. The court can fix a lesser term but it is the general opinion no leniency will be shown in the present case.

When Foreman Stryker, in behalf of the jury, announced the conclusion it had reached, the scene that followed was one of the most pathetic that has ever been enacted in a court room in Somerset county. As soon as Buckley realized that he had been saved from the electric chair he sprang to his feet despite restraining hands and threw his arms about his counsel, and hysterically shouted "thank you, Mr. Crane thank you." Then rushing toward the jurors he grasped the hand of each one in turn and poured out his gratitude in turn with tears streaming down his face. As he reached the twelfth man he sank back into a chair and sobbed like a child. He was almost on the verge of collapse when the guard led him away, but once back in his cell he became calm and discussed the proceedings with a smiling face. The fact that he would be a man in middle life before he regained his freedom rested as lightly upon him as the ripples of a purling brook over a moss-covered boulder, "Life is sweet," he said, "and I'm glad the chair isn't to get me." The mention of the State's death instrument brought a cloud to his face for an instant, but it quickly disappeared before another smile.

The verdict caused general comment in the city and borough when it became known and while public opinion may not regard it favorably the fact remains that it is a victory for the defendant's counsel, Robert Newton Crane. The later offered to allow his client to plead guilty of murder in the second degree before the trial started on Wednesday morning, but the prosecution refused to entertain the proposition. Despite damaging statements made by Buckley soon after his capture, Mr. Crane then proceeded and out of almost nothing presented a defense that ostensibly left a reasonable doubt in the minds of the jurors.

The counsel's claim that Buckley did not place the fatal Mrs. Covely, but did so only after her alleged attack with a butcher knife was ridiculed by Prosecutor Pope in his summing up, but it was presented so strongly that it paved the way for argument. It may be also that the counsel's ever-readiness to dwell upon the youth of the defendant struck a sympathetic chord in the breasts of the younger members of the jury of whom there were four. Mr. Crane met every point pressed by the State and presented his own side in a manner that has earned him commendation from many able and older legal lights. While the summing up fell on the shoulders of the brilliant dean of the Somerset bar, Alvah A. Clark, Mr. Crane handled practically all the witnesses on both sides and delivered a stirring adress in opening the defense.

Buckley was put on the stand Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock and made an excellent witness for himself. His claim that the killing was not premeditated and that he had the pistol in his possession because he intended going west was not beaten down by the prosecutor, nor was his assertion that the statements he made were dragged from him by means of intimidation and starvation. His reply as to what he meant by a letter he wrote to Miss Bessie Van Nest on April 19, stating that "he could not stand this any longer and determined to put an end to it," was that he intended to commit suicide. Buckley was on thestand for an hour and when tricked into hard corners by Mr. Pope fell back on the convenient answers of "I don't remember" and "I don't know of."

Mr. Clark consumed just thirty-one minutes in the closing address to the jury, while Mr. Pope spoke five minutes less. Judge Parker gave an impartial charge in which he outlined what elements are necessary to make up the verdicts of first and second degree murder and manslaughter. This was the first time that manslaughter had been mentioned in the case. The jury retired at 4:45.

BOROUGH TO HAVE NEW BUILDING ORDINANCE

There was little doing at the monthly meeting of the Borough Council Friday. An informal discussion relative to recent building permits developed the fact that it is probable that in the near future the present building and fire ordinances will be replaced by a new law, an ordinance similar to the one in this city. The matter will be considered by the fire and building committee and will be reported at the next meeting. Mayor Smalley and the various Councilmen voiced sentiments in favor of fire proof structures. On the recommendation of Councilman J. J. Stahl, chairman of the fire committee, six permits were issued for the erection of small buildings.

In the transaction of routine business Recorder Dolliver's report showed 28 arrests and $26 collected in fines; Tax Collector Brown reported collections amounting to $646.47 for May; bills amounting to $2,228.92 were ordered paid; Councilman Waldron reported that the street committee had expended $985.91 during the past month.

Mayor Smalley also called attention to the Council as to the importance attached to the special sewer election which will be held in Tuesday, June 14.

DEFECTIVE FLUE FIRE CAUSES $4,000 LOSS

A defective flue caused a fire at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lyon, 816 First place, Friday night, the estimated loss being $4,000. The house was damaged to the extent of $2,500, while the loss to the furniture which was destroyed and damaged by water will reach the $1,500 mark. The flames were confined mostly to the attic where the fire originated. Everything in this part of the structure was eaten up by the flames including some valuable china. The house is owned by Mrs. J. K. VanZandt, formerly of this city, who is now residing in Connecticut.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyon had made arrangements to take possession of the house today. The furniture had recently been installed, the interior decorated, and other improvements made in the interior of the building. The fire was discovered at 10:35 o'clock by Martin B. Stutsman, who was passing the house. Mr. Stutsman pulled Box 25 and when the firemen arrived on the scene the flames were shooting out of the roof.

Chief Doane after making an investigation of the premises this morning came to the conclusion that the fire was due to a defective chimney.

MR. AND MRS. BUSHNELL THIRTY-ONE YEARS WED.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Bushnell, formerly of this city, but now residing at 328 Eleventh street, Newark, celebrated their thirty-first wedding anniversary at their home Friday night. A large number of friends and relatives were present to wish the couple many more years of happy wedded life. She was the daughter of the late Jacob Irving, of East Second street, he being one of Plainfield's earliest settlers.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Bushnell were married at her father's home in 1879, thirty-one years ago. The officiating clergyman was Rev. A. E. Smith, then pastor of the First Congregational church, which is now Trinity Reformed church. The Irving home was the second house on East Second street at that time, the first house being the Webster homestead.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning June 12, 1910.

Topic.—God knows.—Ps. cxli, 1-4; Matt. vi, 7. Comment by Rev. Sherman E. Doyle, D. D.

The great characteristics of God are not emphasized now as they once were. The world today is following more closely the suggestion of Pope: "Know thyself. Presume not God to scan. The proper study of mankind is man."

Man's thoughts center too much around himself. Even in some pulpits, though not as many as generally supposed, society and political and economic problems are discussed in preference to the great things concerning God. But this is a great mistake. If we think supremely of material things we cannot rise above the material, for "as a man thinketh in his heart so is he."

It is encouraging, therefore, to have a topic dealing with God's omniscience, God's perfect and eternal knowledge of all things, past, present and future. There is comfort in that God does not know. God knows his inanimate creation. "He telleth the number of the stars; He giveth them all their names; He has knowledge of the brute creation. Not a sparrow falls to the ground without His knowledge." Of men He knows all things—their works. "Beholdeth all the sons of man, considereth all their works;" their hearts and thoughts—"God, which knoweth the heart;" "All things are made naked and bare before Him." Many other texts might be recalled to demonstrate God's omniscience in all the affairs of the universe. The thought that God knows all things, from the secret thoughts of our hearts to the planning and naming of the stars, should most seriously impress us. It should cause an uplift in our life. We often wonder if our loved ones who are gone know what we are doing in this life, many believing that they do better than we. But whether they do or not God knows, which is of infinitely greater importance and should have a much greater effect upon our lives for good. He knows our every thought. He sees our every act. How can we help but do that which we know to be contrary to His will?

*Another feature of God's omni*science is of the vastest importance—knowing God cares. The reason many people seem unsympathetic is because they do not know the joys and griefs of the hearts and lives of those about them. But God knows, and, knowing, He cares. "Every heart knoweth its own sorrow," but God knows better than we ourselves do and cares for us. "God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble; therefore will not we fear though the earth be removed and though the mountains be carried into the midst of the sea."

Since God knows and cares we should be grateful and thankful unto Him. With the psalmist we should say, "Bless the Lord, O my soul and all that is within me, bless His holy name; bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all His benefits."

BIBLE READINGS.

Ex. iii, 7; Deut. xi, 12; cvi, 1, 2; cvii, 8-15; cxvi, 12-19; Matt. vi, 25-34; Isa. xlvi, 3, 4; Matt. x, 30; Rom. xi, 33; Heb. iv, 12, 13.

Rules For Christian Endeavorers.

Toward the close of the great Boston revival the Christian Endeavor World asked Rev. J. Wilbur Chapman, D. D., who for years has been a trustee of the United Society of Christian Endeavor, to send a special message to the Endeavorers of the world, and this is his response:

Many of the best experiences of my life are closely interwoven with the Christian Endeavor young people. For the honored president and all the men who have served as secretaries and in other offices I have the most sincere affection, but never before have I been so drawn to Dr. Clark and those standing with him for Christian Endeavor as during the Boston revival. There have come to me a strength and a cheer from the attitude of the officers which I cannot too highly appreciate.

In this special evangelistic work I am sending forth an appeal to the Christian Endeavor young people of the world and asking that the following rules be observed:

1. Regarding the personal life:

First.—Begin each day with prayer. Do not fail at this point. A prayerless day is a joyless day.

Second.—Allow no day to pass without reading at least one chapter in the Word of God. Don't keep you from sin or sin or sin will keep you from the Bible."

Third.—Confess sin instantly. One unconfessed sin hinders prayer and kills our Christian experience.

Fourth.—Allow no day to pass without rendering some definite act of service to others and if possible seek to lead some one to Christ.

2. Regarding service:

As a result of the Boston revival, the power of which has gone throughout the world, there ought to be a great Christian Endeavor revival along the line of personal work. Will you not heed the following:

First.—Pray definitely for some one person or more and pray for them by name.

Second.—Seek them out that you may lay before them the claims of Christ, who has a right to the best that is in us.

Third.—Do not be discouraged if you meet with no success. One of my friends worked for his loved one twenty-eight years.

Fourth.—As soon as you lead a soul to Christ set the person won at work for others.

Fifth.—From time to time meet in conference with those who see eye to eye with you and are possessed with the same longing.

May God bless the Christian Endeavor movement throughout the world.

An Endeavor Verse.

Evangelist Biederwolf has said;
No pelting rain can me hestay
When I have tickets for the play,
But let one drop the walk besmirch,
And it's too wet to get to church.

LONELINESS OF IT

Pining, then, for the seclusion that dances attendance upon the dwellers in flats, we moved from the country to the city, gayly, happily and with never a thought of care, for, as I mentioned to Josephine and as Josephine mentioned to me, the quiet and peace meantioned to me.

"Augustus!"

"My love?"

"Augustus! I had two callers today. The strangest women!"

Thus my Josephine upon my return from the marts of trade in the evening of the first day after we had settled in our apartment and had begun to live the life that we desired, unpossessing and unseen.

"The strangest women!" repeated she, my love, and her eyes were large with bright amaze and her lips quivered, whereby I knew that thereby hung a tale. "The first one rang the doorbell in the morning and asked me if I'd lend her a saucerful of salt. She said an hour, Augustus, and she told me all."

"All, my love?"

"Augustus, she told me all. That is to say," added Josephine, thoughtfully, "all except herself. The second woman told me that."

"She, too, wished to borrow a saucerful of—"

"No, Augustus. She lives in the apartment above, and a handkerchief which was drying in her kitchen blew out of her window and lodged upon our fire escape. When I went for it I could not find it; it had blown somewhere else, but she said, 'Never mind it, then,' and she staid an hour, Augustus! I know what every one has for dinner.

"First floor front: roast beef, spinach and beets; first flood rear: beefsteak, onions and potatoes; second floor front: leg of lamb, mint sauce and broccoli; second floor rear—"

Whereat I stopped her with a gesture of absolute helplessness, saying:

"Tell me—"

Whereat she stopped me, murmuring:

"Sh!"

Leaning then over, she whispered:

"Everyone can hear what everyone says. The walls are thin."

And reverting to the mystery of everyone's dinner, she whispered:

"I saw them on the dumb waiter."

And leaning over still further, her eyes large with the news she brought, she breathed:

"I smelled them cooking, too!"

And almost in a pantomime—

"The folks above have corned beef and cabbage! And they go in strong for cheese!"

Then lived we in the privacy of our apartment.

"Augustus!"

"My love?"

"Augustus! The janitor and his helper were in our kitchen all day today. A pipe!"

Thus said my Josephine in the evening of the third day after our arrival into the life of a great city.

"A pipe?" I said.

"Leaked!" whispered she, my Josephine. "They had to put everything out into the hall, and even then they didn't finish it. They'll be back again to-morrow."

The next day was Saturday, and returning early home I helped to en*tertain the janitor and his assistant,* holding their tools for them, handing them the oil can and performing other little offices, while on a swinging bridge in front of the house a painter brightened our woodwork, his gaze frankly and reflectively meeting ours whenever he chanced to look at him.

Thus flourished we.

But it was in the evening that we found our greatest measure of seclusion, rest and quiet. Of the distant elevated and the nearer surface cars I speak not, caring not; of the woman in the first floor rear (she who loves her beefsteak and her onions) I speak not, notwithstanding the passionately sad ballads she sings with such a quiver of voice that my love bursts into tears; of him on the sixth floor who breathes tender secrets into his *flute I speak not; it is the conversa*tions that rest us the most; intimate conversations, personal and private conversations, floating to us from the windows of the court or permeating through the walls, and hearing which, Josephine sometimes looks at me and smiles, and sometimes looks at me with a new alarm, whispering imploringly:

"Augustus!"

To which I make my fond reply as ever:

"My love?"

"Augustus! Be careful to whom you speak in these apartments!"

And leaving her remark a mystery, she solved it for others.

"Augustus!"

"My precious one?"

"Augustus! Did you ever hear anything like these sparrows?"

Thus did she solve another mystery, for every morning had my sleep been broken by a chattering hitherto undetermined. Looking out, I saw a flock of sparrows swirling around the house and looking in at the windows. Bold and brazen they were, as big as hens almost, with fighting faces and domineering chirps, and when I looked out at them they looked back impudently, sharpening their beaks with savage emphasis on the fire escape and daring me to come out and be pecked.

"At least," I cried unto my love, "at least I shall be careful how I speak unto the sparrows!"

Queer Behavior by "The Captain"

"So you come after all," observed Tabitha in a tone of reproof.

"I come right away, soon's I got your message," returned Lavinia.

The visiting spinster laid aside her shawl and straightened her bonnet. She was the dried apricot kind, and sucked in her lips so hard that she spoke with a lisp. It was a wonder that her quick, nervous movements never made her bones rattle.

Miss Tabitha was just the other way, like a pin cushion. There was a double chin under her face and a rat over it, and the latter was the more apparent because it was reddish in color, whereas the three wisps of hair that held it on were brown.

"Certainly I come right away," Lavinia reaffirmed, "and I'd just like to know why you're sending for me at this hour of the morning. I've hardly ate breakfast. What's happened?"

"Wait till you hear."

"The captain ain't had a spell has he?"

"Somethin' pretty like it. I should say, and if he hasn't, why then, I have."

"Do tell."

"Yes, it's just as I say. I'm that nervous I can't make a cup of tea, and the captain's in disgrace."

"Ain't taken to drinkin', has he?"

The visiting spinster went off in a titter.

"Lavinia Merkle! Well, no. But he would if he could, right enough. He's the worst parrot in Greenwich village."

"That why you've got the cage covered?"

"That's it. Didn't you hear nothin' in the night?"

"How would I, across the street?"

"Well, it's a mercy you didn't. I thought all the neighbors would hear."

"What's he done?"

"Just listen to this. Come nine o'clock last night when I was thinkin' of bed, I noticed the captain was eyin' me pretty sharp.

"O ho, Mr. captain, I won't stand for none of your nonsense," I says. "If you're up to your old sorrows and blues or bale—Why should we grieve?

Why do we heap huge mounds of years
Before us and behind,
And scorn the little days that pass
Like angels in the wind?

Each turning round a small sweet face
As beautiful as one,
Because it is so small a face
We will not see it clear.

We will not clasp it as it flies,
And kiss its lips and brow;
But with our love of wearied souls
In its delicious Now.

And so it turns from us and goes
Away in sad disdain;
Though we would give our lives for it,
It never comes again.

Yes, every day has its dawn,
Its noontide and its eve;
Live while we live, giving God thanks—
He will not let us grieve.

—Dinah Mulock Craik.

When We Pray.

As tired children go at candle-light—
The glow in their young eyes quenched with dew—
Almost too languid, now that play is through,
To seek their father's knee, and say:
"Good-night!"
So, to our greater Father out of sight
When the brief gamut of the day is run,
Defeated, endured and petty triumphs won,
We kneel and listlessly his care invite.

Then with no sense of garb—no tender thrill,
As when we leave the presence of a friend,
No lingering content our souls to bend
But reckoning our gaines and losses still,
We turn the leaf upon the dull day's end,
And, coarless, drift out to the sea of sleep.

—May Riley Smith.

The Quitter.

It ain't the failures he may meet
That keeps a man from winnin'—
It's the discouragement complete
That blocks a new beginning.
You want to quit your work, lad,
And when the shadows fittin'
Make life seem worthlessattin's sad,
You wants to quit your quittin'!

You want to quit a-lyin' down
An' saying hope is over,
Because the fields are bare an' brown
And you've no bird in cover;
When jolted from the water cart
It's painful to be hittin'
The dirt, an' you've another start,
Cheer up, an' quit your quittin'!

Although the game seems rather stiff,
Don't be a doleful doubter;
There's always one more innin',
You've got to bat it over.
But fortune's pretty sure to flee
From folks content with sittin'
Around And wishin' they was free—
You've got to quit your quittin'!

—Washington Star.

Fool Bed. Wise Moth.

The busy bee, as we may see,
Improves each shining hour;
And yet the wise and thrifty moth
It lacks for mental power.

From dawning light till dewy night,
It toils with restless wing.
That man may steal the store, and thus
Eat even bleaest thing.

The moth will let a fellow sweat
To pay the tailor's bill,
Then all the lazy summer months
On clothes will eat its fill.

On Hugging Trouble.

It is well to hug your troubles
But only for a space
To reduce them all to bubbles
By behaving like a bear.

Take and grab 'em by the collar
With your might and with your mains;
Then just squeeze 'em till they holler
With the pressure and the pains.

Don't you let up for a minute
Till they're quite devoid of breath.
Life has little worry in it
With your troubles squoze to death!

HARTRIDGE GRADUATION

Leslie Willis Sprague Speaks on "Progress" at the Annual Exercises.

TWO ARE GIVEN DIPLOMAS.

Miss Louise Fox and Miss Margory Woods Complete the Course—A Reception Follows the Formal Program.

Miss Louise Fox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh F. Fox, of this city, and Miss Margory Woods, daughter of E. A. Woods, of Sewickley, Pa., were graduated from the Hartridge School at the commencement exercises held at the school auditorium Friday night. The address of the evening was delivered by Leslie Willis Sprague, of New York, and the invocation was by the Rev. Dr. Hansen, of Larned, Ireland. Miss Emielyn B. Hartridge was in charge of the exercises and introduced the speaker.

The stage was decorated with beautiful flowers, palms and greens. Seated there with the graduates and speaker was Rev. D. Hansen, Miss Hartridge and these members of the faculty: Miss Annie L. Seward, Miss Alice Holden, Miss Mary B. Wells, Miss Gertrude E. Netzche, Miss Anna L. Runyon, Miss Edith Gilbert, Miss Sarah R. Scott, Miss E. May Tennant, Miss Anna N. Timpkins, Miss Florence G. Burt, Miss M. Alice Waring and Miss Elizabeth H. Mapleden.

The graduates were showered with floral gifts when they were presented with their diplomas by Miss Hartridge, and they were also greeted with hearty applause by their many friends present. The auditorium was filled with guests.

The address of the evening was by Mr. Sprague, who spoke on "Progress." He said that for centuries progress had been the keynote of development, the dominant power always and ever making itself felt in the daily lives of people. We all want to attain some definite aim in life, some goal we are constantly striving for and the realization is only obtained by progress.

"The specific and universal harmony so earnestly desired," said the speaker, "is obtained only by the individual person, who is responsible, working together in co-operation with their fellow-men. To do this, however, the individual must realize his proper sense of responsibility. He should be a worthy member of the ideal, and living embodiment of progress.

"The object of education is to free in one's self the latent power that lies dormant, because the spirit of progress is lacking. The reorganization of the social body without touching the personal life is not the satisfactory solution of this important problem.

"Social justice is only the justice of individual men. Personal justice, better personal life, such as to make real the ideals and conditions we possess. We owe nothing to ourselves, but what we owe in a larger degree to others has a reflect action on ourselves."

Mr. Sprague referred to the relationship between parent and children, telling what the parent owes to his children and himself. Though the children be unworthy, it is still the duty of the parent to instill the qualities they should have. He also referred to the duty of work, adding that all should work in the schoolroom as well as elsewhere. People would be most miserable if they were not busily employed. He said that there is not enough wealth in the world to go all the way round. Without work half the world would be dead and would last four months and the United States would exist just twelve months.

The speaker said that the art of conversation is a dead art. The right companionship nowadays seems to be in the backyard. He believed that playing cards was more desirable than gossips. The only way progress can be obtained is through a purified and regenerated political life, and the next step lies in political reform.

Mr. Sprague gave the graduates some good advice as they are about to go into the world. He touched upon fraternity as necessary to the right kind of a life, and had something interesting to say about parentheood. Refusing to trade as compared with a profession, the speaker said that there is something higher than the mere output of labor.

Following the exercises dancing was enjoyed until a late hour. During the social part of the evening supper was served. More than one hundred guests enjoyed the dancing.

Honors for Miss Hunter.

Miss Gertrude Laura Hunter, of this city, valedictorian of the '10 class at Barnard College, has been awarded the Jenny A. Gerard model for proficiency in American colonial history. Miss Hunter is a graduate of the Plainfield High School, and is now president of her class at Barnard.

The Constitutionalist.

AN INDEPENDENT WEEKLY.

A. L. PURCH, Editor and Proprietor.

Terms: $2.00 per year.

Plainfield, N. J., June 9, 1910.

THE CITY'S BENEFACTOR.

In making her will, Mrs. Minnie E. Edgerton, whose funeral took place Wednesday, exemplified the splendid reputation she had enjoyed in the community where she had done so much for those in illness, sorrow and other distress. Richly blessed with the world's goods, she contributed liberally at all times and to all worthy causes. She shunned publicity and therefore no one knew how much of her fortune she disposed of during her life.

We do know now that Mrs. Edgerton has gone to her reward and her last testament is made public, that she has been most generous to the community and to those who had been her faithful friends and advisers, for all, her public gifts reach the munificent sum of one hundred and fifty-six thousand dollars. The list of benevolences shows that she had given much thought to the needs of the various institutions and not one of the local charities was overlooked.

Mrs. Edgerton's public remembrances are all the more noteworthy because, unfortunate to relate and strange as it may seem, public bequests are very infrequent in this city, but she will go down in local history as a true benefactor of the community.

TWENTY-SIX MORE FIRE HYDRANTS ARE ORDERED

In accordance with the action at the recent meeting of the Councilmanic fire committee as to installing a number of new fire hydrants, Councilman D. W. Taylor, at the June meeting of the Common Council, Monday, offered a resolution, which was adopted, calling for the improvement. In all twenty-six hydrants were ordered installed in various parts of the city, as follows:

Two-ways-corner East Seventh street and Leland avenue, Leland avenue, opposite Loraine avenue; corner Berkeley avenue and Ravine road; corner Johnston avenue and George street; corner Netherwood avenue and George street; on Columbia avenue, 500 feet east of Leland avenue; corner Leland avenue and East Second street; on Orchard place between Liberty and New streets; corner John and Essex streets; on Arlington avenue and West Third street; on Randolph road and Woodland, on Woodland avenue, 700 feet north of Randolph road; corner Thornton and Kensington avenues; on Prospect and Kensington avenues; on Berckman and East Sixth streets; on Scott place and East Sixth street; on Clinton avenue and West Third streets; on Evona avenue and West Third streets; on Grace avenue and West Third streets; on Leslie avenue and South Second streets; on Manson place and West Third street.

Four-ways—East Front street and Pound alley; West Front street and Prudden avenue; West Front street, between Exchange place and Madison avenue; West Front street, between Madison and Central avenues.

DUNELLEN'S AGITATION FOR A PUBLIC LIBRARY

An illustration of Dunellen's progressiveness, the people of that borough say, is displayed in the formation of an association for the purpose of establishing a free public library. Prominent residents are taking an interest in the project and have expressed a willingness to lend their hearty support in the undertaking. Likewise the Board of Trade at its last meeting passed a resolution endorsing the movement and promising its earnest co-operation. The association has been formed for the purpose of arousing public interest in the library idea.

"There is no doubt," said J. B. Bogardus today, "that next to the church and the school, the public library is of paramount importance in advancing the moral and intellectual growth of a community. Dunellen is growing rapidly and the need of a good library and reading room is becoming more apparent each year. That the people realize this and intend to correct the deficiency is evidenced by the enthusiasm with which the association's plan has been received. The latest movement in the boroughites is a further example of the progressiveness which is placing Dunellen in the foremost ranks of the smaller New Jersey towns."

Miss Margaret Hasbrook, of Dubois, Pa., is being entertained at the home of Mrs. L. A. Riffert, in Bound Brook.

MISS FLORENCE WAGNER, H. H. RICKETT'S BRIDE

Miss Florence Auria Wagner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wagner, of Watchung avenue, became the bride of Hugh Hanson Ricketts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ricketts, of East Fifth street, at the home of her parents Monday afternoon. The ceremony took place in the parlor which was attractively decorated in a pink and white scheme of roses, palms and peonies. The bridal party came into the room to the music of the Lohengrin wedding march played by Mrs. Thomas Ricketts. The bride met the bridegroom under a bower of flowers and a large white bell suspended from the chandelier. Here the nuptial knot was tied by the Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church.

The bride was gowned in a dress of mousseline de silk under a net of white point de spite trimmed with heavy lace, and carried a bouquet of white bridal roses. She was attended by Miss Carrie Mitchell, of Bridgeport, a cousin of the bride, who acted as the maid of honor. The best man was Edwin Page, of Philadelphia, a cousin of the bridegroom. The ushers were Frank Mitchell, of Bridgeport, and Jack Ricketts, of this city. The flower girls were the Misses Ruth Potter, of Brooklyn, and Adelaide Ricketts, of this city.

Immediately after the ceremony a bridal supper was served by a local caterer, after which Mr. and Mrs. Ricketts departed for a month's honeymoon. On their return they will reside in Philadelphia.

Mr. Ricketts holds a responsible position with the Yale and Towne Lock Company, of New York, and is well known among a large circle of friends in this city.

Numbered among the guests were friends from Brooklyn, Elizabeth, Bridgeport, Philadelphia, New York, Baltimore and this city.

FOWLER-MAC MURRAY AS VIEWED BY "OUR JIM"

"You can't lose Jim MacMurray," said James E. Martine, when asked for the expression of his views regarding the announcement of Representative Charles N. Fowler that he would enter the lists for the United States Senatorship. "Jim's a good fellow and also a slick boss, and, 'pon my word, it makes me laugh when I hear and read of his saying that 'the people are the bosses, will be the next Congressman.' Why, bless your heart, where in creation was there ever a bigger and more domineering boss than Jim?"

When Mr. Martine was pressed for a direct and final answer to the question whether he would became a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress, Martine would only answer that he sincerely favored the nomination of William E. Tuttle, of Westfield, for that honor.

"I see," continued the "farmer-orator" and former rival of Mr. Fowler for Congress, "that my good friend Fowler has announced that he is quite willing to accept an election either the lower or the upper house of Congress, and I now await his announcement that he will get in the fight for the Governorship. Those are about the only three offices for which any man can aspire in this year of grace, and, darn it all, why did Charlie Fowler get into the 'holler than thou' class. My friend, ask him how much coin was spent to defeat Flanagan when he aspired to fill Charlie's shoes. I will let you in on the secret that it was about as much as the salary of the President of these United States. Ask Charlie Fowler how much money was put into Morris county at the eleventh hour to prevent my defeat of him when I was a candidate, and ask him from whence it came. Ask Charlie Fowler why it is that he never told his constituents what a bad man John Kean is politically until he woke up to the fact that he was being pitched off the band wagon. Why, bless your soul, I have been telling the people about John Kean and his gang of ringsters for years and years, and Charlie kept silent. That was because Charlie was occupying a seat as a stowaway on the political band wagon. He did the same thing—yell stop thief! when he fouad, after many years, that Joe Cannon was disgusted with him and that he would lose his empty job as chairman of the Committee on Banking and Currency.

"I am not a political friend of John Kean, though I must confess that I admire him as an astute politician; but between evils I prefer John Kean with his unfortunate politics and boss methods to Fowler, whom I personally consider to be a political exploiter. Yes, Jim MacMurray is going to be Fowler's political manager; that's enough for me—don't it make you laugh? Honest, you know the game, what do you think of it?"

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Richardson, of Brooklyn, are spending several months in Bound Brook.

PREACHING WON'T SAVE

(Continued from page 1.)

than five hundred delegates and friends were present throughout the session and the discussions were spirited.

Rev. J. W. Musson, secretary, gave a concise report of the Ministerial Conference held here a few weeks ago, which was followed with a report of the Permanent Council by Rev. E. O. Wilson, of Newark. He stated that during the past year three candidates for the ministry were passed upon, Rev. Fred Allen, now of Metuchen; Rev. Charles H. Fountain, who was ordained in September and Rev. John Searles, of Stelton, who was ordained in November. It was further reported that the council met yesterday and reorganized by re-electing Rev. Dr. T. B. Thames, of Elizabeth, president, and Rev. E. O. Wilson, secretary and treasurer. There is a balance of $3.95 in the treasury.

The report on proposed changes in the constitution was made by Rev. Dr. T. B. Villiers, of the Peddie Memorial church, Newark. He said that it seemed to be the sense of the association that a two-days' session is not advisable, and upon his motion Rev. W. H. Bowden, of Perth Amboy; Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, of this city, and Rev. S. J. Skevington, of Newark, were appointed a committee to confer with the program committee for next year with a view to making suggestions for an improvement of the program; also that a minimum price of twenty-five cents a meal be charged each person by the entertaining church at future meetings of the association.

The motion caused considerable discussion, as some of the ministers favored discharging the committee with thanks instead of waiting another year to accomplish anything. Dr. Villiers' motion prevailed. It is the opinion of Dr. Villiers the association is badly in need of a vitalizing influence, and Rev. S. J. Arthur, of Jersey City, said that the association could be made infinitely more effective and of thrilling interest.

The moderator appointed Rev. Dr. T. B. Villiers chairman of the committee on the Board of State Missions. In his report for the missionary committee, Rev. S. J. Arthur brought up the question of helping the Greenville Height's Baptist church in the Jersey City section, of which Rev. M. T. Shelford is the pastor. This congregation is building a new house of worship and is now in need of $575, which was promised by the State convention. The question of raising this amount now when a movement is on foot to secure a fund of $100,000 with which to help weak churches in the State provoked much discussion.

Rev. Mr. Shelford appeared before the association and made a plain statement of fact concerning his work, with the result that the desired amount was raised through subscriptions on the part of the delegates. The fund now being raised by the Baptist laymen has reached $17,000.

Under the theme for consideration, "The Church," Rev. J. Madison Hare, of the Parmly Memorial Baptist church, Jersey City, made a strong address on the subject, "What is the Church?" He traced the scenes and incidents of the formation of the early church as a free Greek community, the idea being that the church was not an end, but a means to the Kingdom of God. The disciples went out and preached the gospel and were witnesses of the truth. In this way Christianity came as it was planned and became inspiration at a rate of $18 per annum for each incandescent light. In the contract it states that the $18 covers 4,000 service for each light during the year. The Council is also given the privilege for deducting from bills for any lights that may go out or refuse to furnish illumination due to any defects in the service.

An ordinance was also introduced and passed on its second reading giving the P. S. C. the privilege of laying double tracks on North avenue within the precincts of the borough. This matter was agreed on between the borough officials some time ago, but the ordinance was not introduced until last night. It is the understanding that the company will lay double tracks half the distance this year and complete the job next year.

TRINITY'S START THE SEASON WITH VICTORY.

Trinity Reformed Sunday school's baseball team opened the season on Saturday with a victory over the Watchungs by the score of 6 to 3. Harry VanZandt made a splendid showing in the box and his team mates gave him the support. Russell Doeringer also performed in excellent style behind the bat and Harriman's playing on the initial sack was also a feature.

The team lined up as follows: E. Moneyman, cf; R. Vail, 2b; C. Harriman 1b; R. Hodge, lf; P. Haberle, rf; Van Zandt, p; W. Morrison, ss; G. Cole, 3b; R. Doeringer, c.

Games are wanted with all local teams. The officers of the club are: Manager, Raymond Hodge; assistant manager, Elmer E. Gayle; captain, Russell C. Doeringer.

Mr. Lumbar's remarks were followed by a spirited discussion, which prepared the delegates for listening to the next address by Rev. Charles H. Fountain, of this city, on the topic, "Would Faithfulness to the New Testament Church Bring Similar Results Now?" He handled the topic in an able manner, giving a clear idea of the church, and what constitutes it, as well as the New Testament. He emphasized the importance of all Christians being faithful to the New Testament church. Until there was a risen Head there was no body, declared the speaker. The church began on the day of Pentecost and will continue until the marriage of the Lamb and Her Bride. He believed that generally there is a false conception of the early Christians.

An open discussion followed Mr. Fountain's remarks, after which some minor business matters were disposed of in closing the afternoon session.

The women of the First Baptist church prepared and served an elaborate dinner and supper for the 161 delegates. Mrs. Harold Serrell was the chairman of the general committee, assited by these women:

Mrs. George H. Batchelor, Mrs. F. S. Armstrong, Mrs. George White, Mrs. Sydney W. Dunning, Mrs. Walter C. Dobbins, Mrs. Dudley S. Miller, Mrs. John G. MacLaughlin, Mrs. J. L. Hampton, Mrs. Frank A. Powlison, Mrs. Frank W. Jones, Mrs. George Robins, Mrs. R. W. Barnes, Mrs. VanNest, Mrs. Elvain VanName, Mrs. Fred Dixon, Mrs. Morris Zook, Mrs. Frank T. Ostrom, Mrs. George H. Fountain, Mrs. C. P. Brewin, Mrs. Lewis Matlack, Mrs. E. D. Moffett, Miss Laura J. Runyon, Miss Helen Armstrong, Miss Ella Serrell. The waitresses were the Misses Carrie Coombs, Carrie Demler, Marguerite Dodge, Alice Drake, Amy Conant, Katherine Day, Minnie Serrell, Leora Henry, Emma Heldloff, Donna Campbell, Adelia French and Loraine Dunn.

PENSIONS FOR POLICE AFTER 20 YRS. SERVICE

Steps were taken at the June meeting of the Common Council, Monday to provide a pension system for the members of the police department who have served twenty years, and who can become retired at the age of sixty years upon application. Mr. Mygatt called up the ordinance on second reading and it was adopted and ordered engrossed and after one publication in the official newspapers of the city will become effective.

The pension provided for those eligible to the provisions of the ordinance, is $300 per annum, to be paid in monthly installments. Mr. Holt drafted the ordinance and presented it at a recent meeting of the Council. Last night Mr. Mygatt moved its adoption on second reading and there was not a dissenting vote. The action was taken more especially at this time for the benefit of Doorman Thomas McCue who is eligible for the retired list.

DUNELLEN PLACES ITS LIGHTING CONTRACT

The Dunellen Council at its meeting Monday night ratified a five-year contract with the Public Service Corporation at a rate of $18 per annum for each incandescent light. In the contract it states that the $18 covers 4,000 service for each light during the year. The Council is also given the privilege for deducting from bills for any lights that may go out or refuse to furnish illumination due to any defects in the service.

An ordinance was also introduced and passed on its second reading giving the P. S. C. the privilege of laying double tracks on North avenue within the precincts of the borough. This matter was agreed on between the borough officials some time ago, but the ordinance was not introduced until last night. It is the understanding that the company will lay double tracks half the distance this year and complete the job next year.

VOTING MACHINE BATTLE

Petition for Special Election Returned to Signers by City's Fathers.

Acting on the request of the petitioners, the Common Council Monday night by a vote of six to four, returned the big petition demanding for a special election on the abolition of the voting machine. At the last meeting the city fathers pigeonholed the petition after an opinion submitted by Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh was read. The city's lawyer had advised that there were two courses open, one to go ahead under the law, which he argued was unconstitutional, and the other to ignore the statute and allow the petitioners to proceed by mandamus. The latter course, he added, would permit the constitutionality of the act to be raised which would rebound to the benefit of the entire State.

George M. V. Moy, representing the petitioners, made a lengthy plea to the city fathers urging that they order the special election and requesting that if they still declined to return the document. Councilman Frank L. Holt, a New York lawyer, supported Mr. Moy's contentions declaring that it is the duty of the Common Council to obey the law as it finds it, and Councilman Duncan W. Taylor stated that the people should have what they want and the city fathers should "not quibble." "We are a legislative body and not a court," said Councilman George S. Clay, also a New York lawyer. "I suppose we should accept the law as we find it." Five of the city fathers voted to hold the petition as a matter of record but six voted for its return.

Mr. Moy in his address quoted the law which permits municipalities to hold an election upon the petition of at least twenty-five per cent. of the voters, and stated that he had understood that the Common Council had turned down the petition for an election in this city.

He called attention to the mass meeting held last week, when about one hundred citizens gathered to take action as to how to securing a special election and he read the resolutions adopted then favoring a reconsideration of the action by the Common Council.

The speaker respectfully requested the Common Council to reconsider its action. In this connection he read a letter sent from Secretary of State Samuel D. Dickinson, in answer to his letter, stating the number of voting machines purchased, 361, and that special elections had been held in 258 municipalities abolishing the machines and that only seven machines were retained as a result in these municipalities.

In view of this, Mr. Taylor said he thought it worth while to reconsider the action. Mr. Holt stated that he believed it to be the duty of the Common Council to follow the provisions of the law and not attempt to act as a court and determine whether it is constitutional or not.

It was the opinion of Mr. Mygatt as expressed by him that the remedy lay in mandamus proceedings, inasmuch as Corporation Counsel Marsh had advised that the city do nothing. He said that every newspaper article read by him and opinions expressed by lawyers all agreed with Mr. Marsh that the law is not constitutional. He believed that the petition should be withheld as a matter of record. When Mr. Holt questioned the opinion of Mr. Marsh, adding that he had given the Council the choice of two ways, Mr. Mygatt said that Mayor Fisk had conveyed Mr. Marsh's opinion to the Council and advised against the special election.

In reply to Mr. Mygatt's question as to whether Justice Garretson did not render his decision after the last election held to abolish voting machines, Mr. Moy said that any remarks made by Justice Garretson were as arbiter. Sticking to his question, Mr. Mygatt finally made his point that no election had been held since the decision in question, but Mr. Moy declared that to be a true statement of fact. He said that it referred to the Bayonne case when certain technical points were raised.

"There is one of two courses left for us to follow," said Mr. Clay and as we are a legislative body and not a court, I believe we should accept the law as it is and not try to ignore its provisions."

Mr. Buxton was opposed to returning the petition, and so expressed himself. At this time a vote was taken on returning the petition. Those voting in favor were Councilmen Clay, Gloak, Holt, Frank Randolph, Taylor and Wilson, and those who voted against the resolution were Councilmen Buxton, Mygatt, C. C. Randolph and Tolles.

It is now the intention of those who are behind the petition for an election to increase the number of signatures and present a new petition at the meeting of the Common Council on June 20.

—Constitutionalist's ads. pay.

MORE COMMISSIONERS FOR THE PLAYGROUNDS

Aside from a considerable amount of important business considered by the Common Council at its June meeting Monday, were many minor matters which made the session a lengthy one. Patrolman Charles Anderson, considered one of the best men in the police department, resigned and the resignation was accepted. It is understood that he intends returning to his old position as lineman for the telephone company, where he will receive more money.

Upon the request of the merchants in the city market, Robert J. Wood was appointed a special policeman by Mayor Fisk, and the same was confirmed.

Residents of West Front street, between Plainfield and Grant avenues, petitioned for four additional lights on that thoroughfare, and upon motion of Mr. Buxton the petition was referred to the light committee with power.

Two offers were received by the city for the purchase of that part of Mt. Prospect known as the "gravel pit." Peter McDonough offered $1,000 for the tract, while W. R. Way offered $1.50 a front foot for the land which has a frontage of about 900 feet. The matter was referred to the finance committee.

The Board of School Estimate informed the Common Council that it had determined the amount necessary to maintain the public schools for the coming year to be $67,000, and that amount will be incorporated in the annual budget.

Residents in the vicinity of Rose street in a communication opposed the grading and sewering of that street, claiming it to be an unnecessary expense as there is but one resident to be benefitted.

Mayor Fisk appointed Lindsley Best and Charles B. Morse additional members of the Playground Commission, and the same was confirmed.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane reported the granting of twenty-three permits during May and Street Comptroller A. J. Gavett reported that he had granted twenty-seven sewer permits during the same period. The monthly report of Overseer of the Poor A. D. Ayers was received and filed. Horace G. Adams, clerk of the District Court, reported receipts for May to be $114.96, the amount in his hands a balance of $84.20. This report was filed.

Upon motion of Mr. Buxton, $3,000 was transferred from the general to the fire fund. Mr. Holt moved that when the Common Council adjourn it be to meet on Monday night, June 20, at 8 o'clock and it was so carried.

On motion of Mr. Gloak the ordinance providing for an addition to the storm sewer in Richmond street was adopted on third reading and the offered a resolution which was adopted fixing Tuesday, night, July 6, as the time the Council will meet to receive bids for the work. This resolution also gives instructions to the city clerk to insert the usual advertisement in the official newspapers of the city and the Engineering News and the plans, forms of contract, bonds, etc., were adopted and filed.

Another resolution by the same member and adopted, authorized the street committee to purchase brick, pipe and castings for the storm sewer work, it being understood that the money for the same is to come out of the street appropriation fund.

Mr. Gloak then introduced a new ordinance providing for an additional extension to the sanitary system of sewers, which was adopted on two readings and June 5, was fixed as the time for a public hearing. The streets included in this ordinance are Monroe avenue, Hobart avenue, West Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, Seventh, Eighth streets, Sherman avenue, Plainfield avenue, Randolph road, Rose street, Radcliffe, East Front and East Second streets.

Mr. Clay gave notice that the meeting of the Common Council on Tuesday night, July 5, he would move to amend Rule 38, of the Council, so as to change the mode of procedure in the adoption of ordinances in the future.

According to his proposed amendment, an ordinance will first be read by title and a copy supplied to each member. On the second reading there will be opportunity for discussion and amendments and then it shall be placed on the table for at least two weeks before final adoption. It can at any time vote be referred back in the usual way. In the meantime a copy of the amendment will be sent to corporation counsel for his advice before making the changes as proposed by Mr. Clay, and each member will receive a copy of the amendment. An ordinance called up by Mr. Gloak for adoption was that which provides for vacating a portion of an unused street, being an extension of New street, between Seventh and Eighth streets, but as Mr. Buxton reported that there were objections to the proposed action the ordinance was left on the table until the next meeting.

Mother—Why did you hit your brother on the nose?

Johnny—I was evolving a plan for universal peace.—New York Sun.

BAPTISTS GATHER HERE

East N. J. Association Holds Its Sixty-ninth Annual Session Today.

Rev. S. J. Skevington, pastor of the Clinton Avenue Baptist church, Newark was reelected Tuesday morning moderator of the East New Jersey Baptist Association, when the sixty-ninth anniversary meeting convened at the First Baptist church. W. F. Meyerhead, also of Newark, was re-elected stated clerk. There were between 400 and 500 members and friends at the morning session, which opened with devotional services led by Rev. Samuel Alden Perrine, of the Fifth Baptist church, Newark.

After the election of a moderator and clerk, words of welcome were given the delegates by Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, of the entertaining church, and the moderator responded.

The sermon was delivered by Rev. Everett T. Tomlinson, pastor of the Central Baptist church, Elizabeth. The theme of his discourse was "The New and Re-Newed Conception of the Church," in which he advanced the idea that the church is a means to an end and not the end.

Report on letters from the church was read by Rev. C. T. Brownell, of Newark. This covered briefly the spiritual as well as the financial condition of the churches in the association. It showed that there are thirty-six churches with a total membership of 10,184. There were substantial gains in eighteen churches including 1,076 baptisms. There were 572 members received by letter and 156 have died.

The contributions to benevolences was $33,876.88 and $2,442.72 was given to the State convention and $837.35 for educational purposes. The Women's Home Missionary Society contributed $2,954.81 and the Women's Foreign Missionary Society gave $2,941.46. The American Publication Society received $724.35, and the Baptist Home for the Aged, $430.20.

The moderator then appointed these committees:

On application of churches—Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews, Scotch Plains; Rev. J. W. Musson, Plainfield; Rev. George Gardner.

Resolutions—Rev. W. H. Bawden, Perth Amboy; Rev. W. E. Goodall, Roselle; Rev. T. J. Thames, Elizabeth. Place of next meeting—Rev. James Madison Hare, Jersey City; Rev. Albert K. Morris, Jersey City; Rev. George McNeely, Newark. Selection of preacher for next meeting—Rev. W. T. S. Lumbar, Newark; Rev. C. J. Greenwood, Westfield; Rev. O. Wilson, Newark. Auditors—William Jamieson and Peter Robertson.

Rev. Samuel Alden Perrine, of Newark, chairman of the committee on obituaries, reported that 139 members had died during the past year, and he gave a brief sketch of the lives of the more prominent ones who have passed away.

Before the close of the morning session, the moderator attended a welcome to the new pastors in the association, which include Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire, of this city; Rev. A. S. Cole, of Rahway; Rev. C. E. Goodall, of Roselle; Rev. J. J. Allen, of South Plainfield; Rev. Frank Allen, of Metuchen, and Rev. Albert F. Morris, of Jersey City.

It was decided that the moderator nominate the seven members of the missionary committee later in the day. The morning session closed with a few words from Rev. Peter Gibb, of Millington, who has been a member of the association fifty-nine years; Rev. Dr. E. E. Vassar and Rev. Dr. J. C. Buchanan, also numbered among the oldest ministers of the association. Mr. Gibb was the only minister present today who attended the associational meeting here thirty years ago and he talked of the early days.

Adjournment was taken at 12:30 o'clock for dinner, the meal being prepared and served by the women of the entertaining church. The afternoon session was given up to various reports and the consideration of the topic, "The Church," under several themes. The session will close this evening with additional reports of committees and a sermon by Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews, of Scotch Plains, on the theme, "The Permanent and Passing in Pentecost, or the Place of the Church in Modern Society."

Not Our Language.

"Your wife says your youngest baby can talk."

"Yes," answered Mr. Bliggins, with a slight hesitation. "But he appears to take naturally to something like Volapuk or Esperanto."—Washington Evening Star.

Funeral of Mrs. A. G. Thorn.

The funeral services of Mrs. Albert G. Thorn were held from the late residence on East Front street, Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock and were largely attended by friends and neighbors. Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, officiated. The burial was in Hillside cemetery.

—Constitutionalist's ads. pay.

GRADUATION AT SEMINARY

Two Young Women Receive Diplomas at the Commencement Exercises.

The commencement exercises at the Plainfield Seminary were held on Monday at 10 o'clock, only the members of the school and the intimate freinds of the class being present.

There were two graduates, Miss Sylvia Curtis, daughter of T. E. H. Curtis, of West Eighth street, and Miss Gabrielle McQuaide, a niece of Mrs. Lemuel Sherrell, of West Seventh street.

The exercises opened with the Lord's Prayer and a hymn. Gounod's Serenade, sung by the school, was followed by Miss McQuaide's paper on Destruction of the Monasteries in England. This was listened to with great interest. To the delight of the audience, Miss Louise Booth played most charmingly the Etude Mignonne by Schutt and Debussy's Arabesque.

The diplomas were presented by the principal, Miss Arnold. Her closing remarks to the graduates were: "An education if it be worthy of the name, bestows upon you one priceless gift—the power to discern for yourself the beautiful, the good and the great. There are people who go to Italy to see the sky and the sunset and never know that Plainfield's sky is just as fascinating and the sunset over the Watchung mountains just as glorious.

"I am sure one of our greatest surprises in the next world will be the saintly people we saw on earth and never recognized, disguised by garments fashionable or unfashionable. It is easy to praise the picture that the critics have pronounced famous or the book which the ages have made a classic, but the world goes forward in its slow progress towards the light because of those who recognize for themselves the difference between the sham and the reality, between unworthy success and genuine achievement, between the falsehood which makes so fine a showing and the truth which alone is eternal."

At the end of the program, the school rendered "Sing On," by Denza. The drawing of the primary department and the maps of the geography classes were on exhibition in the recitation rooms.

PLAYGROUNDS CONSIDERED BY EDUCATION BOARD

At the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education Monday considerable time was devoted to consideration of the playgrounds in the Bryant and Franklin schools and a proposed playground at the new Jefferson School. F. J. Hubbard, C. E., made several suggestions and also explained the progress already made in laying out the grounds of the first two named schools. Mr. Hubbard's suggestions were referred to the building committee with power.

Mr. Hubbard suggested that at the Jefferson school the playgrounds be made in the rear of the school, leaving the slope the same as now. By grading the land in front and on the sides it will leave the back part practically level. Filling in the pond which is now on the grounds will cost approximately $1,000. He suggested boardwalks and steps and a permanent roadway be built.

Regular routine business occupied the balance of the evening and an invitation was received from A. S. Herr for the board to attend the commencement exercises of the Plainfield Business College. Several of the members signified their intention to be present at that event. No resolution was introduced relative to the death of the late Charles F. Abbott.

LADIES' CHRISTIAN WORK COMMITTEES APPOINTED.

At the meeting of the Ladies' Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed church Monday afternoon the committees for the year were appointed as made by the executive committee on May 17. Owing to the increased amount of work being done it was thought advisable to appoint a corresponding secretary and Mrs. Frank P. Storr was nominated for the position and confirmed. A committee was also appointed to confer with the consistory of the church regarding the improvements to be made.

The following are the chairmen of the various committees: Devotional, Mrs. George W. Cole; missionary, Mrs. Robert Clark, Jr.; reception, Mrs. Eliza Parse; finance, Mrs. E. Van Winkle; visiting, Mrs. William C. Woodruff; sewing, Mrs. Anna P. Gillem; flower, Mrs. Jacob Beckman; temperance, Mrs. Parse; poor, Mrs. Van Winkle.

Edward C. Wilson, a Woodbury farmer, is a victim of paris green poisoning. He has been unconscious most of the time.

PLAINFIELD DOWNS THE ELIZABETHIANS

Plainfield annexed the first game for the Union County baseball championship on Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon, defeating the Elizabeth A. C. by the score of 5 to 1. Ragged fielding was in a large measure responsible for the defeat of the county seaters.

The visitors outbatted the locals eight to five but they were unable to place their hits advantageously off of McLaughlin. Reickert, was in the box for Elizabeth. He twirled a fair article of ball, but he was handicapped by poor support.

Splashes of brilliant playing by Nelson and Carlstrom enlivened the game from a spectacular standpoint. Barnes and Martin also performed in their usual fast style. Lidgate supplanted Halfoster in right field in the sixth inning. The score:

Plainfield.

	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.
Martin, 2b	0	2	1	0	4
Boyd, cf	0	2	0	1	0
Barnes, 1b	0	1	10	0	0
Emery, 3b	0	0	1	0	0
Carlstrom, ss	0	2	1	3	1
Nelson, c	0	0	9	2	0
McLaughlin, p	0	0	0	5	0
Halfoster, rf	0	0	1	0	0
Schott, lf	0	1	0	1	0
Lidgate, rf	0	1	1	0	0
Totals	0	9	5	27	13

Elizabeth.

	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.
Leed, rf	0	2	2	0	0
Hefferman, c	0	2	6	0	1
Seiler, lf	0	0	1	0	0
Waldron, ss	0	0	1	1	1
Eichler, 3b	0	0	2	0	0
Moore, cf	0	1	2	0	0
Seitz, 2b	0	0	1	2	0
Kling, 1b	0	1	7	0	1
Reickert, p	1	2	0	2	2
Totals	1	8	24	5	6

Score by innings:

Plainfield	0 0 2 1 0 1 0 1 x—5
Elizabeth	0 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 0—1

Two-base hits—Leed, Moore. Strike outs—By McLaughlin, 8; by Reickert, 8. Bases on balls—Off Reickert, 2. Stolen bases—Martin, Boyd (2), Carlstrom, Lidgate. Passed balls—Hefferman, 2. Hit by pitched ball, Boyd, Carlstrom. Left on bases—Plainfield, 6; Elizabeth, 3. Umpire—Waters. Time of game—1hr. 25m.

GESANGS SHUT OUT NETHERWOOD A. C.

The fast Gesang and Turn Vereins shut out the Netherwood A. C. on Saturday by the score of 3 to 0. The game was a pitching battle between Lothman for the Turners and Frederickson for Netherwood. The Gesangers were able to negotiate only three hits off the Netherwood boxman, while the Netherwoods found Luthman's delivery for six scattered hits. Both teams performed at a lightning clip in the field. The score:

Gesang and Turn Verein.

	R.	H.	E.
E. Luthman, 1b	0	0	1
B. Hansen, 2b	1	1	1
Moran, lf	1	0	0
H. Hansen, c	0	0	1
Ayares, 3b	1	1	1
Hann, ss	0	0	0
Post, rf	0	0	1
Stagard, cf	0	1	0
N. Luthman, p	0	0	0
Totals	3	3	5

Netherwood A. C.

	R.	H.	E.
V. Terry, ss	0	1	2
Wahl, cf	0	1	0
Lamberton, 3b	0	1	1
M. Terry, c	0	1	1
Coon, 2b	0	0	0
Smith, rf	0	0	0
Kiely, lf	0	0	0
Meyer, 1b	0	0	0
Fredrickson, p	0	2	0
Peterson, 1b	0	0	0
Totals	0	6	3

Left on bases—G. T. V., 3; N. A. C., 3. Two-base hit—Ayares. Double plays—E. Luthman to Ayares to Hann; Hann to Luthman; Hansen to Hansen. Stolen bases—Ayares (5), Moran (3), Hansen, Hann, Stagard, Coon, Terry. Earned runs— G. T. V., 1. Struck out—By Luthman, 12; by Frederickson, 14. Base on balls—Off Luthman, 1; off Frederickson, 1; by pitcher—Ayares. Coon out hit by batted ball. Umpires —Mrs. Fredrickson and Mr. Curtis.

Miss Miller to Wed.

Invitations have been issued for the wedding of Miss Cora Davis Miller, daughter of Mrs. Frederick A. Miller, of Scotch Plains, to Arthur Glover Stevens. The wedding will take place on Wednesday evenia, June 22, at the home of the bride's mother.

Returning from a trip to the country, members of the family of Joseph Jennings, leader of the Third Regiment Band, found that their home, at 411 North Second street, Camden, had been ransacked Monday and silverware and jewelry to the value of about $150 carried away. Taking advantage of pretty vines hiding the view to the porch, the thieves entered through a front window.

DUNELLEN WIELDS THE WHITE WASH BRUSH

Dunellen scored an easy victory over New Providence on Saturday afternoon, whitewashing the haymakers by the score of 14 to 0. The Dunellenites had a merry time binging the ball, Piddington and Ramsberger leading the swatting procession with four and three hits respectively. The game was also marked by some fast fielding, four double plays figuring in the contest. Giles played a crackerjack game at second base, accepting all of his nine chances in faultless fashion. The score:

Dunellen.

	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.
Giddes, ss	1	0	0	4	0
Frommeyer, as	1	0	1	1	2
Giles, 2b	2	1	5	4	0
Miller, cf-lf	1	0	0	0	0
Ramsberger, 3b	3	3	2	5	1
Montross, p	2	1	1	1	0
Nonamaker, lf	2	1	2	0	0
Dodwell, c	1	2	6	1	0
Piddington, 1b	1	3	4	10	0
Clark, rf-cf	0	1	0	0	0
Garretson, rf	0	2	0	0	0
Totals	14	15	27	16	3

New Providence.

	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.
Beers, 2b-lf	0	0	1	1	1
Frazer, ss	0	2	1	1	0
Adams, cf	0	0	1	0	0
Parcells, 1b	0	1	12	1	0
Molitor, 2b	0	1	1	2	1
L. Montross, lf-p	0	2	0	6	0
Higgins, 3b	0	0	2	2	3
Burgmiller, c	0	0	4	0	3
Benbrown, rf	0	1	1	0	0
Totals	0	6	24	14	5

New Providence.0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0
Dunellen .....1 4 2 1 0 0 1 5 x—14

Double plays—Giddes, Giles and Piddington; Ramsberger and Giles; Giles and Piddington; Molitor and Parcells. Three base hit—Giles. Two-base hits—Garretson, Ramsberger, J. Montross, L. Montross, Nonamaker, Dodwell, Piddington. Struck out—By J. Montross, 6. Base on balls—Off J. Montross, 1; off L. Montross, 2; off Molitor, 2. Umpire —Mr. Scott.

SOME FINE TENNIS SEEN ON P.C.C. COURTS

The open novice singles tournament on the courts of the Plainfield Country Club, Saturday, produced some exciting matches among those who had never won a lawn tennis prize. S. Wallis Merrihew reached the third round, defeating W. West in stirring style at 6—1, 6—1. The tournament will be finished next Saturday. The summary:

Men's novice singles (first round);

C. E. Litscomb defeated C. A. King, 6—1, 6—1; C. M. Brown defeated W. Jewett, 6—3, 6—2; A. Lovell defeated F. Jewett, 9—7, 6—0; A. L. Willis defeated J. Jewett, 7—5, 3—6, 6—3; H. Earle defeated T. Ashwell, 6—2, 1—6, 6—0; S. Wallis Merrihew defeated H. W. Brower, 6—2, 7—5.

Second round—J. E. Litscomb defeated S. Frost, 6—1, 6—1; A. Lovell defeated C. M. Brown, 4—6, 6—4, 6—4; S. Wallis Merrihew defeated W. West, 6—1, 6—1; A. L. Willis vs. H. Earle, 7—5, 8—10 (unfinished).

THREATENED TO SHOOT UP FANWOOD; NOW IN JAIL.

Luigi Piccizelle, of Fanwood, was taken to the county jail at Elizabeth Tuesday by Policeman Logan for threatening to shoot and kill Mrs. Johanna Gunzman, of the same town. Logan heard at about 8 o'clock last night that Piccielle was about ready to shoot up the town and he went looking for the Italian. He caught him on Park avenue standing in the middle of the street threatening everybody that went by.

Patrolman Logan nabbed the man and marched him to the lockup and when searched he was found to be carrying a .38 calibre revolver fully loaded and stuck in his shoe a stiletto with an eight-inch blade, sharp and pointed. Excitement ran high throughout the borough during the time the Italian was at large. No cause was assigned for the quarrel between him and Mrs. Gunzman.

Local Ball Player Injured.

Bert Trotter, a local ball player, while playing in a game at Metuchen, on Saturday afternoon, wrenched his knee badly in sliding to a base. He is under the care of Dr. Carey.

Former Plainfielder to Wed.

Hudson D. Wilcox, formerly of this city, and Miss Opal Rollands Cranor, of Albany, Missouri, will be united in marriage at the latter place on Tuesday, June 21, at noon.

"Doc, I can't sleep."

"Did you try counting sheep, as I suggested?"

"That only excites me. I can't help figuring what I could get for 'em at present prices."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

COMMON COUNCILMEN TO HEAR FOWLER TALK

Acting upon the request of President Tolles, Mr. Clay reported at the June meeting of the Common Council, last night, that he had interviewed Prof. A. S. Herr, of the Plainfield Business College, and that the latter had expressed an earnest desire that the members attend the graduation of the exercises of the college at the Plainfield theatre, Friday night. Mr. Clay suggested that the Council attend in a body and that they meet at the city offices that night and proceed to the theatre. Congressman Charles N. Fowler is to make the address.

Mr. Mygatt called up an amendment to an ordinance relating to the appointment of appointive officers, and it was adopted on third reading. It provides that such officers shall be appointed from January 1 of each year. Another ordinance called up on third reading by Mr. Mygatt, and adopted, repealed sundry ordinances, which are unnecessary, as they are covered by other ordinances.

A resolution offered by Mr. Buxton and adopted, authorized the borrowing of $1,000 on account of sewer improvements, and the ordinance calling for an issue of $30,000 worth of street improvement bonds, was adopted on third reading on motion of Mr. Glosk.

SUNDAY CLOSING LAW NEXT IN DUNELLEN

Initial steps were taken at the meeting of the Dunellen Council Monday to adopt an ordinance which will prohibit the opening of stores on Sunday. At the present time there are numerous peanut, ice cream, candy and cigar emporiums transacting a flourishing business on Sundays and judging by the attitude of the Council last night it is evident that an attempt will be made to enforce the old blue laws before many moons.

The matter was brought before the Council by Councilman Todd, who is a member of the Presbyterian church, and acting on his suggestion the Council instructed Borough Attorney Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., to draft a Sunday closing ordinance and submit it at the regular July meeting.

In the discussion Mr. Todd was asked if the ordinance was intended to stop the sale of cigars. Mr. Todd replied in the affirmative and added:

"I smoke myself, but I do not believe it necessary to have stores open to buy cigars on Sundays. There's plenty of chance to lay them in during the week."

COLUCCI GETS CONTRACT FOR A SEWER EXTENSION

Under a suspension of rules, the Common Council at its June meeting, Monday, received bids for the construction of sanitary sewers in East Front street, Union and Seckman streets to Leland avenue and in Central street from Seventh street to Woodland avenue. In all ten bids were received, and Alfonso Colucci, of this city, was low man, his bid being $3,279. The other bids in their order were as follows:

Charles A. Peterson, Plainfield, $3,554; Jersey Paving Corporation, Newark, $3,621; T. Foster Callahan, Elizabeth, $3,728; Joseph Wade, Elizabeth, $3,755; Garafano & Mezzino, Summit, $3,783; Louis Jaques, Elizabeth, $3,805; Eveline Brothers, Waterford, N. Y., $4,016; J. C. Schaub, Williamsport, Pa., $4,393; J. G. Montgomery & Co., Jersey City, $4,662. The contract will probably be awarded at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council to be held on June 20.

Public hearings were granted on the above ordinance, as well as on one to issue $30,000 worth of street improvement bonds, but no one was present to speak for or against the adoption of them. Mr. Glosk also secured permission to withdraw an ordinance providing for an extension of sewers and later he oered a new ordinance with some minor, but important changes including additional streets.

Open-air cells for lawbreakers have proved such a detriment to minor crime that Burlington may order the installation of an outside cell or two in the new city hall. Contractors are now remodeling the old hall and have removed the roof, leaving the steel-barred cages exposed to the elements, and offenders who have had the experience of spending a showery night in such confinement have been willing to sign any number of pledges to gain their freedom. Two tramps, who had the experience of sitting up all night under umbrellas loaned by the police, expressed their preference for the ball and chain.

Constitutionalists Ads Pay.

SPRING CHAMPIONSHIP PLAY ON PARK COURSE

The event of chief interest at the Park Golf Club Saturday, was the first round match play for the Spring championship cup. There was a large field out, but several matches went by default, owing to the absence of players who were drawn for the match. The second round will be played on Saturday.

The result of the first round for the Spring championship was as follows:

Rev. C. L. Goodrich defeated Dr. H. K. Carroll, by default; Nelson A. Miller defeated W. R. Faber, 1 up; Alexander Gilbert defeated C. W. McCutchen, by default; R. B. Titsworth defeated F. L. Sill, by default; S. St. John McCutchen defeated J. H. Howell by default; Samuel Townsend defeated G. A. Chapman, by default; W. V. Byard defeated A. M. Morrell, 3 up and 2 to play; C. B. Sutphin defeated R. W. Carpenter, 5 up and 4 to play.

These scores were returned for the Summer, President's and club cups:

Nelson A. Miller, 101, 20-71; U. G. Tingley, 102, 28-74; Samuel Townsend, 103, 25-78; W. V. Byard, 103, 25-78; Miss Lydie Loizeaux, 103, 23-78; C. B. Morse, 99, 19-80; W. R. Faber, 103, 22-81; A. M. Morrell, 112, 30-82; Rev. C. L. Goodrich, 106, 23-83.

The leading scores for the women's sumer cup, nine holes.

Miss Lydie Loizeaux, 50, 3-47, Miss Louise Fuller, 76, 28-48; Miss Mildred Fuller, 75, 30-55; Miss Grace A. TenEyck, 72, 16-56; Miss May S. Shreve, 57, 18-57.

Y. M. C. A.'S TROUNCE THE METUCHEN NINE

Y. M. C. A. scored an easy victory over Metuchen at the latter place on Saturday by the score of 9 to 4. The locals outbatted the Middlesex club by a big margin, everybody getting a safety with the exception of Slocum.

Slocum had eleven strikeouts to his credit and limited the Metuchenites to three bingles. Kempson was the only one of the opposing side able to connect with his delivery. The score:

Y. M. C. A.

	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.
Murphy, rf	0	1	1	0	1
Taylor, 3b	0	1	1	1	0
Hand, c	1	1	11	1	0
Fritts, lf	0	1	1	0	0
Miller, 2b	2	1	2	2	1
Coyle, ss	3	2	1	0	0
Collier, cf	2	1	1	0	0
Dumont, 1b	1	2	8	0	1
Slocum, p	0	0	1	4	0
Wilcox, cf	0	1	0	1	1
Totals	9	11	27	8	1

Metuchen.

	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.
Glenfield, ss	0	0	2	4	2
Clarkson, 2b	1	1	2	0	0
Kempson, cf	1	3	3	0	0
Winiger, c	0	1	6	1	1
Boyer, p	0	0	1	1	0
Ayers, 1b	0	0	10	0	0
Corbin, rf-3b	0	0	0	0	0
Trotter, 3b	0	0	1	2	0
Noe, lf-p	1	0	0	2	0
Sweeney, lf	1	0	2	2	0
Gould, lf	0	0	0	0	0
Totals	4	5	27	12	4

Y. M. C. A.....0 1 0 2 3 0 1 0 1—9
Metuchen.....0 0 0 0 3 1 0 0 0—4

Two-base hits—Dumont, 2; Wilcox, Kempson, Winiger. Sacrifice hits—Hand, Winiger. Struck out—By Slocum, 11; by Noe, 2; by Boyer, 3. Bases on balls—Off Slocum, 4; off Noe, 3; off Boyer, 1. Hit by pitched ball—Slocum. Stolen bases —Murphy, Taylor, Hand, Fritts (2), Miller (2), Coyle (3), Collier (3), Slocum, Wilcox, Clarkson, Kempson, Ayers, Noe, Sweeny. Double plays— Glenfield to Clarkson; Slocum to Dumont. Umpire—Fred Starkins; scorer, C. H. Line. Time of game—1h. 35m.

STATE BAR'S SESSION.

Secretary Completes Arrangements for Annual Meeting.

Lawyer William J. Kraft, of Camden, secretary of the New Jersey State Bar Association, has sent out the announcement of the annual meeting of the association, to be held at the Hotel Chelsea, Atlantic City, June 17 and 18.

Prominent speakers will address the association at the different sessions, as is the custom. Governor Fort, Chancellor Pitney and Chief Justice Gummere as well as the associate justices of the Supreme Court, the vice-chancellors, judges of the United States Court have been invited to attend. The business session on the afternoon of June 17 will be followed in the evening by the annual banquet.

The Purist.

"What's the cause of all that awful rumpus in the New York Evening Post sanctum?"

"A couple of misplaced adverbs are trying to do up a split infinitive."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

MANY COMPETITIONS AT THE COUNTRY CLUB

Notwithstanding the many counter-attractions on Saturday a large field of golfers was out at the Plainfield Country Club to take part in the various events. Weather conditions were perfect and the course was ideal for good scores. In the weekly competition for the Spring Handicap cups, Classes A and B, many scores were posted. In Class A the point-makers were Arthur Murphy, C. C. Burke and E. T. Willson, and in Class B, E. J. Patterson, W. L. C. Glenney and George S. Clay won the points.

There was also the qualifying round for the June trophy for both classes. In class B, T. W. T. Maxwell and H. F. Fox were tie, and in the draw Mr. Fox was the lucky player to be chosen.

The weekly competition for the Boys' Handicap cup in the morning resulted as follows:

R. Stevens, 219, 150-69; J. P. Stevens, Jr., 132, 62-72; Donald King, 242, 150-92; L. S. Church, 94, 0-94; E. A. Walbridge, 111, 0-111; D. Warren, 185, 5-181.

These scores were posted for the Spring Handicap cups:

Class A—Arthur Murphy, 83, 8-75; C. C. Burke, 91, 15-76; E. T. Wilson, 89, 12-77; R. G. Morse, 90, 13-77; Dudley H. Barrows, 82, 4-78; S. D. Lounsbury, 87, 9-78; H. R. Stockton, 89, 10-79; J. E. Erickson, 94, 15-79; J. Whitney Baker, 87, 7-80; W. Lester Glenney, 86, 4-82.

Class B—E. J. Patterson, 93, 20-73; W. L. C. Glenney, 98, 24-74; George S. Clay, 99, 25-74; H. S. Brown, 94, 18-76; A. W. Kleineckx, 102, 25-77; D. W. Taylor, 98, 20-78; A. E. Barclay, 99, 21-78; H. F. Fox, 97, 18-79; T. W. T. Maxwell, 104, 25-79; C. W. King, 109, 25-84; B. F. Kraffert, 105, 19-86; Silas P. Wood, 108, 20-88.

The following qualified for the June trophy, match play:

Class A—Arthur Murphy, 83, 8-75; C. C. Burke, 91, 15-76; E. T. Willson, 89, 12-77; R. G. Morse, 90, 13-77; D. H. Barrows, 82, 4-78; S. D. Lounsbery, 87, 9-78; H. R. Stockton, 89, 10-79; J. E. Erickson, 94, 15-79.

Class B—E. J. Patterson, 93, 20-73; W. L. C. Glenney, 98, 24-74; George S. Clay, 99, 25-74; H. S. Brown, 94, 18-76; A. W. Kleineckx, 102, 25-77; D. W. Taylor, 98, 20-78; A. E. Barclay, 99, 21-78; H. F. Fox, 97, 18-79.

BERKELEY HEIGHTS.

The Township Committee Friday night refused to give indorsement to the wholesale license application of A. Lizanno for his place at Plainfield and Springfield avenue. A petition asking for the granting of the license was presented by Angelo Del Duco. A resolution was attached providing for the consent of the committee, and asking Judge Atwater to allow Lizanna a license.

In opposition to the petition, Frank C. Shaffer presented a letter from a committee of the "Circles on the Square," to which were annexed letters from the prosecutor of Somerset county, the judge of the Common Pleas Court of Somerset and a police officer of Brooklyn. The tenor of each was against the license being granted.

Township Committeeman Henry S. Fullerton announced that he would not vote either way on the question, and Shaffer and Oeschsner refused to consider it.

Colonel Parker, justice of the peace of Berkeley Heights, put in a word for Lizanna. He called William Jeffery and others associated with him "liars and thieves." He withdrew his remarks, but added: "I will put it differently—Mr. Jeffrey is deceiving the whole township."

Twenty new lights were ordered to be distributed on the Horseshoe road and Lyde's Falls road.

HOPE CHAPEL TAKES FAIRVIEW'S MEASURE.

In a fast game on Hyde Field Saturday morning the Hope chapel baseball nine was victorious over the Grace Fairview team by the score of 3 to 2. The batteries for Hope was Walls and T. Heron; for Fairview, Harper and C. Smith. Walls allowed but one hit and was backed up in grand style by his team mates, while Harper had three hits against him and for errors were made by the Fairview players. The teams lined up as follows:

Hope chapel—G. Leighs, cf; J. Heron, ss; A. Walls, p; T. Heron, 2; C. Bunn, 2b; H. Overland, 3b; A. Porter, lf; G. Snyder, 1b; P. Bunn, rf; W. Marsh, rf.

Fairview—M. McDonough, rf; C. Harper, p; W. Birch, 2b; C. Smith, c; V. Goldsmith, 2b; E. Kenney, 1b; F. Lowe, lf; J. Harper, cf; F. McDonough, ss.

Umpire—Mr. Miller; scorer—Jas. Heron.

Chauncey V. Cooke, of Asbury Park, spent the week-end with relatives in Bound Brook.

Miss Alice Long, of Plainfield, is spending some time with relatives in Bound Brook.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL
My new barber shop at
143 NORTH AVE.
is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.
EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

W. H. CODINGTON,
Counsellor-at-Law.
Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-Chancery, Notary Public. Offices corner of Park avenue and Second street.

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.
Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel appointing agents, others for local work looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and expenses, rapid advancement, old established house. Grand chance for earnest man or woman to secure pleasant, permanent position, liberal income and future. New, brilliant lines. Write at once.
STAFFORD PRESS,
23 Church St., New Haven, Conn

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Sanitary Plumbing
Brick and Portable Furnace
Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,
Etc., Etc., Etc.
I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.
Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in all cases.
D. W. LITTELL

MARRIED.

BELLOWS—PENNY—On April 29, 1910, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Townsend by the Rev. George A. Warner, Maria Morton Penny to George Edwy Bellows.

DIED.

CLEAVES—At Dunellen, N. J., on Monday, June 6, 1910, Chester A. Cleaves, aged 71 years.

TRUELL—On Tuesday, May 31, 1910, Rosie B., wife of John R. Truell.

KELLY—At Dunellen, N. J., May 31, 1910, Thomas Kelly, in his 28th year.

THORN—On Wednesday, June 1, Cornelia Van Duyn, wife of Albert G. Thorn, in the 81st year of her age.

M'CARTHY—In this city, June 1, 1910, Catherine, wife of Owen McCarthy, in her 70th year.

THORN—On Wednesday, June 1, 1910, Cornelia Van Duyn, wife of Albert G. Thorn, in the 81st year of her age.

MATTIS—On Wednesday, June 1, 1910, Amanda M., wife of Richard Mattis.

WALLACE—Suddenly, on Thursday, June 2, 1910, Thomas Wallace, aged 65 years.

SHAMROCKS TAB UP ANOTHER VICTORY

The Shamrocks downed the North Plainfield Juniors in a sharp contest on Hope Common on Saturday by the score of 8 to 6. The Shamrocks excelled in batting, making twelve bingles to their opponents seven. The teams lined up as follows:

Shamrocks—Kyle, c; Mullen, p; Renz, 1b; B. Smith, 2b; Hanrahan, 3b; V. Hanrahan, ss; H. Burke, lf; E. Smith, rf; Blust, cf.

North Plainfield Juniors—Meyer, c; Bergen, p; Brightham, 1b; Trotter, 2b; Warnock, 3b; Asman, ss; H. Meyers, lf; Hickey, rf; S. Conshay, cf.

Shamrocks .....0 0 0 2 2 1 1 1—8
N. P. Juniors.....1 0 0 0 3 0 0 2—6

Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Wilcox, of 1423 Watchung avenue, sailed on the White Star liner Arabic for England. After visiting points of interest in England they will in turn visit France, Germany and Holland, returning to Plainfield the latter part of August.

Constitutionalist ads. pay.

DECORATIONS FOR CHILDREN'S SUPPER.

A charming supper table decoration, and one that is sure to please the little ones as well as the grown-ups, is a miniature May pole. It is extremely effective, with its pretty colored ribbons and daintily dressed dolls, and is very easy to construct.

The May pole may be made any height to suit the size of the table; one about twenty inches high would be suitable for most tables.

Select a well shaped stick (a pea stick will answer the purpose), mark the middle of the stick, and firmly tie all the ends of the ribbons to it; these are then plaited evenly round the stick upwards, till the top is reached. Tie the ribbons with cotton to hold them in position, while you take hold of the other, or cut end, of each separate color, which is brought back to the top of the pole.

Run a strong tack through each end, also into every ribbon at the termination of the pole, then with very small tacks passed through the ribbons hammered firmly into the stick, so that each ribbon is securely held in place, stretch the surplus ribbons which form long loops as far as possible across the table, just letting them droop and placing at the end of each a tiny doll to support the loop.

The dressing of the dolls will afford scope for clever fingers, and they can be made in very fine crinkled paper, each doll reproducing one of the colors used in the May pole, or, if preferred, they could be dressed in white muslin. A small leaden weight (those used by dressmakers) should be attached to the bottom of each doll, so that they are not easily knocked down or likely to fall over.

Two dozen yards of bebe ribbon (the wider ribbon is apt to be clumsy) will be required, each length to measure a little under two yards. Very light shades of hellitrope, yellow, pink, green, blue and white make a pretty combination. For a small size table one dozen yards would be sufficient.

The uncovered end of the May pole would be set in a large empty cotton reel or a block of wood, with pebbles packed closely round to keep it firm, and the whole covered with moss.

The dolls could be drawn for at the end of the evening by the little guests, and those who are not winners might be consoled with gifts of sweets.

INTO A LARGER HOUSE.

It cannot be disputed that the idea of removing to a larger home affords great pleasure to all concerned; it may be a house or a flat, it matters not. We are going into something bigger! We have the sentiment of greater importance, greater space, and we like it.

It may be a matter of necessity, as when the family has become too numerous for the old dwelling; or it may be the ability to afford to remove; it is all the same. And how few of us think of the drawbacks—except, perhaps, mother! She may have visions that temper the joy; if she does not at the beginning she will before she has been there long.

That is the point! Far be it from us to suggest that people should live in cramped surroundings, because we know full well what that means; but it is well to make certain facts plain. Young people especially are apt to make a blunder in taking a dwelling too big for them.

If we have money enough to pay servants or charwomen to do the work, all well and good, but if not? If there is more work than help? The daily labor of keeping clean, the constant "turning out" falls upon mother and the rest of the family do not realize that she is being overtaxed (because she does her duty without murmuring) until she breaks down.

We may sit down and try to estimate the cost in labor and money, but most of us find that our estimates are wrong. Another trouble is that we usually crowd our apartments with furniture; it looks nice, but it all adds to the work. All those pieces of furniture have to be moved to sweep, and they have to be dusted whether we sweep or not.

As each piece is added to the home we think of the comfort it may bring and either lose sight of the extra labor or persuade ourselves that "another armchair will not make any difference." In the long run we discover that there is a serious difference!

A little caution is needed before enlarging our "castle," as our home is figuratively called; it is well to proceed slowly, because we may be confronted with the stern fact that the extra comfort is "not worth it." As for the question of expense, many a young couple have found that it did not end with additional rent and taxes; it is strange how the small expenses run up, and we do not seem to be able to prevent these outgoings. It is an old joke to say that people should be like fishes and commence life on a small scale, but there is something in it. The best plan is to go gently; do not run to the limit of either money or strength.

Real Sport.

"Anything new at the summer resorts for this season?"

"Yes; a machine which loads the merry-makers upon a catapult and hurls him forty yards into a net."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Selection of Trust Companies

as depositories by individuals, firms and institutions, as well as those having the care of Trust Funds or funds which they desire kept separate from their business accounts, has grown enormously in the past few years.

Fidelity Trust Company,

NEWARK, N. J.,

pays interest at the rate of 2 Per Cent. per annum on deposits in its Commercial Banking Department

subject to check at sight.

Resources,

Over 29 Million Dollars

Capital, Surplus and Undivided Profits

Over 9½ Million Dollars

New Jersey Central

Trains Leave Plainfield.

For New York—2.10, 2.41, 5.41, 5.36, 6.00, 6.57, 7.36, 7.28, 7.45, 7.46, 7.55, 8.00, 8.11, 8.30, 8.38, 8.43, 9.29, 9.50, 10.55, 11.52 a. m., 12.00, 12.39, 12.42, 1.09, 2.27, 2.42, 3.09, 3.36, 4.15, 4.36, 5.03, 5.29, 5.41, 7.09, 7.33, 8.27, 9.27, 9.40, 10.15, 10.36, 11.26 p. m. Sundays—2.00, 5.41, 6.00, 7.58, 8.52, 9.34, 9.45, 10.32, 11.52 a. m., 12.40, 2.00, 3.00, 4.36, 5.00, 7.00, 8.41, 9.00, 9.41, 9.55, 10.32 p. m., 12.40, 1.24, 2.01, 2.41, 2.54, 4.29, 5.41, 6.44, 8.12, 9.42, 10.36 p. m.

For Newark—6.36, 6.57, 7.07, 7.28, 7.46, 8.11, 8.36, 8.43, 9.29, 9.50, 10.55, 12.00 a. m., 12.42, 1.27, 2.32, 3.09, 4.15, 4.43, 5.03, 5.29, 6.26, 6.57, 7.09, 7.33, 8.27, 9.27, Sunday—2.53, 8.52, 9.34, 9.55, 10.32 a. m., 12.40, 1.24, 2.01, 2.41, 2.54, 4.29, 5.41, 6.44, 8.12, 9.42, 10.36 p. m.

For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown and Mauch Chunk—11.23 p. m., 5.18, 8.17, 9.43 a. m., 2.06, 5.23, 5.46, (6.37 p. m., Easton only). Sundays—5.46 a. m., 1.58, 5.46, 7.03 p. m.

For Wilkesbarre and Scranton—5.18, 8.17 a. m., 5.46 p. m. Sundays—5.46 a. m., 5.46 p. m.

For Long Branch and Asbury Park, 2.10, 5.41, 8.38, 9.50 a. m., (1.27 Saturday only), 4.43, 5.52, 11.52 p. m. Sundays—2.00, 8.52 a. m., 5.24, 8.13 p. m.

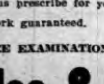
For Lakewood and Atlantic City—2.41, 9.29 a. m., (12.42 Saturdays only), 1.27, 5.03, 8.27 p. m. Sundays—7.32 Lakewood only), 9.40 a. m., 2.01 p. m.

For Philadelphia—7.12, 7.39, 8.45, 9.15, 10.43 a. m., 12.12, 1.42, 3.32, 5.14, 7.45, 8.12, 8.44, 7.43, 8.50, 9.46 p. m. 1.20 night. Sundays—2.05, 8.05, 9.40, 10.32, 10.43, 11.42 a. m., 12.42, 2.44, 2.45, 3.42, 4.55, 5.29, 6.46, 7.43, 8.50, 9.46 p. m., 11.25, 1.20 night.

For Baltimore and Washington, Daily —8.45, 10.43 a. m., 12.42, 2.45, 6.44, 7.43 p. m.

W. G. BESLER, Vice Pres. & Gen. Mgr. W. C. HOPE, Gen. Pass. Agt.

YOUR DULL Headaches



Probably come from overstrained eye sight. Nine-tenths of the headaches are the direct result of eye trouble. Bring those troubles to us and let us prescribe for you.

All work guaranteed.

FREE EXAMINATION BY

Stiles & Co.

PHILADELPHIA EYE SPECIALISTS

at 107 East Front Street, Every Thursday.

Hours 11:15 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Press Want Ads. Pay

Diet of the Jerboa.

The jerboa in the arid parts of the Sudan lives through the drought on preserved melons. He preserves them by burying them in sand, biting off the melon just as it is ripe and digging away the sand from under it so that it sinks below the level of the ground. The wind then covers it up; so the jerboa keeps his larder from the hot sun. One jerboa will bury 40 melons in a season.

Butter and Microbes.

Butter is an excellent breeding place for bacteria which tend to decompose it until it is useless as food, unless it is kept in a cold place. Salt also retards their growth, but has this disadvantage, that it makes the decomposition difficult to detect either by taste or smell. Hence the preference for sweet butter by those who are particular about having it fresh.

For Better Health.

One heroic cure for dyspepsia is to eat only when really hungry. As an experienced doctor says: "No man ever died of starvation without being hungry." If the appetite does not return stimulate it by active exercise. Babies sometimes suffer from too much attention, too much dressing, too much feeding and sometimes too much medicine.

A Free Translation.

"Gentlemen of the jury," continued the earnest young lawyer, "the case before you hangs upon that old Latin maxim—'Falsus in uno, falsus in omnibus.' You gentlemen, what does that mean? It means, gentlemen, that if a man will tell one lie, he'll tell a whole omnibusful of lies."

Memory Worth Preserving.

There is an organization known as the Order of the Runnymede. It is composed of the descendants of the Barons of England who were instrumental in compelling King John to sign the Magna Charta, or Great Charter, at Runnymede, five miles from Windsor Castle, in June 1215.

Much Money in Junk.

Much money is made by the sale of old rope and string. Thousands of dollars are netted by the buying and selling of old fishing nets alone; but the amount is a mere bagatelle to the cash that is turned over in the handling of old cordage at the docks.

A Home Hint.

Many people having home and loved ones close around them let dullness creep in, when by just a little effort and congeniality, a little loosening of the tension of duty, a little yielding to a sense of humor, all might be sweet and good.—Woman's Life.

Guidance.

Guide the people by law, subdue them by punishment, they may shun crime, but will be void of shame. Guide them by example, subdue them by courtesy, they will learn shame.—Confucius.

Philosopher's Tributs.

Women, according to a German philosopher, are the poetry of the world, in the same sense as the stars are the poetry of heaven. Clear, light giving, harmonious, they are terrestrial planets that rule the destinies of mankind.

Division of Trouble.

"What men think," remarked the knowing woman, "causes fully one-third of all the trouble in the world." "Yes," rejoined the mere man, "and what women say causes the other two-thirds."—Chicago Daily News.

A Journalistic Providence.

Young Housewife—"Can't you make that story in your journal go on a little longer? Our cook reads it, and I think she will stay as long as it continues."—Meggendorfer Blatter.

Addition to Shackles.

One of the first reforms wanted in this country for husbands to tell their wives what incomes they have. —Judge Willis.

Up-to-Date Caution.

Mother Bird—"Run along and play now; but be careful you don't get run over by any of those flying machines."—Metropolitan Magazine.

Especially Woman Nature.

Human nature is so queer that even the man who lives to be a hundred years old never fully understands it. —Sommerville Journal.

Friendship.

Friendship decreases whenever there is on the one side too much happiness and too much misfortune on the other.—Carmen Sylva.

Enthusiasm.

When there is nothing left for a man to be enthusiastic over he might as well be dead.

Start at the Foundation.

The only real way to take care of "No. 1" is to see that "No. 1" is a good man.

Philosophy and Religion.

The idea of philosophy is truth; the idea of religion is life.—Bayne.

Poor, Indeed!

How poor are they that have not patience.—Shakespeare.

Spanish Proverb.

A man that has had his fill is no eater.

COAL DEALERS.

June Prices

For

Best Lehigh Coal

Nut, Stove & Egg sizes, per ton - - - - $6.00

C.O.D. discount, per ton - - 30c

Pea Coal, per ton - $5.00

C.O.D. discount, per ton - - 50c

This coal is of the best Lehigh grades, screened and free from slate; in free burning coal for the summer and hard coal for the winter.

You should place your order for coal at this time.

Rich'd Parrott, Jr.

686 South Second St.

Telephone Number 1569

JOS. HARRIGAN

OLD COMPANY'S LEHIGH COAL

929 South Avenue

Telephone 186.

TenEyck & Harris,

Dealers in

LEHIGH VALLEY COAL

Office: Bewley's Drug Store, 218 West Front Street. Telephone 548-w.

Coal

I have on hand some very fine nave and Mediums, all kept undercover. Pea Coal.

Coal

15 cents a ton reduction on cash orders.

L. A. RHEAUME

142 West Fourth St. Telephone 89-W

Yard, 674 South Second St. Telephone 221

GORGE O. STEVENS

747 West Front St.

R. L. CLINE

(Successor to C. H. Suggs & Co.)

Best Quality Lehigh Coal

Yard and office 422 West Third St. Tel. 89

TenEyck & Kelley

Successors to Keeley Co.

COAL

741 SOUTH AVE. Tel. 1155

Advertisements

—FOR—

New York Herald,

World, Times, Sun, Journal, Telegram, American, Brooklyn Eagle

—and—

Newark Evening News

Received at

The Daily Press

AT REGULAR OFFICE RATES.

FURNITURE.

Repaired and upholstered. Equal to new. Send a postal to

HARRISON, 140 CENTRAL AVE.

Cabinet maker, Polisher, Mattress Maker.

E. B. Maynard's

Tonsorial Parlor. Electrical Massage for face and head. Manicuring. Children's Hair Cutting a specialty.

No. 142 NORTH AVENUE.

141 NORTH AVENUE.

L. Moraller & Son,

Watchmakers and Jewelers, Watches, Clocks and Jewelry. Fine Watch and Clock Repairing a Specialty.

219 Park Ave., Plainfield, N.J.

JOHN WIRTH

(Successor to Henry Liefke.)

BAKERY AND CONFECTIONERY

205-209 West Front St. Tel. 728

Orders delivered at short notice.

HENRY WIERENGA

Residence 'Phone 817-J.

Furniture, Freight, Baggage Express and Hauling.

PIANO MOVING A SPECIALTY

Now is the time when you need a

STOVE

and you may as well buy a good stove at a very Low Price. We are selling Stoves—Good Stoves—at low prices.

KADESH & LEVINE,

19 Somerset St.

PAINTERS AND DECORATORS.

Take a Look in our Window and you will be convinced that the latest in interior work—Aerochrome Washable Wall Decoration—is very handsome and effective.

Woolston & Buckle

Painters and Decorators

143 NORTH AVENUE.

MOVING DAY

Are you moving? If so, you want the finest

WALL PAPERS

for your new home.

If you are a tenant, tell your landlord that you want to make your selection from our new and complete stock. The result will please you both.

Jas. C. Hansen

Dealer in WALL PAPERS, PAINTS, OILS GLASS, Etc.

141 East Front Street

TEL. 346 ESTIMATES FURNISHED

M. WARREN

PAINTER, DECORATOR and PAPERHANGER

85 SOMERSET ST.,

opposite Sangerbund Hall.

Special Notice!

For the month of May we will take orders for STYLISH SUITS from

$18.50 to $35.00.

No finer tailoring than ours, none so good for the price. We invite your inspection.

Rogoff, the Tailor,

110 West Second St.,

Next to Plainfield Theatre.

Vail

JEWELER AND OPTICIAN

103 Park Ave.,

calls your attention to his

Rimless Glasses.

They Look Good and You See Good.

JOS. F. BURKE

718 Monroe Ave. Tel. 145-R.

Successor to Mrs. John Brown

General Contractor and Grader

Cesspools and Vaults Cleaned

Satisfaction Guaranteed.

Positively the only odorless Excavator in the City.

Estimates cheerfully given. Leave orders at North avenue. 'Phone 204. Postoffice Box 718.

For prices address

FRANK BURKE, Manager.

825 W. Third St. Tel. 1806-W.

ICE 35 cents

Commencing April 1, I will deliver ice to families in Plainfield and North Plainfield at 35c per hundred. The quality is the finest natural ice ever cut and the service will be first-class. I solicit the patronage of Daily Press readers and others.

JOHN MORTON

Office 145 North Ave. 'Phone 1086.

Residence, 53 Mountain Ave. 'Phone 454-J. 3 22 tf

"That's Certainly Fine Coffee"

said one of our customers who uses our Mocha and Java Coffee. The Quality is High, but the Price is Low.

Prompt, Free Deliveries.

W. W. DUNN

THE PARK GROCER

Door St. and Lincoln Pl

Hoagland's Express

FURNITURE MOVING VAN

Careful & Experienced Men

Office 205 Park Av. Tel. 833-w

Home Tel. 648-L.

ALEX. LUSARDI.

Foreign and Domestic Fruits, Choice Confectionery, Nuts, Cigars, etc.

211 W. Front St. Tel. 507-W.

If you are dissatisfied

with your paper service call on or 'phone

The Hustler

The best service in the city

Morning, Evening & Sunday Papers

'Phone 668-J

William H. Olmsted

331 Watchung Ave.

To Whom It May Concern.

This is to notify the Trade in general, Hotels, Saloons, etc., that D. Loprete, of Newark, N. J., the largest Bottle Dealer in the State, has opened a Branch of his business at No. 40 Maple Avenue.

Anyone having Bottles, Papers, Iron and Metals, etc., to dispose of, call No. 1055 Telephone, and same will be promptly attended to.

I have on hand all kinds of Bottles, new and second-hand.

Hotel Trade a Specialty.

Newark address, 189-203 Frelinghuysen Avenue.

J. C. FIELD, Jr.

Tel. 991-W. 411 Park Ave.

Fine Stationery, Sporting Goods and Photo Supplies.

Sub-Postoffice in store.

Let us do your developing and printing. The best photographic work may be spoiled by the inefficiency, inability or carelessness of the finisher. The years of experience and constant improved methods enables us to give our customers better results than they have ever had. We desire a fair comparison with others and so make the following exceptional offering.

FREE! Bring us one of your favorite negatives and we will print it without charge.

WALKS

We Construct Them

Trap Rock, Cement Experience

R. G. BUSH

Tel. Con. 743-S South Ave

JOHN WINZENRIED'S

Storage Warehouse

816-818 WEST FRONT ST.

Separate Rooms—Clean and Dry.

Furniture removed with care

Tel. 820-R. Residence 813 Lee place

A. H. ENANDER,

Sanitary Plumbing, Gas Fitting, Steam and Hot Water Heating.

Contractor for Sewer Connections.

125 WATCHUNG AVE.

IF YOY WANT ANY

RUSTIC SEATS

CALL UP

KEIDERLING

Phone 559-J

J. C. POPE & CO.,

INSURANCE AGENTS

119 E. Front St. Plainfield, N. J

PARQUET & HARDWOOD FLOORS

Old Floors Refinished

GEO. E. WATT

150 North Ave. Tel. 333-w

PLAINFIELD WINDOW CLEANING CO.

H. MERSTHICH, Prop.

Stores, Offices, Private Residences, New Buildings, Cleaned, Scrubbed and Oiled. Office, 145 East Front Street. Tel. 864-J.

Central R. R. News Stands,

You can get it at the C. R. R. News Stands, both depots, Plainfield Daily Press and Elizabeth Journal, on sale at both stands. Philadelphia Morning, Evening and Sunday Papers. Largest assortment of Magazines and Weekly Papers in the city. Back numbers procured. Brooklyn Papers, English Publications. Daily and Sunday Papers delivered. Orders left at stand receive prompt attention. Open Sundays.

McCULLOUGH'S STEAM MILL,

21 Steiner place, North Plainfield, N. J

R. H. McCULLOUGH, Prop.

Sash, Blinds, Doors, Mouldings, Scroll Sawing, Turning etc.

Bottomsier cheerfully furnished

Kindling and Grate Wood.

Cedar Posts and Bean Poles. Prompt deliveries. Orders received at 80 SOMERSET STREET.

JOHN MOBUS,

P. O. Box 220. Telephone 18-F-12.

ONE SHAD GOES LONG WAYS.

Here is a recipe for shad prepaid for the rich man, poor man, beggar man: Wash and clean thoroughly a large roe shad.

Rich Man's—Take out roe and break up into small pieces. Beat two eggs lightly, add a lump of butter mixed with a teaspoonful of flour, salt, cayenne pepper to taste and a little milk. Mix all thoroughly and fry in hot lard, garnish with parsley.

Poor Man's—Split the shad down the middle, and with a sharp knife make two large cuts, taking out completely the bone running through the centre. Lay this aside. Put fish in cold water and let remain until all the blood has drained out and the meat is white and firm. Sprinkle with salt and hang up. In the morning dot plentifully with butter and bake brown in hot oven.

Beggar Man's—Take the bone which was cut from the fish and which will be found to have quite a little meat adhering to it. Put in a stew pan with two or three onions and water and thicken, when nearly done, with a little flour. Have half a pound of bacon cut fine and fry a nice golden brown. Put fish on a platter and pour bacon over it.

CAMEOS ON EVENING GOWNS.

Cameos are coming in again, like so many old things that have of late become new. Coral and seed pearls are other revivals.

Cameos figure on evening gowns, and form clasps to cloaks for evening wear. They look well on the shoulders or on the front of the bodice, and sometimes at the waist line on frocks. Gold and brown are a favorite mixture, and several tones of one shade.

Jeweled trimmings for evening gowns brown sequins blend well with gold threads, and gold filets are worn in the hair for evening. The metal is very thin and flexible. It goes on the brow and nape of the neck, is arched over the head, another bandeau appearing above the Psyche knot at the back. Sometimes topaz or other jewels clasp these bead adornments.

Jeweled girdles under the bust, with a clasp in the centre of the front, are very much in evidence on some of the more striking of the new evening gowns.

TO PREVENT SAGGING.

Thin summer materials will invariably sag after they are hemmed and finish, if care be not taken to prevent it.

Have the skirt sagged first, before the hem is put on. This is done by completely finishing the band down to the final fit and the last hook and eye. The skirt is now tried on, and when it is determined where the material is most bias it is marked at these spaces, the skirt is hung in a closet on a skirt hanger, or, better still, on a full-length dress form perched upon a box or an inverted peach basket, and the marked spaces are heavily weighted.

After several days of this strain the material will have sagged to its full capacity and the hem may be measured and put on.

What kind of weights? Anything will do; the smaller weights from the kitchen scales put into temporary muslin coverings and pinned on should suggest any objects of like heaviness that come to hand.

—Advertise in The Daily Press.

Arrival and Departure of Mails

PLAINFIELD POSTOFFICE.

August 1, 1909.

Office opens 7 a. m., closes 7 p. m. On Saturdays closes half hour later.

NEW YORK MAILS.

Arrive—7.30, 8.40, 10.20 a. m., 2.30, 5.00, 6.30, 8.00 p. m., 12 midnight.

Close—7.00, 9.15, 8.50, 11.50 a. m., 3.25, 6.00, 7.00 p. m.

SOMERVILLE AND EASTON.

Arrive—9.00 a. m., 2.30, 5.15 and 7.00 p. m.

Close—8.00 a. m., 1.30 and 4.10 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA DIRECT.

Arrive—7.30, 8.40, 11.20 a. m., 2.30, 7.00 p. m.

Close—8.00, 9.15, 11.50 a. m., 12.55, 2.30, 6.00, 7.45, 9.00 p. m.

THROUGH FAST MAIL FOR EAST.

Close—11.50 a. m. and 7.15 p. m.

DIRECT THROUGH FAST MAILS FOR WEST AND SOUTH.

Close—11.50 a. m., 12.55 and 7.45 p. m.

PENNSYLVANIA, WEST OF EASTON.

Close—8.00 and 8.50 a. m., 12.55, 4.50 p. m.

ELIZABETH DIRECT.

Arrive—8.40 a. m., 2.30 p. m.

Close—8.15 a. m., 12.55, 2.30, 4.50, 9.00 p. m.

NEWARK DIRECT.

Arrive—8.40 a. m., 2.30, 5.30 p. m.

Close—8.15, 11.50 a. m., 12.55, 2.30, 4.50, 9.00 p. m.

WATCHUNG.

Arrive—1.00, 6.40 p. m.

Close—9.00 a. m., 5.30 p. m.

WARRENVILLE.

Arrive—1.00 p. m.

Close—9.00 a. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open from 9.30 to 10.30 a. m.

Mail closes at 6.15 p. m.

E. H. BIRD, P. M.

Proposals for Coal.

Sealed bids will be received by the Building and Grounds Committee of Muhlenberg Hospital at the office of F. J. Hubbard, 201 Park avenue, until five o'clock p. m., on Monday, June 13, 1910, for the coal supply of the Hospital for the ensuing year. There will be required about 350 tons buckwheat, and about 50 tons stove and nut coal, same to be delivered as required. Bidder will state name or kind of coal they propose to furnish.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids.

6 14 6 9

THOUSANDS FOR CHARITY

Mrs. M. A. Edgerton Bequeaths $156,900 to Local Benevolences and Also Handsomely Remembers Her Advisors and Employees.

HOSPITAL RECEIVES $50,000.

Never have the charities of the community been so well remembered as they have by the will of Mrs. Minnie E. Edgerton, whose funeral took place Wednesday and whose last testament will be admitted to probate this week. In all she has bequeathed One Hundred and Fifty-six Thousand Dollars to local benevolences.

Muhlenberg Hospital, the Charity Organization Society, the Children's Home, the Young Men's Christian Association, the Young Women's Christian Association, the King's Daughters' Baby Camp, the King's Daughters' Day Nursery, the Plainfield-North Plainfield Anti-Tuberculosis Society, the Plainfield Playground Commission, the Police Pension Fund, the Firemen's Pension Fund, Grace Episcopal church and other worthy causes are the objects of Mrs. Edgerton's generosity. Large Large amounts are left, by other bequests, to private individuals for the relief of those in sickness and distress.

Moreover, Mrs. Edgerton remembered all those who had had confidential business relations with her as well as her close personal friends and her employees. Among the number who will be benefitted are her physicians, her spiritual, legal, medical and confidential business advisers, her nurse, coachman, gardener and other household servants.

Following are the public bequests:

Muhlenberg Hospital	$50,000.00
"$25,000 of which to be applied to building a Maternity ward, and $25,000 of which to be invested and the net annual income applied toward the maintenance of the ward, the ward to be called 'Closson-Edgerton Ward,' in memory of my mother and my son."
To the Misses Isabel, Mary and Florence Tweedy, and Mrs. Dexter Tiffany, in trust for the benefit of such poor as they may deem worthy	25,000.00
Charity Organization Society	10,000.00
The Children's Home	5,000.00
Young Women's Christian Association	10,000.00
Young Men's Christian Association	10,000.00
Grace Episcopal Church	10,000.00
King's Daughters' Baby Camp and Day Nursery	10,000.00
Plainfield Tuberculosis Society	10,000.00
City of Plainfield for use of Board of Play Ground Commissioners	5,000.00
Plainfield Fire Department Pension Fund Association	5,000.00
Chief of Police and his successors in office, in trust for sick and disabled policemen, &c.	5,000.00
To Misses Isabel, Mary and Florence Tweedy, in trust for special purpose	1,000.00

No one is in a position to state with any degree of exactness what estate Mrs. Edgerton left. It is estimately, however, that her fortune amounted to at least one million dollars. This included the handsome house, "Norwood," on East Front street. This estate, one of the show places of the city, is devised to Joseph Hayes, of Hayes & Hayes, New York broker. He is named as the executor of the will and in the event of his death, Mrs. Edgerton's counsel, Craig A. Marsh, is appointed to serve in that capacity. The property on East Front street, left to Mr. Tate, is said to be worth over one hundred thousand dollars. Mr. Tate was the cashier in the late James T. Closson's business house in New York for years and when the banker died a little over a year ago he bequeathed the business to him. Arrangements are being made by Mr. Tate to take possession of Norwood in order to be on hand to administer the estate.

When Mr. Closson died he left his entire estate to his only surviving relative, Mrs. Edgerton, his sister. Mr. Tate was the executor. Since then until her death, as during the life-time of her brother, she has given generously to local charity. She was unostentatious in her benevolences and while all her friends were aware of her splendid deeds the general public never had any inkling of it.

Mr. Closson was a banker and for many years until his death was president of the City National Bank. He, too, was a generous hearted man.

Officers of the various charities, the objects of her benevolences, today were so glad to hear of the good fortune brought to the various institutions that they could make no comment other than to express their thanks that such a noble woman had lived in the community. All the charities named will be enabled to extend their fields of usefulness.

Private funeral services were held for Mrs. Edgerton at her late home Wednesday morning. Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace church, of which she was a communicant, officiated. During the services, there were selections by a quartet comprising Miss Etta Raybert, soprano; Miss Grace Carroll, contralto; William Holmes, baritone, and William Talmany, tenor. Although the services were private, a number of intimate friends attended. The remains were taken on a special train to Woodlawn cemetery, New York, where interment took place yesterday afternoon.

SUPPOSED HIM ILL WHEN HE WAS DEAD

The police were called at about 3:30 Thursday afternoon to the home of Mrs. Edward Kline, who keeps a boarding house at 217 Plainfield avenue. Thomas Wallace, one of the boarders, was supposed to be ill. When Chief Kiely arrived at the house he found that Wallace was dead. Father Bogan had in the meantime been called to administer the last rites to the sick man, but he, too, arrived too late.

Wallace, it was said, had been ill for seven or eight years with tuberculosis and it was a sudden hemorrhage which killed him. The body was removed to the undertaking parlors of A. M. Runyon & Son after being viewed by City Physician C. W. Lufburrow.

S. A. KROM GETS $861.03 FROM MACHINE COMPANY

S. Arthur Krom, formerly president and general manager of the Krom Machine Works, received notice Saturday of favorable result in suit against the concern. Judge Atwater in filing an opinion awarded Mr. Krom $861.03. The latter's counsel was George W. V. Moy.

The action was instituted in the Supreme court by Mr. Krom several months ago and the case was referred to Judge Atwater. Krom claimed that he was forced out of his position by the board of directors of the company in February, 1908, and he brought suit for back salary and moneys advanced by him and also for a share of the profits of the concern.

The company denied all liability and claimed that Krom owed it $282. There were a number of hearings in the case, and a mass of testimony was taken, and the matter was argued in court three months ago. Frank H. Hall, of Jersey City, acted as counsel for the defendant.

WARREN CHAPEL CADETS PRESENT ENTERTAINMENT

The annual drill and entertainment of the Warren chapel Boy's Signal Corps was given Friday at the Park Club before a large audience. The young soldiers acquitted themselves creditably in their manouvres and play and won unstinted applause from the audience.

In the manoeuvres the cadets gave the flag drill, awkward drill, butts drill, bugle calls, Mt. Meleo movements, silent drill and other movements. Piano seections were rendered by Mrs. Harry L. McGee and W. J. Schoonmaker.

"Little Tiff" was the title of a oneact playlet which was cleverly enacted. The cast was as follows: Edith, Lester Chandler; Mary, Edson Day; Teddy, A. Stiglitz; Gubbins, Marc Waldron; Pinacgan, Ashley Bruner; Dusty Rhodes, Ray Klinkcaptain, DeWitt Brokaw. The youthful thespians were drilled for the play by John P. Myers.

Overlooked.

When comet talk with fear was fraught
And clouded every function,
Why is it that nobody thought
To get an injunction?

NEW TRIALS REFUSED IN THREE DAMAGE SUITS

The three workmen who recently obtained verdicts for damages against Samuel W. Rushmore for injuries caused by the explosion in his factory, were again successful in defeating motions for new trials. Mr. Rushmore's counsel, Mr. Carey, argued before Judge Vail for new trials on two grounds, viz.: That the verdicts were against the weight of the evidence and were excessive in the amounts awarded. Craig A. Marsh, counsel for the injured workmen, argued against the motion.

Judge Vail at once after hearing the arguments denied the motion for new trials. He said that the verdicts were larger than he would have given himself, but the constitution made the jury the judges on questions of fact. This he said was a good jury and the verdicts of juries ought not to be set aside as being excessive unless it clearly appears to the court that the amounts awarded show that the jury were actuated by passion, partiality or prejudice or misapprehension or some other improper consideration. That did not appear in these cases, and hence he denied the motions for new trials. The verdicts so sustained were for De Nisio, $2,056; Tobin, $2,000, and Topack, $1,130.

MISSIONS IN CHINA.

Trinity Reformed's Mission Band Hears Reports.

The Young Women's Mission Band of Trinity Reformed church held a meeting in the lecture room of the church, Friday afternoon, when Mrs. Rapalje, wife of Rev. Daniel Rapalje, of Carlton avenue, who was a missionary in China for many years, gave an interesting talk on the subject "From Amoy to Tong-an," which was of special interest as the band is studying about Tong-an, which is its particular field in foreign missions. A letter was also read from Miss Alice Duryee, who is a missionary at Tong-an.

During the business session of the band, which was presided over by Mrs. Leonard S. Smith, president, the band had $5 handed in for purchase of a gospel tent in India. The tent will cost $500 and the amount is being raised by the young people's societies of the church. The sum of $5 was also voted toward the fund to publish the church calendars. It was proposed to hold a basketball game later on, the aim of fair to be in charge of the finance committee.

THE RELATIVE-IN-LAW.

The cheap joke and certain horse-play behind the footlights have given undue prominence to the relative-in-law, but just why the scorn of scorns should have settled down upon the unoffending head of generic mother-in-law it is hard to say.

It is quite within the bounds of belief that this long-suffering woman has, in the great majority of cases, been the backbone of a limp and flabby household and the mainstay and financial support of the irrelevant young who have too soon shouldered the burden of matrimony.

Granted that these inexperienced heroes and heroines of their own drama or tragedy, will never learn younger, and should to their everlasting personal advantage be cast upon their own resources the much put upon relative-in-law has rescued them from obscurity and degeneration and has, perchance, spent her "alt" upon them.

Penniless, she now eats "the dusks" and "takes it" at every turn.

Is there any reason why I should be mingled out and treated badly until the day of judgment for the man who ought to be grateful because my very own daughter is his adored wife?

Is it Christian to point the finger of scorn at your husband's mother, who has made him so fascinating a man that you yourself have chosen to fall in love with him?

Can the parents of little children expect them to grow up with a desirable respect for the family of which they are a part, or to live up to its traditions, when ridicule has been thrown in the direction of its nearest members?

If there is no house large enough to hold two families, why begin it? Your mother will never become your husband's "mother-in-law" until he chooses her, or is prevailed upon to live under her roof because of your inability to support him.

Many a young wife and her husband's mother might have remained the best of friends had they not foolishly depended on one another.

Sheen to Table Linen.

The cheapest and most ordinary table linen may be made to take a sheen as beautiful as the finest damask by ironing in this way: After linen has been carefully washed, boiled and rinsed, wring dry as possible and roll up in a dry sheet and leave for one hour. Iron till thoroughly dry. The linen escapes the wear and tear of swinging on line and keeps its shape better.

—Constitutionalist's ads. pay.

SANE FOURTH ORDINANCE

Only Three Voted Against Passage of Measure in the Common Council.

OTHER IMPORTANT ACTION.

Proposed Ordinances Favorably Acted Upon Are One for Amusements' Fees and Another for Combustibles.

The Common Council in special session, Thursday, with all members present except Mr. Buxton, passed the ordinance on two readings providing for a "safe and sane Fourth of July." The ordinance was modified considerable from the original one, the principal change being that it permits local dealers to sell fireworks of certain descriptions, but the discharge of firearms or fireworks is prohibited on the public streets or highways. Private property must be used for that purpose, and displays are restricted.

The Mayor is given authority to issue permits within twenty-four hours of July 4, for displays of any kind, during the hours of 6 a. m. and 12 p. m. on July 4, and a fine of $20 is provided for violations of the ordinance.

This ordinance was passed on two readings after the members gave a hearing to local dealers in fireworks. It was understood that after this year the sale of fireworks would be prohibited here, the amendment to the ordinance now being for the purpose of allowing the dealers to dispose of their stock not only in this city but to outside nearby towns. Councilmen C. C. Randolph, Frank Randolph and F. L. Montgomery voted against the ordinance.

Harry Dreier, who was present when the ordinance was passed, afterwards thanked the members for their consideration, adding that after July 4 he would be glad to meet with the committee and give such information as desired regarding dangerous fireworks and firearms that their sale in the future could be prohibited.

An ordinance intending to regulate and control the storage and handling of gasolene, naptha and other combustable materials was introduced by Councilman F. L. Holt and was placed on first reading. A public hearing will be granted on July 5, and notices will be sent to the owners of the various garages, as well as the dry cleaners, so that they may have an opportunity to express their opinions.

The ordinance regulates the storage of gasolene, etc., in any amount, and safeguards the interests of not only property-owners, but those who use gasolene, naptha and similar oils. It also provides for the kinds of tanks to be used, and the material of which they are to be made. The code is drafted after the one used in Louisville, Ky.

Another ordinance offered by Mr. Holt and passed on two readings and ordered advertised, was an amendment to the dog ordinance. The amendment provides that dogs picked up on the highways shall be kept at least seventy-two hours at the pound, and that for redemption the owner must pay $1 for each day or part thereof, fifty cents going to the keeper and the other half to the city. The fee at present is $3.

An amendment to the ordinance to regulate shows, circuses, concerts, etc., was offered by Mr. Holt and passed on two readings and ordered advertised. It raises the license fees for circuses from $100 to $200, the license for theatres $100, the same as before. A license of $10 is provided for concerts and $25 for other forms of entertainments, but it is left optional with the Mayor. The license for moving picture shows is fixed at $2 a day. A fine of $100 or sixty days or both is provided for violations of the ordinance.

Mr. Gloak introduced an ordinance which was read for the first time and laid on the table until the regular June meeting for further action. It provides for the laying and repair of sidewalks throughout the city, and providing for the cost of same. As there is no haste required in the passage of the ordinance, Mr. Mygatt suggested that it be laid on the table until next week.

Remove Spicer Forge.

The Spicer Manufacturing Company has purchased the Cort Meyer property at South Plainfield adjoining the Lehigh Valley tracks, and by the middle of July the forge part of the plant will be removed to that place. The assembling and the machinery part of the plant will remain at their present location in Madison avenue.

Rally a Great Success.

The rally held at the Shiloh Baptist church was a great success. About $809.84 in all was realized. There was $755 raised for the building fund, the trustees having purchased the building formerly used by the Feet Washers at a cost of $6,000. Rev. Dr. E. W. Roberts, pastor, who came here from Roselle about three months ago, is doing a good work and pastor and people are working in harmony.

THIS HORSE SHOW SOME FOLKS DO SAY

Society, including a large number of exhibitors, enjoyed the opening day of the Plainfield horse show, and many interesting groups were noticed in the private boxes, in the grandstand and about the ringside. While the women folk did not make any especial effort to appear in their best finery, the threatening weather interfering to some extent, a number of very fashionable gowns were noticed. Among the most prominent people in the crowd were the following:

Reginald C. Vanderbilt, Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Sorg, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Morison, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. McGibbon, DeWitt C. Flanagan, Charles A. Baudvine, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. McCutchen, L. E. Waring, Miss Mabel Hadley, Miss Eloise Sherin, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Gilbert, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Buttfield, W. Arthur Hose, Udo M. Fleishman, Carl W. Fleishman, Mrs. L. C. D. Percival, Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Fairbarn, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin F. Lowe, Mrs. Elizabeth C. Bowen, Mr. and Mrs. Tonzo Sauvage, Mrs. Pierre Drouillard, Mr. Chapman Fisk, Mrs. Bowyer Webb, the Misses Beavor Webb, Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. McGee, E. H. Ladd, George G. Rohlig, Clarence E. Sherin, O. T. Waring, Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Ginna, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Serrett, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Hadley, Miss Waring, Mrs. A. B. Maclay, Mr. and Mrs. J. Armstrong, Mrs. Belle Beach Bain, Rufus H. Finch, Harry L. Finch, Miss Mabel Clyde, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Barrows, Mr. and Mrs. L. K. Hyde, Gilbert Fletcher, Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Mellick, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Waring, H. C. Irons, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Gilbert, Frederick Bull, S. A. Cruikshank, Mr. and Mrs. Percy H. Stewart, Mrs. J. Meyers, Mrs. A. Hadley, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Holland, Miss Alverta Holland, Miss Charlotte Finch, H. G. Runkle, Miss Runkle, Miss Grace F. Antony, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Davis, Senator J. S. Frelinghuysen, Mrs. F. J. Hull, Mrs. A. Browning Prentice, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Trojan, George Watson, Miss Annie L. Seward, Mrs. James B. McKay, Lewis G. Timpson and Frederick M. Davis.

West Point Cadetship.

The competitive examination, held on Saturday, May 28, for the purpose of selecting a candidate for appointment as cadet of the United States Military Academy from the Fifth Congressional District of New Jersey, resulted as follows: Harry Anderson, of Dover, stood first; Samuel C. Disbrow, of Morristown, stood second; Homer W. Dixon, of Boonton, stood third. They will be respectively nominated by Mr. Fowler as principal and alternates for such appointment.

CHILDREN IN CARNIVAL.

1,000 Will Participate in Event in Elizabeth.

One thousand children will take part in the various historical events planned by Bayley Council No. 622, Knights of Columbus, Elizabeth, at the monster carnival to be held on the Third street grounds during the week of June 27, in that city. A canvass of the parochial and public schools will be made for this purpose. A slip of paper will be given to the children in order that their parents may signify their consent.

A feature of the carnival will be the appearance of Major Gordon's Indians. They have been on the road for several years enacting historical events of the time of John Smith and Pocohantas.

Hope C. E. Meeting.

The Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor, of Hope chapel, at is regular monthly meeting Wednesday night voted to attend the rally last night at the Seventh-Day Baptist church at New Market in a body. Miss Lona Becker presided over the session. Remarks were made by the pastor, Rev. L. R. Hewitt, and on his recent trip to Atlantic City, where he was a delegate to the General Assembly of the Presbyterian church. Remarks were also made by Walter Firstbrook and Donald Mortimer.

MISS GIDDES THE BRIDE OF FREDERICK PORTER.

Miss Anna E. Giddes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abram Giddes, of Harris Lane, was united in marriage Wednesday to Fred'k Porter, of Elm place, this city. The ceremony was performed in the presence of about 150 guests by the Rev. Thomas Lamont, a retired clergyman, of Bound Brook.

Miss Nellie Giddes, of this city, was maid of honor and Miss Linbarger, of Bound Brook, was the bridemaid. The best man was Albert L. Giddes, of this city. The wedding march was played by Miss Naylor and Russell Conroy.

Following the ceremony there was a wedding supper and dancing, after which the bridal couple departed on its honeymoon. At its completion Mr. and Mrs. Porter will reside in this city. The bridegroom is connected with the Rushmore Dynamo Works.

WELL KNOWN FARMER DIES AT MARTINSVILLE

George W. VanNest, Sr., aged about 70 years, one of the best known farmers in Somerset county, died at his home in Martinsville Thursday afternoon. He had been a sufferer for years from pulmonary troubles. Mr. VanNest was born at Martinsville and had lived there all his life. He was very successful as a farmer and was esteemed as a citizen by all who knew him.

Mr. VanNest was a member of the election board in his district; also of the Mt. Horeb M. E. church, where he had been an attendant for many years. He is survived by a brother, John VanNest, of Martinsville; a sister, Mrs. Martha B. Colthar, of Duer street, the borough; also four daughters, Mrs. Simeon Gratrix, of Somerville; Mrs. M. W. King, of Liberty Corner; Mrs. Wesley Jerolaman, of Dover, and Miss Sarah VanNest, of Martinsville, and three sons, George W. VanNest, Jr., of North Plainfield; Edwin D. VanNest, of Larned, Kansas, and William VanNest, of Martinsville.

VALLEY ROAD BRIDGE CONTRACT IS AWARDED

Freeholders Doane, Wilbur, Smith and Jones, of the Union County Board of Freeholders met the Somerset County Board of Freeholders at the office of Engineer Frank J. Hubbard Friday to receive bids for the building of a new bridge on the Valley road, Scotch Plains, replacing the old wooden structure which went down recently while a traction engine was being taken over the bridge.

After it was advertised that certified checks must accompany all bids, the Somerset county members voted to waive that condition to permit F. Smith & Tombs, of Murray Hill, to make an offer.

The contract was awarded to Charles Peterson, of this city, his bid of $1,485 being the lowest. County Attorney W. R. Codington was instructed to draw up the contract and submit it to the Somerset county board of approval.

The other bids received were as follows: Arthur E. Smith, Plainfield, $2,444; Nonemaker Brothers, Dunellen, $2,265; F. Smith & Tombs, Murray Hill, $1 682.60; Matthew Wade, Elizabeth, $3,546.

Freeholders Doane, Wilbur, Smith and Jones will act with Freeholders Demler, Lutkins and Zergiebel, of the Somerset county board, in looking after the construction of the new bridge. This is the second county contract received by Mr. Peterson, he having been awarded one yesterday for building a culvert on Elm and Wood avenues, Linden, for $586. The Scotch Plains' bridge must be completed by July 1. The structure is to be a girder-concrete bridge, with a thirty-six foot span and forty foot girders. Mr. Peterson will begin the work at once and rush it to completion.

ANNUAL RECITAL OF MISS WHITNEY'S PUPILS

A decidedly fine performance was given by the pupils of Miss May Vincent Whitney in the High School auditorium Thursday and some of Miss Whitney's pupils shone brilliantly in a constellation of extraordinary stars. The overture from "William Tell," as played by Miss Whitney and Muriel Collins, was a splendid piece of work, in which the two performers displayed a technique of unusual excellence and added to the laurels already won by the instructor of one of the ablest musical pupils in the city.

Miss Julia Rowley shared the honors with Elizabeth Martin in tokens of flowers sent up over the stage and the 700 auditors were moved to tumultuous applause when the "First Overture," Mendhelssohn, was rendered by the children in double work. As a matter of fact last night's recital was one of the most successful of the eight previous ones given by the pupils of Miss Whitney's school and reflects great credit on both the teacher and the pupils.

Spiced Rhubarb.

Peel and slice two and one-half pounds of rhubarb; sprinkle one pound of sugar over it and let it stand over night. In the morning drain off the syrup and add one cupful of sugar and one-half a cupful each of vinegar and water. Drop into this syrup small bags filled with a mixture of spices, one-third of a teaspoonful each of cloves, mace, allspice and ginger and one teaspoonful of cinnamon. Boil until the syrup begins to thicken, then take out the bags and add the rhubarb and cook one hour. This keeps well and is a delicious relish with cold meats.

Constitutionalist ads. pay.

BOARD OF TRADE'S MIX-UP

The Mayor, Board Head and Mr. Coriell in Hot Three-Cornered Debate.

OVER THE FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Harry Marshall Says that the Knockers Must Quit—All Is Serene When the Wordy War Is Ended.

In charging that the equipment of the local fire department is inadequate for the needs of the city, President William Jeffery caused a breezy three-cornered argument at the Board of Trade meeting Thursday at which he, Mayor Charles J. Fisk and former Sheriff B. Frank Coriell were the principal participants.

The verbal war occurred following a speech by Jeffery in which he criticized the action of the Common Council for not installing more hydrants on Front street between Watchung and Central avenue. There are now six hydrants in that district and Mr. Jeffery declared five more were necessary for the protection of property in case of a conflagration.

Mayor Fisk informed Mr. Jeffery that the fire committee had prepared a list of places where thirty to fifty hydrants will be installed, but explained to the Board that he had left the list of new locations at home. This failed to satisfy Jeffery and his subsequent remarks stirred the Mayor to such an extent that the latter jumped to his feet and shouted to Jeffery:

"How do you know that hydrants are needed on Front street more than anywhere else?"

"I've been over the ground and know what I'm talking about," replied Jeffery, "and unless there is a change of program in the Council, I'm willing to gamble that no hydrants will go there."

At this juncture former Sheriff Coriell entered the fray by jumping to his feet and declaring in an excited manner:

"If this harangue is going to continue I want to make a motion that this meeting adjourn. I've been chairman of the fire committee as a member of the Council and I know that Plainfield is provided with a good department. If we would vote to have a department as advocated by Jeffery it would cost the city $1,000,000. If you (addressing the chair) were not so thin-skinned you would see that."

"I'm not thin-skinned," retorted Jeffery, "but maybe you are."

"I've lived in Plainfield long enough, and am known well enough by its citizens, and I am not thin-skinned." At this juncture President Jeffery took charge of the pilot wheel, poured on the oil of diplomacy, and Mr. Coriell sat down.

Harry W. Marshall, former president of the board, also contributed a spicy flavor to the session by defending Mayor Fisk. "There is too much criticism heaped on the Mayor," said Mr. Marshall, "it is unjust. If you members of the Board will stand by the Mayor, instead of knocking him, you would get something. This unfair criticism of Mr. Fisk must stop as he is doing a darn sight more for the good and welfare of the city than any member of the Board. That's my opinion, anyhow."

J. V. E. Vanderhoef spoke good words for the Mayor and declared that the trouble did not lay with him but it was up to the Council which body is evidently not with the Mayor, he stated.

Mr. Jeffery in paving the way for a discussion on the fire department question reported to the Board the results of his observations in the different fire houses of this city which he made on a recent tour. Chief among Jeffery's recommendations was that four more men be added to the force at headquarters and two more in each of the other houses.

Other recommendations made by Mr. Jeffery was that Engine House, No. 1, on West Second street, be placed in better condition for the firemen; that more hydrants and fire alarm boxes be installed; that needed improvements be made at headquarters.

Removing Stoppers.

If you have any difficulty in removing a glass stopper from a bottle, hold the neck of the bottle in the flame of a lighted match for a few seconds; the stopper will then easily come out. If a top on a preserve jar resists all efforts to get it off, turn the jar top down in a vessel containing enough hot water to cover screw on jar; let it remain for a few seconds. It can then easily be unscrewed.

Announce Engagement.

The engagement is announced of Miss Sadie E. Staats, a teacher in school No. 2, Pahwood township, to J. Charles Runyon, an electrical engineer, of Cincinnati, Ohio. The wedding will take place in Thursday, June 30, at the home of her father, Isaiah Staats, at Port Monmouth, N. J.

SORG GREATEST WINNER

Luckiest Exhibitor at the Horse Show, Vanderbilt Being Second.

FLANAGAN ALSO FORTUNATE.

George Watson Captured Some Coveted Prizes, Too—Charles W. McCutchen Likewise Did Well.

Society and King Horse vied with each other on the closing day of the Plainfield horse show Saturday, for attendance. The handsome show grounds never presented a more attractive appearance and one could not have wished for a more perfect day.

The grandstand, private boxes, parking spaces, as well as the spacious lawns about the ring were thronged the whole afternoon with handsomely gowned women, while men prominent in the horse show world and business were out in large numbers. A person who has visited all of the outdoor exhibitions, remarked that he had scarcely witnessed such a georgeous display.

It is difficult to say which event of the day was the most interesting, the program in its entirety being so uniformally good, and nearly every class was filled. In the list of awards Paul A. Sorg headed the list of ribbons, he with two championships, twelve blues, three reds and three yellows. Reginald C. Vanderbilt was second with four blues, one reserve, five reds and one white, while DeWitt C. Flanagan, one of the strong competitors, received three blues, one reserve, four reds and one white, and George Watson was awarded three firsts, four seconds and one third.

Mr. Sorg was in great luck Saturday, winning both champion harness classes. His Vanity Fair defeated Mr. Vanderbilt's Proebe Watton in one class, and the latter horse met another defeat in the competition for the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club cup, Vanity Fair again carrying off the blue.

Mr. Sorg's Lady Tuck won the champion class for harness horses over 15.2 hands with DeWitt C. Flanagan's enter Russell second. After winning a blue in every saddle class in which he was exhibited, Henry R. Rea's Heartspinay was awarded the tri-colored rosette in the champion saddle class defeating W. A. McGibbon's Rosalind.

Perhaps one of the most interesting classes of the day were those for breeding horses. This brought out stallions suitable to sire heavy harness horses. The contestants were shown in hand and their attendants had a lively time of it as around and around the ring they took their steeds

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST

VOL. XLII — PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, JUNE 16, 1910. — NO. 24.

"Support the Constitution, which is the Cement of the Union, as well in its Limitations as in its Authorities."—Madison.

CHALLENGES GOV. FORT

J. S. Frelinghuysen, President of Senate, Replies to Charge of Legislative Corruption.

HE CALLS FOR THE PROOFS.

Somerset County's Legislator Talks of a Special Session and Promises to Support Good Railroad Rate Bill.

Resenting Governor Fort's charges that the Legislature has been controlled by railroads and other "special interests," Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, president of the Senate, and the representative of Somerset county, yesterday sent a letter to the Governor demanding proof of the allegation or a cessation of the insinuations and promising to use his energy and influence to obtain enactment of the best railroad rate bill which may be proposed in the event of a special session being called. His letter follows:

"I read with interest your speech reported in yesterday's papers in reference to the increase of rates to commuters. If I understood it correctly you are of the opinion that the increase would have been impossible if at the last session of the Legislature a law had been enacted in accordance with your views and recommendations.

"Inasmuch as the advance in rates applies chiefly to commutations from points in New Jersey to New York city I have been of the opinion that the question was an interstate one, and therefore under the jurisdiction of the general rather than of the State government.

"However, as I have not had the advantage of either legal or judicial training, I am not as well qualified as you to speak on the subject. What to me, and I think to the entire public, is of more importance is the charge time and again made by you during the last six months that the Legislature was under the domination and control of corporations.

"Between the charge recently made that one branch of the Legislature upon its closing engaged in acts of immorality and debauchery and your oft repeated charge that the Legislature serves not the people but special interests the public will come to view their representatives as disreputable and dishonest.

"Call a special session of the Legislature, present to it a plan which you think will be fair and reasonable to the railroads as well as to their patrons—and, may I suggest which will also be within the power of the State to enforce so that in the future we may not be called pretenders or hypocrites.

"If you call such a session I pledge you that I will exercise all my energy and influence to bring about the enactment of the best bill which may be proposed. More than that, I will do my utmost to effect the appointment of a committee or other body with full power to conduct a thorough, searching and merciless investigation. To such a committee may I trust you will make known all the facts on which you base your oft-repeated charge of a Legislature corrupt and dominated by a 'most powerful special interest.'

"It is time for the public to have facts rather than mere charges and insinuations, so that they can distinguish the straightforward from the deceitful, the moral from the dissolute, the honest from the corrupt."

Knights Confer Third Degree.

Forty-five candidates received the third degree at a meeting of Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, last night. There was a large attendance of members and visitors, including Mayor C. A. McGlennon, of Harrison. The initiatory work was conducted by Thomas McLoughlin, of Newark, State warden, and John J. Hickey, of Bayonne, State deputy, and was greatly admired. After the work refreshments were served.

Capt. Atkinson's Talk.

Regimental Commissary Captain Condit Atkinson gave a talk to representatives of Company K, of this city, companies C and I, of Elizabeth, and M, of Somerville, in the local armory last night. Captain Atkinson's speech was one of instruction in camp commissary work. He also told of rations, their packing and transportation and gave other interesting data relative to the safe care of provisions during service.

Will Hold a Smoker.

Protective Conclave, Improved Order Heptasophs, has issued invitations to a smoker to be held at its rooms, Exempt Firemen's Hall, Tuesday evening, June 21. A fine program has been arranged.

MURRAY PATROL FORMED

Y. M. C. A. Boys' Scouts for Effective Work Among City's Youths.

WILL EMULATE THE BRITISH.

First Tramp of Troops Will Take Place on Saturday and Orange Will Be the Destination.

A unique idea to do effective work among the boys of this city was put into operation yesterday afternoon when a local band of "Boy Scouts" was organized by C. William Bingeman, Secretary of the Boys' Department of the Y. M. C. A. The new organization is to be known as the "Murray Patrol" in honor of William D. Murray, of East Ninth street, who is a member of the committee on Boys' Work of the International Committee of the Y. M. C. A.

The patrol was organized and put into working shape yesterday afternoon when five boys of the association in conference with Mr. Bingeman perfected plans for the patrol. The boys who took the initiative with Mr. Bingeman are Andrew Hetfield, George Leighs, James McNamee, Harold Sharkey and William Thompson. Six other boys were voted into membership of the patrol. They are Raymond Manley, Frank Dunning, Walter Scribner, Harold Williams, Craig Blair and Donald Ketcham. The patrol will meet again tomorrow afternoon in the association parlors to make plans for a trip to Orange Saturday where the State Athletic meet will be held.

Other troops will be organized in the association as occasion demands and the boys in the "Murray Patrol" will be available to do all in their power to help other organizations.

The boy Scout Movement was organized in England, where there are now 400,000 patrols. The object of the movement broadly speaking is to build up character and make good citizens, to prevent lads from becoming either loafers on the one hand or selfish money worshippers on the other. Any lad may become a member who takes a pledge setting forth the ideals of the patrol. The central idea in the movement is not a scheme of military drill; but it is to interest boys in nature and animal lore, and to make a strong appeal to boyish instincts that are wholesome. Boy scouts are springing up spontaneously inside and out of the Y. M. C. A. and all are looking forward to a national movement with which to affiliate. In a nutshell the aim of the Boy Scouts is the "going ahead of the rest for the good of the rest." The appeal to the boys is broad: physical, educational and moral and religious. There is no department of knowledge that may not be made interesting to a lad who has become imbued with the spirit of a Scout.

The local boys are enthusiastic over the new patrol and the movement bids fair to become very popular in this city. Already in this State there are strong patrols in Newark and in Paterson; and it is the aim of the local association to lead the State in this, as in other departments of association work.

MISS MARTIN RECEIVES PRIZE FOR EXCELLENCE.

Miss Anna Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Martin, of East Sixth street, and Miss Violet Durn and Miss Helen Poole, also of this city, were among the young women who took part in the recital of music pupils of Miss Frances L. Phillips at the M. E. church, South Brook, last night. Miss Ethel Cecilia Smith, of Newark, violinist, assisted.

Miss Martin played II Hungarian Rhapsodie, accompanied by Alfred Stryker. She also received the prize for excellence of work, and was highly complimented. The work of Miss Durn and Miss Poole was also of a high order.

The Same Old Story.

John Thomas, of Trenton, leaped from the Philadelphia flyer which passed through here this morning at 8:20 with the natural results. He was scratched and bruised and received a severe cut on his right hand. He did not tarry any longer than it was necessary to secure a ticket for Garwood, departing on the next train.

Taking Inventory of Estate.

Joseph P. Tate, executor of the will of Mrs. Estelle E. Edgerton, assisted by J. Fred MacDonald and Warren Marsh, are now engaged in taking an inventory of the effects of Mrs. Edgerton. It will require a considerable amount of time to complete the task.

LEAL'S BOYS IN COMEDY

Private School Pupils Win Applause in Eleanor Crane's "Next Door."

A CLEVER PERFORMANCE.

Large Audience at the Park Club Shows Its Appreciation—School's Closing Exercises Friday.

Eleanor M. Crane's three-act comedy, "Next Door," was presented at the Park Club, last night, by Leal's School Athletic Association, before a large and thoroughly appreciative audience. The play is full of wholesome fun and the clever way in which each member of the cast took his part won the applause throughout the performance. The young men who assumed the parts of women were especially good and reflected much credit on the painstaking efforts of the cast.

The honors were about evenly divided, but it is only fair to say that Thomas H. Leggett, Jr., who took the part of Prof. Courtney Martin, a woman hater, was commendable. Laurence S. Heely, as Mrs. Joseph Thornton, Morris M. Brandegee as Miss Betty Armstead, Frank E. Driscoll as Miss Alice Armstead, nieces of Mrs. Thornton, and Thomas W. Foote, as Miss Kathleen Covington, a Baltimore belle, interpreted their parts true to the lines.

Others who scored were Clarence R. Lawrence as George Chester, an artist; Edward F. Stevenson as Will Webster, lawyer; James O. Murray, as Fred Harper, a Harvard graduate and William P. Brandegee as Orange, from the Sunny South.

The cast was coached by Frederick B. Hanson, assisted by Benjamin P. Adams, both of New York city. Throughout the evening, Charles Suhr's Imperial Trio rendered a fine program of music. At the conclusion of the play the actors were presented with bouquets of flowers.

The officers of Leal's School Athletic Association, under whose auspices the play was given are as follows:

President, Thomas H. Leggett, Jr.; vice-president, Lyman Hibbard; secretary, Clarence R. Lawrence.

The closing exercises of the school will be held at the school Friday morning, when Dr. Scott, of Rutgers College, will make the address. There will be a dance at the Park Club in the evening this being the closing social function for the school term.

THEY DECIDE WOMEN SHOULD NOT VOTE

It was "Resolved, That Woman Suffrage is Desirable," but it didn't make it so when the debate between members of the Baraca class of the Temple Baptist church finished their argument last night and submitted the decision of the judges. The negative side won the debate by producing preponderating evidence that suffrage is not desirable in this country at this time.

The affirmative of the question was studiously cared for by C. S. Crane and Charles Gullberg, while the negative side was ably defended by Chris Utzinger and Edward Baker, Jr., in fact so well did the two latter present their facts and figures that the judges were compelled to render a decision in their favor.

In presenting facts for the consideration of their hearers the defendants of the cause of women said that in Wyoming ninety per cent. of the women voted at the last election and in Australia out of one million votes cast at the last general election, 400,000 were those of women. Again in the election of Judge Lindsay in Denver last year it was the vote of the women that elected the judge.

The undesirability of suffrage was something so out of the question in American politics was made plain by the negative side with the results above stated.

The meeting of the Baraca Jr. and Baraca Philathea was held during the evening. Another debate will soon be held between members of the Baraca Jr. and Baraca classes. The judges last night were Frank Stewart, Henry Jaeger and George Rockefeller. The next meeting of the classes will be held on July 12.

Peddlers Fined.

For peddling without a license yesterday Harry Klinefelter and Benjamin Sock, of New Brunswick, were fined three dollars each in the city court this morning by Judge Runyon. They immediately sought the Mayor's office to secure the necessary document.

WOMEN SUPERVISORS FOR LOCAL PLAYGROUNDS

A woman supervisor for each of the two school playgrounds in this city will be selected at the meeting of the Playgrounds Commission next Wednesday evening. Only applicants for the position who have had experience in playground work will be considered by the special committee appointed to receive them. This committee is composed of Lindsey Best and Harry Marshall. Applications for the position by prospective supervisors should be sent to Lindsey Best.

At the meeting of the commission yesterday afternoon it was decided to open the playgrounds from July 5 to September 10, week days between the hours of 9 and 12 a. m. and 2 to 6 p. m. Rules and regulations governing the playgrounds were adopted and these will be posted in conspicuous places. The sand bins which were recently ordered will be installed shortly in both playgrounds and everything will be in readiness for the opening July 5.

At the session yesterday all of the members of the commission were present and several matters of import were informally discussed. These will be taken up at an important meeting to be held next Wednesday in the mayor's office at 5:30 p. m.

FAVOR WOODROW WILSON FOR U.S. SENATORSHIP

The West End Democratic Club celebrated Flag Day last evening in their rooms with a salute to the flag, speeches and refreshments in which the large gathering took enthusiastic part. The event of the evening, however, was the launching of a boom for the United States Senatorship of Woodrow Wilson, president of Princeton University.

The speakers of the evening were James E. Martine and Samuel S. Swackhamer. The speeches of these two men were of a patriotic order to which the closest attention was paid by the assemblage. J. O. Stevens entertained the company with several phonograph selections which were thoroughly enjoyed.

Frank J. Shattle introduced the resolution nominating Woodrow Wilson for the senatorship which was as follows: "Whereas, The coming election is one of great importance, and the selection and election to the high office of United States Senator is before the people at this time, and

"Whereas, The people of this State have not the privilege of enjoying that great Democratic principle of the election of the United States Senators by direct vote.

"We, the members of the West End Democratic Club, of Plainfield in regular session assembled, feel it our duty to take our stand at this time and let the people of this State elect a man whose honesty, integrity and ability for the position above named, cannot be doubted by the masses of the people in any form whose daily life is composed of that great Democratic doctrine of equal rights to all, and special privilege to none, representing the masses and not the classes and who we feel will fill the office of United States Senator in the interest of all, we present our choice, Hon. Woodrow Wilson, of Princeton, and be it resolved that we do everything in our power to further the selection of the Hon. Woodrow Wilson and see that our candidacy for the assembly from this district are pledged to vote for Mr. Wilson as the Democratic candidate for the high office named."

The resolution was adopted unanimously and with cheers.

MISS FLORETTA TITUS H. C. ELDRIDGE'S BRIDE.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Floretta Titus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Titus of Dunellen, and Henry Clarence Eldridge, of Kennebunkport, Me., but now of this city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. W. Musson, pastor of the Temple Baptist church, at his home on Monday evening, June 6. The witnesses were Mrs. J. W. Musson and John LeMaity.

The groom is a native of Kennebunkport, Me., but has been making his home here for the past year, following his trade that of a painter. The bride is well-known in Dunellen and this city, and has a host of friends. The bride and groom expect to spend the summer at Kennebunkport.

—Use Press Want ads. They pay.

REPORT SIX BURGLARS

And All of Them Occured in the Borough Early This Morning.

A BARE-FOOTED BURGLAR.

Marshall Keller, on Whose Beat the Hauls Were Made, Gets to Work on a Slight Clue.

Quite the most unusual burglaries ever perpetrated in this vicinity took place between 3 and 4 o'clock this morning in the borough, when six houses were entered and several children' banks, a work coat, a bottle of milk and a cake were stolen. Silverware was overlook entirely; and what makes the burglary particularly a mystery are the footprints of 12-inch feet which were found about the places entered. On Stone street the burglar worked barefoot; on Jefferson avenue he wore shoes. Just why he gave Jefferson avenue this kind of a preference is mystifying the police. Quite another feature, too, adds interest to the burglaries. A chocolate layer cake, and a bottle of milk, for instance, were taken from the home of Jacob Kirchner on Duer street and the cake was left on the backstoop of Harry Johns further up the street. The only clue to the burglar is a worn panama hat with a railroad ticket for New York in the band, and a copy of a New York newspaper with a temperance editorial pencilled out. These were found at one of the houses entered.

The houses entered are those of Mrs. Anne Breakey, a widow who lives at 3 Stone street; the Rev. Mr. Duschner, of Stone street; Jacob Kirchner, Lewis Bimble, Jr., of Jefferson avenue; Berton Waldron, of Somerset street, and James M. Way, of 8 Stone street.

Children's banks containing approximately $5 were taken from the homes of the Rev. Mr. Duschner and Lewis Bimble. A work coat was also taken from the latter place. Entrance was effected in the James Way house, though the window in the rear was opened. Mrs. Way frightened the burglar away. Entrance to the other places was obtained by means of rear windows.

The borough police were notified of the burglaries early this morning and Chief Police Weiss is now working on the case. Marshal Keller, on whose beat the burglaries occurred, was the first to be notified; but as no description of the burglar was furnished by anyone and the clues are so unsatisfactory, the case is an exceedingly difficult one to ferret out.

PARK CLUB CELEBRATION ON 4TH TO BE SANE

The Board of Governors of the Park Club at a meeting last night, decided in favor of a "safe and sane Fourth of July." Instead of the usual display of fireworks at the club on that night there will be a band concert and refreshments will be served out-of-doors for the members and their guests. This action was taken partially because the Plainfield Country Club is planning to give a big display of fireworks at its grounds, and such members of the Park Club as desire, will have an opportunity to witness it. This will be out of the city with a minimum risk of accidents.

Heretofore, the Park Club has always celebarted the Fourth with a display of fireworks in the evening and no doubt the omission this year will be a disappointment.

The governors also granted Henry Johnson, the steward, a two months' leave of absence in the fall. He plans to return to his native home in Denmark, Sweden, to be present at the celebration of the golden wedding anniversary of his parents. This will be Mr. Johnson's first trip home in many years and he anticipates it with much pleasure.

Enjoyed the Trip South.

Halsted C. Compton, of West Front street, returned last night after a three weeks' visit among old friends in North Carolina. Mr. Compton traveled among the shooting grounds where he has made some great friends, but he did not indulge in his favorite pastime, he did not even go fishing. He renewed some old friendships and made some new ones and thoroughly enjoyed the trip. Mr. Compton's daughter, Miss Mary D. Compton, also has returned from a trip through the Bahama Islands where she spent the last three weeks.

QUESTIONS FOR FOWLER

Aspirant for Two Big Offices Will Be Quizzed by Progressives.

RUNYON NOT A PARTY.

Former Leader of New Idealtes Not to Be Inveighed Into Any Sore-Headers Political Campaign.

When Charles N. Fowler appears at the conference of the local progressives tonight, and it is expected that he will be present, the State leaders in the "insurgent" or "new idea" policy in the Republican party, it is reliably reported, will quiz him as to his position on important issues in State and National issues. According to progressive leaders, the "anti-machine" is not yet committed to Mr. Fowler's candidacy either for United States Senator or Representative, and all will depend upon his platform as to be announced by himself at the private conference. This meeting was called at the request of William P. Martin, of Essex, to stir up interest in the "reform" movement here and Mr. Colby as well as Mr. Martin is expected to give advice to the local leaders. R. Henry Depew, the recent candidate against Mr. Fowler for the mayoralty and president of the New Jersey People's Lobby, will preside at the session at G. W. V. Moy's office.

Judge William N. Runyon, considered the popular card in the Colbyite movement here several years ago, will not be present. Mr. Runyon, it is reliably reported, will have nothing to do with the Fowler movement. As told in the Daily Press, Mr. MacMurray is not invited to the conference and it is reliably reported that the New Idea men while they may favor Fowler's candidacy will not be harnessed up with MacMurray.

ARTHUR DE FESTETICS AGED TWELVE DEAD.

The deepest sympathy of Plainfield friends will go out to Gyula de Festetics, in the death of his twelve-year-old son, Arthur de Festetics, which occurred yesterday afternoon at his home on Westerveit avenue. The boy was taken ill on Saturday with gastritis which later developed into a hemorrhage of the brain, causing his death.

The lad was a familiar figure on the street as he traveled about on a buckboard, accompanied by his father and his pet dog. He was admired by a great many people for his attractive face, being unusualy handsome. For a long time he had been unable to walk owing to a weakness of the legs, and his father took great delight in taking him about the city. Father and son were inseparable, being passionately fond of each other. Mr. de Festetics is grief-stricken over his loss, as his son was the only relative he had. The former is a native of Hungary. The funeral will be held at his father's residence, 62 Westervelt avenue, tomorrow at 3 o'clock.

W. D. MURRAY SPEAKS AT PARENT-TEACHER MEETING.

The final meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association was held last night in the Irving school when William D. Murray addressed a large audience on "Our Boys and Girls."

In addition to Mr. Murray's talk there was an entertainment. The members of the Fourth, Fifth and Sixth grades sang several of their school songs, and Miss Harriet Fillmore and Charles L. Lewis sang solos. Richard Bordman was roundly applauded for his able recitation, "Somebody's Mother." Following the meeting an informal social time was enjoyed and light refreshments were served.

Announce Engagement.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Pierson, of Dunellen avenue, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Marion E. Pierson, to David N. Mauger, of West Seventh street. Recently, a luncheon was given by Mrs. Raymond Smith in honor of Miss Pierson, to which several intimate friends were invited.

Will Hold a Missionary Tea.

A missionary tea will be held at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church at 8 o'clock tomorrow night, when Miss Jennie V. Hughes, a returned missionary from China will make an address. The auxiliaries of the other local Methodist churches have been invited to attend.

Under the auspices of the Women's Relief Corps a strawberry festival will be held in Reform Hall, Friday night.

SPHERE OF WOMEN AS TO EDUCATION

Governor Fort Describes It at Flag Day Celebration at Mt. St. Mary's College —Others Speak.

On a background of the present social evolution, Governor Franklin Fort painted a glowing picture of woman; Hon. John Green, vice-president of the Board of Education of

—Photo by Wardner.
Miss Marie Tobin
Who Unfurled Old Glory.

New York, considerably decorated it; and Bishop McFaul gave the finishing touches at the Flag Day exercises at the College of Mt. St. Mary yesterday afternoon.

Each had something significant to say of the part played by woman in past, present and future history; and each took occasion to strike a strong note of patriotism in their remarks.

It was a large audience of people gathered on the picturesque crest of the Watchung mountains by the college, where the exercises were held to hear them. Seated on the platform directly in front of the flag pole, were Governor Fort, Bishop McFaul, Hon. John Green, Mayor Fisk, David Kiely, Prof. John Brewster, Father Hogan, Judge Runyon, Chief of Police Kiely, Senator Ackerman, General Collins, George Tobin, Father Edward Dunphy, of Dunellen; and Mayors Madden, of Trenton; Mravlag, of Elizabeth; Scully, of South Amboy, and Bolschweiler, of Perth Amboy. To the right of them were detailed the members of Company K, of this city, and Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R. To the left on a raised platform were seated six young women who will be graduated, garbed in their academic gowns and motarboards; while just above them were seated a large group of college women attractively garbed in red, white and blue. Smaller children were also dressed in this way and they, too, took part in the exercises.

Following the blessing of the flag by Bishop McFaul, it was presented with impressive military ceremony by the local detail of the G. A. R. This was the first time in the history of the G. R. R. that any local detail has been reviewed singly by the Governor of the State.

The young women of the college then gathered about the flag pole, and the flag was raised by Miss Marie Tobin, the bright young daughter of George Tobin who presented the flag. Throughout the preliminary part of the exercises the band situated among the trees to the left of the main platform, played patriotic anthems. This was a fitting introduction to Governor Fort, who was formally presented by Prof. Brewster. Gov. Fort then took the platform and said in part:

"There was a time," said Governor Fort, "when the education of woman was satisfied by travel and a bit of sentimentality. Now that is past. Woman's mind is as acute, and her intelligence is as great as mans.' Now she is reaching a position shoulder to shoulder with man. Her mental processes, though, are different. Perhaps she doesn't reason; but she has an instuition that gets her there more quickly. They accomplish results without seeming to do so.

"You," he said, turning to the graduates who were present, "are going to leave this institution to go into the world in an age such as has never before been seen. In an age like this, simply to be living is sub-

(Continued on page 6.)

ANOTHER TRUST COMPANY

Proposed Concern Will Take Up Business of Borough National Bank.

CAPITAL TO BE $100,000.

The New Company Will Open Its Office in September—The Promoters Consider that Its Prospects Are Bright.

A new trust company for Plainfield, to be known as "The State Trust Company," has filed articles of incorporation with Commissioner of Banking and Insurance Watkins at Trenton, and the details of organization are now in progress at the present time. At present there are three National banks and one trust company here. The new concern proposes to take over the business of the Borough National bank, which has been successful during the twelve months of its existence, in which time it has secured deposits amounting to $150,000. The capital of this institution is $50,000 and the assets $235,000. As a result of this amalgamation, the Trust company will be able to offer depositors of the borough bank increased facilities. The community, the men interested say, will thereby benefit by a more equal distribution of banking facilities, without, however, increasing the number of financial institutions at the present existing.

"The new company will be essentially a people's institution," said one of those interested today, "the stock being widely distributed among Plainfielders and North Plainfielders and the policy being controlled by no single interest. There are now $8,000,000 of bank deposits in town. This amount represents an increase of $6,000,000 during the past eight years and as the population of the city is increasing rapidly, the organizers feel that there is a splendid future for the new company, especially as it is proposed to extend the campaign for business throughout the State, to communities where there are either no banks or where the banks pay no interest, and to such, banking by mail facilities will be offered that will enable depositors to transact their business by post even more conveniently than they otherwise might in person.

"The location of the banking room will be central and will be modernly equipped, so that it will compare favorably with the high standard already set in this respect, and when the institution starts early in September, it will be able to offer every possible facility for the transaction of national, fiduciary and safe deposit business."

The names of the officers and directors, who will all be residents of Plainfield and North Plainfield and will be engaged in business either here or in this vicinity, will be announced shortly, the election not yet having been held. The capital of the new institution will be $100,000 and the surplus $50,000.

Utility Boxes.

Utility boxes of all sorts and descriptions. They come with handles, castors, wheels and feet so that they may be moved about with ease. They are generally of sandlewood inside, while outside they come in sandalwood, wicker, mahogany with leather top and brass trimmings, in mission finish, with silver trimmings and with stenciled covers. Many of these make very handsome seats with the addition of a cushion or two. The long ones may be converted into very cozy window seats, while those shaped like cubes will fit into any convenient niche, and do nicely as a stool. Waste paper baskets and little stands may be obtained to match, so that you are not obliged to litter your room up with too many styles.

LIGHT BATHS GOOD.

"Sunlight increases the oxygen carrying capacity of the blood, increases the excretion of carbolic oxide, and the shorter light waves seem to cause a beneficial stimulation in the young of many of the lower or higher animals as shown by better development," according to the Journal of Homeopathy.

The stimulation of strong sunlight has been frequently mentioned by literary men of genius, for with rare exceptions they have very sensitive nervous tissue in which the results would be most noticeable. Light baths are suggestive for sluggish metabolism, an excellent remedy in the case of those of sluggish chemistry who are benefited by the slower heat rays of hot springs, spas, etc.

Ever Think of This.

When little things annoy you
And the little troubles fret
Whatever you are going to do
When some big grief you get?
—Detroit Free Press.

His Idea.

"What is you idea of a comfortable fortune?"

"Having just a little more money than anybody else in the world."—Detroit Free Press.

PROHIBITION NOMINEE SEES VICTOY AHEAD

William Langer.

William Langer, of North Plainfield, has issued the following letter of acceptance as the Prohibition candidate for Representative for the Fourth New Jersey district, which comprises Somerset, Mercer, Hunterdon counties:

Having received the nomination for member of the House of Representatives of the United States from the Fourth Congressional District by the unanimous vote of all the delegates of the convention, allow me to acknowledge it as a great and distinguished honor, coming as it does from a party that is openly committed to the destruction of the traffic in intoxicating drinks.

The drink traffic is the nation's greatest enemy. The whole system of license endangers our country and threatens our peace and prosperity. This governmental policy is rapidly ruining our citizens and blighting our homes. The saloon is bad everywhere and we have no right to permit any city or State to debauch its citizens. Every distiller, brewery and saloon must have a federal license before its doors can swing open for business. Uncle Sam last year collected about $155,000,000 as revenue from the institution. Interwoven in the profits, as this vast sum went into the treasury of the American government, which is only a corporation with all voters as stockholders. The stockholders are controlled by factions or parties and parties run the government. Both old parties are committed to the license policy, which is the direct traffic. The party candidate is our agent. The government that issues the licenses is our agent. All of the distilleries and breweries are in the hands of our agents. And we are the biggest partners in the concern.

Our agents when we say so will change their policy and not before. The government is made up of individuals: the will of the majority is the policy in force.

The liquor question is the only live financial problem before the people today. According to the American Grocer this country pays the enormous sum of one quarter billion dollars for drink, and the indirect cost—poverty, crime, loss—is equal to three-quarters of a billion dollars more. The direct taxes as much as America pays for bread, eleven times as much as it pays for education, thirteen times as much as it pays for its churches and churches, and one hundred and seven times as much as it pays for all its home and foreign missions. It is about four times as big as the Steel Trust, eight times as big as the tariff, and compared with the free silver question in American politics, it is "sixteen to one."

That is the great and only financial question that is likely to absorb the thought of this country for years to come. This is a financial basis, big and broad enough to found a political party upon. The moral phase of the question is bigger than that. It is the overthrow of the liquor traffic, which is the direct cause of most of the drunkenness, vice, pauperism, crime, Sabbath desecration, gambling, prostitution, graft, civic corruption, municipal wickedness and official crime. It is responsible for 5,000 suicides, 10,000 murders, 50,000 young women beginning a life of shame, half a million young men starting on a life of drunkenness, and 70,000 drink murdered men every year. This is the moral basis of this reform, and it is big enough to furnish a platform for a State or national political party.

Thus both financially and morally the Prohibition party stands for the only great question and the only truly national question before the people today.

For forty years thousands of Christian citizens have been voting for license. How is the government to know that we are against the partnership in the liquor business and against our country manufacturing drunkards at a cost of $13 a head, a foot of Local Option territory in it.

Ohio has also twice cast a majority vote for Prohibition, 1851 and 1883, without Local Option. Other States have tried Local Option for a quarter of a century, and are today no nearer to Prohibition than when they began.

Local Option is only a compromise with, not a cure of the liquor evil. It is not sufficient for the solution of the problem; it is not efficient in its results, even as to the suppression of saloons; it is not permanent in its character; it is not consistent in morals; it is not necessary for the further enactment of the public, and it is no longer safe as an experiment. It merely cuts off some branches of the upas tree and leaves the roots to grow, and send out other shoots, under protection of State and National laws; places the execution of the law in the hands of its enemies; inaugurates an endless game of "pussy wants a corner" with saloons, instead of a war of extermination against the whole infernal traffic; compels moral inconsistency; divides the State, and encourages hypocrisy in the voters; consumes time, money and energy to little or no permanent advantage, and finally settles nothing, but endangers the progress of the whole cause.

But let us be consistent in dealing with this problem and adopt the method of Clinton N. Howard, when he said: We are everywhere for that local Prohibition that gives us the right to vote out the saloons. But do not ask us to stop there. We cannot, We will not. With ten million Christian voters, "marching as to war, with the cross of Jesus going on before," do not ask us to limit our endeavor to a campaign of town and county option, but face the organized enemy that is investing the entire field, stretching its battle line from courthouse to capital, and infesting the whole nation from precinct delegate to President. We cannot and we will not consent to the inconsistency of voting out the saloon in the town and county and voting in the saloon power in State and Nation.

The principle is as sound as government itself, and must ever be the paladium of American civil liberty.

While conclusive that the people of the political divisions to which the option is proposed to be given, is the question which must determine the practibility of the principle. We must maintain that the traffic can not be the exclusive concern of the people of any municipality or county. If the traffic produce crime, poverty, pauperism and other public disorders for the punishment, care and prohibition of which the people of the whole State must build penitentiaries and asylums and maintain police, then the General Assembly of the State is in duty bound to prohibit it. It can not be constitutionally or sanely relegated to the option of the people of any minor subdivision of the State.

The liquor traffic is not saloons individually or collectively; they are but the branches of the upas tree, of which the brewery and the distillery are the roots. Local option in most States affects only the retail sale of intoxicating liquors within the prohibited territory, in consequence many towns and counties that have voted saloons out under local option still have the manufactory.

There are of two kinds remedial and mandatory.

Remedial laws execute themselves.

Mandatory laws never do, but require the machinery of government to make them effective. Prohibitory laws are of the latter class, and without the executive arm of government, are without force to accomplish the purpose for which they are enacted.

This is a fatal defect in local option. In local option permanent in local option elections which ever way the election results a petition at the end of two or three years can be presented to bring on another contest, with the possibility of reversing the former vote. For an illustration will give a report of the election held in this place in the State of Illinois on April 5, 1910. This report shows that thirty-nine "dry" towns went "wet;" nineteen "wet" towns went "dry;" seventy-two "wet" towns retained saloons while 110 "dry" towns remained true to their colors. This shows a loss of twenty towns for the "drys." Its Local Option Morally Consistent—The method of Local Option in reference to the drink traffic, has been perpetually calling men to use the ballot for the purpose of voting for the liquor traffic, while it has left them under the delusion that they could harmlessly support the liquor traffic in the rest of their political powers. It has sent thousands to the polls to vote the saloon out of town or county, while it has encouraged them in a course of political action that has voted the saloon fast upon the State. It has led sometimes here and there in a campaign for State prohibition, while it has supported an anti-prohibition Federal government to nullify State prohibition.

It has never presented the prohibition question as the supreme issue, the controlling principle of political action. It has never imitated the practical common-sense of Lincoln, and said to the voters: We do not ask you to think the liquor traffic wrong to quit voting with the men who pretend to think the liquor traffic right. It must be apparent to all thoughtful minds that the best supporting this movement that this method must be changed; that another plan must be adopted. It is time for a State or national political party.

Thus both financially and morally the Prohibition party stands for the only great question and the only truly national question before the people today.

Christian citizens have been voting for license. How is the government to know that we are against the partnership in the liquor business and against our country manufacturing drunkards at a cost of $13 a head, a foot of gathering in blood money from the victims of the curse. It can never be legalized without sin; declared the bishops of the Methodist church some years ago. If that declaration was true at the time it was made, as we believe it was, it is true today. Having accepted this declaration then as the truth, are not there thousands of professing Christians who have been supporting political parties whose policy has been and is now for license and regulation, guilty of committing sin.

There are many no doubt who are opposed to the saloon and who would like to see the whole business, root and branch, swept from our land, and yet they are not with us, thinking, perhaps, that they can accomplish something in a non-political way by the method of local option.

Let us look into this local option method with a view of ascertaining the facts.

Every reform is in its last analysis one of method. Methods are principles in action. A wrong application of a right principle is as ineffective as the application of a wrong principle.

The liquor traffic may be defined as the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor for beverage purposes, which produces crime, insanity, pauperism and other public disorders than any other cause to which these miseries may be attributed. Local option is that principle of government which recognizes the right and duty of the people of any political division of government to control what exclusively concerns themselves. This principle is found in the Declaration of Independence in these words:

"We hold these truths to be self-evident: That all men are created free and equal; that they are endowed by the Creator with certain inalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness; that to secure these rights governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, in State and Nation.

The principle is as sound as government itself, and must ever be the paladium of American civil liberty.

While conclusive that the people of the political divisions to which the option is proposed to be given, is the question which must determine the practibility of the principle. We must maintain that the traffic can not be the exclusive concern of the people of any municipality or county. If the traffic produce crime, poverty, pauperism and other public disorders for the punishment, care and prohibition of which the people of the whole State must build penitentiaries and asylums and maintain police, then the General Assembly of the State is in duty bound to prohibit it. It can not be constitutionally or sanely relegated to the option of the people of any minor subdivision of the State.

The liquor traffic is not saloons individually or collectively; they are but the branches of the upas tree, of which the brewery and the distillery are the roots. Local option in most States affects only the retail sale of intoxicating liquors within the prohibited territory, in consequence many towns and counties that have voted saloons out under local option still have the manufactory.

There are of two kinds remedial and mandatory.

Remedial laws execute themselves.

Mandatory laws never do, but require the machinery of government to make them effective. Prohibitory laws are of the latter class, and without the executive arm of government, are without force to accomplish the purpose for which they are enacted.

This is a fatal defect in local option. In local option permanent in local option elections which ever way the election results a petition at the end of two or three years can be presented to bring on another contest, with the possibility of reversing the former vote. For an illustration will give a report of the election held in this place in the State of Illinois on April 5, 1910. This report shows that thirty-nine "dry" towns went "wet;" nineteen "wet" towns went "dry;" seventy-two "wet" towns retained saloons while 110 "dry" towns remained true to their colors. This shows a loss of twenty towns for the "drys."

Its Local Option Morally Consistent—The method of Local Option in reference to the drink traffic, has been perpetually calling men to use the ballot for the purpose of voting for the liquor traffic, while it has left them under the delusion that they could harmlessly support the liquor traffic in the rest of their political powers. It has sent thousands to the polls to vote the saloon out of town or county, while it has encouraged them in a course of political action that has voted the saloon fast upon the State. It has led sometimes here and there in a campaign for State prohibition, while it has supported an anti-prohibition Federal government to nullify State prohibition.

It has never presented the prohibition question as the supreme issue, the controlling principle of political action. It has never imitated the practical common-sense of Lincoln, and said to the voters: We do not ask you to think the liquor traffic wrong to quit voting with the men who pretend to think the liquor traffic right. It must be apparent to all thoughtful minds that the best supporting this movement that this method must be changed; that another plan must be adopted. It is time for a State or national political party.

Thus both financially and morally the Prohibition party stands for the only great question and the only truly national question before the people today.

For forty years thousands of

EXPERIENCES IN ARMY

During His 12 Years Service, Mac Donald Had Some Exciting Times.

HAS SIXTEEN BULLET WOUNDS.

Because of Injuries Received He Was Retired and Will Get a Pension in all Probability.

Bronzed almost to a coppery hue by exposure to tropical suns and the piercing blasts of Alaskan winds, Martin B. MacDonald, a native Plainfielder, returned to the city Wednesday after an absence of twelve years during which time he served Uncle Sam as a member of the Thirty-second, regular, light artillery. The narration of some of the stirring adventures he encountered during his long term resembles stories by Harding Davis, Jack London and other writers of vigorous fiction. Mr. MacDonald's soldiering was mostly in Cuba and the Philippines with odd stays at Fort Sill, Alaska; the Presidio, San Francisco, and Monterey, Cal. As a side experience to army life he was caught in the Frisco earthquake and carries sixteen bullet wounds as mementoes of Cuban and Filipino marksmanship. Because of injuries he was retired from service last April and the authorities at Washington are considering his application for a pension.

MacDonald is the son of John MacDonald, who lived for many years on Mountain avenue and later on Terrill road, but who now resides in Garwood. He first enlisted on May 23, 1898, at Fort Slocum, New York, and was sent to Cuba. His regiment was in the thickest of several of the hardest-fought battles of the Spanish-American war but the Plainfielder emerged with only two flesh wounds caused by bullets and a bad barbing that he received in a charge on a barricade. When peace was declared he was transferred to Fort Sill and had just gotten accustomed to the Alaskan climate conditions and dreariness when his regiment was sent to the Philippines. There he remained for six years and the fact that he is alive today is due more to good luck than management.

During his service in these possessions MacDonald underwent all the sufferings and privations that make war exactly what General Sherman said it was. Weary marches on hard ration, sleeping on the rain soaked ground and tortures by huge gnats and biting flies were mere bagatelles. The men were kept too busy dodging the enemies' bullets and tropical fever germs to give anything else any more than passing consideration. On one occasion the Thirty-second was inveigled into a swamp where the men sank to their arm-pits and were then subjected to a merciless storm of leaden missiles. Scores pitched forward and sank beneath the surface of the black mud. MacDonald was one of the more fortunate ones to be extricated alive.

While the swamp held him prisoner he was hit by bullets six times and was more dead than alive when removed to the hospital tent. MacDonald is now minus a couple of ribs on the left side where the surgeons did a lot of patching up.

Finishing his second enlistment in 1906, he decided that he had had enough of the fighting game and made up his mind to return home. A transport took him to San Francisco, where he bought a ticket for New York intending to start two days later. His plans went bitter-skelter the next morning as the big earthquake demolished the hotel he was in and turned him into the debris-laden street sans clothing, sans money and sans ticket. He figured the best way to get food and lodging was to re-enlist and the thought was as good as the deed. He made application at the Presido, was quickly accepted and a few hours later was doing ticket duty in the streets of the stricken city.

When order was restored from chaos in San Francisco, the Plainfielder was sent back to the Philippines and there he remained until shortly before his discharge early in the present spring. Part of his last days as a soldier were passed in southern California and it gave him an excellent opportunity to observe the workings of the "yellow peril," of which Eastern people hear a great deal, but know very little.

MacDonald declares that one-fourth of the working population along the Pacific coast is Japanese and Chinese and that they are leading every branch of business and labor. He pays tribute to the Japs by asserting they are the smartest race in the world, but declares that their aptitude is what is going to hasten an open breach between America and Asiatics within the near future. "I can earn more almost any trade or business in a year and will work for half the wages paid white men.

"I can state for a positive fact," said the narrator, "that because of this Jap and Chinese invasion industrial affairs in San Francisco today are in a most deplorable condition. There are fully 20,000 white men walking the streets because the little brown fellows and the coolies are working for smaller pay."

MacDonald stated it seemed odd that all the time he was away, outside of Cuba, he met only one Plainfielder. This was Martin Kane, a former bartender, who he ran across in Pekin, China, four years ago as he was on his way home from the island. Kane was then working in the office of the American ambassador and appeared to be enjoying the best of health.

H. C. KREBS ADDRESSED WARREN TWP. GRADUATES

The commencement exercises of the public schools of Warren township were held at the Mt. Bethel church Wednesday being largely attended by children, parents and friends. The principal address of the evening was delivered by Superintendent H. C. Krebs, of the borough schools, who spoke on the topic, "Education." He said that it was the duty of the parents to give their children all that was possible during the early days of the children, emphasizing it as a valuable asset. Edmund E. Sage, president of the Board of Education, also made an address.

The program was as follows:

Invocation, Rev. Peter Gibb; recitation, "Lady Wentworth," Sarah Elizabeth Bornmann; class history, Martha Elizabeth Betzold; oration, "Speech of Regulus," Walter Jacob Koechlein; recitation, "A Second Trial," Bertha Louise Cooper; oration, James Sides; oration, Andrew Haye; president's address, John Edward Betpoid; presentation of diplomas, Prof. H. C. Krebs; address, Edmund E. Sage; address, Prof. H. C. Krebs; class song, class '10; benediction, Rev. Peter Gibbs.

The graduates and their addresses are as follows:

Mt. Bethel, Erich Walberg, Andrew Haye; Mountain View, John Betzold, Martha Betzold; Warrenville, Sarah Bornmann, Kathryn Reed, Edith Cooper, Lillian Williams; Springdale, Janet Sides, Walter Koechlein, Bertha Kirch; South Stirling, Lois Peck.

THE VALUE OF BOOKS.

Books as containing the finest records of human wit, must always enter into our notion of culture. The best heads that ever existed—Plato, Bacon, Dante, Goethe, Milton—were well-read, universally educated men and quite too wise to under value letters. Their opinion has weight, because they had means of knowing the opposite opinion.

We look that a great man should be a good feeder, or, in proportion to the spontaneous power, should be the assimilating power. Good criticism is very rare and always precious. I am always happy to meet persons who perceive the transcendent superiority of Shakespeare over all other writers. I like people who like Plato. Because this love does not consist of self-conceit.

Books are good only as far as a boy is ready for them. He sometimes gets ready very slowly. You send your child to the schoolmaster, but 'tis the schoolboys who educate him. You send him to the Latin class, but much of his tuition comes, on his way to school, from the shop windows. You like the strict rules and long terms; and he finds his best leading in a byway of his own, and refuses any companion but of his choosing.

Schumann-Heink Recital.

The Musical Club take great pleasure in announcing a recital by the great contralto, Madame Ernestine Schumann-Heink, to be given on Friday evening, December 2, next, in the High School auditorium. Mme. Schuman-Heink needs no introduction to any public. Her wonderful voice has a world wide reputation as a charm of manner makes her a favorite everywhere. Plainfield is very highly favored in having the opportunity to her such a great artist.

Hill Climbing Contest July 9.

Under the auspices of the American Automobile Association the Plainfield Automobile Club will hold a hill climbing contest on Johnston's Drive on Saturday, July 9. Permission has been obtained from the North Plainfield Township Committee for the affair, also for practice climbs on the three preceding days, July 6, 7 and 8, from 9 o'clock in the morning to 3 in the afternoon. The course is seven-eights of a mile long.

Certainly Not.

Church—New York is a great old town, isn't it?

Gotham—What now?

"Why, neither Mayor Gaynor nor the Giants could keep New York 'dry' the first three days of the week!"—Yonkers Statesman.

HOME FOR AGED WOMEN

Catharine Webster's Bequest to Be Used for Old Ladies Institution.

TO FORM A CORPORATION.

A Meeting to Be Held on Tuesday, June 21, to Elect the Officers and Directors for the Home.

At a meeting held at the office of John Van Winkle Thursday for the purpose of forming a corporation to carry out the provisions of the will of the late Catharine Webster, preliminary steps were taken to that end. The will provides for the establishment through such a corporation of a home for aged women and the corporate name will be Plainfield Old Ladies' Home.

Those present at the meeting and who will act as incorporators are the following: Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, William J. Buttfield, Charles E. Vail, Charles J. Fisk, Clarence B. Vail, George D. Hallock and Horace G. Phillips. At the meeting will be held on Tuesday, June 21, to complete the incorporation and elect a board of directors.

Miss Webster, at the time of her death about three years ago, was the oldest member of the Plainfield meeting of the Religious Society of Friends, and who always was active in the work of the society. She was a remarkable woman for her age in many respects, having frequently made a pleasure trip to and from California alone. She delighted in travel and was of a very observing nature. She was a pleasing conversationalist and possessed strong descriptive powers of mind.

The home to be established for aged women is the old homestead at East Second and Church streets, according to Miss Webster's will, and it is expected that those who have been chosen as incorporators will soon plan to carry out the provisions of the will.

BENEVOLENT BAND'S ANNUAL LAWN PARTY

Under the auspices of the Benevolent Band of The King's Daughters, of which Mrs. Frank Sprague Martin is the president, a successful garden party was held Thursday afternoon on the handsome and spacious lawn of Mrs. Stephen A. Ginna on Watchung avenue. The lawn was attractively arranged with booths and tables, the colors of the order being used with good effect.

Among the things offered for sale were cake, fancy and useful articles, aprons, flowers, ice cream, lemonade and fancy baskets. The sale was most successful, about $145 being realized by the women. The heads of the various committees in charge were as follows:

Fancy articles, Mrs. L. R. Hopton; ice cream, Mrs. W. L. C. Gleaney; useful articles, Mrs. F. V. D. Jones, Mrs. E. B. Shoemaker; candy, Mrs. E. E. Parvin; aprons, Mrs. Lewis Miller, Mrs. H. J. Cochran; cake, Mrs. E. F. Craft and Miss Mary L. Storrs; flowers, Mrs. Eva Browne; baskets, Miss Katherine Browne; lemonade, Mrs. Josiah Browne and Mrs. Henry Lansley. Aside from the sale, the social features were greatly enjoyed by the large number of patrons present.

SOMERSET COUNCIL IS NINETEEN YEARS OLD

Somerset Council, No. 104, Jr. O. U. A. M., celebrated its nineteenth anniversary Friday night. The lodge room was taxed to its capacity there being representatives present from Franklin, Plainfield and Benevolent councils.

During the evening addresses were made by State Vice Councilor Lyle Rue, State Deputy Clunn, Rev. Ora Jerome Shoop and Rev. C. S. Kemble. The program also included mandolin and guitar selections by William and Edward Stewart, piano selections by Gus Meigner and vocal selections by George Watt.

The present membership of Somerset council is 396 and the lodge is in a fluorishing condition and one of the most active councils in the State.

Brass Kettle Inn to Open.

The Brass Kettle Inn, on the Springfield road, corner of Glenside avenue, will be opened tomorrow as a first class chop house and tea room. Beefsteak and mushroom dinners a specialty. Finest cusine.

Club Run on June 23.

The club run of the Plainfield Automobile Club to Princeton, has been changed from June 16 to June 23, starting from the Park Club at 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

REV. AND MRS. MATHIEWS THIRTEEN YEARS MARRIED

The thirteenth wedding anniversary of Rev. and Mrs. Franklin K. Mathiews was celebrated pleasantly Thursday at the Baptist church parsonage, Scotch Plains, when a large number of the congregation gathered to offer congratulations. The parsonage was filled with guests and the evening was given up to genuine sociability. During the festivities two handsome cut-glass dishes were presented to Mrs. Mathiews on behalf of the congregation. Refreshments were served during the evening.

Mr. Mathiews has been pastor of the Scotch Plains Baptist church eighteen months and has been successful in his work. He came here from the South, his pastorate previous to that being at Ridgewood. He is beloved by his people both as pastor and preacher. Aside from his pastoral work, Mr. Mathiews finds time to contribute interesting articles to religious periodicals. Mrs. Mathiews is also highly esteemed by the members of the church as a coworker with her husband.

WESTFIELD'S SCHOOL ELECTION WAS WARM

The citizens of Westfield at a school election, Thursday, carried the proposition to build an eight or ten-room addition to the Washington School, set against the one to purchase a site on Mountain avenue and erect a new building at a cost of $125,000. The proposition which was carried calls for an expense of $65,000.

The election was one of the most exciting in the history of the town. The polls opened at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and it was 11:30 o'clock last night when the votes were counted and the result announced.

The Board of Education, composed of nine members, was divided on the propositions, six being in favor of building a new school on Mountain avenue and three favoring the building of an addition to the Washington School. Mr. Merrill was the leader of the majority members, and Edward F. Low led the minority forces. The leaders spared no expense in waging a campaign, great quantities of literature being scattered broadcast. The Mountain avenue site was called the "dump" by the opponents to the proposition, and circulars headed "Dump the Dump" was used with good effect throughout the town and made the slogan of the battle.

There was in all 1,350 votes cast, of which number 686 were for the proposition to build an addition to the Washington school; 340 were in favor of the Mountain avenue plan, while 322 votes were cast against both propositions.

BAD YOUNG NEGRO HELD FOR THE GRAND JURY

Edward Peterson, a sixteen-year-old colored boy, was held under $100 bonds Friday morning by City Judge William N. Runyon for the action of the grand jury on a charge of entering and larceny. Richard Kea, of 648 South Second street, was the complainant.

Peterson, who has an unenviable record, lives in the same house with Kea and yesterday while Kea was away and Peterson alone in the house the later unlocked Kea's apartments and stole a revolver valued at $5. When Kea returned home he noticed that someone had been ransacking the apartment and he notified the police. It did not take Detective Sergeant Flynn long to make up his mind as to the thief and he nabbed Peterson and found the revolver on him.

Since he was ten years old Peterson has been a bother to the police. He was first arrested on June 2, 1905, for creating a disturbance and was found guilty of disorderly conduct for which he was fined $5. The fine was afterwards remitted. On January 8, 1908, he was convicted of larceny; July 10, 1907, robbery; January and May, 1909, he was arrested twice, once for gambling and once for fighting, and again on October 3, last year, for disorderly conduct. With this record to go by the chances are that Peterson will be placed in an institution where he will be harmless for some time to come.

"The judge looks remarkably cheerful."

"He's having the time of his life."

"What's he doing?"

"Visiting all the doubtful plays and moving picture shows. He's the official censor, you know."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"When a woman marries and then divorces her husband inside of a week what would you call it?"

"Taking his name in vain."—Princeton Tiger.

LITTLE FOLKS ENTERTAIN

Under Miss Bullock's Direction, the Youngsters Give a Performance.

FUN FOR THE CHILDREN.

And for the Grown-ups too, for the Evening's Affair Made Them Long to Be Young Again.

If the audience at the Franklin School entertainment last night enjoyed themselves half as much as the little folks who participated, Miss Noel J. Bullock, the principal, and her associates responsible for the perfection shown by the children, may feel repaid. It was a select audience, composed of those who had children in the performance, those who wished their children were taking part, and those who simply wished they had children if they could be as dainty and wide-awake as the little ones in costumes on the stage. And the audience was always appreciative of the children—even when they belonged to other folks, which unfortunately is not always the case.

From opening chorus to grand finale and flash light picture the work was done with a snap and go which made it real fun for the children and the more often real funny for the onlookers. Little folks are so much nearer nature than their elders that it seemed wholly natural to hear them sing of lillies, buttercups, and hollyhocks, and daintily appropriate costuming added much to the beauty of the changing pictures. It was not the best of weather for forget-me-nots and pansies. One or two of the little flowers failed to blossom, but the fact seemed to take nothing from the real enjoyment of those who sang and danced through their several parts, to leave the stage amid rounds of well merited applause.

The boys could sing—and sing heartily, and if the little girls beat them at this they more than make up for it in the enthusiasm of their dancing. There was more than one bald head in the audience who would have changed places with anyone of the little lads—and thrown his bank account in to boot—just for a grandiose or a busy bee once more.

Several of the children gave piano solos, and these were rendered with an accuracy and expression truly remarkable in such young performers. Miss Pearle V. Knapp was busy most of the evening playing marches and accompaniments, and the success of the program was due in no small degree to the care she exercised in taking time from the children as they danced or sung. Without exception the little people did excellent work, showing the result of careful training. The affair was altogether enjoyable, and if there was a note of pathos anywhere it could have been found in the heart of the older men of the audience who longed—last night at least—to be a bumble bee or a grasshopper, and play once more among the flowers.

STATE S.S. CONVENTION MAY TAKE PLACE HERE

The question of extending an invitation to the State Sunday School Association to meet here in 1911 was considered at some length at a meeting of the Plainfield Ministers' association, held at the Crescent day afternoon. The matter was laid Avenue Presbyterian church Thursbefore the ministers by Rev. Samuel D. Price, representing the State association. The majority were in favor of the proposition, but felt that a conference should first be held with the superintendents of the Sunday schools before taking definite action.

Such a conference has been called for Monday night at the Y. M. C. A. when it will be decided whether to extend the invitation. Mr. Price explained very fully the scope and plan of such a gathering, stating that Plainfielders would be called upon to provide free entertainment for a very few visitors, the majority standing the expense themselves.

It was further explained by Mr. Price that the State association provides a good program, including addresses of the most prominent Christian workers obtainable and such gatherings are always of great benefit, he said, to a community and its Sunday schools. The session lasts about two days and a half. The association has received an invitation to go to Trenton in 1912, and the 1911 date is still open.

Rolled Oat Gems.

One and one-half cups bread flour, half cup cold, cooked rolled oats, one tablespoon butter, one heaping tablespoon sugar, quarter yeast cake dissolved in half cup tepid water, one teaspoon salt. Mix butter, sugar, salt and dissolve yeast cake with the flour. Then add the oatmeal. Set in a warm place and make in the morning. This quantity makes a dozen gems.

HOSPITAL MEMORIAL TO HAROLD POMEROY

Impressive ceremonies marked the dedication of the Alfonzo Rockwell Cluett Foundation Building of Pawling School, New York, yesterday. Rt. Rev. Dr. P. Gray, bishop of Florida, Rt. Rev. Dr. Harding, bishop of Washington, and Henry Pratt Judson, president of the University of Chicago, were present. The building dedicated yesterday was the gift of George Bywater Cluett, of Troy, who gave $150,000 for its erection in memory of his son, Alfonzo Rockwell Cluett, who was a pupil of Dr. Gamage, the headmaster of the school.

Following fast upon the Cluett Foundation will be a chapel, the gift of George D. Crops, president of the alumni association. Then will follow a hospital, which will be built by Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Pomeroy, of Park place, this city, in memory of Mrs. Pomeroy's son, Harold Lawrence Malford, who died in February last.

THEY WOULD CHANGE ATTORNEY'S OATH

The twelfth annual meeting of the New Jersey Bar Association will be held at the Hotel Chelsea, Atlantic City, on Friday and Saturday, June 17 and 18, and promises to be of unusual interest.

Among the matters to be taken up will be the recommendation of the committee on ethics and grievances that a statute be passed regulating lawyers' contingent fees and that the oath of attorneys in use in the State of Washington be adopted. This oath is as follows:

I do solemnly swear:

I will support the constitution of the United States and the constitution of the State of New Jersey;

I will maintain the respect due to courts of justice and judicial officers;

I will not counsel or maintain any suit or proceeding which shall appear to me to be unjust, nor any defense except such as I believe to be honestly debatable under the law of the land;

I will employ for the purpose of maintaining the causes confided to me such means only as are consistent with truth and honor and will never seek to mislead the judge or jury by any artifice or false statement of fact or law;

I will maintain the confidence and preserve inviolate the secrets of my client and will accept no compensation in connection with his business except from him or with his knowledge and approval;

I will abstain from all offensive personality and advance no fact prejudicial to the honor or reputation of a party or witness, unless required by the justice of the cause with which I am charged;

I will reject from my consideration personal to myself the cause of the defenseless or oppressed or delay any man's cause for lucre or malice. So help me God.

This oath, if adopted, will have to be sworn to by every member of the association. The canons of professional ethics, which will be submitted to the association, have been adopted by the American Bar Association and comprise about fourteen printed pages in pamphlet form. They touch upon most things pertaining to the legal practice, and are intended to maintain a high professional standard among the lawyers.

STATE MILITIA TO ACT FOR NATIONAL G. A. R.

An entire company of State militiamen will probably be at Atlantic City during the coming encampment of the G. A. R. at Atlantic City, if plans of the law and order committee are carried out. While no definite arrangements have been made it is said by a member of the committee that a discussion of ways and means had brought out the fact that it would be impossible to get enough men in the city to properly guard the line of the parade which will be a feature of the meet.

"We have only so many policemen at our disposal," he stated, "and the number is far from adequate. We had counted on having the Morris Guards of Company L help out along this line, but the former organization, I believe, has been unable to promise any assistance. It being impossible for their members to get out on that day. Company L have no reports of, but imagine that they are in the same boat, too busy to help.

"We first contemplated swearing in extra men as deputies, but these would be ununiformed and unorganized and for the same money, if not less, we can have a company of militiamen here. They would come as such, it being a purely personal trip on their parts, but if we paid their expenses I am sure that we could easily have them here, as the occasion will be one which they will all like to witness. Nothing definite has been decided, but we will take the matter up shortly and see what can be done."

Constitutionalism Ads Pay.

SLAYER GETS 30 YEARS

Judge Parker Gives Buckley Maximum for Second Degree Murder.

MERCY IS SHOWN BY JURY.

Alvah A. Clark's Plea for Leniency, Alleging that Young Criminal is in Poor Health, Proves Unavailing.

In the Somerset County Court at Somerville Saturday, John Vincent Buckley, who on April 21 shot and killed Mrs. Frederick J. Covely, of the borough, was sentenced by Judge Parker to serve thirty years at hard labor in State prison. This is the maximum penalty for murder in the second degree but it carries with it a reward of one day off in six for good behaviour, which means that he may regain his freedom in 1921. The youthful slayer received the verdict without so much as the quiver of an eyelash and nodded pleasantly to several acquaintances as he was led back to his cell in the county jail. He will be taken to Trenton Monday morning by Sheriff Koen to begin his long term.

Robert Newton Crane, who was associated with Alvah A. Clark in the defense of Buckley at his trial, was not in court when the prisoner was arraigned for sentence and the plea in his behalf was made by the senior member of the counsel. Mr. Clark asserted that since his conviction Buckley had been examined by physicians and that in their opinion his health is seriously impaired. For that reason, he argued, the ends of justice would be met if a lesser sentence than the maximum penalty were imposed. The chances are, Mr. Clark said, deprivation of air and sunshine would cause the boy his life within a few years. He also emphasized the fact that his client is but twenty years old and he was led into temptation by a woman much older than himself.

In referring to the counsel's plea and in passing sentence Judge Parker said:

"Buckley, this is a painful duty the court has to perform, but in the opinion of myself and my associate, Judge Case, the jury showed you all the leniency you are entitled to when it returned a verdict of second degree murder instead of first. I believe it did not go far enough as your crime was deliberate and premeditated. The fact that you carried a pistol around with you, to my mind, is conclusive proof. Your youthfulness in all probability had much to do with the lesser verdict as no especial credence can be given your story of self defense. You probably intended to kill the deceased and yourself, too, but as you failed in the suicide the State demands that you pay the penalty for your crime. I realize that the State prison is not the best place in the world for air and sunshine, but until the present condition of affairs is remedied prisoners have to take the accommodations. If your health is impaired, as Mr. Clark has stated, I am quite sure it is due more to your own habits rather than natural causes; therefore I impose the full penalty for murder in the second degree—thirty years in the State prison at hard labor."

None of Buckley's relatives was in court, but nearly a score of friends, including several borough young women, were interested spectators.

To Cook Cabbage.

To have good cabbage without bacon put in your granite pot a large kitchen spoonful of lard and let it come to a hard boil. Having cut your cabbage as for slaw, only much coarser, drop it into the hot lard right from the water. Sprinkle a generous tablespoonful of salt and a small quantity of cayenne pepper through the cabbage, adding only two tablespoonfuls of water. Cook with a lid, only removing it occasionally to stir the cabbage and to see that the salt has drawn sufficient liquor to prevent burning. When done, it is superior to old-time boiled cabbage and requires much less time to prepare. Cooking with a close-fitting lid does the work. Never allow cabbage to cook until it is red, because this not only injures the flavor, but makes the vegetable indigestible.

Will Make Commencement Address.

Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will deliver the address at the annual commencement exercises of the Bernardsville High School, on Thursday night, June 16. On Friday night, June 17, he will give his lecture on "Palestine," at the Presbyterian church, Dunellen.

Mrs. Youngwife—What have you ever done to prove your love for me?

Mr. Youngwife—Darling, I've contracted a lovely case of chronic dyspepsia!—London Opinion.

He Was Easy.

Husband—Now you are in a good humor, Mary, tell me why you don't blow up the servants as you do me?

Wife—Oh! there's a very good

The Constitutionalist.

AN INDEPENDENT WEEKLY.

A. E. PURCE, Editor and Proprietor.

Terms: $2.00 per year.

Plainfield, N. J., June 16, 1910.

MACHINISTS ENCOURAGED

Officers of International Association Address Local Union Members.

THE SITUATION IS REVIEWED.

Hugh V. Reilly, the Business Agent, J. J. Keppler, the Vice-president, Are the Speakers at the Meeting.

An enthusiastic meeting of the local members of the International Association of Machinists was held at Eagle Hall Monday, when addresses were made by Hugh V. Reilly, business agent of District No. 47, of the association, and J. J. Keppler, international vice-president of the association. In view of the recent success of the printing press machinists here in securing an increase in wages, there was renewed interest and a large attendance of the machinists.

After a few words by Mr. Reilly, in which he congratulated the machinists for their united support and co-operation in the recent strike, which brought about a ten per cent. increase in wages, Mr. Keppler addressed the men at some length. He reviewed the present conditions in the trade, telling them of the progress being made in the many departments. He said that at Yonkers, N. Y., machinists are receiving as high as $5.80 a day for an eight-hour day, while the helpers receive as high as $3.40 a day. "This" said Mr. Keppler, "indicates the success being attained by the men in the trade."

Mr. Keppler also touched on the general movement in favor of an eight-hour day throughout the country and the efforts being made to get the tool industry into line. In this connection he referred to the Pond Machine Tool Works in this city, and its allied interests, the Bement, Niles Co., of Hamilton, Ohio, and the Pratt, Whitney Company, of Hartford, Conn., as well as other tool companies throughout the country. Special efforts are now being made to thoroughly organize the men in the tool industry and when this is accomplished they will make a united demand for a substantial increase with an eight-hour day.

Mr. Keppler is constantly in touch with every branch of the machinists trade and he brought the latest information as to conditions in all parts of the country. The key-note of the hour is to thoroughly organize. He said that his experience had taught him that greater concessions were possible from the so-called trusts and combinations than the independent manufacturer, and when a strong organization is effected he had no doubt whatever as to the result of the demands.

After Mr. Keppler's talk a recess was taken during which a number of machinists joined the local branch of the organization, while several were reinstated. They were obligated afterwards at a secret session of the association.

ANOTHER PETITION FOR VOTE MACHINE ELECTION

Within the next day or two, a new petition for a special election on the abolition of the voting machine will be filed with City Clerk MacMurray. It is expected that the Common Council will take final action on the matter on Monday night and in all probability, it is reported, an election will be ordered.

The original petition, which was returned to the signers after the city fathers declined to take favorable action, has been amended and now includes the names of some forty per cent. of the voters. This was done because the rules of the Common Council require that a petition must be acted upon within fifteen days of its presentation. The increased number of signatures is merely to show that the people demand such an election.

Festival and Dance.

The second annual mid-summer festival and dance of the Men's Association of the Church of the Heavenly Rest will be held at the church all day, June 23. There will be a baseball game in the afternoon the Women's Guild will hold a sale, the Young People's Society will provide amusements, there will be a musical entertainment by Harry and Vincent Keffer, a spiritualistic seance by Madame Aimes and magical tricks by Prof. Henderson.

MT. ST. MARY'S FLAG DAY

(Continued from page 1.)

time. Within practically recent times we began talking over thousands of miles of wire. Today we fly—indeed only yesterday in this State of New Jersey—faster than the fastest express trains. What are to come to and to see, no one can predict. You leave this institution in an age when nothing is impossible. No one today questions the sanity of a scientific man. In fact the mentality of the human race is so astounding that nothing seems impossible.

The forces making this change are not material. One of the signs of the times is to consider the greatest forces moral forces which make for eternity. In the future, perhaps," he said, "you young women will stand here as the governors of New Jersey or as legislators. In whatever capacity it is, we know that you will acquit yourself well.

"I would rather having a prayiaz man or woman in government than any other kind in life. It runs hand in hand with patriotism. What is a nation, if that nation doesn't command love from the man who follows its flag? Those men," he said, pointing to the G. A. R. veterans, "didn't go to war for money, a meagre $13 a month—it was for the glory of the republic that they loved. To them we are indebted for the fact that our flag is proudly floating today. Let us emulate this patriotism. We will have no Hessians, no soldiers who fight for money; but we will have men, like those who fought under Washington in these Watchung mountains. Our heritage from our forefathers is that this nation should be the greatest nation in the world. The only thing to do, is to be loyal to that flag. May that flag float over our children, and our childrens' children, yet to be born."

In prefacing his speech the governor said that the location of Mt. St. Mary's College was ideal. "To get a better one, one must go to Switzerland." To the local G. A. R. he paid a tribute, saying that it was due to them that we have a flag to raise. He then touched on New Jersey. "We should be proud of New Jersey," he said, "because of its population which is great in comparison with the size of the State; because of its scenic and educational advantages and because of the average intelligence and character of its people. We are conservative and yet progressive. There are no lines in which you can view New Jersey, but that you will be proud of the fact that you are a Jerseyman and a part of the State."

An impressive pantomime, "The American Flag," was then given by the undergraduates who were seated on a small grandstand. Miss F. Martin was the spokesman while her collegemates went through the movements typical of what she recited. A final salute to "Old Glory" was a peculiarly apt introduction to Captain Dorgan, of New York, who spoke on "Woman Under the Flag." He said in part:

"It is a grand thing to see women drinking lessons of patriotism, love and ardor from the chief magistrate of the State," he declared. "We know mans' place under the flag, and on the State—what is womans'? What is womans' place In the dark days of peril, to foster patriotism, even beyond the bounds of home; nursing soldiers stricken under the flag. This is a vast field, and a noble one. It is more. Men look to women in the time of a struggle and conflict, and in the time of temptation and repose. From our mothers we learn our first lessons. To woman has been given the privilege to teach and mould the character of the men of the republic.

"It is of the utmost importance that woman should realize her position and power; and all having to do with her education should likewise recognize it. She should realize that the time of trial of a nation is never past. Women—whether they have the ballot or not—have been of the greatest influence in social movements and have been the most active in such movements. Such training of women for a recognition of her position is to be had in higher institutions of learning; and hence it is of the utmost importance to the State and the church to encourage such institutions. In the hands of young women is the formation of our future citizenship—they can make it efficient and virtuous."

Miss Annabelle Jones then raised the college flag while her classmates in the graduating class, six young women, gathered about her. Bishop McFaul was then introduced. He said in part:

"The hand that rocks the cradle," rules the world. The lessons laid down for young women in the speeches of Governor Fort and Hon. John Green, will, I hope," he said, "bear fruit in the hearts of young husbands. Their influence is potent; and it is peculiarly appropriate that the higher institutions are meeting their obligation in this respect. The aim of this institution is to make learned, pious, and above all, virtuous women. The nation not founded on religion and morals can not endure. That flag," he said, pointing to the emblem that had been raised, "unites in itself the achievements of science and the patriotism of a great nation. Hand it down to your successors uncontaminated and untarnished—forever."

In the introduction to his remarks Bishop McFaul apologized for his inability to make a long speech owing to the fact that he had just gotten out of bed where he was confined by illness. He declared that it was a great privilege to be present, and suggested that the person who selected the flag pole, on which the flag was raised had been troubled with some affection of the eye. "May it straightened out in the permanent one that succeeds it," he added, amid a burst of applause.

The exercises were formally concluded by maneouvers by Company K, under General Collins, and by Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R. The assembled audience then rose and sang the Star Spangled Banner, which completed the exercises of the day.

Following the formal exercises, a light supper was served to the distinguished guests present, including members of the clergy, speakers and newspaper men.

Sir David Kenney, a member of the Papal household, who gave the site for the college buildings, was a prominent spectator at the exercises.

CITY-WATCHING SERVICE

Automobile Bus to Run Between Here and Village Begunning Next Week.

BETTER POLICE PROTECTION.

North Plainfield Township Committee Also Arranges to Keep Informed on Doings of Public Bodies.

The Improvement Society of North Plainfield Township at its meeting in Texier's Mill, Watchung, Monday night, decided to introduce an automobile service between Watchung and Plainfield; also authorized the president, W. de la R. Anderson, to appoint a committee, one or more of which shall attend every meeting of the township committe, the Borough Council and Board of Freeholders, while Dr. M. P. E. Grossmann, Charles E. Neier and Charles C. Wheeler were appointed a committee to regulate the automobile hill climbing contest on Johnston's Drive on July 9.

The meeting was largely attended by members of the society and others interested in the work being undertaken for the betterment of township conditions.

The schedule for the automobile service will be ready the early part of next week. An auto carrying about six passengers will be used first and if the conditions warrant it a larger machine will be secured later. Edward Canning, of Watchung, will operate the car.

Regarding the proposed hill climbing contest, the society intends to protect the interest of the residents and those who constantly make use of Johnston's Drive, and regulate the trials and contest.

President Anderson was authorized to appoint a committee of five, one or more members of which shall make it their business to attend all meetings of the town committee, the Borough Council and Board of Freeholders to keep fully informed as to the proceedings of those bodies.

The committee on police recommended that the town committee be instructed to appoint three deputies to act as policemen, one in each section, Watchung, Scotch Plains and Greenbrook.

The committee appointed on the Watchung avenue and Somerset street road matter, reported that the borough authorities had faithfully promised to extend Watchung avenue at once to Johnston's Drive. Other committees reported progress.

After the business of the evening was disposed of those present enjoyed a dance. Among those who joined in the festivities were Mr. and Mrs. Francis DeLacy Hyde, Dr. and Mrs. M. P. E. Grossmann, Dr. and Mrs. Richard Moldenke, Mr. and Mrs. George Mobus, Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Wheeler, Mr. and Mrs. George Smith, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. W. de la R. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. French, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. A. Leuresen, Mr. and Mrs. William Titus, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Neier, Andrew Wilson and many others.

Memoranda.

Professor—It was by the inscription on this colasal obelisk that was succeeded in positively identifying the mummy of Remeses the First.

Uncle Henry—I suppose all that Chinese rigamarole on there was his memoranda of the size of his socks, his watch number, whom to notify in case of death and such truck.—Puck.

All Games Postponed.

Owing to the wet condition of the grounds and the inclement weather none of the local ball games scheduled for Saturday afternoon took place.

JUNK DEALERS' PERMITS

Licenses Issued by the City Are Not Good in the Borough.

THE RECORDER'S DECISION.

Louis Levine Arrested as He Attempted to Make Sale in North Plainfield and He is Adjudged Guilty.

A decision relative to buying and selling in this city and the borough, was handed down by Recorder Charles M. Dolliver in the borough police court Tuesday. The case involved a peculiar question, as to whether a junk dealer can negotiate a sale in this city and then have it recognized in the borough as a city contract, without impairing it.

A short while ago Louis Levine, a junk dealer, met Eugene M. Laing, of this city, and arranged for the sale of some junk for the silk mill. Levine then went over into the borough, where he got the junk, and received his money—a sum slightly over nine dollars. He was promptly arrested by Chief Weiss for doing junk business in the borough without a license. When the case came up before Recorder Dolliver he put it off for a week. This morning the decision was handed down that Levine was guilty of breaking a borough ordinance and was accordingly fined ten dollars. Samuel S. Swackhamer, counsel for Levine maintained that the deal was completed in this city, and that the delivery only was made in the borough which Levine, carrying a city license had a perfect right to do. To further his claim he submitted the case of the late Tunis Cary vs. the borough of North Plainfield, which was identical in its nature. This case was carried up to the Supreme Court, where a favorable decision to Cary was rendered.

Justice Dolliver, however, showed that another junk dealer had negotiated with Levine, haling for the sale of the junk, after Levine and that when the delivery was made and the money paid, he was guilty on the ground of executing an agreement to sell in the borough. The previous negotiation in this city was thus shown to be a mere conditional agreement, and fresh negotiations were entered into when the junk was delivered over to Levine.

The decision in the case reads in part:

"The facts shown are that the defendant and Mr. Laing met in the city of Plainfield on two occasions and talked over the matter of selling the junk. Arrangement was made to meet at the mill in North Plainfield and there weigh the junk and complete the sale. The authorities hold that where goods are to be weighed or measured title does not pass until actual delivery unless it is clearly shown that parties intended otherwise. It is the opinion of this court that the meetings in the city of Plainfield in which the contemplated sale was discussed price per 100 pounds agreed upon, and arrangement made when parties would meet and weigh the scrap iron, that these facts simply show an executory agreement to sell, and not a present sale. That the actual sale took place in the borough at the Watchung Silk Mill when the iron was weighed, defendant paid Mr. Laing, and took away his junk. This is sufficient carrying on of the junk business to require a license and defendant is therefore guilty of the violation of the ordinance and for such violation a fine of $10 is imposed."

GOVERNORS CHOSEN FOR THE HUNT CLUB

Governors were elected and reports for the year received at the annual meeting of the Watchung Hunt Club Monday. Officers will be chosen at a meeting to be held within a week or ten days. The reports for the year showed the club to be in fine condition, financially and otherwise, and the new board is planning many entertainments for the summer season as well as the early fall, when the hunting will be started.

The grounds are in god condition for out-of-door sports, such as tennis, etc., and the clubhouse is just now a popular place for entertainments of various sorts.

In the election of governors there were several changes, some of the members who have hitherto not figured in the management being chosen. Those elected are as follows:

Three years—Robert A. Fairbairn, Edwin S. Hooley, Henry L. Finch, Arthur L. Otterson. Two years—William J. Buttfield, C. E. S. Bellows, Thomas R. Van Boskerck, Hart S. Farlee. One year—Rufus C. Finch, C. Wesley Holland and Henry E. Butler.

—Constitutionalist's ads. pay.

HOSPITAL'S HEAD AGAIN

William C. Kinney Re-elected President of Muhlenberg Board.

AT THE ANNUAL MEETING.

Dr. Longbothum Succeeds Dr. Anthony as the House Physician —To Establish Dental Clinic.

Officers were elected, reports received and other important business transacted at the annual meeting of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, held at the Mayor's office, Monday night. The annual reports of officers and committees were read and ordered filed. They will appear in detail in the year book. Dr. Longbothum, of the borough, was appointed house physician at the hospital, succeeding Dr. Anthony. It was decided to establish a dental clinic at the hospital for the coming year.

William C. Kinney.

The bylaws were amended consolidating the managing and the building and grounds committee, to be known in the future as the executive committee. Resolutions appropriate to the retirement of Samuel Huntington, after twenty-nine years of continuous service as a member of the board, were adopted and the printing and press committee was authorized to have the annual reports printed and distributed as usual.

The report of the medical board showed 42 patients remaining on May 1; 59 patients admitted; total number treated, 101; discharged improved, 56; discharged unimproved, 19; died, 7. There were 48 operations and six contagious cases. The total number of dispensary patients treated was 92; daily visits to dispensary, 197; general hospital days for the month, 1,128.

The first meeting of the new board for the year followed the annual session and the members organized by the election of these officers and committees:

President, William C. Kinney; first vice-president, E. H. Ladd; second vice-president, L. K. Hyde; secretary, J. P. Stevens; treasurer, J. E. Erickson.

Executive committee—William C. Kinney J. E. Erickson, Percy H. Stewart, Frank J. Hubbard, Henry L. Hall, E. H. Booth, H. W. Marshall. Later two women will be added to this committee from the Women's Auxiliary Board. Finance committee—George P. Mellick, William L. Saunders, Samuel Townsend, James DeGraff, J. E. Erickson. Printing and Press committee—Leighton Calkins, S. D. Lounsbery. Auditing committee—Charles J. Fisk, H. W. Beebe. Insurance committee—John M. Whiton.

PUPILS PIANO RECITAL WAS CHARMING AFFAIR.

A high degree of skill was manifested by the pupils of Miss Alice Louise Morgan in their piano recital Monday night. Parents and friends gathered to hear the youngsters play, and the universal verdict was creditable to the instruction of Miss Morgan.

Those who took part were: Dorothy Langford, Estella Force, Evelyn Hillman, Marion Mortimer, Herbert Hillman, Dorothy Lyan, Kathryn Clarke, Juan Babcock, Harriet Morgan, Kathryn Stevens, Marian Lyon, Katherine Endress, Wilhelmina Edress, Gladys Waring, Evan Stevens, Vivian Dunn, Madelyn Moy.

Newmiller—Wunderlich.

The announcement of the marriage of Miss Lucy Wunderlich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wunderlich, of Leland avenue, to William Newmiller, of Vine street, which took place June 5, has just been made. The marriage took place at Millington and was performed by Rev. Peter Gobb. For the present Mrs. Newmiller is residing with her mother but will go to housekeeping with her husband when the latter returns from Augusta, Maine, where he has gone to put up a press for the Waltz Scott Press Company.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN IN 'P. REGAN'S TROUBLES'

Patrick Regan, a milkman, believes that a valuable Jersey cow belonging to him which died early Tuesday morning met its death from other than natural causes, and for this reason has engaged a veterinarian to perform a post mortem autopsy. If the animal is found to have died from poisoning, Mr. Regan asserts that he will take the matter into court, as he alleges he believes that some of his neighbors with whom he hasn't always been on the friendliest terms, are not above doing such a thing.

Two years ago Mr. Regan says he figured in a shooting incident when two mysterious shots were fired late at night near his home. The bullets grazed a nearby tree beneath which several young people were sitting, and charges of carelessness were preferred against Regan. The case was settled, but since then Regan hasn't been calling on his neighbors for an evening's chat after supper, and some of the neighbors have been equally unhospitable towards each other. Hence when Mr. Regan's cow, which he says was in perfect health last night when he tethered it for the night, was found dead this morning, Mr. Regan began to look for causes. The cause in this case appears to be in pretty much of a mixup—a sort of needle in the haystack, so to speak, inasmuch as no clues or other satisfactory evidence seems to be available. Still Mr. Regan says he believes that the needle will be found in the haystack of his neighbors' animosity.

The Postal Telegraph.

Edward J. Nally, vice-president and general manager of the Postal Telegraph Cable Co., upon being shown a statement as to whether the Postal Co. was leasing wires to bucket shops, for which the Western Union Telegraph Co. has recently been indicted, said "That is a class of business which the Postal Telegraph Co. has always kept out of. It is a very lucrative branch of the telegraph business, the profits running into hundreds of thousands of dollars annually, but it is not the kind of business which we engage in. Only a short time ago we went over all our numerous wire leases to ascertain whether any of them might possibly be for bucket shop purposes. We found one which was doubtful and we thereupon gave the usual thirty days' notice of cancellation as allowed by the contract and that lease has been cancelled.

I am confident that none of the wires of the Postal Telegraph Cable Co. are used for bucket shop purposes."

"Marty" in Big Golf Tourney.

Among the sixty-five professionals and six amateurs entered for the open championship of the United States Golf Association to be held at the Philadelphia Cricket Club course, Friday and Saturday, is "Marty" O'Loughlin, of the Plainfield Country Club. This will be "Marty's" first appearance in a big match in a long time and he is said to be in fine condition for the tournament. He is paired with A. W. Tillinghast, of Philadelphia, and they are scheduled to start at 9:36 o'clock in the morning.

Constitutionalists' Ads. Pay.

LADIES' HOME TRUSTEES

Directors are Selected and Incorporation Articles are Filed.

FUND APPROXIMATELY $60,000.

Lot to Be Purchased by Catharine E. Webster Estate Executor and an Appeal to Be Made for Building Fund.

Articles of incorporation have been filed at County Clerk James C. Calvert's office in Elizabeth for "The Ladies' Home" and the trustees will elect officers on Tuesday night, June 21. According to the records at Elizabeth Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh is made counsel for the proposed home and the directors chosen for the first year are Mrs. Chapman Fisk, Mrs. Pierre Mali, Mrs. Mary Byrd Corlies, Mrs. Mary S. Myers, Miss Belle Tweedy, Dr. and Mrs. W. Hedges, Percy H. Stewart, William M. Stillman, William J. Buttfield, Charles W. McCutchen, George S. Hallock, Horace G. Phillips, Charles J. Fisk, Clarence B. Vail and Charles E. Vail.

John Van Winkle, executor of the estate of the late Catharine E. Webster, whose will makes possible this much needed institution, will have on hand for the purpose approximately $60,000 for the purposes named by the testratix. He is directed to purchase a lot on which to erect the building and in all probability the will be guided largely by the wishes of the trustees. When title is obtained to the site, it is proposed to make an appeal for contributions for the worthy cause in order to erect the building and it is reliably reported that one-half of the cost of the structure will be defrayed out of the fund while the public will be asked to make up the other half. Miss Webster directed that the old clock in her homestead and other furniture therein be used in the proposed home which is for aged and infirm women.

PARASOLS.

The "high cost of living," so freely discussed and generally deplored, has had no appreciable effect on the demand for luxuries in dress.

Parasols, for instance, are shown in greater variety this year than at any time in the history of this important dress accessory. Not only are the covers made from every possible fabric and color, or combinations of color, but the frames are almost as varied as the covers.

There is more than a suggestion of the Orient about the pagoda parasol, with its curved ribs following the beautiful lines of the roof of a Japanese temple, and the mandarin modeled on the lines of the Chinese fanctary's covering from the sun.

Another novelty is the handkerchief parasol, square in shape, as the name would suggest, and having but four ribs. This gives a particularly soft and pretty effect when closed. The lampshade is still another popular novelty furnished with a descriptive name. In addition to these are seen the oval and all the conventional shapes, with numerous variations.

Constitutionalist ads. pay.

WARREN TOWNSHIP SCHOOLS GRADUATED TWELVE PUPILS

—Photo by W. C. Peck.

Reading from left to right. Upper row—Miss Lucetta Hoffman, teacher of the South Stirling School; Miss Helen Willis, teacher Round Top School; Miss Sara Lerch, teacher of Springdale School; Miss Minnie Gross, teacher Mt. Bethel School; Miss Amanda M. Stine, teacher Warrenville School; Miss Ethel Lewis, teacher Mt. View School; Edmund E. Sage, president Board of Education; Dr. H. C. Krebs, Somerset county superintendent of schools; John Betzold, Walter Koechlein, Andrew Hays, Erik Wallberg.

Lower row—left to right—Kathryn Neetleship Reed, Loi: Eldah Appell Peck, Jane Sides, Martha Elizabeth Betzold, Bertha Edna Kirch, Edith Louise Cooper, Sarah Bornmann, Lillian Henriella Williams.

Friends and relatives of the graduates attended the exercises of the Warren township school Thursday night in large numbers, and the program was one of interest to all. On the platform with the graduates were grouped the members of the school board with Superintendent H. C. Krebs, of the borough. In the rear the pennant, "Climb Tho' the Rocks be Rugged" was suspended, flaunted on each side by a class and a school flag. The two white flags, shown in the picture, are the flags of the Warren Township Circles on the Square, a non-partisan society that is doing much effective work in the township and is greatly interested in the welfare of the schools.

WINNERS AT DOG SHOW

Meadowview, Midlothian, Boreas and Wilmerding Kennels are Lucky.

WEATHER HURT ATTENDANCE.

Great Rivalry for Prizes and a Cracka-Jack Entry List at the Second Annual Bench Show.

Conditions were anything but ideal for the second annual bench show of the Plainfield Kennel Club, held at the horse show grounds, Saturday. A steady drizzle with an occasional shower put a damper on the whole affair. The officers of the club did their best to make the exhibitors, their dogs, as well as patrons comfortable, but they battled against great odds all day. This was especially true as regards the arrangements for serving dinner on the grounds. One thing is certain, the club will profit by its experience and things will be different another year.

Owing to the weather conditions, judging was not started until nearly noon. All the small dogs were taken into the grand stand, where every precaution was taken to prevent them from getting cold. These classes were judged early. The judging in the big tent of the larger dogs was commenced shortly afterwards and the officials were kept busy until after 6 o'clock.

Last year the club had a three point show, while this year it was but a two point exhibition, based on the number of entries. A. C. Wilmerding exhibited the finest breeds of cocker spaniels, winning three special cups and a couple of dozen ribbons. His dogs won the E. L. MacKenzie cup for the best brace of sporting spaniels and the team cup for the best team of sporting spaniels in the show, and the Edmund Rushmore cup for parti-colored cockers.

George H. Parker won the cup for the best brace of Airedales, his contrants being the admiration of all, while he won several ribbons beside. It was a source of great satisfaction that local dogs were worthy competitors of the best entries from all parts of the country in many instances winning over the prize dogs.

The Plainfield dogs, as usual, came off with flying colors, being awarded many rich prizes against a large field of the best dogs in the country. Edmund L. MacKenzie of the Midlothian Kennels was one of the big winners, his brace of deerhounds being judged the best in the show.

Charmion Kennels, George Hooley owner, won both specials with English beagles, his Charmion Lillian winning the special for twelve inch beagles and the one for the best beagle in the show, while in the Maltese terrier class, Mrs. Ralph L. Morrow's Snowball was second to Mrs. Koelin's Dandy Boy, which has never been beaten in a bench show. Mrs. F. S. Moore's Sonney Lad also won high honors, Sonney Boy being its father.

Mrs. Tyler Morse, of New York, received the premier honor with her $10,000 Shepton Hero in the old English sheepdog winner class.

Rich honors were also won by the Meadowview Kennels, Abram G. Hooley, for English setters and pointers; the Boreas Kennels, W. de la R. Anderson, owner, in the winners' classes; while among other local dogs taking prizes were those of C. W. McCutchen, W. J. Buttfield, Charles E. Faber, William Briggs, A. Clinton Wilmerding, Mrs. J. D. Anderson, George H. Parker, Mrs. T. G. Runkle and others. There were many special prizes offered by various clubs throughout the country, and the Plainfield dogs shared generously in the distribution of them. The summaries:

Bloodhounds, bitches. First, Miss Amy L. Bonham's Knox's Kropsie; reserve, Miss Amy L. Bonham's Kennel-Witch.

St. Bernards, dogs. First, Elkwood Kennels' Wiccoppe Chieftian; reserve, Mrs. C. W. McCutchen's Bruce; bitches, first, I. B. Hosford's Ch. Alta Moenlight; reserve, I. B. Hosford's Brunhildalta.

St. Bernards, smooth, dogs. First, Elkwood Kennel's Elkwood's Monarch; reserve, I. B. Hosford's Siegerledalta; bitches, first, Notre Dame Kennel's Alta Felice.

Great Danes, dogs. First, John Buck's Helios V. Wurttemberg; reserve, Edward Bringhurst's Melac of Broughton; bitches, first, C. F. Beyer's Flora V.

New Foundlands, dogs and bitches. First, William W. Week's Carlon.

Russian Wolfhounds, dogs. First, J. Bailey Wilson's Valitri; reserve, Boreas Kennel's Draco of Boress; bitches, first, Boreas Kennel's Ateeka O'Byoak.

Scottish Deerhounds, dogs. First, Midlothian Kennel's Ch. Matchless of Midlothian; reserve, Midlothian Kennel's Midlothian Marksman; bitches, first, Midlothian Kennel's Ch. Mistress of Midlothian.

Greyhounds, dogs. First, F. M. Briggs' Herschel II; bitches, first, F. M. Briggs' Imperial Princess Ermine; reserve, F. M. Briggs' Imperial Princess Romula.

Eskimos, dogs. First, Alfred E. Weller's Emanachaw; bitches, first, Alfred E. Weller's Nellie.

Pointers, dogs. First, Mrs. E. W. Thorckmorton's Ch. Beppo B.; reserve, John A. Staats' Lem II; bitches, first, A. G. Hooley's Lightfield Nan; reserve, W. W. Davenport's Bowding.

English Setters, dogs. First, Meadowview Kennels' Meadowview Glean O'Dawn; reserve, Charles E. Faber's Meadowview Roger Welroy; bitches, first, Meadowview Kennels' Meadowview Wyoming Valley May Bell; reserve, Meadowview Kennels' Meadowview Vassar.

Gordon Setters, dogs and bitches. First, Walter Gummey's Elinor; reserve, Walter Gummey's Aldyth A. Irish setters, dogs. First, L. and S. A. Controt's St. Cloud's Fomanegh; reserve, H. L. Clark, Jr.'s Honest Teddy; bitches, first, S. S. Waters' Midwood Ruby.

Field Spaniels, dogs. First, Brookside Kennels' Ch. Brookside Recruit; bitches, first, J. C. Weeks' Merry Widow.

Cocker Spaniels, dogs (black). First, Miss A. W. Thayer's Ch. Mercyiegs; reserve, Brynwood Kennels' Brynwood Free Lance; any other color, first, Annandale Kennels' Annandale Riot; reserve, Brookside Kennels' Mepal's Eros; bitches, (black), first, Rosecroft Kennels' Ch. Wynwold Omega; reserve Brynwood Kennels' Ch. Brynwood Narida; bitches, any other color, first, Annandale Kennels' Annandale Resolution; reserve, Annandale Kennels' Annandale Rhoda.

Beagles, dogs. First, NaCherland Beagles' Ch. Netherland Casey; reserve, Charmion Kennels' Charmion Thetis; bitches, first, Charmion Kennels' Charmion Lillian; reserve, Charmion Kennels' Rosedale Queen.

Dachshunds dogs. First, Mrs. A. Dase Tainter's Pium West End; reserve, Wyndholm's Kennels' Ch. Maenne N.; bitches, first, Wyndholm's Kennels' Sanda; reserve, Mrs. C. Dare Tainter's Puonperrisckel.

Collies, dogs. First, Richard Rogers' Rogers' Ship; reserve, Mrs. A. R. Conkling's Billesley Blue Boss; bitches, first, John H. Blackwood's Ch. Balla Salla Maid of the Dell; reserve, Imna Kennels' Brandam Blue Bell.

Old English Sheepdogs, dogs. First, Mrs. Tyler Morse's Shepton Hero; reserve, Mrs. Tyler Morse's Handsome Boy. Jr.; bitches, first, Tyler Morse's Nightmare; reserve, Mrs. Tyler Morse's Endcliffe Capriciense.

Chow Chow, dogs. First, Ruddington Kennels' The Lion's Child; reserve, Mrs. David Wagstaff's Black Dragon; bitches, first, China Kennels' Hu Naw of China; reserve, Ruddington Kennels' Lady Hillfken.

Dalmatians, dogs. First, Windy Valley Kennels' Gedney Farm Surprise; reserve, Mrs. C. Halstead Yates' Rockcliffe Firefly, bitches, Mrs. Fay Sigalls' Ch. Lady Hannibal; reserve, J. C. Weeks' Cinders.

Pinschers, dogs. First, Doberman Kennels' Bertel Doberman; reserve, Henry Von Berg's Prince Eitel Doberman; bitches, first, Doberman Kennels' Duchess Chika De Doberman; reserve, Doberman Kennels' Herta Doberman.

Bulldogs, dogs. First, Rockcliff Kennels' Kilburn Magnet; reserve, H. W. Beals' Renwar Farklin, bitches, first, Rockcliff Kennels' Rockcliff Sensation; reserve, A. I. Bright, Jr.'s, Florence Blunder.

Airedale Terriers, dogs. First, A. Albright, Jr.,'s Tintern Royalist; reserve, S. C. Denby's Tanglewold Briar Test; bitches, first, Miss Maude Kennedy's Molly Madcap; reserve, A. Albright, Jr.,'s Baughfell Sceptre.

Bull Terriers, dogs. First, Glenmere Kennels' Glenmere II; reserve, Vinemount Indomitable; reserve, W. S. Pate's Baron Bob; bitches, first, Glenmere Kennels' Bell; reserve, J. D. Foster's Ukipiha Retsof.

French Bulldogs, dogs. First, C. E. Lipscomb's March King; bitches, first, Jules Perond's Schultz Duchess; reserve, A. T. Stopel's Countess Poole.

Boston Terriers, dogs. First, Trimount Kennels' Trimount Duke; reserve, Mrs. George H. Pell's Wappame Delight; bitches, first, A. G. Rohr's Truxton Queen; reserve, Mrs. K. Faulkner's Little Blossom.

Fox Terriers, dogs. First, Dr. E. H. Berendsohn's Warren Workman; reserve, Mrs. Palmer Campbell's Warren P. K.; bitches, first, Mrs. Palmer Campbell's Warren Sput; reserve, Mrs. Palmer Campbell's Warren Speckels.

Fox Terriers, wire haired, dogs. First, A. Albright, Jr.,'s Baughfell Flint; reserve, Alex Wolf-Powell's Endcliffe Pirate II; bitches, first, Alex Wolf-Powell's Sis II; reserve, Alex Wolf-Powell's Yvette.

Irish Terriers, dogs. First, John G. Bates' Blarney Burgomaster; reserve, Willard G. Aborn's Old Town Adair; bitches, first, John G. Bates' Blarney Bell; reserve, Willard G. Aborn's Princess Glo.

Scottish Terriers, dogs. First, A. Albright, Jr.,'s Tickle Im Jock; reserve, James A. Frazier's Dazzler; bitches, first, A. Albright's Jr.,'s Baughfell Jill; reserve, James D. Frazier's Jeanne.

West Highland White Terriers, dogs. First, A. Albright, Jr.,'s Baughfell Tallisker; reserve, Glenemere Kennels' Glenmere Montery; bitches, first, A. Albright, Jr.,'s Baughfell Patrice; reserve, Mrs. Charles Bradley's Wayside Lora.

Welsh Terriers, dogs and bitches. First, F. B. Lord, Jr.,'s Landore Boy; reserve, F. B. Lord, Jr.,'s Longmynd Borderer.

Schipperkes, dogs. First, Thomas Denny's Champion Barker; reserve, Mrs. Geo. Romme's Rector; bitches first, Mrs. George Romme's Tiddles R.

Pomeranians, dogs. First, E. S. Allard's Tip-Toes; bitches, first, Mrs. E. S. Avis' Dainty Betty; reserve, E. S. Allard's Manzalle Fife.

Toy Spaniels, black and tan dogs. First, Mrs. William Sheppard's Ashton Adonis; reserve, Miss Anna H. Quinlan's Adonis; black and tan bitches, first, Mrs. F. Senn's Ch. Sena Senn Island Lass; reserve, Mrs. William Sheppard's Ashton Czarina. Orange and white, dogs, first, Mrs. F. Sen's Sena Senn Jack; organe and white, bitches, first, Mrs. Augusta Vatsbie's Ch. Annandale Fifi; tri-color dogs, first, Mrs. W. Hadley's Messenger Boy; bitches, first, Mrs. F. Senn's Ch. Senn Senn Grand Duchess; red dogs, first, Mrs. H. Ansley's Ashton Gold Nut; reserve, Edward Korzendorfer's Troubles.

Japanese Spaniels, dogs. First, Mrs. F. Sena's Ch. Sena Sean Dread Not; reserve, Mrs. E. H. Berendsohn's Berkeley Boffis.

Pekingese Spaniels, dogs. First, H. W. Haskell's Ichi Dai; reserve, A. T. Stoppel's Wu Chu; bitches, first, H. W. Haskell's Nan Lu.

Toy Poodles, dogs. First, Mrs. T. B. Carpenter's Sparkles; reserve, Mrs. F. S. Moore's Sonney Lad; bitches first, Mrs. J. D. Anderson's Maidie.

Yorkshire Terriers, dogs and bitches. First, A. J. McGookin's Scamper; reserve, Mrs. C. Auerbach's Miss Monkey.

Maltese Terriers, dogs. First, Mrs. Coerlin's Ch. Sonny Boy; reserve, Mrs. M. Coerlin's Dandy Boy; bitches, first, Mrs. Nicolia's Sonita; reserve, Mrs. William Sheppard's Thackeray Mousie.

Toy Terriers, dogs. First, Mrs. R. T. Harrison's Ch. Tiny Boy.

Chihuahuas, dogs. First, Shadybrook Kennels' President Diaz; bitches, Shadybrook Kennels' Doma Isabel.

Italian Greyhounds, dogs. First, Mary Brember's Orno; reserve, Mary Brember's Count Bosie; bitches, Mary Brember's Lady Madge; reserve, Mary Brember's Helen.

N. Y.-PHILA. ROUND TRIP BY AIR ACCOMPLISHED

Charles K. Hamilton successfully accomplished Monday the flight from New York to Philadelphia, arranged by The New York Times and The Philadelphia Public Ledger. Undeterred by two accidents, one of which threatened to be most serious, or by engine troubles or contrary winds that at times tossed him in perilous fashion, he winged his way from Governors' Island in the morning to the landing place he had picked in the Quaker City and returnal to the island in the evening, setting new marks in the conquest of the air.

The schedule of the Flight:

To Philadelphia.

	Distance.	Time.
Left Governors Island		7:36 a.m.
South Elizabeth	16.2	7.56 a.m.
Rahway	21.4	7:59 a.m.
Metuchen	27.8	8:00 a.m.
New Brunswick	33.3	8:16 a.m.
Monmouth Junction	43.0	8:29 a.m.
Princeton Junction	49.0	8:36 a.m.
Trenton	58.8	8:49 a.m.
Bristol	68.8	9:02 a.m.
Holmesburg Junct	79.0	9:15 a.m.
Landed at Phila	86.0	9:26 a.m.

Return Flight.

Left Philadelphia	11.33	a.m.
Bristol	18.0	12:00 m.
Trenton	27.2	12:09 p.m.
Princeton Junction	37.0	12:17 p.m.
Monmouth Junct	43.0	12:25 p.m.
New Brunswick	52.7	12:33 p.m.
Metuchen	58.2	12:42 p.m.
Menlo Park	60.1	12:45 p.m.
Landed, South Amboy (after a detour)	68.0	12:54 p.m.
Reascended, South Amboy	68.0	6:17 p.m.
Arrived at Governors Island	40.0	6:40 p.m.

Time to Philadelphia, 1 hour 50 min. Philadelphia to South Amboy 1 hour 21 minutes.

South Amboy to Governors Isl. 23m.

Total distance, Philadelphia and return, 175 miles.

Total time in air, 3 hours 34 min. Average speed per hour to Philadelphia, 46.92 miles.

Average hourly speed from Philadelphia, 51.36 miles.

Precept and Example.

"Stick to the farm," says the president to the wide-eyed farmer boy, then he hies him back to his white house home with its air of rustic joy. "Stick to the farm," says the railroad king to the lad who looks afar, then hikes him back on the double-quick to his rustic private car. "Stick to the farm," says the clergyman to the youth on the worn fence perch, then he lays his ear to the ground to hear a call to the city church. "Stick to the farm," says the doctor wise to those who would break the rut, then hies him where the appendix grows in bountiful crops to cut.

RUBBER TYPE MADE IN ELIZABETH NOW

The Fulton Rubber Type Company, of 138-142 Fulton street, in Elizabeth, is believed to be the largest rubber type manufacturing concern in the United States, if not in the world. The concern, which employs eighty-five persons when running at full capacity, furnishes large orders of rubber goods to all countries of the globe. The company occupies a four-story brick factory, forty feet deep and 150 feet long, having over 13,000 square feet of floor space.

The factory is excellently equipped for the manufacture of rubber types, inking pads, toys, wood and paper boxes and practically everything used in making and handling the product.

The company came to Elizabeth from New York five years ago and has used the factory which it now occupies ever since removing to that city. The factory formerly was the Munsel stove foundry.

On the first floor the large rubber type for show card printing is made. The wood cutting and box making departments are also on this floor. The company makes a large number of jewelry and fancy boxes.

The self-inking pad department, which is one of the largest branches of the work, is also on the second floor. There are big kettles where the dyes for the pads are made and a large force of girls is employed making the pads. On this floor also are made the tin boxes enclosing the pads.

The offices of the company are located on the second floor, where also are the stock and shipping rooms.

On the ground floor is the vulcanizing department. In the neighborhood of 500 pounds of rubber is made into rubber type daily when the plant is running at its full capacity. There are a half dozen machines for changing small slabs of rubber into the strips of type which then are cut apart and fastened to stamps. The machine shop, containing a variety of machines used in making the type and other articles, is on the first floor.

The company does all of its own printing, having several large job presses. There is a fine lithographing plant and three-color process in connection with this department. The firm designs its own box covers for the toys and prints all the covers for the boxes.

Besides the four floors and basement there is a good-sized annex at the back of the factory. This building is used for finishing the woodwork and is fitted with planers, a half dozen saws and other machinery. The basement is used for a storeroom.

The company furnishes toys to over 700 5 and 10-cent stores in this country. The busy season will open in a week or two and a large number of orders are being received from all parts of this country as well as from Europe, Africa, Australia and Central and South America.

SPRING CHAMPIONSHIP AT PARK GOLF CLUB

There was the continuation of play for the Spring Championship cup at the Park Golf Club Saturday, in addition to the weekly competition for the President's, Club and Summer cups. The weather had an effect on the day's play, having a tendency to keep many away from the course.

For the championship cup W. V. Byard beat C. B. Morse, by default; R. B. Titsworth beat Alexander Gilbert, by default; S. B. St. John McCutchen beat Samuel Townsend by default, and the Rev. C. L. Goodrich beat N. A. Miller 4 up and 3 to play.

These scores were returned for the President's, Club and Summer cups: W. V. Byard, 95-68; Rev. C. L. Goodrich, 101, 28-73; S. B. St. John McCutchen, 91, 20-79; N. A. Miller, 109, 30-79; U. G. Tingley, 117, 28-89.

Music Was a Feature.

Charles Suhr's Imperial Band, which furnished the music at the second annual bench show of the Plainfield Kennel Club, Saturday, received high praise for its work. Although the weather was dismal enough, the popular program by the band went a long way in livening up the affair. The band also played in the tent during the dinner hour.

Children's Day at Warren Chapel.

The Children's Day exercises will be held at Warren chapel Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, when an appropriate program will be presented by the children. There will also be two short addresses, one by Rev. I. O. McKelvey and the other by Emerson E. Purvin. There will also be infant baptism and the Junior Christian Endeavor Society prizes will be awarded.

JUST ANSWER THESE IF YOU WOULD WED

There are questions galore to be answered by those who want to marry after July 1, the date on which the new State marriage law goes into effect. The new law means more work for the city clerk, more work for the officiating clergyman or justice of the peace, and more work for the bride and the bridegroom. In the case of a person under age being married the parents or guardians are also put to the test of answering questions.

No license, under the law, can be issued to any person who, at the time of applying for the same, is under the influence of liquor or a narcotic, or is an imbecile, epileptic, or of unsound mind.

The City Clerk has to see that the identifying witnesses answer the following questions:

"Do you know names of contracting parties? How long have you known him or her, and has your knowledge been intimate or is it that of a casual acquaintance? Do you know the names of his or her parents (or if an orphan) or guardians? If so name them. How long has he or she contemplated marriage with ——? Has that fact been known to his or her parents (or guardians) if any?

"Do you know or have you heard of any objection being made by any person or persons to the marriage of —— and ——?

"If so, state who made that objection and the nature and grounds of the objection.

"Do you know of any impediment to the marriage of —— and ——? If so, state the character of that impediment.

"Have either —— or —— been married? If so, where, when, to whom and by whom?

"If either of them was previously married how was the marriage state terminated, if at all, by death or divorce?

"If the marriage state terminated by death, when and where did the deceased spouse die? If it terminated by divorce, when and where was the divorce granted?

"Was it an absolute divorce from the bond of matrimony, a divorce from bed and board, or a mere separation? Produce a copy of the decree of divorce.

"Have you any knowledge as to whether either of the contracting parties to the proposed marriage is an imbecile, epileptic, or of unsound mind, or whether either of said parties has been an inmate of an insane asylum or institution for indigent persons; has such party been discharged from such asylum or institution?"

To the forgoing questions the identifying witnesses have to take an affidavit.

Following are some of the questions the applicant for license has to answer:

"What is your full name; when and where were you born? What is the full name of your father? What is your mother's maiden name? What is your occupation, and how long have you been pursuing your present occupation? Where do you reside, and for how long a time have you been there residing? Have you ever been married before; if so, how often, when, and to whom? Are you now single?

There are other questions relative to divorce, former marriages, etc., practically the same as those asked the identfying witnesses which the applicant has to answer. The marriage certificate differs but little from the marriage certificate under the old law with the exception that there are some extra questions relative to bride and groom's parents. In the case of the marriage of a minor the parents or guardians have to present a certificate or voucher.

HERVEY K. DOANE WEDS IN AUGUSTA, KANSAS

Hervey Kinch Doane, the youngest son of Chief and Mrs. T. O. Doane, of West Fifth street, and Miss Elizabeth Cady, daughter of William H. Cady, editor of the Augusta, Kansas, Journal, were married at 8:30 Sunday night at the home of the bride's father in Augusta, Kansas, in the presence of a large number of friends of the couple. A reception followed.

Mr. and Mrs. Doane have gone to Blackwell, Oklahoma, where the former is engaged in building a large water works, sewer and electric light plant for Burns & McDonald, of Kansas City. This is the fourth large contract of this kind that Mr. Doane has superintended in the past two years. He is a graduate of Rutgers College, Class '06, and has been successful in his chosen profession. His many Eastern friends and relatives gave him a postal shower on Saturday.

Not Yet.

She—Do you know whose aeroplane it was that hit you?

He—No; it was cloudy and I could not see the number.—Ally Sloper.

LOVING CUP FOR SUPERINTENDENT

Pennsylvania newspaper editors and managers and their wives were the guests of the New Jersey Central Railroad Saturday, on the company's ninth editorial outing to Wilkes-Barre. The feature of the occasion was the presentation of a handsome silver loving cup to General Superintendent C. W. Huntington, of the railroad, the gift of the newspaper men of both Pennsylvania and New Jersey. The latter, who were entertained by the railroad management at Atlantic City two weeks ago, were represented at Saturday's gathering by the chairman and members of the committee in charge of the presentation of the cup.

C. W. Huntington.

The Hotel Podington was the rallying point, the guests from points below Wilkes-Barre coming by a special train in charge of General Passenger Agent W. C. Hope, which left Easton at 8:25 a. m. and meeting the guests from Scranton and places above at the hotel. A stop of an hour was made by the special at Laurel Run, where a fine view of the automobile hill climbing contest was afforded.

Dinner was served at the Redington, and the presentation of the cup followed a cordial speech of welcome by Mr. Hope, Editor J. P. Correll, of the Easton Sunday Call, chairman of the committee, voicing felicitously the sentiments of his colleagues. Mr. Huntington responded in characteristic vein, showing his complete surprise and with much feeling expressing his appreciation of the handsome token of good-fellowship.

The Loving Cup.

The post prandial program provided for an inspection of the new Luzerne County Courthouse by the newspaper men and a visit to Irene Temple, the home of the Mystic Shrine on Franklin street. The editorial special was scheduled to return to Easton at 3:45 p. m.

The Old-Fashioned Settle.

If you happen to be the lucky possessor of an old-fashioned settle, by all means get it out from your cellar or attic, for they are quite the thing this season. On all the verandas of our exclusive suburbs these old settles are given the place of honor. They have been sand-papered and stained a delightful woody green. Cushions to match make the seat inviting, and when one entertains at tea or at afternoon cards upon the veranda there is the table already for use.

Purchases the Drake Property.

Edward Baker, Jr., of M. C. Van Arsdale's shoe store, who has been residing at 127 Duer street, has purchased Henry Baldwin Drake's property at 23 Duer street and will take possession July 1.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL

My new barber shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.

EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

W. K. CODDINGTON,

Counsellor-at-Law,

Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-Chancery, Notary Public. Offices corner of Park avenue and Second street.

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.

Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel appointing agents, others for local work looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and expenses paid; rapid advancement, old established house. Grand chance for earnest man or woman to secure permanent position, liberal income and future. New, brilliant lines. Write at once,

STAFFORD PRESS,
23 Church St., New Haven, Conn.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS DESIGNS COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Sanitary Plumbing

Brick and Portable Furnace

Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,

Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in all cases.

D. W. LITTELL

MARRIED.

BELLOWS—PENNY—On April 29, 1910, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Townsend by the Rev. George A. Warner, Maria Morton Penny to George Edwy Bellows.

DIED.

WHITNEY—On Saturday, June 11, 1910, Georgia S., daughter of the late Bennett and Susan Whitney.

QUINN—In this city, June 13, 1910, Eleanor, beloved wife of Francis T. Quinn, in her 73d year.

KLINE—At her late residence 611 West Third street, on Saturday, June 4, 1910, Frances Louisa, wife of William A. Kline.

ABBOTT—Suddenly, in New York City, on Sunday, June 5, 1910, Charles F. Abbott, aged 60 years.

HYATT—On Tuesday, June 7, 1910, George Edgar Hyatt, aged 63 years.

THOMPSON—In New York city, on Saturday, June 11, 1910, David J. Thompson, aged 66 years.

MOORHOUSE—In this city, Saturday, June 11, 1910 Geo. A. Moorhouse, aged 67 years, 10 months.

McCARTHY—In this city, June 10, 1910, Mary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McCarthy, in her 25th year.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF HUSBAND AND HIS WIFE.

It was a sad procession which wended its slow way to Hillside side cemetery on Sunday afternoon when the bodies of Dr. and Mrs. Frank Boulanger were taken to their last resting place. Mrs. Boulanger died on Thursday night last suddenly and her husband unable to stand the grief of parting soon followed her into eternity.

A service was held at the late home in Hoboken before the bodies were brought to this city and at Hillside. Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring conducted the commitment service. Only the immediate families conducted the remains to this city. Floral tributes requiring an entire coach were laid upon the graves of the couple with many a sympathetic tear. The funeral marked the end of a short but completely happy married life.

Three Acts and an Injunction.

"Has Mullez secured a copyright on his frisky comedy?"

"He got the injunction first."

"What injunction?"

"The injunction to prevent the police from stopping the performance."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

ROOSEVELT THEIR IDEAL

Saunders and Fowler Tell Young Men to Emulate America's "First Citizen."

AT BUS. COLLEGE EXERCISES.

Mayors Fisk and Smalley Also Address the Graduating Class at Big Meeting Held at the Theatre.

Flanked on either side by men of note and in a stage setting of floral beauty, Friday night, the graduates of the Plainfield Business College heard words of praise and wisdom from the lips of Mayor Charles J. Fisk, Congressman Charles N. Fowler, former Mayor William L. Saunders, Superintendent of Schools H. C. Krebs, and the Principal of the College, A. S. Herr. Of the twenty-four graduates seventeen were young women and it was stated by Mayor Fisk that he knew it to be a fact that of the twenty-four twenty-one had already been engaged to enter business careers. The graduates looked the real thing in their mortar boards and gowns.

Congressman Fowler, who was intensely interested in the proceedings, made a splendid speech, full of good advice to the graduates, and while many had expected a dive into the political situation he carefully avoided the subject. When asked before leaving the city whether he would relinquish his Congressional aspirations to make the fight for the Senatorship in the Fifth district, Mr. Fowler answered. "Um! Ah! I don't think I care to say that I will or won't." To the further query, "Are you going to make a fight for the Senatorship, anyway?" he replied, "I did not expect to be interviewed tonight, so I am not prepared to answer that, either."

The Plainfield theatre was crowded to the doors when the exercises began, Martin A. Korff's orchestra beginning the proceedings with an overture. After the invocation by Rev. Daniel R. Magill, Mr. Saunders introduced the speakers, incidentally paying a tribute to Hugh B. Sweeney who made the arrangements for the exercises. Mayor Newton B. Smalley, of North Plainfield, who was second on the list of speakers, failed to put in an appearance thereby disappointing a number who had come to hear him.

A pleasing feature of the evening was the singing by Miss Grace Carroll, contralto soloist of the First Presbyterian church. She received two recalls and graciously responded. Mayor Fisk made a characteristic speech of congratulation, walking across the stage to shake the hands of both Mr. and Mrs. Herr. The Mayor declared that he had watched the progress of the college from its very beginning to the present and was prepared to say that the Plainfield Business College was one of the best educational mediums in the city. Its development had been remarkable and the city had cause to be proud of it.

Mr. Saunders' subject, "Qualities that Bring Success in Business," was full of meaning not only to the graduates, but to every man and woman in the audience. Honesty, Concentration and Courage were the three requisites, he said, and the three essentials for a successful career.

Mr. Saunders said that to be commonly honest is the first essential to success. But industry, he said coupled with concentration and aided by the courage of one's convictions were the very best equipment that a young person starting out in business life could have. Of Hugh Sweeney Mr. Saunders had much to say as to the exacting duties of this young man and told how Mr. Sweeney invegled him into presiding at this function. Simply because Mr. Sweeney had done something for him when he sold 100 tickets for Trelawny of the Wells he could not refuse to do something for him on this interesting occasion. He used Mr. Sweeney as a shining example of industry.

Mr. Saunders referred to Theodore Roosevelt and Thomas A. Edison as the two foremost men of the world and at the mention of Mr. Roosevelt's name the audience burst into loud and prolonged applause. He told of Mr. Roosevelt's democratic spirit and his forcefulness and his great capacity for work and held him up as an example worthy to imitate.

Professor Herr addressed the graduates briefly telling them what it means to the city to have such a splendid array of talent from which to select employes for their business. He declared that education could not be bought or sold. The diplomas which they had earned by their industry represented no more than what they would make out of their lives. He said the college not only prepared the students for their entry into business life, but also helped in character building and training which would be a valuable asset throughout their lives. This sentiment was applauded and was referred to in subsequent speeches. The diplomas were then presented while the orchestra played, the graduates passing the rolled parchments in rythm with the music.

Professor Krebs on being introduced paid his compliments to Mr. Saunders for his habit of always throwing bouquets at his fellow boroughites. We know that education is development and we members of the eductional department have looked askance at some of the advertised so-called business colleges which promise much and accomplish little, but all the educators here are proud of the record of the Plainfield Business College for what it has accomplished and we give it our endorsement and hearty support.

Then followed the distribution of flowers in which Rev. Mr. Maguire, Mayor Fisk, Mr. Krebs, Mr. Herr and Mr. Sweeney took part while the orchestra added to the scene with some appropriate music.

Mr. Fowler's speech which immediately followed was in part as follows: "The interest I have in young people is greater than anything in my public life. Saunders and I will soon be dead, but Charlie Fisk will go living for ever. The American child is being educated with the influence of a thousand years behind him. This school of Mr. Herr is, as has been said, a character building place as well as an educational institution and as such must take its place among the factors in the upbuilding of your city. In speaking of ideals I take issue with Mr. Saunders when he says that we should not have ideals in the distance. Nobody can succeed in life without practical ideals. Without them you will attain nothing. It may happen that a woman may become President of the United States and it may happen within the lives of some who are here."

Mr. Fowler urged the physical as well as the mental development of all students for by keeping the body healthy the mind is more receptive and likely to be better stored with knowledge and consequently better fitted to cope with the problems of life. "Concentration," he said, "is the thing. Train the mind so that everything that you have absorbed may be always at your command. Character is the one big asset and the courage of your convictions is another and the acquirement of both requires both in great degree. There is no such thing as luck taken in the larger sense. None of you know what you can do until the opportunity to do something arrives, but when that time comes be ready to do. You will be if you will but heed your present opportunities.

"Everyone should see to it that the city, county, State and the world should be just a little better for their having lived in it. Be as near like Theodore Roosevelt as you can, grasping the meaning of things. Your aim and ideal should be Mark Twin's character refined, strong and pure so that at the end of your lives it may be purified and later glorified."

Mr. Fowler's speech received prolonged applause.

Several members of the Common Council of this city and that of North Plainfield were interested spectators some on the stage and others in boxes. Congressman Fowler's wife occupied Box A and appeared to enjoy the proceedings. The orchestra under Mr. Korff's direction rendered several fine selections. When the strains of the Star Spangled Banner were heard the audience arose and sang it with vigor. Many remained to personally congratulate Mr. Herr and the graduates.

MANY ELKS WILL GO TO THE CONVENTION

More than a dozen of Plainfield Elks and their families are planning to attend the National reunion at Detroit next month. The largest party leaving for the city on the lakes will be the "Detroit Club," for which a special car will be attached to the train chartered by Jersey City Lodge.

The special train will leave the West Elizabeth station of the Lehigh Valley Railroad at 8:25 Sunday morning, July 16. The itinerary is as follows: Monday, Niagara Falls, Hotel Imperial, sight-seeing tour; Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, Detroit, Hotel Pontchartrain, which is the headquarters of the grand lodge; Friday, Windsor and London, Ontario, to Toronto, Queen Hotel; Saturday, sight-seeing and evening sail through the St. Lawrence River to Thousand Islands; Sunday, July 17, Alexandria Bay, Thousand Islands House, sails among the islands; Monday, continue sail through the St. Lawrence river and Lachine Rapids to Montreal, night sail to Quebec; Tuesday, seeing Quebec; Wednesday, return to Montreal, sight-seeing; Thursday, through Lake Champlain to Fort Ticonderoga, through Lake George, train to Troy, Hotel Rensselaer; Friday, July 22, start for home over the New York Central, arriving at Jersey City about 6 p. m.

A number of Plainfielders are also planning to accompany Newark Lodge to Detroit, while others will travel independently of tours.

Her Father—Blanche,why doesn't Mr. Linger go home earlier?

Blanche—I'm why, Dad!—Puck.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

The librarian's report of the Plainfield Public Library has within a few days been laid before the directors and in due course the facts it which promise much and accomplish little, but all the educators here are proud of the record of the Plainfield Business College for what it has accomplished and we give it our endorsement and hearty support.contains have been forwarded to the municipal authorities of Plainfield. The marked progress in every department of work is entitled to public commendation and appreciation. It is interesting, for example, to note the steady and large increase in book circulation for the past five years. Beginning with the year ending May 31, 1906, the circulation was 46,802; the following year it was 49,472; the next year it was 53,006; year before last it was 62,670; and last year it was 69,626.

Last year the books added by purchase and gift aggregated 2,530, besides 846 musical scores. Including these latter scores, the Babcock Library and the Tyler Library, the library lists call for 44,240 volumes. Of these, however, 2,396 have in the course of several years been withdrawn by reason of various accidents, losses and wear and tear, leaving the actual total at 41,844. The Babcock Library and the Tyler Library being composed of books of high value and useful reference, will be more appreciated as the years go by in educational work. The perapita circulation of books last year in relation to the population of Plainfield was 3.16 against 2.94 a year ago. 7,536 persons patronized the Library, of whom 763 are newly registered. Musical scores have circulated during the last year to the number of 1,422 against 551 of the previous year.

Mrs. Babcock has generously given $1,000 for the cataloguing of the scientific library, and this work is already under way.

The Reading Room has been largely patronized by the scholars of the public schools.

During the year 74,498 persons have visited the building, and of these 2,517 were Sunday visitors. Two hundred and thirty-two periodicals and newspapers are at the service of the patrons of the Reading Room. More than 200 books daily are taken from the library to be read, and the deposit stations are serving an excellent purpose and increasing circulation.

These figures, gleaned from the Librarian's report, serve but feebly show the amount of energy in the administration of this valuable public enterprise, and the increase of the public appreciation of its facilities and opportunities.

The history of the library covers a series of benefactions, beginning with that of ex-Mayor Job Male, and including those of George H. Babcock and Mark H. Dyer. Most of what the library has was given to it by the public spirited citizens of Plainfield. From the city it has of late received $7,500 per annum. Out of this it compensates a force of about half a dozen librarians and assistant librarians, defrays all expenses of operation, covers and recovers books and magazines, and adds upwards of 2,500 new books to its stock.

Its officers and directors are enthusiastically devoted to the prosperity of this public spirited enterprise, and its possibilities for usefulness are opening out in a marvelous manner. It will need, however, to be found practicable to carry on this work according to its merit, and according to the increasing demands of a more educated public, within the limits of the building now occupied by the library. It is in pressing need of larger accommodations, and these must be supplied in order to open the way for success on broad and valuable lines of work. A single paragraph of the librarian's report may be quoted as indicating an extending line of usefulness:

"Never before has the library come in such close contact with the school-pupils and teachers, especially those of the High School. During the hour from 1 to 2 p. m., two assistants are now obliged to be at the delivery desk to meet the wants of the pupils as they leave the school building for the day. That the library is better reaching the teaching is shown by the sum total of 3,648 books taken out on teachers' cards, exceeding last year by 1,732."

The librarian is Miss Florence M. Bowman. The president is Alexander Gilbert; vice-president, L. V. F. Randolph; treasurer, J. Herbert Cox; secretary, William M. Stillman; and other directors are W. J. Merrill, C. Boardman Tyler, Dr. Leonard Waldo, W. H. Larabee and Dr. B. VanD. Hedges.

A Military Drama.

Under the auspices of the New Jersey Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, and the principal patriotic and social organizations of the State, and in co-operation with the State Militia a series of military and patriotic entertainments on a spectacular scale have been arranged to take place in the principal cities and towns of New Jersey in the autumn. "The Luck of MacGregor," a stirring and picturesque military drama, by Edward Vroom, has been chosen for the vehicle.

BOOST EXCURSION RATES

Jersey Central Also Raises the Price of Ten and Fifty Trip Tickets.

THE SINGLE FARES, TOO.

New Order as Posted Goes Into Effect on July 1.—Report That it Would be Recalled is Semi-Officially Denied.

Closely following the recent announcement that the New Jersey Central on July 1 would raise the monthly commutation rates for suburban traffic twenty-five cents per month, comes the information now that there will be an increase in the rates for excursion tickets, which will materially effect Plainfield and nearby towns. The latest increases are a great surprise, the fact having been intimated when the commutation rates were jumped.

The new single and excursion rates for Plainfield and vicinity follows:

	Single.	Exc.
Plainfield	.60	$1.05
Netherwood	.60	1.00
Grant Avenue	.65	1.10
Clinton Avenue	.65	1.15
Fanwood	.55	95
Dunellen	.70	1.20
Bound Brook	.80	1.35

The new rate for the fifty-trip tickets will be as follows: Netherwood, $17.75; Plainfield, $18.50; Grant avenue, $19.25; Clinton avenue, $20.

This will be the new rate for ten-trip tickets: Netherwood, $4.50; Plainfield, $4.75; Grant Avenue, $4.95; Clinton Avenue, $5.20.

There was a rumor today that these rates would be held up pending the action of Congress, but inquiry at the office of W. C. Hope, general passenger agent of the New Jersey Central, this afternoon, brought the information that nothing had been heard there of such action and that the rates would become effective July 1 as planned and announced.

WILLIAM LAWSON HEATH MARRIES IN WACO, TEX.

Miss Hazel Walters, daughter of Mrs. Hilldesheim, of Waco, Texas, and William Lawson Heath, formerly of this city, and now residing at Waco, were married at that city on Wednesday. The bride has many friends here. Mr. Heath is engaged as cotton broker and is associated with his father-in-law. He is a graduate of Steven's Institute.

Mr. Heath first met his bride at a dance given at Stevens Institute at the time of his graduation two years ago. Two months ago he received a bequest of $75,000 as the sole heir of his grandfather, Mrs. Carlton Heath, of Boston, and he then proposed and was promptly accepted by his bride.

Announce Approaching Wedding.

Invitations have been issued by Mr. and Mrs. William M. Walsh, of 226 East Second street, to the marriage of their daughter, Miss Anna Lillian Walsh, and Isaiah Williard Crowell, of Winthrop, Mass. The ceremony will be performed Saturday afternoon, June 18, at 5 o'clock, at the home of her parents. Rev. Mr. Sylvester, rector of the Episcopal church, Somerville, will officiate.

Constitutionalist ads. pay.

BATTLE OF SPRINGFIELD ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION

The one hundred and thirtieth anniversary of the battle of Springfield will be celebrated June 23 by the New Jersey Chapter, Sons of the American Revolution, in the small Revolutionary burying plot on the North Nursery Farm, south of Morris avenue in Springfield. A flagpole has been erected on the plot and the exercises will be for the purpose of dedicating the flagpole and unfurling a flag over the graves of the Revolutionary heroes.

The exercises will begin promptly at 3:30 o'clock. If the weather is clear they will be held on the plot. If stormy, they will be held at the historic Springfield Presbyterian church. David L. Pierson, of Orange, is chairman of the committee which is arranging the celebration.

The exercises will be opened by the children of School No. 1, 300 in number, who will sing "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean." The Rev. Dr. J. H. Egbert, pastor of the Chatham Methodist church, will deliver the invocation. The principal address of the day will be then delivered. The name of the man chosen to make the address has not yet been announced.

The school children will sing "America" Judge Edward S. Atwater, of Elizabeth, president of the New Jersey Society Sons of the American Revolution, will then be presented with the flag by a committee, headed by Mr. Pierson. The Rev. William Hoppaugh, pastor of the Presbyterian church, will make the prayer of consecration. The singing of the "Star Spangled Banner" by the school children will complete the program.

The erection of the flagpole will mark the second celebration of the battle held in the burying ground. In 1896, the society erected a granite shaft with a suitable inscription and planted a hedge around the plot. The small burying ground is on a hill and steps are being built to lead to it.

The Sons of the American Revolution consider the Battle of Springfield one of the most important fought in the Revolution. It was here that the invasion of New Jersey by the British was checked. On the day of the battle Springfield was burned and when the church was in flames Pastor Caldwell, "The fighting parson of the Revolution," tore up the hymn books of the church and gave them to the soldiers for wadding, shouting, "Give 'em Watts, boys, give 'em Watts."

COUNCILMAN SMALLEY ENTERTAINS BALL TEAM.

Councilman William L. Smalley, Jr., entertained the members of the North Plainfield High School baseball team and their friends, to a straw ride Friday night. The "blow" on Mr. Smalley's part was due to N. P. H. S.'s victory over Plainfield High on the diamond last Wednesday afternoon.

Springfield was the destination of the merrymakers and there were about twenty-five in the party. The trip was made in one of Frank Mobus' commodious stages and an enjoyable time was had.

There will be no third game played between the teams as anticipated. It was suggested that a deciding game be played on Tuesday, but owing to scholarship conditions of some of the players it was decided by the faculties to dispense with the game.

—Photo by Stone.

Young Women's Christian Association Wednesday Night Class Basketball Team.

Of all the activities of the Young Women's Christian Association in the athletic department, is the Wednesday night class, a photograph of whose members is shown. The class recently closed its activities until the fall season and its success has been marvelous all along the line.

During the winter the work of the class has been such as to indicate that indoor sports and athletics will occupy a prominent part in the coming years of the association. All the members have displayed great proficiency in gymnastics and the basketball quintet made an especially fine showing.

But five games of basketball were played by the five and in four they were returned victorious over their opponents. Perhaps the most notable achievement was their victory over the Trenton Y. W. C. A. five which is acknowledged to be one of the strongest teams in the State in the association.

In the accompanying photograph are the Misses Gertrude Mair, Elizabeth Becker, Nona Becker, Margaret Mosher, Reba Kline, Edna Snedeker, Helen Southard, Ida Engelhardt, May Chamberlain, Ada Saith and Alice Boyd. Miss Mosher has charge of the athletic department of the association.

BOROUGH HIGH JUNIORS ARE SEEN IN COMEDY

The members of the Junior class of the North Plainfield High School acquitted themselves creditably last Thursday in their presentation of the mythological comedy, "Pygmalion and Galatea," before an audience of several hundred friends at the Park Club auditorium. The clear enunciation and stage presence showed quite plainly the advantage of careful coaching. The play consumed two hours time, after which dancing was enjoyed until midnight. Squier's orchestra furnished the music.

Although the work of every one in the cast was commendable, J. Percival Watson, as Pygmalion, and Andrew Stights as Chrysos, and also as Agesemos, appeared to merit particular mention. Miss Claire M. Stahberger, the coach, was presented with a book by the cast in appreciation of her services. The costuming of the players was also under the direction of Miss Stahberger.

The cast: Pygmalyon, John Percival Watson; Leucyspe, Harry B. Jackson; Chrysos, Andrew Stiglitz; Agesimos, Andrew Stiglitz; Memos, Edward F. Bodin; Galatea, Adelaide Stiglitz; Aynisca, Agnes DeCamp; Daphne, Lena Rilling; Myrine, Elizabeth Conroy.

Jacob Abrams was the business manager and Pierson Bally the stage manager. A small profit was realized from the play.

STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL AT MONROE AVE. CHURCH

The attendance was well over the three hundred mark despite the rain at the strawberry and ice cream festival given by the Epworth League of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church Thursday in the church auditorium.

Twenty individual tables were in use continuously from 7:30 until a late hour for the serving of shortcake, strawberries and ice cream. The decorations, a striking feature, were by John McCormick, a candy well and a lemonade booth being features of a well planned decorative scheme.

The general committee headed by N. Mansfield Smith, the president of the league, were much pleased with the results.

The executive committee consisted of N. Mansfield Smith, chairman; strawberries, Mrs. Harry Gardiner; shortcake, Mrs. N. Mansfield Smith; decorations, John McCormick; ice cream, Miss Gertrude Grey; supervisor, Miss Phoebe Shaw; candy well, Miss Minnie Gunzelman; lemonade booth, Miss Mary Pound; treasurer, John McCormick.

Among the waitresses were the Misses Mildred Barnes, Pauline Bodine, Gladys Cline, Amelia Frey, Beasie Gunzelman, Lillian Harris, Gertrude Grey, Flora Kirch, Anna Lee, Sophia Le Poidiven, Alice Lude, Nellie Lawton, Louise McCormick, Edith Ricketts, Rose Droll, Ada Thompson, Martha Camp, Matilda Mulford, Josephine Peterson, Louise Praed, Irene Sawyer, Madge Stafford, Marion Praed, Violet Staples, Laura Sutphen, Violet Stewart, Ethel Young and Louise Ricketts.

Mrs. Edward Beckman assisted at the lemonade booth and Miss Mary Matthews at the candy well. The proceeds will be devoted to the support of the league's missionary in Africa.

SHADE TREES ARE SERIOUSLY THREATENED.

Henry Crofut White, president of the North Plainfield Shade Tree Commission, has issued a circular, relative to the invasion of elm leaf beetles, which he is circulating among borough property owners urging that steps be taken for the protection of trees from the insect.

The circular states that the commission has made arrangements to spray trees by the agent of the following special rates: Trees 6 inches to 12 inches in diameter, 75 cents; 12 to 18 inches, $1.25; 18 inches to 2 feet, $1.75; 2 feet to 2½ feet, $2.25.

Will Hold Union Services.

Pastors of several churches are arranging, for the old last year, to hold union services Sunday evenings during July and August. The churches who will join in the movement include the First Baptist, First Methodist, Trinity Reformed and the First Presbyterian churches. Last year's arrangement was very satisfactory and the congregations at these services were large. The pastors of the above churches will do the preaching.

Accounting of Danz Estate.

Before Judge Lyon, in the Middlesex County Court at New Brunswick, Friday, the accounting of Emma F. Danz, executrix of the estate of Lena H. Danz, of New Market, was approved. It showed an estate of $4,125.89 and a balance, after all debts, charges and legacies had been paid of $131.62.

SEMINARY PERFORMANCE

Three Plays Produced by the Students Merit General Approval.

AUDIENCE IS ENTHUSIASTIC.

Dancing is Enjoyed by Members of the Cast and Their Friends Following the Entertainment.

Seminary Hall was filled Thursday by an expectant audience some of whom were present at the dress rehearsal of the day before. Their anticipations were fully realized.

First came the elusive fairy tale, "The Land of Heart's Desire," by the Irish poet, W. B. Yeats. On a May eve, the plot runs, a humble Irish home is encompassed by an invisible host of fairy folk playing, singing and dancing in the ethereal fashion of such sprites, while the most bewitching of their number enters the cottage in the form a child and so fascinates the newly married bride that she is ready to leave all for the Land of Heart's Desire.

"A land where even the old are fair and even the wise are merry of tongue."

The second play took one to the artistic workship of Taddeo Ferrari, a famous violin maker of Cremona. The story of the most gifted pupil, Filippo, is hopelessly deformed, but he is the possessor of an heroic soul. This play gives the story of Filippo's renunciation of fame for the sake of Giannina, whom he loves, but who proves to be devotedly attached to his rival, Sandro.

Last of all came the rollicking fun of "The Orange Girl," an unpublished play by Radcliffe graduate. In this farce a series of misunderstandings between Helen Morrison and George Colby, who have come in costume to an artists' studio, keep the audience in delightful suspense until the moment the curtain falls.

Where all the characters were so well taken it seems unfair to mention individual parts, but the audience had no such scruples and again and again showed its appreciation of exceptionally good interpretations of both tragic and humorous situations.

Dancing followed for the members of the cast and their friends.

"The Land of Hearts' Desire"—Bridget, Dorothy Leal; Father Hart, Eleanor Hatch; Marie, Gertrude Dorothy; Bessie, Helen Strang; Child, Monica Sharretts.

"The Violin Maker of Cremona"—Ferrari, violin maker, Alverda Holland; Filippo, apprentice to Ferrari, Marie Boles; Sandro, apprentice to Ferrari, Edith Palmer; Giannina, Sylvia Curtis; Lucit, Gwendolen Gough; pages, Monica Sharretts and Dorothy Beeken.

"The Orange Girl"—Mr. Cuttis, Gertrude Bowlby; George Colby, Jean Wharton; Sandy MacDonald, Alverda Holland; Helen Morrison, Gabrielle MacQuaide; Mrs. Murphy, Gwendolen Gough.

KNIGHTS OF THE PIN GATHER AT BANQUET

A jolly crowd of bowlers and their guests gathered round the festive board at Henry Windham's banquet room last night to render homage to the valiant team which went to Baltimore and returned with the prize belonging to thirtieth place in the international tournament, and which, by the way, put Plainfield prominently before the bowlers of other cities not alone for their excellent handling of the heavy globes but for their geniality and all-around sportmanship.

Francis J. Blatz was the toastmaster and he made 'em all take notice that he has it on some of the others by a gift of humor hard to beat. The banquet was all that could be desired and was thoroughly enjoyed by the fifteen diners.

V. W. Nash, Jr., tol dhow it happened, why the first prize was not brought back by the Plainfield contingent and Charlie Matthews told how the Baltimore people impressed him. "Alvah" Burscher gave an imitation of how to always carry the ready money and if you haven't got it how to get it. Wm. Smith, Chief Kiely, Edward Laing, Alvah Vliet, and W. H. Causebrook contributed their share towards the general enjoyment in witty speeches and Chauncey F. Stout prognosticated something better for 1911 when Buffalo will be the battle ground. James F. Buckle contributed a characteristic speech which was much enjoyed.

The team in whose honor the banquet was given are: W. V. Nash, Jr., W. R. Causebrook, Norman Burscher, William Schaub and Charles Matthews. Former Mayor Buckle, George J. Forgerson, William Cass and George Firstbrook were guests of the club.

Upon a sea tale I must try
My scribbling bent.
I've never been to sea; but why
Need that prevent?

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning June 19, 1910.

Topic.—The yoke of Christ.—Matt. xi. 28-30. Comment by Rev. Sherman H. Doyle, D. D.

These verses are among the most gracious and comforting ever spoken by Christ. The invitation "Come unto Me" was not addressed to all who bore physical or mental burdens that were heavy to bear, but to the sinful burdens of man. Christ was speaking to the Pharisees who were trying to carry their own burdens of sin, as represented by Christian's burden in the "Pilgrim's Progress." To these He would give rest by taking the burdens of sin from them by His death upon the cross. When Christian reached the cross and looked upon it in faith the bundle representing his burden dropped from his shoulders and he was light hearted and free. So may any one be who will follow his example and allow Christ to take his burden of sins, which He is able to do, because on the cross He paid the penalty of man's sin.

When, however, we have become Christians and have lost the burden of sin there are still burdens to be borne. We still need spiritual rest. We are still often "weary and lone and sad" and still need to come to Christ and find rest in Him. Christ deceives no one. He does not say that burdens will end with becoming Christians, but points out the way of getting relief in them, not by getting away from them. These burdens He likens to a yoke, and the figure taken from the Old Testament refers to the yoke placed upon cattle.

1. He asks us to take His yoke upon us. "Take My yoke upon you." The yoke of Christ is a double yoke. It is on Him and on us, and under such circumstances it is not so burdensome. If we walk meekly with Him the yoke will be easy and He will bear the heavier part of the burden. In carrying the cross with Simon of Cyrene Christ bore the heavier part, that which contained the crossbeam, while Simon simply held up the bottom of the upright beam. Such will be our position if we take Christ's yoke upon us. "The cross is not greater than His grace."

In taking Christ's yoke we become His disciples, for we learn of Him. The principal method of learning is through His example, "Learn of Me, for I am meek and lowly in heart." Meekness and humility are examples of His virtues which we must copy. Christ is the greatest teacher the world ever had, for He taught with perfect knowledge the greatest things of life—the mutual relations between God and man, of those between man and man and especially concerning the future life. Still, His greatest power as a teacher of morals and religion was in the life that He lived. In following His example we are to learn of Him. Moreover, it is in thus becoming like Him that we have the greatest success in winning others to Him. Christlikeness is more winsome than ability to teach theology. Saintliness has more power in making disciples than the power to teach religion from a scientific standpoint. Let men see Christ in your lives and they will soon seek the source of such a life.

Christ's yoke is easy. It is a yoke, and there are burdens with it, but it is easier than any other yoke. We must bear some yoke—the yoke of Christ, "the yoke of the law" or the yoke of Satan. The yoke of Christ may seem hard at first, but it grows easier as we become more accustomed to walking with Christ and at death leaves us forever. "The yoke of the law"—trying by our own righteousness to save ourselves is most galling, becomes more so as we advance in life and at death brings no relief. The yoke of Satan seems easy at the start. How pleasant to unconsciously do as we please, to give free reign to our appetites and passions, but later on how burdensome the yoke of Satan becomes! Body and mind become impaired. Religion has no power in our lives. We are yoked indeed. We may try to escape our dreadful bondage but it leaves us increases in size and becomes more burdensome, almost beyond endurance, and when death comes we still find no release. Indeed, torture turns to torment. The rich man when he died, according to the parable of Christ, suffered. "In hell he lifted up his eyes, being in torment." How different from the condition of one who has worn the yoke of Christ in his lifetime! To him "there shall be no more death, neither sorrow nor crying; neither shall there be any more pain, for the former things are passed away." Some yoke you must bear in this world. In the light of the above facts how can you do else than take Christ's yoke upon you?

BIBLE READINGS.

Lev. xxvi. 13-17; Deut. xxviii, 47, 48; Matt. v. 1-12; Luke xxiii, 34; Isa. xlvi. 3, 4; John xiv. 1-3; xv. 1-16; Pet. v. 5-7, 10; Rom. viii. 18; Rev. xxi. 1-7.

Christian Endeavor Among Indians.

While Dr. Clark was in Spokane, Wash., on his way home from India he was visited by Peter F. Corbett, a highly educated Nez Perce Indian, who is prominent among the ranchers of northern Idaho and is identified with the state bank of Kamiah.

He told Dr. Clark that more than 500 Indians in the Nez Perce reservation belong to the Christian Endeavor society. In the town of Kamiah there are ninety-five members. A peculiar feature of the situation is that the members almost all are the older people of the tribe. There are six Presbyterian churches on the reservation, and the work is progressing all the time.

BE GOOD, SWEET MAID.

And there is not any special bar placed upon cleverness as an attractive concommitant, but the main thing is to be good. Not half good, or just a little otherwise, but wholly, sincerely, absolutely good.

It is given to us to inherently know the good from the bad, and there is not one of us who does not feel the deep blush of shame or self-disappointment when she does something that is a departure from her spiritual ideal.

Of course, the good thoughts are but partly forceful if they remain treasured in the individual. "Do noble things" also. The day-dream is not worth much if it be unfulfilled by good actions. And that brings us to the important point of this talk. Each woman has her own thoughts, with her own ideals enthroned in the secret sanctuary of her life; beyond the portals others rarely dare venture. But just as soon as the energy of a woman's life becomes crystallized into deeds, then she gives a part of herself to others, and her actions, are, so to speak, shared with mankind.

How important, then, is the thought that the gift which we share with others should be good, true, noble! In little things, in great events the same immovable lodestar of goodness should influence us. It is natural to be good. The glow of spiritual delight when goodness characterizes an act proves this. The afterglow of discontent, uneasiness and self-dissatisfaction stands for the worth of deeds that are out of the straight and narrow path.

From the mean remark, uttered to bring down the laugh of the listeners, to the deliberately planned evil action, there exists countless intermediate gradations, but there is an undeniable innate knowledge of their lack of goodness in the mind of each individual.

Let your sojourn in this world be marked with goodness. It is such a little word, but it means so much to you, to your people, to the ones whom you have never met; for, like the tiny pebble cast into the pond, it causes ever-widening lines to circle from it in force and influence that are inestimable.

So, be good, sweet maid!

WASHING GLASSWARE.

Great care should be taken when washing glassware. Two perfectly clean pans should be provided, one for moderately hot and another for cold water. Wash the glasses well in the first, rinse them in the second and turn them down on a linen cloth folded two or three times, to drain for a few minutes. This is done to prevent the edges of finely cut glasses from being nicked. When sufficiently drained wipe with a cloth and polish with a finer one.

Decanters and water jugs are tedious pieces to clean. Fill them about two-thirds with hot but not boiling water, and put in a few pieces of well-soaped brown paper or throw in some bird shot. Allow them to stand for two or three hours; then shake the water up and down in the decanters; empty them, rinse well with clean, cold water and place in a suitable position to drain. When dry polish them inside and outside, as far as possible, with a fine cloth.

If the decanters are very badly stained on the inside a little muriatic acid should be added to the water instead of the brown paper or shot.

Fine pieces of coal placed in a bottle with warm water and shaken for some time will also remove stains.

STARCH MAKING.

To make starch, allow one-half pint of cold water and one quart of boiling water to every two tablespoonfuls of starch. Put the starch in a large saucepan and pour on the cold water, stirring all the while with a spoon to remove all lumps. When the mixture is smooth place the pan on the hot stove and pour boiling hot water over the starch, continuing the stirring. If made properly the starch will thicken immediately. It very often happens that the water is not at boiling point when being poured on the starch, and in this case it will not thicken, and must, therefore, be emptied into a clean vessel and placed on the fire to boil. When smooth remove from the stove and strain. Set aside to cool, taking care that it is covered so that a skin will not form over the top. To give a shiny and smooth appearance to the linen when ironed, stir a piece of wax candle three or four times in the starch. This will also prevent the iron from sticking.

Good Substitute.

"I wanted to use a perforated stamping pattern," says a needlewoman, "and being unable to find my take of stamping paste, I took a blue marking pencil, dipped the point in kerosene and went carefully over the perforated lines. On removing the pattern I had a clear, well defined marking, with none of the smudging which sometimes results from the stamping paste. Keep the pencil point well wet with the kerosene."

The summer cottage soon will be Filled up with friends,
And dad will bunk upon the floor—
That's how it always ends.

Exercises and the Boy

By George L. Listman
Y. M. C. A. Physical Director.

Whatever aids or contributes to a boy's welfare in mind and body appeals at once to our interest. "The boy of today is the man of tomorrow." Let a loss of time in getting lost in the largeness of com*plexity of the question, but make a* careful study of the boy and his welfare.

Nearly 700 Young Men's Christian Association report work for boys; out of this number about 600 have physical departments. The total membership is nearly 100,000, out of which 75,000 are in physical work. Besides the Young Men's Christian Association's there are numerous societies, clubs and associations, connected with churches, schools and other organizations, well organized doing work for boys between the ages of 10 and 17, and about 80 per cent. have physical work and athletics. The Public School Athletic League is increasing in membership each year, and is well founded in all the large cities, great things are being accomplished in the way of systematic exercise and outdoor athletics. The Sunday School Athletic League which started in Brooklyn a few years ago is reaching the young men of the Sunday schools as well as the boys. A great many of the larger cities and some of the smaller towns have well organized leagues, and we have yet to hear of a failure. The superintendents and officials of the schools are unanimous in their approval of the league.

George L. Listman, Physical Director.

With our public play grounds and public baths, our baseball and athletic fields, the first impression would naturally be that the youth of today is getting all the exercise necessary. Still thousands are left without any bodily exercise (systematic) or any part whatever in this vital work, which means so much to their future.

It is needless for us to expect a sickly boy to be a physically well man. The boy who stores up vitality now has it for future use. We can readily see, and say from past experience that random play will not do enough for a boy, but that he must have something else. Some boys need building up up before they are able to play a vigorous game. *Play is apt to develop disproportiona*tely unless varied. Play combined with exercise is most beneficial. Baseball is valued educationally as well as physically, we find here for example, the player develops control of temper, self reliance, perseverance, quickness and judgment, lungs are also benefited in all most games and sports. The boy has a natural love for games, the whole child is worked upon—body, mind, hand, eye, heart, will and brain. Boys' classes must be made attractive, his love for games encouraged, combined with exercise.

Health does not depend upon the amount of muscles one possesses, but upon the balanced action of all the organs and functions of the body. Develop proportionally and simultaneously the right arm as well as the left, the stomach muscles as well as the biceps. *After getting develop*ment, continue exercise, for as soon as worked is stopped, so soon as the muscles fail to be nourished, they will lose their vitality.

Thus we have our play grounds *with expert supervision, our gymnas*iums, athletic clubs, colleges with the best athletic and physical directors obtainable, to give advice and instruct the boy in the exercise and play that is beneficial.

G. Stanley Hall says in "Adolescence" some exercises are more beneficial and more interesting than others. It is because they touch and revive the deep basic emotions of the race. Thus we see see that play is not only doing things to be useful later, but is rehearsing racial history. Plays and games change only in their external forms, but the underlying neuro-muscular activities and also the psychic content of them is the same. Just as psychic states must be lived out up through the grades, so the physical activities must be played off each in their own time.

Dr. Luther H. Gulick divides play into three childish periods, separated by ages 2 and 7, and attempts to characterize the plays of early adolescence from 12 to 17, and later adolescence from 17 to 23. He says children before 7 rarely play spontaneously, but often do so under the intimulus of older persons. From 7 to 12 games are almost exclusively individualistic and competitive.

Imitation is a good point in a boys favor, and when we get him imitating right principles, our worry for his welfare is lessened.

It has been suggested that a two-year compulsory training for boys between 14 and 19 years of age would serve to lay a foundation, on which he could continue to build. If this were true, it would have untold value.

A boy must be studied. Gymnastic and athletics for men, women and girls are a separte field. On account of the growth and physical changes going on in a boys' life between 13 and 17 years of age great care must be taken. We might classify the years of the boy in relation to his exercise as follows:

5-10 years of age, play, light calisthenics to develop circulation and breathing.

10-16 years of age, calisthenics, light apparatus, games, with very little exertion.

15-20 years of age, apparatus work, calisthenics, games. The exercise can now be increased, the boy in most cases has his growth and development is reaching a climax.

Dr. Ott, in a paper on the effect of exercise on apparatus for boys over 14 years of age, has the following to say: "The results are as follows: Increase of power of the muscles involved, stimulation of nutrition and change of tissue, and all around command of the musculature, for mastering definitely prescribed series of movements, makes a high co-ordinative power, and lung, heart and circulation experience a moderate increase of action." We draw from the above that after exercise becomes more polished, muscles obey with rapidity which were slow and awkward. To specialists continued exercise of the same kind on the same kind of apparatus sometimes causes deformity, this is the main reason for advising varied games and apparatus work.

Temporary disturbances in the rhymthical breathing only occur during sets of exertion. This fact needs special attention, since such disturbances should and can be avoided, especially in weak and awkward children.

In backward children, where there is a stunted growth of body, clumsy gait, defective speech, deafness (effects of which are speech more numerous in backward children) dull features, general indolence, no energy, lack of self control, they stand in need of physical training, and exercise in gymnastics and athletics. The effects are not limited to bodily gains, but he arouses all the defects mentioned, he finds himself face to face with his own incompetency and comparison with others.

The result of this is many fold—ambition and energy is aroused, awkwardness is eliminated, confidence in himself is gained, his contact with others gives him proper appreciation of their merits, and a spirit of friendship is awakened.

Some years ago an experiment was tried in the Elmira Reformatory in New York, under the direction of one of the instructors, which gives us the most convincing evidence. Some of the most obtuse dullards that could be found in the Reformatory were selected, and put through a thorough course of physical training for one year. This class began at once to improve mentally as well as physically. All made such successful progress in their studies as to warrant promotion from the lowest into the highest grade, and most of them maintained their improved mental standing after the period of special training had elapsed.

In any of the large cities it will be found that the so-called poorer classes are not only poor in external evidence of wealth, but poorer in person. There is a difference of from four to five inches between the average stature, and fifteen to twenty pounds between the best and poorest matured classes. Can we not conclude from the above that those who have hearing and sight sharpened by systematic play and exercise, will also make use of these improved faculties in the school room and at their work.

Athletics affect a boy's respiration, action of heart, nutrition, change of tissue, nervous system, muscle and bony structure. Different forms of exercise affect the various parts of the body in different degrees. Exercise produces two absolutely different effects, it increases the process of assimilation, by which the body gains new tissue, and it accelerates the process of dissimulation which leads to the destruction of certain raw materials.

All forms of running requires good heart, long distance running also good lungs. By moderate training the boy will be prepared for any emergency. It is impossible to tell how great a value the previous physical training will be to the boy in after life.

It has been said: "That the best curative for nervousness is physical and manual training. There are thousands of children in our schools who are unfitted by physical weakness of muscles and brains to give their best attention to educational work. They are driven by the teachers to cover the ground, to go through the books, to be promoted and finish the course, and by the time they finish the school they are physically unsound and incapable of doing any good in the world." In looking over the great men of the world we notice their sound minds and vigorous bodies—power built up while boys which served them through manhood.

A great many children carry one shoulder high, get round shoulders, and other curvatures from improper posture in school and at home, from different conditions of light and heat, sun shining on them, poor seats, etc. It is up to the parents to see that examinations are made so all defects can be corrected as far as possible. A large per cent of curvatures are found by accident when examined by a physician for some other ailment, or by the examiner when he enters some association. Often times this is found out too late and can not be corrected, if on the other hand the parents will do their duty toward their children this can not happen. Cleanliness, clothing, sleep, food and breathing are of the utmost importance and should be a careful study of each home.

A boy often becomes deformed by working at one employment. Proportion is lost. The open air is essential. He needs experience of heat and cold. "Life is not all sunshine, neither is it all storm." We should be able to enjoy the one and withstand the other."

A boys greatest height is generally obtained at the age of 15, his greatest weight at 16, his greatest girth at 16, and greatest strength at 16, greatest lung capacity at 18. These figures were taken from a test made in Boston out of 500 boys taking exercise.

Gymnastics aid a boy in height, strength, weight and girth, while athletics develop the lungs. As has been said a boys' field is very important and needs competent men during these years of growth, as adolescence.

Stress should be laid on posture and hygienic drills, not on long complicated and drudgery work.

Each boy needs exercise as much as he needs food. Every artery should be filled with fresh blood, every muscle educated, every nerve invigorated by proper movements, it may never be known scientifically what an important and tremendous influence the body and all its organs *exert upon the brain, and conse*quently upon the development of the intellect.

In other countries they are finding out the need of the physical boy, and such countries as Sweden, and Germany need no introduction for what they have contributed towards giving ample room and study for their young manhood. Russia is also going ahead through the efforts of the Young Men's Christian Association. In Japan compulsory exercises are required from children between the ages of 6 and 12. In Portugal they recognize the need of physical training, and use their spacious school yards for the work.

The boy who follows up the muscular exercises, and develops his play instinct, will ad develop the fine sense of attention and expression, observation and judgment, that he will be able to stand out head and shoulders above his fellow man, not only in physic but in al around intellect and good character, as well as muscular manhood.

THE DRAWN-IN GOWN.

Women are still insistent in the matter of the retention of the slender silhouette, and, although skirts have taken unto themselves a more voluminous outline, there is a straight effect centred on most of the evening gowns by a drawn-in effect near the lower edge of the skirt.

This is secured in many ways. There is a clever manipulation of the fulness of the tunic by gathering the edges into a deep frill or satin band, 2 inches in width, and is a straight band or a deep-pointed fold.

The fulness of the outer skirt is also held in by a deep hem of contrasting color and material.

Another scheme is the use of cordings run through wide tucks. Here is the opportunity to give the hidden touch effect on the skirt. Silk ribbons encircling the skirt wind in and out, now hidden beneath the folds of chiffon, voile or muslin and now bursting into bars of color.

You see that the full skirts are made subservient to the demands of the time, an evidence that at last the times of the past are not too compelling and that the artistic eye is in control in the deciding of a costume.

Beats Any Sunrise.

The rooster's crow does very well
As "music now and then;
But the thing that stands for something
Is the cackle of the hen.
While the first may crow the sun up,
We aren't likely to forget
That a fresh egg served for breakfast
Beats the finest sunrise yet.

Flexible Arms.

"I can now button my shirtwaists all the way up."

"Then you ought to pat yourself on the back."

"Well, if I wanted to, I could probably do it. I have developed the necessary dexterity, I judge."—Louisville Courier-Journal

NEATNESS IN BOYS AND GIRLS.

Neatness is always attractive in grown-ups, and the best place to begin is with the little boys and girls.

It is difficult, as everyone who tries it knows, to teach children to keep their belongings in order, or to be careful and neat; but when once the habit of neatness is inculcated, it is of inestimable value to the boy or girl in his or her future life and well worth all the trouble incurred.

An ingenious mother thought out an excellent plan. She made it an unalterable rule that there should be a place for everything and everything kept in its place. When any of the family found anything belonging to another member of it out of place they were at liberty to put it in "chancery." The chancery was a room, kept locked and presided over by the mother. Any article entered there called for one cent to effect its release. At first caps, slates, pencils, slippers came teeming in, and following them the pennies for release, and these formed a fund for purchasing something to promote tidiness—such as note paper baskets, paper racks, slipper cases and so on.

Soon, by firmly adhering to the rule of demanding the ransom money, the articles coming to chancery decreased and the lesson was thoroughly taught to all the children, from the oldest ones away at college to the little maid of 4 years of age at home and mother's "right-hand." Outside the chancery door there hung a slate with a pencil attached and when any article was confiscated the date was noted.

A certain time fixed for their detention was a wise forethought, for if the articles or toys must remain in chancery three or four days or a week their little owners will think more of being deprived of their treasures than even of paying the necessary penny to release them; and the toy comes out again with a certain freshness that makes it doubly attractive.

But parents should always remember that they must set a good example, and the servants should be instructed to remember neatness as absolutely imperative. Children are very quick at detecting inconsistencies, and notice at once the fact that their elders are not practising what they are so sternly preached.

SHOULD NOT RELY ON BEAUTY ALONE.

The pretty girl is apt to rely on her beauty alone to achieve popularity, and it is because she sometimes does not exhibit any beauty of mind and character that she so often fails in her desire. In fact, there is a certain amount of pride and haughtiness about many girls possessed of beauty which makes them the reverse of amiable.

Knowing that she has not personal beauty to depend upon in order to make herself popular, the plain-looking girl cultivates an amiable and good-tempered natured, and this at once appeals to those with whom she comes in contact and makes them forget her plainness. She is a ready, sympathetic listener, and encourages people to talk of themselves rather than of herself.

On the other hand, the pretty girl generally prefers that the pretty girl should do the talking for conversation and it is generally the man who can pay her the prettiest compliments and greatest admiration who finds her the most agreeable.

It has often been asked what constitutes an ideal girl, and a well-known author says it is one who combines with high culture a love of the domesticated and a desire to please. This last should not be so excessive as to degenerate into vanity and conceit, but should be sufficiently powerful to induce its possessor to dress attractively, keep her pretty hair in its glossy best, to be as smart and neat and up-to-date in all matters pertaining to the toilet as any of her less useful sisters.

Mustard Greens.

Wash the mustard leaves thoroughly cut them in shreds or run them through a food chopper and put them over the fire, dripping wet, in a tightly covered saucepan. If necessary, add water very judiciously, in small quantities, so there will be no liquid on the greens when they are done. Season with salt and cayenne pepper and stir in one tablespoonful of corn meal, sprinkling it carefully and stirring hard, so it will not form lumps. Let the greens cook until both they and the meal are thoroughly done.

Pineapple Snow.

Two whites of eggs, one-half pint of cream, whipped; four tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar, one-half small pineapple. Pare, remove the eyes and grate the pineapple. Put the pulp upon a sieve to drain. Beat the eggs until foamy; add the sifted sugar by degrees, beating steadily; then beat until stiff and glossy. Whip the cream (which has been on ice for hours) to a stiff froth over a pan of ice. Stir it carefully into the meringue. Then fold in the pineapple pulp, adding as much as the cream and meringue will hold without becoming too soft. Serve very cold in custard glasses.

—Constitutionalist's ads. pay.

CORPORATIONS PAY $2,538,897.79 IN TAXES

Showing aggregate taxes of $2,538,897.79 assessed against 7,143 miscellaneous corporations, Irvine Maguire, secretary of the State Board of Assessors, has filed with the State Comptroller, Henry J. West, a preliminary schedule of the corporations taxes for 1910. The corresponding schedule filed last year showed 6,729 companies with an aggregate tax of $2,522,358.67, making the taxes for this year show an increase of $17,539.12.

The schedule just filed is made up as follows: Five life insurance companies incorporated in this State with a tax of $457,015.39; one parlor, palace or sleeping car company, tax $4,167.57; five express companies, $1,563.54; 7,132 companies taxed upon capital stock, tax $2,077,011.29. Practically the only increase in the taxes this year is in the classification of insurance companies, the advance on these corporations being $17,746.70.

The largest tax paid by a single company is that by the Prudential Insurance Company, of Newark, its assessment being $342,788.38. Another large assessment is that against the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company, also of Newark, which is $104,681.52. From these large sums the assessments scale down to amounts of less than $1.

The assessments against the companies with capital stock issued to the extent of $100,000,000 or more, are as follows: Amalgamated Copper Company, capital stock, $153,887,900, tax $11,444.39; American Tobacco Company, capital $118,921,500, tax $9,696.17; International Harvester Company, $120,000,000, tax $9,750; International Mercantile Marine Company, $120,000,000, tax $9,750; Rock Island Company, $150,000,000, tax $11,550, and the United States Steel Corporation, capital stock, $868,585,600, tax $47,179.18.

ANNUAL RECEPTION OF COLORED ODD FELLOWS

The fourteenth annaul reception of Union Lodge, No. 4026, Grand United Order of Odd Fellows, will be held at Saengerbund Hall, Thurs*day night, June 23.* There will be a musical entertainment from 8:30 to 10 o'clock, and M. V. P. John C. Asbury, of Philadelphia, editor and manager of the Odd Fellows' Journal, will make an address.

The first part of the evening will be devoted to a fine program to be presented by talent from this city and elsewhere. In addition to the address by Mr. Asbury, who will speak on the subject, "The G. U. O. of O. F. from 1843," Deputy Grand Master W. H. Corbin will speak on "The Order in the State," Past Grand Master James H. Penn, on "The G. U. O. of O. F. and its Principles." Dr. J. C. Anderson will be master of ceremonies.

All lodges and Household of Ruth have been invited. The grand march will start at 10:30 o'clock. The committees in charge of the affair are as follows:

Reception—William H. Jones, chairman; Walter Davis, C. C. Irby, John Kates. Refreshments—Robert Stevens, chairman; James D. Smith, William Johnson, George Toomey. General—John W. Maury, chairman; Thomas Bowser, Edgar McCray, John W. Reed, Thomas J. Banks, A. W. Brown, Howard Benn, A. S. Venable, Tucker Johnson, James H. Walker, Edward E. Jackson, Charles Thompson, Edward Urquhart, J. L. Freeman, Oscar W. Green, Waverly Carter, Charles White, Upston Goldstone, Armstead Jackson, Robert Stewart, Samuel R. Webley, W. H. Bullock, William Powell, James C. Andrews, William Jetter, W. H. Lee, James G. Perkins, James Turner, George Robinson, Louis Tunstill, Walter Ford, Joseph Selby, Taylor Cooper. Floor committee—George M. Anderson, chairman; Harry Gordon and William Kates.

Easily Satisfied.

An old draky, sent to a hospital, upon his arrival was placed in a ward, says Harper's, and one of the nurses put a thermometer in his mouth to take his temperature.

When the house doctor made his rounds, he said:

"Well, my man, how do you feel?"

"I feels tol-able, sir."

"Have you had anything to eat yet?"

"Yessuh, I had a little."

"What did you have?"

"A lady done gimme a piece of glass to suck, suh."

A Forecast.

Jones—What do you think will be the end of the woman question?

Brown—Won't be no end. They'll always be askin' 'em.

Slightly Changed.

"Money makes the mare go"—
That saying's old enough to die;
For in this modern age, you know,
'Tis 'Money makes the biplane fly.'

IT WAS CHILDREN'S DAY

Special Exercises in All the Evangelical Churches Sunday.

MUSIC, SINGING AND SPEAKING.

The Edifices Were Especially Decorated for the Occasion—Large Attendances at all the Services.

The feature in nearly all the church services Sunday was the celebration of "Children's Day" and in spite of the rain all of the exercises were largely attended. Perhaps the largest gathering of all was that in the Park Avenue church in the evening, where even the Sunday school rooms were requisitioned to accommodate the audience.

First Baptist.

The program at the First Baptist church Sunday afternoon was rendered under the direction of Arthur M. Harris, superintendent of the junior department; Mrs. Harold Serrell, Mrs. J. A. Powlison and Frank W. Jones. Superintendent James E. Church, was detained on account of illness in the family.

The church was attractively decorated with flowers, there being a cross of daises and a bee-hive on the platform. The flowers were afterward distributed among the sick of the congregation. A feature was the presence of eight canary birds and they sang constantly throughout the service, being in the nature of an accompaniment to the singing of the children.

The children marched in as a processional to organ music by Howard Case, after which they sang "Festal Day of Beauty." An invocation by H. W. Herman, preceded responsive reading led by Harold Serrell. Then followed this program:

Song, "Singing Hosannas," school; recitations, "The Sunday school Hive," Hazel Coddington, Katherine Endress, Dorothy Krewson, Beatrice Overbaugh, Katherine Stevens; recitation, "A Flower Sermon," Ruth Homan; song, "Thank You," primary department; recitation, "A Row of B's," Katherine Herrman, Jean Macnab, Lillie Rollerson, Evelyn Tenayson, Isabel Wilson; soprano solo, Miss Ruth Harris; song, "A Band of Loyal Workers," school; address, Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss; song, "Step Into the Sunshine," junior department; recitation "Work in the Hive," LeRoy Adams, Harold Gerhold, Horace Fisher, Russell Lee, Benjamin Letson, G. Malcolm Marsh, Preston Smith; recitation, "Did You Ever Hear?" Katherine Armstrong, Emily Pilger, Anna Sherwin; offertory duet, Miss Ruth Harris and George Smith; song, "Lovelier Than All," school; recitation, "Make Glad Your Corner," Genevieve Letson; song, "Open Your Hearts to the Good," school; benediction, Rev. Dr. Chambliss.

In connection with the exercises there was the graduation of children and presentation to the children of small books by Mr. Harris. Those graduated were as follows:

Beginners to primary department, Dorothy Gerhold, Alleyne Macnab, Howard Wayne Mack. Primary to junior department, Eva Jane Ball, Marjorie Greanault, Galdys Lee, Louise Sill, Benjamin V. Carpenter, John Henry Cose, Randolph Douglas, Kenneth Pierce Fountain, Alexander Milne, Jr., Sanford Roome, Roy Kenneth Spratt, Charles White, Bessie Blair Case, Katheryn Herrman, Lillie Blake Rollerson, Edward A. Billian, Everett Lewis Case, Ralph W. Herman, John T. Endress, Raymond J. Gerhold, Lloyd Mundy, Irving J. Scarborough, Walter Sutphen, Junior to intermediate department, Anna Blume, Wilhelmina Endress, Mae S. Holdich, LeRoy Elmer Adams, Elmer H. Frech, Russell K. Lee, Hassel A. Coddington, Isabel May Goldown, Dorothy M. Krewson, Russell Cose, Clarence Krauses and G. Malcom Marsh.

Some of the children took up the offering in small seashore pails, and it amounted to about $20. There was no evening service at the church.

First M. E.

At the First M. E. church the exercises took place Sunday morning in connection with the regular morning service, and an attractive program was arranged under the direction of Superintendent James R. Joy, assisted by Miss Edna French and Mrs. Thomas MacDonald. The beginners' department had an interesting program of songs and a few recitations, followed with a more extensive program by the primary department under the direction of Mrs. MacDonald.

There was an exercise in which twenty-seven children represented different countries and Hester Siebbins represented "Columbia," the spirit of Children's Day. Each child carried a pennant of red, white and blue and on each one was printed the number of people helped by contributions taken at this time. The children in this drill, which was performed perfectly, and was very impressive, were Amy Lorton, Howard Hall, Carrie Creager, Howard Fisher, Charlotte Carpenter, Margaret Dunavan, Russell Lynn, Bowen Henry, Genevieve Longcor, Thora Vail, Arthur McVoy, Janet Marchant, Frank Rowley, Jessie Randall, Ida Bennett, Elizabeth Hicks, William Ramsey, Louis Beckman, Edwin MacKay, Ella Vail, Myrtle Harrell, Ellsworth Runyon, Russell Huff, Thelma Dawson, Warren Moyer, Robert Cline, Russell Lorton and Harold Seal.

After the drill a collection was taken up by Myra Stebbins, Lucile Ewart, Anna Woodcock, Hazel Bingaman, Helen Edgar and Myrtle Darling, after which they marched to the platform, kneeled while Myra Stebbins repeated a simple prayer.

During the service three children and one adult were baptized by Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, and Miss Bertha Vanderwilla sang a solo. The Sunday-school was presented with a handsome American flag by George M. Rittenhouse. The church was attractively decorated with flowers which were afterwards given to the sick of the congregation.

Monroe Avenue.

A large congregation at the Monroe Avenue church enjoyed the services Sunday morning. The platform was extended, and was arranged so as to represent a large playground with "brick" pillars and a wall on both sides and in front. Inside the decorations were tastefully carried out in greens. A large path way led up the center into the playground, and it was here that the children made their recitations. These included, "Roses Red and White," by John Morton, Herman Toms, Russell Pound and Lester Symonds. The Misses Edith Mowen, Ruth Kemble and Helen Egel then rendered selections, and Teddy Schwarz gave the "Heroes" in an able manner. "The Saviour Child" was recited by Miss Constance Durant, and "The Message of the Flowers" by the Misses Ethel Martin and Elsie Vail. Eraice Mowen followed with a recitation and was followed by the Misses Cathy Donaldson, Madeline Davis, Alice Spangenberg and Cornelia Lyle, who gave "Sumertime Is Here." This program was completed by the recitations of four youngsters of the kindergarten department: Helen Watton, Beatrice Shreve, Hester Saums and Helen McDonald. Special songs were rendered by the school during the day under the direction of John Daub and the feature of the exercises was the talk to the children by the pastor, the Rev. Mr. Kemble, who took for his topic, "Spreading Sunshine." Six infant baptisms followed the exercises.

Crescent Avenue.

Simple exercises marked the celebration of Children's Day at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church Sunday afternoon. These consisted of carols by the children and an address appropriate to the occasion by the pastor, Rev. Dr. John Sheridan Zelie. The school was tastefully decorated with daises and greens. At the morning service the primary department choir sang carols.

The Congregational.

At the Congregational church the services of Children's Day were attended by a large number of the members of the church and an almost full attendance of the Sunday school children. The feature of the service was the presentation of Bibles to three children who had been christened in the church and who had attended the age of seven years. This is a custom always observed in this church. Another prettty feature was the graduating exercises in which children from the primary department were promoted to the junior grade.

Those who received the Bibles were Harriette C. Morgan, Roberta E. Fuller and Roselyn B. Listman. The graduates, each of whom was given a copy of the New Testament and a diploma, recited selections from various parts of the Scriptures to the satisfaction of their teachers. Their names follow: Marguerite Beck, Katharine Clark, Katharine Martin, Harold Neilsen, Albert Reaney, George Rockfellow, Henry Zwelfel and Russell Allen.

The primary department sang carols appropriate to the day and Charles E. Lewis also sang a solo in keeping with the sentiment of the occasion. Rev. Charles L. Goodell gave the children a nature talk, using an olive tree for an illustration. The pastor demonstrated the fineness of the wood with samples taken from a tree at Olivet.

The church was beautifully decorated with flowers, the altar being literally loaded with fragrant blossoms. Back of the altar were long strings of daises from which hung suspended baskets of roses whose perfumes permeated the entire auditorium. Altogether, in spite of the rain it was one of the best Children's Day held in this church.

First Presbyterian.

An excellent Children's Day program was presented at the First Presbyterian church Sunday morning, the beginners' department being in charge of Mrs. George A. Mallen-trae and the primary department under the direction of Miss Ella Lounsbery. A feature was the presentation of roses to everyone in attendance. These were given for the purpose by William H. Shotwell and there were five hundred roses in all.

Following the organ prelude, the processional, invocation and Lord's Prayer and a carol, "Golden Days are Dawning," by the school, the beginners' department had its part in the program as follows:

Introduction, "The King's Scholars," Miss Pauline Gates; recitation, Miss Helen Almy, Miss Mary Vanclef and Miss Ruth Hammond; concert recitation, Raymond Adams, John Martin, Paul Duttenhofer, Alvin Dunn, Richard Fullerton, and Henrietta Clarkson; carol, "Love Song." This program was presented by the primary department:

Recitation, "Many a Little," four boys; carol, "Little Stars;" recitations, "Sing a Song of Daisies," four girls; "Jesus' Flowers," three girls; carol, "Thank You." The rest of the program follows:

Carol, "Lullaby of the Roses;" offertory, organ, "To a Wild Rose," MacDowell; soprano solo, "The King of Love," Gounod, Master C. Shelton Moora; carol, "Sunbeams Everywhere; presentation of diplomas; anthem, "Praise ye the Lord," with soprano obligato," Roberts; address, Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring; carol, "Alleluias Singing;" prayer and benediction, organ postlude.

At Trinity Reformed.

At Trinity Reformed in the morning eleven children were baptized just before the opening of the morning's exercises. These were: Ruth Elsie Mary, Alfred George and Helen Leonora Zepp, children of Mr. and Mrs. George Zepp; Arne Frederick Neilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Neilson; Hazel Marie and Dorothy Naomi Van Sickle, daughters of Will Roy Van Sickle; Arthur Embury Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Smith; Eleanor Louise Thorn, daughter of Clarence L. Thorn; George Saums Van Arsdale, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. William Van Arsdale; Beatrice Orton Kline, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel S. Kline and Edward Gustavus Andrews, son of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Andrews.

The exercises which followed were thoroughly enjoyed by a large congregation. The recitations and songs were rendered by the little folks in a manner to make their parents proud. Particularly was this so in the case of Adele Freeman in "A Message of Joy." This young girl sang with much expression and sweetly. Master Charles Todd in Schubert's "Serenade," displayed unusual talent and will some day become a great violinist. "The Seven Sisters" in rainbow costumes were very pretty and ended their exercise with a song entitled, "Shining for Him." There were eight girls in this as follows: Marion Blair, Marion Wooley, Gladys Humbert, Helen Shyarback, Louise Seader, Marjorie Dufford, Helen McAfee and Nellie McAfee.

The Junior department were prominent with their singing and reciting and all of them did well. Especially pretty was the song "Just Being Happy." They sang it as if it were so.

Pastor Broek in a short address showed by well chosen illustrations what an arrow the tongue can be made. How it can hit the mark and accomplish much for the Master.

The altar was a mass of beautiful flowers lending a touch of brightness which the weather could not dim.

Processional, song, school; Scripture lesson, prayer by the pastor; sacrament of infant baptism; "address of Welcome," Warren Kellog; song, "Greet the Children's Day," primary department; recitation, "Our Gift," Pauline Davidson; song, "Jesus' Little Ones," beginners' department; exercise, "God is Love," Dorothy Van Winkle, Evelyn Vanburgh, Hazel Creaveling, Sylvia Givens Francis, Neighbor, Gertrude Rittenhouse, Alva Hansen, Gladys Bye; song, "Nodding in the Sunshine," Edna Smith, Ruth Freeman, Grace Sowden, Dorothy Crane, Helen Haud, Mildred Darke, Helen Thompson, Esther Kellogg; recitation, "For Today," Carman Trembath; recitation, "Why We Have Children's Day," Ethel Givens; song, "Living for the Master," primary department; recitations, "When Mother Looks in at the Door," Helen Thompson; "The Seven Sisters," Marion Blair, Margaret Smith; song, "See Them Swing," Dorothy Seader, Alma Allegar, Dorothey Van Winkle, Clara Oberg, Marjorie Dufford, Ruth Gulick; recitation, "The Difference," Clifford Williams; song, "Just Being Happy," junior department; exercise, "Seven Sisters," Marion Blair, Marion Wooley, Gladys Humbert, Helen Shyarback, Louise Seader, Marjoire Storr, Helen McAfee, Nellie McAfee; violin solo, "Schubert Serenade," Master Charles Todd; "Message of Joy," Adele Freeman; address by the pastor; song, "Hear the Merry Birds," primary department; announcements, offering, song by the school, doxology, benediction.

The Park Avenue.

Pulpit, pulpit and Sunday school room in the Park Avenue Baptist church were beautifully draped with the American flag and flowers bordered the platform on which the pupils of the Bible school gathered Sunday night. The draped flags formed a beautiful back ground for the white attire of the children.

Master Chester Chamberlain, the boy soprano, sang beautifully the two numbers, "A Prayer" and "Hold Thou My Hand." Miss Edith Bechtel, a promising young soprano, rendered "The Holy City," and had applause been permissible this young girl would have had to respond to an encore. Again in "The Beautiful Flag" Miss Bechtel covered herself with glory.

Emily VanWinkle, Irene Moy, Cornelia Smith and Clara Hadley all did well in their rather difficult recitations and the elementary department sang surprisingly a praise song. Mrs. Ada M. Cuming sang "Not Half Has Ever Been Told." the congregation joining heartily in the chorus.

Pastor Maguire interested the adults as well as the children with an exhibition of relics of his sojourn in "Darkest Africa," idols, implements of warfare, fetiches, a snake skin and other things absorbed the attention of everybody and his stories of the various uses of the weapons, the customs of the savages and "eating the peace feast" were amusing and instructive. He said, "Teddy Roosevelt is not the only man who can shoot wild animals in Africa," as he exhibited a pair of gloves made from the skin of a leopard shot by himself.

The exercises came to a close with the singing of "America," the congregation standing, while the children on the platform waved tiny American flags in time with the music, all of which added a patriotic flavor to the proceedings and stirred the blood to quicker action and made everybody glad that they had been present. The singing of the children was especially good and they were admirably assisted by Miss Mary Clark at the piano, William Holmes in a solo, "I Will Parise Thee," just preceding Mr. Maguire's address. The collection which was for the benefit of the Baby Camp on Johnston's Drive, amounted to $55.33. An ochestra under the leadership of Arthur Mosher played the recessional and for the offertory Whitney Frazee played a cornet solo.

Superintendent George E. Hall presented each one in the audience with a convenir program and a fan containing the printed aim of the school and how this aim is realized. The program committee was composed of George E. Hall, Mrs. Ada Cuming, Mrs. W. S. Lowry, Miss Mary E. Clark, Miss Elmira Runyon and Miss Florence G. Hawkins.

Selection, orchestra; "Onward, Christian Soldiers," chorus choir; opening exercise, school and congregation; prayer, Rev. G. R. Maguire; solo, "A Prayer," Chester Chamberlain; hymn, school and congregation; recitation, "The Birth of Children's Day," Clara Hadley; solo, "Growing Old," Cornelia Smith; "The Flag of the Free," chorus choir; leaf exercise, Joe Bush, Doris Henry, Sarah Johnson, Gladys Hadley, Harold Bush; solo, "The Holy City," Edith Bechtel; offertory, cornet solo, "Face to Face," Whitney Frazee; hymn, school and congregation; "Down in the Blossom Dell," chorus choir; recitation, "'Tis Summer Time," Irene Moy; solo, "Hold Thou My Hand, Dear Lord," Chester Chamberlain; recitation, "'Tis Children's Day Again," Emily Van Winkle; solo, "Not Half Has Ever Been Told" Mrs. Ada Cuming; song, "Happy Days Meadows," elementary department; solo and chorus, "Beautiful Flag," Edith Bechtel; recitation, "Children's Day," Cornelia Smith; praise song, elementary department; solo, William Holmes; address by the pastor, Gabriel Reid Maguire; "America," school and congregation; benediction, pastor; selection, orchestra.

Grace M. E.

The exercises at Grace M. E. church too place Sunday, when two records— that of attendance and the size of the collection—were broken.

A part of the exercises was the baptism of five infants and one adult. As the babies were brought in they were preceded by children with baskets of flowers singing "God Bless the Babies." The rest of the program was as follows: Greeting song, Helen and Grace Bolen; exercise, school and congregation; Harold Davis, Arthur Townley, Kenneth Giddes; recitation, "Smiles;" Emma Shoop; solo, Ruth Nichols; exercise, "How Do You Do?" Helen and Grace Bolen, Ruth Conover, Florence Hoagland, Adelaide Jones, Erma Shoop; recitation, "The Rosebuds," Madeline Walker; solo, "The Clock," Florence Hoagland; recitation, "Summertime," Edna Jones very tiny); The Rainy Day Brigade, (children singing under umbrellas), Harold and Bertha Davis, Ruth Conover, Albert Mimbo, Edna and Adelaide Jones; recitation, "Til Do My Part." Adelaide Jones; Sunbeam Drill, Helen Nelson, Mildred Harden, Grace Conover, Bessie Taynor, Elizabeth Hoagland, Edna Mantz, Marion Jones, Elizabeth Voorhees; recitation, "Summer's Message," (with telephone). Helen Nelson; recitation, "Your Part," Walter Conover.

Those who were baptised are: Flonda Cordelia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William S. England; Mary Francis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Nichols; Marion Adelaide, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Mundy; George Augustus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Herrman; Frank Newton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Shepard, and Miss Madeline Irene Mundy.

Netherwood Reformed.

The exercises at the Netherwood Reformed church were splendidly carried out and being the first service of the kind in the new church made a record for it. Two infants were baptized—Esther Hilda Frumerie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Frumerie, and Jeanette Rusa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. O. Rusa.

The little church was profusely decorated with flowers and there were over 100 in the audience. The children sang carols and other music was furnished by Miss Maude Berry, Mr. Stevenson and S. O. Rush. The recitations by the children of the Sunday school were remarkably well done and reflected credit on their teachers.

JUDGE RUNYON'S AID FOR PASTOR MAGUIRE

City Judge William N. Runyon, who for thirteen years has been serving as pianist, teacher and leader of the singing class of Hope chapel, announced Sunday at the chapel services his resignation from these activities and that hereafter he would take up a similar line of work at his home church, the Park Avenue Baptist. Yesterday's music was a special feature in recognition of the fact that it was Judge Runyon's last Sunday at the chapel in his official capacity.

Rev. L. R. Howard and F. H. Andrews made short addresses concerning the popular man. Mr. Howard said that it was with a deep sense of regret that the chapel was to lose Mr. Runyon and he felt sure his influence would always live. He said that all were conscious of the loss his absence would make in the chapel life and he was sure that the Judge would always be with them in spirit. "No one questioned the wisdom of his decision," said Mr. Howard, "for he is doing what has been taught at the chapel, that is the duty every member to his church." Mr. Howard publicly thanked Judge Runyon for his long service.

Mr. Andrews spoke briefly of Judge Runyon's work during the past thirteen years. The Judge before taking up the lesson of the day, made a statement to his class, explaining the reasons which actuated him in making the change. He said that it was the life-long wish of his mother and of his father also that he engage in the work at the Park Avenue Baptist church, it being the church of his ancestors for a great many years.

Judge Runyon explained that when Rev. Mr. Maguire came here and accepted the pastorate, he promised him that he would do all that he could to help him and that later he asked him to take up the work at the church. He said that it was very hard for him to sever his relations at the chapel and praised every member of his class for united support and loyalty.

HIGH SCHOOL CONCERT A BIG SUCCESS.

The annual concert of the Plainfield High School, held in the High School auditorium on Saturday evening, was an artistic success, but the weather conditions affected the attendance.

The first part of the program consisted of a cantata, "The Wreck of The Hesperus," sung by the pupils with solos by Mrs. Selleck, Clyde Doane and Roy Titsworth. Mrs. Selleck also sang three other solos acceptably.

The hit of the evening was made in the presentation of the second act of Gilbert and Sullivan's "Mikado" in which Samuel B. Howe, Jr., Clyde Doane, Charles E. Lewis, Roy Titsworth, Miss Laura Bristol, Miss Bessie Alpaugh and Miss Meta Pennock did remarkably well in their parts. Miss Kathleen Phillips and Mr. Howe did the love scene splendidly.

MISS JONES TO WED VICTOR S. CLARENDON.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Nina Virginia Gregory Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip H. W. Jones, formerly of West Fifth street, but now of Elizabeth, to Victor S. Clarendon, the son of an Episcopal clergyman of Belfast, Ireland. No date has been set.

The couple met five years ago, when Miss Jones was visiting relatives in Belfast, and recently Mr. Clarendon came to Elizabeth to secure the consent of Miss Jones' parents to the engagement. He leaves Wednesday on the Lusitania for his home. Mr. Clarendon is a graduate of Trinity College, Dublin, and is an heir to what is known as the Ewart title. The family is very wealthy.

NEGRO BURGLAR SURPRISED BUTCHER VELINSKI

A surprise awaited Jocab Velinski, a butcher, of 111 West Third street on Saturday night, when he attempted to investigate the presence of a negro whom he noticed in the store while passing the place at 10 o'clock. When he entered the negro sprang at him striking him a knockout blow and made good his escape.

Velinski had closed his place of business early in order to visit some friends and it was while on his way back home an hour later that he discovered the intruder. The negro's action was so quick that Mr. Valijski could give the police but a very meagre description of the man. Nothing was taken from the store.

Freight Rates vs. Commutation Rates

By George L. Record in Jersey Journal.

Every opponent of boss rule and corporation control of our politics must be greatly encouraged at the indications of a wide-spread revolt among the commuters in New Jersey against the proposed increase of passenger rates to New York. The effect of this agitation this summer will at least have the effect of convincing many thousands of Republican voters that the Republican State leaders, in passing the Wakelee bill, acted in the interest of the railroads and against the public interest. With this fact plainly proved, these thousands of commuters will see that their only recourse is to work in the Republican primaries for the nomination of the New Idea Republican candidates, and particularly for Hon. William P. Martin for Governor.

The average commuter, of course, cannot help knowing when he is compelled to pay more for his commutation ticket. What he does not see so plainly, and what the average consumer has hitherto failed to see, is that the increased freight rates which the railroads are planning to put into force will take away from the average man a much greater sum of money annually than will the increase in commutation rates. The passenger rate increase is plain and obvious. The freight rate increase does not anywhere come home to the consumer except that he is conscious of an increasing difficulty in making both ends meet. The freight rates are paid in the first instance by the shipper, or by the consignee of the goods shipped by the producer. The consignee is usually a jobber, and charges up the freight rate plus a profit on the freight rate when he sells the goods in separate lots to the retailer. The retailer in his turn charges up a profit upon the total bill rendered by the jobber, in which bill is the original freight rate and the jobber's profit on the same. The consumer when he buys from the retailer, therefore, pays the freight rate with at least two profits on the freight rate added; all of which is included in the retail price. The consumer being the last man in the line, has nobody upon whom he can transfer this burden, and he foots the whole bill. He has no means of knowing exactly what part of each price that he pays is freight rate, and therefore his indignation is not so strongly aroused against the increase of these rates.

Everything today comes over the railroad, and usually the things which we buy at the store have come over the railroad several times. Take a suit of clothes, for instance. The cotton is grown in the South and the wool in the West, and both are shipped on the railroad as raw material to New York or New England mills, paying the freight rates. These materials are there woven into cloth, which is shipped to the jobber in some large city, paying another freight rate. The jobber splits up these goods into smaller shipments, and sends them to the different distributing points throughout the country, and on this journey they pay a third freight rate. These distributing points send them to the local points of distribution in their neighborhood, and upon this journey they pay a fourth freight rate. Upon all these freight rates each consignee of the goods adds a profit, all of which the consumer pays in the retail prices. When the people learn how their earnings are absorbed by these increased freight rates concealed in the price of goods, we will have a public opinion in America which no combination of machine politicians and corporate managers can withstand, and the demand for the fixing of rates by the government will become irresistible.

Athletic Meet Postponed.

The State championship athletic meet of the Y. M. C. A., which was to have been held Saturday, was postponed to next Saturday on account of rain. Fortunately this will enable the local association to enter a stronger team, for now Boys' Secretary Bingeman will have a better opportunity to recruit enfrants from among the local athletes. The associations entered in the meet are: Newark, Orange, Paterson, Ridgwood, Asbury Park, Elizabeth, Madison, Red Bank, Montclair and Plainfield.

Attempted Hold Up.

An attempted hold up was reported to the police on Saturday night at midnight. Rose Sheldon, of 655 West Third street made the complaint. She said that an Italian stopped her at the corner of West Third and Washington street and attempted to steal her pocketbook. An approaching citizen frightened the highwayman away.

Something Pretty.

"We women propose to establish a bank. What shall we call it?"

"Call it the Shoe and Leather. That's a good solid name."

"The idea! Now, we might call it the Ice Cream and Soda Water."

BACCULAUREATE SERMON

Plainfield High School Senior Class Goes to Borough for Their Preacher.

AT CHURCH OF HOLY CROSS.

Rev. George A. Warner Will Deliver the Sermon to the Graduating Class on Sunday Morning.

The City High School graduating class will go to the borough next Sunday morning to hear a baccalaureate sermon by Rev. George A. Warner, rector of Holy Cross church. The idea of a baccalaureate sermon is a new wrinkle in the graduation festivities of the local high school and has never been tried before. It was first broached at a class meeting held recently, when one of the members suggested the institution. It met with an enthusiastic reception and the Rev. George A. Warner was asked to preach the sermon. This he has consented to do.

The baccalaureate sermon will take the place of the usual sermon next Sunday morning and will be a part of the regular service. Special provision will be made for the graduating class in the reservation of the front seats in the centre aisle, and every member of the class is expected to attend. The class numbers about 46.

The Rev. Mr. Warner has thus far no idea of what he is going to take for the topic of the sermon. It is not likely that he will follow the plan of collegiate baccalaureate preachers in taking up for discussion some significant social movement, owing partially to the immaturity of his audience and partly to the fact that he is identified in no such specialized work. He was playing pool when seen this morning by a Daily Press reporter; and between shots told what he thought of the proposed baccalaureate sermon. "Yes, I think its a good idea," he said; but he didn't specify why. He thought that it was, perhaps, a little unusual for a City High School class to go to the borough for a part of their graduation exercises. As to the sermon itself, he didn't have the slightest idea of what it would be about.

The baccalaureate sermon is in line with a movement that has been going on in the City High School for the past five years in adopting collegiate institutions. Class Day was the first to be adopted, than the names of "Freshman," "Sophomore," "Junior" and "Senior" were adopted, and the sermon bids fair to become a permanent institution. The Rev. Mr. Warner has spoken at the City High School exercises at numerous times and as a courtesy he was selected to preach the baccalaureate sermon.

Within His Gates.

A noted minister in Washington had been urging his flock to give a hearty welcome to the stranger within the gates, not forgetting to maintain a proper interest in their own households. After the service he went to the door, as usual, and began to shake hands with the people passing out.

He was much interested in a well-dressed and intelligent-looking young girl, apparently a stranger, and greeted her heartily.

"I hope we may see you often here," he said. "We always have a warm welcome for new faces."

"Thank you, sir," she replied, modestly.

"Do you live hereabouts?" he went on.

The girl looked at him with a puzzled smile. "Yes, sir; I do."

"Will you kindly leave me your address, and my wife and I will call on you some evening," he said.

"You would not have to go far to find me—I am you cook."—National Magazine.

Two Expert Typists.

The students and friends of the Drake Business College witnessed a remarkable demonstration in shorthand and typewriting in the college rooms Friday night. Miss Florence Wilson, amateur champion typist, wrote 200 words in one minute from memorized matter without an error, at the same time carrying on a conversation with a person standing near her desk. On new and difficult matter, she wrote 113 words in one minute with but one error. Miss Malone Tarr, who made a world's record for accuracy at the recent convention in Baltimore, wrote from dictation while blindfolded 130 words in one minute and later wrote 210 words in one minute. She read her notes very readily and was heartily applauded.

An Excise Arrest.

A driver for Frank Linke, of West Front street, was released in $1,000 bail Saturday, awaiting the action of the grand jury at its next session for selling liquor in the borough without a license. The driver, it is alleged, was delivering the goods when arrested by the borough authorities. He was arraigned before Borough Recorder Charles M. Doliver.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST

VOL. XLII — PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, JUNE 23, 1910. — NO. 25.

"Support the Constitution, which is the Cement of the Union, as well in its Limitations as in its Authorities."—Madison.

NINETY-NINE GRADUATED

Diplomas Presented at Grammar Schools' Commencement Exercises.

TWO ADDRESSES WERE MADE.

The Superintendents of the City and Borough Schools Spoke to the Graduates This Afternoon.

Ninety-nine graduates of the Stillman Grammar School received diplomas entitling them to entrance into the high school, at the exercises which took place in the City High School auditorium this afternoon.

This opened with invocation by Rev. Chas. L. Goodrich. The chorus, "Jerusalem Above," followed by the graduating class after which the visions of Sir Launfal were given by Andrew Murdock Hetfield and Carter Lyman Goodrich. This was well given, especially the lines on spring and winter. After another chorus, "Santa Lucia," by the graduating class, Harold Woodruff Tomlinson gave Scott's "The Combat." This declamation was followed by the rendition of several two-part songs by a chorus of girls.

The second part of the program opened with a declamation by Frederic Warren Butler, Jr., who gave an extract from Marc Antony's Oration. The overture, "William Tell,' was ably rendered by Miss Muriel Collins, of the City High School, and Miss Whitney, of First place.

The address to the graduates was given by Superintendent H. C. Krebs, of the borough schools. His talk was direct and elicited much applause. Following an address to the graduates by Dr. Henry M. Maxson, the much coveted diplomas were presented to the graduates by Leander N. Lovell, president of the Board of Education. With the singing of "America" by the audience standing, the exercises came to a close.

Those who were graduated are:

John Leslie Allen, Walter David Alpaugh, Emma Louise Ardern.

Albert Neely Bentley, Craig Acheson Blair, Foster VonRuncie Bowlby, Zaira Evangeline Brancati, Henry Brandt, Albertina Therese Braun, Hannah Marie Bray, Frances Emily Brentnall, Arthur Wilford Briggs, Clara Lois Britton, Isabel Marion Bronson, Walter Brown, Esther May Brownlee, Jane Francis Buckly, Frederic Warren Butler, Jr.

Rae Edith Canter, Hazel Alma Crouce.

Orton Goodwin, Jr., Rose Louise Davidson, Irene Burnett Doane, Marian Jean Dorthy, Lorraine Winfield Dunn.

Annie Frances Ellis, Henriet'a Hilda Ennander.

Charles Fay, Pauline Rogers Feigberg.

Robert Malcom Gavett, F. W. Foster Gleason, Charles Edward Glenz, Celia Golison, Carter Lyman Goodrich, Edith Gray, Rhoda Gray.

Grace Hall, John William Hall, Andrew Murdock Hetfield, Edward Elston Hoagland, Mabel Esther Hunter.

Charles Albert Johnson, Jr.

Theodore Karr, May Veronica Kilbride, Mabelle Fowler Koch, Isaac Kunzman, Klaus Martin Kubiersaky.

Julia Frances Leahy, George Edwin Leighs, John Ogden Lindsey, Mabel Lorraine Loizeaux, Grace Evelyn Ludgate.

Julius Angelo Margentino, Eleanor Marie McNally, Frank Moor, Theodore Clement Moore, Frances Ruth Morris, Edna Adrian Mosher, Margaret Kerr Mortimer, Madelyn Constance Moy.

Clara Olivette Neumann, Florence Claire Newman.

Edna Mae Oliver, Cedric Hutchinson Ostrom.

Jennie Peacock, Esther Hewes Phillips, Leslie Francis Pound, Louise Parker Pruet.

Fredericka Quentin.

Daisy Hortense Randolph, Martha Hopkins Reid.

Abraham Mason Sachar, Marguerite Annette Sampter, Ellen Elvira Sandberg, David Schenck, Philip Van Schuyler, Charles Walter Scribner, Annie Hand Smith, Minnie Julia Solomon, Ernest Linwood Stevens, Harold Eldridge Storr, Francis Cecil Sumner.

Helen Beatrice Taylor, Eleanor Marie Terry, William Alfred Thompson, Rufus Arthur Tildon, Harold Woodruff Tomlinson, Lulu Tunison Trewin, Margaret Washburn Tubbs, Theodore Paul Vail, Philip Van Deventer, Arthur Lawrence Van Zandt, John Gerald Varley, Fred William Vaughan.

Ruth Meredith Waldorf, Bradford Willard, Gladys Wiltsie.

Henry Morris Zook.

—Try a Press want ad. They pay.

HIGH SCHOOL CLASS DAY

The P.H.S. Seniors Have Lots of Fun "Roasting" One Another.

"MEDALS" ARE DISTRIBUTED.

Horoscopes and Class Will Cause Amusement—A Picture of Ira W. Travell Presented to the School.

The class of 1910 of the City High School had its last good time as undergraduates, when the class day exercises were held in the assembly hall last night. The exercises began at 8 o'clock, but by 7:30 o'clock the assembly hall was crowded to its capacity with friends and relatives of the graduates.

When the curtains were drawn aside at 8 o'clock the graduates were revealed sitting around a large log campfire. The effect was produced by incandescent electric lights and was very realistic. The first number on the program was the song "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground," sung by the graduates before the drawing of the curtains. The song "Here's Good bye" followed. In this each of the present classes in the school was appropriately "knocked."

The class history was told in the form of informal anecdotes. Incidents were taken up and related by different members of the class. All proved unmistakably that 1910 is the greatest class ever to be graduated from the school, judged from the viewpoint of achievements.

The statistics followed. These were compiled from a recent voting contest. The "medals" were presented by Fred Loizeaux, president of the senior class, assisted by Miss Margaret Leggett the vice-president.

J. Osgood Sewall then came forward and bequeathed the effects of the class to various school institutions. His "will" was clever and was given well. Following this came the class prophecy which was quite the most entertaining number on the program. Each member of the class was called to the log fire where Miss Louise Andrews read the palm of their left hands. She saw remarkable fortunes ahead of her classmates—some praise was bestowed, some knocks were given, but all was given and taken in a spirit of fun. The "horoscopes" were prepared by the Misses Louise Andrews and Grace Parker. The prophesies were especially witty and Miss Andrew's reading of them was especially good.

Theodore Hamilton then read an original class poem while his classmates munched marshmellows toasted over a heatless log fire and distributed by long pronged sticks.

The song "Farewell Toast" closed the exercises. Just previous to this Osgood Sewall presented to the school on behalf of the class a large framed spla photograph of former Principal I. W. Travell. A hearty round of applause followed the presentation.

The floor was then cleared for dancing which was enjoyed until midnight.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF THEODORE KURZHALS, JR.

The funeral of Theodore Kurzhals, Jr., was held yesterday afternoon from the home on Lincoln place. The service was in charge of Rev. J. O. McKelvey and interment was made in Evergreen cemetery. The pall bearers were Fred Ivamy, E. H. Clevely, Lafayette Rosenstelbl, Lindsey Wooley, Joseph Plum and J. Beck.

None of the six fraternal orders of which Mr. Kurzhals was a member attended in uniform, though each was represented at the funeral and each sent large floral pieces. There were many individual floral gifts in addition to these.

Wedded Quietly.

A quiet wedding took place last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Cave, of East Front street, when their daughter, Margaret W., was married to Townsend H. Fellows, the Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church, officiating. Only the immediate members of the family were present.

Will Hold a Camp Fire.

The Men's Bible Class of the First Baptist church will hold a camp fire on Johnston's Drive tomorrow afternoon and evening, commencing at 5 o'clock. Supper will be served at 7 o'clock. The class has a membership of sixty and a large representation is expected.

—Biaris, sure remedy for hemorrhoids; relief absolute in 24 hours. Ask T. S. Armstrong, druggist, Park avenue, about it. 6 21 tf ***

ADDRESSES HEPTASOPHS

Says Fraternal Organizations Should Not Take the Place of the Church.

SO DECLARES COLIN BRYAN.

Baltimore Man Reviews the History of the Order—An Entertainment Follows—Vanderhoef Presides.

"Fraternal orders ought not to take the place of the church," said former State Senator Colin Bryan, of Baltimore, Md., to a gathering of the Improved Order of Heptasophs in Coward's Hall last night. "They ought rather to be a support to it." Mr. Bryan's speech had to do with the achievements of the order during the thirty-one years of its existence. He declared that during the period mentioned over $13,000,000 had been paid to beneficiaries and today was on as sound financial basis as any fraternal order in this country.

Mr. Bryan declared that chivalry was the keynote of the order and to stand for the higher development of young men its object. The speaker emphasized the fact that no man was independent of his fellows, nor could a man stand alone. Hence the need for such organizations as the Heptasophs. He did not want to apologize for the change of rates to which some had objected because that move had proved to be the right thing at the right time. It brought about a greater protection and security for all the members.

Mr. Bryan took occasion to compliment the Knights of Columbus for their splendid organization and numerical strength and asked the members of the Heptasoph present to stand loyally by their own society

During the evening S. W. Sanford, of Brooklyn, entertained the company with monologues and Harry Davis, of North Plainfield, rendered several piano selections. Ice cream and cake provided by the committee was welcome on such a hot night.

J. V. E. Vanderhoef presided and extended an invitation to all present to attend the Board of Trade meeting tomorrow night when Mr. Bryan will address that organization. Mr. Bryan is a forceful and eloquent speaker and those who attend the meeting will enjoy hearing him.

YALE CUP AWARDED TO RUSSELL MILLER

Russell Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dudley S. Miller, of Union street, was awarded the Yale Cup at the City High School exercises this morning. The presentation was made by Edward A. Stevenson, president of the Yale Club, of this city.

The cup is awarded annually to the student having the highest average standing in scholarship and athletics. The competition for the cup extends through the whole High School course and this year the rivalry for it has been unusually keen.

When the winner was announced the pupils of the school broke forth into a hearty round of applause which continued until after Miller had received it and regained his seat.

The remainder of the assembly session was taken up in closing the business of the Girls' Athletic Association and of the Boys' Athletic Association. Reports were read and these showed both organizations to be in a substantial condition.

With the speech of Dr. Maxson and the brief talk of Principal Best the formal part of the exercises came to a close. Then the pupils sang school songs and gave yells. This practically closed the work of the year for the pupils.

Misuse of Commutation Tickets.

The practice of loaning and hiring Central Railroad commutation and fifty-trip tickets, when discovered last summer, resulted in the issuance by the Court of Chancery, of an injunction restraining this practice. That injunction applies not only to the defendants in the suit instituted by the railroad company, but to all persons in the State of New Jersey engaging in such practice. The Central Railroad has given notice that all persons violating this injunction will be proceeded against according to law. ***

Borough Class Day Tonight.

The borough High School class day exercises will be held tonight. Tickets for the affair have all been given out. A unique class prophecy is promised.

MEMORIAL SERVICES OF JR.O.U.A.M. LODGES

The members of the local councils of the Jr. O. U. A. M. will hold a memorial service at Hillside cemetery, Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, when Rev. C. S. Kemble, of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, and Rev. Ora J. Shoop, of Grace M. E. church, will make addresses. This will be the first memorial service held by this order, but hereafter it will be an annual event, similar to the one conducted by the Knights of Pythias each year.

The service at Hillside cemetery will be held at the grave of Rev. E. E. Roberson, former pastor of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, who was a member of the order, while the graves of other Juniors in the local cemeteries will also be decorated. The Juniors will meet at Junior Hall at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon and go to Hillside in special trolley cars.

MORE MONEY RECEIVED FOR THE BABY CAMP

The fund being raised by this paper for the Baby Camp, conducted by The City Union of King's Daughters, is growing. Today, $3.00 was received from "A Sympathizer." This brings the receipts up to $28.00. As the money is received it is promptly transmitted to the proper officers of the camp.

If you are going away for a vacation, won't you consider for a moment what a few dollars would mean when used in the worthy undertaking. Think of the suffering babes, whose parents are too poor to provide them with the necessary comforts during the heating season! At the camp in the mountains, these little ones are made as happy and as healthy as those of wealthy parentage. If you wish to aid such a charity, send your contribution to this office. It will be acknowledged promptly in these columns and immediately transmitted to the camp authorities.

Received:

Seventh-Day Baptist church Women's Society for Christian Work	$10.00
Mrs. Remsen Taylor	10.00
Mrs. A. R. Sheppard	5.00
A Sympathizer	3.00

MISS BLANCHE MERCIER W. F. SKINNER'S BRIDE.

Miss Blanche Mercier, of Scotch Plains, and William F. Skinner, of this city, were married this afternoon at St. Mary's church, by Father Hogan, the assistant pastor, officiating, before a large gathering of relatives and friends.

The bridesmaid was Miss Madde Mercier, youngest sister of the bride and the best man was Robert Skinner, brother of the groom. The bride was given away by her mother. She wore a white silk, trimmed with beaded net. She wore a veil caught up with natural marguerites and carried a large bouquet of bride roses.

The bridesmaid was gowned in light blue silk mull and wore a black hat trimmed with pink roses and carried a bouquet of pink roses. Miss Smith played the wedding march. The ushers were Charles Eller and James Fitzgerald.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride to the immediate relatives. Following a short honeymoon, the couple will reside on West Front street.

HENRY BARTLAU DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS.

Henry Bartlau, aged 26 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. August Bartlau, of 711 Richmond street, died on Monday at Kingston, N. Y., following a long illness. During the past three or four years he had lived at Saranac and Woodstock, N. Y., returning to Plainfield occasionally for a visit. He had only been at Kingston for a few days. Mr. Bartlau was at one time employed in one of the local shops as a draughtsman, but ill-health compelled him to give up his position.

Mr. Bartlau is survived by his parents, one brother, Herbert R. Bartlau, and two sisters, Mrs. Walter Lane and Miss Elizabeth Bartlau, all of this city. Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, of which Mr. Bartlau was a member for many years, will conduct the funeral services from the late home tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The burial will be at Hillside cemetery.

Peter E. Kassler and Miss Lillian Witt, of New York, are visiting Mr. Kassler's sister, Mrs. M. Kassler, of West Front street.

HOT WAVE STRIKES US

Only One Prostration Reported But Many Suffer Because of the Heat.

SOME RELIEF IS PROMISED.

Icemen and Thirst Parlors Kept Busy—Mercury Goes Above the Ninety Degrees Mark.

All heat records for the season were broken yesterday, when Plainfielders together with other mortals in this part of the country experienced their first real discomfiture from the sun's torrid rays this year. The soda water fountains in this city also broke all records, thirsty patrons flocking about them like flies about a sugar barrel. There was scarcely any breeze and Old Sol certainly made up for lost time in warming up things.

By way of comparison the records show that the hot spell last June began on the twentieth of the month, with a temperature that varied from 86 to 88 degrees. On the six succeeding days the temperature reached the 90 point and over, June 25 being the hottest day in the month, with a record of 94.

The weather bureau promises slight relief within the next twenty-four hours, but not for long duration. There is said to be a small cool wave coming out of the northwest and will no doubt be a welcome relief. Yesterday's high-water mark for temperature was 94 degrees.

There was only one case of heat prostration reported yesterday. That was Edward Randolph, 65 years old, a boarder at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. VanDyke, 225 East Fifth street. He was overcome by the heat in front of J. Hervey Doane's jewelry store on Park avenue about 7:15 o'clock last night and was taken home unconscious. He was reported this morning as improving.

The icemen have been particularly busy during the past few days, the offices of the various companies being constantly busy. Numerous telephone calls for frozen water. It was the first real "rush" of the season and the icemen had all they could do to supply orders.

While many newspapers reported yesterday's temperature to be a record-breaker for June, Weather Prophet John Neagle produced figures today to prove that such was not the case. The high temperature commenced on Saturday last with a maximum of 85 degrees, Sunday with 87 degrees, Monday 90 degrees and yesterday it was 94. Today at 1:45 it was 92. The highest temperature recorded in any June from 1888 to 1910 was 100 degrees in June, 1893.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF MRS. EDMUND PACK

The funeral service of Mrs. Edmund W. Pack was held from the late home on Park avenue, yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and was largely attended by relatives and friends. There were many beautiful floral tributes. Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church, of which Mrs. Pack was a member for many years, officiated. Mrs. Pack was not only a faithful member of the church, but for twenty-two years was superintendent of the sewing school in the Warren chapel and was for years buyer for the Plainfield Relief Association.

Mrs. Pack was devoted to her home, as well as her religious duties and had a large circle of friends. Lenore Loree and William Lores, cousins of Mrs. Pack, and who are prominent in the railroad world, were among the mourners at the service. The burial was in the Evergreen cemetery on Plainfield avenue and the bearers were John Rowland, Elias H. Bird, R. W. Barnes, T. S. Armstrong, Frank W. Jones and Charles DeGraw.

Weinberger Sent to Hot Springs.

Philip Weinberger, who was turned over to the borough police by the city police Monday, was sent to Hot Springs, Va., yesterday. He was arrested on the request of his mother, who says that he threatened to kill her in default of a sum of money which he demanded from here.

Supervisors to Be Appointed.

The Playground Commission will meet tonight in the Mayor's office. At this time the supervisors for the two local playgrounds will be engaged. Other matters will also be considered.

—Advertise in The Daily Press.

EXTEND WATCHUNG AVE.

Thoroughfare Being Opened Up Now as Far as Johnston Drive.

THE MAYOR IS ON THE JOB.

Newton B. Smalley at Work in His Shirt Sleeves This Hot Day for the Improvement in the Borough.

No greater emphasis could be laid upon the fact that North Plainfield intends to develop its resources than a sight of Mayor Newton B. Smalley, in shirt sleeves, perspiring, but determined, aiding with his advice and personality, which means a forward movement, the establishment of a thoroughfare between the North Avenue station and Johnston's drive on Watchung avenue. Splitting old tree stumps with charges of dynamite, clearing up debris left by the charges and keeping the men who are working for Borough Street Commissioner John Barret, so that future generations may reap the benefit seems to be the special desire of the progressive Mayor of the borough.

With an eye single to the actual development of the borough over which he presides, Mayor Smalley is intensely interested in making the improvements which a progressive community demands. To this end he is supervising the work of opening the new street from Coddington avenue to Johnston's drive, and as the Mayor says, "It will open up one of the most picturesque sections of North Plainfield and open the eyes of those who have always looked up on the hills adjacent to Quarries as a lost domain."

This morning when the sun was hottest in the open workmen in the employ of the borough demolished the last of the stumps of ancient trees which impeded the progress of the street makers and this afternoon the street will assume its natural lines. It is confidently expected that within the next two weeks the new street will be open for traffic, if the freeholders get busy and erect a bridge over the brook which runs through the property of the Union Investment Company's holdings.

According to the plans laid out by the Mayor and Common Council during the administration of Mayor Bamel Townsend the work of opening the way to the people of the country districts is to be carried through to the point of making the township look up and notice the travail of the borough. While it may take a few weeks to get the new thoroughfare macadamized it will nevertheless open up one of the most beautiful parts of that section of the township.

The North Plainfield township line crosses diagonally across one corner of the new street, but it is not expected that any obtrusive notice will be taken of this because the improvement will not only improve the status of the borough, but will enhance the valuations of property held by those who desire the improvement but who fear higher taxation, but it will allow of an uninterrupted trip from the railroad station to "Aunt Sally's 'notch.'"

Besides reaching this notch the road will eventually lead to the old Washington hotel, which, by the way, would be in a better physiological position if it faced the other way.

There is absolutely no doubt that the opening up of this approach to the hilckly wooded and park-like section of North Plainfield is going to prove the greatest boon to the residents of this part of the mountainside that has ever taken form in Somerset county.

No improvement of recent years has excelled in importance the extension of Watchung avenue from Coddington avenue to the drive. It means the opening up of a section of building lots which will undoubtedly be restricted and a vista of beautiful country in which little paradises can be built for those who want exclusiveness.

Sale of Jackson Avenue Property.

The propert yat 271-273 Jackson avenue, this city, belonging to the Catherine Webster estate, was sold yesterday at public auction to Frederick Hoffmeister, of Jackson avenue. The consideration was $2,080. The property is 44x105 feet and there is a double-house thereon with six rooms on each side. Charles H. Hand was the agent in the deal and had charge of the sale, which is considered a good one. Auctioneer P. H. Latourette was the auctioneer.

There will be initiation at the regular meeting of Central Lodge, No. 48, Ancient Order United Workmen, tomorrow night.

TO SUSPEND NEW RATES

Possible That Advance in Commutation May Not Go Into Effect July 1.

RAILROAD BILL IS A LAW.

General Superintendent Huntington, of the Jersey Central, Says Report Is All News to Him.

There is a possibility, according to the Newark Evening News, that the advance in commutation rates may not go into effect July 1, as announced by all the railroad companies. President Taft on Saturday signed the new federal railroad measure, which was passed that day, and it went into effect on Monday. Under that law the Interstate Commerce Commission is empowered to suspend such proposed increases until it can fully examine into the subject.

It is not even necessary that a complaint should be made, for the law provides that "whenever there shall be filed with the commission any schedule stating a new individual or joint rate fare or charge," the commission "shall have, and is hereby given, authority, either upon complaint, or upon its own initiative, without complaint, at once, and, if it so orders, without answer or other formal pleading by the interested carrier or carriers, but upon reasonable notice, to enter upon a hearing concerning the propriety of such rate, fare, change, classification, regulation or practice."

In the case of the commutation rates it is not necessary for the Interstate Commerce Commission to proceed upon its own initiative, for complaints have already been filed. Gov. Fort, too, has ordered Attorney-General Wilson to take a hand in the case, so the complainants will be officially backed by the State government.

There is still about ten days before the new rates are planned to go into effect. That may be considered "reasonable notice" enough to a temporary suspension of the increase, so far as Interstate rates are concerned. That may meet the de*mands of the commuters, but the* State commission ought to be given as much power to deal with these intra-State utility corporations as has been delegated to the Interstate Commission in dealing with railroads.

When General Superintendent Huntington was asked today about the report of a possible suspension in the order for increased rates, he said that it was news to him and that was the first that he had heard of it. He did not seem to take any stock in the story, but said that such matters came under the jurisdiction of the passenger department. General Passenger Agent W. C. Hope, to whom Mr. Huntington referred The Daily Press man, was not at his office at the time. His chief clerk declined to talk but said that he would bring the report to his attention.

GOOD ELKS TO PARADE AND HAVE JOLLY TIME.

"The best people on earth," who are officially known as the B. P. O. E., will have a big time tonight with plenty of red fire and martial music. The occasion will be the reception by Plainfield Lodge of delegations of Elks from Dover and Somerville, 150 strong. The Doverites will make the trip by auto, reaching here about 7:45.

The visitors will assemble at Elks' hall on West Second street and will there be escorted to Saengerbund hall, headed by a fife and drum corps. There will be large quantities of pyrotechnics to illuminate the way. It is expected that 300 of the antlered host will be in line.

The program at the hall will include a minstrel and vaudeville program to which the two pickaninny boxers who made such a hit at the Plainfield Elks' show last month will be contributors. Supper will be served in conclusion.

Funeral of Mrs. Bulkley.

The funeral service of Mrs. Caroline A. Bulkley, who died on Sunday, at 683 West Seventh street, was held from the home yesterday afternoon at 4:15 o'clock, and was largely attended. Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, assisted by Rev. Dr. Whittaker, of Elizabeth, officiated. The burial was in Hillside cemetery.

Dr. and Mrs. T. S. Davis, of Park avenue, left today for Cape May, where Dr. Davis will attend the annual session of the New Jersey State Homeopathic Medical Society. They will return home on Friday.

SOME INFORMATION ABOUT THE DOGS

Perhaps one of the best known dog fanciers in this part of the State, if not the country, in discussing the second annual bench show of the Plainfield Kennel Club, on Saturday, brought out some interesting points about the show. Among other things he said:

In view of the recent dog show it is well to enlighten the dog loving public upon some vital points. There is no man on earth who knows the relative values of the different points in all the breeds of dogs. Were he an encyclopedia upon dogology he would be found wanting. Every breed has its special features and upon these typical features depend the judgment of the dog. For instance the whole constitutes 100 per cent. The St. Bernard and bulldog almost have to 50 per cent. for head and ears, the rest divided up for proportions, coat, etc. The Dalmatian has about one-third for color and markings, while head, eyes and ears have only fifteen per cent.

The Airedale's head and coat are equally divided for fifty per cent., the balance going for symetry, including size, color, eyes, ears, body, feet, etc. The collie has twenty-five per cent. for head and twenty-five per cent. for coat, while color is immaterial. The small dogs like the Maltese and Pomeranian the coat, color and tail count about half and so it goes always bearing in mind the point upon which particular stress is laid in each breed.

"There is more glory attached to the winning of a third of fourth ribbon when the competition is keen than walking off with a cartload of cups and an armful of blue ribbons where no competition existed and where the breed is scarce.

"A year ago began a report of dog shows which the 'snobbish' were quick to try and fasten upon the unsuspecting public and particularly the guileless news-gatherer, namely, reporting the winners of the class called 'winners' and no others. For instance, a year ago both our local newspapers headed their reports 'The Blue Ribbon Winners' and never gave a blue ribbon winner except those embodied in the class called 'winners.' This class constitutes the winners of other classes and with it goes the points of the show according to the number of dogs entered.

"Dogs that have a walk over in their classes go into this class and carry off the points. Owners of scarce breeds often keep out their best dogs and thus make so-called champions of inferior dogs, wherein were there any competition these same dogs would never be heard from."

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Governor Fort's Opportunity.

Governor Fort of New Jersey has had a good deal to say about the influencies he perceives in the Legislature of that State. He was quick to take up the charges of gross immorality made against the Assembly because of what some of its members were reported to have done somewhere about the Capitol in the last hours of the session. He suggested the investigation of the charges by a committee not authorized to administer an oath and powerless to compel the attendance of witnesses. He did not adopt the plan of calling the Legislature in extraordinary session to give the Assembly an opportunity to hold an inquest in the ordinary way. Since the adjournment of the Legislature the Governor has said numerous harsh things about that body in his public addresses. He has asserted without qualification that the lawmakers were under the control of business corporations. Naturally such charges uttered by the Governor of the State have more substance and weight than the loose talk of persons not in official life, and their significance is increased by the fact that the Legislature is overwhelmingly of the political party that counts Mr. Fort as one of its chiefest ornaments. Under such circumstances the Governor should welcome the plan put forward by Senator Frelinghuysen, the president of the Senate, for an extraordinary session at which the matters which have so troubled the Executive may be considered. Senator Frelinghuysen promises to use his influence in favor of the passage of legislation intended to meet any needs that exist and also for the appointment of a committee to conduct an examination into the past conduct and motives of the Legislature. To this committee he would have the Governor submit all the facts on which his sensational charges are based. It is doubtful whether any Governor would make such allegations without just cause. It is inconceivable that Mr. Fort, with his judicial experience, could do so improper a thing. The Governor has the power and he has the gravest reasons to call a special session. Assured of President Frelinghuysen's support in this important move, what excuse can he have for hesitation?—New York Sun.

—Constitutionalist's ads. pay.

PLAYGROUNDS' ADVOCATE

Charles W. McCutchen Gives a Stirring Talk Before Civic Body.

HE PRAISES ADMINISTRATION.

Says That Plainfield Government Is Extravagant—Mayor Smalley Also Makes a Good, Sound Speech.

"North Plainfield is getting more value for the money expended in its administration than the city of Plainfield," said Charles W. McCutchen, of the borough, at the meeting of the North Plainfield Association in the Borough Council rooms Friday night. "Plainfield is extravagant. They have a good city administration, but we are keeping pace with them at much less cost. Hence I want to compliment the Mayor and the officials on the competent management of our borough." Mr. McCutchen sat down amid hearty applause. The Council rooms were crowded with boroughites and in fact Plainfielders who came to hear him speak on playgrounds.

In taking up the subject of playgrounds Mr. McCutchen said in part: "All municipalities are now getting playgrounds—Plainfield should not be behind them. The city and the borough have not availed themselves of the opportunity of getting playgrounds as it should have done. Now the most available places for them have been taken due to several causes, principally that one of these places is gone and also to the prohibitive price now put on them.

"In Europe," he said, "it is customary to have them; here we are just beginning to get them. It has been only within the past twenty years that they have been recognized as a necessity, and within the last three years they have come into a prominence due to the numerous conferences and congresses. The chief need of playgrounds is, undoubtedly, in large cities. In Chicago, for instance, there are 70,000 people to the square mile. There they have spent ten million dollars for playgrounds and breathing spaces. This has been a good investment from an economic standpoint, for the offenders in juvenile courts have been reduced 25 per cent.

"Roosevelt said: 'A playground should be provided just as much as a school, and it is the place of the government to provide them.' Newton Baker, for know, will not always be Mayor, but we have reasonable assurance that the position will fall into competent hands after he relinquishes office. Hence we can easily rest assured that work started now will be carried out in the future. Immediate steps, should be taken to get playgrounds for North Plainfield. It would raise the quality of citizenship and attract the right kind of citizens to the borough.

Mayor Smalley then rose to speak. "It does the borough officials good to have residents attend their meetings," he said. "It permits of an interchange of ideas. If the Association adheres to its constitution it can further other much needed improvements to the borough in addition to playgrounds. I am especially gratified at this meeting."

He then cited several locations for the parks, including a site located where Watchung avenue is being opened and that through which a small brook flows. The others cited were: A strip along the brook running through J. Y. Wilson's property; The Plainfield Park Associates strip on Greenbrook and a strip along Brook avenue.

"If these places aren't taken up pretty soon," said the Mayor, "they will be taken for sites of homely little houses. These undesirable little shanties will be occupied by undesirable citizens. It would pay the borough to buy up certain of these properties, even at a loss on taxes, because we could thus keep out these undesirable citizens.

Secretary Benjamin Phelps then read an extract from a report of Superintendent H. C. Krebs showing the difficulties of the borough boys in getting baseball and football fields, and suggesting the need of some such provision before long.

L. B. Woolston then took up the question of swimming pools. He said that several years ago there was a swimming pool of a public nature; but that city boys used it as much as borough boys. This showed a lack of co-operation between the city and the borough. In future he suggested that a better system of supervision for such things be devised.

The meeting was largely attended, and the reports all showed progress. The Association accepted an invitation of the Plainfield Board of Trade to attend a meeting Thursday night in the Board of Trade rooms to hear speakers from out of town talk on municipal affairs. Mr. McCutchen in commenting on the meeting said it should be highly beneficial because they were non-partison, non-political and placed the interests of the borough above that of the individual.

MISS SAUNDERS SCORES AT THE JAPANESE FETE

One of the most successful and enjoyable social affairs of the year took place at the Y. W. C. A. Thursday evening when the Japanese fete was held. About 200 people were present. The house and the large porch in the rear were attractively decorated with Japanese lanterns and flowers; and fifteen young women, garbed in Japanese kimonos, received and served ice cream.

A part of the Y. M. C. A. orchestra furnished the music. Mrs. L. R. Howard was at the piano, Martin Korff, violinist, and Herbert Smith, 'cellist. Miss Louise Saunders captivated the audience with her original monologues. Twice the room was filled with people anxious to hear her; and on both occasions she was roundly applauded. Miss Louise Andrews gave several vocal selections which were well received.

The committee which arranged the affair was composed of Mrs. E. T. Barrows, chairman; Mrs. Frederick Andrews, and the Misses Mary Tennand, Florence Prior and Augusta Kreitling. The complete success of the affair was due in a large measure to them. The members of the association took this opportunity to show their friends of the opposite sex the good times that are enjoyed at the Y. W. C. A.

The proceeds of the affair will be put into the Silver Bay fund, and it is hoped that ten girls may be helped to spend ten days at Silver Bay by means of this.

HAYMAKERS CONVENTION PLANS ARE COMPLETED

Wetumpka Lodge, No. 229½, Haymakers, met in Eagle Hall Friday night an concluded arrangements for the convention to be held in this city on August 6. It is expected that more than a thousand delegates from all parts of the State will be present on that occasion and in view of the presence of the gathering preparations have been made to excell anything in the way of entertainment ever before held by the organization in this city.

Last night the members of the order enjoyed a feast of "ension and corn." The latter being the first of these things Willard, "the hot air artist," put the ball over the four corners of the plate so that none of the haymakers, nor any of their friends who happened along could tell whether it was "spring time or harvest."

Anyhow, when Henry Windham marched up with a bale of straw under his right arm he managed to get through the barn door without even scratching the staple on the outside door. He was admitted without a murmur. F. S. Neal, who presided, took this opportunity to say something about the order and when D. Dorman finished his comic songs there was nothing left to do but laught and be happy. And besides, there was a whole lot of comfort in knowing that afterwards the hot air presaged a comfortable preparation for the inner man.

IT WAS DRINK THAT CAUSED FALL FROM GRACE.

With his pockets filled with beer and whisky glasses and as he raised a disturbance in front of Cleveley's restaurant at 11:30 last night David L. Gips, a cutter in a local shirt waist factory, walked into the office of Chief of Police Kelly, who considerately and in order to save the man from further trouble escorted him to headquarters. Gips told Judge Junyon Saturday morning that he had been to see some friends off to the old country and had imbibed rather freely, something he said he had never been guilty of before in his life.

Incidentally Mr. Gips had a suit of clothes spattered with a plate of beans thrown, he said by Clarence Angleman, whom he accused of being partly responsible for his arrest. It was not Angleman's fault at all, according to two disinterested witnesses as Mr. Gips was too far gone in his cups to even realize what was transpiring, at least so he acknowledged this morning. He didn't even remember where he had accumulated the supply of empty beer and whisky glasses.

Judge Runyon imposed a fine of ten dollars which was immediately paid.

Happily Married.

"Are they happily married?"

"Yes, indeed. They've been married four years now, and she never has to ask him to take her to the theatre."—Detroit Free Press.

YOUNG BOROUGHITE FOUND DEAD IN BED

John E. Stewart, the 27-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Stewart, of 33 Park place, was found dead in bed when his mother went to call him at 9 o'clock Friday morning. Thursday he sat up with his parents and appeared to be in perfect health, joking and laughing with them. He retired a little after 10 o'clock but at 2 o'clock this morning, woke up his mother to say, "Good night." She stated this afternoon that he also said, "Good night,—and good bye." He had made it a practice to wake up his parents to say "good night" to them, so she thought nothing of it Friday morning.

Mr. Stewart usually arose at 6 o'clock but this morning was not up at that time. His mother decided that he was probably taking an extra long rest so did not waken him. When he did not get up at 9 o'clock she decided to go into the room, anticipating that he was sick. She found him lying there with eyes open, but with the peculiar blackish hue characteristic of death.

In alarm she called Dr. Buchanan. Owing to the circumstances of the death, it will be necessary for the county coroner to view the body before it can be buried. Dr. Curry said later that death was caused by heart failure.

Stewart formerly worked at the Pond Machine Works. The funeral was held Sunday afternoon.

GEN. COLLINS ISSUES 2ND REGIMENT ORDERS

Complying with the order of Division Commander General P. Farmer Wanser, the order of Brigadier General Dennis F. Collins commanding his brigade to participate in the army manoeuvres at Gettysburg has been sent to the adjutant general and the quartermaster general.

This order is especially interesting to the Second regiment of this city, for it is the official order for their going with the government troops. General Collins calls attention to what officers must observe, as follows:

"In compliance with General Orders No. 5, Headquarters Division, June 9, 1910, the organizations of this brigade will participate in a joint camp of instruction for the regular army and organized militia, at Gettysburg, Pa.

"1. Headquarters Second Brigade, Battery B Field Artillery, Second and Third Infantry, July 9 to 17, inclusive. Second Troop, Cavalry, July 23 to 30, inclusive.

"2. Commanding officers are charged with the movement of their organizations to camp of instruction, and will proceed thereto from their respective stations so as to arrive not later than July 10 and 24, respectively, and arrange for subsistance en route.

"3. Attention is directed to Circular No. 4, A. G. O., June 1, 1910, also paragraphs 2, 3, 4, 6 and 7, General Orders, No. 5, Headquarters Division, June 6, 1910, and Memorandum, Army War College, Washington, D. C., May 24, 1910.

"By Command of Brigade General Collins:

"HARRY P. MOORHEAD,
"Adjutant General."

NORTHSIDE NATIONAL BANK AT ELIZABETH.

Elizabeth is soon to have another financial institution, to be known as the Northside National Bank.

It will be located in the new Isham building, which is almost finished and which stands at North Broad street and Westfield avenue, directly opposite Elizabeth's Postoffice building now in course of construction, and also across the street from the handsome home of Elizabeth Lodge of Elks.

The Isham or bank building, as it will be known, is four stories high, 90x65 feet and is of light brown pressed brick.

The projectors of the new bank are H. Heywad Isham and William K. Claire, a wealthy banker of Manhattan, and both residents of Elizabeth. Mr. Isham was one of the founders of the Citizens Bank of Elizabeth and for several years its vice-president. This bank has been absorbed by the Union County Trust Comapny.

Mr. Isham, who is a large real estate owner, and deeply interested in financial enterprises, says that he expected the Northside Bank would be ready to begin business in about two months, or as soon as his new building was ready for occupancy.

When the Northside Bank is opened Elizabeth then will have six financial institutions of that kind.

He Came, He Saw, He Conquered.

After a fifteen months' triumphal tour of Europe, Theodore Roosevelt arrived in New York this morning. The Government seismographs report no specially notable disturbances.

EXERCISES AT DUNELLEN

Class of Twelve Graduated at Exercises When Prizes are Awarded.

H. S. VALEDICTORIAN HONORED.

Rev. E. R. Brown Makes Address on "The Attainment of Ideals"—Dr. Henry M. Maxson Presents the Certificates.

Miss Meta Pennock, valedictorian of the class of 1910 of the City High School, was honored by the whole town of Dunellen, Thursday, when ed to her at the graduation exercises in the Whittier school of that place. The presentation was made by A. F. Todd, jr., president of the Board of Education. The gift was a public appreciation of the honor that she has brought to the Dunellen school of which she is an alumna and the amount was gathered from many sources. Miss Pennock is the second young woman from that section to win the Plainfield High School valedictory. Last year Miss Sarah A. Brouwer, of New Market, took the honor; and the peculiar circumstance now evident, is that the valedictory next year will be carried off by another Dunellen young woman, whose standing in scholarship at present is among the first in her class at the Plainfield High School. This is Miss May Day, who was valedictorian at the Dunellen Whittier school when she was graduated three years ago.

The feature of the closing exercises was the address by Rev. E. R. Brown on "The Attainment of Ideals." Rev. Mr. Brown handled his subject well and spoke distinctly and directly to the point. Miss Elizabeth Hawthorne's rendition of Anthony's address from Julius Caesar was roundly applauded. Other numbers on the program were the graduates march, "True Friendship," by Lillian Fisher and Hazel Runyon; the essay, "Thomas Edison," by Schuyler VanderVeer, the violin solo by George Martin; the able recitation, "Horatius at the Bridge," by Allen Frederick; the essay, "Forest Preservation," by Ruth Haver, and the boys' chorus "The Rain Concert," in which W. W. Pierson displayed talent. The class prophecy was given by Miss Ruth Voorhees and the valedictory essay, "We Endeavor To Do Greater Things," was given by Miss Helen Swackhamer. Leo Mullen followed with a violin solo and Miss Marguerite VanZandt gave a piano solo creditably.

The presentation of certificates to the members of the class was made by Dr. Henry M. Maxson, superintendent of the Plainfield Public Schools, and the awarding of prizes was made by A. F. Todd, Jr., president of the Dunellen Board of Education.

In the awarding of prizes, the judges found that the essays submitted for the composition prize offered by Edward Maurer were so nearly equal in merit, that a division of the $5 prize had to be made. As a result, Allen Fredrick was awarded $3, and Miss Elizabeth Hawthorne $2.

The members of the class are:

Florence Gray, Ruth Haver, Elizabeth Hawthorne, Ruth Snyder, Helen Swackhamer, Ruth Voorhees, Allen Frederick, George Martin, John McFadden, Harold Noble, John Rinehart, Schuyler VanderVeer.

The members of the faculty and Board of Education who were present are:

Board of Education—A. F. Todd, president; W. S. Frederick, vice president; A. J. Hamley, district clerk; E. F. Bogardus, George Cameron, T. W. Day, M. R. Dayton, S. W. Nellor, F. R. Wynkoop.

Teachers—G. H. Rentschler, principal; Whittier School—Ritie G. Brokaw, vice principal; Daisy M. Brouard, Fannie Smith, Frances D. Winter, Edna Eckert; Lincoln School—E. May Higgins, vice principal; Adelaide Thompson, Ethel Rogers, May Lindsley; J. Leo Mullen, music supervisor.

A reception and dance will be given at the school to the members of the Board of Education and the teachers tomorrow night.

Strawberry Baskets.

First make a good sponge cake, here is one recipe: Beat the yolks of three eggs until they are light colored, add one small cupful of sugar and very gradually half a cupful of boiling water. Sift one teaspoonful of baking powder with a cupful of flour and add this by degrees; last of all mix in the stiffly-beaten whites of eggs. Bake in small cups or tins. When cold, cut a piece from the centre of each. Fill this cavity with strawberries. Put whipped cream all round them and cut strips of angelica or lemon peel to form handles.

The Host—What piece will you have, Miss Tootsie?

Miss Tootsie—Please carve me the left square segment east to seventy-six segment above the olin diagonal to fat parallel to—— Oh, I beg pardon, I learned the cuts in cooking school—Puck.

REV. L. B. GOODRICH TALKS ON "FUN OUT OF DOORS"

Members and friends of the Men's Club of the Congregational church were entertained, amused and instructed by a lecture delivered in the church Thursday by Rev. Lincoln B. Goodrich, pastor of the Broadway Trinitarian church, of Taunton, Mass. The views shown with the stereoptican were from photographs taken by the minister himself on and in the vicinity of the White Mountains and included the flowers and birds of that region.

The topic of the lecture, "Fun with the Boys Out of Doors," were experiences of the pastor himself with the boys of his church on various trips to the mountains and lakes in the White Mountains and Maine and New Hampshire and included climbing, boating, tramping and trailing through the forests. Views of Mount Washington, Crawford Notch and other interesting points were given with details of a surprising nature, some of the scenes being those missed by the casual traveller or tourist and some of the pranks of the boys amusing to a degree.

After the lecture a social hour was enjoyed during which refreshments were served by a committee from the Men's Club.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF GYULA DE FESTETICS

Impressive funeral services were held Thursday afternoon for Arthur de Festetics, the twelve-year-old son of Gyulia de Festetics, at the late home, 62 Westervelt avenue, where a large number of friends and neighbors, including many boys and girls, some playmates of the little fellow. There was also a large number of floral tributes, including a pillow, which rested at the head of the casket, bearing the inscription, "Our Boy."

The services were conducted by Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church, and his words were full of symparty and consolation for the grief-stricken father. He also drew a strong and impressive lesson from the death of King David's son, telling the story of that Bible incident effectively and quoting King David's words about the death of his son, "He cannot come to me, but I can go to him." Dr. Anderson expressed the hope that in little Arthur's death others might be lead to become Christians. He referred to the devotion of father and son and spoke words of comfort to the broken-hearted father; also referring to the breaking of the ties among the children of the neighborhood.

During the service, Mrs. Thomas MacDonald sang sweetly, "Onward, Christian Soldiers," and "Nearer, My God to Thee," accompanied on the piano by Miss Hessie Johanson, of New York. The remains were placed in the receiving vault at Hillside cemetery and those who acted as pall bearers were the following: Wilson Johanson, of New York, Donald Ketcham, Raymond Cutter, William and Harry Hand, Charles Small, all playmates of Arthur.

WALTER L. HETFIELD GETS CLIENTS CLEARED

After a long drawn out series of hearings in which two complaints made by John Waldron against Michael Crowley and Robert Wallace have been heard by City Judge William N. Runyon, the court dismissed both Saturday giving it as its opinion that there was no ground for the issuance of the complaints.

Waldron in his complaints against the two men alleged that they broke and entered and threatened to kill him besides assaulting him and blackening his eye. Both men, who were defended by Walter L. Hetfield, were put on the stand this morning and told their version of the scrap. Wallace declared that Waldron was drunk on the night of May 21, when the assault was alleged to have been committed and he was corroborated by Crowley.

A sister of Wallace gave testimony of interest, one which showed that she was unbiased in the matter and which was favorable to neither one of the combatants.

Judge Runyon's finding was based upon his personal knowledge of acts of the complaint subsequent to the alleged assault and the testimony of the two accussed men. Their stories were straightforward.

Stenciling is used this season more than ever, not only in the matter of house furnishings, but in different parts of the costume. Scarfs with stenciled designs are used for street hats, while jabots of net and lace are often given a bit of color by means of a charming design in stencil. On gowns, too, the bordered effect is frequently brought about by an original stenciled design.

LEAL'S SCHOOL PROGRAM

Nine Young Men Given Diplomas at Commencement Exercises.

RUTGERS PRESIDENT TALKS.

Dr. Austen Scott Gives the Graduates Some Good Advice —The Prizes Are Awarded.

Nine young men having completed the prescribed course of study were graduated from John Leal's School Friday when the closing exercises for the term were held. The school rooms were filled with parents and friends of the graduates, as well as other boys of the school and the program was an interesting one, including an excellent address by Dr. Austin Scott, former president of Rutgers College.

Of the nine graduates all but one will go to college. The exception is Garthwaite Carman, who will enter business. The other graduates and the college of their choice follow:

Morris K. Brandegee, Thomas W. Foote, Lyman C. Hibbard, Yale; Frank E. Driscoll, Lehigh; Clifford A. Hall, Stevens; Thomas H. Leggett, Jr., Columbia; John H. Jewett, Jr., and James O. Murray, Princeton.

The Yale cup offered by the Plainfield Yale Club for the most excellent attainment in studies and athletics, was won this year by Clarence R. Lawrence, Class '11. Allan Heely stood high in his studies, winning several honors. Mr. Leal announced the names of the honor boys as follows:

Arithmetic, Allan Heely; algebra, Clarence R. Lawrence; geometry, Clifford A. Hall, Clarence R. Lawrence and Morris K. Brandegee; Latin, Allan Heely; home, Morris Brandegee; trigonometry, Thomas H. Leggett, Jr.; United States History, Allan Heely; English V, Thomas H. Leggett; English IV, Clarence R. Lawrence; English III, Roger Stewart and Allan Heely; English II, Allan Heely; German I, John Jewett and Clarence R. Lawrence; German II, Thomas W. Foote; French I, Norman Finch. In the junior department, for general excellence, Richard Moldenke and Chauncey Stewart won the honors in the upper group and Conrad Johnson and Fred Wilson in the lower group.

Dr. Scott, in a terse, figuratively speaking, to represent life, Dr. Scott gave the boys some excellent advice. He described the right and wrong way to ride a horse as typfying the method that the boys should follow to be successful. He said that it was necessary that one should ride with head and heart high and feet and hands free, by which one could control a horse. If they did not the horse would control the rider. So it is in life, one must have his head and heart high and his hands and feet must be low to have a firm grip on life.

The speaker said that there is a graceful way to ride a horse and a graceful way to go through life. One must begracious whether it is in entertaining a caller in one's office or in meeting people generally. He then asked the boys how they planned to go through life. Whether they intended to have their health a help and heard high as a noble purpose or the reverse and be a slave to business or profession.

After describing the active side of life, Dr. Scott referred to the passive side. He said that labor had now got down to an eight-hour day, and the question to be solved is what is what is to be done with the other sixteen hours, aside from the time necessary for sleep.

Dr. Scott said that so many people devote their time chiefly and solely to their business and when their hours of rest or recreation come they scarcely know how to spend it. He recommended that the mind should be trained to do something worth while outside of business, and be considered this quite as important as the training and preparation for one's life work for the time would come, when the active side would cease and then one must be in a position to spend the passive side profitably.

The audience thoroughly enjoyed Dr. Scott's talk and he held the close attention of everyone during the half-hour he spoke.

Rhubarb Shortcake.

A pleplant shortcake is an inexpensive, palatable dessert at this time of the year. Make a nice biscuit crust. Roll in two thin cakes, butter one and lay the other upon it, bake until done; separate and fill with two cups of stewed and well sweetened pieplant and one cup of raisins chopped and stewed. Whipped and sweetened cream spread on top is an improvement.

Pineapple Tapioca.

Cook until clear three tablespoons' minute tapioca, three tablespoons of sugar in two cups of hot water. Pour over two-third cup of pineapple chipped fine, and add a little orange juice. Serve cold.

HONOR VETERAN TEACHER

Purse Presented to Miss N. J. Bullock, 25 Years Franklin School's Principal.

This year is the twenty-fifth that Miss Noel J. Bullock has been principal of the Franklin School, and the Parent-Teacher Association felt that her excellent work called for a celebration of the anniversary. Without her knowledge, they saw a number of the parents and friends of the school and Thursday morning presented her with $55 in gold.

The envelope contained a card bearing this inscription: "A token of appreciation of Miss Bullock's twenty-five years of service in the Plainfield public schools from the Parent-Teacher Association, pupils and friends of the Franklin School.

Supt. Maxson was asked to make the presentation speech. So he arranged to have all the children of the building present at the morning exercises in the auditorium. Just as they were coming to a close, Dr. Maxson announced to Miss Bullock that he had invited the kindergarten children to come in and help him in a special exercise.

In presenting the token Dr. Maxson recalled the many difficulties which Miss Bullock had encountered and overcome in her quarter of a century of teaching and her rise from the rank of teacher to her present position. This he attributed to faithful and efficient service pure and simple. Dr. Maxson recalled the earlier days of the work of Miss Bullock and emphasized the fact that perseverance and strict attention to duty had been always one of her characteristics. Something to be emulated by those who would rise in the profession.

Then the wee children marched in and formed in a semi-circle on the stage. At the head of the line were the little Misses Eloise and Jeanette Wright, twin sisters, one bearing a bouquet of sweet peas and the other, a dainty, embroidered silk bag containing fifty-five dollars in gold. In a few apt words, Dr. Maxson expressed appreciation and praise for Miss Bullock's administration and her devotion to her pupils, and the children presented her the flowers and money as a special testimonial from the parents and friends. Miss Bullock was much affected by the gift and found it very difficult to give expression to her appreciation of the sympathy and support of the patrons of the school.

The many parents who were present added their personal congratulations after the children had gone to their rooms.

Miss Bullock came here from Morristown in 1885 when Miss Julia Bulkley was Superintendent of the city schools, and has proven to be a very efficient principal. She has seen a wonderful growth in the size and efficiency of the school during her twenty-five years' service. Dr. Maxson estimates that over 5,000 different children have had the benefit of her work in the Franklin School.

NEWCORN PRESIDENT OF CITY BAR ASSOCIATION

Officers were elected and other business was discussed at the annual meeting of the Plainfield Bar Association held in the District court rooms, Thursday, in the absence of President Charles J. Reed, the chair being temporarily occupied by Judge William Newcorn.

These officers were chosen: President, Judge William Newcorn; vice-president, Francis J. Blatz; treasurer, Asa F. Randolph; secretary, V. W. Nash, Jr.; trustees, Walter L. Hetfield, S. S. Swackhammer and Clarence L. Murphy.

The bylaws were amended on motion of William M. Stillman, to the effect that all lawyers engaged in the practice of law or those who hereafter engage in the practice of law, become members of the association on application.

It was also decided to hold meetings once a month for the mutual benefit of the association and a committee of three, comprising Harry C. Runyon, Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., and S. S. Swackhamer to arrange for a dinner to be held early next fall. Prominent members of the State bar will be secured as speakers. The association is also desirous of securing several improvements in the District court and these matters will be discussed more fully at a meeting to be held next Thursday at the District court.

"What's going on at the town hall tonight"

"A man is going to lecture on cruelty to animals, Uncle Jabez. Wanter go?"

"That depends. Is the feller for it or against it."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

"Is he conceited?"

"Conceited? I should say he is. He even imagines that he cut some figure at his own wedding."—Detroit Free Press.

TRIED TO "CLEAN UP" AN OAK TREE STORE

Postmaster George W. Stover, of Oak Tree, had an exciting experience with two strange young men at his general store Wednesday afternoon, when they tried to make a general "clean-up" of the place. In the attack which followed, one of the strangers was given a black eye with Mr. Stover's cane and he and his companion were put to route.

The strangers came along with a horse and wagon and appeared to be peddling something. Driving past Mr. Stover's store a short distance they left their rig and returned to the store. One of the men started off with them and that he had no intention of paying for the articles. After chasing the men out the store Mr. Stover locked the doors and windows and summoned help. The neighborhood gathered, but not until the strangers broke nearly every glass window and door in the building, were they chased out of the place. They disapeared toward Plainfield.

TRINITY JR. ENDEAVORERS HOLD CLOSING EXERCISES

The closing exercises of the Junior Christian Endeavor Society of the Trinity Reformed church were held Wednesday afternoon in the church parlors, when an entertainment was held followed by a cake and fancy sale.

The exercises opened with a march, the children coming in from the primary room into the main room where they ranged themselves in the figure of a cross. While doing this they sang, "We Are Junior Soldiers." Prayer was then offered by Rev. Mr. Brock and recitations were made by the Misses Marion Wooley, Helen Willett, Hazel McCrady, Dorothy Van Winkle, Dorothy Seader, Alva Hansen, George McDonald, Harold Wooley, Albert Baker, Carman Trembath, Cecil McAfee, Howard Allegar, Alfred Willett, Howard Willett, Russell Sears, Richard McAfee, Adele Freeman, Helen Foster, Russell Sears. Piano solos were given by Gladys Humbert, Josephine Snyder and several selections were sung by the Juniors. A short address was also made by the pastor.

The yearly report showed an encouraging increase over that of last year. The enrollment was 80 and the average attendance 58. 65 answered the roll call yesterday. Forty meetings were held and forty-five children received rewards for 75 and above per cent. attendance. Of this number, seven had a perfect attendance. And seven united with the church. The net receipts for the fiscal year were $115.74 and the disbursements were: Foreign missions, $58, and domestic missions $43, while under the head of miscellaneous came $14.74.

A cake sale followed the exercises and about ten dollars was cleared.

The society will recognize in September when an anniversary celebration will be held. It will then be 20 years old, making it the oldest society in Plainfield. The committee in charge of the affair yesterday was composed of: Mrs. R. V. Sliney, chairman; Mrs. A. Rosenstiehl, Lawrence French, Helen Lighthauser, Maud McAfee and they were assisted by the officers of the society.

REV. MR. HERRING'S "PALESTINE" LECTURE.

Rev. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, lectured at Dunellen Friday on "Palestine." This was the first of a series of three lectures that he has prepared on the recent trip that he took to the Holy Land. The lecture was held in the Dunellen Presbyterian church under the auspices of the Junior Christian Endeavor Society, and was fairly well attended.

By the aid of stereopticon views Dr. Herring took his audience from Jaffa to Jerusalem and thence to Bethlehem, illustrating his talk with many personal anecdotes of his trip. The second of the series of lectures will be given in the Dunellen church early in the fall. Among those who attended the lecture was the Rev. Mr. Martine, formerly pastor of the Dunellen Presbyterian church.

Strawberry Sarsain.

Butter some slices of thin toast generously and line with it the bottom and sides of a china dish which can be set in the oven. The pieces of toast, made of stale bread and cut quite thin, should be well dried in the oven; they should be trimmed to fit into the dish neatly. Fill the remaining space with stemmed strawberries, packed closely. Sift plenty of sugar over and among the berries and set in a moderate oven for one-half hour, or until the fruit has melted a good deal and settled. It will be found that they will melt away so much that the dish must not only be packed, but heaped, or it will not look well when done. Serve very cold with thick cream. This is delicious.

REV. FLOYD APPLETON BECOMES A BENEDICT

Miss Mildred Elsgood Miller, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Francis Hendrix Miller, of 64 Pennsylvania avenue, Brooklyn, and Rev. Floyd Appleton, formerly curate of Grace church, this city, but now rector of St. Clement's Episcopal church, Brooklyn, were married Wednesday at the above church in the presence of a large and fashionable throng of relatives and friends.

The ceremony was performed by Bishop Daniel Sylvester Tuttle, assisted by Bishop Frederick Burgess. Miss Miller was attended by her sister, Mrs. William Herbert Dole, as matron-of-honor and Miss Olga Van Hoff and Miss Margery Hughan, of Brooklyn, as bridesmaids. Among the ushers was Van Wyck Brooks, of this city. A large reception was held after the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents. The decorations were green and white and blue, the white being introduced because they are the colors of Columbia University, where both the groom and bride were students. Mr. Appleton was assistant here to the late Dean Rodman and he made many friends during his residence in this city.

MRS. EDMUND PACK DIES OF APOPLEXY

Mrs. Edmund W. Pack died at 7 o'clock Friday morning at her home, 217 Park avenue, of apoplexy following an illness of two weeks. While it was known that her condition was critical the family had hopes that she could recover. Mrs. Pack was taken ill a week ago last Sunday while she and her husband were planning to go to Rahway for the day and she steadily grew worse, despite the best of medical attention and the care of a trained nurse.

Mrs. Pack was formerly Miss Mary E. Denman, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Denman. She was a native of Newark, where she lived during the early part of her life. She was married to Mr. Pack at Rahway on October 8, 1873, and immediately removed to this city, where she lived to the time of her death. Mrs. Pack was a faithful member of the First Baptist church and for twenty-five years was a worker in Warren chapel, being president of the sewing school there. For many years she was a buyer for the Plainfield Relief Association and rendered valuable service in the relief of the worthy poor.

Mrs. Pack was a cousin to Lenore F. Loree, the well-known railroad magnate, and his brother, William Loree, who is general manager for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, with offices at Pittsburg. Her husband survives.

Crusade to Protect Young Girls.

Hugh F. Fox, of Central avenue, was a member of the conference recently held in Newark by charity organization leaders, to ask local clergymen to issue warnings to parents for the purpose of having young girls kept off the streets and away from suburban pleasure resorts late at night. It was decided to begin a crusade by having the newspapers and clergymen give frequent warnings to parents. It was also decided to ask the authorities of suburban places in which the pleasure parks are loacted to have the parks and their surroundings better policed.

Rattled.

"What's your order, sir?" asked the waiter.

"Bring me," said the wild eyed customer, "some medium boiled potatoes and some eggs with the jackets on."

"Sir?"

"I don't know whether I've got that right or not, waiter," said the wild eyed man, "but do the best you can with it. A big red automobile had to jump out of my way about two minutes ago to keep me from running over it, and I'm a bit flustered."—Chicago Tribune.

Who Will Help a Needy Woman?

The Charity Organization wishes to assist a woman not strong enough to do outside work, but who is trying to support herself and four children by taking boarders. If she could furnish an empty room in her house, either with a double bed or two single ones, the weekly income of the family would be greatly increased. At present there is a weekly deficit of $2. Contributions of bedroom furniture will be called for. Telephone 103.

WANT MOY FOR MAYOR

The Progressives Decide to to Name Complete City and County Ticket.

FOWLER IS NOT ENDORSED.

Ackerman's Name Mentioned for Congress—Morris County Regulars Will Name Union County Man.

Delegates from all parts of Union county were present at the Progressive Republicans' conference here Wednesday when it was decided to put a complete ticket in the field both for county offices as well as local. Not only was William P. Martin, of Essex, unanimously endorsed for the Gubernatorial nomination, but it was decided to organize in every district. Charles N. Fowler, who like Martin, was invited to present himself before the progressives for a quizzing as to his platform and principles failed to appear. His chances for endorsement, however, are slight although it was decided to postpone definite action until the next meeting. Chairman Howard Tracy, it is reported, was the chief advocate of putting a full congress but there was considerable protest according to reliable report, the argument being advanced that he is not a "Progressive" at heart and is simply opposed to Cannon not Cannonism.

G. W. V. Moy, one of the county leaders at whose office the meeting was held, proposed the name of State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, of this city, after the meeting as the candidate for congress which met with some support. Contrary to rumor, Alexander Gilbert, of this city, was not mentioned at the meeting for the honor but he has some strong support among the progressives. Neither Gilbert nor Ackerman has announced himself a candidate. It is believed that Mr. Ackerman wants to go back to the Senate and his course to that goal is clear for both the regulars and the progressives favor him.

No action was taken definitely as to the city ticket although the names of several were proposed for the mayoralty nomination. Chief among them was that of George W. V. Moy, whose friends are urging him to announce his candidacy. He has given no definite answer, but says he will do what he considers best for the Progressives. Mogor Charles J. Fisk, if named by the regulars, will have a progressive opponent at the primaries, as it was decided that he could not get a New Idea endorsement. Carlton B Pierce, of Cranford, it is reliably reported, will get an endorsement for return to the assembly.

It was decided last night to make "money in politics" an issue in the local campaign and the progressives will wage a fight against the use of money at the polls for workers, cab hire and the like.

According to trustworthy information, "Uncle Dan" Voorhees will not present the name of a Morris county man for Congress as he announced his purpose two months ago to do, but Morris will present the name of a Union county man for the honor. It is not known who will be selected to make the run against Fowler, but it is not unlikely that it will be Ackerman or Gilbert if either covets the honor.

MISS EMILY WENANT BECOMES MRS. STEINER

Miss Emily Lawrence Winant, of Clifton, and formerly of Plainfield, and Carl A. Steiner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Steiner, of Jackson avenue, the borough, were quietly married Thursday afternoon at the Congregational church, before a small gathering of relatives and intimate friends. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. L. Godrich, pastor of the church.

Miss Winant was attended by Miss Mattie Watermann, of Orange, as bridesmaid, while John Peacock, Class '10, Princeton University, was the best man. After a brief wedding tour the couple will reside in the Netherwood section of the city, where the groom has furnished a home.

The groom is a graduate of the North Plainfield High School and both he and his wife have a large circle of friends and acquaintances in the city and borough.

Moyer & La Rue Buy Property.

The Moyer and La Rue Laundry Company has purchased the building which it occupies on West Fourth street and the property in the rear extending almost to the depot driveway from David Smalley. The new property includes the old city jail building. This will be converted into a checking room for the laundry received from Bound Brook. The latter building has been overhauled and moved to a position adjacent to the old building. The consideration was not named.

GIBRALTAR ILLUMINATED.

World's Highest Electric Sign Erected by The Prudential.

The Prudential Insurance Company of America, with home offices at Newark, has made another big *advertising hit by erecting at Hobo*ken, directly opposite New York city, a great electric sign of the Rock of Gibraltar. The electricians who put up the sign say that it is the highest electric sign in the world. The sign operates automatically and in addition to flashing the Rock, flashes the company's *trade-mark, "The Pruden*tial has the Strength of Gibraltar." The sign is on the top of the new terminal building at Hoboken, and the top of the Rock is nearly 200 feet above ground. Six miles of wire were used in connecting the lights. The letters forming the word "Pru*dential" are ten feet high. It takes* enough electricity to light the Rock to equal the pulling power of 100 horses. The sign is built to withstand a wind pressure of 250 tons, and three thousand electric lamps are used. The current would light all the streets of Bayonne.

Below the Rock an automatic electric talking sign changes constantly, and on it appear forty-eight statements regarding The Pruden*tial.*

The sign was built for The Prudential from plans drawn by F. H. Koenigsberger, a New York architect. One of the expert draftsmen of the Electric Carriage Call and Specialty Company of New York, which erected the sign, made a close study of the topography of Gibraltar in order to give a correct delineation of the Rock. The sign is placed so that it is visible on the river, and from a large part of Newark city. It can also be seen from the Hoboken exit of the Hudson tunnel, Jersey City, Brooklyn, Staten Island and New York Bay.

The Prudential's "Gibraltar" is now one of the most striking objects in New York harbor at night and people visiting the Metropolis will look for it.

An official of the company said: "The Prudential could not illuminate the eral rock of Gibraltar, and it has built this electric rock on the shores of New Jersey as a beacon light to those looking for life insurance protection for their families that will not worry them after the issue of policy and that is sold at a cost so interestingly low that it caused The Prudential to make greater strides last year than any other Life Insurance Company in the world."

SCOTCH PLAINS PLANS CELEBRATION FOR 4TH

Scotch Plains is going to celebrate the Fourth of July in the old-fashioned way and they want the whole county to know it. At a meeting of the various committes last night the program outlined below was adopted. Naturally, it requires money to do the things the committees have planned and it would be appreciated if those who expect to enjoy the various sports and other parts of the entertainment planned would come over with a contribution of money.

At 7 o'clock in the morning of the Fourth it is planned to raise the flag with appropriate ceremonies at the corner of Park and North avenues. At half-past seven there will be a two-mile run, followed by sprint races for boys; the first 100 yards for boys over 16 years, another for boys under 16 and not above 12, and a race for boys under 12 years old.

At ten minutes after nine the presentation of the flag to the Board of Education by Twilight Council, No. 7, Jr. O. U. A. M., will occur on the school lawn. Following this ceremony trap shooting in which six events are scheduled will be contested. Athletic sports including the running broad jump, running high jump, hop, step and jump, sack race, pole climb and pig race will take place.

The baseball game between the married men and single men will begin at half past one after which the bicycle races will be started, in these events a ten-mile handicap will be run, followed by a one-mile open race and a two-mile race open only to boys of Scotch Plains and Fanwood. The prizes will be exhibited in the store of J. E. Clark from the evening of June 27.

Between 8 and 10:30 in the evening there will be a display of fireworks with a band concert, followed by a dance at Excelsior hall.

The entries for the athletic events will be received by Charles Fox and close on June 30. Entries for the trap shooting contest will be received on the grounds on the day of the shoot. Entries for the bicycle races will be received up to the day of the races. Admission will be free to all events on the program and for that reason liberal contributions are urged by the committee.

As a rule, the knife should be held firmly, but applied lightly, so that too much juice will not be squeezed out of the meat. By using the point of the knife lightly as a wedge and the fork as a lever, even a big fowl may be easily jointed, providing the carver is aware of how the joint is exactly situated and held together.

MARSH ON THE BRIBER

Distinguished Barrister's Address at State Bar Association Meeting.

HIS ADVICE IS VERY TIMELY.

Proceedings at Annual Session at Atlantic City of Much Interest to the General Public.

Approving the canons of professional ethics adopted by the American Bar Association for the government and instruction of young lawyers of the country, members of the New Jersey Bar Association, at the first day's session of their annual convention at the Hotel Chelsea, Atlantic City, Friday, went on record as favoring the use of the bar to prevent political considerations being made the greatest factor in the appointment of judges; of making legal fees in exact proportion to the services rendered and not from the ability of the client to pay; as favoring court supervision of the contingent fees and a score of other professional ethics included in the code prepared by the national body.

Recommendations that those in charge of the legal instruction and examination of the lawyers of New Jersey insist in teaching the proper methods to be used in preparing laws as well as in enforcing the statutes was also made.

Edward Keasby, of Newark, State Senator Osborne, of Essex, and Halsey M. Barrett, of Newark, were the principal men who spoke for the code, the important details of which follow:

A lawyer should not communicate or argue privately with a judge as to the merits of a pending case. If appointed counsel for an indigent prisoner he should not be excused for trivial reasons; if undertaking the defence of a prisoner accused of crime he should not allow his personal opinions as to the guilt of the accused prevent his using every effort to give his best services to the client; the public prosecutor is not to convict, but to see that justice is done; a lawyer should not represent conflicting interests on two sides of a case; in fixing his fees the lawyer should never forget that the profession is a branch of the administration of justice and not a mere money getting trade; he should not allow chance judicial disfavor or public unpopularity to weigh against giving his full devotion to his client; counsel should use his efforts to prevent any impropriety on the part of his client; a lawyer should always treat witnesses, even on the side opposed to him, with fairness and consideration.

In another section the code condemns stirring up litigation by lawyers with the object of obtaining fees, and deplores newspaper discussions by lawyers of cases in which they are interested. The new oath, drastically severe, was adopted.

Chancellor Mahlon Pitney was one of the chief guests and speakers at the annual banquet at the Chelsea Hotel last night, at which were nearly all the Supreme Court judges of the State and the majority of the vice chancellors.

"Legal Ethics via Act of the Legislature" was the toast printed in the menu and responded to by Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh, of this city. One portion of Mr. Marsh's address, which attracted favorable comment, was as follows:

"But gentlemen, there is a service to the public within the power of our members to render, to which I would like to invite your earnest attention. I am suggested to you the approaching struggle for election to high office in the state and nation and recent notorious occurrences in other states.

"The greatest danger that menaces our republican form of government, as I think, is the danger of corruption of the ballot at the polls and in the halls of legislation. It is not a new danger, but it is a growing danger, for men are as covetous as ever, while their power to corrupt has been enormously increased by the concentration of wealth and the consequent opportunities afforded by its use. To paraphrase a famous declaration: In proportion as the structure of government gives force to the voice of the ballot, it is essential that the ballot be pure.

"Judicial purity has long been an accomplished fact both in England and with us; but in both countries, all efforts to stamp out bribery at the polls and in legislative bodies great and small, have signally failed. Men who in private life are of exemplary character, in politics tolerate if they do not defend or champion flagrant violations of the law. They call it "fighting the devil with fire." One party is just as bad as the other. Indeed, let a political party take high ground on this question, and it will at once be said, that is merely for political effect. But, gentlemen, there is a body of educational men against whom such a flippant sneer would be idle. A body of men from whose ranks come our judges, most of our governors, and the dominant minds in legislature, congress and cabinet—the bar of the United States.

"Why is it that we have excluded the bribe-giver and the bribe-taker from the halls of justice, but have failed to bar them from the polls and the halls of legislation? In my opinion it has been due in largest measure to the integrity, the character and influence of the bench and bar—men whose very professional habits of sinking self and jealously guarding the interests of others have made personal integrity a sort of second nature. The courts are their homes, and they have guarded their honor as a man guards the honor of his household.

"Let this association of lawyers announce, let its members announce, that we voluntarily take upon ourselves the duty of fighting this peril to our institutions; that upon evidence being laid before us tending to prove bribery or attempted bribery at the polls or in any legislative body, we will without fee or reward or, as the grand jurors' oath well puts it, 'without fear, favor or affection, reward, gain or the hope thereof,' give our best energies and abilities to secure the conviction and punishment of the guilty parties, no matter how high or how low, and bribery in New Jersey will have received a deadly blow.

"If we have the opportunity, we owe the duty to ourselves, our state, our country."

The following officers were elected: President, Howard Carrol, of Camden; first vice president, William M. Johnson, of Hackensack; second vice president, William I. Lewis, of Paterson; third vice president, Halsey M. Barrett, of Newark; secretary, William J. Kraft, of Camden; treasurer, Lewis Starr, of Camden; directors, Walter H. Bacon, of Bridgeton; Norman Grey, of Camden; Peter Vredenburgh, of Freehold; Edwin E. Marshall, of Trenton; Edwin S. Swater, of Elizabeth; John B. Vreeland, of Morris*town; Thomas A. Davis, of Orange;* William Brinkerhoff, of Jersey City, and Eugene Emley, of Paterson.

ALMOST FORGOTTEN HEROINE.

Half-forgotten by a public whose ears rang with her praise two gen*erations ago, and approaching the* time of life when rest and reflection are considered appropriate, the keeper of Lime Rock Lighthouse, Ida Lewis, still attends to her important duties as faithfully and capably as at the previous period during her thirty-three years' residence on the rocky island, *writes Earl Clauson, in Put*nam's Magazine. Daily she pursues a round of labor, which would exhaust many a stronger woman, and there is never an hour throughout the night when she does not consciously awaken, sensitive to the red glow which assures her that the light *is fulfilling its mission. Most im*pressive of all, perhaps, in her long tale of service, is the fact that she has spent only a half dozen nights off the rock since she became keeper in 1879.

On November, 1867, there were ten rescues to the credit of the slender girl twenty-five years old, whose fame, nevertheless, had not spread beyond her native state. A year and a half later (29 March, 1869) occurred the rescue which directed the attention of the entire country to this remarkable woman. The participants in the affair, besides Miss Lewis were two Fort Adams soldiers and a boatman who was taking them back to barracks across Newport Harbor.

It happened that in the evening of the day in question Miss Lewis, then a woman of twenty-seven, was nursing a severe cold and sat with shoes off toasting her feet in the lighthouse kitchen oven. Across her shoulders for additional warmth a towel had been thrown. Around Lime Rock howled a winter blizzard, which threashed the waters of the harbor into a wicked sea, and sent heavy rollers from the northeast crashing against the island.

Of a sudden there came to Miss Lewis' ears, above the roar of the tempest, a sound with which by this time she had become familiar—the cry of men in distress. Instantly she sprang to her feet and threw open the kitchen door. Her mother besought her to remain at home, but the girl could entertain only the single idea that her path of duty led to the open water. It was a hard struggle, strong though she was, to guide her skiff to the spot from which the cries continued to come; but on the return trip she rescued boat and drew the two soldiers, almost exhausted, aboard her craft. The boatman was lost.

Not Exclusive.

"Did you get a look at the comet?"

"Certainly not," replied Mrs. Cumrox. Why should we trouble ourselves about something that anybody can see without paying?"—Washington Evening Star.

Her Summer Letters.

Ere long she'll go away,
And then
She'll write to say:
"Please send me ten."
—Detroit Free Press.

"This is our retirement fund."

"What do you mean?"

"Johnny gets a nickle out of it every night for going to bed."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Constitutionalist.

AN INDEPENDENT WEEKLY.

A. L. PURCE, Editor and Proprietor.

Terms: $2.00 per year.

Plainfield, N. J., June 23, 1910.

UZAL B. CRANE HAD AN UNPLEASANT EXPERIENCE

U. B. Crane and a couple of Italian workmen had some unusual experiences Monday afternoon when they attempted to clean out a stable and barn recently purchased by Mr. Crane on East Second street. In order to prepare the barn for a possible customer Mr. Crane began operations by cleaning out the loft where several barrels of waste paper and other debris had been stored.

Slipping his hand into a barrel full of papers Mr. Crane withdrew it hastily and called one of the laborers to remove the contents. But the Italian gave one long howl and jumped for the road and it has been impossible to trace him since. His companion was next called upon to remove the papers from the barrel and he in turn shrieked and made a hasty exit.

By this time Mr. Crane became curious and looking into the barrel would not discover the cause of the fright of his two men. Thursting his hand down deep into the papers he made a lunge for a bundle, but right there he stopped. Something warm and slimy met his outstretched hand which he hastily withdrew. Then was revealed the cause of the flight of the men. Coiled nicely, waiting a chance for a spring at the next intruder was a five-foot blacksnake.

Some of the stuff still remains in the barrels in the barn.

PA AND THE BOND OF SYMPATHY

I wish that pa was runnin' things; I bet you then we'd see
Some changes that would make the folks rise up and shout with glee;
If pa was where Taft is today, he'd bring the prices down,
And "Uncle Joe" would sneak away and skitch his head nowdown;
The men who pack the pork would all be put in jail unless They'd get down on their knees and crawl! Is pa mad? Well, I guess.

If pa was runnin' things you bet the people that consume
Would stand a show; all right, all right—their stock would have a boom;
He'd fix it so when Teddy gets back home he'd whoop for joy
And slap pa proudly on the back and call him bully boy;
He'd make them shut up Wall street, too; he'd stop the bulls and bears;
The workingmen, when pa got through, would all be millionaires.

Last night when pa was tellin' how he'd run the government,
Ma said: "It's easy for you now to blame the president,
But I can't see why you should think you'd be so great and strong,
When nearly everything you do appears to turn out wrong;
If you could run things there so well why don't you practice, dear,
And fix it so that we could see ahead a little here?"

Pa laid his stogie down and threw his paper on the floor,
And ma began to shrink; she knew that there would be a roar:
"A man's a fool," he said, "to home I let he can ever find
A bond of sympathy with one that's got a narrow mind!"

—S. E. Kiser, in Chicago Record-Herald.

MILLINERY GARDENS.

Flowers are lavishly employed, without regard for the caste of the individual posies; orchids find themselves flanked with wood violets, erysanthemums with daisies, lilacs with roses, pansies with field poppies.

The manner in which the flowers are placed on the hat and angle suggested are decidedly novel.

In some cases the flowers stand almost upright, towering above the crown, again they are placed at an angle. Cherry blossoms on tall, slender twigs or sprays are utilized on turbans which lie back against the crown.

Crowns and brims, regardless of shape or size, are frequently massed with flowers; as a rule one or two varities are used.

Leafless wreaths are a feature, and the effect is decidedly clever. They are placed on the hats in any original manner which presents itself to the designer. Over a crown latticed with black velvet, wee pink and yellow roses clambered realistically. Frequently they are formed into festoon effects, also in wreaths. They are employed to outline both crown and brim, but are necessarily small.

PLAINFIELD TO HAVE SAFE AND SANE 4TH

The Common Council, at its adjourned session, Monday, adopted on third reading the much-discussed fireworks ordinance, but the vote was not unanimous. Councilmen Montgomery, C. C. Randolph and Tolles voting against a "safe and sane Fourth."

When Mr. Holt moved for the adoption of the ordinance on third reading, Mr. Montgomery stated that he would vote against the ordinance, because he did not believe that the people of Plainfield want it; and that it was not a well considered measure, and that the action was too hasty. He said that he had heard many opinions adverse to the adoption of the ordinance as it does not prohibit the sale of fireworks. The member said that in Massachusetts the character of the fireworks allowed is defined in an ordinance and this, he said, seems to be lacking in the local measure.

In reply to Mr. Montgomery, Mr. Mygatt said that there was a delegation before the Common Council recently, and every one favored and urged the proposed ordinance. He felt sure it met with popular approval.

Mr. Montgomery said that in his opinion the loosely wrapped firecrackers are as dangerous as any other kind, but Mr. Clay replied that a prominent dealer in New York informed him that the large loosely wrapped cracker is not dangerous, and in addition Mr. Clay said that one of the local dealers informed the Council that every care would be exercised in the sale of fireworks on the Fourth, again meeting Mr. Montgomery's criticism. The ordinance was then adopted, Councilmen Taylor, Mygatt, Clay, Wilson, Gloak and Holt voting in favor and Councilmen Montgomery, C. C. Randolph and Tolles against.

SOME CHILDREN PETTED TOO HC

It is a problem to decide how far children should be brought into prominence among their elders, as of late years has been the fashion.

Some of them, no doubt, to use their own phraseology, delight in "showing off" any little skill or talent of which they may be possessed. They love to dance, sing, act or recite before their parents and friends, and swallow with avidity all of the flattering remarks made about themselves and their performances by good-natured folk who consider it the correct thing to say.

But it must be confessed that too much publicity for children is a mistake. It is apt to make a child think itself of undue importance, and to overate its abilities and attractions, and in consequence the little creature becomes vain and self-conscious, thus losing the natural simplicity and unconsciousness of self, which is one of the greatest charms of childhood.

Although it is not good for children to be brought forward too much, it is a mistake not to let them mix with other children of their own age and standing. They ought to go to a certain extent, and also to entertain their little friends in their own home, in the nursery and schoolroom are, as it were, little worlds in which the small inhabitants learn the rudiments of their future behavior.

Every natural, healthy child loves going to a party and "having a party" at home, the latter more especially, and it is the latter that teaches it most. Every child in the family should be taught to consider herself or himself as the hostess and host for the occasion, and in consequence it is pla or her duty to study the pleasure and comfort of the little guests, to be courteous to them, to give them the first place in whatever amusement may be the order of the day.

Teach your children also not to show their own likes and dislikes for their guests; not at all an easy or per haps at first a pleasant task for a child to learn, but it is one that will prove of great value all through life.

A spoilt child really never has good manners. How can it, when it has never been taught obedience, self-control, or consideration for others, those things which are the best foundation on which can be built a child's good manners.

Anticipatory.

Spring must be here and I am glad—
And life seems much serener;
Within a store I saw this ad:
"Just try our straw hat cleaner!"
—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Happened at Bridge.

She let me hold her hand a bit
While in a gracious mood.
I didn't take a trick with it;
It wasn't very good.

"Was your comet party a success?"

"No, the women I wanted to win the prize had miserable luck."—Detroit Free Press.

"Is he a skeptic?"

"I should say so. He even refuses to believe that Halley's comet has a tail."—Detroit Free Press.

THIRTEEN ORDINANCES FOR WORK ON STREETS

Ordinances covering the permanent improvement of thirteen streets were offered by Councilman Gloak, chairman of the street committee, at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council Monday. Each measure had to be introduced and adopted separately, and this work required nearly three-quarters of an hour. The ordinances were adopted on first and second readings, ordered engrossed and advertised and in each case Monday night, July 11, was fixed as the time for a public hearing, when it is proposed to pass them on final reading.

The streets to be improved are as follows:

Thornton avenue, West Fourth street, Johnston avenue, Jackson avenue, Essex street, Putnam avenue, Netherwood avenue, Leland avenue, Stebbins place, South Second street, Central avenue, Prescott place and Randolph road.

For the purpose of doing this work the Council will issue $30,000 worth of bonds and the usual procedure will be followed, that is, the city will pay its share, one-third, for the work and the benefitted property owners two-thirds, to be assessed by commissioners appointed by the courts.

INTERESTING QUESTIONS FOR CHINA PAINTERS.

In china painting absolute cleanliness and a regard for details is imperative. If you have no kiln of your own and have to send the china out to be fired, always see that it is perfectly dry and that the under sides of things are clean and free from smudges and finger marks before firing, as all such things will fire in and prove unsightly.

When sending china out to be fired wrap it carefully in soft, tissue paper or sheet-wadding. If any of the cotton sticks to the china after it is unwrapped it will not matter.

Much of the amateur one sees today is done in a very sloppy, careless way—muddy color, wobbly and inaccurate outlines and gold which has been put on in the most careless manner. Rub out and do over again any work which is not up to the highest standard.

After you have finished the day's painting scrape all messy color from the palette with your knife, leaving only the good color. Wipe the palette clean with turpentine and then slip on the cover. If you have not the covered palette place your tile, or whatever contains your colors, in a covered box. This will keep the colors free from dust and dirt and in good working condition several days.

Here are few questions and answers of interest to the amateur:

1. Does your pad wet through too quickly? Your silk is doubtless too thin. Use double thickness and only oil the pad very slightly.

2. Does the tinting seem full of tiny bits of fuzz? If so probably the silk is too thin and the cotton works through. Or it may be due to dust or lint from either the room or your dress. Best wipe it all off.

3. Does your tint seem full of little bubbles as you pad it? If it does you have used too much medium in applying the colro. You had best wipe it off and try again. Somelt is due to a very wet pad. Try a fresh one and perhaps that will make it all right.

4. Is the tint streaky and uneven? If you have used the color too dry it is apt to be uneven. It is best to see that any piece you are to tint is perfectly clean before applying the color.

5. In padding does the color seem to come off in spots? This is probably due to having your pad made too hard and tight. It should be loose and springy. And, again, it may be due to having your color too dry.

6. What is the proper consistency of the tinting color when mixed, ready for application? It should be smooth and creamy, and is used quite thin for very light tones. Experience must teach you many of these points, for it is by repeated trials with these problems that you gain any real knowledge.

Stewed Kidneys.

Here is a god recipe for stewed kidneys. Boil them, then chop fine and boil again in fresh water until quite tender. Make a white sauce of flour and butter stirred together until quite smooth. Then stir in slowly the milk or cream, and when this boils add the kidneys and remove from the fire and season with salt and pepper. It takes about half and hour for the kidneys to boil until tender.

Something Complicated.

"To succeed as a pianist, you must have a foreign-looking name."

"I would not choose a name belonging to any other country but my own."

"Well, pick out the name of some throat disease."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

"Brown has just formed another merger."

"That so?"

"Yes—married a girl for her money."

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning June 26, 1910.

Topic—Money, men and prayers, the three great missionary needs.—II Cor. viii, 1-9; Matt. ix. 36-38.

The evangelization of the world for Christ is a gigantic undertaking, and as the work successfully increases the demands and needs become increasingly great. From a human standpoint these needs are well divided into three —money, men and prayers.

1. The need of money should at once be perceptible to all. To send multitudes to all parts of the world to "preach the gospel to every creature" requires money, and an immense amount of money. No commercial enterprise in the world has such a tremendous burden upon it, and yet we know that billions of dollars are spent by business concerns. A popular woman's magazine which has spent thousands of dollars in advertising claims to have 1,000,000 subscribers. But what is 1,000,000 in comparison with 16,000,000,000 people? Yet this is the mission of Christianity —to evangelize "every creature." The need of money is a grievous need, yet many think not. Spirituality is their hobby, but it may sadly be said that those who talk so spiritually about missions have usually left their pocketbooks at home when the collection plate is passed. This is absolute evidence of hypocrisy. The Christian who emphasizes the great spiritual needs of the world and talks in language that seems to come directly from heaven and deprecates the mere mention of money is a hypocrite pure and simple. Better say not one word, but from a sincere heart give according to one's ability to help dispel the spiritual darkness than follow the course above described. The spiritual part belongs unto God. The presence of the spirit will always be present in the missionary in his work, but before he can work and be blessed he must be sent and supported, and that work God has placed upon us. The Macedonians in gifts to foreigners should put the most of us to shame. They gave (1) without being asked, (2) out of deep poverty, (3) beyond their means, (4) praying that their gifts be received. Are any of us following such a course in giving to missions? If not we should at least be inspired by them to do better than we are doing.

2. Men. All the money in the world will not evangelize the world without men—missionaries. In His day Christ said, "The harvest is great, but the laborers are few." In comparison with the number to be reached today it is still true that the harvest is great and the laborers are few. Yet the church finds as many today as its money will allow. If billions were given instead of millions or thousands of men and women, too, could probably be found. But men cannot walk to China or live on nothing or build churches out of air. To get the best (and only such should be sent) our boards and committees need again increased financial aid.

3. Prayers. Christ declared that for the needy harvest the disciples should pray to God for more laborers for the harvest. True laborers must be called of God. He calls them as a result of prayer. Is not the praying for ministers and missionaries increased or decreased? It has undoubtedly decreased. In numbers the students of our theological seminaries have been declining for years. Many reasons have been suggested for this unusual condition. But perhaps, after all, the greatest is the lack of prayer for laborers. The desire of almost every Christian home in the past was for at least one minister in the home. Prayers were offered to this effect. Money was prayed to secret and openly with their boys upon this subject and early consecrated them to God for the ministry if God would call them. The result was not one son, but often three and four entered the ministry. Have we quit praying and consecrating our sons to the ministry? If so, let us begin again, and once more our seminaries may equal their increased capacity.

BIBLE READINGS.

Isa. lxii. 1-7; Mal. iii. 10; Chron. xxix. 14-16; Rom. x. 14, 15; Isa. vi. 8-10; John x. 17, 18; Matt. ix. 9; xxviii. 19, 20; xxvi, 36-44.

Egyptian Fields.

A Christian Endeavor society has recently been organized in the United Presbyterian mission at Alexandria, Egypt. The start was made with a membership of twenty-five, but a good many more attend the meetings who have not yet signed the pledge. The membership represents five or six nationalities from the Nile valley, drawn together to praise and to pray to the same Lord. Miss Grace Sarsen, a well known American Bible teacher, who has been staying in Alexandria for several weeks, has led two of the meetings, and reports a great part of her time in Christian Endeavor is far different in this country from what it is in America or England, but our motive and our aim are the same. We have a vast Moslem population on the one hand and on the other a large European population, a great part of which is entirely given up to the things of the world. "Who is sufficient for these things?" Our sufficiency is of God.—Y. L. Bigwood of Alexandria, Egypt, in Christian Endeavor World.

The Bible in 418 Languages.

The Bible will soon be printed in every language or dialect known throughout the world. Last year, according to the one hundred and fifth report of the British and Foreign Bible society, the languages in which either the complete Bible or parts of it were issued reached a total of 418.

Fight Irritability.

We must take life as we find it, better if we can, but certainly there is no sense in throwing our heads against the stone wall of absurd tempers and unnecessary peevishness. There are many exercises for quieting the nerves, but every one requires that you first gain control of yourself. And the girl who has acquired the irritability habit cannot overcome it until she recognizes this fact.—Exchange.

Tother End To.

"It's jest as much us poor folks' place to treat the rich right as 't is t'other way. Don't it help as much toward good feelin' between man and man for me to go a little out'n my way to give the boss a pleasant good mornin' as it does for the boss always to have to make the first break? The boss' got money; but that's no sign he don't need what money can't buy—and that's good-will."—Pa Flickinger's Folks.

Woman's Danger Batteries.

A hypnotic eye, vulgarly known as the goo-goo, has long been considered one of the most valuable possessions of a woman. In the wise economy of nature it was given her instead of the swelling biceps of the opposite sex. From time immemorial it was considered perfectly ethical for her to exercise this power to the fullest extent, and to it society owes most of its pleasure and probably its very existence.

The Smiths.

As to Smith, a correspondent points out that while there are now about 350,000 members of the great family in England alone, in Old Testament times, according to the first book of Samuel, "there was no Smith throughout the land of Israel." This verse of the late Bishop Wilberforce spotted as the hardest one in the Bible to quote without smiling. — London Chronicle.

Expert Diagnosis.

southern slave who diagnosed a boy's

Hopkinson Smith tells the story of illness in her master's home. "It's a case of too much watermelon," she said. Thereupon she was informed with great dignity that there could be no such thing as "too much watermelon." "Well," she retorted, "then there ain't enough boy."

Small Work of Art.

A woven basket, so small that it is necessary to use a magnifying glass to appreciate the skill of the workmanship, is claimed to be the smallest in the world. It is a trifle over one-eighth of an inch in diameter, hardly large enough to hold a drop of water, and every stick is perfect.

The Need of Friends.

Every human being is born to companionship. Our first need is a breath of air, the next is a friend. Never till we are done with the air can we spare the friend. I think not even then.—C. G. Ames.

Church Bell Kills Sexton.

M. Dumet, sexton of the church at Payet, was killed by the bell falling from its frame. He had gone to ring it to announce religious service, when it snapped off and dropped, killing him on the spot.

Making a Life.

Many a man has made a good living who has made a poor life. Some men barely make a living. Who makes more than very moderate and even scanty livings.—Success Magazine.

Honor.

Honor is that quality which prompts a man to avenge attacks upon his own weaknesses, but fails to restrain him from making attacks upon other men's women.—Smart Set.

Don't Tell a Man a Secret.

Tell a man a secret and he tells it to his wife, and when she in turn repeats it he has a great deal to say about a woman not being able to keep a secret.—Atchison Globe.

Unreasonable.

The woman who wants to wear the trousers is unreasonable. She expects, after gaining her point, to keep right on using stockings.

Troublesome.

There is nothing but trouble ahead of the woman who marries a man she can't love and the man who loves a woman he can't marry.

Foreign Substance in Milk.

A bottle of milk, containing a two-inch minnow, was recently delivered by a Pittsfield (Mass.) milkman to one of his customers.

Need Much Leeway.

Warships require 1,000 to 1,450 feet clear space to swing around in tidal harbors.

A Doctor in Siam.

In Siam anybody is allowed to practice medicine. In that whole country there are only three dentists.

Optimism.

Optimism is the mask we wear before our friends.—Life.

Scientific Achievement.

Fabrics looking like silk are made from wood.

Revelation.

Tell me thy company and I will tell thee what thou art.—Cervantes.

JOHNSTON'S DRIVE FOR HILL CLIMBING CONTEST

Steps were taken Monday at a conference of the North Plainfield Township Improvement Society, with the Township Committee, Freeholders, representatives of the Plainfield Auto Club and Mayor N. B. Smalley, held at Maul's Hotel, to improve Johnston's Drive and made it an ideal hill-climbing course not only for the event on July 9, but for future contests and for the general advancement of the sport.

A committee was appointed by the Township Committee, comprising H. A. Todd, representing the Plainfield Auto Club; C. B. Neier, of the Improvement Society; Freeholder William Demler and Town Committeemen Archibold and T. H. A. Leurssen to undertake the work of improving the hill road.

The mater was thoroughly discussed at the meeting and it was decided to introduce a system whereby it will be possible to telephone at interval points along the Drive during the days for the trials and on the day for the hill-climbing contest, to warn any who may be driving over that road.

FOR THE CONVALESCENT.

Perhaps what convalescence demands—and is most frequently grudged—is leisure. Severe sickness leaves languor and weariness behind, and satisfactory mending does not sensibly diminish either the acuteness or duration of these sensations. Therefore, because there is much time to dispose of, a good nurse will be wise to protract all that is pleasant. She need not be hurried, as if wanted elsewhere. The patient likes her thoroughly at command, brisk to do bidding, but in harmony with the kind of lazy well-being which it is the perfection of convalescent nursing to inspire.

From the earliest days of getting well the morning toilet provides excellent opportunity for happy dawdling. Everybody who has gone through an elementary nursing course has learned the principle of washing by degrees, so that no part is left chilled. But while adhering to sound instruction in the main, now, if ever, is the justification for all little toilet luxuries, vanities and extravagances. The drops of aromatic essence for final sponging, sweet-scented soaps and powders, dainty dentifrice—the appreciation for all of which, please note, depends not in the least upon age or sex. The patient who does not care a pin how he or she looks is often on the brink of one of those fits of depression common to convalescence which occasionally end in tragedy. An interest in becoming dressing gowns, ribbons, hairdressing or shaving is the best signs, and the nurse should be a judicious flatterer while wary that the right light falls on the patient's mirror.

AROUND WORLD IN 37 DAYS.

Faster Trains in Russia Shorten the Trip by 24 Hours.

Another hitch has been taken in the tightening girdle of the earth, and the effect is to bring China and Japan one day nearer for he who journeys thither by way of London, Paris, and the Siberian Railroad.

The twenty-four hours have been clipped from the railroad schedule between Pekin and Vladivostock in Russia by doing away with tedious waits at several principal junction points.

Under the new schedule a tourist who leaves London on Monday may reach Yokohama on the second Monday following, or at Shanghai on the second Wednesday, fourteen and sixteen days, respectively.

For the globe trotter wishing to keep right on going west, the new schedule enables him to catch the fast Canadian Pacific steamship leaving Yokohama Tuesdays. Thus in twenty-six days one may journey from London to Vancouver via Vladivostock, and may complete the circling of the globe in thirty-seven days less than half of Phineas Fogg's eighty-day record.

The through train will run only once a week under the new schedule, having been arranged especially to lure tourists to travel by the overland route.

Stains on Broadcloth.

To remove stains from broadcloth take one ounce of pipe clay that has been ground fine and mix it with twelve drops of alcohol, and the same quantity of spirits of turpentine. Moisten a little of this mixture with more alcohol and rub it on the spots. Let remain until dry, then rub off with a woolen cloth and spots will disappear.

His Misapprehension.

"Great goshalmighty!" horrifiedly ejaculated honest Farmer Hornbeak, in the midst of his perusal of the patent side of the village newspaper. "It's come, just as I knew it would!"

"Why, what's the matter, Ezry?" cried his wife.

"They're sellin' us farmers into slavery! That's what! Here's an item headed, 'Three Rubens Under the Hammer'!"—Puck.

ROUTINE BUSINESS OF COMMON COUNCIL

Alfonse Colluci, being the lowest responsible bidder, was awarded the contract at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council Monday night, for the construction of the sanitary sewer in Central street. The contract was awarded in accordance with a resolution by Councilman Gloak and upon his motion the checks of the unsuccessful bidders were returned.

Mr. Gloak also called up on second reading the ordinance providing for the laying and repair of sidewalks, and the one to vacate an unused portion of New street. They were ordered engrossed and advertised and Monday night, July 11, was the time fixed for a public hearing prior to adoption on third reading.

When Mr. Holt called up the amendment to the dog ordinance for a final reading, the Common Council took a half-hour recess on motion of Mr. Montgomery to discuss it. The amendment provides that the owner of a dog shall pay $1 every day his dog is in the pound, instead of a flat rate of $3 for redemption. After the recess the ordinance was taken up and passed, all the members voting in the affirmative.

Mayor C. J. Fisk appointed Ferdinand Bader a special policeman to do regular duty, his term of office to expire January 1, 1911. The appointment was confirmed. The Mayor also, on the recommendation of the police board, advanced Patrolman John Kelly from Class C to Class A. On the motion of C. C. Randolph, chairman of the police committee, to confirm the action, all the members except Mr. Holt voted in the affirmative. The change is effective July 1.

The amended ordinance intended to regulate the licensing of shows, circuses, theatres, moving picture places, concerts, etc., was called up on third reading by Mr. Holt, and on motion of Mr. Clay it was placed on the table for the present. This was done because, as Mr. Clay explained, the phraseology of the ordinance in one particular is not satisfactory, and further consideration was desired. Councilmen Holt and Gloak voted against putting the matter over.

Mr. Holt said that while there is no haste about passing the ordinance, he believed criticism should be made before the time for passing an ordinance on third reading, especially as copies of it were sent to each member weeks before the intended action. Mr. Clay said that it was important that the ordinance should be right in its construction and for that reason he favored further consideration.

MATTRESSES ABLAZE AT JACOB TRUPIN'S HOME.

The apartments of Jacob Trupin, at 541 West Third street, were discovered to be on fire shortly after 6 Monday evening and an alarm was rung in from box 43. On their arrival the firemen found a couple of blazing mattresses on the second floor and had little trouble in extinguishing the smouldering fire.

Mrs. Trupin, the wife of the head of the family, in hurrying to get out of the house, fell down the stairs and was considerably shaken up. She was attended by Dr. Marcus Clawson. The damage by fire amounted to less than $50. No cause for the fire was found.

A Great Little Car.

W. J. Morgan, president of the Motor Contest Association, under whose auspices the "Motor in Light or Bust" race was held last week, has written a letter to F. L. C. Martin, of this city, congratulating him for his business instinct and sporting judgment on entering the Hupmobile in the contest. Mr. Morgan states further: "I was with great regret that I learned you would not be with one of the cars as I feel sure if you had seen the perfect score Hupmobile driven by Elmer D. Cutting plunge like a boar in a storm sea over the Montauk bad lands, your already great admiration for the little car would have been increased. It was the most wonderful exhibition that I have ever seen on a car at its best, and surely you and its manufacturers will reap a deserved reward."

First-Day School Picnic.

The children of the First-Day School of the Religious Society of Friends could not hold their picnic at Washington Rock, Saturday, on account of the sever storm, and instead the affair was held at the meeting-house on Watchung avenue, where they had gathered. The afternoon was given up to an informal program, all sorts of games being played as one means of diversion. Ice cream and cake were also served. The affair was in charge of Miss Mabel Vail, superintendent.

Just the Thing.

"Why can't they base an opera upon an American theme?"

"We have no peasantry to bring in as a chorus."

"Make it a baseball opera and introduce a chorus of enthusiastic fans."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

FOR PUBLIC DANCE HALL

Playground Commissioners President Makes a Good Suggestion.

TO PROTECT YOUNG WOMEN.

He Also Gives a Rattling Good Talk On Playgrounds at Parent-Teacher Association Meeting.

"There are between three and four hundred working girls in Plainfield who have no place to go nights," said Harry W. Marshall in an address before the Franklin School Parent-Teacher Association in the assembly hall of the Franklin School Monday. "Few people realize the position of these girls. Often the home conditions are not at all attractive; and we find many of them seeking pleasure in a dance hall on Front street, where there is no protection for them. It is up to Plainfield to take care of these girls. As a city it is our duty to protect them."

Mr. Marshall then cited examples of how this problem is met in cities of Plainfield's size, and suggested that some place should be provided where these girls could go to dances two nights in a week which could also be used for sacred concerts on Sundays.

In striking this new note for ethical social duty for Plainfielders Mr. Marshall unwittingly voiced the expression of Felix Adler, of the Adler School of Ethical Culture, and Chas. A. Beard, professor of politics in Columbia University, when in recent addresses there said that this was one most vital need of small cities, that was almost wholly overlooked by reformers. Mrs. S. H. Voorhees, president of the Franklin School Parent-Teacher Association, agreed with Mr. Marshall, and though an informal discussion followed after the meeting, nothing definitely was done. It is believed, however, that Mr. Marshall's suggestion will be actively taken up.

The principal part of Mr. Marshall's address was concerned with the question of playgrounds. In a brief way he described the recent Rochester convention at which time was the association's special delegate. "Plainfield," he said in conclusion, "must wake up to the condition that it must give the street boy a chance to play ball—now he is chased away if he gives vent to his passion for the game in the street or vacant lots. Those who go to New York in the morning and remain away all day and then return in the evening haven't any clear idea of real conditions in the city; but those who are here all day know the condition of things. Go up on West Third street some afternoon, and tell me that New York is any worse."

"In the playgrounds that we have now, we are going to have women for supervisors. A man can't interest girls; but a woman can interest girls—and what is more—can make a boy do a whole lot of things that he never thought he could do. The idea of the commission form of government of playgrounds is to keep out the influence of politics. And the aim of playgrounds is in a large manner the improvement of the manners of our boys and girls. We have started playgrounds in this city under almost exactly the same circumstances the East Orange started them; the idea though originated with the Parent-Teacher Association, even though others did carry it out, and thus take away the credit.

The association re-elected Mrs. S. H. Voorhees president for the third time, and the others elected were: First vice-president, Miss Noel Bullock; second vice-president, Mrs. George W. V. Moy; treasurer, Mrs. W. H. P. Veysey; secretary, Mrs. Warren B. Travell. In taking up the subjects for discussion for next year, "ventilation" was suggested and met with hearty support. It was also voted to have Principal Lindsey Best, of the City High School, prepare a paper showing how to deal with the individual apart from the mass. An invitation was extended to the Stillman School Association to join in with the Franklin School Association, because of the juxtaposition of the work of the two.

The report of Mrs. S. H. Voorhees, the president, was of particular interest inasmuch as it showed some of the things accomplished by the association. Mrs. Voorhees first acknowledged the obligation for the origin of the association to the Mothers' Club. "The two principal objects of the association," she said, "are: First, a more intimate relation between the teachers and parents of the school; a co-operation resulting in higher standing in scholarships and deportment of the pupils; second, a personal and intimate knowledge of the physical characteristics of the school grounds, buildings and accessories, thereby enabling us to intelligently suggest and urge improvements and betterments if needed, which when obtained should add to the physical well being and comfort of both teachers and scholars."

Mrs. Voorhees then discussed the difficulties met in interesting large numbers of parents in the school work and showed the encouraging work done by the association in this direction.

She then reviewed the work of the year in various departments, especially in the field of playgrounds. "The Association," she said in part, disclaims the intention either directly or indirectly, to criticize the Board of Education, our superintendent, principals or teachers. That which we are seeking is simply co-operation."

ARE YOU A MOOSE? SOME OTHERS ARE

Invitations are being extended to the men of this city to join the "Loyal Order of Moose" and from present indications the charter membership will be large. According to the literature sent out by the organizers of the craft Mayor Charles J. Fisk is chairman of the committee authorized to form the new lodge. Associated with the Mayor are Factory Inspector Andrew McCardell, Hugh A. Todd, Henry Windham, George J. Lahr and George J. Tobin.

The objects of the organization are fraternal to the last degree and include sick and accident benefits, but they are not intended for the class who would join an organization for what they can get out of it. Dr. A. H. Dunlon, of Somerset street, and Dr. Marcus L. Clawson, of Park avenue, are named as the medical examiners of the proposed lodge in this city.

It is announced that the twenty-second annual convention of the order will be held at Baltimore, Md., during the week ending August 22, 1910.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS DECORATE LOCAL GRAVES.

Representatives from the uniformed rank of the Knights of Pythias from Portchester and Brooklyn, N. Y., met with Crescent Company, of this city, on Sunday and together the knights proceeded to the North Plainfield cemetery and decorated the graves of departed knights. Samuel Robinson, Harry Werner and Alfred E. Causebrook, of the local lodge, were the committee in charge.

On Sunday, June 26, the local uniformed rank will act as escort to the lodges of district twenty to the services to be held in Bound Brook.

RECEIVES GRAND PIANO ON HER 13TH BIRTHDAY.

A party was tendered to Miss Mary Harrington, of 670 West Fourth street, Saturday night, in honor of her thirteenth birthday anniversary. She received many gifts including a grand piano from her uncle, John Flatley, of Newark. Games were played and refreshments served. The happy affair continued until nearly midnight.

Those present were the Misses Margaret Powers, Margaret Traynor, Florence Russ, Esther Mattell, Annie Regan, Mary Welsh, Sarah Schuck, Catherine Deady, Anna Regan, Nora Regan, Sarah Doyle, Mary Flatley, Catherine Regan, Anna Harrington, Catherine Connolly, Catherine McCue, Margaret Deskin, Margaret Gallagher, May McAfee and Mary Connolly and Joseph Gallagher, Edwin Sullivan, Joseph Regan, John Traynor, John Deskin, William Clarkson, Robert Clarkson, Bernard Fee, John Harrington, Edward Moore, John Connolly, Thomas Connolly and Martin Flatley.

SENATOR FRELINGHUYSEN FETES TRENTON SCRIBES.

A dozen members of the New Jersey Legislative Correspondents' Club were entertained at luncheon Saturday by Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen. They were met at the Somerville station by several of the Senator's automobiles and taken directly to his beautiful home. After luncheon they drove through Duke's Park and later visited the Senator's dairy farm.

After the storm they autoed to White House and return. Among those present were James Kearney, Edward J. Burke, Francis B. Lee, Charles A. Ransom, executive clerk to the Governor; Mayor Charles Fisk, of Plainfield; Upton S. Jeffries, John L. O'Toole, and Charles Batsman, of Somerville.

Both Names Alike.

James Saunders, of 524 West Fourth street, does not want his friends to confuse him with the James Saunders, of West Second street, who is spending the next two months at a guest of the county in jail at Elizabeth.

Girls Didn't Walk.

A party of Y. W. C. A. girls who gathered at the association rooms early Saturday afternoon, to walk to Fairview, did not start owing to the rain. This is the second time that the trip has been postponed.

"Do you expect to go away this summer?"

"Yes, indeed, if we can find a place where there will surely be enough desirable young men for my daughters to become engaged to."—Detroit Free Press.

ORDER SPECIAL ELECTION

Voters to Decide Whether Balloting Machines Shall Be Abolished.

TUESDAY, JULY 26, THE DATE.

The Common Councilmen Vote Unanimously To Give People Right Conferred by the Act of 1908.

The Common Council at its adjourned meeting Monday, granted the request of the petitioners for a special election for the abolition of the voting machines in the first districts of each of the four wards, and Tuesday, July 26, was the date fixed for such election. This action was taken following the presentation of a second petition from each district of the four wards, signed by at least twenty-five per cent of the voters in those districts.

A few weeks ago the original petition was presented, but at that time the Common Council decide to take no action and allow the petitioners to mandamus the city if they so desired. Later an argument was made before the city fathers by G. W. V. Moy, counsel for the petitioners, and the original petition was withdrawn with the understanding that another one would be presented last night. This was done and a delegation of local Democrats, including LeRoy J. Ellis, Patrick Reville, J. O. Stevens, as well as G. W. V. Moy, representing the Progressive Republicans, was present.

Mr. Holt, of the laws and ordinance committe, presented a resolution, granting the request of the petitioners and fixing July 26 as the date for the election. The election will be held in all respects the same as any other election, except that only the voters in the first districts of the four wards, where the voting machines are located, will take part in the election. All the members voted in favor of Mr. Holt's resolution. It is largely due to the persevering efforts og Mr. Moy that the election was ordered.

OFFERED CURTISS FLIGHT TO MERCHANTS FOR $2,000.

Because there was not a quorum at the meeting of the Merchants' Association Monday only an informal talk was had by the three members who did show up. These were F. A. Duttenhofer, Herbert Schuldenfrei and M. C. VanArsdale.

A communication from the retail butchers was read in which the latter organization asked that the half-holiday be changed from Thursday to Friday, as the former is imposed owing to lack of a quorum to give an official answer to this proposition it seemed to be the opinion of the members present that the change would not be advisable because Thursday is the acknowledged excursion day and on that day of the week there is little actual business during the summer months.

An alleged representative of Glenn Curtiss, the aviator, made a proposition for an appropriation of $2,000 for flights in this city and being turned down immediately blew right out again. Apparently flying around the housetops for the excitement of the thing does not appeal to the merchants.

The Misses Hooley Bridesmaids.

The Misses Ray and Mabel Hooley daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin S. Hooley, of the borough, were among the bridesmaids at the marriage of Miss Jean Rolston and Clarence Nelson Peacock, which took place Saturday at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bertrand Rolston, 19 West Fifty-first street, New York. The affair was a quiet one owing to the recent death of the bride's aunt, Mrs. William H. Rolston.

Reception of Piscataway Grads.

The graduates of the public schools of Piscataway township held their annual reception Saturday night at the home of Samuel Mathon, of New Market. About two hundred were present, including some from East Bound Brook, New Market, South Plainfield and other sections of the township. An informal social time was enjoyed after which light refreshments were served.

JERSEY BERRY PROSPECTS.

White-the young leaves on the low blue huckleberry bushes were killed by frost, an examination in portions of the New Jersey pine district shows that the bloom and berries are unhurt. At the present time there is a fair prospect for an average yield.

Fearing that other frosts may yet appear, some bog owners still have their cranberries under water, and thus the tender vines have escaped injury.

Apple trees in Burlington county that have escaped the blight are full of fruit, and there is promise of a good crop. Pears will be scarce, but there will be plenty of peaches.

Constitutionalists Ads Pay.

CANNON ACCUSES FOWLER; BURIED FINANCIAL BILL

During the session of the National House at Washington Saturday, Speaker Cannon surrendered the gavel to Representative Mann, and, in an address from the floor, defended the present rules as fair and mercilessly scored his critics.

The Speaker talked nearly half an hour. He singled out Representative Fowler, of New Jersey, now an insurgent, and the Speaker's inveterate foe on the floor, as an object of criticism.

The Speaker told the House that the most flagrant exhibition of the burying of a bill in committee was done by the former chairman of the Committee on Banking and Currency (Mr. Fowler) when the Vreeland Financial bill was put to sleep, and that it was only through the action of a Republican caucus, which demanded its report to the House, that it was ever dragged forth from hiding.

The venerable Speaker was greeted with cheers from his Republican colleagues when he had concluded. Representative Cooper, of Wisconsin, one of the leading insurgents, attempted to reply, but Mr. Towney objected and no one had an opportunity to answer the Speaker's arguments.

SELF-CENTERED WOMEN.

The reason that the American woman unflaggingly keeps up her amusements independent of man lies in her energy and her restlessness, asserts Mrs. Wilson Woodrow in The Delineator. In the first place, she realizes quite clearly that her husband will not participate in the various pursuits which take up her daytime hours.

What is she to do? She is extremely systematic and executive; her household affairs are quickly administered. How, then, is she to occupy her time? She cannot possibly spend a morning in the flower garden snipping dead blossoms from their stems and finding excitement in turning innumerable leaves in the quest for a possible clug, after the manner of her English sisters.

Neither can she put in her time manufacturing wonderful blouses and dainty neckwear and lingerie from ravishing preserved and exquisitely mended bits of lace as does the French woman. Nor can she occupy herself brewing, baking, knitting and darning in imitation of the German hausfrau.

The climate, or perhaps her own temperament, drives her to a display of ceaseless activity; and, as she is intensely practical, she wishes to see some tangible and definite result. She is enormously occupied with the machinery of life, and she wants the wheels to whiz as fast as possible. I have seen a woman having her hair waved and her hands manicured at the same time, while her secretary read aloud the cream of various literary journals for her employer's edification.

In consequence, she lacks greatly in a certain wistful charm of hesitation, a delicate and courteous deference. She is too assured. She starts out with no softening and mysterious shadow of doubt; she will wear her clothes better when she forgets that she wears them better than any woman in the world, so she will be infinitely more delightful when her beloved "culture" becomes some integral part of her soul and not a banner to flaunt on her outer walls.

She is, in this American woman, the most self-centered creature on the face of the earth and she would not know how not to be assertive. It is a matter of religion with her never to get off the pedestal, and the well trained American man dutifully hangs thereon the votive wreath and burns incense before her. She never doubts that her proper place is the pedestal and she takes it for granted that you are interested solely in herself.

RHUBARB FOR WINTER USE.

Those who have surplus rhubarb ought to put it up in some form for winter use. To make it into jam wash some of the young stalks and cut up without peeling. To each pound allow three-fourths of a pound of sugar. Bring slowly to a boil. The heating brings out the juice so that no water need be used. Boil and stir constantly three-quarters of an hour. Put in tumblers or jars and when cold cover with melted paraffin. To make jelly use the old, tough stalks as well as the young. Cut up without peeling, together with three sour apples. Cook together in very little water until tender. When cold strain, bring to the boiling point, then add an equal amount of sugar and boil briskly until it jellies. Pour into glasses and when cold cover with paraffin.

More Likely Field.

"I hear that your daughter has quit the stage to become a nurse."

"Yes. Nurses are all the rage with millionaires now, and there's no sense in being a chorus girl any longer."—Detroit Free Press.

—Constitutionalist's ads. pay.

PLAYGROUNDS OPEN IN ELIZABETH SOON

Definite arrangements have been made to open the playground at Public School No. 1 in Elizabeth on July 5. The playground commissioners have arranged to obtain estimates for the apparatus and as soon as these are received a meeting of the commission will be held and plans made for the formal opening of the playfield.

John E. Schmidlin has been elected director of the playgrounds for the year 1910, and William M. Duncan, Miss Victoria Brown, Miss Cora L. Jones and Miss Myra Marsh have been chosen assistants. At a meeting held at the home of Benjamin Campbell, president of the commission, Robert B. Cissel was chosen treasurer. Richard E. Clement, the treasurer pro tem, reported the following receipts:

Elizabeth Teachers' Club, $30.60; Public School No. 1, $50; Joseph A. O'Brien, treasurer of the executive committee in charge of the public school field day held under the auspices of the Board of Education, $250; J. W. Wagner, dental inspector, $5; total, $325.60. Expended for two copies of "Playground Technique," $5.32; balance, $320.28.

Secretary Richard E. Clement was instructed to send letters of thanks for the money received.

Mr. Schmidlin was directed to secure estimates for all the apparatus and work to be supplied so far as practicable by Elizabeth contractors or dealers.

The commissioners decided to have Mr. Schmidlin visit the playgrounds at Philadelphia and East Orange at the expense of the commission.

It is probable that at the next meeting of the commission arrangements will be made for some sort of formal program to mark the opening of the playground.

HE GOT WHAT HE WANTED BUT WILL HAVE TO BE GOOD.

"Judge, youah honoh. I pleads guilty, but if yo' please I'd like to make an explanashun," said Sheridan Jones to Judge William N. Runyon in the city court Tuesday morning. "We'en was I here last, sir?"

"On August 12, 1909," replied the judge.

"Well, judge I sure has been dotn' well since den an' I got a good job now an' I don't want to go down de road, so ef you will let me report Saturday nights here at de station house I sure will be good."

Judge Runyon asemed to believe that the colored man was in earnest and imposed a fine of ten dollars which Mr. Jones will have to pay in installments of two dollars a week, reporting every Saturday night at police headquarters and leaving two dollars to liquidate his indebtedness to the city. It looks like a good probationary measure and will insure the payment of the fine. If Jones does not report for a trip down the road. Jones was accussed of being helplessly drunk on South Second street Monday night.

All-Day Summer Festival.

An all-day summer festival will be held at the Church of the Heavenly Rest on Saturday, under the auspices of the Men's Association, assisted by the Women's Guild and Young People's Association. There will be a baseball game between teams of the Men's Association at 3 o'clock; an entertainment in the parish house at 8 o'clock, which will be a New York talent, followed by dancing and orchestral music. There will also be a lawn fete, at which ice cream, strawberries, cake, candy, fancy articles, etc. will be sold. There will be other attractions.

Overlack in Trouble.

Borough Recorder Dolliver gave Matthew Overlack, a furniture dealer of Duer street, a suspended sentence for being drunk and disorderly at his home. The arrest was made last night at his home by Marshal Charles Ke- er. Mrs. Overlack appeared in court to testify against her husband.

P. C. C. to Celebrate.

The Plainfield Country Club is planning to hold a big celebration at the club on the afternoon and evening of July 4. A committee has been appointed to take charge of the details and if everything works out all right, there will be a concert at the club from 4 o'clock on by a first-class brass band from out-of-town, followed in the evening with a costly display of fireworks, which it is said will be the best yet witnessed in this city.

Inaugurate Auto Service.

The auto 'bus service has been introduced between the terminus of the Somerset street trolley and Watchung, it being in charge of Edward Cannon, of Watchung. During the morning and evening hours the auto meets every trolley car. Arrangements can be made to have the auto meet parties at any hour of the day or evening and take them to Watchung or any point in the Valley by telephoning Maul's Hotel.

Constitutionalist ads. pay.

SALVATION ARMY'S SUMMER CAMPAIGN

Sunday, June 25, will mark the opening of the Salvation Army summer campaign in this city. A large tent will be erected on Watchung avenue at the corner of Fourth street and there during the summer months services will be held. Last summer the meetings conducted in the tent attracted large congregations as they were of a bright and interesting nature. On Sunday afternoon, June 26, a great opening service will be held. Rev Gabriel Macguire, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, will preside. Major Frank Lyon, of New York city, will be present and the officers in charge of the work in this city, Captain and Mrs. Hewitt; Adjutant and Mrs. Jackson will also be there. Chester Chamberlain, the boy soprano, will sing. On Sunday evening, Major Frank Lyon will conduct the service and an interesting and profitable time is expected. Special instrumental music will be rendered by Martin A. Korff and other well known musicians and there will be singing by a choir led by Adjutant Mrs. Jackson.

During the summer the best speakers from the Salvation Army headquarters in New York city will speak in the tent and many of the local speakers who attracted large audiences last summer will speak again this year. The instrumental music will be in charge of Martin A. Korff and the vocal music in charge of Adjutant Mrs. Jackson. Services will be conducted every evening at 8 o'clock with the exception of Monday and Friday.

PANCIES IN HATS.

Hats big of brim and hats small of brim, hats tall of crown and others with very little crown—these are the extremes of millinery this season. It is difficult to say which shape is definitely the stylish one; indeed, it is a time when personal tastes can be given free play. Certainly the woman with an unbecoming hat cannot blame the styles, for it is apparent that she has erred in the matter of selection.

Of the many spring shapes none is in more marked favor than the toque. Toques are seen in wide variety. While the toques are more or less similar in general lines, the angle and height of the upturned brim makes a vast difference in the effect of the whole. The method of trimming these smart hats varies greatly. The maline or net crown is almost wholly of flowers, roses being a favorite. The huge bow of some filmy material, placed in the back, gives airiness as well as height to these becoming models.

While flowers are in demand for summer millinery, this year has seen lace more widely used than in many seasons. The fashion of veiling flowers or feathers with the filmy materials is holding well. Lace is used frequently for covering the entire straw hat, or for facing the under brim.

Leghorns are in excellent taste, whether trimmed with feathers, flowers, filmy fabrics or a combination of them all. It is possible by obtaining the proper tilt or roll to the brim to have a hat becoming to almost any face. Few hats, however, are more difficult to adjust, and the wearer cannot be too particular in this matter.

Flowers of all kinds are used, and the combination of kinds and colors on a single hat is often surprising, reminding one occasionally of an old-fashioned garden. Because such latitude is taken in this respect, special attention must be paid to the matter of trimming a hat, for a single flower, out of harmony with the others, transforms what might be an artistic creation to something very different. One thing is noticeable in the matter of trimming, and that is the large the hat the smaller is the flower chosen for a trimming. One sees the tiniest rosebuds bedecking a large leghorn. On the other hand, roses of gigantic size are used on the small turban or toque.

Not So Bad.

"You don't amount to much."

"Tut, tut, father."

"I could paddle my own canoe at your age."

"Well, dad, I do pretty well for a rich man's son. I can operate my own motorboat."—Louisville Courier Journal.

Volume on Sabbathism.

"Spiritual Sabbathism," a volume by the late Abram Herbert Lewis, D. D., LL. D., has just come off the presses of the American Sabbath Tract Society, of this city. The book is one of the finest specimens of the printers' and binders' art ever produced in this section of the State. The frontispiece is a portrait of the author and is a splendid reproduction.

Popular Reading.

"I notice that Professor Muensterberg claims he can read a woman's thoughts."

"Well, say, he must be some relation of the fellow who used to say 'My only books are women's looks.'"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL

My new barber shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

a new open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.

EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

W. K. CODDINGTON,

Counsellor-at-Law,

Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-Chancery, Notary Public. Offices corner of Park avenue and Second street.

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.

Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel, appointing agents. Others for local work looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and expenses, rapid advancement, old established house. Grand chance for earnest man or woman to secure pleasant, permanent position. Mineral paints and roofings. Brilliant lines. Write at once.

STAFFORD PRESS, 23 Church St., New Haven, Conn.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS DESIGNS COPYRIGHTS &C.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York

Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Sanitary Plumbing

Brick and Portable Furnaces

Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,

Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in all cases.

D. W. LITTELL

DIED.

DE FESTETICS—On Tuesday, June 14, 1910, Arthur, son of Gyula de Festetics, in his 13th year.

BEECHING—At Rosedale, L. I., June 17, 1910, Mrs. W. H. Beeching, widow of the late W. H. Beeching, formerly of Plainfield, N. J.

STEWART—Suddenly, on Friday, June 17, 1910, John E., son of John H. and Norah F. Stewart, aged 27 years.

PACK—On Friday, June 17, 1910, Mary D., wife of Edward W. Pack.

KURZHALS—On Saturday eveping, June 18, 1910, Theodore Kurzhals, Jr., in his 40th year.

BULKLEY—At Plainfield, N. J., June 19, 1910, Caroline A., widow of Reginald W. Bulkley, in her 78th year.

OSTROM NOT LIABLE FOR THAT ACCIDENT.

Judge William Newcorn sitting at an extra session of the District court Monday afternoon rendered a verdict for F. T. Ostrum in the suit brought by Louise and Achille Dufour for alleged liability for damages in colliding with the carriage of the latter on the Morristown road about a month ago. Mr. and Mrs. Dufour asked for damages alleging that Mr. Ostrum's automobile was to blame for injuries sustained by members of his family as well as to the horse.

Mr. Ostrum was defended by William A. Coddington, of Reed and Coddington, while the interests of the complainants were cared for by Arthur A. Palmer, of Bernardsville. Judge Newcorn decided that both complainant and defendant were guilty of negligence and that the plaintiff could not recover damages under the law.

North Plainfielder Arrested.

Phillip Weinberger, son of Mrs. Bertha Weinberger, of North Plainfield, was arrested by the local police by request of Mrs. Weinberger and turned over to the borough authorities, last night. Mrs. Weinberger, it is alleged by the police, claimed that her son had threatened to kill her unless she handed over a sum of money sufficient for his pressing needs.

Another Operator at Postal.

An assistant to Mrs. Bain, operator in the office of the Postal Telegraph and Cable Company has been engaged. M. Levin, of New York, is the man. This increase in the office force of the Postal has been found necessary because of the increased traffic.

Getting Consolation

"I used to think, before I married Fred," said the agitated young woman, "that I wanted a musician." She shook her head and gazed around the small circle dramatically.

"And now," said the unmarried girl, "I suppose you're so supremely satisfied that you don't notice any lack?"

The circle of young matrons laid down their embroidery and regarded her with scorn.

"Indeed!" they remarked, collectively.

"But—but—" stammered the unmarried girl. "I thought you were all happily wedded?"

"So we are!" they chimed, indignantly.

"Then why—" began the unmarried girl, in perplexity.

The girl who had married Fred waved the others to silence.

"She doesn't understand, that's all," she explained. "Why should she? Let me tell you about some of my domestic troubles.

"If I had actually married a professional musician, such as I dreamed about at matinee recitals at the age of 17," explained the girl who had married Fred, "he'd be a lamenting widower by this time, that's certain—lyrically, of course. At least, I hope he'd lament. If the professional ones are as much more temperamental than the amateurs—well, pity their families, my dear!"

"Has Fred turned musical?" ventured the timid young matron in mauve broadcloth.

"Has he!" echoed Fred's bride. "I should say he has! Pardon me for repeating your question, but I'm rather agitated to-day. Fred thinks he's developing a tenor voice, and nothing damaging that I can say seems to have any weight against the advice of the curious friends he's acquired lately."

"Tenors are always the worst," murmured the unmarried girl, reminiscently.

The girl who had married Fred pounced upon her eagerly. "Have you suffered from it, too?" she cried.

The unmarried girl nodded. "My brother," she explained. "But he's over it now."

"Are Fred's new friends musicians?" asked the timid matron in mauve.

"I think so, judging from their looks," said the girl who had married Fred. "My dear girls, I wish you could have seen the specimen Fred brought home to dinner last night. Perfectly impossible! We happened to have a particularly good dinner, and, of course, I was glad of that, but when I saw him I decided it was quite unnecessary to hurry out and put on my best bouillon cups—that's always my first instinct when I have unexpected company."

The circle nodded.

"Of course," conceded the girl who had married Fred, "Fred has to have somebody to play accompaniments for him, I suppose, and I don't know a sharp from a flat myself. Anyway, he was wild about this creature.

"'Isn't he magnificent?' Fred said to me, after the person had gone—he left an umbrella and a pair of overshoes, by the way, so I expect he'll come again. 'Isn't he a genius?' Fred asked me. 'Did you notice how he subordinated himself?'

"'I did not,' I replied. 'He is as big as a house, and he lounged over the whole room, and he had on a green and purple necktie.'

"'But I was speaking of his accompaniment,' explained Fred. 'His technique is superb. He fairly makes a fellow do his best.'

"Well," breathed the circle, sympathetically, "do you have much of that sort of thing?"

The girl who had married Fred nodded, gloomily. Then she brightened. "Every cloud has a silver lining," she remarked. "I tell Fred that I'm glad to have some balm for my wounded feelings. He applied for active membership in the Beethoven Choral club."

"And they took him?" cried the timid matron in mauve broadcloth.

"Oh, no," said the girl who had married Fred, smiling happily. "They rejected him with considerable emphasis, and he had to console himself by taking out an associate life membership instead. I like the Beethoven Choral club myself to the extent of having four seats for every concert. We'll take you all," she ended, generously. "I'll make up a party of strictly ignorant people—and we'll have supper afterward."

Phosphorescent Photographs.

Phosphorescent photographs have an image consisting of white calcium sulphide, which shines in the dark after being exposed to luminous rays. The process requires care, but a French authority states that there is no real difficulty. Into a moderately warm solution of one ounce of gelatine in ten ounces of water, 50 grains of potassium bichromate and 200 grains of phosphorescent calcium sulphide are stirred. This solution is used to coat a film of plain celluloid, and after drying the plate thus prepared is exposed under a positive for about the time needed for a carbon print. Warm water is the developer.

Wants Information.

"Why are you offering such high wages to that maid if she is incompetent?"

"But, my dear, she has been employed in nearly all the families in our set."

HOTELS.

HOTEL WALDORF
EAST FRONT STREET.
HENRY WINDHAM, Prop.
Gottfried Krueger's Extra Beer on draught. Imported Wines, Liquors and Cigars. Hotel accommodations and private Dining-Room.

G. J. WEINMAN
CAFE
213 Park Ave., Tel. 524-J

HOTEL KENSINGTON
NORTH AVENUE
UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT
HOUSE THOROUGHLY RENOVATED
SUNDAY DINNER From 12:30 to 2 P.M. 50c

THE
Hotel IROQUOIS
Conducted on the European Plan
Park Ave. and Second St.

EDUCATIONAL.

Plainfield Business College & School of English
Students may enter at any time.
PROF. A. S. HERR, Prin. and Prop.
Tel. 795-w. Woodhull & Martin Building.
SEND FOR BOOKLET.

THE STARR PIANO CO.
Established 1872.
Branch Factory Office.
CHAS. M. SUHR, Mgr.
614 East 6th St., Plainfield, N. J.

DRUGGISTS.

WE ASSUME THE RISK
There is no promise exacted or formality exacted when you accept our offer of money back for the asking, if HAIR TONIC fails to give you satisfaction. Put us to the test today. We will assume all risk. Two sizes 50c and $1.00
MILLER'S PHARMACY
Park Ave. and Fourth St. Tel 266.

Hodge's Pharmacy.
Y. M. C. A. Building.
BELLE MEAD SWEETS.
Tel. 62

Health Is Wealth
Various boards of health, government inspectors and sanitariums everywhere urge the use of manufactured ICE.
Why? BECAUSE it is pure. We manufacture the purest ice that can be produced and sell no other. PRICES REASONABLE.
CRYSTAL ICE Co.
MacDONALD & IVAMY,
Exclusive Handlers.
307 Arlington Ave., 'Phone 1023

For $1.50
per month we will clean and press 4 suits and one overcoat. Call for them and deliver the same. Payable $1.50 per month.
Repairing and altering neatly done
Suits to order $20 and up.
Howard W. Cobbs
(Successor to Leslie M. Cobbs.)
146 E. 8TH St. 'Phone 461-J.
Near Woman's Exchange.

SMALLEY BROS.
147 North Avenue.
BUTCHERS
CHOICE MEATS.
GAME IN SEASON.
ROASTING AND BROILING
CHICKENS A SPECIALTY
Orders called for and delivered.
Telephone 88-A.

William H. Pope,
ELECTRICIAN.
All kinds of Electrical Work done at Reasonable Prices.
116 NORTH AVENUE.

Lincoln Market Frank Neidig Proprietor
94 Somerset St. Tele. 781
CHOICE MEATS, FISH AND VEGETABLES.
Heinz's Sauer Kraut

KODAKS
Complete line of Photo Supplies.
Printing and Developing
At Doane's 115 Park Ave.

Gray's Express
The quickest and most efficient service in the city.
212 Muhlenberg Place.
Tel. 337-R. 5 17 1m

Proposals for Brick Addition to the Franklin School.

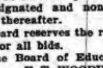
Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Board of Education of the City of Plainfield, N. J., at an adjourned meeting held Monday evening, June 13, 1910, notice is hereby given that the Board of Education will meet on Monday evening, June 27, 1910, at eight o'clock, at the board's room in the High School building, corner West Ninth street and Arlington avenue in the City of Plainfield, at which time and place said Board of Education will receive sealed proposals for a brick addition to the Franklin School. Plans and specifications will be on file at the Board room on and after Monday, June 20, next.

All proposals to be endorsed "Proposals for brick addition to the Franklin School and addressed to the secretary of the board. Upon receipt of the bids or proposals the secretary will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding or their agents, provided such parties or their agents choose to be then and there present, and also to make proper record of the prices and terms upon the minutes of the board. No bids will be received previous to the hour designated and none will be received thereafter.

The board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

For the Board of Education
F. T. WOODHULL,
Secretary.
Plainfield, N. J., June 16, 1910.
6 16 18 20 23 25 27

YOUR DULL Headaches



Probably come from overstrained eye sight. Nine-tenths of the headaches are the direct result of eye trouble. Bring those troubles to us and let us prescribe for you.
All work guaranteed.
FREE EXAMINATION BY
Stiles & Co.
PHILADELPHIA EYE SPECIALISTS
at 107 East Front Street, Every Thursday.
Hours 11:15 a. m. to 5 p. m.

TIMBO'S
Stock for Smokers
Romeo and Juliets, La Carolinas, Bocky's, Manuel Garcias, Acker, Merrall & Condit's La Elegancias, and a fine line of New York and Tampa makes. Fancy Smoker's Articles.
133-135 North Avenue.

JOS. F. BURKE
718 Monroe Ave. Tel. 145-R.
Successor to
Mrs. John Brown
General Contractor and Grader
Cesspools and Vaults Cleaned
Satisfaction Guaranteed.
Positively the only odorless Excavator in the City.
Estimates cheerfully given.
Leave orders at
J. T. Vail's, North avenue. 'Phone 194
Postoffice Box 718.
Or prices address
FRANK BURKE, Manager.
825 W Third St. Tel. 1306-W.

ICE 35 cents
Commencing April 1, I will deliver ice to families in Plainfield and North Plainfield at 35c per hundred. The quality is the finest natural ice ever cut and the service will be first-class. I solicit the patronage of Daily Press readers and others.
JOHN MORTON
Office 145 North Ave. 'Phone 1086.
Residence, 53 Mountain Ave.
'Phone 454-J. 5 22 tf

IF YOY WANT ANY
RUSTIC SEATS!
CALL UP
KEIDERLING
Phone 559-J

J. C. POPE & CO.,
INSURANCE
AGENTS
110 E. Front St. Plainfield, N. J.

PARQUET & HARDWOOD FLOORS
Old Floors Refinished
GEO. E. WATT
150 North Ave. Tel. 333-w

New Jersey Central

Trains Leave Plainfield.

For New York—5.36, 5.41, 5.56, 6.00, 6.27, 6.55, 7.25, 7.28, 7.45, 7.46, 7.55, 8.00, 8.11, 8.30, 8.36, 8.45, 9.25, 9.30, 10.55, 11.23 a. m., 12.00 p. m., 12.02, 1.27, 2.23, 2.44, 3.09, 3.26, 4.12, 4.33, 5.25, 6.39, 6.45, 7.00, 7.12, 7.27, 8.17, 9.40, 10.15, 10.25, 11.28 p. m. Sunday—2.10, 5.41, 7.22, 7.58, 8.52, 9.34, 9.45, 10.32, 11.57 a. m., 12.56, 2.05, 3.01, 3.40, 5.00, 5.24, 6.28, 6.41, 6.55, 6.56, 8.13, 8.27, 8.35, 9.42, 10.36, 10.38 p. m.

For Newark—5.36, 6.27, 6.55, 7.07, 7.28, 7.46, 8.11, 8.36, 8.42, 8.59, 9.59, 10.55, 12.00 a. m., 12.02, 1.27, 2.23, 2.44, 3.09, 4.12, 4.33, 5.25, 6.39, 6.45, 7.00, 7.12, 7.27, 8.17, 9.40 p. m. Sunday—7.22, 8.52, 9.34, 9.45, 10.32 a. m., 12.56, 1.57, 2.05, 3.01, 3.40, 5.24, 6.28, 6.41, 6.55, 8.13, 8.27, 10.38 p. m.

For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown and Mauch Chunk—11.23 p. m., 5.18, 8.17, 9.43 a. m., 2.00, 5.23, 5.46, (6.37 p. m. Easton only). Sundays—8.45 a. m., 1.56, 5.46, 7.05 p. m.

For Wilkesbarre and Scranton—8.18, 9.43 a. m., 5.46 p. m. Sundays—8.45 a. m., 5.46 p. m.

For Long Branch and Asbury Park, etc., 5.41, 7.46, 11.57 a. m., 4.37 (Saturday only), 4.42, 5.52, 11.29 p. m. Sundays—4.37, 9.12 a. m., 2.24, 11.29 p. m.

For Lakewood and Atlantic City—2.41, 9.29 a. m., (12.42 Saturdays only), 1.27, 2.09, 3.50 p. m. Sundays—(2.23 Lakewood only), 8.56 a. m., 3.50 p. m.

For Philadelphia—7.12, 7.29, 8.45, 9.13, 10.43 a. m., 12.12, 12.47, 1.39, 2.11, 2.45, 5.18, 6.43, 8.42 p. m., 1.30 night. Sundays—8.45, 9.45, 9.53, 10.39, 10.45, 11.43 a. m., 12.42, 2.45, 3.42, 4.52, 5.39, 6.44, 7.42, 8.50, 9.46 p. m., 11.59, 1.30 night.

For Baltimore and Washington. Daily—8.45, 10.43 a. m., 12.42, 2.45, 6.44, 7.43 p. m.

W. G. BESLER, Gen. Mgr. W. C. HOPE, Gen. Pass. Agt.
Vice Pres. & Gen. Mgr.

Arrival and Departure of Mails

PLAINFIELD POSTOFFICE.
August 1, 1909.

Office opens 7 a. m., closes 7 p. m. On Saturdays closes half hour later.

NEW YORK MAILS.
Arrive—7.40, 11.50 a. m., 2.30, 5.00, 8.00 p. m. 12 midnight.
Close—6.00, 8.00, 10.00 a. m., 11.50 a. m., 2.30, 5.00, 7.45, 8.00 p. m.

SOMERVILLE AND EASTON.
Arrive—7.40 a. m., 12.50, 5.00 p. m.
Close—8.00 a. m., 1.30 and 4.30 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA DIRECT.
Arrive—7.40, 11.50 a. m., 2.30, 7.45 p. m.
Close—4.30, 8.15, 11.30 a. m., 12.05, 2.30, 6.00, 7.45, 8.00 p. m.

THROUGH FAST MAIL FOR EAST.
Close—11.30 a. m., 12.05, 2.30 and 7.45 p. m.

DIRECT THROUGH FAST MAILS FOR EAST AND SOUTH, and 7.45 p. m.
Close—11.30 a. m., 12.05, 2.30

PENNSYLVANIA WEST OF EASTON.
Close—8.30 and 8.00 a. m., 12.05, 4.00 p. m.

ELIZABETH, DIRECT.
Arrive—7.40 a. m., 12.50, 5.00 p. m.
Close—8.15 a. m., 12.05, 2.30, 4.00, 8.00 p. m.

NEWARK, DIRECT.
Arrive—7.40 a. m., 2.30, 5.00 p. m.
Close—8.30, 8.15, 11.30 a. m., 12.05, 2.30, 4.00 p. m.

WATCHUNG.
Arrive—1.00, 6.45 p. m.
Close—8.00 a. m., 1.30 p. m.

SOMERVILLE.
Arrive—1.00 p. m.
Close—8.00

SUNDAY MAILS.
Office open from 9.30 to 10.30 a. m.
Mail closes at 6.15 p. m.

E. H. BIRD P. M.

J. HIMMELFARB,

Ladies' Tailor and Fashionable Dressmaker
Suits to order at very Low Prices for this month. Fit Guaranteed.
My Workmanship Speaks For Itself
309-311 NEW ST.
TELEPHONE 903-J.
Near Trust's Court

THE GROCERIES THAT YOU BUY
It is very important to have them just right in quality—Pure and Fresh. You are sure of this kind when you order them of us. Our prices are reasonable.
Prompt, Free Deliveries.
W. W. DUNN
THE PARK GROCER
Door St. and Lincoln Pl

J. C. FIELD, Jr.
Tel. 991-W. 411 Park Ave.
Fine Stationery, Sporting Goods and Photo Supplies.
Sub-Postoffice in store.
Let us do your developing and printing. The best photographic work is done by the difference, inability or carelessness of the finisher. We have a complete outfit and modern printing methods enables us to give our customers better work and more for their money. We defy a fair comparison with our work and so make the following exceptional offering:
FREE! Enlargement of your favorite negatives and we will print it without charge.

John Lo Presti's
405 Watchung Avenue.
Come and try our Home-made Ice Cream, delivered to any part of the city.
Fruit and Confectionery.
Cigars and Tobacco.
'Phone 440-J.

Hoagland's Express
FURNITURE MOVING VAN
Careful & Experienced Men
Office 205 Park Av. Tel. 833-w
Home Tel. 648-L.

Central R. R. News Stands.

You can get it at the C. R. R. News Stands, Main depot, Plainfield; Daily Press and Elizabeth Journal, on sale at Philadelphia Morning, Evening and Sunday Papers. Largest assortment of Magazines and Weekly Papers in town. Foreign Papers procured. Brooklyn Papers, English Publications. Daily Papers delivered. Orders left at stands receive prompt attention. Open Sundays.

COAL DEALERS.

If you want Coal
of the best Lehigh grades, screened and free from slate; in free burning coal for the summer and hard coal for the winter—telephone 1589, the office of Richard Parrott, Jr., coal dealer, 686 South Second Street.
Here is the schedule of prices during the month of JUNE.
Nut, Stove & Egg sizes, per ton - - $6.00
C.O.D. discount, per ton - - 30c
Pea Coal, per ton - $5.00
C.O.D. discount, per ton - - 50c
Rich'd Parrott, Jr.
COAL DEALER
686 South Second St.
Telephone Number 1569

JOS. HARRIGAN
OLD COMPANY'S LEHIGH COAL
929 South Avenue
Telephone 198.

TenEyck & Harris,
Dealers in
LEHIGH VALLEY COAL
Office: Rowley's Drug Store, 218 West Front Street. Telephone 849-w.

Coal I have on hand some very fine Hard and Medium Coal, All kept under sheds. Pea Coal. Coal 25 cents a ton reduction on cash orders.
L. A. RHEAUME
142 East Fourth St. Telephone 86-W
Yard, 674 South Second St. Telephone 228

GEORGE O. STEVENS
747 West Front St.

R. L. CLINE
(Successor to C. H. Boggs & Co.)
Best Quality Lehigh Coal
Yard and office 420 West Third St. Tel. 83

TenEyck & Kelley
Successors to Keeley Co.
COAL
741 SOUTH AVE. Tel. 1155

Advertisements
—FOR—
New York Herald,
World, Times, Sun, Journal,
Telegram, American,
Brooklyn Eagle
—and—
Newark Evening News
Received at
The Daily Press
AT REGULAR OFFICE RATES

FURNITURE.
Repaired and upholstered. Equal to new. Send a postal to
HARRISON, 140 CENTRAL AVE.
Cabinet maker, Polisher, Mattress Maker.

E. B. Maynard's
Tenement Property, Electrical Motors for fans and belt, Pipe-fitter work, Children's Hair Cutting a specialty
Tel. No. 1182.
141 NORTH AVENUE

L. Moraller & Son,
Watchmakers and Jewelers.
Watches, Clocks and Jewelry.
Fine Watch and Clock Repairing a Specialty.
219 Park Ave., Plainfield, N.J.

JOHN WIRTH
(Successor to Henry Liefke.)
BAKERY AND CONFECTIONERY.
201-203 West Front St. Tel. 720
Orders delivered at short notice

HENRY WIERENGA
Residence 'Phone 811-J.
Furniture, Freight, Baggage Express and Rigger.
PIANO MOVING A SPECIALTY.

Now is the time when you need a
STOVE
and you may as well buy a good stove at a very Low Price. We are selling Stoves—Good Stoves—at low prices.
KADISH & LEVINE,
18 Somerset St.

PAINTERS AND DECORATORS.

Take a Look in our Window
and you will be convinced that the latest in interior work—Aerochrome Washable Wall Decoration—is very handsome and effective.
Woolston & Buckle
Painters and Decorators
143 NORTH AVENUE.

George Washington Couldn't
tell a lie, neither could I and keep my self-respect. Nor would I give any less than the specifications call for. My aim is to paint as good as I know how—could better than I agree to—for I know that a satisfied customer is my best advertisement.
Jas. C. Hansen
Dealer in WALL PAPERS, PAINTS, OILS GLASS, Etc.
141 East Front Street
TEL. 246 ESTIMATES FURNISHED

M. WARREN
PAINTER, DECORATOR and PAPERHANGER
85 SOMERSET ST.,
opposite Sangerbund Hall.

Special Notice!
For the month of May we will take orders for STYLISH SUITS from $18.50 to $35.00.
No finer tailoring than ours, none so good for the price. We invite your inspection.
Rogoff, the Tailor,
110 West Second St.,
Next to Plainfield Theatre.

Vail
JEWELER AND OPTICIAN
103 Park Ave.,
calls your attention to his
Rimless Glasses.
They Look Good and You See Good.

To Whom It May Concern.
This is to notify the Trade in general, Hotels, Saloons, etc., that D. Lopeta of Newark, N. J., the largest Bottle Dealer in the State, has opened a Branch of his business at No. 40 Maple Avenue.
Anyone having Bottles, Papers, Iron and Metals, etc., to dispose of, call No. 1052 Telephone, and same will be promptly attended to.
I have on hand all kinds of Bottles, new and second-hand.
Hotel Trade a Specialty.
Newark address, 189-203 Frelinghuysen Avenue.

WALKS
We Construct Them
Trap Rock, Cement
Experience
R. G. BUSH
Tel. Con. 743-5 South Ave

PLAINFIELD WINDOW CLEANING CO.
H. MEISTRICH, Prop.
Stores, Offices, Private Residences, New Buildings, Cleaned, Scrubbed and Oiled. Office, 145 East Front Street. Tel. 864-J.

Kindling and Grate Wood.
Cedar Posts and Bean Poles. Prompt deliveries. Orders received at 80 SOMERSET STREET.
JOHN MOBUS,
P. O. Box 329. Telephone 19-F-42.

McCULLOUGH'S STEAM MILL,
21 Steiner place, North Plainfield, N. J.
R. H. McCULLOUGH, Prop.
Sash, Blinds, Doors, Mouldings, Gerol Sawing, Turning etc.
Estimates cheerfully furnished.

ALEX. LUSARDI.
Foreign and Domestic Fruits, Choice Confectionery, Nuts, Cigars, etc.
211 W. Front St. Tel. 807-W.

Medical Perils.

In Beloochistan, when a physician gives a dose, he is expected to partake of a similar one himself as a guarantee of his good faith. Should the patient die under his hands, the relatives though they rarely exercise it, have the right of putting him to death, unless a special agreement has been made freeing him from all responsibility as to consequences; while, if they should decide upon immolating him, he is fully expected to yield to his fate like a man.

Stick to Your Business.

Stick to your legitimate business. Do not go into outside operations. Few men have brains for more than one thing. To dabble in stocks, put a few thousand dollars in a mine, a few more into a factory and a few more into an invention is enough to ruin any man. Do not be greedy. Be content with fair returns. Mind friends. All the money in the world is not worth so much to you as one good stanch friend.—Henry Ward Beecher.

Elected in a Belfry.

The ceremony of electing a mayor in a belfry was performed according to ancient custom in the parish church of Brightlingsea, when Mr. Arthur Lucas was chosen in succession to Rev. Arthur Petwee, vicar of Brightlingsea, and six mariners who had married Brightlingsea women were admitted freemen of the port on payment of 11 pennies into the treasury.—London Standard.

Man's Rare Forethought.

An extraordinary case of suicide has set all the people of Beziers, France, a-talking. The victim was Henri Pelaquin, an engraver, who was to have been married in a few days. In a letter left by the suicide he stated that he had taken his own life because he was afraid that, owing to his peevish disposition, he might make his wife unhappy.

Salaries of Army Officers.

The pay of officers in active service in the army is: Lieutenant-general, $11,000 a year; major-general, $8,000; brigadier-general, $6,000; colonel, $4,000; lieutenant-colonel, $3,500; major, $3,000; captain, $2,400; first lieutenant, $2,000, and second lieutenant, $1,700. *From colonel down the pay*ment is increased every five years.

Missionaries to China Worry.

It is a matter of grave concern to the missionaries and other permanent residents of China to observe from year to year the increasing cost of living which, of course, includes every item of household expense. Double and treble the prices are asked that were paid 10 years ago.

Nature's Peculiarities.

Breweries and tanneries and printing ink factories confer exemption from tuberculosis and employes in turpentine factories never have rheumatism. Copper mining excludes the possibility of typhoid among the workers.—Harper's Weekly.

Fooled the Brokers.

Members of the London Stock Exchange were trimmed by a fake selling "imitations" of ordinary almond nuts at two cents each. But the "imitations" turned out to be real nuts, showing that brokers know more about melons than nuts.

How Do Women Folks Like Her?

Lawson—"Are the rest of the family pleased with that young woman that Bobby is to marry?" Dawson—"Well, Bobby's father is. He says that if he was young enough he would marry her himself."

Man and His Watch.

"Ever notice," said Uncle Henry Butterworth, "that if ye ask a man what time it is just after he's looked at his watch he'll pull it out and glance again before he tells ye?"—Kansas City Times.

On a Stormy Passage.

Highland Ferryman (during momentary lull in the storm)—"I'm thinkin', sir, I'm just tack yer fare; there's no sayin' what micht happen tae us."—Punch.

Japanese Mother's Caress.

Japanese mothers do not kiss their children, though they may press their lips to the forehead or cheek of a very young baby.

Has to Be Careful.

"I never dare to look down when I'm standing on a high place," said Mrs. Lapsling. "It always give me an attack of vertigris."

A Clever Writer.

Patrice—"You say she is a clever writer?" Patience—"Very. Why, I've known her to use a fountain pen without getting ink all over her fingers!"

Obvious Reason.

"Why do women wear veils?" inquires a contemporary. That's easy. It's because they can always buy them at bargain sales.

Ever See This?

Ever notice that the fellow who sings the songs of home and mother loudest is usually the toughest nut in the crowd who gets the fullest?

New York's Wealth.

New York city's assessed real estate value is more than that of the entire states of Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

TOKENS RECEIVED BY FAITHFUL WORKERS

Not to be further disappointed by the weather, the Missionary and Aid Society of Warren chapel planned to hold its annual picnic at the chapel Friday; instead of at the summer home of Joseph W. Gavett at Watchung, and it proved to be one of the best social affairs ever held by the society. It was originally planned to hold the picnic on Thursday, but the weather interferred and this was true yesterday.

Instead, the women to the number of forty gladly accepted Mrs. McKelvey's suggestion and gathered at the chapel, where the day was spent playing games and partaking of the box luncheons prepared for the ourdoor affair. After luncheon the women assembled in one of the large rooms where they summoned Mrs. McKelvey and Mrs. J. W. Gavett. Mrs. Benj. Moore then asked both Mrs. Benjamin Moore then asked both women to stand up. As they did so she presented each with a pair of handsome silk porterre curtains the work of the women of the society. The whole affair was a complete surprise and Mrs. McKelvey and Mrs. Gavett were almost speechless for a few minutes.

Mrs. Moore said that the gifts were in appreciation of the love and esteem which the society held for the recipients. Mrs. McKelvey and Mrs. Gavett finally expressed their sincere gratitude for the presents. The members of the society have been working for many months on the curtains, meeting every Thursday at the home of Mrs. A. J. Striglitz on Allen place. Each pair of curtains contains eighteen pounds of silk, some of it coming from wedding dresses of the women and they represented much hard work. The designs are beautiful.

Mrs. McKelvey has been acting as president for Mrs. A. V. D. Honeyman the past year, while Mrs. Gavett has been corresponding secretary for years. Another pleasant surprise yesterday was the reading of a letter from Mrs. Honeyman, written sometime ago in which she joined the women in congratulations. After the surprise, the women resumed playing games until 3 o'clock, when the monthly meeting of the society was held. It was then decided to hold the outdoor picnic on July 7. The day's entertainment closed with the serving of refreshments. The annual strawberry and ice cream festival will be held at the chapel afternoon and evening, June 30.

Oatmeal Blancmange.

Scotch oatmeal flour is the best for making this. Medium oatmeal may also be used, and the result be as satisfactory, only the process takes longer. I here give the two methods: Mix one-quarter pound of Scotch oatmeal flour very smoothly with sufficient cold water to make a paste; pour upon it a quart of boiling milk, add a little salt and sweeten to taste; put all into a saucepan and boil for ten minutes or a quarter of an hour, stirring constantly; remove from the fire and flavor with wine and spices; pour into a wet mold, and turn out when cold. When eaten with cream this is delicious. The other method is to mix one-half pound of medium oatmeal with a little cold water, then pour a quart of boiling milk over this and let it soak overnight, or at least for twelve hours; strain it through a gravy strainer, pressing it hard, then boil in a saucepan for fifteen minutes; add a pinch of salt, and sugar to taste; finish as above. This may be flavored with grated nutmeg, ginger, cinnamon or with white wine or a little brandy, and cream served with it. An egg is sometimes beaten into this, but that is quite optional.

"The Lean and Hungry Cassius."

"What's th' matter with you, Cassius—you don't stand up straight?"

"Aw, I'm on a low diet an' it makes me lean."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

POINTERS FOR THE COOK.

When boiled custard is overcooked it may be brought back to the right consistency if thoroughly beaten with an eggbeater.

A bang cheese box with a small hole in the bottom makes a sharp, quick chopper for use when warming over potatoes or vegetables.

The flat taste of boiled water may be removed by pouring the water from one pitcher to another in the open air.

Meats and fish which spatter when cooking may be seared first and then placed in the oven to finish cooking.

Paper bags, which accumulate so fast, may be put to good use in the kitchen.

When frying doughnuts lay in a paper bag and they will lose much of their greasiness.

A Matter of Habit.

"But why do you put your friend's things in the dining-room?"

"Oh, he is so used to restaurants that he won't enjoy his dinner unless he can watch his hat and coat."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Constitutionalist ads. pay.

HOW ANIMALS LEARN.

Learning is the great problem in human psychology and any facts we can gather about the way the animal learn will be helpful to us says a writer in Harper's Magazine. We can find such fact only by resorting to experiment. We choose some problem for the animal to solve, he must raise a latch, pull a string, slide out a bar, or thread a maze, before the goal is reached—i. e., before food can be obtained. The animal, like the human being in this respect, will work at a problem only so long as it compels his interest. We must keep his interest by providing a stimulus. This stimulus may be food, escape from confinement, punishment for wrong action, etc. So long as we keep the stimulus constant the animal will work steadily at the task from day to day.

By such experiments we have established the fact that when animals learn to open catches, latches, etc., by their own unaided efforts, they achieve the first success in nearly all cases by some happy accident. If a rat is hungry and is confined in a large cage with a small box containing food which it can get access to only by raising a latch, it begins its task by the display of a repertoire of instinctive acts, common to every member of the rat race. It runs around and over the box, gnawing the wires, pushing into every mesh of the wire with its nose, clawing, etc. This random instinctive exercise of energy results early in the knowledge of the fact that the door of the box is the only movable portion. The rat's activity becomes centered here. Since the latch is attached to the small door, the chance has rapid'y become better that some movement of the rat, such as butting or clawing, may raise the latch from below.

In a period of time, which may vary from two minutes to twenty, or even longer this happy accident will occur. The door will then fall open, and the rat get the food. Will the animal on the second trial run immediately to the latch and raise it? I have hundreds of records, not only upon the rat, but upon other animals as well, which show that such is not the case. The individual animal may take longer on the second trial than upon the first, but the average of the second trial of a number of animals will be shorter than the average of the first. On successive trials the time of success gets shorter and shorter, until finally the animal will open the latch as soon as confronted with the box. This is the type of hundreds of similar experiments which has been made upon animals ranging in development from the monkey to the mouse.

Most of the numerous acts of the trained animals on the vaudeville stage are acquired in this laborious way (as the trainer will knows, would he but confess it). Such a mode of learning is the rule, and any "trick" (as the so-called "research ing") is an exception so rare that it is doubtful if it exists.

PAY OF WOMEN TEACHERS.

The pay of women school teachers is unjust, declares Grace C. Strachan, president of the Interborough Association of School Teachers, city of New York, who has an article on the subject in The Delineator.

Suppose a boy and a girl—they may even be twins—have attended the same schools, have been taught by the same teachers, passed the same examinations, and finally have been appointed to teach classes identical in grade and sex of pupils.

Suppose both succeed to the satisfaction of their superior officers, and appear for their reward. Is it not the same for both? Oh, no! The one who was the boy, receives for his first year simply because of his sex a salary $300 higher than that of the one born a girl.

How long would a woman have to teach a class of boys in order to receive the salary a man teaching the same class would receive the first year? Seven years! And not even then would she receive it, unless she had passed the examination by both principal and district superintendent for promotion because at the end of the first year, again at the end of the second year, and for permanent license at the end of the third year.

Her record being satisfactory, she would receive an increase of $40 each year, until the end of the seventh year. Her salary would then be $340, and would remain such unless she were rated "fit and meritorious" by both principal and superintendents. The man's salary the first year was $900.

Thus, you see, a woman teacher must teach seven years and pass satisfactorily through four examinations before she receives a salary equal to that of a man teaching the identical class would receive the first year. But what would the man teacher be receiving in his seventh year? This is indeed interesting. Instead of an increase of $40 each year he has been receiving one of $100, so that his salary has amounted to $1,520. The ratio or percentage of increase in the case of the man is so much larger than in the case of the woman that the original discrepancy of fifty percent, grows from year to year until, after twelve years of service, he receives $2,160, and she for the same work and the same office of years earns $1,080, or just one-half of what he receives.

HERE AND THERE.

Senator Kean is keeping quiet in the campaign for the succession to his office, says the Newark Sunday Call in its "Men and Affairs" comment, but no one doubts that he will have a big support when the election comes in the Legislature of 1911. He has thousands of supporters throughout the State, and they command votes, as well as personal influence. Whatever Jerseymen may feel, Senator Kean would be greatly missed in Washington. He has been secretary of the Republican caucus, and chairman of the Committee on Contingent Expenses of the Senate. Both these places command great influence, for his advice is sought on all committee appointments, and he has knowledge of the rules of precedence and he has control of the expenditures of the Senate. Every Senator has occasion to consult him at times, and often it is upon personal matters which count for more than political issues. The Senator, too, will help many of the orators to prepare their arguments, and assist them while delivering their speeches, although he himself seldom talks. He is also the safest man in the chair, when the Vice-President or his alternate is absent. As a social light in Washington, he also shines. This is matter of very large importance in a city where half the business of the Nation is settled over coffee and cigars. Senator Kean is unmarried, but his mother and sisters have long had one of the most dignified of Washington residences, and their dinners and receptions have been long noted as among the most elegant and distinguished in Washington social life. It was once said of Senator Kean that he was the only man in social leadership who did not have to employ a "social secretary."

DRAWN WORK.

If something new be your aim in the matter of the ornamentation of a blouse, drawn work is suggested by some of the most successful makers as an effective relief from the perennial insertion or embroidery.

The coarse meshes so much in use this season offer stability and an unusual coolness, to which characteristics is added the easy "drawing" quality.

Linen marquisette or voile is drawn and worked with coarse linen thread in some of the simpler drawn work patterns, the decorative value is wonderfully increased. Squares, lines and pointed plastrons are attainable, and when the whole blouse is built over a contrasting color it bring it into harmony with the skirt, the result is decidedly successful.

SOFT PETTICOATS.

Petticoats of the softest, suppliest satin underlie many of the new costumes skirt, but they are so perfectly put together that their presence is not suspected. They are fitted about the hips as carefully as the gown itself, and so finished at the top that no waist band is necessary. In fact, it would be out of the question to have either a band or a yoke on them, as the smooth-fitting skirt would inevitably betray their presence.

So far has the craze for "invisible" petticoats extended that in some quarters it is proposed to introduce so light-weight a material as crepe de chine and prevent it from clinging to or rather winding about the knees and ankles by using a deep facing of soft satin as a finish for the bottom.

Mealie Cakes.

"Mealie cakes," a sort of "flapjack" much used in Scotland are made as follows: Rub one half-ounce to one ounce of butter or clarified dripping into a one-half pound of medium oatmeal and a pinch of salt, and work it all to a smooth, stiff paste with boiling water; now turn this out onto a board lightly dusted with oatmeal, and knead it out into a round one, inch thick; rub it lightly over with more oatmeal and toast it on the griddle or in front of the fire, turning it repeatedly till nicely browned on both sides, and serve. This requires a certain amount of knack, as the cake is apt to break if overshortened.

The Latest.

"I bought a ticket for the balloon ascension, but the breeze was too strong and there was no ascension."

"So you lost your money?"

"Oh, no; they gave wind checks."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

About the Size of It.

"Half the world doesn't know how the other half lives." Any of the professor, trying to be sociable.

"Yes," put in the grouch, "and what's more, it's too busy to care."—

Black satin slippers, fashioned like pumps and without an ankle strap, are becoming popular for dress wear. The sole binding is a tiny butterfly bow of the satin.

Suitor—I hope my proposal for your daughter's hand has not taken you by surprise, sir.

Prospective Father-in-Law—Well, to tell you the truth, it has. You've been so thundering long-winded over it that I thought it wasn't coming off at all.

HOW BOYS SAVED TOWN.

In his reminiscences of Sherman's march, in Harper's Magazine, W. W. Lord, Jr., tells how a group of small boys saved a town from the pillage and burning:

"The ubiquitous, irrepressible and inquisitive small boy saved Winnsborough from a supplementary pillage and conflamagration. Actuated by the desire to loot the residences in the headquarters neighborhood, six desperate fellows hid in the courthouse tower, determined to remain behind the army long enough to burn and plunder to their hearts' content and yet have time to join the rear guard before night set in. But heaven willed other-wise. A band of village boys, wandering amid the ruins, by chance, discovered the marauders peering like vultures from their lofty perch within the belfry and hastened with the information to the gallies. Fortunately three of the Union officers, quartered at the rectory by General Slocum, had been detailed with a squad of men to bring up the rear as whippers-in of stragglers.

"These officers had rounded up their waifs and strays and were bidding them a hasty farewell before hastening after the army, when the terror-stricken boys arrived hot-footed and gasped out their story. Our friends of the enemy and recent guests thus found themselves upon the horns of a most embarrassing dilemma—a desire to arrest these thieving stragglers and a natural dread of capture by the light horse Confederate cavalry, which hung constantly upon the outskirts of the invading army for the purpose of cutting off stragglers or of engaging any small detachments sent out on special duty.

"In the end duty triumphed over fear. My father gave them a letter which promised for themselves, their prisoners and men safe conduct until they reached the Union lines, and they proceeded to the courthouse with their squad of men. There they dislodged from the belfry the crestfallen robbers and incendiaries, with evidence of guilt upon them in oil-soaked tow. Then they all set forth to overtake the army."

GLASS JARS FOR MEAT.

The housekeeper is sometimes at a loss for a convenient way to keep small meats, such as chops, hamburger chopped meat, stew meats or liver, uncooked in the ice chest when the latter is not commodious or there are many demands upon its space.

For keeping any of these or even a small steak over night glass jars of the size required by the quantity of meat to be kept can be found much more easily handled than a plate or bowl. Preserve jars with well-fitting screw top to keep the meat from the air as well as ward off contact with the other provisions, are excellent. Less space is occupied and the danger of the meat becoming tainted is minimized.

SOME TIMELY DON'T.

Well bred women do not betray a confidence.

Leave home with unkind words.

Neglect to call upon their friends.

Laugh at the misfortune of others.

Give a promise that they do not fulfill.

Send a present hoping for one in return.

Speak much of their own performance.

Fail to be punctual at the time appointed.

Question a servant or child about family matters.

Read letters addressed to others.

Marking Linen in Ink.

"Do I mark my linen with a pencil?" said a young woman, as she proceeded to write her name on the goods with a well sharpened lead pencil. "I do and I don't. Let me explain. I have found, from sad experience that the ink often spreads on linen, leaving an unsightly mark. Some one came to my rescue and told me if I first wrote the name in pencil and then traced it in ink, I would have no further trouble on the score of the ink spreading. I followed the advice and was so delighted with the result that I have continued to practise ever since."

Some New Shades.

Among the many new shades are several brown colorings bearing the oriental names of Babylon, Carthage and Mexican. After cities and countries many new reds are named witness Pompeiian, Morocco, Corfu and Corinth. Baltique is the name of a green that verges on the violet, while Veronique is a stylish lavender with just a touch of rose. Azov is a very light grayish green, while a green a little deeper than the well-known Nile shade is called Volga.

A quickly made orgeate icing is one that requires no egg and no cooking. Take the confectioner's sugar and rub it grate a little of the outer rind of the oeange; then moisten it with the juice of the organe till it is the right consistency to spread nicely. The icing will harden just sufficiently at the end of an hour or two to cut without cracking. One great advantage of an icing of this kind is that it will remain soft and creamy for days, thus helping to keep the cake moist.

EIGHT EVENTS SCHEDULED FOR HILL CLIMB CONTEST

Official blanks for the second annual hill-climbing contest to be held on Johnston's Drive, Saturday afternoon, July 9, under the auspices of the Plainfield Automobile Club, have been issued. The contests will be held under the rules and with the sanction of the contest board of the American Automobile Association, the sanction number being 191. The races will begin promptly at 1:30. There will be eight events on the program, the prizes to be in cash or plate, except as otherwise specified.

Arrangements have been made with the authorities for the use of the course for practice three days prior to the date of the race, namely Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, between the hours of 9 a. m. and 3 p. m. Entries close Monday, July 4, at midnight with William E. Townsend, secretary, 151 North avenue. The list of events:

Event 1—Class B, Division 2—Open to any gasolene stock chassis with piston displacement of 161 to 230 cubic inches. Prize, silver cup; second, medal.

Event 2—Class B, Division 2—Open to any gasolene stock chassis with piston displacement of 231 to 300 cubic inches. Prize, silver cup; second, medal.

Event 3—Class B, Division 4—Open to any gasolene stock chassis with piston displacement of 301 to 450 cubic inches. Prize, silver cup; second, medal.

Event 4—Class B, Division 5—Open to any gasolene stock chassis with piston displacement of 451 to 600 cubic inches. Prize, silver cup; second, medal.

Event 5—Class B, Division 6—Open to any gasolene stock chassis with piston displacement of 601 to 750 cubic inches. Prize, silver cup; second, medal.

Event 6—Class A, Division 1—Open to any gasolene stock car sell-for $800 and under. These cars must appear as catalogued, except that muffler, top and glass front, lamps, horns, speed and distance indicators may be removed. Prize, silver cup; second, medal.

Event 7—Class D.—Open to any gasolene car which complies with the definition of a motor car without restriction as to piston displacement, weight, price or quantity produced. Prize, silver cup.

Event 8—Class E.—For gasolene cars owned by residents of New Jersey city, costing under $3,000. Cars may be stripped if desired. To be driven by amateur driver. Prize, silver cup.

The hill is 3,996 feet long and has a rise of 300.5 feet, with sharp elbow and turns. The average grade is 7.52 per cent. The entrance fee will be $5 for each car in each event, except where otherwise specified. The start and finish of each car will be announced from telephone stations along the course and an electric timing system at starting point will be used, with timers at the top of the hill.

HAIRPINS.

How gigantic and beautiful are some of the hairpins! Since most of the hats rely upon the disks that are so well combining utility with beauty, it is not surprising that makers have exerted themselves in the designing of these important accessories.

Some of the enameled ware is extremely ornate. Tortoise-shell carved in flower forms claims your eye. Huge spikes of jewels or large disks of glittering stones are quite as popular as the lace forms that nestle among the flowers and tulle.

And—would you believe it?—there are some that are playing a double role, for the tops can be removed and tiny powder puffs brought to light, where they can be put to use before the diminutive mirror of the latest novelty.

No Baseball Games.

The local baseball games between Plainfield and the McNulty Bros.' team, of New York, as well as all other contests in this vicinity, was postponed on account of the storm. The McNulty Bros.' team was at Crescent Park with the local players, but it was impossible to play on account of the storm.

Finished Among the Leaders.

"Marty" O'Loughlin, of the Plainfield Country Club, finished in the open golf tournament at Philadelphia, Saturday. His total was 315 for 72 holes, not quite good enough to get in the money. He was well up among the leaders and played a fine game.

Tennis Events Postponed.

Owing to the severe storm on Saturday all tennis was called off at the Plainfield Country Club, where several important events were scheduled. The play was put off until next Saturday.

Useful Nut Bowls.

Nut bowls of old Sheffield or sterling are proving popular gifts for the bride. These bowls may be used for salad and fruits as well as for nuts.

MANY LAWYERS IN THE LEGISLATURE

New Jersey is one of the two States of the East in which the lawyers out-number the farmers as legislators, the other being Connecticut. In an examination of twenty States, including New Jersey, the occupations having the largest representation in the Legislatures were as follows:

Farmers—Washington, North Dakota, Montana, Wisconsin, Maine, Utah, Florida, Vermont, Nebraska, New Hampshire and Rhode Island—11.

Lawyers—New Jersey, Colorado, Indiana, Illinois, Minnesota and Ohio—6.

Manufacturers—Pennsylvania—1.

Merchants—Connecticut—1.

In Minnesota it is a tie between the lawyers and the farmers, each having 45. In Connecticut the margin is small, there being 26 merchants, 25 lawyers and 24 manufacturers. There is almost the same condition in the Pennsylvania Legislature, where there are 23 manufacturers, 20 merchants, and 20 lawyers. Even in this manufacturing State, 14 farmers have gone to the Legislature, and all kinds of trades are represented from musicians to firemen.

The farmers are the leading rivals for legislative honors, comparing as follows:

Beginning with the four New England States, Maine has 37 farmers to 28 lawyers; Connecticut, 83 farmers to 25 lawyers; Vermont, 152 farmers to 18 lawyers; New Hampshire, 86 farmers to 26 lawyers, and Rhode Island, 23 farmers to 9 lawyers.

New Jersey Has Six.

New Jersey has only six farmers, as against 26 lawyers. Pennsylvania—in whose Legislature the manufacturers are in the lead and the merchants tie the lawyers for second place—has 14 farmers to 20 lawyers.

Florida has 52 farmers to 35 lawyers, in a Legislature of only 99 members. There are 2 cattlemen (ranchers), 6 newspaper men, and 4 school teachers. In this State, however, the farmers are, almost without exception, country merchants as well. In Florida the country merchant almost invariably owns and works a farm. The cattlemen are not always farmers. Their vast herds range the woods.

Going west, we find that Ohio has 15 farmers to 44 lawyers, Indiana 24 farmers to 52 lawyers, and Illinois 33 farmers to 66 lawyers. On the other side of the Mississippi things begin to brighten up a little for the farmers. In Missouri there are 46 farmers to 55 lawyers, in Minnesota the two occupations number 45 legislators each, and in Wisconsin the farmers lead, having 52 representatives, as against 36 for the lawyers.

In the Western States.

In the Western States the situation is reversed and becomes closely similar to that existing in New England, Nebraska has 49 farmers and 21 lawyers; Utah, 28 farmers and 9 lawyers; Montana, 30 farmers and 24 lawyers; North Dakota, 55 farmers and 19 lawyers; Washington, 22 farmers and 20 lawyers. Colorado is the only exception, having 10 farmers and 23 lawyers.

However, this statement about Colorado, if unqualified, may be misleading. It must not be taken to imply that Colorado is given over to the thralldom of lawyers. On the contrary, considering the small size of her Legislature—100 members—Colorado has about as widely diversified a lawmaking body as any in the Union. Twenty-eight different occupations being represented at Denver. If to her ten farmers are added her nine stockmen and her one irrigationist it will be seen that agriculture and its allies crowd the bar pretty closely.

One of Colorado's legislators is put down under the head of "housewife." They have woman suffrage in Colorado. Others of the Denver lawmakers are a blacksmith, a bricklayer, a barber, a telegraph operator, a grocer, a conductor, a teacher, an ice dealer, a carpenter, three printers, two railroad engineers, two druggists, and three mining men.

The British classification of "newspaper owners and journalists"—apparently a fine distinction—is not duplicated on this side, but "newspaper men," as we prefer to call them here, have no reason to complain of their lot. There are thirty-eight of them in the House of Commons.

One "Editor" at Trenton.

In New Jersey there are no "journalists," but there is one "reporter," one "editor," and one "publisher" at Trenton. In Maine there is one legislator classified as a "news writer"—presumably a reporter. Colorado has two "editors." Minnesota has one "publisher." North Dakota has three "editors." Montana has three "newspaper men." Wisconsin has five "editors." Washington has four "printers and publishers." Indiana has six "editors." Illinois has one "publisher." Utah has one "newspaper man," and Florida five. Ohio has five "editors and publishers." Vermont has two "editors," Nebraska six, and New Hampshire two. Rhode Island has three "newspaper men." Pennsylvania has three "publishers." Connecticut alone has neither editor, publisher, reporter, newswriter, or newspaper man.

Some unexpected occupations are to be found in the classifications from these twenty States, and they show that there is no royal road to a State Capitol. For instance, New Jersey's Legislature includes a mariner, an insurance broker, three electricians, a pharmacist, an agent, a railroad conductor, a railroad foreman, an undertaker, a retired capitalist, and the before-mentioned reporter.

OWNING A MOTOR BOAT.

The owning of a little motor boat is a simple matter if the enthusiast knows exactly what kind he wants, for a craft capable of carrying three or four persons at the rate of seven or eight miles an hour can be obtained for from $100 up, according to Outing. The very variety of styles, sizes and prices, however, from which he may select may furnish the prospective buyer with a greater problem than would at first appear, for only he who has had the experience will realize to what an extent the manufacture of hulls, engines and conveniences for boats has grown during the past five years.

Let the embryo yachtsman visit a popular sumer resort located on a large body of wate rnear his home city. On a pleasant day the surface of the water will seem fairly alive with large and small motor-propelled craft of all types—possibly no two alike. He may see two wings of white far up the stream, and before many minutes he will discern the graceful lines of a rapidly moving boat approaching him, its sharp bow cleaving the water and throwing it out in clouds of spray and foam on either side.

He recognizes at the wheel of the racer Smith, a man having an office near his, whose income he knows is, to say the least, modest.

He begins to wonder—how is it that Smith and others can all own boats which seem so far beyond their incomes? Wonder is followed by inquiry, and he discovers that a motor boat is not necessarily the expensive affair that he had been led to believe it was, and he eralizes that half a dozen substantial self-propelled boats can be bought for the price of one automobile.

The cheapest and simplest form of motor boat is the converted skiff. A substantial rowboat of the St. Lawrence model may be bought for from $30 to $40, and for the expenditure of another $40 or $50 a one or two horsepower motor may be obtained and installed—thus making a craft which should be able to carry three or four persons at a pace much faster than that of rowing and with much less exertion—unless the motor should prove to be balky.

Akin to the motor skiff, and yet of lighter weight and consequently of greater speed for the same power, is the ordinary canoe, strengthened and braced for the installation of the engine. Motor canoes are made by some manufacturers with the engine already installed; these are found exceedingly useful in sections where portaging may be necessary, for the entire outfit will weigh less than 150 pounds.

A "ready-made" motor boat with the engine installed and ready to run can be bought for less than $100. While it is subject to the troubles to which the average motor craft is heir, the entire outfit is remarkably simple little affair, and when owned and operated by a man who exercises common sense it should furnish little cause for annoyance.

HOW TO CLEAN MARBLE.

It is well to have on hand a recipe or two which will help us clean marble. Take two parts of soda, one of pumice stone and one of finely powdered chalk. Sift these through a fine seive and mix them into a paste with water. Rub the mixture all over the marble, and the stains will be removed; now wash it with soap and water, and a beautiful bright polish will be produced.

Another way to remove stains from marble is with a paste made of powdered pipeclay and fuller's earth mixed with strong soap lye. Put a thick coating of the paste on the marble and pass lightly over it a moderately warm flatiron until it is dry. Leave it for a short time, and then wash it off with clean water. Should the first application fail to remove all stains, repeat the process.

Discoloration made by smoke may be removed in the same manner.

A Puzzle.

A noted clergyman was in his study writing when his 5-year-old daughter walked in and asked:

"What are you writing, papa?"

I am writing a sermon, daughter."

"How do you know what to write, papa?"

"God tells me what to write, daughter."

After watching her father a few minutes the little girl said:

"Papa, if God tells you what to write why do you scratch some of it out?"—Exchange.

Constitutionalists Ads Pay.

BACCALAUREATE SERMON

Delivered to Class of 1910 of Plainfield High School by Rev. Geo. A. Warner.

IN CHURCH OF THE HOLY CROSS

Precepts to Govern the Future Life Laid Down in Unmistakable Language—The Spiritual Must Govern.

The members of the Class of 1910 of the City High School listened to a baccalaureate sermon by Rev. George A. Warner Sunday morning at the Holy Cross church. The clergyman spoke on "The Development of the Individual." His discourse follows:

"How natural and equable a development for a life! We look about us and see one-sided and abnormal people. One person possessing an uncanny intelligence developed to the highest degree, but earned at the expense of physical well being, or so absorbed in the intellectual that he is at once the admiration and laughing stock of those who meet him. Unfortunately again there is the type of a one-sided brutal beefy muscular physical development, the muscular powers in perfect accord, the faculty of co-ordination on the physical side exteremely beautiful to witness, but with it how often the low intelligence and the lack of anything like seeking the favor of God.

Then we find again the man who is seeking the favor of God, seeking it sometimes as mistakenly as the one-sided student, or the passionate athlete. A man who is so religious that he ceases to be human. A man who has never learned the distinction of being serious without being solemn. Then there is the type of development where we see the trucker, the one who is consumed with the desire to meet with the approval of all his fellow men, his purposes all bent to that end so that he will compromise principle and sacrifice independence to curry favor and be popular.

I know of no greater danger to the young man than an abnormal desire to be popular—it means the sacrifice of healthy independence and slavery to the opinion of others. The only way to be popular is to think nothing of it, because true popularity is in one or more gifts which comes by indirect means rather than direct.

If then we are concious that there is such a thing as abnormal development and its examples are numerous enough to give us a healthy sense of fear lest we should miss being sane and normal, we may rightly turn to Him who was the pattern of youth and should be today our inspiration and guide—the Saviour Jesus Christ.

The symmetrical development of His life not one-sided, but briefly put, four-sided, equable and beautiful in its even proportions. Wisdom, or intelligence, stature, favor with God and favor with man. How desirable they all are!

Here is the perfect ideal of youth and its development. The training of the mental powers, the ever-growing intelligence, the body expanding, growing in alertness and quickness of response to the behests of the intelligence, all dominated by a consciousness of God's goodness, His care for His children, the sense of security and confidence in the favor of a God who has said that the angels of His little ones do always behold the face of the Father in Heaven and following upon this harmonious development of the intelligence the body, the love and fear of God this further essential, the favor of man. Others which inevitably brings the regard, goodwill and favor of our fellow men.

How natural it all is. No one of us likes to be considered dull or unintelligent. A constant spur to our work has been not alone the goal of our ambition to know something and prove ourselves the equal of others, but with it has been the goad of shame, the fear of ridicule lest we should grow up with a humiliating sense of how little wisdom we have and be the marked out as inferior to our fellows. Likewise the desire to be seen in us to present before the world a body with the evidence of healthy growth, we have had a pardonable variety in our personal appearance and taken care of our bodies observing the laws of hygiene that we might not be ashamed of physical defects which would make us conspicuous and call attention to our shortcomings, boys and girls will confess if pressed that it is not the pure joy of athletics, neither the glory of victory but the keen desire to keep up with others in physical vigor that has led them on.

The approval the favor of God which the young instinctively seek is not the outcome of superstition or the craven fear of offending the Deity but it is the natural yearning for and the turning of the child heart to the Father who loves and is capable of entering into every feeling, every aspiration and desire, the longing to be understood, the natural dependence upon God, the obedience to the desire to please him is in turn to merit the favor of man, the regard, the respect; we all crave it and seek it; a word of disrespect, a sneer or a jeer that shows that we have not the favor of our fellow men may turn our day into bitterness and unhappiness, but to merit the approval and the words of praise and sympathy which another can give is the incentive to greater effort and ministers to our joy and peace.

We may say then after the development of the life and character of Jesus that it is characterized by its essential humaness and naturalness.

It is one with the life of others of the human race, there is nothing forced, nothing of infantine wonders of sagacity precocity or such that disturbed a peaceful quiet and industrious existence, nothing so far as we can learn done for show or effect, in no way do we see that curious asstronomy, the child prodigy. No, the Son of God, the man Jesus, lived quietly for thirty years of his life in a little town out of the way place whose only claim to distinction was its reputation for evil so people said, can anything good come out of Nazareth?

How shall we acquire it? I find first of all that there was nothing forced in the life of Jesus.

What a beautiful lesson those thirty years of quiet are to present to a world feverish in its haste and superficial aye, artificial in its culture. Our day and time is the hot house culture of a superficial knowledge, a few facts gleaned and we attribute that to a clever manipulator of facts as wisdom; and my dear friends the wisdom which belong to life, and character spring out of study, reflection, meditation and the test of living according to the truths we have gleaned and reflected upon. Composure, strength, self-control, they all have their root in the quiet unseen times left to us for thought-fulness and meditation. Thirty years of preparation, thing of it and then the life at the outset was tested by the sharpest temptations. Youth is the time of impetuosity and one is eager to begin the battle. Do you suppose in the days of Christ that the great outside world was not calling out to Him that there were not evils to be righted and wrongs to be redressed. The wickedness of his own city, the hypocrisy of priestcraft, the hollowness of social life, all cried out to a man who so loved other men that he finally laid down his life for them. But he must be fully prepared and we find him exercising a wise restrain and patiently waiting until he was fit to cope with the evil.

I presume among my hearers today are many full of an eager impetuosity, who can scarce wait to begin the work of life or show the world what bright lights they are. Many in whom are gifts which comes by indirect means rather than direct.

If then we are concious that there is such a thing as abnormal development and its examples are numerous enough to give us a healthy sense of fear lest we should miss being sane and normal, we may rightly turn to Him who was the pattern of youth and should be today our inspiration and guide—the Saviour Jesus Christ.

What a beautiful tension those thirty years of quiet are to present to a world feverish in its haste and superficial, aye, artificial in its culture. Our day and time is the hot house culture of a superficial knowledge, a few facts gleaned and we attribute that to a clever manipulator of facts as wisdom; and my dear friends the wisdom which belong to life, and character spring out of study, reflection, meditation and the test of living according to the truths we have gleaned and reflected upon. Composure, strength, self-control, they all have their root in the quiet unseen times left to us for thought-fulness and meditation. Thirty years of preparation, thing of it and then the life at the outset was tested by the sharpest temptations. Youth is the time of impetuosity and one is eager to begin the battle. Do you suppose in the days of Christ that the great outside world was not calling out to Him that there were not evils to be righted and wrongs to be redressed. The wickedness of his own city, the hypocrisy of priestcraft, the hollowness of social life, all cried out to a man who so loved other men that he finally laid down his life for them. But he must be fully prepared and we find him exercising a wise restrain and patiently waiting until he was fit to cope with the evil.

I presume among my hearers today are many full of an eager impetuosity, who can scarce wait to begin the work of life or show the world what bright lights they are. Many in whom are gifts which comes by indirect means rather than direct.

If then we are concious that there is such a thing as abnormal development and its examples are numerous enough to give us a healthy sense of fear lest we should miss being sane and normal, we may rightly turn to Him who was the pattern of youth and should be today our inspiration and guide—the Saviour Jesus Christ.

The symmetrical development of His life not one-sided, but briefly put, four-sided, equable and beautiful in its even proportions. Wisdom, or intelligence, stature, favor with God and favor with man. How desirable they all are!

Here is the perfect ideal of youth and its development. The training of the mental powers, the ever-growing intelligence, the body expanding, growing in alertness and quickness of response to the behests of the intelligence, all dominated by a consciousness of God's goodness, His care for His children, the sense of security and confidence in the favor of a God who has said that the angels of His little ones do always behold the face of the Father in Heaven and following upon this harmonious development of the intelligence the body, the love and fear of God this further essential, the favor of man. Others which inevitably brings the regard, goodwill and favor of our fellow men.

How natural it all is. No one of us likes to be considered dull or unintelligent. A constant spur to our work has been not alone the goal of our ambition to know something and prove ourselves the equal of others, but with it has been the goad of shame, the fear of ridicule lest we should grow up with a humiliating sense of how little wisdom we have and be the marked out as inferior to our fellows. Likewise the desire to be seen in us to present before the world a body with the evidence of healthy growth, we have had a pardonable variety in our personal appearance and taken care of our bodies observing the laws of hygiene that we might not be ashamed of physical defects which would make us conspicuous and call attention to our shortcomings, boys and girls will confess if pressed that it is not the pure joy of athletics, neither the glory of victory but the keen desire to keep up with others in physical vigor that has led them on.

The approval the favor of God which the young instinctively seek is not the outcome of superstition or the craven fear of offending the Deity but it is the natural yearning for and the turning of the child heart to the Father who loves and is capable of entering into every feeling, every aspiration and desire, the longing to be understood, the natural dependence upon God, the obedience to the desire to please him is in turn to merit the favor of man, the regard, the re-

MISS ANNA L. WALSH I. W. CROWELL'S BRIDE

Miss Anna Lillian Walsh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Walsh, of 226 East Second street, and Isaiah William Crowell, of Wiathrop, Mass., were married Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents. Rev. C. S. Sylvester, rector of St. John's Episcopal church, of Somerville, performed the ceremony.

The bride was gowned in a princess lace robe, over white satin and wore a veil of tulle caught up with bridal roses. She carried a bouquet of white roses and wore a circle of pearls. She was attended by Miss Antoinette VanDuyne, of Newark, and Miss Frances L. Wellwood, of New York city. The bride entered the parlor where the ceremony was performed, escorted by her brother, William M. Walsh, Jr., two chains of daisies forming an aisle. George N. Walsh, brother of the bride, played the Lohengrin and Mendelssohn Wedding marches.

The home was elaborately decorated with Mountain laurel, sent from Connecticut; roses, daisies, ferns, ivy and carnations. Following the ceremony a reception was held and the couple received the congratulations of the guests, among whom were several from Everett, Winthrop, West Yarmouth, Mass.; New York, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Somerville, Cranford and this city.

The bride was the recipient of many beautiful gifts. The bridegroom's gift to the bride was a circle of pearls. The couple after making an extended tour through Canada will spend the summer at their cottage in West Yarmouth, Mass., and in the fall will go to Winthrop, Mass., a suburb of Boston, where the groom is in business. The bride has a large circle of friends here. She has been holding a responsible position in the First National Bank at Somerville.

THUNDER STORM STOPPED GOLF PLAY SATURDAY

The thunder storm on Saturday put a damper on golf in this vicinity. It has always been the boast of golfers that they can play the game in any kind of weather, but the driving storm chased them to shelter Saturday afternoon and only one card was returned for the Spring Handicap Cups at the Plainfield Country Club. There was a large field out with promise of some mighty fine scores. Many of the players got soaked before reaching shelter. The storm did no damage at the country club besides tearing away a portion of the awning at the clubhouse.

Early in the day there was the play for the June trophy, Classes A and B. In the first class, C. C. Burke defeated G. Morse, 3 up, while Arthur Murphy defeated H. P. Stockson, 3 up and 1 to play. In Class B, George S. Clay won his match by default and Hugh F. Fox and A. W. Kleinecke were all even at the finish which will necessitate a playoff this week.

In the golf Golf Club a large number of players had just started out when the storm broke over the course. They hastily beat a retreat to the clubhouse but did not reach there before getting a good drenching. The players after changing their clothing spent the afternoon at the clubhouse in a social way and refreshments were served.

ORGANIZED AUTOMOBILE ASSOCIATION AT NEWTON.

In order to perfect an organization of automobilists who desire to obtain better roads and a more universal observance of the municipal statutes and ordinances regulating automobile traffic, several members of the Plainfield Automobile Club motored to Newton on Saturday and met with the members of the Newton Club in the Newton Court House.

Those who went from here were compelled through the condition of the roads after the storm to remain until yesterday morning. Twenty-six members were present and listened to speeches by J. H. Wood, president of the Associated Automobile Clubs of New Jersey; J. H. Edwards, vice president, and G. H. Post, a director in the organization.

Harry W. Marshall, H. T. Todd, W. J. Hudson and Marcus Hoyt, of this city, attended the meeting and it is certain that conditions governing automobile traffic in the cities of the State and roads over which the machines must travel will be improved. It is the object of the association to have all automobile clubs co-operate in furthering the improvements in roads as well as to encourage the membership in seeing that the rules of the road as well as speed laws are observed.

An Excellent Number.

The souvenior number of The Royal Craftsman, John Ulrich, editor, is a most creditable effort in the fraternal magazine field of publication. No member of the Masonic order should fail to read it.

THEODORE KURZHALS JR., DIES AFTER LONG ILLESS

Theodore Arnold Kurzhals, Jr., who was a barber on West Second street for many years, died Saturday night at his home on Lincoln place. He was in his fortieth year and had been ill for about eighteen months with a complication of diseases. Since last February he has been unable to work, and gave up his barber shop shortly after that.

Mr. Kurzhals was born in this city and has always lived here. For many years he was in business with his father as a barber on West Second street and about five years ago purchased the business from him. He was a member of five local fraternal organizations. These are: Rebecca Council, Daughters of Liberty; Benevolent Council, Jr. O. U. A. M.; I. O. O. F. No. 44; P. O. S. of A., and the Knights of the Golden Eagle.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Kurzhals, Sr., of West Sixth street; a brother, Albert, who is now critically ill at Muhlenberg Hospital; a sister, Mrs. Arthur Adams, of this city; a brother, Hugo, of Jacksonville, Florida, and one daughter, Elsie, who is ten years old. His wife, Mrs. Louise Kurzhals, also survives him.

FOUR HUNDRED AT OPEN AIR MEETING

Nearly four hundred people, both men and women gathered in the grove to the left of the First Baptist church Sunday afternoon, when David Hughes, a Welsh Evangelist, gave a twenty-minute talk on the "Heroes of Plainfield."

The talk was a part of the first Y. M. C. A. outdoor meetings of the year and if this meeting may be taken as a prophecy of what may be expected in the future, the series this year bids fair to be a greater success than any similar series ever conducted by the association.

The grove is a natural amphitheatre and the audience ranged themselves on the incline on the grass. In the hollow directly in front the speaker, the secretary of the association, and the four musicians sat on an improvised platform.

Mr. Hughes was especially dramatic in the presentation of his subject. His theme, "The Salute of Caesar's Household Salute You." "If," he said, "it was possible for men to be Christians in the time of ancient Rome, it is possible for men to be Christians now." Then he cited striking incidents of ancient history, such as fifty Christians maintaining their courage and fortitude while about to be devoured in a den of lions. All this he showed illustrated the death of the feeling for Christianity that held away over the early Christians.

Music was furnished by E. Guest, A. H. Osmun, and E. D. Young, cornetists, and Charles L. Lewis, vocal soloist. Hymns were sung by all present.

It is planned to have F. H. Jacobs, who was associated with Dwight L. Moodey, speak next Sunday at the second open air meeting.

WARREN CHAPEL PEOPLE OBSERVE CHILDREN'S DAY.

The children's day exercises held at Warren chapel Sunday morning were considered the best in the history of the school. There were nearly five hundred children and adults present. The chapel was decorated with ramblers and wild daisies. The exercises opened with an organ prelude by Mrs. J. O. McKelvey, the singing of the doxology and the Lord's Prayer in unison. Scripture reading by Rev. J. O. McKelvey and a prayer by Joseph O. Gavett.

The recitation by Viola, "The Children's Friend," by Hilda Story. Then followed the baptism of five infants, children of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mumford, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Leask, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Neher, Mr. and Mrs. George LaMatty, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Thomson.

There was a recitation by five children and one by Josephine Keidelling, after which Mrs. J. O. McKelvey awarded the Junior C. E. Society prizes. Those of the first year who received Bibles were Iberta Martin, Blanche Martin, Hannah Stiglitz, Anna Johnson, and those of the second year, who received gold Junior C. E. pins were Letha Hoagland, Edna Lance, Elston Lance, Elsie Perine, Lillian Smith, Charles and Grace Wakefield. Those on the honorary list, who only missed one or two meetings during the year were Bertha Bodine, Adele Demarest, Elsie Kurzhals, Florence Cornwell.

There was a song by the infant department, recitations by Hannah Stiglitz, Seaman Higgins, Stanley Burner, an anthem by the choir, followed by two five-minute addresses by E. E. Parvin and Rev. J. O. McKelvey. The exercise closed with a hymn, prayer and benediction.

—Constitutionalist's ads. pay.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE IS ATTACKED BY PASTOR

"Because Christian Science and spiritualism have certain devotees does not make them right," said Rev. John Y. Brook in his sermon last Sunday in Trinity Reformed church, "and when you put them to the test of the Bible, upon which all Christian doctrine is founded you will find both to be radically wrong if you are fair minded."

"I oppose Christian Science because it denies some of the fundamental truths of the Bible. It denies the reality of matter, the personality of God, the personality of Jesus Christ, the very plan of salvation; the reality of sin and the reality of prayer."

Pastor Brook read for his text 1 John, 4—1 to 3, and in order to fully impress its import repeated the words. He said that Christian Science is a nonsense, as their doctrine was neither Christian nor science. But if its prime object were alleviate the sufferings of mankind it should receive our Godspeed. Mental suggestion is practiced by some of our regular physicians and in cases of nervous diseases is found efficacious. It would be absurd to deny the power of the mind over the body, and I could see no object to Christian Science if it were purely a healing system, but religion is dragged into it shattering the whole fabric.

"When it brazenly denies the reality of matter we must stop and think what it means. One of the foremost followers of Mrs. Eddy claimed that that Bloeum horror occurred only in the minds of a few people. The God Mrs. Eddy believes in is a god of pantheism. Our God is a personal God. One to whom of prayers ascend and whom we know can hear and answer.

"Are you willing to throw overboard these fundamentals of the Bible? If you are you are then ready to join the Christian Science church which is sure to fall into oblivion. If they do not stand the test of the Bible, they are not of God."

Mr. Brook preached on the subject by request.

THROW AWAY THE MASK, SAYS REV. MR. MAGUIRE

"If the masks of the unregenerate of this congregation were removed, it would look more like the gate to hell than to heaven," declared Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire, at the Park Avenue Baptist church Sunday night The preacher had taken as a subject for his sermon, "Masks," and he handled his topic without gloves. He said the tremendous assertion that nearly everyone is masquerading and that people are too prone to hide behind a mask.

Pastor Maguire based his remarks on the story in the Old Testament of the Bible which tells of the wife of the king of Israel appearing on one occasion wearing a mask. She was upbraided and asked why she appeared in the guise of another.

Elaborating on this story, Mr. Maguire gave a plain, straightforward talk about the evils of masquerading, urging his hearers to appear in their true light and not be wolves in sheep's clothes. The congregation, a large one, necessitating the opening of the Sunday-school rooms, was deeply impressed with Mr. Maguire's words and he held the close attention of all for nearly an hour.

MISS L. M. RANDOLPH WEDS H. M. WINTERS.

Miss Louise May Randolph, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sumner F. Randolph, of 327 Clinton avenue, and Harry Winters, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Winters, of South Plainfield, were married at 9 Monday morning at the home of the bride's parents. Rev. J. Tucker Lansdale, pastor of Marconnier chapel, officiated. The couple was attended by Miss Sadie Randolph, sister of the bride, and Howard B. Elliott, a relative of the groom.

The couple left Plainfield immediately after the ceremony for Yorktown Heights, N. Y., where the groom has purchased a large farm, and where they will reside in the future. Formerly Mr. Winters was engaged in farming at South Plainfield.

New Rectory for Bridegrooms.

The parishioners of St. Clement's Episcopal church, Brooklyn, of which Rev. Floyd Appleton is the rector, are planning to provide the rector and bride with a handsome and commodious rectory. When the couple return from their wedding trip they will find the plans for the new building far advanced. Mr. Appleton married one of his Sunday-school teachers, Miss Mildred E. Miller, last Wednesday. The plan for the rectory originated with Justice E. A. Richards, of the Municipal Court, who is a vestryman of the church. It is believed that the necessary $6,000 will soon be subscribed.

NARROW ESCAPE ON TIMBO CLUB OUTING

An accident in which fortunately no one was injured marked the return trip of the 300 members and friends of the Timbo Social Club to Atlantic City Sunday. While rounding a curve near Winslow Junction the engine, tender and forward trucks of the special left the rails, but the low speed of the train at that moment prevented a disaster. The accident occurred about forty minutes after the train left the shore and it caused a delay of four hours at the point of the accident. An engine was sent from Red Bank and after some strenuous work on the part of the wrecking crew another start was made. At Red Bank it was found necessary to change engines again causing another delay and it was 5 Sunday morning when the special rolled into the North avenue station, or as one man put it "just in time to buy a morning paper."

Fun was the keynote of the excursion from the start and the amusing features were kept up on both sections of the trip. At the shore the excursionists separated in couples and fours and sought diversion in sight seeing and parading along the boardwalk and promptly on the minute of departure the whole crowd was ready to board the train for the homeward ride. It was remarked that it was the longest ride for the money that any of the crowd had ever had.

The train was in charge of Conductor John VanMiddlesworth, Engineer "Bill" Dunavan and Fireman James Harrigan. The train crew, from the conductor down were handsomely treated and will probably remember the Timbo Social Club for many years to come. The oppressive heat did not seem to bother the excursionists.

MUSICAL SERVICE AT FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

The special musical service given by the choir of the First Baptist church, Sunday, under the direction of Howard Case, choirmaster, was rendered by an unusually large congregation, and by many was considered one of the best yet offered by this choir of well trained voices. The program was an exceptionally good one, affording fine opportunities for the new soprano and contralto, Miss Ruth Harris and Miss Hazel Hatfield, as well as for William Holmes, baritone, and George Smith, tenor.

A noteworthy feature was the soprano solo from the "Creation," Haydn, by Miss Harris. Her rendition of that beautiful selection was delightful, showing the wide range and sweetness of her voice. Another pleasing feature was the rendition of "The 23rd Psalm," Mendelssohn, by Miss Hatfield, contralto, and chorus. She has a true contralto voice, possessing strength and sweetness, which was heard to the best advantage. The solo parts by Mr. Holmes and Mr. Smith were equally well enjoyed, while the chorus work was up to its usual high standard. In addition to the solo numbers there were three anthems. During the service Dr. Chambliss gave a short talk taking his text from "The Thirteenth Psalm."

TEMPLE BAPTIST CHURCH CHILDREN'S DAY PROGRAM.

Children's Day exercises were held at the Temple Baptist church, Sunday, under the auspices of the Sunday school, and the direction of the superintendent, L. W. Randolph. The church was elaborately decorated with the season's flowers, attractively arranged about the platform. The following program was rendered:

Scripture reading, L. W. Randolph; prayer, Frank Stewart; song, "Bless the Lord O Ye Lands;" school; address of welcome, Hardress Patterson; recitation, "Jesus and the Children," Freddie Berg, Willie Cartright, David Myers and Walter Montross; recitation, "Our King," Helen Waldron; recitation, "Suppose," Gladys Stites; song by the Juniors; recitations, "If You Please," Eva Cartright; "Your Part," Willie Rose; song by school, "A Father's Home;" address by pastor, Rev. J. W. Mussetter; story duet, Blanche Askham and Christine Babcock; song, "Rock of Ages," ten girls and boys; school, "The Glory of the Summer," "Good Night," Harold Wilson; remarks by W. A. Conger on sixth anniversary of Pastor Musson, in which he congratulated the latter upon the success of his ministry. The service closed with a selection by the choir and the benediction.

Will Hold a Picnic.

The annual picnic of the Plainfield Graded Union of Sunday-school Teachers will be held on Thursday, June 30, on the home of Mrs. C. Frank French on Washington avenue. All members are urged to attend as there will be business of importance.

STORM DID DAMAGE HERE

Trees Were Blown Down and Shrubs and Plants Suffered Badly.

CITY ALMOST IN DARKNESS.

In Less Than Two Hours 1.37 Inches of Rain Fell—Electric Light System Partly Put Out of Business.

Saturday afternoon's terrific thunder storm did much damage to trees and shrubbery in several sections in the city. The worst of the wind was felt in the eastern section where trees were blown down and vines torn from their fastenings while lightning cut dead and live limbs of big trees indiscriminately. At least ten trees were blown down in the borough and an equal number suffered the same fate in this city.

The approach of the storm was so sudden that an impression as of darkest midnight was given and in trice lights were twinkling in all parts of the city. Some of the electric light wires were broken and many fuses blown out, necessitating the use of gas in many homes and offices. Reports from the suburban districts say that entire crops of tomatoes and other vegetables were completely ruined.

A huge elm in front of 319 East Front street was struck by a bolt and a branch six inches in diameter snapped off as though it were a match. The bark was stripped from the tree for a distance of twelve feet. A nearby house, famous for its magnificent Wistaria vine, lost the vine in the tornado which followed. It is possible that this vine can be saved by being raised and fastened, but it will be a difficult job as the trunk is about five inches thick.

For several hours after the violence of the hurricane had subsided, electric light and telephone wires were badly crippled and the trolley service halted. The companies, however, soon had things straightened out and apparently no permanent damage was done.

At the corner of Park avenue and Ninth street, East Seventh street and Watchung avenue and Fourth street and Madison avenue trees were blown down, seriously obstructing street traffic. A Spanish plum tree in the front yard of the residence of Charles H. Doane, of Norwood avenue, was uprooted, but it can probably be saved. So far as known nobody was injured during the storm.

The switchboard of the Postal Telegraph Company was put out of business at the beginning of the display of lightning. A flash, sharper than any of its predecessors, struck the wires leading into the office and instantly the board went out with a crash. Mrs. Bain, the regular operator, was not there, but her substitute, a young boy, nearly collapsed.

John Neagle, the weather man, said this morning that in the one hour and forty-five minutes of the rain 1.37 inches fell and that the total fainfall for the month up to and including the storm was 5.19 inches. The normal rainfall for the entire month of June is only 3.75.

A high power wire of the Public Service Corporation grounded on a pole in front of Chief Kiely's residence on East Fifth street, and made quite a blaze. It was extinguished by one of the company's employes.

HE SAVED A RATHER FROM WATERY GRAVE.

Louis Kopp, of Liberty street, an employe of J. C. Storm, who accompanied the Timbo excursion to Atlantic City Sunday, proved himself a hero by boldly plunging into the surf and rescuing Vincent Pyatt, a bather, from drowning. The imperilled man had gone down twice when the Plainfielder caught hold of him and swam to shoal water. Pyatt was revived by the quick action and afterward taken to his home at 114 Arctic avenue, Atlantic City.

Kopp was formerly a member of the New Jersey division of the U. S. Life Saving Corps and has saved men from drowning on three previous occasions. Although but twenty-one years old and of slight build he is an expert swimmer.

T. S. Armstrong, President.

At the meeting of the New Jersey State Pharmaceutical Association held at Cape May, June 14, 15 and 16, Thomas S. Armstrong was elected president unanimously. Several new measures calculated for the benefit of the public as well as the druggist were passed at this session. C. J. Field was elected treasurer for the fifteenth consecutive year.

Experience Necessary.

"Why do you advertise for an experienced boy to work in a drug store," asked a customer. "I should not think experience would be necessary for an errand boy."

"That's where you're mistaken," replied the druggist. "If want a boy who has eaten his fill of candy and ice cream somewhere else."—Detroit Free Press.

NASH-CAMPBELL TEAM WINS ANOTHER VICTORY

In their return match with Matthews and Schaub at the local alleys on Saturday night, Nash and Campbell defeated their opponents, winning five out of seven games.

Campbell averaged 207.3 for the seven games and Matthews 195.1.

Nash	178	198	147	194
Campbell	198	210	226	169
	376	408	373	363
Nash	201	169	157
Campbell	227	214	208
	528	383	365
Schaub	189	199	193	163
Matthews	179	170	225	194
	368	369	418	357
Schaub	179	214	179
Matthews	218	192	188
	397	406	358

In an individual match Campbell disposed of Matthews with the following scores:

Campbell	194	238	216
Matthews	194	203	205

Y. M. C. A. Meet Postponed.

Owing to the rain the senior events in the State Y. M. C. A. field meet at Orange, Saturday, were again postponed. In the junior events the Newark Y. M. C. A. scored 49 points.

Y. M. C. A. Didn't Play.

The local Y. M. C. A. baseball team did not play the Hopewell Association team Saturday owing to the rain. Manager Listman accompanied the team to Hopewell.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST

VOL. XLII — PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, JUNE 30, 1910. — NO. 26.

"Support the Constitution, which is the Cement of the Union, as well in its Limitations as in its Authorities."—Madison.

YOU'LL HAVE TO PAY $20

If You Violate Any of the Provisions of 'Safe and Sane 4th' Ordinance.

INFORMATION FOR YOUNGSTERS

What Will Be Allowed and What Will Not Be Allowed—Permits for Displays May Be Obtained.

In a communication to this paper information is sought as to the exact provisions of the "safe and sane" Fourth of July ordinance. As the subject is timely and of general interest, the measure as passed by the Common Council and signed by Mayor Fisk on Monday night, June 20, is published in full. The penalty for any violation of its provisions is $20 fine.

The ordinance follows:

Section 1. No person or corporation shall within the limits of the city of Plainfield fire or discharge any cannon, toy cannon, gun, revolver, or toy pistol or other appliance for discharging metal or paper caps such as are used in toy pistols, or fire-arms of any description whether the same be loaded with blank or full charge; provided that this section shall not apply to persons engaged in military exercises or to members of the police department while on duty, or to the use of a revolver, pistol or other fire-arm in defense of life or property.

Sec. 2. No person or corporation shall fire or discharge any fire-cracker, torpedo, fireworks of any character, or any other thing containing or composed of powder or other explosive or combustible material, or set in motion any balloon containing a lighted torch or burning material of any kind, upon any street, lane, highway or public place of the city of Plainfield.

Sec. 3. No person or corporation shall within the limits of the city of Plainfield fire or discharge any fire-cracker, torpedo, or firework, or set in motion any balloon containing a lighted torch or burning material of any kind, except that firecrackers made of soft paper loosely wrapped containing no other explosive but black powder and not over five inches in length and torpedoes not over three-quarters of an inch in diameter and fireworks other than sky-rockets having sticks attached or any balloon containing a lighted torch or burning material of any kind, may be set off and discharged upon private property on the Fourth day of July of any year, unless the Fourth day of July falls on Sunday and in such event then on the Fifth day of July, between the hours of six o'clock in the morning and twelve o'clock midnight, but at no other time, provided, however, that at any time the Mayor may upon written application made at least twenty-four hours before the time when said event is to occur, give permission for the display and discharge of fireworks except sky-rockets having stick attached or any balloon containing a lighted torch or burning material of any kind, at a time and place to be specified and under the direction of a person or persons to be named in the written permit issued by the Mayor.

Sec. 4. Any person or corporation violating any of the provisions of sections one, two and three of this ordinance shall on conviction be punished by a fine not exceeding twenty dollars for each offense.

Clare Higgins Injured.

Clare Higgins, a carrier for The Daily Press, received a bad cut in the back of his head yesterday afternoon, the result of a collision while riding his bicycle on West Second street, near Trinity Reformed church. He was carrying a bundle which he expected to deliver, when another boy on a wheel ran into him and knocked him off his mount. The lad was assisted to Armstrong's drug store, where Mr. Armstrong rendered "first aid to the injured" until Dr. T. S. Davis, the family physician, arrived. The boy was able to carry his newspapers last night.

Mayor Buys Farm.

Mayor J. H. L. Todd, of Fanwood, has purchased a large farm in the upper part of New York State, where he expects to move with his family. At present, Harold Todd, who was graduated this spring from Columbia University is in charge of the property. Mayor Todd is the second Fanwoodite to buy a farm in the upper part of the Empire state this spring. The other one is William S. Mygrant who moved to Saugertics.

—Blaris, sure remedy for hemorrhoids; relief absolute in 24 hours. Ask T. S. Armstrong, druggist, Park avenue, about it. 6 21 tf ***

SEEK $30,000 DAMAGES FROM PUBLIC SERVICE

Theodore A. Ball, a Westfield florist, and Leonard Lott, also of Westfield, through their counsel, Craig A. Marsh, yesterday filed papers in the Union County Court, in suits against the Public Service Corporation. Mr. Ball seeks to recover $25,000 damages and Mr. Lott's suit is for $5,000 damages.

The actions are brought as the result of an accident at Westfield on Sunday, April 10, of this year. The two men were out riding in an automobile in the vicinity of Westfield at that time when they collided with a trolley car. Both men were severely injured, it is said, Mr. Ball's injuries being of a serious nature according to the bill of complaint. The suits will probably be tried at the October term of court. Mr. Marsh left today for Europe, and will be away six weeks.

Y. W. C. A. DELEGATES GOING TO SILVER BAY

The Plainfield delegation to the Eastern City Conference of the Y. W. C. A. will leave Monday afternoon for Silver Bay where they will spend ten days enjoying life on the shores of Lake George. In the party are: the Misses Amy Tapping, secretary, Lizzie Joss, Florence Prior, Myrtle Fedderman, Mary Gray, Laura Hanglighter, Helen George, Nettie tSelner, Clara Runyon and Maud Van Blarcom, who was assistant secretary last year. She will return to the local association August 1, to take up the work of the association for the year. Miss Reba Kline and Miss Margaret Mosher, the physical director, are also planning to attend the conference.

The party will leave this city July 4 for New York. From there they will take the night boat up the Hudson river to Albany. At Albany they will visit the New York State executive building and capitol which are located on the summit of the hill near the boat landing. A short trip by rail will then be made to the foot of Lake George, and from there the trip to the head of the lake will be made by lake steamer. The scenery along the trip is beautiful; and the night trip up the Hudson is especially interesting.

They will be met at Silver Bay by the other delegates there. Monday the students who have been in conference there representing the various colleges and universities, will leave. Hence, when the delegates from this city and other cities arrive there will be ample room to accommodate them. The Plainfield delegation hopes to have a cottage. All sorts of activities including trips to nearby places of interest, such as Fort Ticonderoga, will be enjoyed by the girls. One of these activities will be the "stunts." Each delegation will perform some stunt supposedly characteristic of a state from which they come.

At the meeting of the local delegation in the association rooms last night the girls decided to dress themselves up as mosquitoes and go through some simple calesthenics indicative of the Jersey "eagle." Final plans for the trip were also made then. The Plainfield flag, made of gray letters on a crimson background, will be taken along. The delegates will remain at Silver Bay until July 14. The return trip will be made a feature of interest to the girls.

Scotch Plains Pastor, Editor.

In the July issue of the "Daily Bible," edited by the Rev. Franklin Mathews, of the Scotch Plains Baptist church, the publication reaches probably its highest pinnacle of direct forceful usefulness. It is full of suggestive comments and is terse and readable.

Will Give a Dinner Party.

Dr. M. P. E. Grossmann will give a dinner at his home this evening in honor of the anniversary of his birthday. A number of guests have been invited, including Dr. Torrek, a well known physician from New York.

No Bids Given.

At the meeting of Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, last night, bids for the new building were opened. Until the committee in charge of the affair has made a decision, no contracts will be awarded.

"Citizens of Heaven."

"Citizens of Heaven," will be the topic of the prayer meeting at the Temple Baptist church, tonight. Rev. J. W. Musson, pastor, will be in charge.

'TAG DAY' IS CONDEMNED

New York's Mayor Takes Same Position as Mayor Smalley in the Matter.

CHILDREN SHOULD NOT AID.

Gaynor Says the Idea of Having Youngsters Raise Money for Charity is Wrong—Vetoes a Resolution Therefor.

The practice of permitting children to go about the streets collecting money for a charity was condemned by Mayor Gaynor, of New York, yesterday, when he sent a veto to the New York Board of Aldermen of a recent aldermanic resolution permitting "tag day" in Richmond borough for a day nursery there. His action is of interest here, particularly because he takes the same view as Mayor Newton S. Smalley, of North Plainfield, did some time ago in a similar case.

When Mayor Smalley declined to give his personal and official endorsement to the Plainfield Patrolmen's Association scheme to raise money for the hospital by providing competitions in the schools and offering prizes to the winners, his action met with criticism in some quarters. But when the mayor came out in his usual courageous fashion in a letter, condemning the plan because it was turning the schools into a collection agency and would mean that the youngsters would go about asking people for money, his position was understood and met with the warm commendation of many. Mayor Smalley stated that he was opposed to having children used, for such a purpose for not only did it detract their attention from their studies but it was wrong in principle.

Mayor Gaynor yesterday voiced the same opinion when he sent this message to the board of aldermen with his veto:

"This resolution would authorize the ladies of the Day Nursery in the Borough of Richmond to accost people in that borough for the purpose of extracting coin and other monies from every possible citizen on the occasion of a Tag Day."

"Such an authorization is of doubtful legality and of more than doubtful propriety. The collection of money on tag days is usually made a success by the aid of small children—a practice which should not be permitted."

FIRST BAPTIST BATTALION HAS MEMBERSHIP OF FORTY.

The First Baptist church battalion, recently organized among the young men of the church, is meeting with great success. Thus far the battalion has a membership of about forty young men and meetings for drills are held on the church lawn every Friday night. Recently field music was obtained and this has greatly encouraged and interested the members. Lewis Matlack, who served in the Spanish-American war, has charge of the battalion as drill-master, and is getting good results.

A little later the young men will purchase uniforms and otherwise fully equip themselves. The battalion is a part of the Sunday school and is being fostered by its officers. After awhile when the young men become more efficient they will give an exhibition drill to which their friends will be invited.

Dog Ordinance Violated.

Despite the severe penalty which follows a violation of the state law forbidding the drowning of dogs in brooks, the borough health authorities found one dog wrapped in a bag with a rock tied to its neck in Stony brook yesterday. The dog had been drowned several hours, and the authorities believe that it was dropped in the brook at midnight. If the owner is found a fine of over fifty dollars will be imposed.

Winkler Got an S. S.

George Winkler, of Elm street, received a suspended sentence from Recorder Charles M. Dolliver when arraigned for being drunk and disorderly on Pearl street last night. He was arrested by Marshal Keller last night.

Y. M. H. A. Musicale.

The Young Men's Hebrew Association will hold a musicale and dance at its hall on Grove street, this evening, it being one of the monthly affairs of this kind planned for the summer.

Health Board Postpones Meeting.

Owing to the fact that next Monday is a holiday, the borough board of health will not meet then. The meeting will be held one week from Monday.

PASTORS' SUMMER PLANS

When and Where Local Ministers Will Spend Their Vacations.

MANY TO BE AWAY IN AUGUST.

The Pulpit Supplies for a Number of the Plainfield Churches Are Already Announced.

The pastors of the Plainfield and North Plainfield churches are busily engaged in making plans for their summer vacations, and although a majority of them are yet undecided as to where they will go and who their supplies will be, not a few have completed arrangements for their outing.

As recently stated in The Daily Press, the ministers at their last association meeting took up the vacation question and it was decided to so arrange it that some of the pastors will be here throughout the summer to answer calls in their line of duty, in other words all of the pastors will not be away at the same time as has frequently been the case.

Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church, will be away during August and the first Sunday in September. His supplies for the first three Sundys in August will be Rev. Dr. E. G. Read, of this city; Rev. Dr. S. S. Zimman, of Newark, and Rev. Charles E. Bronson, of Philadelphia. There will be no services the last Sunday in August and the first Sunday in September.

Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, will be away during July and August, during which time he will deliver many lectures. The complete list of supplies have not been made as yet, but Rev. F. St. John Fitch, of this city, will preach next Sunday, and Rev. A. E. Finn, former pastor, now of Rochester, Pa., will preach one Sunday. The other supplies will be announced later.

At the First M. E. church, the pulpit supply committee has not completed its work. It is hoped to make the announcement on Sunday. The pastor, Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, has not yet decided where he will spend his vacation, but it will probably be at some place within easy reach of home.

Rev. Charles S. Kemble, pastor of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, will spend the month of August at Ocean Grove. The pulpit supplies will be announced within a short time. Rev. Ora J. Shoop, pastor of Grace M. E. church, has not yet announced his plans, neither is the pulpit supply committee ready to make its announcement.

Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace church, has not decided upon his summer plans except that he will be away during August. Rev. Elory Bowers, the curate, having had his vacation, will be at home all summer to look after the work of the parish.

Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, has not yet announced his plans for the summer. He will be away the four Sundays in August and the first Sunday in September. Rev. L. R. Howard, of Hope chapel, will be at home during the summer and will attend to all work of the Crescent Avenue church parish, while Dr. Zelie is away. The supplies for the Sundays of August will be as follows: Rev. L. R. Howard, of Hope chapel; Rev. J. A. Ingham, of New Brunswick; Rev. J. Lovell Murray, of Summit; Rev. Mr. Schultz, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Rev. J. W. Musson, pastor of the Temple Baptist church, is another one of the pastors who has not decided on the place for spending his vacation, neither has all the supplies been arranged for. The committee will announce the list within a few days.

Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss pastor of the First Baptist church, has arranged to spend his vacation in Europe, chiefly in the British Isles. He has several appointments to preach in England and Scotland. He will be away during August and the first of September. The list of supplies will be announced in a few days.

Rev. George A. Warner, rector of Holy Cross church, is spending his vacation at Camp Comfort, Hedges Lane, N. Y., where he has opened a camp for boys. Rev. C. H. Mallery, rector of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, has arranged to look after Mr. Warner's work, together with his own, while the latter is away. Rev. Morgan Ashley, rector of St. Stephen's church, has not decided upon his plans as yet. Rev. C. L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church, is not ready to make his announcement, his plans not be-

(Continued on page 8.)

FOURTH IN THE SUBURBS

New Market, Dunellen and South Plainfield to Have Celebrations.

PROGRAMS ARE ANNOUNCED.

Baseball, Athletics Generally, Dancing, Band Concerts and Fireworks to Comprise the Entertainments.

While Plainfield is enjoying a safe and sane Fourth of July, the suburbs will celebrate the day in gala style. New Market, South Plainfield and Scotch Plains have all planned athletic and other events that bid fair to attract large numbers of Plainfielders to the border towns next Monday.

At South Plainfield the celebration will be held in the afternoon and in the evening. At 1.30 o'clock a ball game will be played, followed by a field meet. Among the events scheduled in this field meet are the following: 60 yard dash for juniors, 100 yard dash for seniors, running broad jump, standing broad jump, shot put, 220-yard run, three legged race, two mile bicycle race, and an aquatic feature in the nature of a canoe race. Dancing, too, will be a feature to interest many. This will be held in the afternoon and evening in a covered pavilion. A Perth Amboy orchestra has been engaged to furnish the music. Refreshments will be served on the grounds and drawings for the events will be taken at 10 a. m. One of the features of the day will be the shot put by William Hamilton. Mr. Hamilton challenges any one in the country to meet him in this event—not excepting Donald Fitzgerald, the unknown athlete who took the laurels from Hamilton, on July 4, 1908. This feat is still talked about in South Plainfield social circles and on Wall street where Mr. Fitzgerald is a broker in railroad bonds.

At New Market Friendship Council, Jr. O. U. A. M. will be in charge of the celebration. The order has arranged an aquatic and athletic program. The athletic events include running races and other field athletics and the aquatic events include boat and tub races. The affair will be held in Vail's grove. Refreshments will be served on the grounds, and a special band has been engaged to furnish music. Fireworks will be a feature in the evening.

The program at Scotch Plains includes a baseball game, athletic events and fireworks in the evening. Such orchestra of this city will furnish the music for the celebration there.

MISS FLORENCE COLEY, GRAHAM GIDDES' BRIDE.

Mrs. Florence Emma Coley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emiel Coley, of 317 Somerset street, and Graham Giddis, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Giddis, of 180 Duer street, were married at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, in the presence of a company of relatives and friends. Rev. Ora J. Shoop, pastor of Grace M. E. church, officiated.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Ines Coley, while George Giddis, Jr., brother of the groom, was best man. Following the ceremony, an informal reception was held and the couple received congratulations. After a short wedding trip the couple will reside in the borough.

To Wed in Rome.

Anton Sylvester, a 24-year-old graduate of the University of Rome, who came to America this spring, claimed his bride, Miss Domenica Rock, of Richmond street, Saturday and departed Sunday for New York, from which place he and Miss Rock will sail with Mrs. Rock for Italy. As soon as they arrive in Italy the couple will be married. The wedding will be a military one, for Mr. Sylvester holds a post in the army.

Will Visit the Pope.

Mr. and Mrs. David T. Kenney and children, left today on the Steamship Adriatic for Europe. They will be abroad some time. While away they will go to Rome, where they will be received by Pope Pius X. Mr. Kenney is now a member of the Papal household, and this will be his first visit to the Vatican since the honor was conferred upon him by the Pope.

Lecturing in the West.

Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire, of the Park Avenue Baptist Church, left on Monday for Iowa, where he will deliver several lectres this week. During Mr. Maguire's vacation in July and August he will deliver lectures in fourteen different states.

RUNYON BIBLE CLASS MEMBERSHIP CONTEST

The William N. Runyon Bible Class Association of Hope Chapel, at its regular meeting, last night, decided to divide itself into two bands, one called the reds, under the leadership of James Penny, and the other the whites under the leadership of Arthur Fluck, for the purpose of conducting a membership contest. The bands will have until September 25 to increase the membership by this means.

At the termination of the contest, the losing side will give a watermelon supper to the winning band and the new members. A committee comprising Charles Vincent, George Broadbent, Harry Keen, W. S. Terry and Allen Snyder, with the executive committee of the class was appointed to complete arrangements for a chicken supper for which a small charge will be made. The proceeds will go toward the H. C. Squires' Memorial Fund.

Announcement was also made that an industrial fair will be held the latter part of October under the auspices of the ways and means committee, and a committee was appointed to represent the association.

THOMAS M. MUIR'S RAM'S HORN CAMP

Having declined some flattering offers to do a turn in vaudeville at various houses in this State and in New York, Thomas M. Muir, who was stricken blind, a year ago, while a member of the reportorial staff of The Daily Press, will conduct a model camp for young men during the summer months. Mr. Muir, who has had much experience in camp life, has leased one of the ideal spots at Lake Hopatcong and has christened it "Ram's Horn Camp."

Already, Mr. Muir has registered a number of guests but his accomodations are limited and his bookings are still open. Any young man, of good character who wants to enjoy camp life during his vacation, will be welcome at Ram's Horn. The rates are reasonable; the food fine, and the entertainment "immense." When it comes to having a good time, Tom calls that line his home and he assures the Daily Press readers that there will not be a dull moment at his resort.

Mr. Muir left today with his good cook, Archie Davie, for the camp. If you want his number, address Thomas M. Muir, Ram's Horn Camp, Nolan's Point, Lake Hopatcong. If you want a good time, during your vacation, young man, consult him. Tommie says that he has instructed Archie to fill up his larder every Saturday night because he intends to make a feature of his Sunday dinners. He says Sunday excursionists will be accommodated at his resort and they will not go away hungry nor with the feeling that they have not had their money's worth in the line of entertainment.

Y. W. C. A. Officials' Vacations.

Miss Margaret Mosher, physical director of the Y. W. C. A. will leave next week for her annual vacation. She may spend a part of the time at Silver Bay with the delegation from this city, but most of the time will be spent at her home in Oberlin, Ohio. Her vacation will extend until September. Miss Amy Tapping, the secretary, will begin her vacation, August 1.

Sunday School Teachers' Picnic.

The Plainfield Graded Sunday School Teachers' Union met at the Y. W. C. A., Monday afternoon. Miss Edna French taught the beginners' lesson; Mrs. J. A. Powlison the primary lesson and Miss Ida Spicer the junior lesson. The annual picnic of the Union will be held tomorrow at the home of Mrs. C. Frank Prench on Washington avenue.

Stole Shoes from Coal Office.

The Rogers coal office at Dunellen was entered by burglars last night and six pairs of shoes were stolen. Shoes, in addition to other sundries are sold at the coal office. Entrance was gained by a rear window. Mr. Rogers notified the police of the theft this morning but so far there is no clue to the burglar.

Juniors Going to Church.

The members of Franklin, Somerset, Benevolent and Plainfield Councils, Jr. O. U. A. M., will attend divine services at Grace M. E. church, Sunday night, when the pastor, Rev. Ora J. Shoop, will preach a patriotic sermon.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Beebe, of Stelle avenue, are at Easthampton, L. I., for the summer.

PLAYGROUND SUPERVISOR

Miss Harriet Moe Chosen by the Commission for the Position.

ANOTHER YET TO BE NAMED.

The Apparatus Placed at Bryant and Stillman School Yards—Places to Be Opened in the Afternoons.

One supervisor for the Bryant School playground was chosen by the Playground Commission at its meeting last night. She is Miss Harriet Moe, who was chosen after careful consideration from about seventeen applicants and fulfills all of the commission's exacting requirements for the post.

Miss Moe has had four years experience as a playground supervisor in New York city playgrounds and is a teacher in Public School No. 8, New York. In the words of Secretary Herbert Parker, she is "easily the best qualified of all the applicants who have been considered by the commission." Miss Moe is a sister-in-law of Rev. Elory Bowers, of the Grace P. E. church.

The other supervisor for the Stillman School playground will be chosen sometime this week. Preparations for the opening of the playgrounds next Tuesday will have been completed then. The Board of Education has granted the commission power to erect drinking fountains for the children, and has agreed to open the school toilets for their use during the summer.

The apparatus to be used is in position and the grounds have been cleared up and put in condition for the opening. The rules of the playgrounds will be posted in a conspicuous place in each one. These are of a simple nature, and relate to the opening and closing of the grounds. This c'ause states that the playgrounds will be open from 2 to 6 o'clock in the afternoon. The playgrounds will be open only on week days. Other clauses relate to the conduct of the children.

MEADOWVIEW KENNELS MAKES A GREAT SWEEP.

At the North Jersey Kennel Club show held at "Vales Ronald," the beautiful country seat of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Conklin, at Morris Plains, the Meadowview Kennels won first open and first winners, dogs, with Meadowview Gleam O'Dawn, and first open, first winners, bitches, with Meadowview Vassar. They also won the English Kennel Club medals, and in the unclassified specials the medal for best bred and owned by one exhibitor as well as the White Star trophy offered by Mrs. A. R. Dodd, of Long Branch, for best brace of any one breed; the Dr. A. C. Daniel special for best sporting dog; the James Watson trophy for best brace; it making the third time these kennels have won this special. They also won the North Jersey Kennel Club cup for best sporting dog.

Closing Up Restaurant Business.

The restaurant formerly conducted on North avenue by Charles Miltner, has been closed up and today a chattel mortgage sale is being held. George Valentine, who at one time was proprietor of the place, sold out to Mr. Miltner, taking a chattel mortgage. The latter was unable to make the business a success and decided to close. P. H. Latourette is conducting the sale. Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., represents Mr. Valentine and Francis J. Blatz is looking for Mr. Miltner's interest.

Adjutant Jackson to Lead.

Adjutant Jackson of the industrial department will be in charge of the meeting tonight at the Salvation Army tent. He will speak on the topic, "We are not saved." The adjutant requests that friends of the army who have been contributing their waste to kindly drop a postal, or 'phone if possible, to the Home and the wagon will be sent out promptly. The driver will furnish postal cards.

Census Takers to Get $88.

Local young men who took the census between April 15 and 30 will receive their pay for the work some time next week. The vouchers have been forwarded to Washington and payment has been started alphabetically. The compensation is 2½ cents for each name and 10 cents for live stock in stables.

Two Bands of Music.

There will be two bands of music at the lawn festival to be held at Warren chapel, tomorrow afternoon and evening, and the women of the chapel who have the affair in charge promise many attractive features.

TRADE BOARD MEETING

Municipal Affairs Discussed by Men of Great Experience.

FREE BATHS & BOOKS NEEDED.

Former Mayor of New Brunswick and An Ex-Senator Present Their Views.

More than a hundred men braved the heat to attend the meeting of the Board of Trade in Coward's hall Thursday and were well repaid for trouble. Former Mayor Charles Viennan, of New Brunswick, and former State Senator, Otis T. Bryan, of Baltimore, spoke on municipal matters and local government. Members from boards of trade in Elizabeth, Westfield and Somerville were present and discussed informally proposed legislation and other pertinent topics. Mayor Sanford, of Dunellen, paid his respects to his critics including Michael Gallagher who appears to be the thorn in the Mayor's side.

It was announced at the close of the meeting that in the fall the first subjects to be taken up by the board will be the review of the local fire department, tax assessments and the city Clerk's office. An investigation of the statue of the present incumbent his emoluments and duties will be started.

Music was furnished for the occasion by Messrs. Scholte and Schafer, of Berkeley Heights, and refreshments were served at ten o'clock.

Former Mayor Viehmann's speech was received with acclamations of applause. He recited the conditions existing previous to his term of office and the remedies he applied without consulting the men against whom he made an uphill fight. The result of his exhibition of backbone is the splendid condition of the city of New Brunswick today. Clean streets, better pavement, improved sanitary conditions, everything in fact that goes to make a city beautiful has been accomplished through perseverance and economy practised in all departments of the city.

Referring to wastefulness of money as practised in this country the speaker quoted the figures showing the expense of maintaining the fire departments of Berlin, Germany and that of Chicago. The former, he declared, last year cost $249,000 to maintain while the fire losses amounted to $215,000. Chicago's fire department cost that city during the same period $4,000,000 and fire losses were above $5,000,000.

Mr. Bryan's speech, full of splendid advice on municipal matters opened the eyes of the men to certain things which can be done in cities where men of the calibre of the Board of Trade members are interested in the progress of their city. He advocated a unity of endeavors in all affairs pertaining to the betterment of the city: suggested free baths and free school books in the public schools; play grounds properly equipped and told the members that by a concerted effort all their aims could be accomplished without trouble.

Two new members were elected and a vote of thanks extended to the speakers of the evening. The board will not meet again until the first Thursday in next September.

HERE AND THERE.

The story of how a local patrolman purchased a fine breed Scotch collie dog, the registry tag, which lost the canine, inserted an advertisement in The Daily Press for its return and recovered the dog only to learn that the collie did not belong to him, is one of the most amusing of the summer season. The patrolman purchased the collie from a friend and immediately afterward invested $2.50 in a license tag.

A few days later the dog ran away and in response to an advertisement inserted in The Daily Press, the collie was returned to him. At the same time the real owner of the dog saw the advertisement and calling at the address given in the advertisement informed the patrolman that the animal belonged to him. Giving undisputable evidence of the fact the dog was turned over to the rightful owner. The only consolation left for the patrolman is the price of the advertisement, which was returned to him by the owner of the canine.

The Fourth at P. C. C.

In view of the generous response on the part of the members in subscribing to the affair, the Plainfield Country Club has decided to hold an elaborate celebration of Independence Day at the club from 4 to 11 o'clock. George S. Clay is chairman of the committee. VanBaar's Old Guard Band, of New York, will play afternoon and evening and for dancing after the fireworks. Dinner will be served at the clubhouse at 6:45 o'clock and requests for reservations of tables may be made to John Hilton, superintendent.

—Constitutionalist's ads. pay.

BORO HIGH GRADUATION

Rev. Dr. C. A. Eaton as Commencement Speaker Says "Watch, Fight, Pray."

DIPLOMAS GIVEN TO TWENTY.

Yale Cup Presented by Judge Ranyon to Preston Dunning—The Valedictory and Salutatory.

No greater compliment could have been given to the teachers of our public schools than that paid to them Friday night by Rev. Dr. Chas. A. Eaton in his address before the class of 1910 of the North Plainfield High School. Dr. Eaton declared that he considered the calling of the school teacher the highest paid employee of the State. Because they are the most patient, and untiring class of people in the world they are entitled to the highest consideration. Their influence does not end with the exit of the child from the school, but it goes on from year to year, always working for the good of the pupil in whatever sphere of life he or she enters.

Preston Markham Dunnning received the cup presented by the Yale Club for supremacy in study and icles and the period of the Renaissance, everything touched yh the hand was turned into thing of beauty. Sculpture and art absorbed the people's thoughts. In the Middle Ages, the palaces and cathedreis were perfected and beautified. The Elizabethan Age left us its heritag in matchless literature. The creative instinct of the eighteenth century found expression in music which will probably never be surpassed in the future. All generations have loved the beautiful to some extent and monuments, statues, coins and other works of art they have left behind, proves it.

This age is known as a scientific and practical age, deeply interested in things that pertain to the mind and in invention. It is only natural that the practical age should have its influence upon the art of its people. This influence is seen in its tendency to make art more practical, more democratic. Today it has been said that one fourth of man's labor satisfies the demand for food and raiment. The remainder of his time is spent in beautifying the home. Art now has ceased to limit its influence to the favored few. It is widespread through all the cities. Its influence has been felt in every cottage. In former ages when art flourished, only temples and cathedrals were beautified. The streets of Athens were narrow and dark, without side-walk or pavement. The majority of her homes were made of sun-dried bricks, with only a mat or rough floor of dirt and rooms bare of beauty, athletics. Judge William N. Runyon presented the cup accompanying the gift with a witty speech. After the invocation by Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson, Miss Mabel Townley delivered the salutatory address, the text of which follows:

Members of the Board of Education, Teachers, Parents and Friends, the class of 1910 extends to you a hearty welcome to its commencement exercises. We have come to the climax of our school course; we have now come to the end of those four long years of preparation for life. We are glad to see you here tonight for we realize that your presence is a manifestation of the interest you feel in us.

Of all the instincts of men, none is more deeply rooted than his desire to beautify his work and possessions. Every line, color and form which have come down to us from the many ages, we see this instinct expressed in statuary, architecture, music, poetry and paintings. This desire for the beautiful represented in a way best suited for its purpose, we designate by the general term of art. The painting which conveys a beautiful thought best expressed in color, is worthy art. The music which stirs the emotions impossible to produce by any other medium is art. The poem which inspires us as neither line nor color or any other medium could do, is art.

In Greece and Italy at two periods in their history, the periods of Pericles in that age, beauty was too precious to be wasted on the common people.

This age is distinguished for the diffusion of art as a means of universal culture as it is for its love of liberty and invention. The time has come when an artist no longer concentrates his skill upon a single picture or statue; he distributes his genius upon ceilings and walls of libraries and halls and sleeping rooms. Man labors not that he may live, but that he may live beautifully.

We live in a pragmatic age when everything is tested by the question, "What is it worth?" If art is not able to meet its test, then many will say that it is useless. To them a thing of beauty must be more than a joy forever or it will be considered a waste of time. Looking at art form the lowest standpoint—the financial one—we see that it has a definite value for every man and corporation. The humble clerk dressing a show window and the wealthy firm lavishing thousands yearly on its advertising, must each employ art's principle to succeed. In the commercial war which nations wage ever more keenly, it is the man behind the designer's pencil who leads towards supremacy.

But another and higher value that art has, is its moral influence—the effect of the beautiful upon the character of the beholder. This principle is now recognized by our social settlement workers and they are trying to introduces the beautiful in art and music in the tenement districts. Instead of fighting sin, they are teaching love of purity by appealing to the sense of beauty and harmony. Men who have surrounded by beauty, begin to feel the incongulty of living like savages or slaves in their spiritual life. For the modern youth who is educated to appreciate beauty, to become a reeling drunkard or thief seems a grievous form of sin against the law of the eternal fitness of things. The distribution of the beautiful in daily life unconsciously is an incitement toward beautiful thoughts and a beautiful character and a barrier against ugliness of mind and the deformity of morals.

Another important work that art has accomplished to-day is the training of good citizens. Men and children are taking fore interest in the appearance of their cities and towns than ever before. This movement has been felt in the European countries for some time but America is just awakening to its importance. Among those who have essayed to fill the child's mind with direct and definite knowledge about his own country through acquaintance with its true history and meaning, we may first mention Boston and its Old South Work. Many meetings have been held in this church for the purpose to excite by educational methods, loyalty to Boston, inspiring a true appreciation of local history. Since 1894 New York has had a City History Club which has been called a Kindergarten of Citizenship—having for its object—"The Study of the History of New York" in the hope of awakening an interest in its traditions and in the possibilities of its future. One of the most systematic wik work towards good citizenship is being done by St. Louis. Here it has been introduced into the public schools and has become a regular part of the school work. Prizes have been offered on essays on beautifying the city and for home gardening. And that the fourth of man's labor satisfies the demand for food and raiment. The remainder of his time is spent in beautifying the home. Art now has ceased to limit its influence to the favored few. It is widespread through all the cities. Its influence has been felt in every cottage. In former ages when art flourished, only temples and cathedrals were beautified. The streets of Athens were narrow and dark, without side-walk or pavement. The majority of her homes were made of sun-dried bricks, with only a mat or rough floor of dirt and rooms bare of beauty.

One of the most hopeful signs of our country is the new enthusiasm for the beautiful. We are told that there are more than twelve thousand American students of art residing in Paris. This number exceeds the sum total of the students of all other nationalities.

It must be that, as true art is never fixed but always flowing and developing, we may in time develop a new art along distinctively national lines that may place us upon a higher plane than many of the older nations.

After a well rendered song by the High School chorus Miss Henrietta Englehardt gave the valedictory address:

Our country has been saved for us, not without much loss of life, and it is our duty to use it wisely, and not leave it barren for future generations. Conservation opposes the waste of natural resources, and believes in a business-like and far-sighted management of our country's possessions. It stands against private monoply, and holds to the opinion that every American citizen should have a fair benefit from these resources both now and hereafter.

The great National resources are the forests, the water powers, the mineral deposits, and the soil. They belong to the people, and it is the sacred trust of the Government to protect them for the people. But this cannot be done if there is not National ownership of National resources, and if the resources sold or given away. The Federal Government has given away much land in small lots to settlers, who would cultivate the soil, and build up a prosperous agricultural district. It has also given large tracts to railway corporations, who found it the way easier for settlers. This method has been found every satisfactory since it is not the material resources, but the proper utilization of them, which build up our nation. But we cannot call it the homestead policy, when valuable water powers are given away to capitalist under the pretense of giving quarter-sections to settlers, and when great corporations receive mineral lands, ten and twenty times as large as a quarter-section. The corporations pay small and often insufficient wages to actual settlers, and become very rich at the expense of the community. Nearly two-thirds of the public domain has gone over to private ownership. Some has been properly settled, and developed, but too much has passed into the possession of corporations.

The navigable value of our streams has become of slight importance in comparison with their value as tranamitters of motive power, hydraulic and electric, thus economizing our failing coal supply. Falling water is our greatest unfailing source of power. Therefore, if a few men monopolize it, as it is feared, since it is passing so rapidly into private ownership, they will control industrial labor as well. Moreover in spite of the manifold value of our streams, the mountains are being recklessly deprived of their timber, thus impairing our waterwheels. The lack of growth permits the water to descend more freely, and in 1908 the power plant of the city of Augusta, Ga., for the first time in the fifty years of its operation, was disabled by the floods of the Savannah River.

In New York State for the sake of preserving the timber, the New York Forest, Fish and Game Commission has condemned for the purpose of purchasing, forty three thousand acres of private woodlands. They were justified in this action on account of the determination of a paper-making and power-owning company to build a railway through this property and found a town. In doing this the lands would be denuded and the nearby possessions of the State exposed to fire. Those whose lands have been taken must receive a fair price for them, but they have demanded almost sixty-nine dollars an acre on an average. And these the State has been accustomed to obtain for less than ten dollars an acre.

Our soil is a very important resource, since agriculture stands foremost as a support of the nation. It is realized now that, as James J. Hill says, when the forests are all gone down and the mines are nothing but empty holes in the ground, our farm lands will be capable of renewing the bounty forever. The soil is far better here than in Germany, yet we produce fourteen bushels an acre to their twenty-eight. Does this show that our soil is being properly cared for? As our population is developed, the question of how to meet the increasing demand for food would be answered, the price of food would be cheaper, and the wealth of the Nation increased. The Forest Service can be of use in this work, since the floods cannot carry the soil away that is held by the mountainsides and are not left deforested, and water can be stored in the roots, and deep soil for irrigating arid lands.

During the past few years a movement has been started for conserving our natural resources. While Theodore Roosevelt was Governor of New York, the question of the conservation of the Adirondack forest, and some bills with reference to the water power in the Adirondacks were brought before him. Feeling that he should have definite facts for guidance he sent for Mr. Pinchot who advised him to consult the white Frederick A. Newell, since Mr. Newell had recently made investigations along that line. These two men were a great help to Mr. Roosevelt, and finally in January, 1900, New York State and the Federal Government made an agreement, which allowed the latter to make a systematic examination of the streams of that State, and to find out the ture of that State, and to find out the ture he became President. Mr. Roosevelt wished to discuss the subject further, so summoned Mr. Newell and Mr. Pinchot. Later, the President appointed these two men with W. A. Richards as a Public Land Commission. This commission deserves as much credit as the Governors' Meeting at the White House in arousing a desire for reform legislation, which has caused the present National movement for the conservation of our natural resources.

The movement has not progressed rapidly on account of many hindrances and delays. At the Conference of the Governors, it was decided that a careful investigation should be made into the condition of our resources in order that there might be some foundation upon which o base a plan for their proper utilization. This plan was never carried out. An amendment was made to the bill which cut off all the funds of the commission, and forbade any government employee to assist it in his official service. As a result, the Conservation has been greatly handicapped in doing the work laid out for them.

The head waters of half our streams are found in a small area in the Appalachian Mountains. This section contains very few vested interest of much value, and its hardwood forest protects the water-sheds. Yet the plan which was considered for a short time, of making an Appalachian Park has been completely abandoned.

An example of what has been done in conservation and its excellent results is shown in California. The San Bernadino Range in Southern California is encircled by the range from which it derives its name. The few streams from the mountain supply a thousand irrigation ditches, fill the artesian basin beneath the surface of the valley, and running on to the sea pass through Riverside and Orange counties. Since these streams have to supply so many, water is very scarce and much money has been spent in attacking and defending water rights. At last the people have awakened to the fact that the lack of water comes from the condition of the source of their water supply. Every winter, great quantities of heavy rain down the deforested mountain slopes, and flooding the lowlands in Orange County are wasted. A few men from the three counties spent their own money in preventives from fire, and in a nursery which now raises millions of young trees annually. This method was not quick enough, and in order to save this flood-water for the natural reservoir, they bought a square mile of land on the debris cone of the Santa Ana River, built a head-gate and diverting system, and turned the water on this quare mile. The land, consisting of sand and gravel quickly absorbed the water, which percolates in this way into the gradually worked its way into the artesian basin. As a result the water plane of the basin has risen one foot, at a time when it usually becomes lowered. This mass of water is worth $200,000 to these people.

The importance of the conservation of our natural resources is a duty to which the country is awakening. There is the conservation of other resources which is important. I mean by this the conservation of our individual powers. If we do not preserve our health, we cannot make active and energetic citizens. Some of the most common ways of impairing our nervous and intellectual energy are by needless worry, lack of self control and tendency to nourish our passions, hate, or than to overcome them. Our physical strength is also needlessly dissipated. The injuries caused by using drugs, headache remedies, tobacco and intoxicating drinks cannot be overdrawn.

It is fitting that the man who started the movement for the conservation of our natural resources should also present the grandest example of the value of conserving the natural powers. He has not saved his energy for selfish aims, but that his life might be of the greatest use and service to his country men. Let his example stand before each one of us, urging us ever to devote our personal moral and physical powers to the welfare of our fellowmen, wherever duty may direct our lives.

Classmates of 1910, the time has come for us to say farewell. These four long years we have striven side by side, developing our souls and bodies together, but at last we are to leave the harboring arm of our Alma Mater, and say farewell to all that has been most dear to us for the past four years. We go from school life through which we have been carefully guided and enter life's school, where the responsibility will be largely our own. Even if that words are inadequate to express our gratitude to our principal, teachers, superintendent and Board of Education, who have provided all the interests that we here enjoy. Classmates, may our future life prove that we were worthy of the interest that it has been to us. May we ever advance! And now, whether we are to enter higher institutions of learning, business or home life, let us stand firm in our motto, "Successus constantia." Let us be true to ourselves and faithful to our school. And now farewell—to each dear member of our class we say farewell.

Another song by the chorus preceded the principal address of the evening by Dr. Eaton.

In his opening words Dr. Eaton said that Plainfield must be a splendid place because it was so near to Washington. Everybody in Plainfield ought to be thankful that they were so near to and yet not quite over the line. After congratulating the graduates Dr. Eaton said in part: "The home, church and school form the blessed trinity of our country. He who would work against it is a traitor and he who works for its support is the greatest of patriots. We ought to remember our great natural resources more perhaps than we do, but let me say to you young women that you ought to get married just as soon as you can or at least as soon as you can support a family (laughter). Another thing I want to impress upon you is that you ought to be just as good in the dark as you are in the light. Remember that no sect holds the key which opens the door to God.

"The problem of education today is not so great as it was twenty years ago. Then there were difficulties which modern science has overcome and today we stand in a more brilliant light and we see more clearly. But it must be remembered that success does not come easily. No, we must fight for it. Let us teach our boys to fight. Fight hard for what they want. The elemants of a rugged manhood must be retained in order to attain success in whatever vocation or profession youth enters. I am in favor of making the school teacher the best paid officer of our modern civil life. The great influence the teacher wields over the lives of the youth of our land is conceivably the greatest thing we can boast of. I give you a text on which to base your future lives, but you will have to search the Scriptures to locate it. 'Watch, Fight and Pray.'

"Remember, too, that when you are conscious of having done something for somebody else you are happy. It is this consciousness of good works which is the real source of happiness. But it is not what you do that counts so much as what you are. What we need today is men, men who are willing to lose money for the thing that is right. Don't imitate. I want to see the growth of individuality in both men and women. The man who indulges in the luxury of doing without a religion is like a broken electric light wire. He fails to connect himself with the universe or with God. Come into the valley if you want to see life. Leave the city and get out into communion with nature and God. O, yes, come over into the valley where the sky is the element, the very source of everything beautiful."

The Plainfield Theatre was filled when the exercises began. On the stage with the twenty graduates were superintendent of schools, H. C. Krebs, Principal Benjamin J. Phelps; Nelson A. Miller, president of the Board of Education; Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson and Dr. Eaton. The boxes on both sides of the theatre were occupied and the stage setting was a bower of green.

These received diplomas:

Harold Emerson Bailey, Lillian Maude Bolton, William Russell Conroy, Douglas Wilson Demler, Edna Augusta Diltz, Preston Markham Dunning, Henrietta Alice Englehardt, Helen Carr George, Margery Godden Hart, Stella Kline, Anna Louise Layton, Edmond John LaPorte, Lillian Frances Mundy, Dorothy Dewhurst Randall, Edythe Bibble Schenck, Anneta Martin Steiner, Mabel Townley, Ruth Weinberger, Henrietta Jacobs Winn and Leon Peter Zeglio.

TALCOTT WILLIAMS' TALK

Editor Tells of the Aims and Results of the High School System.

AT P. H. S. COMMENCEMENT.

Distinguished Philadelphian Dwells on the Advantages and Shortcomings of the Public Scheme of Education.

The importance of the public high school; its inferiority in some important aspects to the endowed private institution; and some commendable features of the Plainfield High School formed the basis of the address by Talcott Williams, L. H. D., editor of the Philadelphia Press, to the graduating class of the Plainfield High School Thursday. Dr. Williams has been an interested follower of the activities of the City High School for some time past. He was a classmate of Dr. Henry M. Maxson at Amherst, and for several years past has been reading the Oracle year books.

In one generation the public high school system has grown forty fold; the endowed academy has grown hardl yat all. Today the majority of men prepared for college come from high schools; and of the men dropped from the college rolls for inefficiency are most private schools; while from the public high school there are only one in eight. The public school is the stream which decides the course of the nation. The endowed academy exacts a feeling of tradition, of strong school spirit from its students that the public high school does not. This is the question confronting the public high school. Can it graduate men with a strong feeling and love for the institution? It is this that makes public spirit. Education recognizes a public responsibility imposed on it; and unless a sense of enthusiasm is well established in school it is doubtful if ever it will be. You must feel that atmosphere of your institution. Can the high school do this? The spirit of which I speak," he said, "has been manifested to me many times in the year books of the Plainfield High School which I always read with pleasure.

The three jewels in the crown of the American republic are: Initiative, self education and social service. They are conspicuous American qualities. If one is any one thing that distinguishes Roosevelt, it is initiative.

"Let me congratulate you," he said, interrupting his talk, "on the athletic field that you are to have. In athletics you get a strong sense of team play—a willingness to abide by the decision of the impartial umpire. If the youth doesn't learn to obey the decisions of the umpire the man will not learn to abide by the decisions of the courts. It is a good thing to enter life with a strong sense of team play.

Self education is a distinct American trait. Lincoln is the most conspicuous example of the self educated man; but today we want men who will continue their studies after school and college. And of social service! If you drink the wine of social service you will never have to drink the water of narrowed, self-centered interests.

"The graduates tonight have received impulses towards all three of the virtues I have mentioned. Now they must realize that education is responsibility, not merely privilege."

BORO HIGH CLASS DAY

Senior's Entertainment at Debele's Hall Attended by Big Crowd.

PICTURES FOR THE SCHOOL.

Russell Conroy, the Class President, Makes Address of Welcome—A Skit Proved To Be Real Funny.

Class Day exercises of the North Plainfield High School attracted friends and relatives to Debele's hall, where they were held, in such numbers last night that even standing room was at a premium. The exercises were unique in character and included a one-act skit, "A Perplexing Situation."

The exercises formerly opened by the address of welcome of Russell Conroy, president of the class. This was followed by the skit. The plot was very funny and the parts of the young women were especially well taken. Middleton, a miserly individual, offers $75 to several young women if they can remain silent for twenty-four hours. They agree to do so. Suitors come to propose, relatives and neighbors call, but all get no answers from the young women. This unique situation gave opportunity for many amusing incidents. The young women win out though and get their money.

The cast consisted of Douglas Demler, Henrietta Englehardt, Edmond LaPorte, Dorothy Randall, Ruth Weinberger, Anneta Steiner, Mabel Townley, Edythe Schenck, Preston Dunning, Edna Diltz, Pierson Bailey, Leon Zeglio, Russell Conroy.

The regular class day features came in the second part of the program. The history was given by Miss Stella Kline and the class poem by Miss Edythe R. Schenck. The class prophecy was then given in the disguise of an informal conversation by the Misses Helen George and Louise Layton.

Russell Conroy, president of the class, then presented two framed pictures of the chief American authors to the school. They were received by Principal Benjamin Phelps on behalf of the school. He expressed a wish that the authors in the pictures be more evtensively read by all who were present.

The class statistics compiled in a recent voting contest were then given by Miss Henriette Winn. As she read them off, her classmates who were grouped around the platform in a semi-circle, rose as their names were called out. Paper medals were awarded.

The class song "The Green and Gold," written by Miss Anetta Steiner, was then sung by the class. This was followed by the class yell under the direction of Preston Dunning.

When the floor was cleared for dancing the decorations were thrown into stronger relief. These included college banners on the platform and lavender and white bunting tastefully arranged about the room.

MAY DAY PAGEANT' NET RECEIPTS $1,743

The report of the treasurer of the May Day pageant has been audited and shows a net amount of $1,743.87 having been turned over to J. A. Gavett, treasurer of the Play Grounds Commissioners. The report was submitted by Herbert A. Fowler, who was elected treasurer at the meeting on May 23. The statement includes items as follows:

Recived from ticket sales, $2,665.40; from booths, $461.72; from vooting contest, $881.51; sale of programs, $84.75; advertising in programs, $276.50; hand organ collection, $7.18. Among the greatest items of expense was the payment to the Misses Florance, $793.67, as directors of the pageant and the band, which necessitated an expenditure of $472. The total receipts were $5,377.06 and expenses, $2,633.19.

Talented Violinist Will Play.

Mrs. Theodore White Lillard, of Elmira, N. Y., is visiting her sister, Mrs. Nelson A. Miller, of Washington avenue. Mrs. Lillard is a talented and accomplished violinist, having won distinction in the world of music on several occasions. She has kindly consented to render three selections at the morning service at the First M. E. church, tomorrow. Mrs. Lillard contemplates removing here in the fall and may possibly open a studio.

Gave a Delightful Tea.

Mrs. Daniel R. Sherwood, of 539 East Second street, gave one of a chain of teas at her home Wednesday afternoon. The color scheme was pink and white. There were sixteen guests. A feature was the presentation of a tiny pink and white bouquet to each guest, fashioned and presented by little Gladys Sherwood, who was daintily attired in pink and white. Mrs. Sherwood made a charming hostess.

DIPLOMAS FOR 50 AT P.H.S. COMMENCEMENT

Many Prizes are Also Distributed at the Annual Exercises.

For the second time within two years the Plainfield High School sent forth a record class of fifty young people when the members of the class of 1910 received their much coveted diplomas at the exercises Thursday. These were held in the First Baptist church which was attractively decorated for the occasion. Behind a wealth of greens and aul-

Fred D. Loizeaux.
Class President.

lax and arranged on each side by tall palms were the seats of the graduates ranged in a semi-circle. To the left of them sat the members of the Board of Education, the principal of the High School and the Superintendent of Schools.

When the large audience of relatives and friends had become fairly seated, the orchestra in the balcony struck up the strains of the opening number. Then, entering by both aisles from the front of the church, the graduates proceeded in single file the girls in front and the boys behind them. When they had taken their places on the platform with the girls in front, all eyes became centered on a table near the left end of the platform upon which were piled prizes and diplomas.

Invocation was given by Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring. This was followed by the salutatory address by Miss Margaret Virginia Leggett. She said:

Gentlemen of the Board of Education, Mr. Superintendent, Mr. Best and the members of his faculty,

D. Russell Miller.
Class Treasurer.

Honorable Speaker and Citizens of Plainfield, greetings and salutations from the class of 1910! If you are glad to be here this evening, surely the class of 1910 is doubly glad. "Everything comes to him who will butu work and wait." We have done both, and we have become in one turn the graduating class of the Plainfield High School.

It is a special pleasure to greet the Board of Education. During the four years of our High School course, the board has silently worked beside us, making possible our many advantages. The class of 1910 is the first class to have spent four whole years in the High School building. It was a building well worth waiting for. We have appreciated it and we have appreciated all the good things that you have given us.

Dr. Maxson, you know how much our class loves you. It seems almost useless even to try to express our feelings. Every graduating class has told you of their great admiration, and 1910 shares the unanimous feeling a little more deeply.

And Mr. Best and the members of his faculty! Will it seem wrong to say that we are glad to leave old P. H. S.? Surely not, when one remembers the care which you have taken to prepare us for the future years. We should be glad to leave, to prove our worth and to prove the value of your careful training. To the untiring efforts of Mr. Travell, our principal for three years, we owe a large share of whatever success we may have gained. Mr. Best, you have been a teacher, but better than that, a friend to everyone of us. It has been your first year as principal. Perhaps the class of 1910 sometimes made the waters troubled, but believe us, it was unintentional, and you have our best wishes for many more successful years as principal.

Very gladly do we greet you, citizens of Plainfield. You have helped make us what we are. You have made it possible for us to have the benefit of the best that education has to offer, and it is our fault if we have not taken the proper advantage of our opportunities. We realize that in a few years many of us will become citizens of Plainfield. It will then be only fitting that we should do for others even as you have done for us, and because of what you have done for us, we shall be better able to do for them. We thank you, citizens, for your interest and for your substantial help.

Miss Meta R. Pennock.
Valedictorian.

A rollicking medley by the orchestra was an apt precursor of the address of Talcott Williams, L. H. D., editor of the Philadelphia Press. An account of Mr. Williams' speech will be found in another column.

The small table creaking under the weight of prizes and diplomas was then carried to a conspicuous place on the platform and William S. Tyler presented the prizes to the winners. Much enthusiasm was expressed by the audience when the names of the winners were called out, and the audience gave tangible expression of their good will in the hearty rounds of applause that broke forth each time a young man or a young woman went forward to receive his or her prize. The prizes and their winners follow:

English Composition: I. The George H. Babcock Prize, given by Mrs. George H. Babcock. First prize, $15 expended in books; poems of Tennyson, Browning and Byron, Alice Mary Doane; second prize, $10 expended in books; Scott's Waverly novels, 10 vols., Dorothy Smith; honorable mention, George Murray.

II. The Daily Press Prize, for the best essay on a topic relating to municipal affairs. Prize, $10 in gold, Howard Judson Runyon; honorable mention, Dixon Phillips.

III. Prize for best essay on a given topic, offered by the W. C. T. U. Prize, $5 in gold, Margaret Virginia Leggett; honorable mention, Richard Southgate McIntyre.

Mathematics—The Dr. C. H. Stillman Prize, given by Mr. Wm. M. Stillman. First prize, $15 in gold, Elmer Hunting; second prize, $10 in gold, Edith Whitney; honorable mention, Louis Strong, Frank Schwed.

Translation Prizes—For the best translation of assigned passages, a first prize of three dollars, and a second prize of two dollars, to be expended in books chosen by the receiver of the prize.

Senior French — First prize, Shakespeare's Works, Temple Edition, 7 vols. Bourgeois Gentilhomme, Mollere, Elsie Emery Bird; second prize, Tennyson's Poems, Marguerite Garretson Van Zandt. Honorable mention, Barbara Fleming.

Junior French — First prize, Shakespeare's Works, Temple Edition, 6 vols., Louise Bird; second prize, L'Abbe Constantin and selected stories of Daudet, Elizabeth Hardwicke; honorable mention, Margaret Prescott Vail.

Senior German—First prize, Schiller's Works, Oulda Elizabeth Louise Hetfield; second prize, Shakespeare's Works, 4 vols., Marion Annie Praed; honorable mention—Meta Rutter Pennock.

Junior German—First prize, Milton's Works, Lowell's Works, Helen Eliza Pearce; second prize, Pancoast's Collection of English Poems, Charles Schuck; honorable mention—Herman L. Shrager.

Latin Prizes—Given by Alexander Gilbert:

Vergil—First Prize, Vanity Fair and the Virginians by Thackeray, Elsie Emery Bird; second prize, no award; honorable mention, no award.

Cicero—First Prize, Henry Fifth and Julius Caesar by Shakespeare, Helen Eliza Pearce; second prize, Les Miserables in French and other books in French, Louise Bird; honorable mention—Agnes Scribner.

Caesar—First Prize, Th. Moore's Poems, Nora McDonough; second prize, Browning's Poems, Helen Ryder; honorable mention, Effie Beckman.

Commercial Prizes—Given by Ernest Ackerman. A first prize of three dollars and a second prize of two dollars, to be expended in books.

Bookkeeping—First Prize, Stevenson's Works, 4 vols., John Heron; second prize, Stevenson's Works, 3 vols., Albert Frank Brynlarski; honorable mention, Arthur Henry Zeckendorf.

Typewriting—First prize, Shakespeare's Works, 7 vols. Temple Edition, Ethel Odessa Rogers; second prize, Pancoast's Collection of English Poems, Louisa McCormick; honorable mention, Ethel Madoline Strader.

Stenography—First prize, Shakespeare's Works, 7 vols. Temple Edition, Louisa McCormick; second prize, Shakespeare's Works, 3 vols., Frank Arthur Putnam; honorable mention, Anna Louise Lee.

Amanuensis—First prize, Henry Esmond, The Virginians, Vanity Fair, by Thackeray, Nettie Garretson Stillman; second prize, Browning's Poems, Beulah Miriam VanWinkle.

American History—The Dr. J. B. Probasco Prize, given by Mrs. J. B. Probasco. Prize, $10 in gold, Carter Lyman Goodrich; honorable mention, Harold Woodruff Tomlinson, Henry Morris Zook.

"The Fair Co-Ed" was then rendered by the orchestra after which Miss Meta Pennock gave the valedictory address. At the conclusion of this, she walked a little to the right of the paltform, partially turned towards the members of her class who stood up, and said:

A little hepatica on the barren mountainside struggles up through the gray worn rocks into the air. Hindered in its growth by biting winds and overtowering stones, shielded by the same rough boulders, shaped by the nourishing soil, the faint sun, and March showers, the cramped curls unfold in the brighter April sunshine.

After four long years, surrounded by unconscious influences, our individuality is now developed. We may know the properties of hydrochloric acid, the character of Henry the Fifth, the meaning of a projected line, but these things are only the unrelated details of the picture. Our thoughts, our habits, our moods are now forever ours and will give life its true meaning. The fixative has set the drawing.

For all we may be tonight we thank our friends, our guides. Shall I say we are their shadows? Many things we have willed to do, but after all we are only the reflection of the silent influences about us. The stones, the soil, the rain, the sunshine all have done their work. And somewhere breathes a forest Deity who plans for every one. Against, and with our wills, we have been moulded by the master hand; and we are thankful with all our hearts for the mistakes by which we have learned, for every quirk and turn of our school life, and every self-sacrificing effort.

Yes, class-mates, we have pushed our slender stems through Stygian rocks and breathed ozone under cir-

Miss Margaret V. Leggett.
Vice-president and Salutatorian.

cumstances. Each impression is a blending of combined influences; the thoughts of others have seeped through our ideals and left their traces. By daily friction we have eaded down our sharp corners; lived, and lived happy, together. We have known and loved each other well. "The moving finger writes, and having writ,
Moves on; through all the coming years that flit,
Not lure it back to cancel half a line,
Nor all our tears wash out a word of it."
And the hepatica?

We are pushing out into the great world. The shining sun and blowing wind will bring the flower face to face with blue skies. May our life be as real and true as our thoughts. We do not grow and bloom for mere existence. May we each strive to form a fair flower, cheer a little lonely child, found a happier home, make one hart the blither for our passing,—so—good-night.

When she had finished, the class took their seats again quietly. This was the final act of a class nature as undergraduates; for the next number of the program made them graduates—the presentation of the prized diplomas by Leander N. Lovell, president of the Board of Education. Taking his position to the right of the platform, Mr. Lovell called out the name of each graduate. As he did so, the graduate rose from his seat amid a round of applause received his diploma, bowed and then returned to his seat. At times the applause was unusually hearty; but all got some recognition from the audience. Those who received diplomas are:

Classical Course—Amy Louise Abel, Bessie Alpaugh, Louise Stockton Andrews, Elsie Emery Bird, Muriel Collins, Alice Mary Doane, Lila Pauline Duy, Barbara Fleming, Oulda Elizabeth Louise Hetfield, Ruth Klein, Margaret Virginia Leggett, Meta Rutter Pennock, Theodore Denton Hamilton, Alan Maxwell Overton, Frank Arthur Putnam.

Scientific Course—William Herschel Bullock, Otis Wadsworth Howey, John Andrew Kenney, Thomas Emory Ricketts, John Sebring Riffert, Howard Judson Runyon, Lester Neighbor Sutton.

Modern Language Course—Agnes Estelle Moffett, Marion Annie Praed, Miriam Helen Van Horn, Marguerite Garretson Van Zandt, Celestine Colts Waldron, Grace Trowbridge Woolston.

General Course—Edith Lillian Bush, Edna Maud Cole, Grace Denton Parker, Mary Elizabeth Radford, Helen Louise Smith, Mabel Louise Whitford, Horace Barnard Earle, Frederick Daniel Loizeaux, Dudley Russell Miller, Clifford Burton Vail.

Business Course—Arline Maud Brown, Myra Marguerite Dunavan, Cora Jean Gray, Maud Monzella Greene, Helen McDowell MacCallum, Annie Mauger, Kathryn Romania Moynihan, Ethel Odessa Rogers, Nettie Garrettson Stillman, Beulah Miriam VanWinkle, Harry Brick, Arthur William Johnson.

One of the most interesting of the Class Day features of graduates is the "Will." The following is the heritage given by the class of 1910 of the City High School:

We, the class of 1910, being of sound mind, memory, understanding, and masters of education, do hereby declare this our last will and testament:

First: To the Plainfield High School at large do we give, devise, and bequeath, the honor and pleasure of having fourteen of this great class as Post Graduates, in the High School next year. That is, we leave, in one person, of Miss Bird, an example of what senior dignity ought (?) to be; Lila Duy for the amusement (?) of Miss Bass and Miss Hall; our salutatorian to show them how, where, and when (all winter) to wear a sailor hat; Sally Waldron and that giggle to cheer them on ther weary way; and, last but not least, Miss Fleming to join the ranks of the faculty.

Second: We give and devise to the entire Plainfield High School our share of anticipation in those now famous mythological tennis courts and bicycle sheds.

Third: To we (in pity) leave an extra drawer full of good material for use next year in that worthy institution "The Oracle," and to the Editor-in-chief, we donate a little discretion.

Fourth: We bequeath to all those jolly Friday afternoon "at homes," with their touching melodramatic productions and displays of unknown (yes, quite known) theatrical powers, by Smith, Ramsey, Hardwicke and Conlin to be enjoyed as we have enjoyed them.

Fifth: We give and devise our good example and reputation to be cherished and followed by all those, who in turn, rise to the height of seniors.

Sixth: To the football teams of the coming seasons we bequeath the pleasure of tasting that delicious dirt of the new athletic field, when we, as alumni, meet them there.

Seventh: To the class of 1911, we give, devise, bequeath, donate, and instal upon their taking:

a—The Senior room and the right to try and fill it as we did.

b—The Senior privileges ("and ced").

c—The senior lunch tables and front seats in chapel.

d—The honor of being the first class inflicted by that glorious, future-famed public speaking course. (Here's hoping you get some benefit from it.)

e—The joys of argumentation and versification.

f—The fact that it's up to you to try and beat "As You Like It."

g—The joys of composition and rejection of petitions from your fertile pens.

Eighth: Also to the illustrious Junior Class we donate the challenge to spend as glorious a senior year in old P. H. S. as we have spent, and Ninth: Do we pass on to 1911 the privilege of giving their next inferiors the usual Christmas present, and also the right to raise their gaudy standard to the wind at that gay holiday time.

Tenth: To the class of 1913, we devise the duty of taking our places on the grand-stand of Parker Field and cheering our share for the good old Red and Blue.

Eleventh: We give and bequeath to the class of 1914 the grand and glorious colors of Blue and Gold which we trust will be duly reverenced and carried through the next four years as high and free as we have marshalled them.

Twelfth: To the various colleges and institutions of learning we give the good fortune of having enrolled among their number, those of our class who have chosen, in leaving this happy camping ground, to honor those same dominions with their presence. Yale is particularly fortunate (?).

And lastly, we desire that this document shall be hung on a weeping willow tree, twenty-seven inches from the ground, where all, from the shortest senior to the tallest freshman, may conveniently read and absorb its valuable contents.

Furthermore we nominate and appoint our honored, true and loyal friends, Macbeth and Julius Caesar, as executors of this, our last will and testament, to which we have hereunto set our hands and seal this twenty-first day of June, in the year one thousand nine hundred and ten.

Class of 1910.

Signed,
FRED D. LOIZEAUX, President.
HOWARD J. RUNYON Jr., Sec'y.
Signed, sealed and delivered in the presence of us who hereby affix our signatures,
MINERVA,
GEORGE WASHINGTON.

The ushers were under the direction of Charles B. Morse. They were: Joseph O. Osgood, Jr., Henry Pound, Charles E. Prior, Jr., Walter Knowlton, Leslie Slocum, Stanley Robins and William Lambert.

RECEPTION FOLLOWS GRADUATING EXERCISES

Quite the most successful reception ever give na graduating class was held Thursday night when the classes of 1908 and 1909 gave the annual reception to the class of 1910. Immediately after the exercises the graduates gathered in the High School auditorium where the reception was held. This was attractively decorated for the occasion with college banners, flags, oak boughs, palms, potted plants and cut flowers. The decorations were carried out in the auditorium and in the library especially fitted up for the occasion. The colors conspicuous in the lighting were red and white, the colors of the class of 1908. In the bunting the colors of the graduating class predominated.

A novel feature of the reception this year was a cotillion. This was led by Leslie Stewart and Miss Eva Kelly. Favors were given out by Lindsey Best and Miss Katherine Ball, of the faculty. Two "Paul Jones" were also on the program in addition to the ever popular two-step and waltz. The pleasure of dancing was materially enhanced by the condition of the floor which had been specially prepared and to the music. This was furnished by Suhr's Imperial orchestra, and a splendid program of dance music was given. Encores had to be refused repeatedly by the popular orchestra in order to finish the program on schedule time. A feature of the program was an original composition by Charles Suhr. This was given for the last dance and proved to be immensely popular.

Refreshments were served during the intermission between the parts of the program, by Benjamin Evans. The committee that arranged the affair was composed of William Lambert, Donald Mortimer, Guion Fountain, Richard Harrigan and the Misses Eva Kelly and Ethel Blakeman. Dancing was enjoyed until 2 o'clock this morning.

JEALOUSY CAUSED FIGHT, CITY TREASURY WINS $20

The green eyed monster played the thrilling part in a near tragedy on Thursday night in which Harold St. Reardon, an employee of the United Cigar Stores Co., was the victim. Judge Runyon fined Joseph Reardon and William Morton, whom Platt claimed had beaten him, ten dollars each Saturday morning.

According to the stories told by both complainant and defendants in court Saturday, Miss Addie Harris, of West Front street has decided that she does not wish to continue the friendship of Reardon. Mr. Reardon said to Judge Runyon that he had been "keeping company" with Miss Harris for more than a year, and that they had a spat, but he evidently did not believe that her love had cooled entirely. However, when he noticed that Mr. Platt seemed to be his successor in the affections of Miss Harris, jealousy instigated an assault on the person of Mr. Platt during which Miss Harris fainted on the lawn in front of the house.

The stories told by both Reardon and Morton did not impress the judge as being strictly truthful. Hence the sentence.

Somerset Council's Officers.

At the meeting of Somerset Council, No. 104, Jr. O. U. A. M., last night these officers were elected: councillor, Frank Stodd; vice-councillor, Edward Hughs; recording secretary, Walter C. Walker; assistant recording secretary, Guy Thomas; financial secretary, Jesse M. Schell; treasurer, P. M. Latourette; conductor, Elmer Ganun; warden, Frank McGue; inside sentinel, Ray Lines; outside sentinel, Fred Welsh, and trustee, Guy Thomas.

Howard J. Runyon,
Secretary of the Class and Winner of The Daily Press Essay Prize.

CIVIC TOPIC PRIZE WINNER

Howard J. Runyon's Essay on "Municipal vs Private Ownership."

PLAINFIELD'S WATER SUPPLY.

Judges Selected it From Among Many Submitted as the Best Article on a Current Municipal Subject.

To Howard Judson Runyon falls the honor of having written the best essay on a municipal topic in The Daily Press competition, which was open to all members of the senior class of the Plainfield High School. Many excellent articles on subjects of current interest and agitation were submitted and the judges experienced some difficulty in deciding upon the best, but the decision was finally in favor of Mr. Runyon. The subject of the municipal problem he wrote upon was "Plainfield's Water Supply—Municipal versus Private Ownership." The prize, a ten dollar gold piece, was presented to the winner at the City High School commencement exercises Thursday night. Mr. Runyon's paper follows:

When our early settlers in the sixteen hundreds would ever have dreamed of the water problems that confront our great cities today? In the colonial times all one had to do was to take a bucket and go fetch all the clear sparkling water that he wanted. But how different today! The water in run right into our houses, which is all very nice, but on the other hand the water is no longer free. We are made to pay whatever price the company chooses to charge us.

At the present time, when so many economic questions are brought up and discussed, the water question must be one of the most vital of all the subjects. Shall the city run the water plant or shall some private concern furnish the public with water? This is the problem that faces Plainfield today; it is a question that cannot be answered entirely by statistics; it must be decided by established facts and good sound business judgment. Many theories of perfect municipal government, great estimates of economy, and the like are brought forward but these are of little use in the real solution of the problem.

To begin with, we must determine what the essentials of a good water system are. From the standpoint of the users they are no doubt good water, good service, and low cost. These three essentials must be kept in mind during the discussion of the question. Plainfield is fortunate in having a large source of good water under the city, so that there is no question but that there is a sufficient amount for its own supply for many years; hence the quality of water would be the same whether supplied by public or private concerns, and we need not bring the question of good water up during the rest of the discussion.

Now let us take up the advantages of private control. It is claimed by advocates of private ownership that a private corporation does not pay its employees as much, and works them on longer hours than does a municipality—this means cheaper production. It is estimated that in this way the municipality pays its men from 35 per cent. to 40 per cent. more for the same amount of work than does the private company.

Statistics show that there are also fewer changes in the personnel of the officials in charge of private plants. This is clearly an advantage, for it takes a man a number of years to become thoroughly acquainted with his work and he should become more and more proficient as time goes on because of the experience that he has gained.

The great danger of politics is done away with in a private plant and there are no discriminate cutting of rates for political effect as is sometimes the case under public management.

With private control it is claimed that the cost of water is more fairly divided between the public and private consumers. Under public ownership some cities collect next to nothing in the general tax levy for the support of the water works; while in others, where there is great pressure for low private rates, a large part of the water expenses are met by general taxation.

There is one great argument against municipal control; that is that the city stands too great a risk in establishing or in running a plant. This risk is no doubt greater in establishing a plant than in buying over one and running it. However, many people object to the heavy burden placed upon a city by the purchase of a water station. The following is quoted from "Municipal Public Works," by Mr. Whinery:

"Sound business principals undoubtedly dictate that it is not wise or prudent for municipalities to incur debts of this character if public utilities can be supplied otherwise at reasonable cost. Our American cities are usually sufficiently burdened with other debts that cannot be avoided, and whenever private capital can be induced to provide public utilities upon fair and reasonable terms, it would seem wise to avoid the heavy obligations that municipal ownership must involve."

Now to take up the other side of the question—why is it that 90 per cent. of the cities in the United States having a population of over one hundred thousand people have municipal water supply? It must be satisfactory to the public or the public would not stand for it. Of our fifty largest cities in this country, twenty have changed from private to municipal ownership and twenty-one have always owned their own works.

Even if it does cost a great amount to buy over a water plant cannot the city borrow money at a lower rate than a private corporation? Many cities have taken over properties at great expense and today they have them free and clear. Why cannot Plainfield do the same?

With municipal control there is apt to be less friction between the consumer and the company. The private corporations do not make their accounts public and the marjority of the people as a rule believe that the company is making immense profits. Municipal control usually does away with this feeling, and there is more harmony between the water works and the other city works.

If the city controlled the works, much of the inconvenience and waste caused by tearing up the streets to lay or get at the water pipes could be done away with. The pipes could be laid when the streets are being put in condition.

It is very hard, and often impossible to get a private corporation out of control, once the ahave intrenched themselves behind their franchises. On the other hand a corrupt City Council may be turned out, even if it is with great effort. Plainfield has always been proud of her city government so there should be no fears along this line.

One of the arguments against private control is that with such a plan the stockholders enjoy the profit which under municipal control is enjoyed by the consumer. As the population of a city increases the cost of water per capita decreases, and the consumer should be benefitted by this—not the stockholder.

If Plainfield now pumps water to Westfield and other neighboring towns and we have no power to stop this as long as we are properly supplied. It is a fact that the water under our city is being lowered as much as a foot a year. Why should we give our resources to other cities? Why not make them use their own? When our water supply gives out it is probable that some other city will come along and offer us her supply. Who knows but that at some future time we might be forced to go as far as New York does for her water? If, on the other hand it is wise to sell water outside of Plainfield why should the city not sell the water and reap the profit herself? Surely it is time that this matter was given careful attention and thought.

It is true that we must not proceed in the direction of municipal control of the watre works with too great haste, for many cities have made needless and costly blunders because of imperfect and inadequate knowledge. However if every one of our citizens would make it his business to inform himself on the water question it would be a great benefit to him and also to the city of Plainfield.

Constitutionalist ads. pay.

The Constitutionalist.

AN INDEPENDENT WEEKLY.

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

Terms: $2.00 per year.

Plainfield, N. J., June 30, 1910.

WHITE PLAGUE HOSPITAL FOR THE COUNTY NOT YET

While the freeholders will continue collecting data regarding the maintenance of such an institution so that action can be taken at any time, it was stated authoritatively Wednesday afternoon that the county will not build a tuberculosis hospital this year. J. Hervey Doane, chairman of the committee investigating the advisability of building an institution of this character, when questioned about the matter said that he was afraid the freeholders could not float any more bonds this year.

He said that the committee will obtain as much information regarding a tuberculosis hospital as it can and will prepare for the establishment of an institution for consumptives at any time. He said that such an institution as the one proposed and advocated by the residents of the entire county would eventually be erected, but he would not say that it would be built this year.

Within a few days members of the freeholders' committee will visit the institutions at Glen Gardner and the New York City camp with a view to studying them and learning more of the cost of erecting and maintaining such establishments. It is claimed by the freeholders that a hospital for seventy-five or one hundred patients would be very expensive, and for that reason as much data as possible will be obtained so that a report can be made public before any definite action is taken.

One freeholder said that it will cost about $100,000 to build an institution such as the one in mind and that it will cost, as near as the committee investigating the matter can figure, not less than $75,000 a year to run an institution of a kind that will bring satisfaction. The estimated cost is $10 a week for each patient.

PHYSICIAL DIRECTOR TENDERS RESIGNATION

Physicial Director G. L. Listman has presented his resignation to the Board of Directors of the Young Men's Christian Association. He leaves to accept the call of the Montclair Association to become its physical director. His resignation will be considered at the next meeting of the local Board on Thursday, July 7.

The position offered Mr. Listman by the Montclair Association is exceedingly attractive because of his long experience as an Association worker in the suburban field and because of the problems of organization which the new field presents. He expects to assume his new duties on September 1.

Mr. Listman come to Plainfield from the Twenty Sixth ward branch of the Brooklyn Y. M. C. A. in June, 1906. Prior to entering the service of the Brooklyn Association, where he remained as physical director for three years, he was physical director of the Association at Winsted, Conn., for three years. He has shown marked ability in the conduct of the work of his department of the local Association and is regarded as one of the most efficient of the physical directors who have served it.

PLAYING WITH MATCHES CHILDREN SET HOUSE AFIRE.

Children playing with matches near an oil stove is believed to be the cause of a fire which did about $25 damage at the home of Mrs. J. Kellogg, 273 Watchung avenue Tuesday. Mrs. Kellogg has to go out for work and as a result three children, the oldest of whom is twelve years, are left in the house alone.

About 11:15 o'clock a passerby saw smoke issuing from one of the rear windows. An alarm was turned in and the borough fire department responded, finding some clothes in the kitchen in flames. They extinguished the blaze with chemicals before serious damage was done to the woodwork.

Howard Colby an Editor.

Howard Colby, of Evergreen avenue, makes his first contribution this month as the associate editor of The Self-Masters Magazine. The publication is issued in the interest of Andrew S. Floyd's institution at Union, Union county.

Acknowledging the Responsibility.

"I," stated Mr. Swellhead, pompously, "am a self-made man."

"I hope so, dear," answered his wife, in an icicle voice. "It certainly would be unkind to blame it on anyone else."

ELECTION LAW CHANGES

Some Important Features Relating to Primary and General Elections.

THE AMENDMENTS OF 1910.

Secretary of State Samuel Dickinson Soon to Issue Pamphlet Containing All the Revisions.

Many changes made in the election laws by the legislature of 1910 will be shown in the annual election pamphlets soon to be issued by Secretary of State Dickinson which will interest all Plainfield. They will relate to the acceptance of nominations, the delivery of ballots and ballot boxes to the election officers, the time for filing petitions, a change in the method of printing names of candidates on the ballots, pay for special elections, the publication of notices for the primary election, the return of discarded voting machines to the Secretary of State and other new statutes.

One of the laws changes the time for the filing of the petitions indorsing candidates for any county office. Formerly such petitions were required to be filed with the county clerk at least fifteen days before the primary election. Now they must be filed twenty days before the day for the primary voting. Another change made by this law, which is Chapter 146, is that the county clerk must certify all the nominations to the various municipal clerks at least fifteen days before the primary election. Formerly the time was ten days.

Chapter 40 of the new laws provides that if candidates do not file certificates accepting nomination the name of such candidate shall not be printed on the official ballots, unless he shall within ten days after the primary election, file in the office of the county clerk a certificate that he is qualified to hold the office and accepts the nomination.

The two new laws regulating the delivery of ballot-boxes and ballots were passed because of the confusion which has arisen in the past over the question of whose business it was to deliver them. Chapter 78 requires the clerk of all the boards of election within a municipality to call at the office of the clerk of the municipality and get the boxes and ballots and give a receipt therefor. This must be done the day before any election, and the receipts must be preserved one year. Chapter 79 requires the county clerk to deliver not less than three days prior to any election, to cause to be delivered to the clerk of each township, city or other municipality the official ballots and envelopes.

Another change is made in Chapter 91 of the new laws. This provides that all petitions nominating candidates for office in a single borough, ward or township, and all petitions indorsing persons for the position of delegate to the ensuing state of congressional convention, shall be filed with the municipal clerk not less than fifteen days prior to the primary election.

The act introduced by Assemblyman Walsh is an important one. It prohibits the printing of the term of office on the ballot on the same line with the name of the candidate. The aim of new law is to prevent the covering of the term of office when affixing a paster on a ballot. In a certain recount many Democratic votes were excluded because pasters on them covered the term of office for which the councilmanic candidates were named.

Another amendment to the primary election refusal to stand as a candidate the vacancy shall be filled by a majority of the persons filing the petition for the nomination. Formerly such declination could be filed seven days before the primary election. The new law provides that the new petition to fill such vacancy must be filed within three days after such vacancy occurs.

Further provision in the case of death, removal or resignation of a candidate is provided in Chapter 255. This provides that in case such vacancy shall occur prior to the general election but subsequent to the day fixed by law as the last for filing the appropriate petition, the county committee, as the case may be, may select a candidate for the office and file a statement of such selection with the clerk of the municipality.

The new law regulating the publication of notices of the primary election is chapter 2720. This provides that in addition to the five notices required to be posted in conspicuous places, the municipal clerk shall, at least two weeks preceding the primary election, cause a notice to be published in not more than two of the newspapers of the county, as such clerk shall select, a general notice of the election and of the registration days. The expense of this advertising is to be borne by the municipality, and the law requires that the money to meet this expense shall be raised in the general taxx levy.

Under the new voting machine law all discarded voting machines are to be returned to the secretary of State, and it is expressly provided that the secretary of State shall not be required to re-locate them.

Still another new law, Chapter 87, provides that all lawful expenses heretofore incurred within any body in the county, in special elections that the secretary of State shall not shall be paid by the board of freeholders, unless otherwise provided by law.

THE VOTING MACHINES ARE BEING ABOLISHED

Voting machines in the elections of New Jersey are almost a thing of the past. The legislature passed an act that gave each voting precinct the right to say whether the machines were wanted, and where the vote has been negative, as 't nearly always has been, the machines have been sent elsewhere.

The vote has been tremendously against the machines. Last week two precincts of Camden held a special election. There were four votes in favor and sixty-nine against in one precinct, and nine in favor and sixty-one against in the other.

The machines are not difficult to understand to the average voter, but to the man whose literary attainments are somewhat limited, he is mystified by the galaxy of names and little knots that confront him Then, when he has selected his ticket and pulled the knob, he is not sure his vote is registered. The machines sometimes get out of order, and again there is always the possibility in the mind of the voter that the machine may be manipulated. He has no way to know his vote has actually been counted as he desires.

The politicians do not favor the machines, for in the absence of a printed ticket he is unable to hand a cut ticket to a voter, and is never sure of what the latter may do when in the booth.

IMPERIAL MILITARY BAND ENGAGED FOR CELEBRATION.

Charles Suhr's Imperial Military Band has been engaged to furnish the music for the Fourth of July celebration at Scotch Plains in the evening of that day, and he has arranged to have his full band out on that occasion. The program in two parts, will be as follows:

Part I. Star Spangled Banner; march, "Hostrauser's," W. Paris Chambers; overture, "Lustpiel," Keler-Bela; "The Sunny South," Lampe; cornet solo, "Meet Me Tonight In Dreamland," Rossiter; medley selection, "Bits of Remick's Hits," Lampe; "Dance of the Clowns," Marcellie, Jacobs; characteristic, "Sissy Giggles," Jacobs.

Part II. Selection from "Faust," Gounod; brass quartet, "Garden of Roses," Remick; selection, from "The Chocolate Soldier," Straus; characteristic, "Ramzza Mazzazza," Pryor; caprice, "Dance of the Sparrows," Feist; descriptive fantasy, "A Day at West Point," Bendix; march, "Daughters of America," Remick.

JR. O. U. A. M. DECIDE AGAINST GOING TO CAMP

Owing to uncertain weather conditions the proposed camp of the uniformed bodies of the Jr. O. U. A. M., of New Jersey, which was to have been held at Verona Lake, consisting of a demonstration to Montclair on the Fourth of July, has been abandoned.

The Jersey Junior Mechanics, several hundred in number, together with a large delegation from Poughkeepsie, N. Y., had planned to go into camp at Verona several days before the Fourth of July, and then march to Montclair on the holiday and take part in the parade. The uniformed branches, however, will

MISS GRACE CRANSTON NOW MRS. A. DRESSELT.

Miss Grace Cranston, of Grandview avenue and Alexander Dresselt, of Lincoln Place, were quietly married this morning in Warren Chapel. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Joseph O. McKelvey and was witnessed by Edward Cranston, a brother of the bride and Henry Dresselt, a brother of the bridegroom. The bride was gowned in a traveling dress. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Dresselt left for a honeymoon trip. They will return after July 4, and will go to housekeeping in Jersey City.

OLD FASHIONED "SKULE" AT MONROE AVE. CHURCH.

An audience which tested the capacity of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church gathered last night to hear "an old fashioned spelling skule" in which the leader was Professor Mathew Hale Apostle Paul Cabel Arter All Bowall, who is known in private life as Charles L. Lewis.

The songs were sung with an inspiration imparted by the presence of an enthusiastic audience. The novel entertainment was a success. Harvey Lude made a distinct hit with his rendition of "When the Corn is Waving Annie Dear."

PROBATION WORK REPORT

Major Charles W. Irwin Says That Crime Has Not Decreased.

MAKES SOME SUGGESTIONS.

Advocates Establishment of a Work Farm—Playground as a Remedy for the Delinquent Ones.

A report of the Union County Probation office, showing the work that has been done from the date of the last report of Mrs. Emily Williamson, in February, 1907, to June 1 this year, has been compiled by Major Charles W. Irwin, who succeeded Mrs. Williamson, after her death, as probation officer. The report has just been finished and will be circulated within a few days. It contains some interesting data regarding the history of juvenile crime in the county. One of the announcements made by Probation Officer Irwin is that juvenile crime is not decreasing. The question of how to keep the girls of the city off the streets is declared to be an important problem. In the report the probation officer advocates the establishment of a work farm, in a place away from the thickly settled parts where young men whom the judges do not want to send to jail could be sent to work. The vegetables raised on the farm could be used, it is suggested, for the feeding of inmates in county institutions.

Since February, 1907, there have been 389 persons of all ages, and of both sexes, committed to the probation office. The majority of these were males under the age of 14 years.

Most of the offenders were committed to the care of the probation office for larceny. During the period of the report thirty-four of those placed in charge of the probation office were sent to institutions, twenty-two were sent to the State Home for Boys, two to the State Home for Girls, five to the Arlington Protectory, three to the Rahway Reformatory and two to State Prison.

Major Irwin's report in part follows:

"Crime has not decreased. This probably is due to the increase of population among the foreign element, as those brought up before the police courts are mostly of this class. The great trouble which we had to contend with in the lower wards was coal stealing. This has to a certain extent ceased. Fining was the remedy.

"There is a remedy for all delinquency—a playground, but this must be under a proper and competent instructor. Otherwise we could accomplish very little. Play is what the boy wants. A boy is compared to an engine by the well-known philanthropist, Jacob Riis, of New York. If he cannot let off steam something is going to break. On the street a gang is formed and a leader chosen. The leader is willing to do what is to be done. He must show the rest of the gang what to do. He enters the back window of a grocery store, takes a few trifles, tries the safe, but cannot open it. He goes out through the window and the gang awaiting greets him as a robber chief. This is not imagination; it is life. If these delinquents had some place to go to exercise and where they would be taught hygiene, they would probably develop into strong and healthy citizens.

"The Woman's Reformatory will soon be built in Elizabeth. It is an institution long needed. There has been no place to send young women over 19 years of age except jail or prison. An institution of this kind, with the proper training and disciplines will no doubt do good work. There are many cases where liquor has gotten the upper hand of women. To this institution can be sent these poor, unfortunate dipsomaniacs, where they can receive treatment and no doubt after a few years, return cured.

"The Farview Training School for Boys, at Frenchtown, is beautifully situated one mile from the Delaware River. The home is located on the top of one of the highest hills. You can see for miles in every direction. The air is pure and healthful. It would be an ideal place for the poor youngsters who live in crowded and dirty quarters, where the white plague sooner or later claims them.

"The last Legislature passed a bill permitting each county to erect a cottage on these grounds, the cost of which was not to exceed $1,000. Each cottage will accommodate fifteen boys.. Unruly boys will be sent there. It is to be an intermediate place to Jamesburg. The amount to be paid for the board of each boy is to be $2 to $3 per week. The boy will receive schooling and industrial training. This colony will be under the direction of Mr. Kight, who is a man of great energy and intelligence and who knows boys thoroughly.

"If the various counties of our State should decide to erect cottages the freeholders of Union county will no doubt do the same. Our freeholders are always trying to better conditions. We are fortunate in having their co-operation and hope that all probation officers receive the same valuable assistance from their freeholders. We appreciate very much the courtesy and kindness shown to us by our board.

"All the police justices throughout the county now hold juvenile court. Judge Mahon holds this court every Monday afternoon, and by his good judgment and tact handles the different cases to the satisfaction of everyone. Judge Runyon, of Plainfield, appears very severe when a young delinquent is brought before After he talks to the youngster, the boy looks up at the judge through his tears and promises he will 'never trow anoder brick at the cop.'

"We have a probation association which meets several times during the year when we endeavor to improve our work by comparison of methods. A complete system of co-operation has been entered into by which each county is able to look up probationers who may have removed to another county. Fines are collected, information furnished of the whereabouts of probationers and any help rendered that may be called for. At the present time seventeen counties have probation officers.

CONVENTION OF FRIENDS OCEAN GROVE, JULY 7-13

As arranged, the program for the annual convention of the Society of Friends, to be held at Ocean Grove July 7 to 13, shows the names of many prominent educators in that faith as well as leading members of the denomination, who will participate. R. Barclay Spicer, of Philadelphia, is chairman of the program committee. Topics and speakers announced are:

"The Sense of Larger Fellowship," Dr. Jesse H. Holmes, Swarthmore College; "Social Religion," Dr. Scott Nearing, department of economics, Pennsylvania University; "Religious Education of Boys and Young Men," Isaac Sharpless, president Haverford College; "The New Penology and How Far it Can Be Adopted in Practice," Dr. Catherine Bement Davis, of the women's reformatory, Bedford, N. Y.; Defectives and Social Welfare," Elizabeth E. Farrell, inspector of ungraded schools, New York City; "The Present Trend of Religious Thought," Arthur C. McGiffert, Union Theological Seminary, New York; "The Society of Friends and the Present Trend of Religious Thought," Henry W. Wilbur; "The Upbuilding of the Society of Friends," Dr. O. Edward Janney, Baltimore; "Friends and Political Life," Frances Squire Potter, New York City; "Progress of the Society of Friends," Charles F. Underhill, Brooklyn, philanthropic; Edward B. Rawson, superintendent of Friends' schools, New York City, education; Herbert P. Worth, West Chester, Pa., "Friends' Day Schools; "Advancement of Friends' Principles," Henry W. Wilbur; "Amusement of the People," Elizabeth Stover, Mrs. Israels and Helen Mary Best; "The Place of Religion in Education," Joseph Swain, president of Swarthmore College; "The Religious School," Jane A. Rushmore, general secretary of the First-Day schools; "Conditions That Make for War," Edward Clarkson Wilson, principal of Friends' school, Baltimore.

LEARNING TO REST.

Anyone with the will to do can learn to work, but very few learn how to really rest.

Sleeping is not always resting, neither is doing nothing a good form of rest. There are certain forms of indolence that are more fatiguing than hard work. Real rest proposes sufficient sleep and enough of the loafing spirit to get off tension, but it means more than that.

One of the surest rests is in relaxing; change of occupation is resting; so also is change of scene and viewpoint.

If you live in the city, especially if you are a worker, get into the country once a week. Don't exercise or loaf, but you will come home stimulated. The country girl needs the excitement of a day in the city.

Many a woman has found going to the theatre the greatest rest she could have, particularly so for brain workers or for women given to worrying about their household duties.

The girl who cultivated the "catnap" habit has discovered one of the secrets of keeping rested. An afternoon of sleep makes for sluggishness; totally different is five minutes' oblivion snatched when sitting upright in a rocking chair or stretched flat on your back.

Most restful of all is the power to let things go. One rarely hears of a woman getting nervous prostration who has the blessed faculty of sitting down in the midst of confusion to finish a good book, or of snatching a day for pure pleasure though duties press.

Such a girl will probably be called irresponsible, but she has learned how not to live at tension, which is the crying evil of our sex.

MONEY SORELY NEEDED FOR THE BABY CAMP

The officers of the City Union of the King's Daughters hope that the recent bequest of Mrs. Minnie E. Edgerton of $5,000 for its work will not confuse the minds of the friends and supporters of this charitable work. The organization is very much in need of funds with which to carry on the work at the Day Nursery and the summer camp on the mountain. Plans are now being considered for the building of a new Day Nursery, one that will adequately meet the requirements, and it is the intention to use the $5,000 bequest for that purpose.

The Union owns the property on West Third street, now used for Day Nursery, purposes, and it may be decided to dispose of that property and build one in a more suitable locality.

A committee of the charitable organization went to the summer camp Monday to prepare for the annual opening within a short time. Eighteen babies it is known now, will be guests. Many more will wish to send their little ones there during the hot summer days. The expense of operating the camp is considerable, and the Union hopes that the people will be as generous as they can in their contributions. Any money sent to the Daily Press for this object will be acknowledged and sent to the proper official. Already $23 has been received by this paper for the purpose of defraying current expenses at the camp.

OFFICIALS MUST PAY THEIR TROLLEY FARE

New Jersey county and municipal officials, including many Plainfield municipal officials, who now ride on passes furnished by the Public Service Railway Company, will pay their fare after July 4. On that day the new public utilities bill will become operative and this ' provides that these officials shall not be furnished complimentary tickets.

For many years the Public Service, which controls the greater part of the trolley lines in New Jersey, has been very liberal with its passes, the most humble office holder and ward politician being supplied. Last year the list of complimentaries was cut down, but the apportionment remained very liberal.

The new law does not provide any penalty for its enforcement and the officeholders had hoped in the absence of this the passes would not be disturbed. The Public Service, however, will issue a letter to pass holders that it proposes to observe the law.

The act provides that only county and municipal officeholders shall not receive free transportation, so that state officials or whose appointment is made by the Governor will not come under the prohibition of the act.

RIBBONS ON DINNER TABLES.

While the fussy period of table decoration came to an end some years ago, and we do not now serve salad in finger rolls tied with pink ribbon, yet it is sometimes possible to use ribbons with good effect.

It is always in order to have bunches of flowers tied with ribbon at the women's places at a formal luncheon or dinner, and nothing is prettier for a child's party or gives more pleasure than a huge paper rose whose petals conceal little gifts with a ribbon streamer connecting each with the place for its future owner.

At a luncheon for only one guest the centrepiece was a low sage green basket, with a handle at one end, filled with pale pink roses. A wide sash ribbon in a blurred floral pattern in pastel colors, blue, pink and green, was knotted into the handle with a cleverly tied bow, one of the ends crossing the table and hanging over the table cloth at one corner in loose loops and ends.

Purchased the Knight Farm.

William Kelley, of Oak Tree, being of the opinion that real estate at that place will soon increase in value, has purchased the Knight farm of 37 acres, adjoining W. E. VanCourt's farm. The property had been sold by Mr. Knight, before his death, to a New York party, and a small payment was made on the sale, but the New York party failed to take the property at the time agreed upon, hence Mr. Kelley purchased the farm land.

Not All Levity.

"Do drummers really get business by telling funny stories?"

"Depends altogether upon the customer," replied the traveling salesman. "Sometimes I tell funny stories and sometimes I abuse the trusts."—Pittsburg Post.

An Operatic Expletive.

"Bifferton is awfully gone on grand opera, isn't he?"

"I should say he is! Why he even swears by Gadski."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

MR. KREBS ADDRESSES WATCHUNG GRADUATES

At Wilson Memorial chapel Thursday the fifth commencement exercises of the Watchung Grammar School were held before an audience which completely filled the little church. Superintendent of Schools H. C. Krebs, of North Plainfield, made the speech of the evening giving the graduates some wholesome words of advice and encouragement in their future life work.

Rev. C. E. Nash, pastor of the chapel, made the opening prayer and pronounced the benediction. Two daughters of Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton, took part in the program and acquitted themselves with credit. Miss Marion Eaton read an essay entitled "The Great Stone Face," and Miss Margaret read the class history. The class prophecy, "Our Future," by Agnes Wilson Mantz, was an interesting feature. Following is the program:

Opening, "The Mill," Grammar School; prayer, Rev. C. E. Nash, Watchung; salutatory address, Guzzie Edward Troiano; biography, Nathaniel Hawthorne, Dorothy Harriet Underhill; essay, "The Great Stone Face," Marion Aubrey Eaton; singing, "Cuckoo Song," Primary School; class history, "Annals of a Worthy Class," Margaret Evelyn Easton; class prophecy, "Our Future," Agnes Wilson Mantz; singing, "A Little Story," Grammar School, valedictory, William John Wiegand, presentation of diplomas, George T. Hughes; singing, "The Railroad Train," Primary School; remarks, County Superintendent H. C. Krebs; singing, "Vacation," Grammar School; benediction, Rev. C. E. Nash.

Perseverance Lodge Elects.

Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., at its meeting, last night, elected these officers for the coming year: Chancellor Commander,, Leslie Matthews; vice-chancellor, Louis Fisher; master of work, Joseph Baker; prelate, Jeremiah Moore; master at arms, Jacob Williams; inner guard, Jeremiah Douglass; outside guard, Peter Strem, Deputy George Moosebrugger, of Somerville, will install the officers-elect on Friday night, July 8.

THE PERVERTED GERM.

C. Griscom Pratt, the insurance expert, says the Washington Star, talked at a dinner in New York about success.

"Success," he said, "comes to the man who sees the public need for new things and supplies this need—in the shape, for example, of moving pictures or of phonographs or microbes to ward off old age.

"A blackleg had a kind of perverted success germ in him when he complained to another blackleg:

"'I suppose you heard about the scrubwoman at the Fiasco Theatre? Well, she found some dyspeptic patient diamond stomacher in a box in sweeping up. The honest old soul determined to restore the stomacher to its owner, and the owner, of course, wasn't long in turning up—a young woman, splendidly dressed, and on the verge of hysteria.

"'Oh, the poor thing found my stomacher?' she cried. 'It is a chef d'oeuvre of Lalique of the Place Vendome.'

"'Calm yourself, madam,' said the scrubwoman. 'Here is your stomacher.' And she produced it from her pocket.

"The other took out a $50 bill pressed it on the honest scrubwoman and departed with her stomacher, hurriedly.

"But an hour later another lady called.

"'Have you found my stomacher?' she asked smiling. 'I think I left it in my box.'

"'Why, yes, madam; but if it was your stomacher,' said the scrubwoman, 'a thief has got it. She got it this morning. She gave me $50 reward.'

"'Why, the stomacher was imitation,' the lady said. 'It only cost $5. Your thief is $45 out.'

"Then for a long time, in silence, the two blacklegs shook their heads sadly over this episode. Finally the first resumed:

"'What times these are! You can't do your work, even if it's crooked work. I tell you, Bill, there's urgent need today of an insurance company that will issue policies protecting flimflammers from being flimflammed.'"

To Play Double Header.

The Y. M. C. A. team of this city will play Somerville at Somerville Saturday morning. In the afternoon the Dunellen Field Club will be the opponents of the locals at Dunellen. Slocum and Peacock will be used to twirl for the locals.

Allee—Johnson.

The marriage of Miss Hilda Johnson, of Elizabeth, and Joseph Allee, of Brooklyn, took place at Elizabeth on Wednesday, May 25, and the couple will reside at 66 Norwood avenue, this city. The couple has lleased the house at 66 Norwood avenue and will reside there after July 4. The couple are spending a couple of weeks at Atlantic City before taking up their residence here.

CONFESS AS BURGLARS

Two Youths, Louis Fulton and John Polan Admit Serious Offenses.

FRANCISCO IS EXONERATED.

Counsel for George Francisco has no Difficulty in Clearing Client of the Charge—Others Held Without Bail.

A prison sentence of from three to ten years at hard labor confronts two borough boys. They are Louis Fulton, aged 16, and John Polan, aged 17, who pleaded guilty to the charge of burglarizing the store of aged Philip Ackor on Somerset street near Johnston's drive last week.

When the youths were arraigned before Justice of the Peace Thomas Snape Monday, the court room was crowded. Neither was represented by counsel; and neither seemed to understand the seriousness of their crime.

"You are charged with a serious offense—burglary with intent—how do you plead?" said the court.

"Guilty," was the answer in each case.

"Held without bail to await the action of the September sitting of the grand jury," said the court.

Then for the first time, Fulton the younger of the two betrayed emotion. His rather effeminate mouth twitched as he turned and asked the court:

"But, can't we have bail?"

"Not unless the county prosecutor lets you have it."

The youth seemed a trifle dazed for a moment and his mouth twitched considerably; but he accepted the court's decision without a murmur and was led back to his cell. Today he was taken to the Somerville County jail where he may have to spend the remainder of the summer. The court's decision had a less visible effect on Polan.

When this case had been disposed of George Francisco who was arrested on suspicion for being complicated in the burglary at the home of George Bremmer on Harrison avenue was given a hearing. William G. DeMeza, who represented Francisco so completely shattered to pieces the alleged case against his client that Francisco was a free man in fifteen minutes after having spent nearly two days in the borough police headquarters.

One of the sensational features of the hearing was the introduction in the testimony of a black hand letter. This was sent to Fulton, who was concerned in the burglary of Ackor's store. It commanded him to appear in front of the Babcock building with a hammer, a screw driver and a knife on the midnight that the burglary at Bremmer's home took place. Fulton said that he had burned the letter so that his mother would not see it. The attempt to show that Francisco had been concerned in the threat in any way failed. The court dismissed the case. Fulton, it appeared, had told a Mrs. Dean, an aunt, that he thought Francisco did the job. He could give no reasons why he thought so. Mrs. Bremmer stated that the night of the burglary she had seen a man with black hair in her room. Accordingly when Francisco offered himself to the borough police Saturday for identification purposes, he was among the three young men who were placed before her. When asked who she thought was the man, she pointed to Francisco. Accordingly he was held from Saturday night to Monday for the hearing. The assertion of Fulton that Francisco was at all complicated in the black hand letter incident or the robbery at Bremmer's house was thrown out because Fulton, under cross examination fire by William DeMeza repeatedly contradicted himself.

Plainfield Council Elects.

Plainfield Council, No. 293, Jr. O. U. A. M., at its regular meeting, last Monday, elected these officers: Past Councilor, William F. Richards; councilor, Harvey VanPelt; vice-councilor, Daniel G. VanWinkle; financial secretary, Joel Pennington; recording secretary, Arthur J. Spicer; assistant recording secretary, Walter Muller; treasurer, Julian G. Williams; warden, Frank W. Downs; conductor, A. K. Fleming; outside sentinel, Garret Ackerman; inside sentinel, Walter P. Kennedy; trustee, Fred E. Sebring. The officers will be installed Monday night, July 11, as there will be no meeting on July 4.

Will Celebrate First Anniversary.

The Netherwood Reformed church will be a year old on Sunday, and on Friday night it is planned to hold a service of special interest. It will be of patriotic nature, and former Assemblyman Swackhamer has consented to make an address. The church will be appropriately decorated for the occasion. On Sunday the services will also be appropriate to the first anniversary, the program for which will be announced later.

SOLD EMPLOYEE'S WHEEL TO PAY A $2.50 BILL

Charles Smith, colored, of Cincinnati, Ohio, was held in $100 bail by City Judge William N. Runyon Tuesday to await the action of the grand jury. Smith was arrested last night by Patrolman Kelly in the act of selling a wheel, which Smith had borrowed Monday afternoon from Augustus Clark.

Both are painters, and Smith told the judge that he had hired Clark to letter a wagon. The price of the job was to be $2.50. Smith did not have this, so tried to sell Clark's wheel in order to raise the money to pay Clark. Later in the evening he expected to collect $5 from another job which would enable him to buy the wheel back. In this way he would be able to pay Clark on time. The judge considered that the negotiation had been conducted without the owner's consent, and that inasmuch as Clark had filed notice of the theft of his wheel by Smith with the police, he held the latter in bail to await the action of the grand jury.

NO LICENSE NEEDED BY MIKE GALLAGHER

Michael Gallagher is happy today because the proceedings instituted against him by the borough of Dunellen for conducting an express business without a license were dismissed by Justice Suydam Monday. Gallagher admitted that he had done some carting work for William J. Winges, of Bound Brook road, but that it was purely as a neighborly act. The business was not solicited and no payment was made for the work.

When the testimony had been given, Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., counsel for the borough, moved for a dismissal of the case on the grounds of no cause for action. Lawyer Cooper, of New Brunswick, represented Gallagher. There was considerable difficulty in drawing a jury to hear the testimony in the case.

Another case which was brought by Gallagher was held over until a later date. This action was one in which Gallagher charged Charles Saueracher, a driver for the People's Transportation Company, and Edwin Blasis, a driver for the Greater Plainfield Express Company, with selling liquor in Dunellen without a license. The complaint was made by Gallagher before Justice Suydam, of New Brunswick, and the warrants were served Saturday night by Constable George Dougherty. Harry Cook is counsel for Gallagher. William Newcorn for Blasis and Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., for Saueracher.

POOR YOUNGSTERS ENJOY AN AUTO RIDE.

The first annual automobile outing given to the children from the Children's Home and The Day Nursery on Saturday afternoon, proved a great pleasure for the children, as well as those who donated the use of their cars for the trip. Thirty-five children in all, twenty-one from the Children's Home and fourteen from The Day Nursery, enjoyed the ride, which included Metuchen, Oak Tree, Stelton, New Market and other nearby places.

Among those who donated the use of their cars were A. E. Force, Wm. Price, F. H. Ball, H. W. Marshall, F. Hubbard, Edmund Rushmore and Arthur E. Smith, and the committee in charge, of which Mr. Rushmore was chairman, desires to thank the autoists.

At the conclusion of the ride the children were invited to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Meredith Dryden on DeLacey avenue, where refreshments were served and a good time was had by the whole party.

CHARCOAL AS A PURIFIER.

Not enough attention is paid to the purifying effects of charcoal. It should be a household remedy, and will be found equally useful in kitchen, bathroom, garden and medicine chest.

In this day of germs and much talk of sanitation, no housekeeper should fail to have a dish of powdered charcoal on an upper shelf of her refrigerator. It absorbs unpleasant odors and keeps things sweet-smelling. Change the charcoal every other day.

A little pulverized charcoal should be among the toilet articles. Oddly enough, it makes an excellent tooth powder to whiten the teeth and sweeten breath. The teeth must be thoroughly rinsed until no trace of black remains.

Where one is troubled by dyspepsia nothing equals a charcoal tablet for quick relief. One is especially good to remove the taste of onions, cabbage or other odiferous food.

Sunday School Excursions.

The annual excursion of Hope chapel Sunday school to Asbury Park will be held on Saturday, August 13. The First Baptist and Temple Baptist Sunday schools will go to Asbury Park on Thursday, July 14.

ROMANCE IN BAKERY ENDS IN A WEDDING

"A romance which began in a Flushing bakery," said the Brooklyn Eagle, of Sunday "had a satisfactory ending last week, when Miss Jessie Zych, who came from Poland three years ago, was married to Joseph Smith, of Plainfield." The wedding took place in Blackstump, in the outskirts of Flushing, at the home of a mutual friend.

"For some time Miss Zych was a waitress in a bakery and managed to save about $1,000 of her wages. She declared to her employers that she would never marry, but recently when young Smith accepted a position in the same establishment Miss Zych changed her mind on the question of matrimony. As a result the Flushing bakery is now minus two employes, and the bridal couple intend to go into the same business on their own account with the capital that they both have saved from their earnings."

EJECT FREEMAN STRAIT FROM UNDERHILLS' FARM

The case of Gerard H. Underhill and his wife Mrs. Anna Underhill, against Freeman Strait in an action of ejectment in the Supreme Court was tried Monday at Somerville before Judge Vail.

The lease gave a farm of 100 acres to the defendant for five years with the privilege of five years more unless notified to the contrary by the owners. The plaintiffs claimed that the defendant had engaged in other business and had neglected the farm and that for nearly three years they had received no profits. They were called on, it was alleged, to meet the expenses and the defendant had planted crops too late and hadn't properly cultivated them; but had let them waste and had let the farm run down.

The defendant claimed that the farm was poor and wouldn't produce good crops and that it was not his fault that there were no profits.

The case had been tried before a justice of the peace and a jury, before and the plaintiff's won. This decision was appealed to the Supreme Court and the defendant then applied to the Court of Chancery for an injunction to enjoin this suit but the Court of Chancery would not permit it unless the defendant would give a bond of $1,000 to the plaintiff to indemnify him against costs. The bond was not given and the suit came to trial; and after a full day the judge holding the jury until 6 o'clock to complete the case, rendered a verdict in favor of the plaintiffs.

Codington and Swackhamer and Winfield S. Angleman represented the plaintiffs and Joseph Stryker, of Trenton, from the Attorney General's office, represented the defendants.

The defendant will deliver possession to the plaintiff on July 6.

Gratifying Report.

The officers of the Plainfield Mining Company feel that congratulations are in order since receiving the report of Prof. T. C. Hopkins, geologist, of Syracuse University. Last week Prof. Hopkins spent two days at the company's property in Virginia, where he made a thorough and exhaustive examination. In his report just received by Charles L. Moett, Prof. Hopkins states that undoubtedly large ore bodies exist on the property. The company has purchased a core drill and will drill for ore at the points indicated by Prof. Hopkins, while on the ground. The full report will be open at the offices of C. L. Moffett or J. T. Vail. The officers of the company are: President, J. T. Vail; vice president, Floyd T. Woodhull; treasurer, C. L. Moffett; secretary, J. P. Powers.

COLLEGE WOMAN.

From an attitude of skeptical indifference toward her presence the American business man has come to regard the college woman in business as a real boon in an age that is calling every day more and more insistently for reliability power to reason and initiative in subordinate positions.

It is now not merely the person who can take orders intelligently, who is wanted, but the person who can take orders progressively, who can see the business purpose, who can follow the leader like a good soldier and develop her end of the business like a wise partner.

And not only in routine positions has the college girl proved her ability to tackle live problems, but in the fields of independent enterprises as well she has achieved a success that disposes, once for all, of the notion that she had no initiative or daring.

The Literary Market.

"Well, how's things?"

"Fine," replied the author. The critics pronounced my last novel so worthless that I have six publishers bidding for my next book."—Exchange.

STATE SUNDAY SCHOOL MEET AT ASBURY PARK

Edward W. Dunham, chairman of the Publicity Committee of the New Jersey Sunday School Association, has issued an interesting bulletin regarding the coming work that is being planned in the state. The first important series of meetings is the 17th annual session of the School of Methods of the State Association, which meets at Asbury Park, opening Tuesday, July 5 and closing Tuesday noon, July 12. A number of Plainfielders will attend.

The sessions of the school will be held in the High School building there and special preparations have been made to accommodate the large number of students who are expected to attend this year's School of Methods.

There are 20 instructors engaged during the week. Each one of the instructors is an expert in some particular line of Sunday school work. Professor Herman Harroll Horne, of the New York University, author of "The Philosophy of Education," will lecture each day at 3.30 o'clock. "Studies in Pedagogy" will be the basis of his lectures. These lectures will be divided as follows: "The Way of Study," "The Art of Telling a Story," "The Art of Asking a Question," "The Pedagogical Methods of Jesus." Professor Roger W. Swetland, principal of Peddie Institute, of Hightstown, will conduct conferences on the Adult Bible Class work. Miss Margaret Slattery, of Pitchburg, Mass., will conduct a series of Bible studies each morning during the week at 11.20 o'clock. Miss Martha K. Lawson, president of the New York Grade Union and Supervisor of the Elementary Grades in one of the largest Sunday schools in New York city, will talk to the Primary Department workers. Miss Nannie Lee Fraser, of Louisville, a writer and lecturer of wide experience will lecture to the Junior Section each day. Other instructors of the school include Rev. Staley F. Davis, of Elizabeth, N. J.; Rev. Arlo A. Brown, Miss Alice R. Hamlin, Miss Josephine Baldwin, Miss Elizabeth B. Paxton, Miss Florence H. Darnell, Miss Marion Thomas, C. A. Brown and others connected with the organized Sunday school work in the state.

The work to be accomplished at this year's school will cover every department of the modern Sunday school, including beginners', primary, Junior, Intermediate, Senior and Bible Class work. Department sections have been provided for each morning and afternoon, and the delegates will choose the section for their own individual work. One of the attractive features of the school will be a normal study in the department sections, and an hour each afternoon is to be given for this study. Every Sunday school in the state, large or small, is urged to send students to this summer school of methods. The registration fee for the week's work is $2. Sunday schools who contemplate sending students can get full particulars and programs by writing to the New Jersey Sunday School Association, 835 Broad street, Newark, N. J.

Another important and interesting feature of the week's work will be a banquet and reception to be given by the newly elected general secretary, Louis Hayes Koehler, on Saturday evening, July 9. Following this on Sunday, July 10, a special observance of Sunday School Day will be held in the Asbury Park churches and Sunday schools. In the afternoon, at 3 o'clock, a Mass Meeting will be held, under the direction of the New Jersey Sunday School Superintendents' Union. One or two speakers of note in the Sunday school world have been asked to take part in this meeting.

After the work of the Summer School the attention of the school workers throughout the State will be directed in the line of he county conventions. A schedule of the convention has been arranged, and is as follows:

In September the following counties will hold their conventions: Thursday, the 8th, Middlesex; Wednesday, the 14th, Somerset; Thursday, the 16th, Sussex; Wednesday, the 28th, Morris; Thursday, the 29th, Monmouth. Warren, date not chosen. In October these committee will hold their conventions: Tuesday, 4th, Hunterdon; Wednesday, 5th, Salem; Thursday, 6th, Gloucester; Friday, 7th, Cape May; Tuesday, 11th, Mercer; Wednesday, 12th, Essex; Thursday, 13th, Cumberland; Friday, 14th, Ocean; Thursday, 20th, Union; Friday, 21st, Bergen; Thursday, 27th, Burlington. In November Camden county will hold its convention on the 3rd, Atlantic county on the 4th and Passaic and Hudson counties on Tuesday, November 8.

These county conventions will be followed by the great Sunday school feast of the year, the 52d annual convention at Atlantic City, November 15 to 17.

Senator Goes Abroad.

State Senator and Mrs. Ernest R. Ackerman, of West Eighth street, left last week for their annual trip abroad. They will be away most of the summer.

DUNELLEN WINS FROM NEWARK IN THE NINTH

Dunellen conquered the fast Marathon Club of Newark by the score of 7 to 6 in a fast game on the Lincoln avenue grounds, Saturday afternoon. The game was won in the ninth inning when Dunellen scored two runs. The game started with a lead of three runs for Dunellen in the first inning which was held until the fifth inning when two more were scored. The Newarkers, however, tallied three runs in this, one in the next and two in the seventh giving them a lead of one run. Neither scored in the eighth and in the last part of the ninth Dunellen tied the score and edged in one extra run. Montross pitched his usual good game. The summaries follow:—

MARATHONS.

	R.	H.	P.O.	A.	E.
Alliston, 1b.	1	0	4	0	0
Smith, 3b.	0	1	2	3	0
Cooper, 2b.	1	1	2	2	0
Mitchell, ss.	1	2	4	2	0
Meyer, cf.	1	0	1	0	0
Taylor, p.	1	0	2	0	0
Marlatt, lf.	1	2	5	0	0
Smith, c.	0	0	5	1	0
Murphy, rf.	0	1	0	0	0
	6	7	25	7	2

DUNELLEN.

	R.	H.	P.O.	A.	E.
Giddes, ss.	1	1	2	5	1
Giles, 2b.	1	0	1	3	0
Miller, lf.	1	1	0	0	0
J. Montross, p.	0	0	0	3	0
Nonamaker, 3b.	1	0	3	0	1
C. Montross, rf.	1	1	0	0	0
Garretson, rf.	1	1	0	0	0
Piddington, 1b.	1	2	7	0	1
Bodwell, c.	1	1	13	0	0
Clark, cf.	0	3	1	0	0
	7	10	27	11	3

Marathons .0 0 0 0 3 1 2 0 0—6
Dunellen ...3 0 0 0 2 0 0 0 2—7

Two-base hits—Piddington, Mitchell. Double play—Giles to Giddes to Piddington. First base on balls—Off Taylor, 6. Struck out—By Montross, 1; by Taylor, 2. Hit by pitcher—By Montross, 2. Umpire Scott.

COUNTRY CLUB PLANS SANE 4TH CELEBRATION

The Plainfield Country Club has appointed a Fourth of July committee and that committee announced today that by reason of the generous response of the club members to the invitation to subscribe the necessary funds, there will be a celebration at the club on Independence Day from 4 to 11 o'clock. The celebration promises to exceed any held here in recent years.

Van Baar's Old Guard Band, of New York city, has been engaged for the afternoon and evening. As soon as practicable after sunset there will be a display of fireworks under the direction of Paine, of New York, and it will be an elaborate one. The band will furnish music for dancing after the fireworks display.

Dinner will be served at the club house at 6.45 o'clock sharp; request is made that reservation of tables may be made to the superintendent, John Hilton, until June 30. Free stages will connect with the trolley cars throughout the afternoon and evening. This committee has charge of the arrangements:

George S. Clay, chairman; Harry V. Borden, Thomas M. Day, John H. Grandin, Jr., George M. Holstein, Henry C. Irons, Howard G. Lapsley, Chester B. Lawrence, Jr., Edward A. Lyon, George P. Mellick, J. Hartley Mellick, John P. Stevens, A. Willis West and Henry Williams.

ARIONS ARE DEFEATED BY THE GESANG NINE.

The Gesang and Turn Verein easily defeated the Arions of oSmerville on Saturday, by the score of 8 to 4. Van Droof pitched for the locals until the fifth inning, when he injured his arm and was forced to retire, N. Luthman taking his place. Froilck and Jackson was the battery for the Arions. The game did not start until after 4 o'clock owing to the late arrival of the Arions from Somerville. The line-up:

G. T. V.—2, Luthman, c.; B. Hansen, 3b.; Ayares, 3b.; Van Droof, p.; Thorn, rf.; H. Hansen, 1b.; Stagard, cf.; Hann, ss.; Montross, lf.; Moran, cf.; Luthman, p. ARIONS.—Rooney, ss.; Laten, 2b.; Jackson, c.; Smita, lf.; Harlgrove, 1b.; Frolick, p.; Novitk, 3b.; Ayares, cf.; Conover, rf. Umpire—Schroppler and Wilson.

Rompers for Girl's Wear.

There are two kinds of rompers in general use, those fashioned in the regular bloomer way, worn by girls and boys alike, and those intended especially for girls and cut upon the circular pattern. The latter may be made very attractive in madras, or chambray.

His Status.

"Well, my little man," inquired a visitor pleasantly, "who are you?"

"I'm the baby's brother!" was the ingenuous reply.—Truth Seeker.

FINALS NEXT SATURDAY IN SPRING CHAMPIONSHIP

In the semi-final round for the Spring championship cup at the Park Golf Club, Saturday, R. B. Titsworth won from Rev. C. L. Goodrich by default and W. T. Byard won from S. St. John McCutchen by default. Mr. Titsworth and Mr. Byard will meet next Saturday in the finals and an interesting match should result, because both players are nearly at the top of their game.

Several exceedingly good scores were returned for the President's Club and Summer cups, and the play was close. The leading scores:

U. G. Tingley, 104, 28—76; W. R. Faber, 102, 22—80; W. V. Byard, 108, 24—84; C. B. Morse, 105, 19—86; A. M. Morrell, 117, 30—87.

The best scores for the Ladies' Summer cup, nine holes, were as follows:

Miss Grace A. Ten Eyck, 63, 16—47; Miss Bess R. Ten Eyck, 80, 30—50; Mrs. Frank W. Jones, 64, 11—53; Miss Alice L. Morgan, 91, 30—61.

BARRISTERS BATTLE FOR GOLF SUPREMACY

The semi-final round for the June trophy, was an interesting event at the Plainfield Country Club, on Saturday. Arthur Murphy beat C. C. Burke, 1 up, but the exciting match of the day was between George S. Clay and Hugh F. Fox. They met in the morning and at the end of the round were even, neither one having an advantage. In the play-off in the afternoon, Mr. Fox defeated Mr. Clay, after a close and exciting round, by 2 up.

The day's program also marked the termination of the play for the Spring Handicap cups, Classes A and B. Arthur Murphy was the winner of the Class A cup, and George S. Clay won the Class B trophy. The leading scores for the day were as follows:

Class A—W. Lester Glenney, 78, 4—74; R. G. Morse, 89, 13—76; William T. Glenney, 89, 6—83.

Class B—B. F. Krafferty, 97, 19—78; W. Wheeler Smith, 107, 26—81; Hugh F. Fox, 100, 18—82; Dr. F. E. DuBois, 108, 20—88.

The social features at the club on Saturday were enjoyed by an unusually large number of members and friends. In the evening there was the weekly dinner-dance and Superintendent John Hilton served dinner to sixty guests. The dancing was continued until 11.30 o'clock.

Found Dead in Bed.

Mrs. Mary Louise Totten, widow of Captain Benjamin Totten, of the 30th N. J. Vols.; daughter of Rev. Dr. A. Van Dores, a well-known Reformed church minister, and mother of George Totten, county detective of Somerset county, was found dead in bed at her home in Middlebush on Saturday, aged 70 years. She was well-to-do and had a large number of friends. She is survived by several sons.

Will Walk to Sea Girt.

Battery A, of East Orange, of which Dr. H. D. Corbuiser, of Park avenue, is planning to go into camp at Sea Girt the latter part of July. The battery will make the trip both ways overland, and it did a few years ago, camping out over night en route.

Official Weighers' Bonds.

Bonds were filed with Mayor Fisk today by the official weighers, whose appointments were recently confirmed by the Common Council. The public weighers are: Joseph Jefferson Harrigan, Boice-Runyon & Company, George O. Stevens, McDonough Brothers.

Somerset Democratic Committee.

The Somerset County Democratic Committee at a meeting in the Somerset Hotel, Somerville, on Saturday re-elected M. W. Scully, of Somerville, as chairman, and Walter Linbarger, of North Plainfield, as secretary.

Loveland Arrested.

Charles E. Loveland, of East Fifth street, thirty years old and married, was arrested in New York on Saturday night. Marion Becker, of East Third street, aged fourteen, was turned over to the Children's Society.

Belated Announcement.

Mr. and Mrs. Lambert, of Westfield, announce the marriage of their daughter, Emma to George Francis, of this city. The wedding took place Saturday, June 11. Rev. L. R. Howard officiated.

Mail Carrier Resigns.

Andrew Winrow, colored, who has been carrying the mail between the postoffice and the railroad station, for several years, has resigned because he wants more pay. He has given thirty days' notice and will serve until his successor is appointed. Potsmaster Bird is today advertising for a man to succeed Winrow.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL

My new barber shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.

EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

W. R. CODINGTON,

Counsellor-at-Law,

Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-Chancery, Notary Public. Offices corner of Park avenue and Second street.

Guaranteed Salary

$900 YEARLY.

Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel appointing agents, others for local work looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and expenses, rapid advancement, old established house, splendid chance for earnest man or woman to secure pleasant, permanent position, liberal income and future. New, brilliant lines. Write at once.

STAFFORD PRESS,

23 Church St., New Haven, Conn

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS DESIGNS COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York

Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Sanitary Plumbing

Brick and Portable Furnace

Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,

Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in all cases.

D. W. LITTELL

MARRIED.

FRANCIS-LAMBERT—On Saturday, June 11, by the Rev. L. R. Howard, George Francis, of this city, to Emma, daughter of Charles Lambert, of Westfield.

DIED.

BARTLAU—At Kingston, New York, on Monday, June 13, 1910, Henry, son of August and Anna Bartlau, aged 26 years.

RENNEMANN—On Friday, June 24, 1910, Christina, daughter of Lena and the late John Rennemann, of 33 Cordinga avenue.

SUMMER FURNISHINGS.

Summer furnishings have a charm that is quite foreign to the more pretentious appointments of winter, and every season they seem to grow more attractive.

The new toilet china shown in the shops are extremely decorative. The quaintly shaped little bowls are adorned with equally quaint, conventional designs, and there are lovely foreign looking copper jugs, with wicker handles, for carrying the morning hot water.

Colored or white tiles or squares of glass mounted on a flowered material matching the room hangings are provided to set the pitcher of ice water upon, and if a room is to have two occupants all of these fittings are to be duplicated. For fastening back the window hangings the old-fashioned brass rosette has been revived.

Speaking of bedrooms suggests breakfast, for it is becoming more and more the custom to have the first meal of the day in one's own room, and thoughtful hostesses always provide one of the charming little breakfast sets which are now so common in the shops for the guest room, along with a tray of wicker, brass or wood

Successful Cake Sale.

The Home Department of Trinity Reformed church held a successful cake sale at the church, Saturday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock. Mrs. Henry Van Name and Mrs. George Saums were in charge and a large number of cakes were disposed of at good prices. The proceeds from the sale will be used to purchase flowers to be sent to the "shut-in" members of the church.

Saturday Half-Holiday.

Beginning on Saturday, July 9, the Saturday half-holiday will go into effect at the stores of A. M. Griffin, Gayle Hardware Company, Powlison & Jones, J. W. Gavett, Woodson & Buckle, Harold Hansen, and the local lumber yards.

Her Capable Management

"Mrs. Jones and I had just a lovely time to-day," said Mrs. Deeson, coming in with a happy smile and rosy cheeks. "I know I'm a little late, dear, but you don't mind, do you?"

Deeson assured his wife that waiting an hour for his dinner was a mere bagatelle compared to her enjoyment. Deeson had not been married long enough to see the seriousness of establishing a domestic precedent.

"Found some extra bargains, eh?" said her husband, patting her on the cheek.

"You always take things for granted. How do you know we were shopping?"

"Deduction, my dear. First, you asked me for money this morning, which I cheerfully gave you with the cheerless remark that it was all I had, because I had loaned some to a friend. Secondly—"

"Papa used to say that it took moral courage to refuse to loan money to a friend. You ought to have refused. I can't see what men are always wanting to borrow money for."

"Their wives, my dear. Secondly, breakfast was on time—"

"Yes, Mrs. Jones and I wanted to get downtown ahead of the crowd. But we had to stand all the way. I don't believe all those women on the car had finished washing their breakfast dishes. It's awful the way some women do."

Deeson gave a wistful glance at the dinnerless dining-room table. Then he said, since his wife seemed to expect him to go on talking: "To continue my deductions: thirdly, Jones told me his wife had been reading the alluring advertisements and wanted to take advantage of the unparalleled bargains. Fourthly, he wanted—"

"Bargains! I should say so," interrupted his wife. "You could always get things for nothing. Mrs. Jones certainly knows how to shop. I don't see how she can afford to spend so much money. She always acts as if she had a lot. I wish she wouldn't insist upon paying the car fare—implying that Mr. Jones gets more salary than you. I just told her that it wasn't likely the employer of both of you would pay one man more than another—right in the same office. So we both held out the car fare and when the conductor came for it she to reach over me and made me drop mine on the floor and then every one had to move. The conductor was impatient and took her fare—"

"How about the joy of shopping?"

"Oh, the start doesn't count. I wanted her to go with me to Martin's to look at suits, but she said she must go to another place first and get some knowledge of the prices. Such crowds! We had to elbow our way into the elevator, for we were determined not to wait for another car. Somebody stepped on my dress and tore it off the band, so we had to go back to the notion counter and buy some pins to hold me together. I discovered then that I had forgotten to bring the money you gave me this morning. Now, don't look so anxious—I'll show you what a financier I am.

"When we got to the suit department, there was a perfect love of a gown—entirely too small for Mrs. Jones. I put it on to show her how it would look if it hadn't been too small. She said I looked so nice that I really ought to have it—and it was only $17.49."

"Well, what did you do?"

"Of course she couldn't take it without first going to the store where I wanted to go. Just dear, the suits in that other store were ever so much more—not a thing under $18. Having seen the one for $17.49 at the first store, we went back for it. Would you believe it? That suit was sold. A woman had it on and wouldn't take it off, though Mrs. Jones explained that it was really my dress. So we went back to the other store and I bought the expensive— Don't laugh. It always seems a lot more when the price is marked in even figures. Mrs. Jones was going to get one for herself, but I explained that I had forgotten the money you gave me and asked her to lend me her money. I think I'll run over there now and pay her and get it off my mind."

"Never mind that twenty you borrowed of her. It will keep. Let's have some dinner."

"You clever thing! How did you know it was twenty that I borrowed?"

"I loaned it to Jones last night."

Mrs. Appleton Sniffs.

"The lure of a dab of rouge and a fluff of chiffon is as nothing to a man's heart compared with a bowl of onion soup," was a decision handed down by the New Wifehood guild of New York and, when Mrs. Lysander John Appleton read of it she sniffed so hard she fell down in it. "I know the men," said Mrs. Appleton. "A man likes a good cook before dinner, but after he has eaten his onion soup and all that goes with it he doesn't want a hardworking woman to come around him, tired out, with her hair uncurled and her eyes still red from peeling the onions; he wants some light, fluffy creature, with the rouge and the chiffon, and who doesn't know an egg beater from a carpet sweeper. These women's clubs can't tell me anything; I know the men." Then she sniffed so hard she burst all her corset strings. And, when a woman sniffs so hard she bursts her corset strings, the sniff is the climax of con-

When you Balance Books

at the end of the year, you will realize that it's not what you have earned, but what you have saved that denotes real progress.

Every dollar of surplus is a step forward — every dollar put away in your savings account is a dollar nearer independence.

The way to have a balance at the end of the year is to save regularly, week-by-week during the year.

Open your account today in the

Savings Department of

Fidelity Trust Company

NEWARK, N. J.,

and start building for the future.

4 per cent. on amounts up to $1,000.

3½ per cent. on amounts over $1,000.

YOUR DULL Headaches

Probably come from overstrained eye sight. Nine-tenths of the headaches are the direct result of eye trouble. Bring those troubles to us and let us prescribe for you.

All work guaranteed.

FREE EXAMINATION BY

Stiles & Co.

PHILADELPHIA EYE SPECIALISTS

at 107 East Front Street, Every Thursday.

Hours 11:15 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Central R. R. News Stands.

You can get it at the C. R. R. News Stands, both depots, Plainfield Daily Press and Elizabeth Journal, on sale at both stands. Philadelphia Morning, Evening and Sunday Papers. Largest assortment of Magazines and Weekly Papers in the city, back numbers procured. Brooklyn Papers, English Publications. Daily and Sunday Papers delivered. Orders left at stand receive prompt attention. Open Sundays.

A. H. ENANDER,

Sanitary Plumbing, Gas Fitting, Steam and Hot Water Heating. Contractor for Sewer Connections. 125 WATCHUNG AVE.

JOHN WIRTH

(Successor to Henry Liefke.)

BAKERY AND CONFECTIONERY.

201-203 West Front St. Tel. 738

Orders delivered at short notice.

HENRY WIERENGA

Residence 'Phone 817-J.

Furniture, Freight, Baggage Express and Rigger.

PIANO MOVING A SPECIALTY.

Now is the time when you need a

STOVE

and you may as well buy a good stove at a very Low Price. We are selling Stoves—Good Stoves—at low prices.

KADESH & LEVINE, 18 Somerset St.

PAINTERS AND DECORATORS.

Take a Look in our Window and you will be convinced that the latest in interior work—Arrochrome Washable Wall Decoration—is very handsome and effective.

Woolston & Buckle

Painters and Decorators

143 NORTH AVENUE.

George Washington Couldn't

tell a lie, neither could I and keep my self-respect. Nor would I give any less than the specified call for. My aim and principle good as I know how—even better than I agree to—for I know that a satisfied customer is my best advertisement.

Jas. C. Hansen

Dealer in WALL PAPERS, PAINTS, OILS GLASS, Etc.

141 East Front Street

TEL. 388 ESTIMATES FURNISHED

M. WARREN

PAINTER, DECORATOR and PAPERHANGER

85 SOMERSET ST.,

opposite Sangerbund Hall.

Special Notice!

we will take orders for STYLISH SUITS from

$18.50 to $35.00.

No finer tailoring than ours, none so good for the price. We invite your inspection.

Rogoff, the Tailor,

110 West Second St.,

Next to Plainfield Theatre.

Vail

JEWELER AND OPTICIAN

103 Park Ave.,

calls your attention to his

Rimless Glasses.

They Look Good and You See Good.

To Whom It May Concern.

This is to notify the Trade in general, Hotels, Saloons, etc., that D. Loprete, of Newark, N. J., the largest Bottle Dealer in the State, has opened a Branch of his business at No. 40 Maple Avenue.

Anyone having Bottles, Papers, Iron and Metals, etc., to dispose of, call No. 1053 Telephone, and same will be promptly attended to.

I have on hand all kinds of Bottles, new and second-hand.

Hotel Trade a Specialty.

Newark address, 189-203 Frelinghuysen Avenue.

WALKS

We Construct Them

Trap Rock, Cement

Experience

R. G. BUSH

Tel. Con. 743-5 South Ave

PLAINFIELD WINDOW CLEANING CO.

H. MERSTRICH, Prop.

Stores, Offices, Private Residences, New Buildings, Cleaned, Scrubbed and Oiled. Office, 145 East Front Street. Tel. 864-J.

Kindling and Grate Wood.

Cedar Posts and Bean Poles. Prompt deliveries. Orders received at 80 SOMERSET STREET.

JOHN MOBUS.

P. O. Box 320 Telephone 19-F-42

McCULLOUGH'S STEAM MILL,

21 Station place, North Plainfield, N. J.

R. H. McCULLOUGH, Prop.

Sash, Blinds, Doors, Mouldings, Scroll Sawing, Turning etc.

Estimates cheerfully furnished.

ALEX. LUSARDI.

Foreign and Domestic Fruits, Choice Confectionery, Nuts, Cigars, etc.

211 W. Front St. Tel. 867-W.

HOTELS.

HOTEL WALDORF

EAST FRONT STREET.

HENRY WINDMAN, Prop.

Gottfried Krueger's Extra Beer on draught. Imported Wines, Liquors and Cigars. Hotel accommodations and private dining-room.

G. J. WEINMAN

CAFE

213 Park Ave., Tel. 524-J

HOTEL KENSINGTON

NORTH AVENUE

UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT

HOUSE THOROUGHLY RENOVATED

SUNDAY DINNER From 12:30 to 2 P.M. 50c

THE

Hotel IROQUOIS

Conducted on the European Plan

Park Ave. and Second St.

EDUCATIONAL.

Plainfield Business College & School of English

Students may enter at any time.

PROF. A. S. HERR, Prin. and Prop

Tel. 726-w. Woodhull & Martin Building.

SEND FOR BOOKLET.

THE STARR PIANO CO.

Established 1872.

Branch Factory Office.

CHAS. M. SUHR, Mgr.

614 East 6th St., Plainfield, N. J.

DRUGGISTS.

WE ASSUME THE RISK

There is no promise expected or formality expected when you purchase our elixir of money back for the asking, if HEALL HAIR TONIC fails to grow hair on your head or on the face, today. We will assume all risk. TWO SIZES 50c and $1.00

MILLER'S PHARMACY

Park Ave. and Fourth St. Tel 802.

Hodge's Pharmacy.

Y. M. C. A. Building.

BELLE MEAD SWEETS.

Tel. 62

Health Is Wealth

Various boards of health, government inspectors and sanitariums everywhere urge the use of manufactured ICE.

Why? BECAUSE it is pure. We manufacture the purest Ice that can be produced and sell no other. PRICES REASONABLE.

CRYSTAL ICE Co.

MacDONALD & IVAMY,

Exclusive Handlers.

307 Arlington Ave., 'Phone 1023

For $1.50

per month we will clean and press 4 suits and one overcoat. Call for them and deliver the same. Payable $1.50 per month.

Repairing and Altering neatly done Suits to order $20 and up.

Howard W. Cobbs

(Successor to Leslie M. Cobbs.)

146 E. 5TH St. 'Phone 461-L

near Woman's Exchange.

SMALLEY BROS.

147 North Avenue.

BUTCHERS

CHOICE MEATS.

GAME IN SEASON.

ROASTING AND BROILING CHICKENS A SPECIALTY.

Orders called for and delivered.

Telephone 82-A

William H. Pope, ELECTRICIAN.

All kinds of Electrical Work done at Reasonable Prices.

116 NORTH AVENUE.

Lincoln Market Frank Neidig Proprietor

94 Somerset St Tele. 781

CHOICE MEATS, FISH AND VEGETABLES.

Heinz's Sauer Kraut

KODAKS

Complete line of Photo Supplies. Printing and Developing

At Doane's 115 Park Ave.

PARQUET & HARDWOOD FLOORS

Old Floors Refinished

GEO. E. WATT

150 North Ave. Tel. 333-w

Arrival and Departure of Mails

PLAINFIELD POSTOFFICE.

June 15, 1910.

NEW YORK MAILS.

Arrive—6.30, 8.00, 8.40, 11.45 a. m., 1.30, 2.30, 5.00, 5.30, 8.30 p. m., 12 midnight.
Close—6.00, 8.00, 9.00, 10.30, 11.50 a. m., 2.00, 2.50, 5.50, 7.10, 7.45, 9.00 p. m.

SOMERVILLE AND EASTON.

Arrive—8.40, 10.00 a. m., 12.30, 2.15 and 7.00 p. m.
Close—8.00 a. m., 12.35, 1.30, 4.30, 5.00 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA DIRECT.

Arrive—6.30, 8.00, 8.40, 11.45 a. m., 12.30, 2.30, 5.00 p. m.
Close—6.30, 9.00, 11.30 a. m., 12.35, 2.00, 3.50, 5.55, 7.45, 9.00 p. m.

THROUGH FAST MAIL FOR EAST.

Close—11.50 a. m., 2.50, 7.10 p. m.

DIRECT THROUGH FAST MAIL FOR WEST.

Close—8.00, 11.30 a. m., 1.30, 5.00 and 7.45 p. m.

DIRECT SOUTHERN MAILS.

Close—6.30 a. m., 12.35, 3.50, 5.50, 7.45 and 9.00 p. m.

PENNSYLVANIA, WEST OF EASTON.

Close—6.30 a. m., 12.35, 1.30 p. m.

ELIZABETH, DIRECT.

Arrive—8.00, 8.40 a. m., 1.30, 2.30, 5.30 p. m.
Close—8.00, 9.00, 10.30 a. m., 12.35, 2.00, 5.50, 9.00 p. m.

NEWARK, DIRECT.

Arrive—8.00, 8.40 a. m., 1.30, 2.30, 5.30 p. m.
Close—6.30, 8.00, 9.00, 10.30 a. m., 12.35, 2.00, 3.50, 5.50 p. m.

DIRECT MAILS TO SEA SHORE RESORTS DURING SUMMER.

Close—6.30 a. m., 1.00 and 3.30 p. m.

WATCHUNG.

Arrive—1.00, 6.45 p. m.
Close—9.00 a. m., 5.30 p. m.

WARRENVILLE.

Arrive—1.00 p. m.
Close—9.00 a. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open from 9.30 to 10.30 a. m.
Mail closes at 6.15 p. m.

E. H. BIRD, P. M.

New Jersey Central

Trains Leave Plainfield.

For New York—2.10, 3.41, 5.41, 5.56, 6.09, 6.27, 6.56, 7.25, 7.28, 7.46, 7.46, 7.55, 8.09, 8.11, 8.36, 8.42, 9.29, 9.59, 10.55, 11.52 a. m., 12.00, 12.19, 12.42, 1.09, 1.27, 2.12, 2.42, 3.09, 3.13, 3.24, 3.42, 4.23, 4.29, 6.45, 7.09, 7.32, 8.27, 9.27, 9.40, 10.15, 10.36, 11.28 p. m. Sunday—2.10, 3.41, 5.41, 7.32, 8.27, 9.27, 10.15, 10.36, 11.28 p. m.
For Elizabeth—2.10, 3.41, 5.41, 6.09, 6.27, 6.56, 7.25, 7.28, 7.46, 7.46, 8.09, 8.11, 8.36, 8.42, 9.29, 9.59, 10.55, 12.00, 12.40, 1.09, 1.24, 2.01, 2.41, 3.09, 3.24, 4.29, 5.41, 6.45, 6.48, 8.12, 8.27, 8.35, 9.42, 10.36, 10.36 p. m.
For Newark—6.56, 6.27, 6.56, 7.07, 7.23, 7.46, 8.11, 8.36, 8.42, 9.29, 9.59, 10.55, 12.00 a. m., 12.42, 1.27, 2.32, 3.09, 4.12, 4.42, 5.59, 6.29, 7.35, 8.27, 9.40 p. m. Sunday—7.32, 8.27, 9.27, 10.15, 10.36, 11.28 p. m., 12.40, 2.01, 2.41, 3.24, 4.29, 5.41, 6.48, 8.12, 9.42, 10.36 p. m.
For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown and Mauch Chunk—11.23 p. m., 5.38, 8.17, 9.42 a. m., 2.00, 3.22, 5.46, (6.27 p. m., Easton only). Sundays—7.45 a. m., 1.58, 5.46, 7.06 p. m.
For Wilkesbarre and Scranton—5.18, 9.53 a. m., 5.46 p. m. Sundays—5.45 a. m., 5.46 p. m.
For Long Branch and Asbury Park, etc., 2.41, 7.46, 10.55 a. m., (1.27 Saturday only), 4.42, 5.59, 11.28 p. m. Sundays —2.57, 3.53 a. m., 3.24, 8.13 p. m.
For Lakewood and Atlantic City—8.41, 9.29 a. m., (12.42 Saturdays only), 1.27, 3.09, 2.56 p. m. Sundays—(7.23 Lakewood only), 9.46 a. m., 2.0. p. m.
For Philadelphia—7.13, 7.29, 8.46, 9.12, 10.43 a. m., 12.13, 12.42, 1.39, 2.14, 2.45, 5.12, 6.44, 7.42, 8.50, 9.46 p. m., 12.20 night. Sundays—8.46, 9.46, 9.53, 10.32, 10.43, 11.42 a. m., 12.42, 1.44, 2.46, 3.42, 4.55, 5.54, 6.44, 7.43, 8.50, 9.46 p. m., 11.36, 1.20 night.
For Baltimore and Washington, Daily —10.43 a. m., 12.42, 2.46, 7.42, 9.46, 12.43 p. m.

W. G. BESLER, Vice Pres. & Gen. Mgr. W. C. HOPE, Gen. Pass. Agt.

J. C. FIELD, Jr.

Tel. 991-W. 411 Park Ave.

Fine Stationery, Sporting Goods and Photo Supplies.
Sub-Postoffice in store.

Let us do your developing and printing. The best photographic work may be spoiled by the indifference, inability or carelessness of the finisher. The years of experience and constant improving methods enabled us to give our customers better results than they have ever had. We desire to compete with others and so make the following exceptional offering.

FREE! During one of your favorite negatives and we will print it without charge.

Fresh Young Peas

Peas that are Fresh, Young and Tender—that's the kind we offer you, and you will find them Sweet and Delicious. Also the Best of other Fresh Vegetables and Fruits at prices that will reduce the cost of living.

Prompt, Free Deliveries.

W. W. DUNN

THE PARK GROCER

Door St. and Lincoln Pl

JOS. F. BURKE

718 Monroe Ave. Tel. 145-R.

Successor to Mrs. John Brown

General Contractor and Grader

Cesspools and Vaults Cleaned

Satisfaction Guaranteed.

Positively the only odorless Excavator in the City.

Estimates cheerfully given.

J. T. Vail's, North avenue., 'Phone 204. Postoffice Box 713.

For prices call

FRANK BURKE, Manager.

825 W Third St. Tel. 1306-W.

ICE 35 cents

Commencing April 1, I will deliver ice to families in Plainfield and North Plainfield at 35c per hundred. The quality is the finest natural ice ever cut and the service will be first-class. I solicit the patronage of Daily Press readers and others.

JOHN MORTON

Office 145 North Ave. 'Phone 1086.
Residence, 52 Mountain Ave. 'Phone 454-J. 3 22 tf

J. C. POPE & CO.,

INSURANCE AGENTS

129 E. Front St. Plainfield, N. J.

COAL DEALERS.

Rich'd Parrott, Jr.

Dealer in First Quality

LEHICH COAL and WOOD

686 South Second St.

Telephone Number 1569

JOS. HARRIGAN

OLD COMPANY'S LEHIGH COAL

929 South Avenue

Telephone 98.

TenEyck & Harris,

Dealers in

LEHIGH VALLEY COAL

Office: Bowler's Drug Store, 218 West Front Street. Telephone 648-w.

Coal I have on hand some very fine Hard and Medium Coal. All sizes and grades. Pea Coal. Coal

25 cents a ton reduction on cash orders.

L. A. RHEAUME

148 East Fourth St. Telephone 86-W
Yard, 674 South Second St. Telephone 228

GORGE O. STEVENS

747 West Front St.

R. L. CLINE

(Successor to C. H. Rogge & Co.)

Best Quality Lehigh Coal

Yard and office 400 West Third St. Tel. 82

TenEyck & Kelley

Successors to Keeley Co.

COAL

741 SOUTH AVE. Tel. 1155

J. HIMMELFARB,

Ladies' Tailor and Fashionable Dressmaker

Suits to order at very Low Prices for this month. Fit Guaranteed. My Workmanship Speaks For Itself

309-311 NEW ST.

TELEPHONE 903-J.

Near Truex's court

Advertisements

FOR

New York Herald, World, Times, Sun Journal, Telegram, American, Brooklyn Eagle and Newark Evening News

Received at

The Daily Press

AT REGULAR OFFICE RATES

TIMBO'S Stock for Smokers

Romeo and Juliets, La Carolinas, Bocky's, Manuel Garcias, Acker, Merrall & Condit's La Elegancias, and a fine line of New York and Tampa makes. Fancy Smoker's Articles.

133-135 North Avenue.

JOHN WINZENRIED'S

Storage Warehouse

816-818 WEST FRONT ST.

Separate Rooms, Clean and Dry. Furniture removed with care Tel. 841-R. Residence 212 Lee place.

John Lo Presti's

405 Watchung Avenue.

Come and try our Home-made Ice Cream, delivered to any part of the city.

Fruit and Confectionery. Cigars and Tobacco. 'Phone 440-J.

Hoagland's Express

RELIABLE BAGGAGE DELIVERY

Office 205 Park Av. Tel. 833-w

Home Tel. 648-L.

IF YOU WANT ANY

RUSTIC SEATS

CALL UP

KEIDERLING

Phone 559-J

Her Boy's Book.

A certain woman is going to keep a diary of the clever things said and done by her boy. She expects to buy a large book and jot down all the interesting events in the child's life, keep it a secret, and give it to him when he is of age. The mother is of literary turn of mind, and this book, if ever completed, will be valuable to the owner, as many pleasant little childhood incidents occur that one forgets.

Iron Cross of Prussia.

The iron cross is the Prussian order of knighthood instituted March 10, 1813, by Frederick William III., and conferred for distinguished services in the war when carried on. The decoration is an iron cross with silver mounting. The grand cross is one of double size, presented exclusively for the gaining of a decisive battle or the capture or brave defense of a fortress.

Relic of the Past.

The modern housewife if she now sees an old clothes pounder in the collection is apt to ask: "What is that for?" It was used for pounding clothes in a barrel on washing day in the everlasting fight with dirt. It is far removed from the modern laundry or the washing machine of the present day.

Bricks from Anthills.

Excellent bricks are made of the soil of anthills in central Africa. The natives tread it with water into a doughlike substance, which is shaped in rough wooden molds. It is then dried in the sun, and afterward baked in native kilns.

Universities Then and Now.

Francis L, visiting the Spanish university of Acala de Henares in the sixteenth century, found 11,000 students. Bologna university had 10,000 students at the early height of its prosperity. It is now flourishing with 1,500.

Another Fling at the Poet.

"I'm a toiler in life's vineyard," wrote a Buffalo poet, and the linotype man made it "tailor." Still, this isn't so bad. Most poets would be glad if they could make their own duds.—Exchange.

To Loosen a Wick.

When a lamp wick is too large for the burner, and does not turn up readily, instead of cutting down the side to make it smaller, which makes the ravellings, draws two or three threads from the middle of the wick.

How to Spot 'Em.

"I shall not wed until I can marry a hero." "Well, you show the first man who proposes to you a schedule of the cost of living and if he still asks you to take him for your meal ticket he is a hero."

Appertaining to the Knocker.

"Sometimes de knocker is mo' foolish dan malicious," said Uncle Eben. "He's liable to be sacrificin' friendship an' respect foh de sake of entertainin' a mighty ongrateful audience."

Electricity at White House.

Electricity is the only illuminant used at the White House, and in many respects the electrical installation is the most elaborate and complete in any residence in the country.

No Snow on Highest Peaks.

Snow does not fall at a greater hight than 16,000 feet above the sea level, there being no moisture in the atmosphere. Therefore the highest mountains are not capped with snow.

Blood Will Tell.

"Mrs. McManus, you're a lady and your husband is a gentleman; but thot son Moike av yours, be hivins, he comes from a family of robbers, so he does."—Boston Transcript.

Observation by the Cynic.

"The closest the average man ever gets to thinking," says the Philosopher of Folly, "is when he thinks he's thinking."

Saved in Time.

Clerk (run into by somebody in the dark)—Stupid ass—(perceiving it is his employer) that I am.—Fliegende Blatter.

Eve's Chief Distinction.

Eve had the satisfaction of thinking, anyhow, that her husband was the best man in the world.—Somerville Journal.

Once Enough.

She—"History repeats itself, you know." "Not always. You never heard of a man eloping more than once, did you?"—Yonkers Statesman.

Uncle Ezra Says:

"The bald-headed man has this satisfaction: His friends don't remind him uv it every time he's hed a hair cut."

Great Surgical Achievement.

"And what do you regard as the greatest triumph of modern surgery?" "Collecting the bills," promptly responded the great practitioner.

Crushing.

"Do you think that actor can sink his personality in his part?" "His acting is heavy enough to sink anything."

Therefore, Forgot Them.

The troubles of to-morrow disqualify us for the duties of to-day.

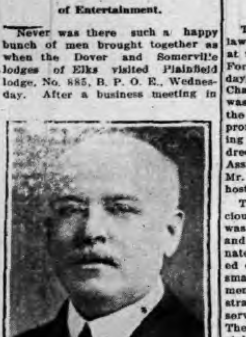
GREAT NIGHT FOR ELKS

"Best People on Earth" Have Rollicking Time at Saengerbund.

PARADE THROUGH STREETS.

And Then the Visitors From Somerville and Dover See What No. 885 Can Do in the Line of Entertainment.

Never was there such a happy bunch of men brought together as when the Dover and Somerville lodges of Elks visited Plainfield lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., Wednesday. After a business meeting in



Joseph Noonan,
Exalted Ruler of Plainfield Lodge of Elks.

the rooms on West Second street the three lodges formed in line and headed by the Independent Fife and Drum Corps marched through West Second street to Park avenue, to East Front, to Watchung avenue, to North avenue, where a rousing cheer of encouragement saluted Armstrong Mulford, then to Park avenue to Front, to Somerset street to Saengerbund hall, where the entertainment of the evening was given.

A program which included the opening chorus and solo work of the minstrel show given in May was then gone through with and the ensemble and individual work lost none of its crispness by repetition. At least three hundred men were present to enjoy the feast of wit and song. Refreshments were served after the final round of a three-round exhibition by "Jack Johnson" and "Sam Langford," two pickaninnies from New Brunswick. A shower of silver greeted the end of this amusing stunt.

A bountiful collation was served immediately after the close of the entertainment to which everyone did justice, putting in the time between toasts with good natured fun. As it was announced, the men were just boys again and lived up to the prerogatives of youth.

Elmer Cutting impersonating a woman had the visiting guests wondering from the time he made his appearance in skirts until his disguise was removed. Tommy Muir in his monologue was received with applause and at the conclusion of his song received an ovation. All the songs were good, in fact the whole program was of the best. A quartet composed of Joseph C. Martin, Edwin H. Bennett, Joseph Randall and John H. Cose sang a plantation song which would have done credit to any professional team.

Introduced by Exalted Ruler Joseph Noonan, Judge William N. Runyon made the speech of the evening and at precisely 11 o'clock the judge jumped on a chair and proposed a toast to the order which was drunk standing. Three rousing cheers were given for Plainfield Lodge Lodge No. 885 B. P. O. E.

Following was the program:

Opening chorus, "Just Returned From the Hunt," by company; "Waiter's Chorus," introducing end men; medley of popular airs, by company; "You'll Come Back," John V. Todd; "You are the Ideal of My Dreams," John J. Campbell; "Heinz," Charles J. Ward; "Meet Me Tonight in Dreamland," William J. Talamy; "Alabam," Edwin H. Bennett; "Annie Laurie," Elmer D. Cutting; "Come After Breakfast," Charles G. Davis; "Garden of Roses," Townsend Fellows; "Come Right in," Harry N. Blimm; "When Night Falls O'er the Sea," William G. Smith; "I'm On My Way to Reno," John H. Cose; finale, "Drink a Toast to Yankeeland," Arthur Groff; "Down on the Plantation," introducing some quartette, Joseph C. Martin, Edwin H. Bennett, Joseph Randall, John H. Cose, assisted by "Jack Johnston" and "Sam Langford."

"Some men are so queer." "And you are going to tell me of one particularly queer one." "Yes. It's Mr. Barberton. His wife used to beg him for nickels and dimes, and now he's cheerfully paying her a hundred a week for alimony."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

EASTERN STAR FESTIVAL

Good Entertainment Provided by Lydia Chapter, a Masonic Auxiliary.

LARGE CROWD IS PRESENT.

Strawberries and Ice Cream and Good Music Are Enjoyed at Affair Held at A. E. Force's Residence.

The strawberry and ice cream lawn festival and entertainment held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Force, on West Front street, Thursday, under the auspices of Lydia Chapter, No. 41, Order Eastern Star, was a great success, serving to bring the new organization here more prominently before the people. During the evening more than four hundred people patronized the affair. Assisting the various committees, Mr. and Mrs. Force proved admirable host and hostess.

The festival was held on the spacious lawn of the Force home, which was elaborately decorated with flags and bunting and brilliantly illuminated with electric lights. Scattered over the lawn were numerous small tables from which refreshments, including ice cream, cake, strawberries and lemonade were served by attractive young women. The affair was also marked by sociability and everyone appeared to have a good time.

Throughout the evening a large number of automobile parties arrived and and joined in the festivities; also helping to swell the funds in the treasury. The Masonic fraternity was also largely represented by the husbands and other relatives of the women in charge of the festival.

One of the big features of the evening was the fine entertainment, comprising vocal and instrumental music and recitations. Mrs. Clayton M. Nagle was chairman of this committee and she secured a fine array of talent from this city and out of town. The artists gave their services, which the audience appreciated as shown by hearty applause. The general program follows:

Vocal solos, Miss Catherine Edwards, of Westfield; Miss Mab Bruce, of Brooklyn; Mrs. Robert Giddis, Elmo E. Weaver, Harold Leadbitter, William Holmes, of this city; Mrs. Harry Purcell, of Westfield; George Tyler Smith, of Brooklyn; violin solos, Miss Minnie Naylor, of Bound Brook, accompanied by Miss Nellie Giddis, of Bound Brook; Kenneth Stuart; piano duets, the Misses Ray and Anna Warnock; recitations, Mrs. William Krennick; piano solos, Miss Jubilee Rowley; selections by the Elks Quartet, comprising Elmer D. Cutting, Harry Blimm, Joseph C. Martin and John Todd. Every number on the program was well received and the performers generously responded to encores. Mrs. Elizabeth Woodhard was the accompanist of the evening. The committees:

Ice cream, Mrs. W. W. Warnock, chairman; Mrs. Laura Wilson, Mrs. C. L. Nash, Mrs. W. G. Hutchcroft, Mrs. Calvin H. Rugg; tickets, Mrs. Clayton M. Nagle, chairman; Mrs. Weaver; strawberries, Mrs. A. E. Force, chairman; Miss Ida Dealman, Mrs. W. G. Hutchcroft, Mrs. H. G. Uhler; chairs and tables, Mrs. A. E. Force, chairman; Mrs. Arthur McVoy, Mrs. Frank Rowley, Mrs. H. G. Uhler, Mrs. VanCamp, Mrs. Robert Giddis; orangeade, Arthur Force; lemonade, Gerald Varley; cake, Mrs. L. Williams, chairman; Mrs. Elizabeth Woodhard, Mrs. George Bayer; music and entertainment, Mrs. Clayton M. Nagle. In addition there was a large number of young women who served as waitresses.

Light and decorating, Mrs. H. W. Marshall, chairman; L. E. Weaver, Mrs. W. G. Hutchcroft, Mrs. Edward A. Laing, Mrs. L. B. Woolston, Mrs. John S. Eveland.

SOME JUNE WEATHER STATISTICS COMPILED.

Weather Prophet John Neagle has compiled the statistics of weather for twenty-three June months from 1888 to 1910, showing a remarkable range of temperature during that period. It shows that on June 20, 1893, was recorded the highest temperature, 100 degrees for any month in those years. The official record follows:

June 23, 1888, 99 degrees; 28, 1889, 90 degrees; 30, 1890, 90 degrees; 16, 1891, 97 degrees; 13, 1892, 9 7degrees; 20, 1893, 100 degrees; 23, 1894, 97 degrees; 1, 1895, 93 degrees; 21, 1896, 92 degrees; 30, 1897, 89 degrees; 25, 1898, 94 degrees; 28, 1899, 99 degrees; 27, 1900, 95 degrees; 30, 1901, 97 degrees; 13, 1902, 92 degrees; 3, 1903, 86 degrees; 25-26, 1904, 95 degrees; 18, 1905, 93 degrees; 29, 1906, 93 degrees; 25, 1907, 92 degrees; 21, 1908, 96 degrees; 25, 1909, 96 degrees; 21, 1910, 94 degrees. Average maximum temperature, 94.5 degrees.

—Constitutionalist's ads. pay.

PUBLIC SCHOOL TEACHERS

Superintendent Maxson Announces Corps for the New School Year.

NEW ONES ARE ENGAGED.

And a Few Leave—The Complete List in All the Various Grades Is Given Out Today.

Announcement has been made by the superintendent of schools, Dr. Henry M. Maxson, of the teaching corps for the coming school year. The list follows:

High School—Lindsey Best, principal; S. Lena Bass, French, Latin; Katherine F. Ball, English, mathematics; Ellen K. Cumming, James D. Macnab, commercial; Ariadne Gilbert, English; Samuel B. Howe, Jr., history; M. E. Benedict, mathematics, English; Henry R. Hubbard, Science; Frederick H. Beals, Science; Daisy T. Day, German, mathematics; Alice Forsythe, English, mathematics; Anne K. Miller, English, Latin; Alice H. Mumper, Iola Moore, librarian.

Stillman School—Anna M. Day, principal; Alice W. Lansing, 8D; Elmina L. Easton, 8C; Dorothea E. Bull, 8B; Madelia H. Waterbury, 8A; Ada M. Smith, 7E; Eleanor T. Wilber, 7D; Katherine M. Beebe, 7C; Isabelle G. Ross, 7B; Stella M. Barnett, 7A; Frances Kinne, unassigned.

Whittier School—Alice R. Barlow, 6E; Caroline S. Bush, 6D; Louise H. Fuller, 6C; Mary L. Searle, 6B; Mildred C. Beard, 6A; Helga Johnson, special.

Franklin School—Noel J. Bullock, principal; Harriet H. Humphrey, 5; Rebea L. White, 5; Mabel A. Batty, 5; Clara J. Churton, 4B; Anna Stillman, 4A; Pearl V. Knapp, 3B; Helen C. Trenbath, 3A; Gladys M. Teasdale, 2B; Fanny L. Beckwith, 2A; Mary Wilkens, 1B; Caroline A. Barber, 1A; Elizabeth T. Angell, kindergarten; Grace A. Berry, kindergarten; Ruth D. Sadler, unassigned.

Washington School—M. E. Humpstone, principal; Bessie R. Allen, 6; M. Josephine Skillings, 5; Estella C. Butler, mixed; Lilla F. Bateman, 5; Elizabeth M. Smith, 4B; O. M. McIntire, 4A; Jean Gfillilan, 3B; Hazel J. Brown, 3A; Mayme Breads, 2B; Ethel Burton, 2A; Alice Boyd, 1; Evelyn Fisher, kindergarten; Edith Weaver, kindergarten; Margaret Boyd, unassigned.

Bryant School—Flora Griffin, principal; Frederica Gibbs, 5B; Martha Klein, 5A; Fannie M. Thorn, 4B; Geneva G. Cowen, 4A; Helen Whitton, 3; Frances Weed, 2B; Lucia N. Wood, 2A; Kate M. Marsh, 1B; Louise B. Runyon, 1A; Cora F. Cadmus, kindergarten; Hope B. Grant, unassigned.

Irving School—Genevieve Petrie, principal; Ruth I. Thompson, 7; Mary M. Jones, 6; Elizabeth E. Greenleaf, 5A; Ada B. Stark, 4B; Alice A. Lee, 4A; Ada H. Clark, 3B; Mary J. Dennis, 3A; Louise Egan, 2B; Ethel M. Sleight, 2A; Harriet Filmer, 1B; Georgia A. Ricker, 1A; Elizabeth S. Ellis, kindergarten; Marion E. Day, unassigned.

Lincoln School—Caroline Lee, 5; Myrtle S. Reynolds, 4; Allie T. Eastman, 3; Alice G. Barrett, 2B; 8. Louise Wood, 2A; Addie D. Eastman, 1B; Mary Marsh, 1A; Charlotte E. Tennant, kindergarten; Clara L. Crane, unassigned.

Jefferson School—Mary C. Durkan, 6; Roberta H. Reynolds, Anna W. Booraem, Marjorie B. Barbour, Theresa A. Fisher, Catharine E. Carman.

Special—Anna J. Bennett, drawing; Charles L. Lewis, music; Addie P. Jackson, physical culture; Charles R. Bostwick, manual training; Mary E. Decker, manual training; Mildred M. Parker, domestic science; Corinne M. Frame, cooking and sewing; Adelaide G. Ball, attendance supervisor.

These are the new teachers:

Stillman School—Frances Kinne, Hermon, N. Y., graduate of Potsdam Normal School.

Franklin School—Rebea L. White, Tuxedo Park, N. Y., graduate of Geneseo Normal; Mabel A. Batty, Tuxedo Park, N. Y., graduate of Geneseo Normal; Ruth D. Sadler, Plattsburg, N. Y., graduate of Plattsburg.

Washington School—M. Josephine Skillings, Fulton, N. Y.; Estella C. Butler, No. Lawrence, N. Y., graduate of Potsdam Normal; Margaret Boyd, North Adams, Mass, graduate of North Adams Normal.

Irving School—Ruth I. Thompson, graduate of Plainfield High School and Westfield, Mass., Normal; Marion E. Day, Valcourt, N. Y., graduate of Plattsburg Normal.

Bryant School—Fannie M. Thorne, Norwood, Mass., graduate of Framingham Normal; Hope B. Grant, Brasher Falls, N. Y., graduate of Potsdam Normal; Gladys M. Teasdale, Attleboro, Mass., graduate of Rhode Island Normal.

Jefferson School—Mary C. Durkan, Tuxedo Park, N. Y., graduate of Geneseo Normal.

Lincoln School—Mary Marsh, one of our old teachers who has been out for a year.

High School—Ellen K. Cumming, formerly of the High School, who has been out for a year. Domestic science—Corinne M. Frame, now supervisor in Rome, N. Y., graduate of Technical School at Potsdam, Normal.

These teachers are leaving—Edna A. Post, Franklin, goes into special teaching work; Florence Martin, Franklin, gives up teaching; Ethel Churton, Franklin, is to enter upon supervisory work in drawing; Anna Goaman, Bryant, desires to be with her sister in Cleveland; Mathilde M. Vogel, Bryant, is to be married; May Lamson, Lincoln, goes into private school work; Minnie C. Copeland, Washington, is to be married; Katherine Newman, goes to Oklahoma to teach.

HOPE LAWN FESTIVAL AT PASTOR'S HOME

With ideal weather conditions the lawn festival held Wednesday afternoon and evening at the home of Rev. L. R. Howard on West Fifth street, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society and the ways and means committee of Hope chapel, was a great success. The affair was held throughout the afternoon and evening and by 10:30 o'clock in the evening the supply of ice cream, strawberries, cake, candy and lemonade was disposed of and at a good profit. The net proceeds will be over $55.

The affair was an informal one, and a pleasing diversion was the playing of all kinds of games on the lawn. The decorations comprised American flags, bunting and Japanese lanterns. Features were three automobiles placed at the disposal of the ways and means committee by the owners, who also drove their cars. They were G. Herbert Condict, George Leighs, F. A. Weber and James Haskard. Rides about the city were given for the minimum fare of ten cents and the receipts helped to swell the fund. The motorists received the thanks of the committee in charge for their voluntary services.

The committees were: Lemonade and fruits, Mrs. Thomas Hendry, Mrs. James Herron, Mrs. Thomas Brown and Mrs. David Gordon; candy, Mrs. Willard H. Cook and Mrs. Charles Hughes; cake, Mrs. Gertrude Rittenhouse, Mrs. George Leighs and Mrs. Charles Vincent; ice cream, Mrs. Donald McInnes, Mrs. Harry Keen, Mrs. F. A. Weber, Mrs. W. S. Terry and Mrs. Orra E. Eckert.

H. L. FINCH PRESIDENT OF WATCHUNG HUNT CLUB

The board of stewards of the Watchung Hunt Club met Wednesday and elected these officers for the coming year: President, Henry L. Finch; vice president, Harry E. Butler; Secretary, Frank W. Thompson; treasurer, Hart S. Farlee; master of the hounds, Rufus C. Finch; board of stewards, Robert A. Fairbairn, Edwin S. Hooley, Henry L. Finch, Arthur L. Otterson, William J. Buttfield, C. E. S. Bellows, Thomas R. VanBoskerck, Hart S. Farlee, C. Wesley Holland, Rufus C. Finch and Harry E. Butler.

President Finch will announce his committees sometime next week. Although he did not want the honor, the stewards insisted upon Mr. Finch taking the presidency for the coming year. He has been active in the club and instrumental in promoting its interests. Many social functions are being planned for the coming season.

THEY HAD A FINE TIME AT THEIR CAMP-FIRE.

The first camp-fire and "spread" of the Men's Conference Bible Class, of the First Baptist church, was held *near the King's Daughters' baby-*camp on Johnston's Drive last night, and it proved to be a jolly affair. The men began to gather at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, each bringing something along for the "spread" later on. It was a happy crowd and the affair was marked by an informality that added greatly to the pleasure of everyone.

At 7 o'clock fifty men partook of the many good things provided. There were short speeches by H. W. Herrman and B. J. Phelps, teachers of the class, and John G. MacLaughlin, the class president, while the class quartet and glee club entertained with a program of popular songs. While seated about the camp-fire, the men engaged in story-telling, interspersing the fine music. The committee in charge comprised H. W. Herrman, B. J. Phelps, R. W. Barnes, Charles Conover, Lewis Matlack, J. H. Crane and John G. Mac-Laughlin.

Calculating.

"Mr. Nippen always wants the most possible for his money."

"Yes. He invariably selects a cloudy day to go to a baseball game in the hope of seeing several innings and then getting a rain check."—Washington Evening Star.

CHAS. H. HAND WINS OUT

Following Advice of Winfield S. Angleman in Suit Involving Theatre.

RICE ALLEGED MURDER VICTIM.

Several Thousands of Dollars Saved for the Defendant in Famous Law Suit.

Notwithstanding the advice given him by a number of prominent lawyers in other cities that he could not win, Charles H. Hand has been successful in the suit brought against him over ten years ago by the late William M. Rice, the New York and Texas millionaire, for whose murder Albert T. Patrick, the New York lawyer, is serving a life term, to recover a deficiency on a $40,000 bond given by Mr. Hand to accompany a mortgage on the property now known as the Plainfield Theatre on West Second street which was at the time the mortgage was given owned by Mr. Hand. Mr. Hand secured the services of Counsellor W. S. Angleman in the case, and by following his advice in the matter he is a number of thousands of dollars to the good.

After giving the mortgage, Mr. Hand sold the property, and the new owner not paying the interest, foreclosure proceedings were brought. The property brought about $16,000 on the sale, and the suit brought against Mr. Hand was on the bond for the deficiency. Mr. Hand claimed that he was not liable as he had made an agreement with Judge Bartine, who represented Mr. Rice at the time, not to bid at the sale, and that he had not been made a defendant to the foreclosure proceedings.

A motion was made to strike out this defense as not being a proper one before Chancellor Magie, who was then, as a Justice of the Supreme Court, holding the Circuit Court at Somerville. This motion was denied, but was renewed before former Justice Van Syckel, who was then the Justice of the Supreme Court sitting at Elizabeth, and who also denied it. Counsellor James J. Bergen, now a Justice of the Supreme Court, represented Mr. Rice on both occasions, and Counsellor Angleman successfully defended the position taken by him on behalf of Mr. Hand. The plaintiff then filed a demurrer, but before ought the case on for argument, as Mr. Rice's death and the long contest over his will which followed delayed doing so, Later Pitney, Hardin & Skinner, of Newark, were substituted as the attorneys for the Rice estate.

Along about this time William J. Counihan bought the property for theatre purposes, and the Fidelity Trust Company, of Newark, guaranteed the title. To clean matters up the company's counsel, Samuel W. Beldon, filed a bill in Chancery in the name of Mr. Counihan to restrain the further prosecution of the suit. This action has never been brought to a hearing, but this week the lawyers for the Rice estate have discontinued the case against Mr. Hand.

POSITIONS FOR GRADS, P.H.S. ALUMNI SCHEME

The Plainfield High School Alumni Association, desiring to be of greater service, proposed at its last annual meeting to use its best endeavors to provide suitable employment for the graduates of the P. H. S. and that larger number of pupils in the underclasses who leave school before graduation. In this they have been assisted by Principal Best. Many of the splendid body of young people, who graduated last night, have already found a place in which to begin the battle of life.

William C. Hubbard, president of the Plainfield High School Alumni Association, and Lindsey Best, principal, are both much interested in this plan, and cordially invite the alumni and friends of the school to co-operate with them in securing proper places, or positions, in which the graduates or younger people may start. Until the schools open in September this work will be in the hands of W. C. Hubbard, 111 West Fifth street, who says he will be pleased to receive and answer applications from employers and with whom all desiring positions should register.

Scott—Blake.

Miss Clutha Louise Blake, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Blake, of Newark, was married to George W. Scott, of this city, on Thursday night at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. Scott is a son of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Scott, of Newark. The bride was attended by Miss Myrtle Scott, sister of the bridegroom, and the best man was Huber Scott, brother of the bridegroom. After a wedding trip to Washington, D. C., Mr. and Mrs. Scott will make their home in this city.

CONTRACTS AWARDED FOR CHURCH EXTENSION

At a special meeting of the consistory of Trinity Reformed church, Wednesday contracts were awarded for the extensive improvements to be made to the church edifice this summer, including the building of an addition in the rear to provide the needed room for the Sunday-school. The women of the church, through the Ladies' Christian Work Society, will re-carpet the whole church, and when the improvements are completed the edifice will compare with the most attractive in the city.

The changes will also include the straightening and regilding of the weather vane. H. C. VanEmburgh, civil engineer, will begin at once the work of surveying the land for the addition in the rear, and the contracts will be signed this week and the work started soon afterward.

The interior decorations are intended to make a complete change in the color scheme. The supporting overhead beams and girders will be changed to an oak color, while the ceiling and side walls will be of cream shade. This will lighten up the whole interior. The edifice is also to be painted outside. The successful bidders and their figures are as follows:

Lumber C. Smith, mason work, $835; John H. Cose, slating, $90; James C. Hansen, painting exterior and interior, $1,945; A. M. Griffin, plumbing and tinning, $494. There were four bids for the carpenter work received, but the contract was not awarded to the lowest bidder on account of a defect in the bid.

MISS MILLER THE BRIDE OF ARTHUR G. STEVENSON

Miss Cora Davis Miller, daughter of Mrs. Frederick K. Miller, of Front street, Scotch Plains, and Arthur Glover Stevens, son of Arthur Stevens, of Boston, Mass., were married Wednesday at home of the bride's mother. Rev. John Y. Brook, pastor of the Trinity Reformed church, this city, performed the ceremony at 8 o'clock in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends.

The wedding march was played by Charles Suhr's Imperia' Orchestra. The ceremony was performed under an arch of flowers and ferns. The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. George L. Dunn, as matron-of-honor. She was given in marriage by her uncle, Henry Broadwell, of Newark. Miss Ruth Dunn, neice of the bride, and Miss Gladys Brokaw, of Plainfield, were bridesmaids. The best man was Frank Montague Stevens, of East Orange, brother of the groom. The usher was Albert Giddis, of this city.

The bride was handsomely gowned in white silk, trimmed with satin and pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies-of-the-valley. The matron of honor's gown was of pink silk mull. She carried pink carnations. The flower girls were dressed in pink and carried flowers.

A reception followed the ceremony when the couple received the congratulations of their friends. Supper was served by DeMoll & Co., caterers, of Plainfield. Later in the evening the bride and groom left on an extended trip to Washington and Boston.

The home was lavishly decorated with roses and ferns, the arrangement in the parlor and dining-room being very effective. The groom's gift to the bride was a diamond and pearl sunburst, and the bride's gift to the groom was a diamond stick pin. The best man and usher received cuff buttons set with diamonds from the groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Stevens are popular in a large circle of friends and they received many handsome wedding gifts, comprising cut glass, silverware, furniture, etc. There were guests present from East Orange, Newark, Rahway, Plainfield, Bound Brook, Princeton, Virginia and Scotch Plains. Upon the return of the bride and groom they will reside at Scotch Plains.

Miller to Be a Dentist.

D. Russell Miller, who won the Yale Cup at the city High School this year will enter the Dental School of the University of Pennsylvania in the fall. The city High School certificate enabled him to enter without taking any examinations.

Why Not?

"Senator Wombat has just read 'Lucile' for the first time. Says it is a magnificent poem."

"Enthusiastic about it, is he?"

"So much so that he wants to have it reprinted as a public document."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Last Word.

Stella—Nasty thing! He said that a woman always has the last word.

Connie—Of course she doesn't.

Stella—When doesn't she?

Connie—When she's talking to another woman.

EXERCISES AT RUTGERS

Rev. Dr. Schenck's Son is Awarded a Prize at the Commencement.

YOUNG FERGUSON IS LUCKY.

He Also Receives An Award—Announcement is Made of Many Gifts To New Jersey's College.

Two Plainfield young men were honored at the commencement exercises at Rutgers College Wednesday. Harold William Schenck, son of Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Cornelius Schenck, of West Front street, received the Sloan Classical Entrance Prize, while John DeLancey Ferguson, also of this city, was awarded first honors in the competition for the Wall Targum Prize; also the John Parker Winner Memorial Prize.

Russell Ford Stryker, of Bound Brook, won the second classical honor, the rhetorical honor, and honors in Greek, in addition to being graduated with the degree of A. B.

Sixty-eight degrees were conferred and a number of changes in the staff and several benefactions were announced at the commencement. Supreme Court Justice Willard P. Voorhees, '71 and Duncan Dunbar Sutphin, of New York, '83, took the oath as trustees. Dr. Walter T. Marvin, assistant professor at Princeton, was appointed professor of Mental Philosophy and Logic, and Dr. Jacob G. Lipman, Associate Professor of Agriculture, was made Professor of Soil Fertility and Bacteriology.

At the annual meeting of the alumni at noon two portraits were added to the collection in Kirkpatrick chapel. Dr. Edward G. Janeway of New York, '60, presented on behalf of Miss Helen H. Janeway, a portrait of her father, Henry L. Janeway, '44, who was a Trustee from 1862 till his death last year. Rev. Dr. Peter D. Drury, '75, also handed over to the college on behalf of Mrs. Drury a portrait of her husband, the Rev. Dr. John B. Drury, '57, who was a Trustee from 1887 till his death last year.

It was announced that the college is the residuary legatee under the will of Prof. E. A. Bowser, which probably will receive $15,000. It has also received under the will of Prof. E. A. Bowser his books and copyrights of an estimated value of $25,000. Among other gifts announced were $2,000 from Mrs. Robert F. Ballantine, of Newark, for improvements to the gymnasium, $1,000 from Mrs. Morris K. Jessup toward the endowment fund, and $500 from Anthony Dey, of New York, '50, toward the same object. A large collection of German books for the library has been received from Mrs. Franz M. Schneeweiss.

NINE ARE GRADUATED AT FANWOOD'S SCHOOL

The Class of 1910, Grammar *School, Fanwood township, bid fare*well to their studies at Public School No. 1, Wednesday when appropriate exercises were held in the assembly hall of the building. There was a large attendance of parents, friends *and children, who enjoyed the pro*gram. The room was attractively decorated with ferns and daisies and the class colors, blue and white.

The graduating class, as stated in The Daily Press of yesterday, num*bers nine pupils. Following the pro*gram, a reception and dance was given by the class to their friends. Dancing continued until midnight. The program:

Piano solo, "Flowers and Ferns," Ivy Hargreaves; recitation, "The Clouds," Martha Ferry; class history, Jacob Stirer; trio, "O Lovely Night," Elizabeth Herbert, Emily Garda, Ivy Hargreaves; original story, "The History of a Slate," Catherine Russell; class prophesy, Ethelwynn Walker; violin solo, "Spring Song," Herbst; address, Rev. Mr. Gabler, rector of All Saints church, Fanwood; piano duet, "The Gypsy Countess,' Ivy Hargreaves and Ethelwynn Walker; reading, "Pickwick's Drive to Mason Farm," Emily Garda; class will, Alfred Widmoser; presentation of diplomas, Dr. F. W. Westcott, president of the Board of Education; class song, refreshments and dancing.

A Considerate Host.

"You have sold everything except one cow and one pig," remarked the agent.

"Yep," replied Farmer Cornstead. "Why didn't you let them go with the rest?"

"Well, we thought we ought to have some sort of a menagerie to keep the summer boarders interested."—Washington Evening Star.

The Comets Influence.

The influence of the comet seems
To work for evil every day;
Life now's a round of horrid dreams,
Ty Cobb has made a bone-head play.—Detroit Free Press.

SELFISHNESS A DISEASE

Pastor Maguire Says Morgan, Rockefeller and Carnegie Have It

HE STIRS THE SALVATIONISTS.

First of Religious Army's Gospel Tent Meeting Services is Largely Attended.

Taking for his text Luke 23:33 Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, preached before a large audience in the Salvation Army Tent Sunday afternoon and such a powerful and eloquent sermon the frequenters of those services have seldom heard reunited. Pastor Maguire's explanation of the meaning of the three crosses on Calvary charmed and captivated his hearers and many a burdened heart was lightened.

It was the first meeting of the summer season under the Army tent on Watchung avenue and the tent was crowded. Master Chester Chamberlain, the boy soprano sang at the offertory and other music was rendered by the army choir, assisted by Martin A. Korff with violin.

Several interesting announcements were made by Captain Hewitt among them being that Captain Fowler, whose magnificent bass voice made such an impression during the visit of the Army band two months ago, will be heard again here a week from Saturday when a talk on the poets will be given.

The three crosses of the sermon were depicted as representing selfishness, self-surrender and self-sacrifice; the first two being the two thieves who died with Jesus and the third being that upon which Jesus sacrificed his life for the sins of the world. The speaker's word pictures of the death without hope, the death with salvatiaon promised and the final giving up of the Lord who died giving life.

Selfishness, declared Mr. Maguire is the soil from which all sin springs. It is a disease which has blighted and blasted mankind from the beginning of time. Although we are all proud, and justly so, of the Star Spangled Banner, there are men and women living under that flag today who are monsters of selfishness. Five men own all the railroads in the country, he said, and yet they are not satisfied. Morgan, Rockefeller and Carnegie are in this category. They are monarchs of selfishness in this country.

"Even as even selfishness in that old little prayer, "Now I lay me down to sleep." How different that is from the Lord's prayer! There is no selfishness in His prayer. It includes more than one person. It is meant for everybody. Sin is a disease. It is like the cancer which if not entirely removed leaves the poison to continue the dreaded work of death. Get rid of your sins by coming to the foot of the cross upon which Jesus sacrificed Himself for you.

Pastor Maguire's sermon was illustrated with pointed pleadings none of which was more potent in its effect than a story about some free fish. This anecdote related how an evangelist in his endeavors to show some of the citizens of a Georgia city how free is salvation, bought from a fish peddler his entire stock. Then sent the man through the streets shouting his wares with the story that they were free.

Windows were opened and sniffs rent the air but no one would take the fish as a gift. On the evening of the day in which the experiment of giving something for nothing the evangelist asked his big congregation if they had heard the offer of the fish man. Hundreds of hands went up. When he asked whether any one had accepted the gift no one dared to lie and not a hand was raised. Then said the preacher "I have simply tried to show you how many of you are throwing away your most precious gift of freedom from sin. Because it does not cost you anything you refuse it. Learn the lesson from this experience. God's love, mercy and forgiveness are free. Take it as it is offered—for nothing."

The services were in charge of Major Lyon, Division Commander of the Metropolitan district as were the evening services which began at 8 Sunday evening. From the indication present Sunday the Salvation Army is to have a successful outdoor season.

Union Services for July.

Several local pastors have arranged to hold Union services Sunday evenings during July, and the preachers have been decided upon. Next Sunday night, the service will be held at Trinity Reformed church, and Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring will preach. Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss will preach at the service on July 10, at the First M. E. church and Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson will preach at the service at the First Presbyterian church, July 17 and Rev. John Y. Brook will be the preather at the First Baptist church, July 24. On July 31, Rev. Dr. Pogson, of New York, will preach at Trinity Reformed church.

Constitutionalist ads. pay.

BORO SCHOOL CHANGES

Some of the Present Teaching Corps to Be Succeeded by Others.

SUPT. KREBS ANNOUNCES.

List of Those to Leave and Those to Come for the New School Year in the Fall.

Superintendent H. C. Krebs announced to-day, that Miss Edna M. Wilkes, the teacher of science in the Borough High School, has received an appointment to the department of physic in the Girls' High School, Philadelphia. She will be succeeded by Miss Roxana Love, a graduate of the Plainfield High School and of Mount Holyoke College who has taught the past year in the Battin High School, Elizabeth.

Mr. F. Eugene Seymour leaves to become a member of the faculty of the high school at Montclair. His department, mathematics, will be in charge of Mr. George C. Baker, a graduate of Bloomsburg, Pa., State Normal School and of Lafayette College, who has taught five years in high schools in Pennsylvania.

Below the high school there are six new teachers. Miss Katherine Nelson, of the Oneonta State Normal School, of four years' experience at Newton, N. J., will succeed Miss Grace G. Van Patten, who retires from the profession. Miss Malvina Rittenhouse, also retires to be succeeded by Miss Mame Barrow, a Bloomsburg graduate of three years' experience.

Miss Lucia McClintock, a Genesee graduate who has taught at Wellsville, N. Y., succeeds Miss Daisy T. Freeland, who takes a course at the Montclair Normal school.

Miss Elizabeth Conkling will teach next year at her home at Flemington, N. J. Her successor has not yet been named.

Owing to the transfer of Miss Jane Crawford to the sixth grade, her room will be taken by Miss Sadie Tiffany, a Trenton Normal graduate, who has taught in Newton, N. J., the past two years.

Miss Amanda Tyler, of the Watchung school, expects to teach next year in Buffalo, N. Y. Her place will be taken by Miss Bessie Dunham, a graduate of the Plainfield High School and of the Westfield, Mass. state normal school, who has taught the past two years at Red aBnk.

The board has appointed this year none but college or normal graduates of approved experience, and feels confident that they will accomplish good results.

HOLD MEMORIAL SERVICE

The Pythian Knights of This Section Gather at Bound Brook.

REV. PFANSTEIHL PREACHES.

Over 200 Members of the Order Attend the Impressive Service in the Presbyterian Church.

Under the auspices of the Knights of Pythias Lodges, district, No. 20 of the Grand Domain of New Jersey, a memorial service was held in the Presbyterian church, Bound Brook, Sunday afternoon. The lodges in the district which were represented by more than two hundred members comprise Somerville and Unity, of this city; Somerset, of Bound Brook; Lodge of the Castle, Somerville; Crescent Lodge, of Flemington, and Neshanic Lodge, of Neshanic.

The memorial address was delivered by Rev. A. A. Pfanstiehl, of Somerville. The music was a pleasing feature. A quartet comprising Miss Ruth Harris, soprano; Miss Hazel Hattfield, contralto; William Holmes, baritone, of the First Baptist church choir, and Wyckoff Suydam, tenor, sang two anthems, "Jesus, Saviour Pilot Me," and "Saviour, Thy Children Keep," while Mr. Holmes sang as a solo, "Looking Unto God." His singing was enjoyed by the large congregation, while the work of Miss Harris and Miss Hattfield added to the enjoyment of the music. Miss Orrel Wrench, soprano, was to have appeared with the quartet,but illness prevented and Miss Harris kindly consented to take her place.

The instrumental numbers were by members of the Bound Brook Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Herbert Lloyd, and this was also a feature of the program.

The deceased members in whose memory the service was held were Frank Wheeland, Philip Diehl, No. 56; Asa D. Pope, George Moorehouse, No. 74; Charles VanCleef, Peter Struye, A. B. Conover, I. N. VanCleef, Sylvester Smith, No. 82; O. P. Chamberlin, Dr. John H. Ewing, No. 93.

T. S. Miller's Miss Syracuse is Beaten by Adam C. Blair's Trotter.

ON FAIR ACRES CLUB TRACK

An Exceptional Card Attracted a Big Crowd at the Westfield Park on Saturday.

The free for all trot and pace at Fair Acres track, Westfield, on Saturday afternoon proved a surprise to lovers of light harness racing. The race was the prettiest ever witnessed in this section of the State and was won by Aaron B. owned by Adam Blair, of this city, defeating Miss Syracuse, owned by T. S. Miller, of Newark, in two straight heats. The time for the first heat was 2.16 and the time for the second heat 2.15, breaking the track record of 2.15½.

The second heat showed Miss Syracuse and Aaron B. side by side, a single blanket could have covered the horses from wire to wire. Aaron B. was driven by Adams Blair, his owner, while John Stearns handled the ribbons over Miss Syracuse. The race also exhibited great skill upon the part of the drivers who drove a perfect race. Intense excitement prevailed in the grand stand and when the finish wire was reached Aaron B. shoved neck and head under the wire to win.

The pretty track was in excellent condition for the sport. Igo, owned by I. G. Stelle, of Newark, captured the 2.20 trot. Ravenwood owned by W. P. Cortelyou, of Princeton, won the 2.20 trot, and Tramway, owned by W. Wortendyke, of Westfield, the 3 minute trot. The prize of the 2.20 trot and pace was a handsome cup, donated by W. B. Hutchings. A similar cup was donated by Edward D. Floyd for the 2.30 trot and pace, and a third cup was donated by J. S. Irving for the free-for-all. The first prize in the 2-minute race was a set of horse clothing, donated by Harry W. Evans. The blue, yellow and red ribbons were awarded in each race.

The afternoon proved ideal for the sport, and the grandstand and field were comfortably filled with spectators who came from many sections of the State in automobiles and carriages. The races were started by Ray Edwards, of Westfield, who was recently appointed a licensed professional starter by the National Trotting Association, J. Wesley Johnson, of this city; H. W. Evans and Dr. C. M. F. Egel, of Westfield were the judges, and timers. It was the first matinee of the season under the auspices of the Westfield Riding and Driving Club. Following are the results:

2.30 Trot and Pace.

Ravenwood Cortelyou, Princeton..1 1
Colin, Keenan, Elizabeth.....3 2
Mary Wilkes, Stelle, Newark...2 3
Alasia, Irving, Westfield.....4 4
Time 2.25¾, 2.28¾.

2.20 Trot and Pace.

Igo, Stelle, Newark.....1 1
Dr. Bill, H. J. Brower, Plainfield..2 2
Mary S., C. C. Brower Plainfield 4 3
Foxy Tod, Hutchings, Westfield..3 4
Time, 2.20, 2.20.

Free-for-all Trot and Pace.

Aaron B., Blair, Plainfield.....1 1
Miss Syracuse, Miller, Newark..2 2
Lillian W., Stelle, Newark....3 3
Time, 2.16, 2.15.

3.00 Trot and Pace.

Tramway, Wortendyke, Westfield 5 1 1
Minnie Kentry, Osborne, Plainfield 1 5 3
Rachel Audibon, Irving, Westfield 3 2 2
Cecilia Bellina, Schneider, Elizabeth 2 3 5
Nancy T., Taylor, Rahway.....4 4 4
Time, 2.38, 2.32.

MR. AND MRS. LUDGATE TWENTY-FIVE YEARS WED.

Mr. and Mrs. George Lud-ate, of Evona avenue, were given a surprise party at their home, in honor of the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding. There were more than fifty guests and all enjoyed the affair. Music was furnished by the Misses Dorothy Hutchcroft, Helen Taylor, Grace Ludgate and Mrs. John W. W. Ludgate, piano; James Hallard, guitar and Mrs. A. B. Drake, violin. George Ledbetter, of Poughkeepsie and Mr. Everitts, of Brooklyn, rendered several pleasing vocal solos.

Mr. and Mrs. Ludgate received many gifts, among them a silver table set presented to them by Friendship Lodge, No. 4, Daughters of Rebecca, of which Mrs. Ludgate is past noble grand. Refreshments were served during the evening.

Russell and Reid, a pair of classy singers, dancers and comedians, will present a bright up-to-date act at Proctor's theatre, today. Minnie Stanley & Co., will appear in a comedy sketch, "My Hero;" Sylvia Wayne, a chic comedienne, will entertain with songs and Brown and Scheftall, the colored politicians, are good. The pictures are good, as usual.

Trinity's Pastor Asks the Cult's Press Agent Some Questions.

ANSWERS H. C. FAIRCHILD.

Jesus Healed the Body to Save the Soul. And He Healed Not Only the Rich, Says Minister Sarcastically.

Having read the reply made by H. Coulson Fairchild, of Passaic, to his sermon on "Christian Science," as published in this paper on Saturday, Rev. John Y. Brook filed his rejoinder Sunday. At the morning service at Trinity Reformed church, the minister made brief reference to the article in The Daily Press and concluding his remarks by propounding some questions to the chief of the "healers" publicity bureau. It is not long since that Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring denounced the Mary Baker Eddy sect doctrines as strongly as did Rev. Mr. Brock a week ago Sunday night and the press department of the "Christian Scientists" got to work then as now rt once to reply.

Here is what Rev. Mr. Brock has to say by way of rejoinder to the press agent of the Christian Science cult:

"My sermon on Christian Science of last Sunday was attacked in the daily paper on Saturday evening by one of the representatives of Christian Science.

"Several thoughts came to me as I read the article. I deplore the fact greatly that there was apparently no Christian Scientist in Plainfield who was competent to make a comprehensive answer, but I feel flattered that the sermon was sent to headquarters for a reply.

"Another thought came to me that I might reply in a sermon tonight. I felt, however, I could not conscientiously give a half hour of time devoted to the worship of God to answer such an illogical article.

"I thought I might reply in the paper tomorrow, but I did not think it worth while.

"I would, however, like to ask my honored critic a few questions. Why does not a Christian Scientist believe in the Atonement. Why does not the Christian Scientist believe that many Christs may still come. Why does not a Christian Scientist believe in the Apostles' Creed in which Christians from almost apostolic time have believed as containing the fundamental truths of Christianity. I would like to ask my critic to give an exegesis and define the Greek word 'Katallage' as used in the gospels, and the Hebrew word 'Nasa' as used in the Old Testament.

"I would like to tell my critic that Jesus said: "Go into all the world and preach the gospel." He did not say, 'Go and preach Christian Science.' And any boy in Sunday school can tell you that the heart of the gospel is atonement.

"I would like to tell him that the prime mission of Jesus was to save souls and not to heal the body. The sole reason Jesus ever healed the body, gave sight to the blind, cured the leper and the lame man was to save his soul. And whenever Jesus healed a man, his sins were immediately forgiven.

Jesus healed the poor and he did not cater to the rich as a class. The healing of Jesus and the apostles was instantaneous, and He did not say, 'I will give you a Christian Science reading today, and another one tomorrow, and possibly on the following day, you may be feeling just a little better.'

"And there are a number of other things that I would like to tell my critic, but I do not think it necessary to discuss the matter further."

PASTORS' SUMMER PLANS

(Continued from page 1.)

ing formulated.

There are a number of retired ministers in the city and borough and no doubt they will be called upon to preach and do pastoral work during the absence of the regular pastors. During July union services will be held Sunday evenings at the First Baptist. First M. E., Trinity Reformed and First Presbyterian churches, the pastors taking turns in preaching.

Not Useful.

Mrs. Styles—This paper says the total number of useful domestic animals on the globe is believed to be about 1,500,000,000.

"Little Elk" Wins a Ribbon.

Fred Moore's toy poodle, "Little Elk," sister of "Sonny Lad," won a blue and reserve winner in the dog show at Morris Plains, on Saturday, against a number of competitors. "Little Elk," although a puppy, was placed in the novice class, making the competition more difficult.

Twirlers Battle Between Mac Laughlin and Knoth Won by the Former.

"WARRY WAS IN GREAT FORM.

Plainfielders Made But One Error While Seven Hits Were Credited to Them—A Rattling Good Game.

The Plainfield Baseball Club went to Rahway, Saturday afternoon, and whitewashed the local aggregation in a pitchers' battle between "Warry" MacLaughlin and Knoth, of Newark, formerly of the Pittsburg Nationals. The score was 7 to 0. Only a scratch hit in the ninth inning prevented "Warry" from being credited with a no run, no hit game. It was one of the best contests witnessed at Rahway this season.

The Rahwegians were helpless before the fine twirling of the Plainfield pitcher. He had everything on the ball and perfect control, while Knoth was touched for seven hits throughout the contest. The score:

PLAINFIELD.

	R.	H.	P.O.	A.	E.
Martin, 2b.	1	1	2	0	1
Boyd, cf.	1	0	5	0	0
Emery, 3b.	1	2	2	0	0
Carlstrom, s. s.	0	1	2	3	0
Barnes, 1b.	1	0	8	0	0
Nelson, c.	0	1	8	1	0
McLaughlin, p.	1	2	1	4	0
Schott, rf.	0	0	1	0	0
Mullin, r. f.	1	0	0	0	0
	6	7*2	6	8	1

RAHWAY.

	R.	H.	P.O.	A.	E.
Madden, c.f.	0	0	0	0	0
Dodge, ss.	0	0	2	4	0
Armstrong, 1b.	0	0	11	0	1
Knoth, p.	0	0	0	0	1
Boyne, rf.	0	0	2	0	0
J. Rupeka, lf.	0	0	0	0	0
F. Rupeka, 3b.	0	0	0	1	0
Carey, 2b.	0	0	1	6	0
Freeman, c.	0	1	7	0	1
	0	1	24	11	3

*Boyd out by batted ball.

Plainfield ..0 0 5 0 0 1 0 0 x—6
Rahway ...0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0

Struck out—By Knoth, 9; by McLaughlin, 6. Base on balls—Off Knoth, 5; off McLaughlin, 1. Stolen bases—Carlstrom (2), Boyd. Sacrifice hits—Carlstrom 2.

HEAVENLY REST CHURCH MID-SUMMER FESTIVAL

The second annual mid-summer festival of the Men's Association of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, Saturday afternoon and evening at the church was largely attended. In the afternoon there was a baseball game between the Ochiltree Oak Splitters and the Babcock Ringlers, in which the former team won out by a score of 12 to 8.

The grounds were illuminated, hundreds of incandescent lights being used. In the parish house the Men's Association planned an elaborate program of entertainment. It included Professor Henderson, in a series of amusing magical tricks and illusions; Madame Aimee, a spiritualist, who gave a demonstration of the so-called "communion with spirits"; Harry and Vincent Keffer, in a musical act, including musical flower pots, sleigh bells, guitars, bones, etc.

The floor was then cleared and dancing was enjoyed. Arthur Calcen and William Ochiltree were the floor managers.

Outside on the lawn were many handsomely decorated booths in charge of the Women's Guild and Young People's Society. They had charge also of the fish pond, candy booth, lemonade well and art gallery. Russell Vail and Ganesvoort Van Alstyne dispensed lemonade; the Misses Susan and Jane Bennet sold candies; an art gallery was in charge of Samuel Verney and Frederick Clark; Japanese bowling game was in charge of Miss Blanche Thorn. The guessing contest was directed by Miss Julia Lee. The Women's Guild was in charge of Mrs. Wiggs' Cabbage Patch, the coffee and sandwich stand, the cake and fancy tables.

The general committee comprised Mortimer Givens, chairman; J. A. Babcock, Charles C. Graves, William Ochiltree, and Rev. C. H. Mallery. The dance committee comprised William Ochiltree and Arthur Calcen. James Harris and Alfred Maynard were ushers; ice cream and strawberries, John Kidney and Joel Pennington. William Stegelin had charge of the decorations.

Mrs. I. M. Pelletier, Mrs. A. H. Drake and Miss J. Tabing served coffee and sandwiches; Mrs. C. J. Stace was the 'Mrs. Wiggs," selling cabbage for ten cents a head; Mrs. Chas. Borden, Mrs. John Taylor, Mrs. Alfred Maynard and Mrs. Galloway were the saleswomen at the fancy table. A feature was the grab bag in charge of Miss Jennie Galloway. She was very successful.

—Constitutionalist's ads. pay.

JUNIORS HONOR THE DEAD

The Four Local Councils of the Order Hold Services at Hillside.

TWO CLERGYMEN OFFICIATE.

The Graves of Thirty-six Departed Ones Are Decrated, Following the Religious Ceremony.

The members of Franklin, Somerset, Benevolent and Plainfield Councils, Jr. O. U. A. M.,held their first annual memorial service at Hillside cemetery, Sunday, in memory of departed Juniors of the four councils. The service was held at the grave of Rev. E. E. Roberson, former pastor of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, who was a member of the order, while the graves of other members in this and other local cemeteries were also decorated with flags and flowers. About two hundred Juniors of this city attended the service, which was in charge of Geo. Watts, chairman, and Guy Thomas.

Rev. Ora J. Shopp, of Grace M. E. church, offered prayer, and Rev. C. S. Kemble, of the Monroe Avenue M. E. Church, conducted the memorial service, following the ritual of the order. It was a long service, but the large assemblage appeared deeply interested.

Franklin Council reported the loss of twenty members, Somerset Council, eleven members; Benevolent Council, five, while Plainfield Council has been fortunate in not losing any members during its existence. The service was such a success that it has been decided to hold one annually in the future.

The members of the order met at Junior Hall at 2 o'clock and made the trip to the cemetery by special trolley cars. The service began at 3 o'clock, and attracted a large number of friends of the order. The other graves throughout the city and borough were decorated on Saturday so that the members could attend yesterday's service at Hillside.

MISS CODINGTON WEDS

Daughter of Former Judge the Bride of Colon H. Dascombe.

REV. DR. ANDERSON OFFICIATES

Miss Ethel DeLong the Bridesmaid and Dr. C. E. G. Shannon the Best Man—Couple to Reside in Maine.

Miss Martha Codington, only daughter of former Judge and Mrs. William R. Codington, of Sandford avenue, and Colon H. Dascombe, of Wilton, Maine, were married at 8 last Wednesday night at the home of the bride's parents in the presence of the relatives and a limited number of friends. The invitation list was restricted owing to the fact that it was a home wedding. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church, of which the bride is a member.

The bride handsomely gowned in lingerie mull, carried a bouquet of bride roses. She was attended by Miss Ethel DeLong, formerly of Plainfield, but now of Riverside Drive, New York. Her gown was of light green mull and she carried a bouquet of pink roses. The best man was Dr. Charles E. G. Shannon, of Philadelphia, who was a classmate of the groom, Class '03, Bowdoin College.

The home was elaborately decorated for the affair with a choice arrangement of roses, greens and other flowers of the season. The color scheme, pink and white, in the parlors was particulary effective while in the dining room it was also pleasing. The wedding march was played by Westervelt's Orchestra, of Newark. It also furnished music for the reception which followed. During the reception supper was furnished by Day & Day. The bride was the recipient of a large collection of costly gifts from relatives and friends, with whom she is popular.

During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Dascombe left on a wedding trip to the White Mountains, after which they will go to Wilton, Maine, where a handsomely furnished home awaits them. The groom is a prosperous merchant at Wilton and has a large circle of friends there. The bride attended the Plainfield High School, but left there before graduation to attend a school for young women at Ossining, N. Y., where she completed the course of study. She is a member of one of the oldest families in New Jersey her ancestors having settled here in the early days.

—Constitutionalist's ads. pay.

ANNUAL S. S. ATHLETICS

Congregational Church Boys Carry Off the Honors of the Meet.

CRESCENT AVENUE IS SECOND.

Charles H. Line Acted as Director of Games and George L. Listman as Referee—The Results.

The Congregational Sunday school carried off the chief honors in the Sunday school athletic meet at the horse show grounds Saturday afternoon. The events were conducted well and the whole affair was run off smoothly. Sympathizers of the various Sunday schools entered crowded the park. Their cheers lent additional interest to the meet. The Crescent Avenue Sunday school was a close second to the Congregational Sunday school for first place; the former got 34 and the latter 39 points.

The complete summaries follow:

50-yard dash, boys—First, Blair, First Presbyterian; second, Brandegree, Crescent Avenue; third, E. Foster, Crescent Avenue. Time 7 sec.

100-yard dash, seniors — First, John Fritts, Congregational; second, E. Daniels, Crescent Avenue; third, W. Zook, First Baptist. Time, 11¾ seconds.

50 yard dash, juniors—First, A. VanZandt, Grace P. E.; second, B. Brandegree, Crescent Avenue; third, H. Skiff, First M. E., Time, 6¾ seconds.

Running hop, step and jump, seniors—First, Franklin Newell, Congregational; second, J. Fritts, Congregational; third, H. Keamey, Trinity Reformed. Distance, 35 feet.

Running broad jump, boys—First, B. Brandegree, Crescent Avenue; second, V. Borden, Crescent Avenue; third, C. Blair, First Presbyterian. Distance, 13 feet, 1½ inches.

Running high jump, seniors—First, F. Newell, Congregational, 5 feet 4 inches; second, J. Fritts, Congregational, 5 feet; third, L. Slocum, Crescent Avenue, 5 feet.

220 yard dash, juniors—First, A. VanZandt, race P. E.; second, P. Van Deventer, Crescent Avenue; third, H. Skiff. Time, 28⅓ seconds.

440 yard dash, seniors—First, J. Fritts, Congregational; second, E. Daniels, Crescent Avenue; third, A. Galloway, Warren chapel. Time, 60¾ seconds.

440 yard relay, boys—First, Borden, VanDeventer, Foster, Brandegee, Crescent Avenue; second, Tomlinson, Reid, Goodrich, Kuberskay, Congregational. Time, 59 seconds.

Mile run—First, John Fritts, Congregational; second, John Zerega, Crescent Avenue; third, Alex. Galloway. Time, 5 minutes, 17¼ se onds.

Shot put, 12 pounds, seniors—First, J. Fritts, Crescent Avenue, 35 6½; second, P. Collier, First Baptist; third, F. Newell, Congregational.

Congregational, 39; Crescent Avenue, 34; Grace P. E., 10; First Presbyterian, 6; First Baptist, 4; First M. E., 2; Warren chapel, 2; Trinity Reformed church, 1.

Those were the officials: Director of games, Charles H. Line; referee, George L. Listman; Judges, Alfred Manley and William Bullock; timers, George C. M. Smith and C. H. Line; clerk of course, S. F. Smith; scorer, C. W. Bingeman; starter, George Listman.

MISS CLARA L. GULLBERG WEDDED AT ST. MARY'S

Miss Clara Gullberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Gullberg, of South avenue, and William O'Loughlin, of Park avenue, were married Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the rectory of St. Mary's church. Rev. B. M. Bogan, pastor of the church, officiated.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Eleanor Gullberg, as bridesmaid, while Martin O'Loughlin, brother of the groom, was best man. Others present to witness the ceremony were Miss Carrie Martin and Edward O'Loughlin, of this city.

A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents, where a large number of relatives and friends gathered to congratulate the couple. The Plainfield Baseball Club, of which the groom is a member, was present and remembered the bride with a handsome gift. Later in the evening the couple left for a two weeks' trip to Niagara Falls.

Mr. O'Loughlin is well-known as a baseball player, having been identified with the Plainfield Baseball Club for many years. He is popular among his friends. The bride also has a large circle of friends and acquaintances. Mr. O'Loughlin is employed at the Spicer Manufacturing Company plant.

Borough Council Meets Friday.

The borough common council will meet in regular session in the council chambers, Friday night.

—Constitutionalist's ads. pay.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST

VOL. XLII — PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, JULY 7, 1910. — NO. 27.

"Support the Constitution, which is the Corners of the Union, as well in its Limitations as in its Authorities."—Madison.

CITY PLAYGROUNDS OPEN

About 150 Children Between Ages of Two and Ten Years Attend.

ORGANIZED GAMES A FEATURE.

Joseph W. Gavett, Herbert E. Parker and Mrs. S. H. Voorhees, Playground Promoters, Enthusiastic Over Its Success.

A convincing evidence of the popularity, the efficiency and the need of recreation places in this city was manifested to all who visited the Bryant and Franklin school yards yesterday afternoon when Plainfield's first two playgrounds were opened. If the success that met the first efforts of the commission yesterday may be taken as a prophecy, Plainfield will soon have to locate playgrounds in the schoolyards of the other schools of the city to reach many children who now cannot easily be reached.

All of the children, yesterday, had a good time; all took readily to the apparatus and all were eager to learn the "games," as the organized play is technically known. Some came to the playground starched and stiff with neatly tied hair ribbons, others came barefooted. Then, too, some colored children availed themselves of the fun that was to be had; and one distinctly noticeable fact was the spirit of wholesome fellowship with which all the children, hair-ribboned or barefooted, entered into the sport. All were there to have a good time; and all had a good time. Here and there some unfortunate youngster, a cripple, perhaps, with crutches beside him, looked mournfully on as his more fortunate companions played on the slides and teeters; but there was an opportunity even for such to have a good time, too.

At the Franklin yard, Mrs. Elory Bowers and Miss Mary Childs, the supervisor, taught the children some of the "games." These afforded a chance for all to take part, an opportunity for one to be singled out prominently every few minutes, and a frequent occasion for all to clap their hands and shout in noise together. Thus in a subtle way was the child's interest approached from several wholesome standpoints. The group games unquestionably were the most interesting feature of the playgrounds.

Of the apparatus the sand bins and the slides were by far the most popular. The swings, too, were in constant demand; and the giant strides were looked at a trifle askance by the children though frequently used by the older boys.

At the Bryant school Miss Harriet Moe met with instant success with the children. She organized them so that each piece of apparatus had a "monitor," whose duty it was to see that all of the children playing on his particular piece of apparatus had a fair chance and a good time.

Most of the children who attended the playground were between the ages of two and eleven years. The average age was probably five or six. As between 89 and 100 visited the Bryant school and between 38 and 60 visited the Franklin school yard, between these ages—the age that the playgrounds are especially intended for—it may easily be seen how successful the first afternoon was. Drinking fountains will be installed shortly. At the Bryant yard water was furnished yesterday through the courtesy of Chief Kiely.

Joseph W. Gavett, Herbert Parker and Mrs. S. H. Voorhees, who has been one of the principal workers for playgrounds in this city, were enthusiastic over the success of the initial venture, yesterday.

The playgrounds will be open for the rest of the summer on week days from 9.30 o'clock to noon; and from 2 o'clock until 6 o'clock in the afternoon.

Cause of the Trouble.

That the differences existing between Carl Ebel, of Grove street, and Alonzo Terry, who had Ebel arrested Monday for disorderly conduct, and whose case will come up in the borough court, Friday morning, is not the result of a dispute over a cow, he was reported, but arose from a war of words is the true state of matters. Ebel was shooting fire-works off early Monday morning near Terry's home, when the latter requested him to stop. The former it appears used insulting language in retort, for which Terry had him arrested.

One More Chalmers to Be Had.

The Thompson Auto Co. have been fortunate enough to secure a few additional Chalmers cars, one of which is still to be had for prompt delivery. 7 5 2 ***

OWNERS OF UNLICENSED DOGS FINED $1 EACH

Following up their recent activities in the same line, the borough police yesterday afternoon and evening rounded up the owners of six dogs, who had failed to comply with the ordinance requirements, in taking out licenses. Those arrested were George Howe, of 16 Stone street, Salvie Locciasno and Lillian Ammon, of 8 Howard street, Everett Marsh, of 217 Somerset street, Harry Barr, of 18 Howard street, and David L. Coleman, of 2255 Somerset street.

In the borough court this morning, the delinquent ones were each fined $1. This fine, however, was imposed upon the condition that they take out licenses for the dogs at once; the fines were immediately paid and the owners of the canines proceeded to take out the required licenses for their pets, the price of which was $2. This is the largest number of arrests made at one time by the borough officers, since the time expired for taking out licenses in accordance with the law, which was June 20th.

MAY PROHIBIT SALE OF FIREWORKS HERE

Just before the Common Council meeting adjourned last night, Mr. Mygatt offered a motion suggesting that the committees on laws and ordinances take up the fireworks ordinance for action at the August meeting, it being proposed to amend the ordinance to prohibit the sale of fireworks next year. Mr. Mygatt explained his reasons for this motion to be that he thought it wise to act on the matter now instead of waiting until just a few weeks before the next Fourth of July.

In a jocular vein, Mr. Clay moved that the matter be referred to the public affairs committee, of which Mr. Mygatt is chairman, but the latter said laughingly that there would be serious objection to such action.

While Mr. Mygatt's motion was not seconded, it is believed that the committee will take up the matter at an early date and frame a proposed ordinance as will meet with the approval of the members.

Mr. Buxton moved that the city clerk be requested to communicate with the landlord of the building with a view to having the main hallway lighted in the future. The hallway has not been lighted by the landlord for some time, it is said, owing to some difference of opinion, and Mr. Buxton's motion will probably bring about the desired result.

DRIVING ASSOCIATION HONORS RETIRING SEC'Y

Thomas F. Quinn, who for the past three years has been the efficient secretary of the Plainfield Driving Association, was handsomely remembered at a meeting of the association last night, following his resignation as secretary. President Harry W. Evans on behalf of the members, presented Mr. Quinn with a gold fob, suitably inscribed. The face of the fob bears the heads of two horses as they pass under the wire. The gift was a great surprise to Mr. Quinn, but he showed his appreciation in a short speech.

The association decided to hold a matinee meet here on Saturday, July 23, and it was announced that a meet would be held at Westfield on Saturday, July 16. Prizes will be offered at both meets. Reports from the Fourth of July meet here showed that it was a success. All bills have been paid and there is a good balance on hand.

Young Woman Faints.

Miss Elizabeth Traynor, of New York, who has been stopping with a family named Pullyon, on Tapping avenue, this borough, had a fainting spell at West Front street and Washington avenue, last night, while walking home. A nearby resident saw the woman fall and assisted her to the home of Richard Richmond on West Front street, near Washington avenue, where Dr. C. B. Lufburrow gave her temporary treatment. Later she was removed to her home in a carriage. Miss Traynor came to Plainfield for her health. She explained that while passing Grove street on Front just before she had a fainting spell, she narrowly escaped being hit with an automobile, and she was in a highly nervous condition.

—Moonlight ride: leave Asbury Park 7:30 p. m. First Baptist excursion. ***

CITY FATHERS' ROUTINE

Minor Matters Considered by the Common Council Last Night.

SOME PETITIONS RECEIVED.

Civil Engineer is Engaged to Revise the City Map—Patrolman Dunlap's Resignation is Accepted.

Patrolman Joseph Dunlap, who recently resigned from the police department and was re-appointed to his old position, again resigned at the July meeting of the Common Council, last night, the same to take effect at 7 o'clock, last night. He explained that the action was purely for personal reasons. The resignation, which was accepted, did not cause any public comment, although Mayor Fisk and some of the Councilmen seemed to be at a loss to understand Mr. Dunlap's action.

Following this, Mayor Fisk appointed Charles Wicht, formerly with the Clarkhurst Dairy, as a special policeman, his term to expire on January 1 next. Mr. Wicht was a resident of Harrison avenue, the borough, but he removed to North avenue recently.

In accordance with a resolution offered by Mr. Buxton and adopted, H. C. Van Emburgh, civil engineer, was engaged to take care of the city maps for the coming year, making all necessary changes and marking new buildings. His salary is to be $225. $125 for making changes on the maps and $100 for marking the new buildings.

A petition from residents of East Front street and Bank place for an electric light at that point was referred to the light committee with power. Another petition from residents of Woodland and Thornton avenues and Randolph road for the grading of those thoroughfares was referred to the street committee.

Residents of Randolph road and Lennox avenue again protested against the levying of a sewer assessment on both sides of that street, stating that they had paid the assessment on the Randolph road side and did not believe that they should be assessed on Lennox avenue. The matter was referred to the finance committee.

L. Mosier & Son, the Park avenue jewelers, were again engaged to take care of the town clock for the coming year for the sum of $30. This action was taken in accordance with a resolution offered by Mr. Buxton. Mr. Clay asked for the privilege of withdrawing the notice given at the last meeting that he would at this session move to amend rule 38 and it was granted.

On motion of Mr. Glosk it was decided that when council adjourn it be to meet Monday night, July 11 at 8 o'clock.

RICHMOND STREET STORM SEWER BIDS RECEIVED.

Three bids were received at the July meeting of the Common Council, last night, for a construction of the addition to the Richmond street storm sewer, one being from A. Vicchiarelli, of Philadelphia, who bid $1,200; another from J. C. Schrade, of Williamsport, Pa., whose figure was $1,250 and the third from Edmund F. Sexton, of Brooklyn and New York, who offered to do the work for $900. The last named bid will probably be accepted, as the checks for the other two were ordered to be returned.

The city furnishes the materials for this work, which is to be done under the direction of Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett. November 1 next is the time set for the completion of the contract and this will about finish the storm sewer improvement for Richmond street, which is greatly needed in times of heavy rain.

First Excursion to the Shore.

The first excursion from this city to Asbury Park leaves to-morrow morning at 8 o'clock, when the members and friends of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian, Grace, Seventh-Day Baptist, Heavenly Rest, St. Stephen's, Holy Cross churches and Bethel chapel will spend the day at the shore. The excursionists will leave the shore at 6.30 o'clock tomorrow night.

One More Hudson Touring Left.

The Thompson Auto Co. still have one more Hudson touring car for immediate delivery. 7 5 2 ***

—Try a Press want ad. They pay.

PLAINFIELD TRUST CO. DECLARES A DIVIDEND

The liberal inducements offered by the Plainfield Trust Company to depositors, the courteous treatment, together with the safe and conservative management of the Board of Directors, are reflected in the statement of the Company issued today which shows great growth in business.

The dividend of 5 per cent. declared by the board is a just reward to the stockholders who have allowed their earnings to accumulate for the past eight years until the surplus has doubled the capital. With the present addition of $110,000 to surplus, the amounts stands at $200,000, which, with the capital of $100,000, means security for depositors.

RE-ELECT MR. GILBERT PUBLIC LIBRARY HEAD

Mayor Charles J. Fisk at the meeting of the Board of Public Library Directors, last night, appointed the following members to succeed themselves for a term of three years: Alexander Gilbert, L. V. F. Randolph, William M. Stillman. The annual appointment of officers and committees follows:

President, Alexander Gilbert; vice-president, L. V. F. Randolph; treasurer, J. Herbert Case; secretary, William M. Stillman; library committee, Dr. Leonard Waldo, chairman; W. F. Merrill and W. H. Larrabee; art committee, C. Boardman Tyler, chairman; J. Herbert Case and L. V. F. Randolph.

Steps are being considered whereby all library books will be more thoroughly disinfected where there has been any question of their being exposed to contagious disease.

COUNCILMAN MAKES GOOD POLICE OFFICER

For causing a disturbance with dogs on Sunday morning on Stine's bridge near the home of Councilman William L. Smalley, Jr., of the borough, Charles Carr, of Jefferson avenue, was severely reprimanded by Recorder Dolliver in the borough police court last night. Carr had been throwing sticks into the water and sending the dogs after them, when requested by the councilman to discontinue the practice on Sunday morning. Carr paid no attention to Smalley and refused to move on, whereupon Mr. Smalley called up borough police headquarters and Carr was arrested.

At the hearing last night he appeared rather penitent and for this reason the court suspended sentence. Last week Councilman Smalley also played the role of policeman when he dispersed a crowd of roughs on Somerset street who were obstructing the way of other pedestrians.

EDUCATION BOARD ENGAGES TEACHER; HEARS REPORTS.

Little business aside from that of a routine nature came up at the meeting of the Plainfield Board of Education last night, which was held in the board rooms. All members were present. The collector of taxes reported school taxes for June of $1,240.84. The balance on hand, June 30 with the custodian is $42,262.34.

Miss Gertrude M. Slocum was appointed a teacher in the second grade of the Franklin school. She is a graduate of the Providence Normal school and has been teaching in Westerly, R. I.

Party for Miss Connolly.

Miss Catherine Connolly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Connolly, of West Fourth street, celebrated her tenth birthday anniversary, Monday, and in honor of the event a party was tendered to her. Games were played and refreshments were served. Miss Connolly received a number of beautiful gifts.

Cyrus Campbell Speaks.

Cyrus Campbell, of the Industrial and Normal School at Aiken, S. C., addressed an audience on the work of the school at the Friends' Meeting House last night. He told of the work, the influence and the needs of the school.

—Opportunity secure slightly used cars at big advantage. 1910 Marion touring car, 1910 Hudson touring, 1909 Model 10 Buick, 1908 Oldsmobile touring. It will pay you to investigate. Thompson Auto Co. 7 5 2 ***

ENTRIES FOR HILL CLIMB

E. W. C. Arnold's Fiat to Take Part in Local Auto Club Contests.

PALMER TO DRIVE A CAR.

Messrs. Todd and Marshall Expect That Saturday's Event Will be a Huge Success.

Plans are rapidly being perfected for the second annual hill climbing contest to be held Saturday afternoon, under the auspices of the Plainfield Automobile Club. The contest will be held on Johnston's Drive, the course having been put in first-class condition for the great event. The entries have been coming in at a lively rate during the past few days, one of the most important being that of E. W. C. Arnold, the famous autoist. He has entered '08 Fiat machine, and has engaged Ralph D. Palmer, who has a great reputation in such contests, to drive his car.

H. A. Todd and H. W. Marshall, of the race committee, are in New York today, and they expect to return this evening with a large bunch of entries for Saturday. Those already received represent some of the best machines and drivers, as well as famous owners in this part of the country. An excellent opportunity is afforded the public to witness these contests as it is expected that the course will be lined with people who are interested in the affair. William R. Townsend, is the secretary of the club, to whom all entries should be sent and information obtained regarding the races.

The entrants, driver of car, name of car, event and class follow:

E. W. C. Arnold, Ralph D. Palmer Fiat '08, 8 E; James Gray, James Gray, Schacht '10, 6 A; E. B. Libbey, E. B. Libbey, Hupmobile '10, 6 A; Oakland Manufacturing Co., Howard Bauer, Oakland '11, and 3, 1; Berkshire Auto Co., S. H. Clapp, Berkshire '10, 3 B; Richard E. Beardsley, Richard E. Beardsley, Buick '09, 4, 8 and 11, A, B and E; John A. Rutherford, C. Winslow, Stearns '08, 12, B; John A. Rutherford, John A. Rutherford, Stearns '08, 8 E.

HIS FINGER SMASHED; DOCTOR AMPUTATES IT.

While cleaning a milling machine in the works of the Spicer Universal Joint Company plant, on Madison avenue, this morning, Louis Kane, of Second street, had the middle finger of his right hand in one of the cogs and smashed it badly. Dr. Marcus L. Clawson, who was called in to attend the injured man found the finger in such an injured state, that he decided that the only means of saving part of it was to amputate the finger at the second joint. This, he successfully did, and the injured man was taken to his home.

HUGH BALDWIN DIES OF TYPHOID FEVER IN TEXAS.

Hugh Baldwin, who formerly lived at the corner of Park avenue and Crescent avenue, but who recently married and moved to Texas where he engaged in the lumber business, died Sunday, according to news received in this city today, and was buried this morning. Mr. Baldwin was making a success of the lumber venture in Galveston, it is reported, and was recently taken seriously ill with typhoid fever. The best medical attention was given him, but as was in too weak a condition to recuperate and the end came Sunday.

Electric Fan Needed.

The patients at the Plainfield Anti-Tuberculosis Society's Camp have probably felt the recent excess of heat just as much, if not more than others in Plainfield. The committee in charge of this camp is desirous of alleviating all possible suffering of these unfortunates and feels that an electric fan would be the most useful means of preventing all unnecessary hardships. A small fan can be purchased for $9 and contributions to a fund for the purchase of one will be gratefully received by Miss Phillips at the Charity Organization, 544 West Front street.

Martin Benson in Trouble.

Martin Benson, who was arrested by the borough police last night, received a suspended sentence in the borough court this morning on a drunk and disorderly charge.

—An exceptional opportunity is offered housekeepers to purchase standard high-class flour, Pillsbury's, Superlative and Gold Medal brands, at low prices by the barrel. Large shipment now ready. Neuman Bros. 'Phone 760.

RAID ON POOLROOM; SIX FINED IN COURT

As the result of a descent upon the poolroom of George Gates, at 76 Somerset street, last evening by Borough Policemen Culver, Keller and Hope, George Gates, the proprietor was fined $5, and five frequenters, Lew Gates, John McKenna, Henry Larney, Edward Conklin and Fred Coverley were each fined $2 in the borough court this morning by Recorder Dolliver. The charges preferred against the last named was that of gambling, while Gates was charged with keeping a gambling house.

The raid was made about 11.30 last night. Gathered about one of the tables in the room were the proprietor and the other five men, engaged in shooting crap. The dice and money, which was small in amount, were gathered in by the officers, and brought in along with the prisoners. There was sufficient evidence to make out a prima facie case against the accused ones, and this morning's fines resulted.

CITY NATIONAL BUYS MUNICIPALITY'S BONDS

The offer of the City National Bank to take the proposed issue of $30,000 worth of street improvement bonds at par and interest, was accepted at the July meeting of the Common Council last night. The city will issue the bonds in various amounts as it may need the money for street work, and the offer of the City National Bank was considered an excellent one. The bonds are to run three years, 5 per cent. interest-bearing, and the interest is to be paid from date of issue.

Resolutions were offered by Mr. Buxton, of the finance committee, approving the action of the Board of School estimate in determining that $67,000 would be needed for the maintenance of the schools for the coming year. Mr. Buxton also offered an ordinance incorporating the above amount as a supplument to the regular tax ordinance. This was adopted on two readings and ordered advertised. The amount is to be raised as other tax money.

The report of Thomas F. Jennings, treasurer of the pension fund of the Plainfield Fire Department, showed a balance on hand of $7,489.88. Horace G. Adams, clerk of the District court, reported receipts of $66.98 for the past month, with expenditures of $17.75. The balance $49.20, was turned over to the city treasurer.

ARREST POUND KEEPER ON A CRUELTY CHARGE

In the City Court this morning, William B. Kitchen, keeper of the pound, was arraigned before Judge William N. Runyon, on a charge of cruelty preferred by E. H. Clevely, of North avenue. In his complaint, Clevely alleged that on Monday, June 29, Kitchen attempted to kill his (Clevely's) dog, which he had just taken from the pound.

Instead of using the most painless instrument as is required by law, Kitchen, it is alleged, struck the dog on the head with an ax or other blunt instrument. The blow lacked the necessary force to kill the dog, simply stunning him for the time.

Later in the day, the canine recovered its senses, and with a badly battered head, returned to its master's home on North avenue. Mr. Clevely then took the animal to a veterinary surgeon, who after some treatment brought the dog around, so that it is now well on the road to recovery.

The case was brought up before Judge Runyon this morning. He adjourned the hearing for one week.

Moncton Gets 20 Days.

For being drunk and disorderly on Somerset street, on the Fourth of July, Frank Moncton was given a sentence of twenty days in the county jail at Somerville by Recorder Dolliver in the borough police court last night.

Barber Didn't Have License.

Johnson Barber, of Somerset street, who had no license for his dog was fined one dollar by Recorder Dolliver when arraigned last night. Barber promised the court to take out a license the first thing this morning.

Stanley Karner, of Plainfield avenue, has gone to Newark where he will live for several weeks.

JUDGE RUNYON SEEKS CONGRESSIONAL HONORS

Popular Plainfielder Formally Announces His Candidacy to Succeed Charles N. Fowler.

In a public statement today, Judge William N. Runyon announced himself as a candidate for the Republican nomination for the House of Representatives for the Fifth, New Jersey, Congressional district. He pledges himself, in his formal brief statement, if elected, to constantly and faithfully help to fulfill the party's promises and declares that he will be guided by his own convictions and that "neither fear no favor shall sway" him in the performance of his duty.

—Photo by Stone.

William N. Runyon.

When seen by a representative of The Daily Press today, the popular judge said that he is already making plans for a vigorous campaign and that he deeply appreciated the honor paid to him by many Plainfielders, irrespective of faction, who had personally urged him to become a candidate. He added that the petitions received by him during the last few days had convinced him that it was his duty to become a candidate. These petitions contained the names of Republicans in all walks of life, many of whom disagree on party policy. Among the signers are some of the most notable residents.

That Judge Runyon's candidacy will be received well by all factions, there appears to be little doubt. In fact it is believed that his announcement, will, in a great measure, heal the breach in the party so far as the congressional nomination is concerned. Organization and progressive Republicans, alike, today expressed their pleasure over the announcement. That he will prove acceptable to the "organization," although not identified with its forces, there seems to be no question. It is reported that County Chairman Frank H. Smith would gladly welcome Judge Runyon as a candidate. Mr. Smith is at Westerly, Rhode Island, at present and it was impossible to learn his views today.

Morris county it is believed by the political wiseacres will be equally pleased with Runyon. There is no candidate there, inasmuch as James H. McGraw has positively declined to run. It is expected, therefore, that a suitable man from Union will receive that county's endorsement. Warren, the other member of the district, has no candidate.

Some days ago, the present incumbent, Charles Newell Fowler, of Elizabeth, made formal announcement that he would be a candidate at the primaries again, although in the last campaign he declared that he would not ask for an eighth term. In his statement he bitterly assailed the "organization" leaders in the district. United States Senator John Kean, of Union county, and State Treasurer Daniel S. Voorhees, of Morris county, were roundly denounced by him. He stigmatized County Chairman Frank H. Smith as "an echoing parrot" and insinuated that he "handled the long green." The aspersions he made regarding Mr. Smith were hotly resented by the latter's friends in Union county and lost Mr. Fowler many friends.

Judge Runyon's announcement follows:

To the citizens of the Fifth Congressional District of New Jersey:—

I hereby offer myself as a candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress in the Fifth District of New Jersey, and respectfully solicit the support of all citizens, irrespective of individual differences of opinion, who believe in the principles of the Republican party, and who feel

(Continued on page 4.)

BORO PLANS FOR SEWERS

The Measure Providing for Sanitary System Passes to Third Reading.

MUCH ROUTINE BUSINESS.

North Plainfield Council Acts Favorably on Petitions and Orders

Many Claims Paid—

Monthly Reports.

The borough sewerage ordinance, providing for a bond issue for the construction of a sanitary system which was approved at recent special election was passed on its second reading at the meeting of the borough Council Friday. All of the members of the Council were present and no dissenting voice was raised. The measure will come up for its third and final reading at the next regular meeting of the Council. After that it will be advertised and will become operative. Bids will then be received and awarded.

Claims for the past month, amounted to $3,200 were ordered paid. The police committee reported 26 arrests and $6 in fines. The unusual ratio between the arrests and the fines was due to the fact that many of the arrests were of violators of the dog license ordinance.

The fire committee reported that expenses for the past month were $493.85. Applications for building garages and making various alterations to buildings were also received and acted upon. Permission was granted to Andrew J. Hein to make alterations to his property on Manning avenue. Thomas J. Freeman also received permission to make alterations to his dwelling on Grove street. Adolph Bohren got the sanction of the Council to build an addition to his premises on Greenbrook road. An application from Walter Apgar for permission to build a garage for John I. Brower, on Fairmount avenue, was favorably acted on. A. M. Griffin likewise got permission to erect a cement stone garage in the rear of his property on Willow avenue, and Geo. F. Brown got permission to make alterations to his property on Grove street.

The sidewalk committee reported that as yet no action had been taken in the matter of the request for sidewalks on Harrison avenue.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

JAMES E. MARTINE.

About this time every year some stanch Democratic supporters of Jas. E. Martine, the "Farmer Orator," start to boom him. The booms come and go like spring blossoms. Today Martine is boomed for Congress, tomorrow for Governor and the next day for Mayor of Plainfield. And the husbandman takes it all good-naturedly. Just as good-naturedly as he does defeat. Booms come and booms go. Martine smiles on, talks on, fights on. He has been a sacrifice for the Democratic party since the time he was first eligible to run. He knows nought but defeat. He is a good runner and a better loser. The sage of Cedar Brook Farm wears those kind of political spectacles which permit him to look only on the sunny side and the Jeffersonian principles are so mixed in him that all the world might stand up and say, "He is a Democrat."—Elizabeth Journal.

REV. DR. MAGUIRE.

Frequently the most convincing description of the work of a speaker is a testimony of his hearer at one of his regular appointments. The following paragraphs are from the Kokomo, Ind., Morning Dispatch and contain the reporter's account of Dr. Maguire's appearance at the Chautauqua in that city. The largest audience in the history of the Chautauqua association attempted to find admission last night within the Auditorium, but without success. Every seat was taken, but a plan was soon adopted which cared for the overflow meeting in this utmost comfort. Benches and chairs were hurriedly brought from the Athletic park grounds and placed upon the east side of the auditorium. Here a crowd, which numbered a third of the audience within that structure, saw and heard one of the ablest lectures the Chautauqua platform affords. It would be difficult to describe the magnificent lecture which Dr. Maguire delivered last night, and do him justice. It was the personal experience of a man who went up the Congo, as Stanley came down. It was the story of the Christian conquest of a moral hero who mastered the language and employed it in his recital of the experience he underwent with the natives in the interior of Africa. As a consequence, the recital was thrillingly dramatic. It had every realism one could expect, save the impossible, the local environment and the presence of the savage people, who were the subject of his theme.—The June number of The Platform.

—Constitutionalist's ads. pay.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning July 10, 1910.

Topic.—The model Christian Endeavor society.—1 Cor. xii, 4-27. Edited by Rev. Sherman H. Doyle, D. D.

The word "model" here does not mean "small imitation of the real thing," but the real thing itself. It is the ideal society, the one that may be held up as a pattern to other societies as worthy of their imitation and emulation. Such societies may be few and far between, but the model Endeavorer will always be filled with aspirations to make his society a model and ideal one.

In any religious organization the supreme factor is spirituality. No Christian Endeavor society can be a model society without deep spirituality. Many may attend and all be willing to take part, the committees may meet regularly every month and plan their work and bring in written reports, the socials may be crowded and create great enthusiasm, yet unless back of all this and in it all is the Spirit of God it is not a model Christian Endeavor society or any other kind of Christian society. It is simply intelligent young people following mechanical forms laid out for a Christian Endeavor society. The Spirit of God must therefore be manifest in all the devotions, work and fellowship of an ideal Christian Endeavor society. The talents used must be Spirit given talents. Then the model society will be full of life.

Possessed of the Spirit, each member in harmony with all others should make the best use of the gifts bestowed upon him by the Spirit. "There are diversities of gifts, but the same Spirit." To each different talents, but all are Spirit given, we should use them whether possessed in a low or a high degree. There are various duties in the model society. Some are able to do the more important ones and others the less, but all must be done to make the society a model. The smallest wheel in a machine if broken will destroy its entire usefulness. Every part is important regardless of the place it occupies. Paul uses here the illustration of the human body: "The body is not one member, but many. If the foot shall say, Because I am not the hand I am not of the body, is it therefore not of the body? And if the ear shall say, Because I am not the eye I am not of the body, is it not therefore of the body?" The point of this illustration as continued by the apostle is readily seen and the moral emphasized. Every member of the human body—foot, hand, ear, eye, etc.—has its place and duty, whether of little or much importance, and each one must fill the place and perform this duty if the human body is to be perfect and perfectly perform its duty. The same principle applies to Christian Endeavor. Each member must fill his duty in his special sphere if the model society is to be attained. Our Scriptural verse that should have been read if not read detracts that much from a prayer meeting and makes it fall by that much below the model. Others have seen and failed in his duties. When each one takes his part and does his work under the direction of the Holy Spirit, then, and then only, is the ideal attained.

BIBLE READINGS.

Neh. iv, 6; Zech. iv, 5-10; Ex. xix, 3-8; Acts iv, 23-32; vi, 1-7; x, 30-42; Matt. xi, 42; Matt. xxv, 1-13; Acts xiii, 1-5; Rev. ii, 10.

The Model Endeavorer's Model.

No one can be a model Endeavorer without a model. If you think it is possible just try it a little while and you will be convinced of the contrary. Our model can be only one—not Dr. Clark, though he founded the society; not your pastor, though he stands at the head of your church; not the wisest and noblest of most learned and holy man or woman we know. The only possible model for a human being is not a human being, cannot be, because human beings are full of faults and sins. He is the God-man Jesus Christ. That is why the Word will result in securing hundreds of thousands, if not millions, of signers, and that means a very perceptible decrease in the total amount of liquor consumed and a very considerable increase in the strength of the temperance sentiment of the country. One cannot do much to encourage total abstinence so long as he drinks himself. The moment he becomes enlisted under the banner of total abstinence his influence becomes a factor in the spread of temperance.—William Jennings Bryan.

In Faraway India.

Charles W. Fairbanks, former vice president of the United States, who was elected at the world's Christian Endeavor convention in Agra, India, until the last, was unavoidably detained a few hundred miles from the convention when on his way to Agra. However, he kindly telegraphed the substance of his address in a message of 250 words. This was received with great applause, and after it was read by Dr. Clark the American contingent, some fifty in all, rose and sang "America." Then the British, not to be outdone, sang "God Save the King;" and all joined in "Blessed Be the Tie" at the close.

HIBERNIANS TO ASSEMBLE

Plainfield Division of the A. O. H. to go to Paterson August 30.

FOR BIENNIAL CONVENTION.

Some Famous Catholic Priests and Laymen to Speak to Delegates From all Dioceses in New Jersey.

The 47th biennial convention of the Ancient Order of Hibernians of New Jersey will convene at St. Joseph's Hall, Carroll street, Paterson, on Tuesday, August 30. The delegates will be met at the various depots by the local committee. The delegates from Jersey City, Newark and Harrison will come by special train, and son will go by special train, and nian Rifles, of Bayonne, and a brass band.

The visiting delegates and members, as soon as they arrive at the hall, will be preceded by the Ladies' Auxiliary, A. O. H., of Paterson, and also of Passaic, and will march to St. Joseph's church, where pontifical mass will be celebrated by the Rev. Father Charles Gillen, assisted by State Chaplain Rev. Father McLaughlin, of Union Hill; the Rev. John W. Corcoran, the Rev. Father Guterl, the Rev. Father Kirk, county chaplain and visiting priests. A sermon appropriate to the occasion will be preached.

After mass the delegates will return to St. Joseph's Hall, where the convention will assemble and addresses of welcome will be extended by Mayor Andrew F. McBride, of Paterson; Richard McGinn, chairman of the reception and arrangement committee, and by Thomas Brady, county president. The Rev. Dean W. McNulty, the Rev. Charles P. Gillen, Hon. Matthew Cummings, of Boston, National president of the A. O. H., have been invited by the State officers to be present and have promised to be on hand. The response to the welcome will be made by State President Peter J. Kerwin, and State Secretary James P. Mylod.

The hall will be tastefully decorated with American and Irish flags, and across the stage will be hung a banner bearing the words, "Cead Mile Failthe."

Broadway Hotel, Paterson, has been selected as the headquarters for the State delegates. Pres. Kerwin's report will cover many matters of importance to the Order. The suggestion and recommendations it embodies will be evidence of the close study of the conditions which must be met with and surmounted in order to enable the A. O. H. to accomplish the purpose of its formation. Concord and harmony will be the motto of the convention.

Delegates will be in attendance from the various cities and towns of New Jersey, including Atlantic City, Englewood, Grantwood, Cliffside, Florence, Bordentown, Moorestown, Burlington, Riverton, Camden, Gloucester City, Millville, Orange, Newark, Bloomfield, Montclair, Glen Ridge, Harrison, Swedesboro, Mullica Hill, Harrisonville, Jersey City, Hoboken, Kearny, Bayonne, Arlington, West New York, Union Hill, Lambertville, High Bridge Junction, Trenton, New Brunswick, Sayerville, South Amboy, South River, Perth Amboy, Jamesburg, Carteret, Port Reading, Keyport, Freehold, Long Branch, Mattewan, Wharton, Mount Hope, Hibernia, Boonton, Dover, Salem, Woodstown, Bound Brook, Ogdensburg, Franklin Furnace, Elizabeth, Rahway, Plainfield, Phillipsburg, Hackensack, Passaic and this city.

The election of officers will be an important feature of the convention and the delegates of Passaic county are expected to play an important part in the formation of the new State board of directors. County President Thomas Brady will call for a caucus of the delegates in this county on Sunday evening, July 3. On that evening a big initiation ceremony will take place at the Labor Lyceum, 78 Houten street, when it is expected that a class of thirty will take their degrees. Every division in the county has at least four or more candidates on the waiting list for the major degrees, and all are expected to be on hand on the eve of Independence Day at the Labor Lyceum.

Effective Initials.

When marking household linen there are times when the quickest way is the best. An ordinary cattle brand made very closely across the design in block or script letter will "fill in" most satisfactorily. This work is done so closely that the stitches lie side by side, and the constantly crossing holds them in place. The edges of this letter are made more interesting by a finish of outlining which is so closely worked as to appear cordlike.

Already Tested.

Tenant—I hear you have a letter for me. Just give it me, will you.

Concierge—All right, ma'am, but I warn you, you won't be able to make much out of it. None of the servants nor my wife nor myself can read it.

GOVERNOR'S SIGNATURE COST STATE JUST $52

After dining with the commuters Thursday, who asked him to convene the Legislature in special session so that the State utility commission may have drastic powers over railroad rates, Governor Fort went to the State house to sign commissions for attorneys and counsellors to be sworn in yesterday, and every time he touched pen to parchment he cost the state $1, and he did this fifty-two times by signing commissions in the wrong place. All of the commissions had to be destroyed yesterday, but the court swore in the attorneys and counselors and told them they would get new commissions.

The question for the State comptroller to decide now is whether the secretary of State, who furnishes the parchment for the certificates and attests the signature of the governor (when it is signed in the right place), or the governor must stand the expenses of the mistake. If the secretary is to stand the expense, it must come as a special appropriation from the legislature, but if the governor intends paying for the mistake it can be charged to the emergency fund.

MORROW REAPPOINTED BY GOVERNOR FORT

In accordance with recommendations made by Former Governor Franklin Murphy and James R. Nugent, as chairmen of the Republican and Democratic State committees respectively, Governor Fort has appointed the members of county election boards, in which vacancies occur this year. There are four members of each board, one Democrat and one Republican going out each year. His appointments for the Union County Board are Ralph L. Morrow, of this city, and Frederick Zior, of Elizabeth, both of whom are members of the board at present.

The recommendations of the State chairmen were, in turn, based upon recommendations made to them by the county chairmen of the two parties. In most instances the retiring members were reappointed. The appointments of Mr. Morrow and Mr. Zior hold up the completion of Chairman Murphy's list for some time. August Graf, formerly factory inspector from the Hudson County district, was finally agreed upon. The appointments made are as follows:

Atlantic—William Howenstein, Republican; Louis A. Reppetto, Democrat.

Bergen—George Ricardo, Republican; William H. Rodgers, Democrat.

Burlington—Newton Morton, Republican; Dr. R. B. Glasgow, Democrat.

Camden—William H. Harrison, Republican; Francis J. McAdams, Democrat.

Cape May—F. H. Dougherty and Walter Rutherford, Republicans; William Tyler, Democrat. Mr. Rutherford was nominated to sue eed L. E. Hughes, who was named a member of the County Tax Board.

Cumberland—Edward H. Corson, Republican; George W. Eckart, Democrat.

Essex—Thomas P. Aiworth, Republican; Richard J. Fanz, Democrat.

Gloucester—I. Hampton Williams, Republican; Thomas C. Dilks, Democrat.

Hudson—August Graf, Republican;; John Zeller, Democrat.

Hunterdon—Victor Pendreigh, Republican; John H. Reed, Democrat.

Mercer—Holmes E. La Rue, Republican; John T. Moore, Democrat.

Middlesex—Dr. J. L. Suydam, Republican; Hendrick H. Brown, Democrat.

Monmouth—Major John C. Patterson, Republican; John P. Walker, Democrat.

Morris—Sidney Collins, Republican; William C. Hummel, Democrat.

Ocean—Ulysses S. Grant, Republican; David C. Brewer, Democrat.

Passaic—Stephen Dawson, Republican: John W. De Mott, Democrat.

Salem—Isaac Prickett, Republican; Roger Moran, Democrat.

Somerset—Theodore P. Hoffman, Republican; Jacob Shurts, Democrat.

Sussex—Albert D. Cornell, Republican; Frank J. Coe, Democrat.

Union—Ralph L. Morrow, Republican; Frederick Zior, Democrat.

Warren—E. J. Wildrick, Republican; James P. Shurts, Democrat.

Soon.

Ah, soon the summer days will blaze
And summer nights will scorch,
When Pa and Ma must sit inside,
While daughter rules the porch.
—Detroit Free Press.

Joining a Fret.

John, John, my son John.
One shoe and one shoe on.
No, the poor boy is not crazed;
He is merely being based.
—Louisville Courier-Journal.

"Why do you call his fortune a ready-made one."

"He married a rich widow to get it."—Detroit Free Press.

TAFT LAUDED BY KEAN

State's Senior Senator Would Like to See Him Re-elected President.

PRAISES HIS ADMINISTRATION.

John Kean Reviews the Work Done By Congress During the Session Which Has Just Come to a Close.

United States Senator John Kean, interviewed by a reporter in Elizabeth on Wednesday night, expressed the belief that in spite of a formidable array of opponents he will be returned as New Jersey's senior Senator should the next legislature have a Republican majority. He also expressed entire satisfaction with the Taft administration, and declared that Mr. Taft will not only be a candidate for re-election but will be returned to office for a second term.

Senator Kean was enthusiastic over the successful termination of the recent session of Congress, especially because of the completeness with which the Administration program was carried out by the legislators. Of great importance to Elizabeth and the entire eastern part of the State in the appropriation making possible improvement of the water shipping facilities in and about Newark Bay and Kill von Kull. The improvement projected, he said, particularly the straightening of the channel off Shooter Island, will be of enormous value to Elizabeth shippers, as was demonstrated by a letter of appreciation he had just received from the Singer Manuufacturing Company.

The country at large, he continued, has been benefited by the action of Congress in creating a Court of Commerce for the regulation of railroad rates, a part of the Taft program, and the postal savings bank, which will prove of greater usefulness in the West than in the East, although the Senator has received letters of thanks for his work in behalf of this project from many of his New Jersey constituents. In the creation of Arizona and New Mexico as States, the Senator pointed out, the Republican party redeemed its campaign pledges, and in addition to this pushed through legislation that it is estimated will reduce the postal deficit from $14,000,000 to $5,000,000.

"The session was very successful," said the Senator, in summing up the situation, "more so than most of them have been. I believe that everyone left Washington with the feeling that a great deal of benefit to the Nation at large had been accomplished. It may be true that there was a feeling that Mr. Taft was not 'making good' four weeks ago, but surely the success of his program at the close of the session has greatly altered this opinion. I believe the President is making good work. Furthermore, I believe he will be the next candidate of the Republican party and that he will be re-elected."

Beyond the statement that he doubts not he will be returned to the Upper House, Senator Kean declined to comment upon the interesting Senatorial situation that has developed in New Jersey during the past few months, mainly through the large number of aspirants for the Elizabethan's seat. He said that he has talked with none of the other candidates regarding the situation, but feels sure he will be the successful candidate.

"Why," he said, "it would be foolish to go into the fight without having confidence in the outcome."

Mr. Kean did not care to say what he believes will be the effect of Mr. Roosevelt's return to America, but he did say that he believes the former President is entirely satisfied with the record of his successor.

WOULD USE PRISONERS ON COUNTY ROAD WORK.

Members of the jail committee of the board of freeholders favor placing men sent to the county jail to serve sentences for crimes such as non-support, wife beating and drunkenness, at work on the county roads. The committee met yesterday at the jail, and while the question was not discussed at the meeting, the opinion of the members was asked by a reporter.

Freeholder Perry said that he has always favored the placing of men in the county institution at some kind of work such as the building of roads. It was admitted, however, that the facilities at the present time are such that work of this kind could not be done.

It would require the hiring of extra guards to watch the prisoners, but the expense would be met by the saving to the county on the cost of the road work. It was hinted that the time would come when chain gangs, such as are frequently seen in the streets of the southern towns of the country, will be seen on the roads in Union county.

She never lied about her age.
These words as truth pray hold it,
Yet with this fact you must engage,
She never told it.

NERVOUS CHILDREN.

A shock to the nervous system of a little child is sometimes so injurious that years afterwards the harmful results are apparent. Even if the temporary effects be considered, the importance of protecting the nervous system in infancy should be recognized by parents or by all who associate with children.

They should never be frightened by loud noises or unusual sights.

As a rule, the more quiet a baby is kept during the first year of its life the better chance it has for life of health and happiness. The fact that so large a proportion of the human family die in infancy is due largely to the folly of nurses and the ignorance of mothers.

Overbright babies do not commend themselves to physicians, who know that the first year of a child's life should be spent largely in sleep. All effects to arouse the dormant mind of a child at this period are attended with danger. The foolish practise of tossing a helpless baby in the air, while it screams, with affright and delight, is a most dangerous one.

A physician with a large practise tells the story of a precociously bright child which showed evident delight when tossed in this way by a doting father, who was accustomed to play with it every evening. The child trembled with delight when the night's frolic was over, but one evening from this trembling, it passed into a spasm, the first indication of one of those fatal brain diseases against which medical science is helpless.

Mother Nature generally pursues her course in quiet, unsuspected ways, and any attempt to introduce the unusual and to shock the little baby cannot but result disastrously.

ROYAL WOMEN SHOPPING.

One of the best dressed women in Europe is Queen Ameria, of Portugal. Queen Helena, of Italy, on the contrary, is somewhat apt to affect for extreme styles, although she is best in the smartest of costumes.

Her majesty does not confine herself to one dressmaker, but will visit half a dozen shops until she decides on what she wants. What is more, she does not believe in paying exorbitant prices simply because she is the queen, and the dressmakers claim she knows how to drive a bargain.

The Queen of Holland, too, likes gay clothes, and she is exceedingly fond of French styles. She will not begood price for anything she takes a fancy to, and experience has taught the French dressmakers to show her only green, blue and white and to turn on the electric switches to see how the colors look by artificial daylight.

Look After Your Teeth.

A perfectly shaped set is a gift which nature rarely bestows, but as the average young girl's teeth are sound, by thoroughly brushing them at night, morning and after each meal she may at least keep them looking white and wholesome. If she loses one of her teeth before reaching middle age it is usually because an unwillingness to endure a little pain prevents her from having them stopped until only mere shells remain to be worked upon.

Bird's Nest Salad.

Have about as many crisp leaves of lettuce as may be required to make a dainty little nest for each person. Curl them into shape and in each one place tiny speckled eggs made by rolling cream cheese into shape, then sprinkling with fine chopped parsley Serve with French dressing hidden under the leaves of the nest.

Crash Cushion Covers.

Cushion covers of crash, embroidered with some simple design in raffia, are os attractive as any for the porch. Such a cover makes a gift that will be appreciated by the traveler on the sea or taking a long journey by land. Fitted with its cushion and provided cushion may be hung over the back of the steamer chair or held in place by tapes on the back of the chair car seat, this adjunct to a trip will be voted a joy.

Busy.

All nature's busy here below
As changeful seasons pass;
The springtime shovels off the snow
And autumn cuts the grass.
—Washington Evening Star.

Tough.

I'd hoped by now to order ice,
But bless my soul!
I still must scamper for the price
Of good hard coal.
—Detroit Free Press.

Summer Camp for Negro Children.

An effort is being made to establish a fresh air camp for negro babies and children of Elizabeth near Kenilworth. The Rev. W. H. Taylor, pastor of the Shiloh Baptist church, Elizabeth, is the promoter of the scheme. The minister's plan is to erect a hut where the mothers can take their children every day so they can get the benefits of the fresh air and sunshine of the country. The parents need pay nothing but the carfare to and from the grounds.

Constitutionalist ads. pay.

RUNYON FOR CONGRESS?

Popular Plainfield Judge is Mentioned for the G.O.P. Nomination.

WON'T DISCUSS THE REPORT.

Though Not Affiliated With the Party Organization it Is Believed He Would Be Acceptable.

Judge William N. Runyon declined to discuss the movement on foot here to launch a boom for him for the Fifth district congressional nomination, on the Republican ticket, when seen today. His name has been connected with the place for several days so far as street talk is concerned but no one in a position could say anything beyond that he would make a strong candidate particularly in Plainfield.

Whether Judge Runyon would be acceptable to the "organization" could not be learned this morning as Republican County Chairman Frank H. Smith and Factory Inspector Andrew Mc Cardel, the "machine" leaders were both out of town. It is reported, however, that neither would raise a hand against the nomination of the judge, who for years has had the strongest personal following of any man probably in Union county.

Judge Runyon has many warm friends in the organization as well as among the progressives and with him as a candidate it is believed here that the party breach so far as congress is concerned could be healed. This fact, it is stated by the knowing ones would make him acceptable to the "organization." Like Mr. Fowler, he possesses much eloquence and is considered by his friends as having a more magnetic personality.

How Morris county will act is not known here, although it is known that State Treasurer Daniel S. Voorhees, the Morris county "boss" is as firmly opposed today to Mr. Fowler as is Union County Chairman Smith. Union county can control the situation alone but it is considered that nothing will be done by the Union county organization which is not agreeable to Morris.

James H. McGraw, of Morris, it is well understood declines to run for the nomination and so far that county has not produced a candidate and the chances are said to be, it is reliably reported, that none will be entered from that district. The same is true of Warren county. In Union, two others have been mentioned. Both are Plainfielders. They are State Senator John R. Ackerman, who is now abroad and will remain in Europe until the fall, and former Mayor Alexander Gilbert, who declined two years ago to run against Fowler for the nomination. Mr. Ackerman's absence would make it impossible for him to run as Mr. Fowler has already started a vigorous campaign, visiting the various counties to feel the pulse of the people.

PAUL SCARBOROUGH WEDS AT SYRACUSE

Paul Scarborough, of Mountain avenue, was married to Miss Ethel O. Northrop, of Syracuse, N. Y., in the Syracuse Central Baptist church, Thursday night. Gideon Fountain, of West Seventh street, was the best man and Hollis Cubberly was one of the ushers. The only others from this city at the wedding were Hiram Scarborough, father of the bridegroom.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. W. Dawley and the church was filled with friends and relatives of the bride. The bride wore a gown of pink marquisette and carried a bouquet of bridal roses. Her attendants were gowned in white.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride. The decorations here were in pink and white.

TICKETS ARE GIVEN OUT FOR DEMOCATRIC OUTING.

Distribution of tickets for the fifteenth annual outing of the Democratic City Committee were made at a meeting of the body Tuesday night. The sub-committee in charge of the affair sprung a pleasant surprise when the tickets were given out and the committee believes that it is the first to adopt the slogan, "Rail and Harbor City" in the way that it has. In the centre of the ticket is a cut showing a railroad train speeding over a bridge across a body of water in which lie several vessels. On the other side of the train are seen factories in full blast. Underneath is the slogan, "The Rail and Harbor City."

The outing will be held as usual to Witzel's Point View Grove, Long Island Sound, the steamer Sirius having been chartered for the occasion. The date is August 17. Last year 1,200 Democrats were present and plans for the accommodation of

Doing Things Differently

If only the Criswells were content to live according to conventional rule existence doubtless would be much smoother for them. Also for others. It principally be others who rebel against the Criswells' cheerfully eccentric method of conducting themselves, their household and their affairs in general, because when things go wrong the Criswells are never bothered nor upset, having a childlike and joyous interest in whatever is unusual.

When a couple who have been married eight years get energetic enough to go to a ball the usual method of procedure after the dance is over is for the masculine member to yawn, mutter wearily that he has to get up at seven in the morning just the same and why the dickens doesn't the taxi get them home faster—while his wife says her head aches and somebody else's gown was far prettier than hers and oh, my, but she is sleepy!

Not the Criswells, however! When they reached their home shelter at two o'clock the other morning after dancing since nine they surveyed one another meditatively.

"I'm starved," said Mrs. Criswell.

"So'm I," agreed Criswell.

With one accord they made for the kitchen. When the light was switched on and disclosed a disguised and startled mouse scurrying wildly for shelter Mrs. Criswell did not faint. Both she and her husband gurgled joyously. She grabbed a broom, Criswell seized the poker.

Probably there is some costume appropriate for the pastime of killing mice, but whatever it may be it assuredly is not trailing tender satin and brand new dress suit. Still, the consciousness that they were inappropriately clothed had no deterring effect on the Criswells. A boiler factory in full action was the only thing that possibly could have made more noise than did they with broom, poker, overturned chairs and falling dishpans.

Finally, the intruder was dispatched and swept outdoors, the Criswells repaired personal damages and once more attempted a frugal lunch. They got one. Some minor mishaps. Criswell knocked over a jar of preserves and his wife in pulling out the silver drawer pulled it too far, spilling a peck or so of table implements all over the hardwood floor. Still, they laughed and in fact both found trouble more than paid for themselves.

Just as Criswell pushed his chair back from the table a point of light glittered at him from the library. Diving toward it, he quickly emerged with a large toy engine in his hands.

"Elmer," said his wife, "I hate to appear inquisitive—but would you mind telling me if you have quite lost your senses? Have you still at this hour of the night such an insatiable thirst for amusement that you have to fall back on Tommy's toy engine? Isn't a dinner party, a dance, a mouse-killing bee—and a supper enough—"

"That's all right, Minnie," said Criswell, soothingly. "You know you're just as crazy over this fool thing as I am and it's never worked right since Tommy got it Christmas—and I don't know of a better time to fix it!"

The engine was an affair run by gas, so the Criswells with much labor got it attached to the gas fixture. Then on hands and knees they watched it plunge madly across the hardwood floor, chugging in a very business-like manner. It was while they were thus occupied that a noise interrupted them. Raising their heads from their absorbing occupation they saw enter what Mrs. Criswell afterward said was the biggest policeman she had ever in all her life beheld. Behind was a policeman still bigger, who in turn was trailed by the biggest policeman of all. They regarded the two persons in evening garb with suspicion.

"Whatchu doin' here?" demanded the biggest policeman.

Even the Criswells could see how foolish and inadequate it sounded to explain that they were running a child's toy engine at three o'clock in the morning. That was why they were shook when they had to explain the mouse-killing in the kitchen and the crash of silver in the dining-room and why they insisted piteously instead of wrathfully that they lived there and had a right to run toy engines in the middle of the night if they wanted to. It was not till Nora and Mary, the maids, who, roused from slumber by the weird noises downstairs, had telephoned the police station that there were burglars in the house and their employers were out, peered in timorously, that the Criswells finally cleared themselves of suspicion.

"We convinced those policemen that we weren't burglars," Mrs. Criswell says, "but nothing in a thousand years ever will convince them that we aren't fanatics, and dangerous ones, at that!"

"I don't care," says Criswell comfortably. "I think it was a very pleasant evening."

Winning Pa Over.

Angry Father—Perhaps you didn't throw that snowball through the window, young man, but I've a good mind to thrash you on general principles!

Johnnie—If I knew dead sure it wouldn't hurt me as much there as on some other places I wouldn't mind the thrashin', pa.—Boston Herald.

ARTISTIC BOUDOIR AND SHOE CHESTS.

Nothing makes a room look more untidy than various boots and shoes standing around in the corners, or under the dressing table or chairs. Sometimes, it is true, they are tucked away under the bed, but that, although out of sight, is still far from an ideal resting place. A boot box or chest is much the best for keeping them in, and, if properly made, would make quite an artistic addition to the room.

A good imitation of a beaten copper or brass chest would look well. First, produce a good-sized, strong box, and after taking off the lid and one of the long sides, saw off the corners of the short sides to form the slope for the top lid. A shelf must now be inserted.

Part of the lid is replaced and screwed or nailed in position. The two doors or flaps open reverse ways, one upwards and the other down, the bottom one requiring a catch to fasten into the shelf when shut. The top door will fall naturally into its place, and would only require a handle to lift it by.

Now cover the whole outside with some imitation stamped leather wall paper, a dull gold for brass, or a copper one if preferred. Many beautiful shades can be had in these papers. A plain white one may be used and painted an oak color. The pattern of the paper would then make a good imitation of carving.

The consturction of the second chest is the same as the first, the difference being in the exterior decoration. If you have been lucky enough to secure a good wooden box it would perhaps be better to keep the beauty of the natural graining of the wood. The box should be well glaze-papered to make it as smooth as possible and a good wood stain applied, green or brown being the best. Edge round the sides and doors with short brass-headed nails and fill in the panels with any design fancied in the same way. Some good brass hinges will help to give this chest a very handsome and finished appearance.

SENATOR DRYDEN'S NEW BOOK.

Addresses and Papers on Life Insurance and Other Subjects.

There has just been put on file in the larger libraries of the country, a volume containing the addresses and papers on life insurance and other subjects, by former United States Senator John F. Dryden, financier and president of the Prudential Insurance Company of America.

It will be remembered that President Dryden first successfully introduced and operated industrial life insurance in the United States, and his new book contains much information concerning life insurance for the masses, or what is commonly called industrial insurance.

Mr. Dryden's book is one of the very few books that have been written on this subject. The volume treats of the inception and early problems of the Business, as well as the social economy and practice of what the author claims is one of the most effective methods of family protection ever devised. Mr. Dryden also points to the opportunities of life insurance as a career, and in his book brings out clearly that only one-fifth of the population carry legal reserve life insurance. The author tells of the new system of life insurance successfully introduced by the Prudential about two years ago by which the payment of life insurance money through the medium of monthly income checks is divided over the entire life time of the widow or other dependents rather than paying it in one sum directly at the death of the insured. Mr. Dryden believes that this method of distributing life insurance is directly in line with the American ideal of the highest possible degree of economic independence in old age, and that this new plan of the Prudential's marks an epoch in life insurance.

Spanish Lace.

Spanish lace which shows signs of wear may be utilized by transferring the figures to a new net ground. If the lace is black and rusty, freshen it by dipping lightly in coffee or vinegar and water. Very handsome lace should be dyed; then, with the new net grounding, it is almost as good as new. Fill in openings with lace stitches. When time is plenty and patience abounds, very attractive results may be achieved by holding a fine gold thread around the lace figures, of either black or white, and overlasting it firmly but sparsely with two-thread silk, either matching the lace or the thing it is meant finally to adorn.

Supplies for Bathroom.

The supplies in the bathroom are no less important than those of the kitchen. Besides its hot water bags, big and little, ammonia, colledion, lime water and sweet oil, a 1 per cent. solution of carbolic acid, a box of absorbent cotton and a roll of bandages should be kept on hand. With these ready for use an accident, such as a burn or cut, may easily be treated and pain spared the victim. The acid solution is useful in all cases of injury because of its cleansing qualities.

THE PRICE OF BEEFSTEAK

By Will C. Barnes

Inspector of Grazing, United States Forest Service.

Reproduced by Permission of the Saturday Evening Post.

Thirty years ago almost all the country west of the Missouri river was an open grazing area used only by the stock raisers—mostly cattlemen. From Kansas to California, and from Medicine Hat to Brownsville, Texas, there was a virgin range covered with some of the best and most nutritious grass to be found anywhere in the world, only waiting for some hungry cows to come along and eat it.

At that time the population of the United States was about fifty million and while there are no reliable statistics available to show the number of cattle we then had, a careful study of what data there are leads to the belief that in the entire United States there were in the neighborhood of fifty million head of cattle of all classes.

About that time began the expansion of the range-cattle business. Texas, with probably seven million cattle on her vast ranges, found herself with a surplus of that kind of livestock. Men down there were not the poor. There were no railroads and their only outlet was by trail. Stock cattle were not worth much. Herds changed hands at from three to five dollars per head, counting steers, with the calves thrown in for good measure. The building of the railroad across the plains of Kansas opened up a market for these down-at-the-heels Texans and they were quick to avail themselves of its possibilities.

Then followed the halcyon days of the Texas trails. Hundreds of thousands of cattle went north from these ranges to be shipped from the new railroad points at Dodge, Abilene and other noted shipping centers. The eastern country was deluged with cheap, "free grass" cattle, and the farmers of the states raised a great outcry against their coming, claiming it meant the ruin of their farming industry if allowed to continue.

The extension of railroads into the West gradually stopped the trail work, but the cattle continued to go out over the rails in even greater numbers than ever. The Texans also spread out in their business to the extent of stocking up with cattle to open ranges to the north of them. Kansas and Nebraska at first then Montana, Wyoming and Colorado, Wyoming and other Northwestern states were filled with Southern cows. These enterprising trail men worked even into Utah, California and Oregon with their herds. Then came the winter of 1886, which put a crimp into the open-range business for a season. Hundreds upon hundreds of prosperous cowmen found themselves ruined and with but a handful of their original stock left in the spring which followed that never-to-be-forgotten winter.

For the ten years succeeding 1886 the cattle business above the northern line of Arizona, New Mexico and Oklahoma was almost entirely a steer-fattening one. The young steers were shipped north from the Southwestern ranges in the early spring, grazed for two years and then shipped to the Eastern markets. The cost of this method of handling was somewhat greater than under the old system of management.

A statement of the cost of running one of the most successful steer-handling outfits in South Dakota during this period shows that, counting interest on the capital, freight, losses from winters and other causes, and all other items of expense, there was an average outlay of fifteen dollars per head on each steer from the day he left the Southern ranges until he was safely landed in the stockyards of Chicago or Kansas City. As the average price of a two-year-old steer at point of purchase was about fifteen dollars, the finished product cost the steer handler about thirty dollars.

During this second period the steer raisers at both ends of the line made good money on their product, and the people of the United States were eating not only the best, but in all probability the cheapest, beef they will ever have placed before them.

During this period the cost of raising cattle on the Southwestern ranges, according to the books of one of the largest cattle companies of Arizona, was not over one dollar per head a year. That is, excluding losses and interest on capital invested, a two-year-old steer stood them in but two dollars for his raising.

If the ranges could have been kept at their maximum carrying capacity and the losses from dry years eliminated, the country would no doubt still be eating cheap beef. But the rolls of overstocking, together with a succession of dry years, swept some of the ranges almost bare of cattle in the winter of 1892-3.

During this second period, between 1886 and 1896, all farm products were very low in price, with a general upward tendency toward the close of the period. Farmers with feed to sell, such as hay, corn or pastures, were offering all sorts of inducements to Western stockmen to bring their cattle to them for feed. Pastures could be rented in the prairie states like Kansas and Nebraska for twenty-five cents per head per month. Corn was to be had on every hand at not over twenty-five cents per bushel, and one remembers with amusement the row we raise one year in the early part of the period when, owing to a dry summer, we had to pay that price for corn in southern Kansas.

In the alfalfa-raising regions of the West the same conditions existed. Take the great Salt River Valley in Arizona as an example. In the year 1890 a herd of five hundred head of mixed cattle was being trailed from the northern end of the territory to be placed upon the alfalfa fields in that valley.

When within a few days' drive of the valley no less than four different men rode out to meet the herd to secure the cattle for their fields. They offered the very best of alfalfa hay at three dollars a ton in the stack, with the use of the fields about them for feeding during the two months when the alfalfa doesn't grow there. As for the green feed, they offered to make a contract for green alfalfa pasturage as soon as the weather permitted, at twenty-five cents per head per month, and not count calves, of which there would be many.

Today the stockman wishing to feed cattle or stock of any kind there must needs look up the alfalfa farmer and plead with him for the hay or pasturage. His hay is now worth from eight to ten dollars a ton in the stack, and pasturage has crawled up to two and three dollars a month per head.

Exactly the same conditions prevail in the great alfalfa-raising regions of Colorado and other Western States. When they dit covered the great feeding value of the cottonseed and its hulls, which previously had been treated as waste and burned to get it out of the way, the stuff could be had for the hauling away. Then its value began to rise, until today it costs the stockmen at the cottongins somewhere around eighteen dollars per ton, and the price is still rising.

Corn, too, has steadily crept up the scale. Feeders are paying from fifty to sixty cents per bushel for corn this winter—that is, those who have the nerve to tackle steer-feeding with corn at those prices are doing so.

Meantime, well-meaning Government officials were straining every nerve to open up new avenues for our food products abroad. Take corn, for instance. Foreigners knew almost nothing about the food values of corn, either for man or beast. Well-posted agents were sent abroad to educate the foreigners to the use of our corn. Mills were built over Europe they went, talking, advertising and showing with true American aggressiveness the great benefits of corn as a food. Their work was indeed well done.

Much the same conditions have assisted in the rise in values of cottonseed and hulls for stock-feeding purposes. When the Southern cottongrinners found their once despised waste was worth something, they were not content with the local demand, but set about finding new outlets for its sale. The supply was apparently unlimited and the demand at present very modest. So they sought a market abroad. A sort of educational campaign was begun, with most excellent results. The German farmers especialy took kindly to the food. It furnished them in a highly concentrated form a fat-producing element for which their soil was very poor. They knew a good thing when they saw it, and today the export demand for cottonseed and hulls is almost, if not quite, as large as the home consumption. Looking at the matter from one point of view we seem to have been hoist with our own petard, in that we now need the material both corn and cottonseed, right here at home for our own uses.

One of the most potent factors entering into the cost of meat production in the United States is the tremendous rise in land values all over the West. With the coming of the "non-fat-gun with the hoe" many of the rangemen were practically put out of business. In the two Dakotas at one time doubtless the best open ranges for steer-raising we had, the inroads of the settlers early in the nineties forced out almost all the larger steer-handling outfits, and the business now moving great numbers of young Southern steers to the Northern ranges has since then rapidly dwindled.

The same conditions followed all over the range country. In eastern New Mexico, western Texas and southeastern Colorado the settlers, especially the "dry farmers", swept down upon the stockmen's ranges like an invading army. The prairies were dotted with their little shacks as far as the eye could see, while their wire fences cut up the range to such an extent that the herds could not be handled to reach many well-known shipping points.

Many of the great herds, both both sheep and cattle, were gathered up and shipped away to be dumped upon the market for what they would bring, and their owners quit the business in disgust.

In Texas the big stockmen generally have recouped themselves for their losses in cattle by the rise in land values. Pasture lands there, especially on the "Stake Plains," which had gone begging for years at a dollar an acre, jumped rapidly to ten, twenty and as high as fifty dollars an acre under the impetus of this new farming system, plus one of the most gigantic colonization schemes the world has seen.

The natural supposition would be that land which had been used for raising cattle, allowing thirty acres to the animal, could, under intensive farming operations, produce more beef per acre than that. This is true, but it takes time to make the changes. Meantime, the number of cattle in the country stood still, in fact actually decreased, while the country was growing, population steadily increasing, and the demand for fattening grazed daily.

When the Western stockmen saw the handwriting on the wall some of the longheaded ones began to provide for the future by obtaining possession of every acre of strictly pasture land they could. In this way millions of dollars have been laid out, which naturally adds very materially to the cost of production.

In 1890 some data were prepared by several large sheepmen, covering the cost of running sheep upon the ranges; and the average cost of running sheep at that time was between sixty and seventy-five cents per head a year.

The investment consisted of the year, very modest camp outfits, a few burros for packing and possibly a wagon for camping purposes. Very few of them had any money invested in lands or ranches beyond a home ranch for headquarters. Dipping plants, hay-feeding pens, power-shearing plants and all those necessities and conveniences of today were unknown. They had the whole West for their range. They walked their wool to the shipping-places on the sheep's backs.

In the year 1908 a committee from one of the big Montana sheep associations prepared a set of figures showing the cost of handling sheep under present methods.

The data took from the books of eleven sheep outfits by representing a total of 182,000 sheep. By this report the average total cost of running one sheep by these eleven outfits for a year was placed at $1.40. The bulk of the increased cost is covered by investments in lands and improved ranches rendered absolutely necessary by the changed range conditions.

They estimated the gross investment in sheep, lands and other ranch property used in the business by these eleven outfits as being equal to $12 for each sheep. In the earlier days it would not have been over $2.50 at the outside. By the same report machine shearing at public plants costs fourteen cents a sheep, while hand shearing costs nine. In the olden times the average pay for hand shearing was about four cents for ordinary sheep.

Unfortunately, the cattlemen as a class have not been so progressive or long-headed as the sheep raisers and have invested much less in lands and improved ranches than the wool producers; nevertheless, the investments in these things by the cattle raisers have added to the cost of steer-raising in the same relative value.

Looking into the number of stock now in the United States the estimates published by the Government on the first of every year show very clearly why dear meats are here, and why they are due to logical and almost unavoidable conditions.

The following table taken from the Government reports—excepting cattle for 1880, which is an estimate—shows the true condition of matters:

	Cattle	Sheep	Hogs
1880	..50 mil.
1890	..53 mil.	44 mil.	52 mil.
1900	..61 mil.	42 mil.	37 mil.
1910	..69 mil.	57 mil.	48 mil.

(The amounts are rounded off for convenience.)

Since 1906 the number of cattle has steadily decreased, the loss between January 1, 1909, and January 1, 1910, being over two million head. Meantime, the meat-eating population has grown from fifty million in 1880 to an estimated ninety million in 1910.

Study these figures and stop quarreling with the packers, the beef-barons—that word which rolls so glibly from the tongue of the man who doesn't know—and the cold-storage warehouses. We are simply growing in population faster than we are in meat productiveness. If we will live all bunched up together in great cities, hundreds of miles from the points where our food is produced, we must pay the penalty. Cold storage warehouses are the only things that stand between our cities and starvation. They are to the consumer what the transformers are to the electric current. They regulate the flow of foodstuffs, storing it up when there is plenty, and then allowing it to run out when the demand calls for it.

The packers may need regulating, and time limits for cold storage may be demanded in the interests of health; but the bald fact remains that without some such system of marketing, where somebody stands ready to take everything offered, whether it be a train load of old range "canner cows" from New Mexico or a thousand steers from the corn-belt feeders, the stock raiser and feeder would quickly be forced out of business.

The talk about the good old times when the little local butcher handled the business of your home town is as futile and as ill-advised as it would be to hark back to the days when the horse car lines handled the business on Broadway. The times change, and we certainly have changed with the times. Besides, the meat that the American people are eating today is, in point of cleanliness, healthfulness and food fitness, as far ahead of what we used to get in those good old days as the latest trans-Atlantic liner is ahead of the old side-wheel boats of forty years ago.

When the meat production of the country catches up with the demands of the meat-eaters the price will naturally fall. A decade from now, when all this new land that is being placed under cultivation is doing its share to meet the matter, the natural rise in numbers of livestock may cause a surplus. But it is a debatable question whether the gap in the balance between consumption and supply is going to be narrowed very materially for a good many years.

DISLIKE RETURN CARDS ON THE U.S. ENVELOPES

Plainfield is interested in the measure now considered by Congress relative to the printing of return cards upon stamped envelopes supplied by the Government. A prominent Plainfield man, who has just returned from Washington says:

"The government has made contracts the past 45 years for the manufacture of envelopes and embossed stamps on the envelopes. In addition to that, a return card has been printed on the corner of the envelope, simply giving directions for the return in the sender, but not allowing any advertising of any character.

"It is the latter feature of this process which the envelope makers, paper makers, and especially printers, object to. The Government contract is now with a Dayton, O., firm which makes the envelope, empooses the stamp and prints the return card at one process. Therefore, it makes its bid for doing all the work exactly the same as for making the envelopes and embossing the stamps, it being claimed by the contractor that the cost in this process of printing the return is only about seven-tenths of one per cent. per 1,000 envelopes.

"The postoffice committee has reported a bill, which hereafter will prevent printing on the envelope anything more than these words, 'After ten days, return to ——— Plainfield, N. J.' or any other postoffice, so that hereafter users of these envelopes will obtain the envelope and embossed stamp and the above referred to printing at the same price heretofore, but the name of the firm and street number will have to be inserted by the sender of the letter.

"Under the present law anyone may send to the postoffice and order stamped envelopes in lots of 500 or multiples thereof, and have printed on the corner what is known as a 'special request,' in substance as follows:

After 10 days return to
JOHN L. BROWN,
134 Dearborn St.,
Chicago, Ill.

"Under the proposed bill, only the following may be printed on the envelope:

After 10 days, return to
.....
.....
Chicago, Ill.

"During the last fiscal year there were placed with the postoffices of the country orders for special request envelopes numbering 482,071, and the total number of envelopes printed as per these orders reached 1,027,474,889, or an average of about 2,131 envelopes in each order.

"Nearly all of the smaller newspapers throughout the country do this kind of printing, as do many thousands of offices devoted exclusively to commercial printing, and it is believed by the committee that the government should retire from this form of commercial printing and leave the work to those engaged in that business.

"The bill offered at the recent Congress will still allow those who buy a few envelopes at the postoffice window, what may be called the family trade, to have printed their town and state, with convenient places left for writing in their name and city address, but if the bill becomes a law at the next Congress, business houses and others now buying envelopes of the Government will be called upon to have their printing done privately.

"It perhaps should be added that under the present law the government is not permitted to make a profit out of this printing, the present price of such envelopes delivered to the customer being $1.24 a thousand.

"The present contract for making and printing these envelopes is with a firm in Dayton, Ohio, and does not expire until June 30, 1911.

THE DANGEROUS FLY.

Keep the flies away from the sick, especially those ill with contagious diseases. Kill every fly that strays into the sickroom. His body is covered with disease germs.

Do not allow decaying material of any sort to accumulate on or near your premises.

All refuse which tends in any way to fermentation, such as bedding straw, paper waste and vegetable matter, should be disposed of or covered with lime or kerosene.

Screen all food, whether in the house or exposed for sale.

Keep all receptacles for garbage carefully covered and the can cleaned or sprinkled with oil or lime.

Keep all stable manure in vault or pit, screened or sprinkled with lime, oil or other cheap preparations, such as are sold by a number of reliable manufacturers.

Keep your sewerage system in good order; that it does not leak, is up to date and not exposed to flies.

Pour kerosene into the drains.

Burn or bury all table refuse.

Screen all windows and doors, especially in the kitchen and dining-room.

If you see flies, you may be sure that their breeding place is in nearby filth. It may be behind the door, under the table or in the cuspidor.

If there is no dirt and filth there will be no flies.

GEMS ON LACE RESTORE GOWN.

For the restoration of an evening gown, so that it may do duty during the summer dancing season, sew gems upon the lace.

Laces when cleaned frequently suver most in the elaborate gown. They are fragile and reach the repair point while the gown is still good.

Then it is that glass gems or large beads come into requisition as beautifiers as well as patches.

Used discreetly they will cover most successfully any small darn or rent, and will at the same time enrich and often recolor the garment.

This adding of a new touch to the half-worn article of apparel is frequently truer economy than the rebuilding of a garment with new materials which usually attain almost the price of a new gown.

FAULTS IN GIRLS.

Girls think grown people fretful who try to improve their manners. The time comes when they wonder why they were so silly or are bitterly resentful that bad habits were not corrected.

One of the commonest and most unsightly habits is that of "fingering." Girls who should know better pinch their lips, pull at a lock of hair, the eyebrows or the lobe of the ear, rub the nose—sometimes upward—or pluck at their collars.

This is habit and an ill-bred habit. Besides being bad for the girl herself, distorting her features and making her appear unsouth and ill at ease, it is trying to watchers. It often makes them ready to shriek with nervousness.

Girls should be taught repose. It may cause unpleasantness, but it pays. The face should not be touched with the hands, especially when reading or studying. To rest the chin in the palms of the hand or to press the fingers into the cheek will eventually work wrinkles and ruin the shape of the face.

WITH WATER COLORS.

Lampshade decoration is not necessarily restricted for the artist; it may be accomplished by the merest dabbler in water colors.

Given a plain, well-covered shade and some conventional design to fit it (or one that can be made to fit), a pencil and some of the transfer paper that comes will soon convey the design to the shade.

An outline is enough, because an ordinary sense of color and knowledge of flowers will help in the painting process.

Tall iris stalks and blooms, cattails with their leaves or the conventional Tudor rose shaped for each section of the shade will, any one, prove effective in water color and probably bring the shade into harmony with the room.

Enameled Jewelry.

Bright blue enamel in round spots is now into the new mesh with a delightful smoothness that implies durability in much of the new silver jewelry. Silver is a revival in the jeweler's art, so old is it that it is new again, as are a great many more little things in the fashion world. Buttons particularly are inlaid with enamel made of platinum or polished silver, they are colored by the little spots of bright enamel pressed into openings made in the smooth surface. Just two or three of them on a garment will give an elegant touch that could not be got by a full dozen of another sort.

"Why should the spirit of mortal be proud?" quoted the impassioned orator.

Then he paused a moment to let it take effect.

"Well," spoke up a half-inebriated man in the audience, "I'll be the goat. Why should it?"—Chicago Tribune.

The Constitutionalist.

AN INDEPENDENT WEEKLY.

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

Terms: $2.00 per year.

Plainfield, N. J., July 7, 1910.

BIG CROWD WITNESSES DISPLAY OF FIREWORKS

Aside from the golfing and tennis events at the Plainfield Country Club, Monday, there was an attractive program of music and fireworks, making the whole affair the most successful in the history of the organization. Beginning at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, Van Baar's Old Guard Band, of New York, gave a fine concert at the clubhouse which was enjoyed by hundreds of members and guests. The band also played in the evening for dancing which was continued until nearly midnight.

Superintendent John Hilton, assisted by a large and efficient corps of waitresses, was in charge of the luncheon and dinner arrangements. Nearly 200 were served with dinners in the evening, the service and menu leaving nothing to be desired.

Soon after sunset the elaborate display of fireworks began and continued for several hours. Everyone agreed that it was the finest exhibition yet witnessed here. The committee, of which George S. Clay was chairman, arranged every detail perfectly and there was not a single hitch. More than 600 members and guests enjoyed the display from a point of vantage at the clubhouse, while thousands of people from the city and borough, as well as this vicinity thronged the grounds and roadway to witness the fireworks. The Arlington avenue trolley line did a record-day's business carrying patrons, while stages carried guests of the club from the trolley to the clubhouse free of charge.

The clubhouse was elaborately decorated in the national colors for the celebration and Superintendent Hilton carried out the general scheme in the interior decorations which was greatly admired by many.

GOD'S PROTECTION NEEDED BY AMERICA

The first of the series of union services to be held during July and August by the First M. E., First Baptist, First Presbyterian and Trinity Reformed churches took place Sunday night at Trinity Reformed church. Considering the excessive warm spell the attendance was fair and all enjoyed the excellent sermon by Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, who took for his theme, "The Mountains of God." During the service, Rev. Dr. J. A. Chamblin offered prayer; Rev. Dr. G. M. Anderson read the Scriptures and Rev. J. Y. Brock announced the hymns.

Dr. Herring spoke of the mountainous nature of Palestine and the lesson the Bible teaches concerning them. Among other things, he said, "In the 46th Psalm, the psalmist has a message for posterity. He tells us to walk about Zion, go round about her, count well her towers and mark well her bullwarks." The great Assyrian army had besieged the city and had failed for this reason that God had protected the city which had been faithful to Him.

What is there in this psalm for our nation? We think we are a great people because of past successes, and that nothing can undo us. We are the greatest people on earth but we are a great people because the God of our Fathers has been blessing us.

There are conditions in this country today which indicate that we are forgetting Him and His laws but we need His power more than anything else. Did you ever think what it might mean to us if for any reason war should arise between us and Japan with her one million trained fighting men and other millions in reserve, while we have just 65,000 soldiers. Let us sing the old national anthem that has the proper ring to it:

'Long may our land be bright
With freedom's holy light
PROTECT US BY THY MIGHT GREAT GOD OUR KING."

Communion and Reception.

Communion services were held in several city and borough churches Sunday and new member were received in a majority of cases. At the First M. E. church nine new members were received, two by letter and seven from probation. At the First Baptist church three members were received on confession. At Grace M. E. church there was infant baptism, five children being presented and one adult was received. No members were received at the Congregational and Monroe Avenue churches.

A PROPHECY OF PEACE

Local Pastor Tells Why War Should and Will Be Abolished.

U. S. A. LEADS MOVEMENT.

Rev. J. W. Musson Gives Three Reasons Why Wars Should Not Be Resorted to by Nations.

"A Prophecy of Peace," was the subject of an interesting discourse delivered by Rev. J. W. Musson at the Temple Baptist church, Sunday morning. The text was from Isaiah 2:4: "And He shall judge among the nations, and shall rebuke many people; and they shall beat their swords into ploughshares and their spears into pruning hooks; nation shall not lift upward against nation, neither shall they learn war any more."

Among other things, Mr. Musson said:

"The United States has the honor of leading the world in efforts for international arbitration and the abolition of war. The first peace society in the world was organized in this country in 1815. Christ is called the 'Prince of Peace.' And He came to establish peace between God and man, man and man, nation and nation."

Mr. Musson discussed the peace movement from two points of view. Its desirability and its progress. Under the first head he quoted Washington, who said that it was his first wish to see this plague to mankind banished from the earth and to see the whole world in peace. Referring to Col. Roosevelt, the only living ex-president, the preacher quoted the former as saying in an address before the Nobel Peace Prize Committee at Christiana, Norway, on May 5, 1910, "The ruler or statesman who should bring about such a condition, that is to make it possible to establish peace between the nations, would have earned his place in history for all time and his title to the gratitude of all mankind."

"War should be abolished for three reasons. First, because of its inhuman and barbarous cruelties; second, because of its wastefulness and third because it is unnecessary. Grant, Sherman and the Duke of Wellington all said that war is a detestable thing and it is preferable to settle disputes by arbitration. Fifteen billions of lives have been sacrificed in war since the beginning of history, as many people as have lived upon the earth in the last 600 years. Two-thirds of the revenue of the United States is expended upon wars past and prospective or four hundred millions of dollars annually."

Mr. Musson answered the argument that war kills off the surplus population by stating that there is no surplus population. Only 1-30 of the habitants of the earth could live in the single State of Texas allowing one-half acre to a family of five persons. Napoleon Bonaparte said after his banishment to St. Helena, "The more I study the world, the more I am convinced of the inability of brute force to make anything durable." John Hay said, 'War is the most futile and ferocious of human follies."

In regard to the progress made toward the abolition of war, the preacher said that the union of tribes into States enlarges the peace areas. Wars used to last thirty and even one hundred years, but now the period is much shorter. Emerson said, "History is a record of the decline of war, but of the slow decline." The greatest advance made is the establishment of a permanent international court of arbitration.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The Fourth of July committee expect to report a clean slate when they make their report. This is evidence enough that the town is in favor of the old-fashioned picnic day celebration and the success of the first one will no doubt make the affair an annual event. Owing to want of space the full details of the day could not be chronicled. The fireworks and the band concert at night by Charles Suhr's Imperial band was one of the most enjoyed events of the day's program. Fully a thousand people "listened to the band," and enjoyed the set pieces and bombs.

Mr. and Mrs. William B. Noble and family, of Park avenue, are spending July and August, enjoying the cooling breezes at Asbury Park.

Manager Alberts expects to play a game on the local diamond Saturday afternoon, with the Nationals, of Perth Amboy.

Now the Fourth is over, let us have the streets oiled, so that the residents can enjoy an evening on the piazza.

Fred Saunders, of Washington Valley, is spending his vacation with relatives in Canada.

F. Mortimer Slater and Mrs. Slater, formerly of the borough, but now of Allentown, were guests over the Fourth of borough friends.

CONGRESSIONAL HONORS

(Continued from page 1.)

that I would make them a worthy representative.

An opportunity to do such service for his fellow citizens as is afforded a Representative, is not to be lightly considered at any time. And when, as in my own case, promises of support are given by Republicans of widely different ideas and callings; given unqualifiedly and without a single attempt to dictate terms or exact conditions, I believe that an affirmative response is a duty which I owe to those who, by petition and personal interview, have requested me to stand as a candidate for this high office.

If nominated and elected, I pledge myself to a constant and faithful discharge of my duties, helping fulfill the promises to which the Republican party stands committed, and I beg to assure my fellow citizens, one and all, that my acts shall be the result of my own convictions, and not simply the expression of others' mandates; that neither fear nor favor shall sway me, and that so far as in me lies, I will at all times be truly a representative of the people. With this statement I offer myself for your consideration, and shall be well content to abide by your verdict.

Respectfully yours,

WILLIAM N. RUNYON.

Plainfield, N. J., July 6, 1910.

Judge William N. Runyon is considered today the most popular man in Plainfield, if not in Union county. Since obtaining his majority he has devoted a large share of his time to the interests of all that is best for social, religious and civic betterment, and he has a strong personal following. He is the eldest son of former Judge Nelson Runyon and is now in his fortieth year.

Born in Plainfield, the judge was graduated from the High School of this city in 1888, and was the president of his class. That fall, he entered Yale University and was a classmate of Lee McClung, now Treasurer of the United States, and of Henry S. Graves, now chief Forester of the United States. During his college course he was elected a member of the Scroll and Keys, one of the most coveted honors that could come to an undergraduate, and was also chosen a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon, one of the most prominent college fraternities in the country. For two successive years he was president of the Glee Club and at the commencement of his class he was a member of the senior promenade committee. After receiving the degree of bachelor of arts in 1892 from Yale, he matriculated at the New York Law School. He was chosen vice president of his class when he graduated two years later with the degree of bachelor of laws, being president of his class at the time. While pursuing his legal education he was chosen a member of the editorial board of the New York Law School Journal. The same year he was admitted to the bar in New York. After practicing in that city for a time he associated himself with his father in the practice of law in Plainfield, having been admitted as an attorney in 1895. Three years later he was made a counselor.

During the first McKinley campaign, in 1896, Judge Runyon organized the Young Men's Republican Club in Plainfield and was elected as its president. For the following two years he served as a member of the Common Council in this city, and in 1899 was chosen by an overwhelming vote as City Judge, which position he has continuously held for four consecutive terms, polling the largest vote of any candidate of his party on the same ticket, and in two instances being elected without the minority party's opposition.

Judge Runyon is prominent in fraternal organizations. He organized and was the first exalted ruler of Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E. He is a past chancellor of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, Knights of Pythias, and is past worshipful master of Anchor Lodge, No. 149, F. & A. M. After serving for sixteen years as teacher of the William N. Runyon Bible Class at Hope Memorial Chapel, where he did a great work among the young men of this city, he resigned to assist in the upbuilding of the Park Avenue Baptist Church, of which he has been a member for twenty years. His whole life has been devoted practically in helping his fellow man and his lovable characteristics, extreme modesty, eloquence and sincerity have endeared him to the community which holds him in the highest esteem.

Joseph Carrona has returned from a week-end stay at Asbury Park.

Miss Grace Phillips, of Brooklyn, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Juan A. Babcock, of Clinton avenue, has returned.

Sidney Shotwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Shotwell, of Kensington avenue, has recovered from a serious illness.

Miss Elsie Jones, of Jersey City, spent the Fourth with friends in this city.

Rev. and Mrs. A. C. Nickerson, of Kensington avenue, have left Plainfield for the summer.

IN 13 INNING GAME PLAINFIELD WINS 4 TO 3

In a fast thirteen inning game Plainfield defeated the Scotch Plains team on Crescent Oval yesterday afternoon before a fairly large-sized crowd of rooters who made up in enthusiasm for anything they might have lacked in numbers.

The Plains boys took the lead with two runs in the second inning and Plainfield answered in the fifth with three runs. In the next session Scotch Plains tied the score and for six more innings the score card did nothing but present goose eggs. In the thirteenth inning though, a long drive by Nelson brought in two runs —only one of which necessarily was counted. Boyd made the winning run and Emery followed close behind him; while Nelson's drive looked like a sure three-bagger.

The three runs scored by Plainfield in the sixth inning were made by Nelson, McLaughlin and Schott, while the Alberts brothers and Baldwin scored the tallies for the Scotch Plains men. A two-base hit by Joe Alberts brought in his brother; and Vanderbilt's pop brought in Joe Alberts in the second inning. In the sixth a passed ball let in Baldwin.

William Deegan twirled for the Plains boys but became rattled at times. He was caught by Henry Alberts. McLaughlin and Nelson was the battery for Plainfield. The score by innings:

Plainfield .0 0 0 0 3 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1—4
Plains ..0 2 0 0 0 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—3

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET

Through an inadvertant oversight the results of the Dunellen games on the Fourth were not given in any detail yesterday. In the Westfield-Dunellen game in which the locals won by the score of 12 to 4, Harvey and Hamberger was the battery for the locals. The Westfield battery was composed of Codding and Young. The score by innings was:

Dunellen ..1 0 1 1 5 0 4 0 x—12
Westfield .2 0 0 0 0 0 0 2 0—4

The game with the Battleship Connecticut sailors was a victory for the locals by the overwhelming score of 24 to 4. The batteries were: Dunellen—Montross and Ramsberger and Connecticut, Vincent, Pratt and Nolan. Scott umpired both games, and the score by innings was:

Conn. .....1 0 0 0 2 0 0 0 0—4
Dunellen .4 1 4 2 4 0 0 0 0 x—24

Mrs. Vincent Tozze has returned from a stay with Jersey City friends.

Garfield Main is now settled in his new house on Dunellen avenue.

The First Baptist, Seventh Day Baptist and Presbyterian Sunday schools will go on the annual excursion to Asbury Park tomorrow.

Mrs. Helen Farrier is the guest of Somerville friends. She is still troubled with her arm which was broken some time ago.

G. H. Rentschler, superintendent of the local schools, began summer study today at Columbia University.

Dr. T. H. Platt left yesterday for a two weeks' automobile trip to Wildwood.

J. Y. Rupell, who recently injured his foot, is now able to be about again.

Miss Merle Randolph has returned from a visit with out-of-town friends.

Mrs. Frederick Grenninger has recovered from her recent illness.

Robert Pierson has secured employment with George Schenck.

Miss Agnes Bogue has recovered from her recent illness.

BOUND BROOK AND VICINITY.

While Mrs. Irving Stillwell and son, Irving Stillwell, Jr., of East street, Bound Brook, were visiting relatives in New Brunswick Saturday, the boy, who was just learning to walk, fell backward on his head in such a manner as to injure the spine. Medical attendance was hastily summoned, but nothing could be done for the little sufferer, and he died in a few hours. He was the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Stillwell.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene D. Brokaw are entertaining their son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene D. Brokaw, Jr., of Matawan, at their home in Union avenue, Bound Brook.

Mrs. M. Parks, of Lebanon, is spending some time at the home of her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson, at Cedar and High streets, South Bound Brook.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Koehler and son, John Koehler, of Elizabeth and High streets, South Bound Brook, spent the week-end and Monday at Buffalo and Niagara Falls.

Miss Carrie Rousseau, of Washington, D. C., is visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Rousseau, in Cedar street, South Bound Brook.

Miss Kathryn C. Salb, of Trenton, is being entertained at St. Joseph's rectory, in Mountain avenue, Bound Brook, the home of Miss Rose Jackson.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Kreyling, of West Union avenue, Bound Brook, are visiting friends at Poughkeepsie.

George Ashford, of Bound Brook, has gone to England, where he will spend several weeks with relatives.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

The petit jurors of Gloucester County have been recalled for July 7.

Former Governor Stokes was the orator of the day Monday at Port Norris, in his home county, and he got a great ovation.

Frederick Bird, five years old, of Mt. Grove, was badly burned about the arms and body when his clothes caught fire from the kitchen range.

A number of prominent residents and active young Republicans of Millville, are urging Assemblyman B. Frank Buck to become a candidate for Mayor.

Senator James P. McNichol, of Philadelphia, at his handsome shore residence on States avenue, Atlantic City, Sunday evening quietly celebrated his forty-sixth birthday.

The Seventh Day Adventists of New Jersey, who have been holding camp meeting services in Trenton for a week, baptized fifteen converts in the Delaware River here Sunday.

Bitten on the upper lip by an insect, Ella Monroe, six years old, of 941 Haigh avenue, Camden, was admitted to the Homeopathic Hospital, Monday with a badly swollen face. The child was soon relieved from pain.

Falling about fifteen feet from a building at Tenth street and Atlantic avenue, Camden, Monday, James Bland, forty years old, of 1708 Master street, escaped with a sprained back. He was cared for at the Homeopathic Hospital.

Six public playgrounds were thrown open to the boys of Trenton yesterday. The grounds are on public school property and each will be in charge of a superintendent. An additional playground for girls only will be opened Friday.

Seized with cramps Bernard Blexstine was almost drowned while bathing in Newark Bay off City Park, Bayonne, Sunday. He was rescued by Frank Wendell, a member of the City Park division of the United States Volunteer Life-saving Corps.

On the way to a fire in Holsman street, Paterson, Sunday, the steamer attached to Engine Company No. 3 plunged into the store at Twelfth avenue and Straight street, wrecking the front of the building and badly injuring two of the three horses. Driver Bergen escaped injury.

Word has reached Pawnbroo that James Smith and Emil Zest, two of four men who went to Seattle to work for the Du Pont Powder company, were killed in an explosion last Thursday. William Milstead and Joseph O'Brien, the other two, escaped, according to a telegram.

The mangled body of Arthur Brothers, colored, who had been working at the bleaching plant, at Roebling, was found on the tracks of the Pennsylvania Railroad, near Kinkora Sunday morning. He had been killed during the night by a train while on his way to White Hill. His home is in Port Royal, Va.

Daniel Sullivan, nineteen years old of 115 Walnut avenue, Trenton, a brakeman in the employ of the Pennsylvania Railroad, narrowly escaped death Monday when he came in contact with the bridge across the railroad at Chestunt avenue. He was knocked down from the train and almost rolled under the wheels of the car. He was carried to Chestnut avenue and removed to St. Francis Hospital in a cab.

A serious accident was averted at Ocean City Sunday evening by the coolness displayed by Director Lake, of the city orchestra. The music pavilion was jammed to the doors and a great crowd overflowed on the hanging balconies around the building. Without an instant's warning the heavy girder supporting the balcony on the north side of the building snapped, and the crowd was lowered fifteen feet directly over the ocean. Director Lake stuck to his post, and, as the orchestra played the crowd made an orderly exodus from their perilous position to the boardwalk.

IN ERRORLESS GAME LOCALS WIN FROM GIANTS 11 TO 2

Plainfield played an errorless game Saturday afternoon on Crescent Oval when it defeated the Colored Giants, of New York, by the score of 11 to 2. The visitors made ten errors, several of which were costly to them. Henry, the Giants' pitcher, was popular with the fans He struck out five men, while McDavitt, his opponent, struck out four. Henry, however, let two men walk to base. As a whole the game was slow, and eight of Plainfield's men and three Giants' men were left on bases. Carlstrom, Henry and Matthews each got two-base hits. The score by innings:

Plainfield .....0 3 2 0 0 4 0 2 x—11
Giants .....0 0 0 0 0 0 1 0 1— 2

The rosette on a plain sailor hat gives all the richness necessary. Folded like a rose into a round shape, a bias piece of Persian silk has been so manipulated that its final effect would suggest both expense and art.

Knicker—Is his house mortgaged?

Bocker—Up to the auto.—New York Sun.

UTILITY LAW EFFECTIVE

Child Labor Regulations Also Went Into Effect Monday.

Monday every public utility corporation in the State was subject to the provisions of the public utility law which was passed by the last Legislature. Besides this law, there are fourteen others which became operative on the same day.

The public utility law is an amendment and supplement to the present railroad commission law and extends the powers of that commission to every railroad, express, street railway, traction, canal, subway pipe line, gas, electric light, heat and power, water, sewer, telegraph, telephone or other public utility corporation. No power is given to fix rates so that the new commission will not be able to do more than make recommendation in the present war against the increase in passenger commutation fares.

The main powers of the new commission will be after hearing upon notice to corporations, by order in writing; to compel compliance with State laws, to require safe and adequate service; to require public utilities to keep their books and records in a manner intelligible to the commission and to adopt a uniform system of accounting, and to direct any utility corporation found granting rebates to cease therefrom.

Courts to Enforce Orders.

Orders of the commission are to be enforced in the State courts, with right of appeal given to the corporation. No privilege or franchise granted after yesterday to any public utility by any local municipal or county governing body will be valid until approved by the commission.

There will be no change in the personnel of the present railroad commission but their salaries will be increased from $5,000 to $6,000. The commissioners are Frank H. Sommer, Newark; Robert Williams, Paterson, and Thomas J. Hillery, Boonton. Alfred N. Barber, of this city, will remain as secretary, but his salary will be increased to $4,000. The apointments under the new commission must be made subject to the provisions of the civil service law. The latter commission will conduct an examination on July 11, for the office of chief inspector. He will receive a salary of $4,000.

Child Labor Law.

The new child labor law also took effect yesterday. The law provides that until July 4, 1911, children under 15 shall not be permitted to work in factories between 6 o'clock p. m. and 6 o'clock a. m. After July 4, 1911, the age is to be raised to 16 years. At present it is 14 years.

Regulation of Midwifery.

The regulation of midwifery is another law which went into effect yesterday. Under the new provision each candidate for examination as midwives must present to the State Board of Medical Examiners a written application setting forth moral character, the time spent in getting a common school education or its equivalent and also incorporates school midwifery in good standing, granted after at least two courses of instruction of at least seven months each. The penalty provided for practising without a license is a fine of $10 to $50 and imprisonment from ten to thirty days.

Other Laws Effective.

Other acts becoming effective Monday are as follows:

Relating to the transmission of money to foreign countries by individuals or private bankers and providing additional safeguards for patrons of such.

Relating to the sale of lands under a public statute or by virtue of any judicial proceeding.

The Walsh act reforming the manner of printing of election ballots and prohibiting the placing of the term of office on the same line with the name of the candidate.

Regulating the taxation of fees and costs in the Supreme Court.

Regulating share of stocks in building and loan associations when issued to persons in trust and providing that the earnings of such shares shall be the sole property of the person for whose benefit they may be issued.

Permitting governing bodies in municipalities to adopt ordinances regulating or prohibiting the sale of fireworks and providing a penalty of not exceeding a fine of $200.

Regulating street improvements in towns.

Supplement to the 1908 law concerning cities and providing that resolutions of the boards of police and fire commissioners shall be approved by the mayor before becoming effective. This supplement does not, however, apply to all cities, it only being effective in cities where the provisions of the 1908 law were accepted.

New Cigar Holder.

A new cigar holder is of so-called French amber, which is made of cheese and sour milk, and put through some process that makes it look like amber. The holder is inexpensive and non-breakable.

AT THE COUNTRY CLUB

S. H. Patterson and W. G. Merrill Win Independence Day Cups.

A DISPLAY OF FIREWORKS.

A Band Concert, Dance and Other Events Are Enjoyed by Hundreds of the Members.

The Independence Day celebration at the Plainfield Country Club was the biggest thing of its kind in the history of the club, throughout the whole day and evening the grounds and clubhouse were thronged with members and friends. The welcome change in the weather was hailed with delight by all and was enjoyed to the limit. There were many golfing events all day on the course and in the afternoon, beginning at 4 o'clock Van Baar's Old Guard Band, of New York gave a concert, followed in the evening by a dance, and the most elaborate display of fireworks witnessed here in many years.

Thousands of people from this city and surrounding towns enjoyed the gorgeous display of pyrotechnics. The display began immediately after dark and continued until nearly 10 o'clock.

The golf events included play for the Independence Day cups, S. H. Patterson winning the Class A competition and W. F. Merrill, the Class B event. The scores:

Class A—S. H. Patterson, 85, 15—70; H. D. Hibbard, 84, 9—75; P. C. Langdon, 85, 9—76; L. G. Carman, 90, 12—78; W. T. Glenney, 88, 6—82.

Class B—W. F. Merrill, 98, 25—73; C. W. King, 100, 25—75; H. P. Fox, 94, 18—76; C. C. Riggs, 97, 20—77; George S. Clay, 101, 25—77; W. Kleinecke, 103, 26—77; W. T. Kaufman, 95, 17—78; W. L. C. Glenney, 104, 24—80; T. W. T. Maxwell, 106, 25—81; E. A. Lyon, 108, 26—82; Dr. F. E DuBois, 102, 20—82; J. R. Evans, 107, 25—82; L. B. Alling, 108, 25—83; J. P. Murray, 108, 18—83.

In the first round match play for the golf committee cup, L. R. Hopton 25, beat E. T. Willson 12, by default; W. Lester Glenney, 5; beat T. W. T. Maxwell, 25, 2 up and 1 to play; D. H. Barrows 4, beat A. W. Kleinecke, 26, 2 up and 1 to play; H. D. Hibbard 9, beat W. T. Kaufman 17, 3 up and 2 to play. Second round—W. Lester Glenney 5, beat L. R. Hopton 25, 3 up and 1 to play; D. H. Barrows 4, beat H. D. Hibbard 9, 3 up and 2 to play.

The final play for the Golf Committee Cup on Saturday will be between W. Lester Glenney and D. H. Barrows and should be a fine match.

The event at the Plainfield Country Club, Saturday afternoon, was the qualifying round for the Golf Committee Cup, Classes A and B, those returning the four lowest scores to qualify. There was a large field. In Class A, E. T. Willson, D. H. Barrows, H. D. Hibbard and W. Lester Glenney qualified.

In Class B, three players, L. R. Hopton, H. S. Browne and A. E. Barclay were tied for fourth place. On the draw, L. Hopton won out. These scores were returned:

Class A—E. T. Willson, 83, 12—71; D. H. Barrows, 77, 4—73; H. D. Hibbard, 82, 9—73; W. Lester Glenney, 81, 6—75.

Class B—T. W. T. Maxwell, 97, 25—72; A. W. Kleinecke, 98, 26—72; William T. Kaufman, 91, 17—74; L. R. Hopton, 101, 25—76; H. S. Browne, 94, 18—76; A. E. Barclay, 97, 21—76.

The play was continued yesterday, Class A players being paired with Class B players.

BY 2 TO 1 SCORE Y. M. C. A. DEFEATS SOMERVILLE.

Y. M. C. A. defeated Somerville 2 to 1 in a slow game yesterday afternoon. Despite the score the locals had the advantage throughout. After there were two outs Fritts singled, Adams and Miller walked in the fourth inning, and on a double steal, while the latter was trying to catch Adams out at second, Fritts stole home. In the eighth, Slocum got to first on an error, went to second on Peacock's sacrifice, got to third on Hand's infield shoot and edged in home while Hand was getting to first. Miller featured with a two-base hit. Both teams had six men left on bases. Henderson scored the only tally for the Somerville aggregation.

For the locals Miller pitched well striking out 12 men to Henderson's nine. Both teams made five hits and both scored two errors. The batteries were: Y. M. C. A., Miller and Hand; Somerville, Henderson and Halstead. The score by innings:

Y. M. C. A...0 0 0 0 1 0 0 0 1 0—2
Somerville ..0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1—1

New Bass Singer.

Robert S. McAfee, of Oxford place, Isaac, will sing in the quartet choir of Trinity Reformed church, during July and August, taking the place of F. S. Cutter who will be away.

PARK GOLF CLUB'S DAY

W. V. Byard Captures the Summer Cup, U. G. Tingley Being Second.

SOME OTHER COMPETITIONS.

Miss Ethel Millar and Rev. C. L. Goodrich Win in the Approaching and Putting Contest.

A full list of events on the golf course, together with social features yesterday attracted a large number of members and guests to the Park Golf Club. The conditions were ideal for the Independence Day celebration and not a thing occurred to mar the pleasures of those at the club. In the afternoon the women members served tea at the clubhouse and enjoyed a social time.

In the golfing competitions, the program marked the final play for the Summer cup. This was won by W. V. Byard with a total of 22½ points and U. G. Tingley finished second with 18½ points. It was a great day for Mr. Byard for he also won the bogey handicap, being 2 down to bogey and the driving contest with an average of 200 yards. Miss Lydie Loizeaux won the driving competition for the women players, her average being 145 yards.

There was a large field of competitors in the approaching and putting contest and many tie scores resulted. After considerable excitement, Miss Ethel Millar and Rev. C. L. Goodrich were the winners with a score of 9.

These scores were returned for the President's, golf club and Summer cups:

W. V. Byard, 96, 22-73; U. G. Tingley, 100, 27-73; Nelson A. Miller, 107, 30-77; Rev. C. L. Goodrich, 101, 23-78; A. M. Morrell, 108, 30-78; W. R. Faber, 101, 22-79; W. E. Lough, 105, 24-81; R. B. Titsworth, 100, 19-81.

More than ordinary interest was shown in the driving competition, which was won by Henry D. Hibbard with an average of 496 1-3 yards for three drives. R. G. Morse was second with 380 and H. F. Fox third with 378 2-3. The driving was against a strong headwind and several times the ball was forced out of bounds. This was also true in the approaching and putting contest. The competitors had great difficulty in driving the ball true owing to the wind. William T. Glenney was the winner with a score of 9, a remarkably good figure considering the conditions. The distance was from the 18th tee to the 18th green.

W. V. Byard won the Spring championship at the Park Golf Club Saturday, defeating R. B. Titsworth, 6 up and 5 to play in the final round. It was a close and exciting match. These scores were returned for the President's, golf club and Summer cups:

U. G. Tingley, 96, 26-68; W. V. Byard, 94, 24-70; W. R. Faber, 96, 22-74; A. M. Morrell, 108, 36-78; Miss Lydie Loizeaux 102, 23-79; Rev. C. L. Goodrich, 107, 23-84; Alexander Gilbert, 111, 26-85.

The leading scores for the Ladies' Summer cup, nine holes:

Miss Harriet R. Shreve, 58, 16-42; Miss Grace A. TenEyck, 61, 16-45; Miss Bess R. Ten Eyck, 78, 36-48; Miss Lydie Loizeaux, 53, 3-50.

INDEPENDENCE DAY AT THE PARK CLUB.

Independence Day was celebrated in a quiet and enjoyable manner by the members and friends of the Park Club. Instead of the usual display of fireworks in the evening, the club planned to have a concert by Muller's Orchestra, followed by dancing and a large number of people participated in the festivities of the occasion. The weather was ideal for the affair, it being possible for the members and their guests to dance on the pavilion, adjoining the clubhouse.

The clubhouse was appropriately decorated for the celebration, the national colors being prominent everywhere. In addition to the fine music and dancing, the house committee arranged for the serving of refreshments, an added pleasure, and altogether the day was one of the best in the history of the club.

HOPE CHAPEL A. C. WIN TWO BALL GAMES HANDILY.

The Hope Chapel A. C. defeated the Leland A. C., of Netherwood, on the grounds of the latter, Saturday morning by a score of 15 to 2. They also triumphed over the fast Laurel A. C., of Garwood, yesterday morning on the Clinton avenue grounds, by a score of 8 to 5. This contest was well played, both pitchers being in good form. The line-up for yesterday's game:

Hope—J. Heron, ss.; A. Walls, p.; T. Heron, c.; C. Bunn, 2b.; H. Overland, 3b.; A. Porter, lf.; G. Snyder, 1b.; F. Bunn, rf.; W. Marsh, cf.

Leland A. C.—Watt, ss.; Morrison, 3b.; Pfaff, 1b.; O'Conners, c.f.; Rahb, lf.; Lambert, p.; Van Cleif, c.; Ferris, r.f.; Dudash, 2b.

RAM'S HORN BROWN.

Chief priest authority cannot make a black sin white.

No matter in what shape duty comes it comes from God.

The devil has no better helper than a woman who hates good.

There is no such thing as committing a little sin and stopping there.

The Lord sometimes gives great commissions to every common people.

Don't stop aiming at the devil's head because you never seem to hit it.

God sometimes lets us know our weakness that He may be our strength.

How far we will go with Christ generally depends upon how much we try to take with us.

The man who can look at a multitude without compassion is not living very close to Christ.

If God has helped you out of one trouble it is a sure prophecy that He will help you out of another.

After the devil hears some folks talk in church he likes to look-in-the-basket and see how much they give.

PHILOSOPHIZINGS.

Even the flower of the family may go to seed.

Some people never forgive until they forget.

Many a woman can change her mind without bettering it.

It isn't every prophet who is willing to bet on the result.

Pride may go before a fall, even when a fellow falls in love.

A fellow may have more money than brains, but not for long.

If a man doesn't get the better of himself some other fellow will.

When the world owes a man a living he can at least get it in jail.

An egotist is merely a man who thinks he is better than we are.

You can't very well get things coming your way unless you remove the obstacles.

Some men never even express an opinion without marking it "Handle with care."

There are exceptions to all rules, and some people delight in being exception specialists.

WIRELESS TELEGRAMS.

While nature is said to be the best cure, many doctors tell you to do the things your nature rebels against doing.

Women have changed the shape of their hats again, and what they lost in circumference seems to be made up in depth.

When a woman objects to her husband putting his feet on a particular chair it is usually because it's the one her pet dog lies on.

Among the many meritorious inventions that have never met with the success they deserve may be mentioned the noiseless piano.

The pessimist who a few months ago saw nothing ahead but a hard winter now becomes an optimist and speaks of an early spring.

The natural objection to marrying your deceased wife's sister would seem to be that it is so likely to put you back again into the clutches of your mother-in-law.

IN JEST AND EARNEST.

Of course, it pays to feel satisfied with anything. But hardly ever as much as it costs.

But even after the police have scoured the town there are some parts of it that do not seem to be quite bright.

A compromise is merely something which each sides grumbles at, but stands for because the other side didn't get all it wanted.

And yet, after hearing what her folks say about him, and what his folks say about her, Love is generally able to laugh at knockswhits.

Business inevitably comes before pleasure—generally about fifty weeks of it before you can garner enough for a brief two weeks' spurt.

It is a good thing to do as you ought once in a while, in order to have a better realization of how pleasant it is to do as you want to at other times.

EPIGRAMS.

Joy is one of man's "birthday presents" from the beginning.

Keep your motives pure and your results will take care of themselves.

If you meet all things with kindness you will find it a "pretty fine old world!"

THE TRIAL OF JESUS

By REV. A. C. DIXON, D. D., Pastor of the Chicago Ave. (Moody's) Church, Chicago.

"What shall I do with Jesus who is called Christ?"—Matthew 27:22. Jesus was tried before the tribunal of grasping greed with Judas as judge, and the sentence was: "I will sell him for 30 pieces of silver." This is in striking contrast with a Japanese young man in New York whose father offered him $50,000 if he would give up his Christian nonsense and return to the faith of his fathers. The reply was "Jesus is worth more than $50,000 to me. I cannot sell him for that." Are you, as judge, estimating Jesus at so low a rate that you are willing to sell him for paltry present indulgences?

The next tribunal was that of religious prejudice represented by the Jewish Sanhedrim. One of the greatest enemies to Christ is religion. The matter with China, India and Africa is to a large extent religion which worshiping monstrous idols brings its votaries down to their level. The matter with people calling themselves Christians who are satisfied with elaborate ritualistic observances, while in their daily lives they are bad, is that they have a large religious nature which has not been purified by the blood of Christ and mastered by his life. Their religious prejudice often bars their hearts against the entrance of Christ.

Jesus came also before the tribunal of patronizing pride with Herod as judge. Herod would like to see him perform some miracles and asked some questions which Jesus treated with dignified silence. There are Herods of wealth and scholarship living to-day who assume a patronizing tone toward Christ.

Pilate represents the tribunal of conscientious weakness. He is convinced that Jesus is innocent and he would like to release him, but he lacks the moral courage to assert his conscientious convictions.

The world is full of Pilates who know their duty toward Christ while they lack the moral courage to do it. If some of them had stamina enough to take the advice of their good Christian wives, they would do right and be happier.

The tribunal of weak faith with Peter as judge decided against Christ under stress of great temptation, but one earnest, loving, compassionate look from the eyes of the prisoner convinced the judge that he was wrong and caused him to reverse his decision. Peter then went out into the dark to weep over his blunder.

I have described these tribunals before which Jesus was tried. But after all I am mistaken. Jesus is really the judge and these men are the prisoners before him. He is trying them. Judas is found guilty of base treachery and executes judgment upon himself. The Jewish Sanhedrim and the mob, full of religious prejudice, have judgment passed against them. The prayer "His blood be upon us and our children" has been answered and I hear the execution of the sentence in the tramp of the Roman army and in the thud of battering rams beating down the wall of the sacred city.

Herod's patronizing pride took him to Rome in search of a kingdom, but he received instead a decree of banishment and died a miserable death. Such will be the end of all pride which merely patronizes Jesus, while refusing to accept him as Saviour and Lord.

Pilate was summoned to Rome, and, though his vacillating weakness would evade the issue, he must go and answer charges made by his enemies. Seeing that he will be condemned, he commits suicide. A legend tells us that his body was thrown into the Tiber and in a storm was cast upon the bank. It was then thrown into the Rhone, but the river would not hold it. It was at last cast into a Swiss lake and once a year the devil takes it out and makes it go through the process of washing its hands in the presences of the people. The weird legend has in it a suggestion of truth. Those who know the right and refuse to do it can never find peace. The soul that is convinced of the truths of the claims of Jesus Christ but refuses for any reason to take his side will be restless and storm-tossed, a plaything, sooner or later, in the hands of the devil.

After his resurrection Jesus said: "Go, tell my disciples and Peter," as if he knew that Peter after his backsliding would not consider himself a disciple, unless he should receive such a personal assurance. Peter, restored to fellowship and power, preaches at Pentecost with a tongue of fire and 3,000 are converted in one day.

Reader, you are a judge before whom Jesus stands, and you must answer the question: "Who shall I do with Jesus?" He is on your hands and you must do something with him. Will you sell him like Judas? Will you let religious prejudice cause you to reject his claims upon your faith and love? Will you patronize him like Herod? Will you vacillate like Pilate and refuse to be true to your convictions? Will you deny him like Peter?

AARON B. BREAKS RECORD

Adam C. Blair's Trotter Makes a Mile in 2:16¼ on Local Track.

BIG CROWD AT THE TRACK.

"Igo" and "Jane," Owned by I. G. Stelle, capture First and Third Events—"Merry Sunshine" Also a Winner.

Adam C. Blair's Aaron B. broke the track record in the second race at the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club track Monday afternoon. The record was 2.16½; but Aron B. made it yesterday in 2.16¼. The event was in four heats. In the first Aaron B. finished third but in the other three went under the wire first. The races attracted a large crowd from all over the State particularly from Newark, New Brunswick and Plainfield from which places there were several entries.

In the other events, great interest was centered on the first race in which I. G. Stelle's "Igo" took all three heats. Mr. Stelle's "Jane Todd" drew much attention from the spectators for the fine form in which she took first place in three heats of the third race. Mr. Stelle is a Newarker, but is well known in this city.

The officials were: W. J. Hudson, Plainfield, starter; Judge, A. S. Case, Flemington; L. A. Bellis, Somerville; J. V. N. Willis, Plainfield; Robert Smith, New Brunswick; David Tours, Montclair; and J. W. Johnson, of Plainfield.

The summaries follow:

First Race—2.18 Trot and 2.21 Pace.

Purse $200.

Igo, b. g., I. G. Stelle, Newark..1 1 1
Mary S, b. m., A. Schluer, Montclair 4 2 3
Dr. Bill, ch. g., A. Schluer, Montclair 3 3 2
Foxy Todd, b. g., W. H. Hutchings, Westfield 5 5 4
Lady Onward, ch. m., William Gross, Metuchen 2 4 5
Time—2.18¼, 2.18¼, 2.18¼.

Second Race—2.13 Trot and 2.16 Pace—Purse $200.

Strong Heart, br. g., C. C. Brower 1 3 3 3
Aaron B., ch. g., A. C. Blair, Plainfield 3 1 1 1
Lillian W., ch. m., I. G. Stelle, Newark 2 2 2 2
Time—2.27¼, 2.16¼, 2.17, 2.18.

Third Race—2.20 Trot—Purse $200.

Jane Todd, b. m., I. G. Stelle, Newark 1 2 1 1
Helen Nelson, bl. m., J. B. Osborne, Plainfield 2 1 2 2
Tramway, b. g., Wm. Wortendyke, Westfield 3 2 3 3
Butcher Boy, gr. g., J. B. Guttridge, Plainfield ..... 4 4 dr.
Time 2.29¼, 2.23¼, 2.20¼, 2.30.

Running Race—Six Furlongs—Purse $125.

Merry Sunshine, ch. m., Thos. Castle, Newark, first; Genessee, b.m., K. B. Schley, Far Hills, second; Molly Bonn, b. m., Hugh Gormley, Plainfield, third; Kilter, b. m., C. F. Yorke Newark, fourth.
Time—1.17¼.

WANTED TO ADMINISTER JUSTICE WITH SHOT GUN

For an alleged attempt to take the law into his own hands by means of a shot gun, Michael Kennedy and an accomplice, Patrick Donohue, were held in $250 bonds to keep the peace when arraigned this morning before Justice Snape. Kennedy was disappointed with the attitude of Charles Drake and William Goff, who, it is alleged, have been harboring his wife at Drake's home over the second mountain and became dissatisfied with the slowness of the courts in pushing the case. Accordingly, under the influence of drink, it is alleged, he decided to punish Drake on his account, and in his testimony this morning said that he got Donohue to go with him.

They mistook the home of a neighbor of Drake's for Drake's house and fired two charges from the doubled barrelled shot gun. The borough police were summoned and both were arrested. In court this morning William G. DeMesa made a plea for Kennedy, his client, that the latter was not responsible for what he did under the influence of drink. After a severe censure by the court and by Mayor Smalley, Kennedy was released under $250 bonds to keep the peace. The bonds were furnished by Mayor Smalley. Donohue was held under similar bonds; and William G. DeMesa stood as his bondsman.

Union Services for August.

The schedule of union services for August are as follows: August 7, First M. E. church, preaching by supply of First Baptist church; 14, First Presbyterian church, preaching by supply of First Presbyterian church; 21, First Presbyterian church, preaching by supply of First Presbyterian church; 28, First Baptist church, preaching by supply of First Baptist church.

Their Revised Views

ID any one of you meet Chester Sidering last night at the dance?" inquired the girl with the innocent eyes.

"Sidering?" absently repeated the girl with curly hair. "I don't—oh, yes—that little man!"

"I remember him now," chimed in the girl in the blue dress, languidly. "He insisted on seeing my card even when I told him that it was filled. I thought it most annoying of him, because I really had three vacant dances and he calmly took two. I paid him back, though. I sat in a corner with Tom during one of them and hid in the dressing room during the other."

"He doesn't seem to have many ideas, does he?" remarked the girl with the flower hat. "He stuck like a bur and I thought I'd never get rid of him. He just sat and waited for me to do the talking, too, and I was almost angry enough to poison him. So ironic!"

"I detest a man who insists on being noticed the way he did," said the girl with the bronze shoes.

"Where did he come from and who is he anyhow?" irritably asked the young woman who had just discovered that her new gloves did not quite match her gown. "Is he a friend of yours?"

"Gracious!" broke in the girl in blue before the girl with the innocent eyes had a chance to answer. "Of course not! How can you ask? Clarice makes it a point never to waste time on an ineligible. I noticed as soon as I saw him what a funny little snub nose he had!"

"What made you ask it we had met him?" suddenly demanded the girl with the flower hat. "Did you meet him yourself? I didn't see you dancing with him."

"I didn't know he was going to be there," explained the girl with the innocent eyes. "So I hadn't saved him any dances."

"Well, of all things! As though you'd bother to save a dance for that insignificant person!"

"Who is your friend of yours bring him? How did he get in?"

"What any one can see in him——"

"His father," said the girl with the innocent eyes, casually, "is the head of the steel pin trust."

"Well, that!" demanded the irritable girl with the gloves.

"Chester," went on the girl with the eyes, "was educated in this country and abroad and took over so many honors. He has $5,000,000 in his own right, four automobiles, a yacht and two country places of his own and——"

"Clarice," broke in the girl of the flower hat in a low, pained voice. "I think it was very unkind of you not to give us a hint as to who Mr. Sidering was! It was your duty, because we certainly wanted to give him a pleasant impression of Chicago! I hope he'll understand that any neglect on my part was due to the frightful headache I——"

"I knew at once that he had brains!" said the girl with the gloves. "You can always tell it when you see a forehead like his. It impresses one at once. I admire those quiet men who do not chatter all the time, but talk only when they have something to say. I——"

"Sometimes," interrupted the girl in the blue dress, "I think I'll really have to avoid those men with a selfish way of appropriating me! I simply couldn't get away from him and that's why I missed one of my dances with Mr. Sidering! I'm afraid he may think it was intentional, and I shall explain the first chance——"

"What struck me," broke in the girl with bronze shoes, "was his modesty. He seemed to want to go on his own merits. Why, he was positively retiring! I think that quality indicates that a perfectly splendid person he is!"

"You could tell just by looking at him that he was somebody," said the girl with the gloves, emphatically. "There was something very unusual about him."

"Five millions!" breathed the girl of the flower hat, dazedly. "Did you observe how broad shouldered and athletic he looked, even if he wasn't very tall? He gave one such an impression of physical strength. I thought he was charming."

"Clarice," said the girl in the blue dress, firmly, "you must see that we meet Mr. Sidering while he is in town, as you seem to know all about him! We can come over just as well as not any time——"

"Chester," said the girl with the innocent eyes, "left for the east to-day. It's most unfortune! But—I'll give him your messages when I write!"

She smiled sweetly at them all as she departed. The girl with the bronze shoes recovered enough to break the awful silence. "She corresponds with him!" she gasped, awesomely. "Clarice always did have luck!"

"Well, it isn't as though we cared at all," added the rest in chorus. "Let her! I'd hate to throw myself at a man's head like that!"—Chicago Daily News.

The Usual Result

(Time, a winter evening. Place, the comfortably furnished living room of a house in a Chicago suburb. Cawthorn is seated before an open fire, holding between his fingers an unlighted cigar, which he surveys critically. Louise, his wife, is seated at a desk, frowning and biting the end of her pencil.)

Louise—There's no question about it, Dan; we really ought to economize.

Dan (striking a match)—Well, haven't I been smoking my Christmas cigars for nearly a month? (Puffs the cigar.) If smoking your Christmas cigars instead of buying the kind you like isn't economy I don't know what is!

Louise—You can, at least, be thankful that I didn't give you any! I've been married long enough to know better than to do that!

Dan—What put it into your head to economize?

Louise (with solemn intensity)—What do you suppose that wretched bank has done?

Dan (smiling in anticipation)—I can't imagine.

Louise—Sent me a notice that my account is overdrawn! Did you ever hear of such a thing? They might have known that I would come down and put in some more money just as soon as you give me my next month's allowance!

Dan—But didn't you know? (Comes over and picks up a checkbook.) Why, these stubs are all blank! When you write a check, you subtract—

Louise—Of course not! I never could subtract right. When I want to know how much money I have in the bank I just go and ask them. They're supposed to know. What is a bank for, anyway?

Dan—But if you—

Louise—Please don't bother, Dan. How can I subtract when there isn't anything in the bank to subtract from? The only thing to do now is to practice strict economy. Not that I'm ever the least bit extravagant! I hope you realize, Dan, how much you owe to my good management.

Dan—Of course, I do. (Sits down.) I was telling Blankley, just the other day, that the way you manage things housekeeping is almost as cheap as living at a hotel. We had quite an argument.

Louise—Didn't he believe you?

Dan—Well, I had to show him. You know Blankley lived in Missouri till he was almost old enough to vote.

Louise (with an uncomprehending stare)—I don't see what that has to do with it. But, really, it takes a woman to economize. Why, I read, just the other day, of a woman who made herself a perfectly lovely net waist out of her husband's old linen mesh underwear. Now, a man never would have thought of doing that, would he?

Dan—Not in a thousand years! Its a pity I can't afford to wear mesh underwear.

Louise—Yes, isn't it? And to-day, I found a recipe for making the most delicious cake without eggs, milk, butter or sugar! What would you think of that?

Dan—I prefer to reserve judgment till I've eaten the cake. By the way, was the dinner we had to-night constructed on the economical lines?

Louise (nodding her head emphatically)—Wasn't it splendid?

Dan—Well, I'didn't seem to be able to recognize anything.

Louise (triumphantly)—I knew you wouldn't. Left-overs from soup to dessert! Many worked on that dinner for hours and hours! She says if we are going to have such meals often she will have no time to wash and iron and we'll have to hire a laundress, but of course we can't afford that.

(The telephone bell rings and Louise hurries out to answer it. Dan puffs the last inch of his cigar and looks thoughtfully at the fire.)

Louise (returning)—It was Mrs. Blankley. She wanted us to be on the list of patrons for the charity ball. I told her of course we'd be delighted. (Sits down and begins to play with her pencil. Brief silence.) Dan!

Dan—Well?

Louise—I'm rather glad, after all, that you don't agree with me about the need of economy.

Dan—Why, I didn't say—

Louise—I know you didn't, dear, but I can always tell just how you feel about things without your saying a word. I suppose it's a sort of sixth sense. And since you don't think it necessary to economize, don't you think—

Dan—Yes?

Louise—Well, my evening gown is positively threadbare and—

Dan—And you ought to have a new one before the charity ball?

Louise—You clever man! How did you guess it? But (looking serious) my bank account?

Dan (gallantly)—Tell them to send the bill to me.

Louise (jumping up and running toward him)—Dan, you are the dearest thing!

(Tableau. Slow curtain.)

A Reasonable Preference.

First Fair Invalid.—"Which kind of doctor do you prefer—the allopathic or the homoeopathic?"

Second Fair Invalid.—"I prefer the sympathetic."

Some girls wear their hearts on their sleeves, and others are heartless.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL
My new barber shop at
143 NORTH AVE.
is now open ready for business.
All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.
EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

W. H. GODDINGTON,
Counsellor-at-Law,
Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-Chancery, Notary Public. Offices corner of Park Avenue and Second street.

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.
Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel, appointing agents, others for local work looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commission and expenses paid each week; old established house. Grand chance for earnest man or woman to secure pleasant, permanent position, liberal income and future. New, brilliant lines. Write at once.
STAFFORD PRESS, 23 Church St., New Haven, Conn

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS DESIGNS COPYRIGHTS &C.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Sanitary Plumbing
Brick and Portable Furnaces
Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,
Etc., Etc., Etc.
I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.
Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in all cases.
D. W. LITELL

DIED.

SOUTHARD—Charles Carroll, at Groton, Mass., July 1, 1910.

HARRAL—On Friday, July 1, 1910, Alfred C. Harral, in his 88th year.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICE AT EAST END CHURCH

The first anniversary services were held at the Netherwood Reformed church on Sunday, marking the completion of the first year of this energetic religious body of worshippers in their church, of which Rev. Royal A. Stout is the pastor. Mr. Stout preached both morning and evening. At the first service he referred in an interesting way to the success of the church during its first year and hoped that the same would be true in the future. He congratulated the members for what they had accomplished. In the evening he outlined plans for the coming year.

In connection with the morning service, John Johnson, treasurer, presented a statistical report for the past year. This showed receipts from collections to be $432.66; from donations, $251.58, making a total of $684.24. The total disbursements were $522.95, leaving a balance of $61.29. With $72.25 in bills payable, there was a deficit of $11.96, but this amount was raised on Sunday so that the new year is started free and clear of debt.

It was planned to raise $1,000 for the coming year, and it was also announced that the Board of Domestic Missions would contribute $800 toward the salary of the pastor, raising the amount $300 over last year, when Mr. Stout was not personally on the field all the time.

Y. M. H. A. HOLD ANNUAL PICNIC AT RIVERSIDE RETREAT.

The Young Men's Hebrew Association held its annual picnic for the benefit of the Hebrew School, at Riverside Retreat, along the banks of the Passaic river, Monday. The party was comprised of about eighty-five relatives and friends of the children, three stages being engaged to make the trip. During the day there was a baseball game between a nine composed of Y. M. H. A. members and a picked team. The former won by a score of 4 to 2.

The party enjoyed boating, canoeing and dancing, music being furnished by Squire' Orchestra, of this city. At noon all enjoyed a fine spread, there being an abundance of good dithings. The party reached home about 8:30 o'clock last night.

SIX FRATERNAL ORDERS HEAR PATRIOTIC SERMON

Members of Plainfield, Franklin, Benevolent and Somerset Councils, Jr. O. U. A. M., and of Old Glory, Daughters of Liberty and Martha Washington, Daughters of America, listened to an able sermon by Rev. Orra J. Shoop in the Grace M. E. church Sunday night. Each council came to the church in a body, and, for the occasion the church was attractively decorated.

"The Supreme Act," was the subject of the sermon and the text was taken from Matthew xi, 29, "Learn of Me." "Life needs for its highest development a most encouraging environment," he said. "Of the influence of environment he pointed out particularly the need of a congenial physical environment, if clean and well developed bodies are to obtain; the need of intellectual and aesthetic environment if minds are to be cultivated and disciplined, and life enriched by the beautiful; and the need of moral and spiritual environment if the religious nature of man is to be given a proper unfolding and development.

Then Rev. Mr. Shoop showed the influential part the Junior Order of United American Mechanics have played in bringing about most encouraging conditions. Chief among these he mentioned the emphasis in the love for our country and her institutions; the position taken by the order in standing as the protector of our public school system from all sectarian influences; and the demand for the reading of the Bible in the public schools.

The sermon was direct and to the point and was attentively listened to by the large number of fraternity men and women who attended despite the hot weather. At the conclusion of the service many of the congregation remained to shake hands with Rev. Mr. Shoop, who is himself a Junior.

CHILDREN CHEER WHEN PLAYGROUNDS ARE OPENED

The two city playgrounds were opened at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. The opening was wholly informal. At the yards of the Bryant and Stillman Schools the two supervisors, Miss Harriet Moe and Miss Mary Childs, greeted the small army of youngsters who came to visit the playgrounds for the first time. No sooner had the youngsters been greeted than they began to play. When the gates were thrown open the large crowd of children gave a lusty cheer. Then they made for the pieces of apparatus. As soon as possible the play was organized. This delighted the children. Peals of laughter could be heard almost constantly, and each child individually seemed to be having the time of his life.

Many older children and parents visited the opening and the universal verdict was: "Why did Plainfield delay so long in having them?" If the opening is any positive prophecy of what may be expected, Plainfield's playgrounds are great successes. Both playgrounds will be open every week day for the remainder of the summer from 9:30 to 12 o'clock, and from 2 to 6 o'clock.

WHAT "IN GOD WE TRUST" ON OUR COINS SIGNIFIES.

An interesting talk on the motto "In God We Trust" on our coins by Rev. Charles S. Kemble was a feature of the patriotic service held Sunday evening at the Monroe Avenue church:

"Before Roosevelt took the motto off the coins," said Dr. Kemble, "it was there by virture of no authority. When the people rose up almost unanimously against the removal of it demanded its use again. It resulted in its being put on by action of Congress. Thus it was tangibly shown that the underlying note of our nation is Christian. The motto was put on the coins by virtue of the wishes of the people by our governing body. Now it has much significance; now it means that the keynote of our people is Christianity.

The church was tastefully decorated in red, white and blue bunting. A large flag suspended from a pole on the platform and so arranged as to give the effect of being blown by the wind, added much to the effectiveness of the decorations.

Supt. Walter McGee Returns.

Superintendent Walter McGee, of the Monroe Avenue Sunday school, who has been ill with typhoid fever for some time past, attended the session yesterday for the first time since his illness. The Rev. Mr. Kemble made a short address in view of this and Mr. McGee responded with a few words. The session of the Sunday school was patriotic in nature. "Have you ever seen the flag used for ignoble purposes?" asked Dr. Kemble. The children said that they had and agreed that such usages were heinous. "It is just as reprehensible," said Dr. Kemble, "to use the name of God profanely."

Bartholomay

There are many days in summer when the sweltering heat brings weariness to the most vigorous people.

And to the weak, the nervous and the ailing these oppressive days are days of misery.

Fortify yourself. A glass or two of

BARTHOLOMAY

ROCHESTER

BEER OR ALE

each day will provide just enough stimulant to overcome fatigue, and at the same time will supply vigor and energy to the body. Keep a case at home always.

DISTRIBUTED BY

Henry Haurand

66-68 Somerset St.

Telephone 229.

TRADE MARK

BARTHOLOMAY MEANS QUALITY

"AT THE WISS CHIMES"

Wedding Gifts

WEDDING RINGS 18k and 22k

SILVERWARE CUTLERY CUT GLASS

Only a short time left to select gifts for the June bride, but our complete stock of fine

Silverware Cutlery Cut Glass
Diamonds Watches Jewelry

Gives you a wide selection for gift giving.

You will be surprised to learn how LOW we have priced our goods during this STOCK REDUCTION SALE.

Any number of appropriate gifts for bridesmaids and ushers.

Our Optical Department is scientifically equipped for the proper prescribing of glasses. Our Specialist examines eyes carefully and prescribes glasses only if necessary.

No Charge for Consultation.

Special Bargains Displayed in Our Show Window

J. Wiss & Sons

683 Broad Street, Newark

Saturday Closing

Starting July 9th

Store Will Close at 12:30 p.m. on Saturdays

During Summer

A. M. GRIFFEN

119-123 E. FRONT ST., PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Two 'Phones—6, 214.

PORCH ROCKERS

We have on sale a new line of Willow and Reed Porch Furniture that must win your admiration. It is the ideal

FURNITURE FOR WARM WEATHER.

For the house or porch there is none better. They bear the closest inspection and the price tags end all argument; also full line of Window and Door Screens, Refrigerators, Hammocks, Lawn Swings, Lawn Settees, etc. Just what you need for warm weather.

L. B. VAN CAMP

Tel. 868-J Front and Somerset Streets.

TRY A PRESS WANT AD.

COAL DEALERS.

Rich'd Parrott, Jr.

Dealer in First Quality

LEHICH COAL and WOOD

686 South Second St.

Telephone Number 1569

JOS. HARRIGAN

OLD COMPANY'S LEHIGH COAL

929 South Avenue

Telephone 198.

TenEyck & Harris,

Dealers in

LEHIGH VALLEY COAL

Office: Bowlby's Drug Store, 219 West Front Street. Telephone 548-w.

Coal I have on hand some very fine Hard and Soft from Coal Mines. All kept undercover. Prices Coal.

25 cents a ton reduction on cash orders.

L. A. RHEAUME

248 East Fourth St. Telephone 89-W
Yard, 674 South Second St. Telephone 221

GEORGE O. STEVENS

747 West Front St.

R. L. CLINE

(Successor to C. H. Suggs & Co.)

Best Quality Lehigh Coal

Yard and office 420 West Third St. Tel. 19

TenEyck & Kelley

Successors to Kealey Co.

COAL

741 SOUTH AVE. Tel. 1155

J. HIMMELFARB,

Ladies' Tailor and Fashionable Dressmaker

Suits to order at very Low Prices for this month. Fit Guaranteed. My Workmanship Speaks For Itself

309-311 NEW ST.
TELEPHONE 903-J.
Near Truen's Court

Advertisements

—FOR—

New York Herald,
World, Times, Sun, Journal, Telegram, American, Brooklyn Eagle
—and—
Newark Evening News
Received at
The Daily Press
AT REGULAR OFFICE RATES.

John Lo Presti's

605 Watchung Avenue.

Come and try our Home-made Ice Cream, delivered to any part of the city.

Fruit and Confectionery.
Cigars and Tobacco.
'Phone 440-J.

Central R. R. News Stands.

You can get it at the C. R. R. News Stands, both depots. Plainfield Daily Press and Elizabeth Journal, on sale at both stands. Philadelphia Morning, Evening and Sunday Papers. Largest assortment of Magazines and Weekly Papers in the city. Back numbers procured. Brooklyn, English Publications. Daily and Sunday Papers delivered. Orders left at stand receive prompt attention. Open Sundays.

JOHN WINZENRIED'S

Storage Warehouse

516-518 WEST FRONT ST.

Separate Rooms—Clean and Dry. Furniture removed with care. Telephone 213 Lee place.

HENRY WIERENGA

Residence 'Phone 617-J.

Furniture, Freight, Baggage Express and Rigging.

PIANO MOVING A SPECIALTY

Now is the time when you need a

STOVE

and you may as well buy a good stove at a very Low Price. We are selling Stoves—Good Stoves—at low prices.

KADESH & LEVINE,
18 Somerset St.

E. B. Maynard's

Tonsorial Parlors, Electrical Massage for face and body. Pool and billiards. Children's Hair Cutting a specialty.
37rd Nos. 7 & 9.

141 NORTH AVENUE.

HOTELS.

HOTEL WALDORF

EAST FRONT STREET.

HENRY WINDHAM, Prop.

Gottfried Kruger's Extra Beer on draught. Imported Wines, Liquors and Cigars. Hotel accommodations and private Dining Room.

G. J. WEINMAN

CAFE

213 Park Ave., Tel. 524-J

HOTEL KENSINGTON

NORTH AVENUE

UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT

HOUSE THOROUGHLY RENOVATED

SUNDAY DINNER From 12:30 to 2 P.M. 50c

THE

Hotel IROQUOIS

Conducted on the European Plan

Park Ave. and Second St.

EDUCATIONAL.

Plainfield Business College & School of English

Students may enter at any time.

PROF. A. S. HERR, Prin. and Prop
Tel 705-w, Woodhull & Martin Building.
SEND FOR BOOKLET.

THE STARR PIANO CO.
Established 1872.
Branch Factory Office.
CHAS. M. SUHR, Mgr.
614 East 6th St., Plainfield, N. J.

DRUGGISTS.

WE ASSUME THE RISK

There is no promise exacted or formality expected when you accept our offer of money back for the asking, if RECALL HAIR TONIC fails to give you satisfaction. Put us to the test today. We will assume all risk. TWO SIZES 50c and $1.00

MILLER'S PHARMACY

Park Ave. and Fourth St. Tel 208.

Hodge's Pharmacy.

Y. M. C. A. Building.

BELLE MEAD SWEETS.

Tel 62

Health Is Wealth

Various boards of health, government inspectors and sanitariums everywhere urge the use of manufactured ICE.

Why? BECAUSE it is pure. We manufacture the purest Ice that can be produced and sell no other. PRICES REASONABLE.

CRYSTAL ICE Co.

MacDONALD & IVAMY,
Exclusive Handlers.

307 Arlington Ave., 'Phone 1023

For $1.50

per month we will clean and press 4 suits and one overcoat. Call for them and deliver the same. Payable $1.50 per month.

Repairing and altering neatly done
Suits to order $20 and up.

Howard W. Cobbs

(Successor to Leslie M. Cobbs.)

146 E. 8TH St. 'Phone 461-L
near Woman's Exchange.

SMALLEY BROS.

147 North Avenue.

BUTCHERS

CHOICE MEATS.

GAME IN SEASON.

ROASTING AND BROILING CHICKENS A SPECIALTY

Orders called for and delivered.

Telephone 68-A

William H. Pope,

ELECTRICIAN.

All kinds of Electrical Work done at Reasonable Prices.

116 NORTH AVENUE.

Lincoln Market Frank Neldig Proprietor

94 Somerset St Tele. 781

CHOICE MEATS, FISH AND VEGETABLES.

Heinz's Sauer Kraut

KODAKS

Complete line of Photo Supplies.

Printing and Developing

At Doane's 115 Park Ave.

PARQUET & HARDWOOD FLOORS

Old Floors Refinished

'GEO. E. WATT

150 North Ave. Tel. 333-w

PAINTERS AND DECORATORS.

Take a Look in our Window and you will be convinced that the latest in interior work—Aerochrome Washable Wall Decoration—is very handsome and effective.

Woolston & Buckle

Painters and Decorators

143 NORTH AVENUE.

George Washington Couldn't

tell a lie, neither could I and keep my self-respect. Nor would I give any less than the specifications call for. My aim is to paint as good as I know how—even better than I agree to—for I know that a satisfied customer is my best advertisement.

Jas. C. Hansen

Dealer in WALL PAPERS, PAINTS, OILS GLASS, Etc.

141 East Front Street

TEL. 346 ESTIMATES FURNISHED

M. WARREN

PAINTER, DECORATOR and PAPERHANGER

85 SOMERSET ST.,

opposite Sangerbund Hall.

Vail

JEWELER AND OPTICIAN

103 Park Ave.,

calls your attention to his

Rimless Glasses.

They Look Good and You See Good.

J. C. FIELD, Jr.

Tel. 991-W. 411 Park Ave.

Fine Stationery, Sporting Goods and Photo Supplies.

Sub-Postoffice in store.

Let us do your developing and printing. The best photographic work may be spoiled by the indifference, inability or carelessness of the finisher. The years of experience and constant improving methods enables us to give our customers better results than they have ever had. We desire a fair comparison with others and so make the following exceptional offering:

FREE! Bring us one of your favorite negatives and we will print it without charge.

To Whom It May Concern.

This is to notify the Trade in general, Hotels, Saloons, etc., that D. Lopretta of Newark, N. J., the largest Bottle Dealer in the State, has opened a Branch of his business at No. 40 Maple Avenue.

Anyone having Bottles, Papers, Iron and Metals, etc., to dispose of, call No. 1055 Telephone, and same will be promptly attended to.

I have on hand all kinds of Bottles, new and second-hand.

Hotel Trade a Specialty.

Newark address, 189-203 Frelinghuysen Avenue.

WALKS

We Construct Them

Trap Rock, Cement

Experience

R. G. BUSH

Tel. Con. 743-5 South Ave

L. Moraller & Son,

Watchmakers and Jewelers.

Watches, Clocks and Jewelry. Fine Watch and Clock Repairing a Specialty.

219 Park Ave., Plainfield, N.J.

PLAINFIELD WINDOW CLEANING CO.

H. MERSTRICH, Prop.

Stores, Offices, Private Residences, New Buildings, Greased, Scrubbed and Oiled. Office, 145 East Front Street. Tel. 864-J.

Kindling and Grate Wood.

Cedar Posts and Bean Poles. Prompt deliveries. Orders received at 89 SOMERSET STREET.

JOHN MOBUS,

P O Box 320. Telephone 19-F-42.

McCULLOUGH'S STEAM MILL,

Stelner Place, North Plainfield, N. J.
R. H. McCULLOUGH, Prop.

Sash, Blinds, Doors, Mouldings, Scroll Sawing, Turning etc.
Estimates cheerfully furnished

ALEX. LUSARDI.

Foreign and Domestic Fruits, Choice Confectionery, Nuts, Cigars, etc.

211 W. Front St. Tel. 807-W.

YOUR DULL Headaches

Probably come from overstrained eye sight. Nine-tenths of the headaches are the direct result of eye trouble. Bring those troubles to us and let us prescribe for you.

All work guaranteed.

FREE EXAMINATION BY

Stiles & Co.

PHILADELPHIA EYE SPECIALISTS

at 107 East Front Street, Every Thursday.

Hours 11:15 a. m. to 5 p. m.

If you are dissatisfied

with your paper service call on or 'phone

The Hustler

The best service in the city

Morning, Evening & Sunday Papers

'Phone 668-J

William H. Olmsted

331 Watchung Ave.

DELICIOUS FRESH FRUITS

Here you will find all the Finest Fresh Fruits of the season. Raspberries, Strawberries, Cherries, Currents, etc., extra good in Quality but very reasonable in price.

Prompt, Free Deliveries.

W. W. DUNN

THE PARK GROCER

Dunn St. and Lincoln Pl

JOS. F. BURKE

718 Monroe Ave. Tel. 145-R.

Successor to Mrs. John Brown

General Contractor and Grader

Cesspools and Vaults Cleaned

Satisfaction Guaranteed.

Positivey the only odorless Excavator in the City.

Estimates cheerfully given.

Leave orders at J. T. Vail's, North avenue., 'Phone 264. Postoffice Box 715.

For prices address

FRANK BURKE, Manager.

825 W Third St. Tel. 1306-W.

TIMBO'S Stock for Smokers

Romeo and Juliets, La Carolinas, Bocky's, Manuel Garcias, Acker, Merrall & Condit's La Elegancias, and a fine line of New York and Tampa makes. Fancy Smoker's Articles.

123-125 North Avenue.

AUR-MIN-O

CURES DRUNKENNESS with or without the knowledge of the patient. Cure effected or money refunded. AUR-MIN-O is a secret remedy. AUR-MIN-O a Voluntary Remedy, $1.00 per box, or six boxes for $5.00. Free book. For sale at G. M. SMALLEY'S DRUG STORE, Front and Grove Streets.

THE AUR-MIN-O Co., Inc.,

46 West 101 St., 38tu-th-s-tf NEW YORK

A. H. ENANDER,

Sanitary Plumbing, Gas Fitting, Steam and Hot Water Heating. Contractor for Sewer Connections.

125 WATCHUNG AVE.

Hoagland's Express

'RELIABLE BAGGAGE DELIVERY

Office 205 Park Av. Tel. 833-w

Home Tel. 648-L

JOHN WIRTH

(Successor to Henry Liefke.)

BAKERY AND CONFECTIONERY.

301-303 West Front St. Tel. 736

Orders delivered at short notice

J. C. POPE & CO.,

INSURANCE AGENTS

110 E. Front St. Plainfield, N. J.

MAY SUE FOR DAMAGES

Auto-Motorcycle Collision is Likely to Result in a Civil Action.

THE VICTIM HAS RECOVERED.

Harold Hansen Still Retains His License, But Harvey R. Thorn Wants Pecuniary Award for His Injuries.

The failure on the part of the State Department of Motor Vehicles to take any action regarding the auto-motorcycle collision in which Harold Hanson and Harvey R. Thorn figured, in which the latter nearly lost his life, several weeks ago, has caused considerable surprise among those interested in the case. Thus far no complaint has been made in the case, and, in fact, it is understood that Mr. Hanson, who is alleged to have violated a most important section of the State automobile law, still retains his license and has not been called upon to answer for his alleged infraction of the statute.

According to section 22, of the State law, every driver of an automobile who may be in a collision or accident of any kind, must come to a full stop, give his name, number of his license, registered number and the names of any and all occupants of the car. Failure to do this makes the auto driver liable to a fine of $250 or thirty days imprisonment.

It is claimed that Mr. Hanson, after the collision with Mr. Thorn failed to stop, and that the following morning, when interviewed by Sergeant Overbaugh denied on several occasions that he had been in collision with anyone and at first informed the officer that his car had not been out the night before. Furthermore, it is said, that Mr. Hanson did not admit his infraction of the law until Sergeant Overbaugh told him that he had several witnesses to prove that it was his car that was in collision with Mr. Thorn's motorcycle.

The absence of any local complaint against Mr. Hanson is said to be due to the fact that it was clearly thought to be up to the State Department of Motor Vehicles to take the initiative, inasmuch as Mr. Hanson is said to have violated the State law in the instance mentioned.

That some action is to be taken there is no question. Judge William Newcorn is counsel for Mr. Thorn, and it is said that there will probably be a civil suit against Mr. Hanson, aside from any action on the part of the State.

It is furthermore stated that Mr. Hanson did appear before Superintendent Smith, of the State Department of Motor Vehicles, and in explanation of his actions on the night of the accident, said that he was so excited that he really did not know what he was doing. If Mr. Hanson still retains his license, which is said to be true, he must have given a satisfactory explanation to Mr. Smith, but friends of Mr. Thorn cannot understand how the State officials have come to overlook Mr. Hanson's alleged violation of the State automobile law.

It was understood that the hearing in the case was put off pending the recovery of Mr. Thorn so that he could appear in his own behalf and give his testimony. Mr. Thorn is now back to work and is perfectly capable of attending a hearing.

The Fanwood Realty Company.

John Z. Hatfield, Edward L. Hand and George Harper, of Scoten Plains, have formed a partnership under the name of the Fanwood Realty Company. The company has purchased the Marsh property at Park avenue and the trolley line and within a few weeks will erect a commodious office on the property. The company will buy and sell real estate, both improved and unimproved property. It is believed that there is an opening for such a concern in that section and it is the opinion that it will be successful.

Annual Audit of City Accounts.

The work of auditing the city's books and accounts, which is now an annual custom, is progressing favorably and will be completed within a short time. Patterson, Teele & Dennis, certified public accountants of New York, were engaged to do the work, and a staff of accountants under the direction of a member of that well known firm, have been auditing the various accounts during the past few weeks. The accountants will make a report to the Common Council when the work is completed.

Incomprehensible.

"Pop!"

"Yes, my son."

"This paper says rain falls more frequently between 3 a. m. and 8 a. m. than at any other time."

"Yes, my boy."

"But, pop, the Sunday School pictures are not held between those hours."—Yonkers Statesman.

She—Maud is beginning to look her age. Don't you think so?

He—Not the age she says she is.

YOUNG HARRIS RECOVERS HIS AUTOMOBILE LICENSE

Girard Harris, the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Harris, of West Front street, has recovered his license to operate an automobile, which was revoked several weeks ago when he was implicated in a charge of "joy riding," in this city. Mr. Harris recently appeared before Superintendent J. B. R. Smith, of the State Department of Motor Vehicles, and gave a full explanation of the affair.

Mr. Harris, it is said, satisfied Mr. Smith that he was not intoxicated on the night in question, and that if his actions were not what they should have been they were due chiefly to the influence of his companions.

In returning the license to Mr. Harris, the State official took into consideration that no one was injured as a result of the affair and that the only damage was to the Harris car. Mr. Harris is now privileged to operate an automobile as before.

Y.M.H.A. CLOSES ACTIVE SEASON WITH MUSICAL

The Y. M. H. A. of this city, concluded its year's activities Wednesday in the association auditorium when a musical and dance was held. The hall was crowded to its capacity with friends and relatives of the members and a program of much interest was given.

This opened with a duet by Leo Jacobs, a brother of Mrs. M. Schwarbach, of Richmond street, who is leader of the Tremont orchestra of New York, and Miss Ruth Weinberger, of Duer street. Miss Weinberger presided at the piano and Mr. Jacobs displayed rare skill on the violin. The second number was a song by the Misses Lena and Frances Kline, followed by a splendid violin and piano duet by the Jocker brothers of New York. Miss Netta Newcorn then gave a skillful piano solo which was followed by "My Hero," a song by Miss Ruth Weinberger, of Prospect place. Monroe Jockers and Miss Leah Hamburger then gave two pleasing duets, "Zamper" and "Informal."

The second part of the program included humorous readings by Mrs. Mendel, of Park avenue. These were heartily applauded. Mrs. William Newcorn followed with a piano solo and Albert Jockers sang the "Barber Shop Cord." Miss Leah Hamburger then followed with a piano solo after which the Misses Lena and Frances Kline gave a pleasing song. The violin solo, "Mendelssohn's Spring Song," by Leo Jacobs was especially well rendered. A song by Israr Radler accompanied by the Jocker brothers concluded the program.

Light refreshments were then served followed by a brief speech by Samuel Heilberg, the president of the association. He said that this was the second affair of its kind and the last of the season to be held by the association. In the fall, he said, the second series of lectures would be started, and a play would be produced by the association. In the arrangements for the latter affair thus far made Judge and Mrs. Wm. Newcorn and Mrs. Mendel have offered their services as coaches and as members of the cast.

FINED HIM $50 FOR STEALING LUMBER.

William Wallace, of Roselle, was fined $50 by Judge Atwater in the Court of Special Sessions on Wednesday for the larceny of lumber from a house being built on Galloping Hill road, and that he was finally discharged by Miller. Miller, he said, kept losing lumber and materials, and one evening hid about the premises and later saw Wallace come into the house with an Italian boy and take some of the lumber away. Attorney Samuel Schleimer represented Wallace and said that he took the lumber to make a scaffold and intended to return it.

C. Gibson, colored, was sent to the county jail for ten days by Judge Atwater for stealing fish.

Charles Weigand, a boy, pleaded not guilty to the charge of larceny. Trial was set for July 6.

A Tasty Sandwich.

A delicious sandwich is made of thin slices of brown bread spread with a mixture of equal quantities of raisins and nuts, ground fine and moistened with cream.

She Had to.

"And your mistress is sitting up till you get home?"

"She must. Her dress fastens down the back."—Exchange.

MISS JENNINGS WEDS JOEL D. DE GROFF

Miss Florence Jennings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jennings, of Dunellen, became the bride of Joel De Groff, of Westfield, Wednesday in Dunellen. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride shortly after 8 o'clock, before a bank of cut flowers in the parlor. It was a simple ceremony and was performed by Rev. Ernest Brown, pastor of the Dunellen Presbyterian church, of which the bride and bridegroom are members.

The attendants were Charles Windham, of this city, who was best man, and Miss Edna Jennings, a sister of the bride, who was bridesmaid. The bride was given in marriage by her father. The bride looked charming in a gown of silk mull, trimmed with lace; and she carried a large bouquet of white bridal roses. Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. De Groff left for a tour of the upper part of New York State where they will be gone about a week. On their return they will reside in Westfield where they will go to housekeeping.

Mr. De Groff was clerk of the Dunellen common council for many years, was a trustee of the Dunellen Presbyterian church and is a prominent member of Franklin Council, Jr. O. U. A. M. in which order he has held several chairs.

PREPARATIONS FOR CAMP WAYWAYANDA

Parents of the boys who are to go to Camp Waywayanda, the boys' state camp of the Y. M. C. A., met last night in the local association parlors. Most of the mothers of the boys were present and an opportunity was thus given them to get acquainted with one another and to know with whom their sons are to spend the season.

One of the photographic exhibition. This was the center of much interest and offered suggestions to the boys and parents who are preparing for camp for the first time. For many of the parents the meeting afforded an opportunity for the first time to visit the building to get an idea of the work that the boys are doing in the local Y. M. C. A., and under what kind of supervision.

Following the meeting refreshments were served by the Boys' Work Committee of the Woman's Auxiliary. Mrs. Frank J. Hubbard was chairman of this committee.

The boys will leave Plainfield on the 6.27 train tomorrow morning. They will be under the supervision of Boys' Secretary William Bingeman and Charles Line. Fifteen boys will go to camp, but only five lads will leave in the first section tomorrow. These are: Joseph Sattels, Robert Day, Benjamin Cooley, Hoyt Tompkinson and Russell Lee. The second section will leave July 15.

TO HOLD EXAMINATION FOR GOOD STATE JOB

Notices have been posted in the office of County Clerk Calvert at Elizabeth for two more civil service examinations. On July 11 an examination for the position of inspector in the utilities division of the Board of Public Utilities will be held at Trenton. Any male resident of the state is entitled to apply for the examination. The position pays an annual salary of $4,000. It is stated, however, that those who apply should have technical education in the construction of electrical railroads and lighting plants.

Another examination to be held on July 11 is for the position of county detective in Camden county. Any resident of the State is entitled to take the examination. The position pays $1,500 a year.

New Orleans Soup.

Add to two cupfuls fresh or canned tomatoes a teaspoonful of soda. Set over the fire and simmer gently while a quart of milk is set to boiling in another vessel. When it reaches the boiling point add the tomatoes while straining, cook five minutes longer, add salt, red pepper and butter to season and serve with croutons.

Ox Eyes.

Toast rounds of bread to a pale brown, dip in milk, butter generously, place on a buttered baking sheet. Separate yolks and whites of as many eggs as there are rounds of toast. Add pinch of salt to whites, whip to dry froth, pile high on each toast round. Make depression in centre, drop in a yolk, whole; sprinkle with salt, pepper and a piquant table sauce (if liked), small dot of butter and put in brisk oven to cook. Put on small plates, garnish with parsley.

HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATE BECOMES A LIFE SAVER

John Dutcher, who was graduated from the City High School in the class of 1908 has received an appointment as a life saver at Asbury Park. His work in this capacity will not be continuous owing to a boating business which he has established on Wesley lake.

Mr. Dutcher is a strong swimmer and has saved several lives in the Asbury Park surf. Three years ago he saved the life of a man who was attempting to launch a canoe in the surf. As a mark of gratitude he was given the canoe which was worth $60.

Two years ago when thirty people were rescued from a dangerous hole in the surf near the old Ross pavilion Dutcher saved five people. These rescues were witnessed by a large number of Plainfielders who were at the shore on one of the local Sunday school excursions at the time. His work at this time brought him into attention and his appointment followed. He will not be called upon to work every day.

Dutcher played on the City High School baseball and basketball teams and on the Dunellen base ball nine. He is the son of Rev. E. C. Dutcher, formerly pastor of the Dunellen Methodist church. This year he completed his sophomore year at New York University where he made the college crew, the football team, the baseball nine and one of the musical organizations.

MR. AND MRS. BABCOCK'S WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Juan A. Babcock, of Clinton avenue, observed the twelfth anniversary of their wedding at their home, Tuesday night. An informal reception was attended by over thirty relatives and friends, was held from 7.30 to 10.30. The couple was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Babcock's sister, Miss Grace Phillips, of Brooklyn.

The rooms were attractively decorated with flowers, palms and ferns, the color scheme being pink and green. During the reception Miss Alice L. Morgan, Miss Dorothy Langford, Juan A. Babcock rendered classical and modern selections on the piano. Mrs. Bayard Hasbrouck and Miss Grace Phillips also favored with vocal solos.

Mr. and Mrs. Babcock were married twelve years ago by Rev. Montgomery Downey, who was then rector of the Church of the Holy Cross. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents on West Front street. They have two children, Juan A. Babcock, Jr., and Miss Helen Babcock.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. Arthur Heath, of Cincinnati; Miss Grace Phillips, of Brooklyn and Nelson Sherman, of New York. Mr. and Mrs. Babcock received a number of handsome bouquets of cut flowers. A collation was served at 10 o'clock, after which the social features were continued.

CHINA WEDDING SURPRISE FOR MR. AND MRS. HAYE.

In honor of the china wedding anniversary, the twentieth, a surprise party was tendered Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Haye, of Mt. Bethel, at their home last night by the Mt. Bethel Pleasure Circle. The evening was spent in an informal social way and at the conclusion light refreshments were served. Dancing followed. During the day many friends called to congratulate Mr. and Mrs. Haye and many left useful and handsome gifts of china and cut glass. Those present were:

Mr. and Mrs. Christian Glogger, Miss May Barrell, of Baltimore, Md., and Mrs. Duderstadt, Mr. and Mrs. Guy D. Peck, Miss Peck, Guy Peck, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Jennings and Charles Jennings, of Warrenville; Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Steffens Miss Minie Steffens, Mr. and Mrs. Adam Sachs and William Sachs, Mr. and Angster, Mrs. Reinhart Pape, of Brooklyn; Miss Carrie von Buren, Mrs. George Holler, Mr. and Mrs. Adler, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Haye, Miss Lillian Haye, Miss Florence Haye, Miss Eleanor Haye, Andrew Haye.

CARVING MEAT.

To successfully carve meat one must know how to control the knife. When carving a slice of meat, after the first incision has been made the angle at which the knife is held must never be altered, or a jagged slice will be the result.

The cut should be direct, sharp and incisive. The sawlike motion should not enter into the operation.

Church—What does your friend do?

Gotham—He's a writer of fiction.

"Indeed!"

"Yes; his wife's gone away for a fortnight, and he writes every day and is supposed to tell her what he's been doing in her absence."—Yonkers Statesman.

CHAPEL'S FESTIVAL NETTED ABOUT $200

The most successful festival ever held by the parishioners of Warren Chapel took place yesterday afternoon and evening on the church lawn. This was the fifth affair of its kind and about $200 was realized. The complete success of the affair was due in a large measure to the able management of Theodore J. Martin. Every detail was carried out smoothly and successfully.

The lawn was speckled with booths gayly decorated with bunting flags and Japanese lanterns. These were lighted at night together with a myriad of incandescent electric lamps which added to the effect of the whole. Throughout the afternoon and evening music was furnished by a band under the direction of Whitney Frazee. This proved to be a popular feature of the festival.

The booths did a large business. The cake booth was in charge of Mrs. John Schenck assisted by the women of the Ladies' Aid Society. The waitresses were in charge of Mrs. J. O. McKelvey; the candy booth was in charge of Miss Nora B. Schenck; the fruit punch was distributed under the direction of Miss Mildred Bellis; and all took their money to Miss Matilda Bennett, who was the cashier.

The committee in charge of the affair was composed of the following: Theodore Martin, chairman; Mrs. John Schenck, Mrs. J. O. McKelvey, and the Misses Adele Kirby, Nora B. Schenck, Adelaide Stiglitz, Bertha Hoagland, Ida Wheeler, Emma Windham and Dolly Bostedt and Charles Windham, William Kunselman, Miller Bellis, Charles Holstein, Alvin Smith and Alfred Everitt.

WANT CHAS. P. SEBRING AS SHRIEVALTY NOMINEE

Charles P. Sebring, of North Plainfield, is being urged by his friends to announce his candidacy for the Republican shrievalty nomination in Somerset county. For years he has been a staunch worker for the party and has always been "on the job" where there was work to be done in getting out the vote and helping the party triumph at the polls. He is popular through Somerset and it is believed that with him as the nominee for sheriff the party would have a strong candidate in a fight that is bound to be hot.

—Photo by Stone.

Charles P. Sebring.

Many years ago, Mr. Sebring served two terms in the North Plainfield Council where he made a good record. At another time he was a member of North Plainfield township committee. He is a large taxpayer and is held in high esteem particularly in the borough.

Will Hold Japanese Lawn Festival.

The Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church, through the courtesy of Floyd T. Woodhull, who owns the property, will hold a Japanese lawn festival Saturday afternoon and evening, July 16, on the large vacant lot on East Front street, corner Church street.

Miss Vogel a Bride.

Miss Mathilde Magdalen Vogel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Vogel, of Hopedale, Mass., who was a teacher in the local public schools, this year, was married to Richard King Newman, of Worcester, Mass., Wednesday night at the home of the bride's parents. The couple will be "At Home," after October 1, at 110 Lincoln street, Worcester, Mass.

Her Great Boast.

"Did you have a good time on your boat trip?"

"A good time, I should say I did. I was the only one permitted to eat at the captain's table."—Detroit Free Press.

Handicapped.

"What sort of weather did you have on your vacation?"

"Since I've given up swearing, I cannot tell you and do it justice."—Detroit Free Press.

HERE AND THERE.

The cutting down of some of the old elm trees in front of the First Baptist church, on Front street, means the removal of very old landmarks. They were planted in 1842 by David Coon, whose children, Mrs. B. J. Shreve, Mrs. Margaret Randolph and Mrs. Calvin Rolce, residents of this city, Mrs. F. W. Miles, of Grahamsville, N. Y., Mrs. A. C. Nichols and David J. Coon, of Kansas City, Mo., are still living. The old church was built in 1818. Former pastors, Rev. S. F. Drake and Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes have kept the fact in the memory of the church, as they were wont to tell, in welcoming any of Mr. Coon's descendants into the church fellowship, of his great interest in the trees. They said there was a severe drought the season they were planted, and Mr. Coon, himself, every night, carried water from the brook in the rear of the church to save the lives of the trees. When the present church edifice was built, the bed of the stream was changed, as formerly the brook flowed nearer the old church.

FURNITURE POLISH.

An excellent polish for ordinary purposes may be made by mixing three parts of linseed oil and one part spirits of turpentine.

Use a piece of cloth or fine flannel and apply to the surface of the furniture, then rub well in with a pad of wool. Another plan is to use equal portions of turpentine, linseed oil and vinegar.

A good polish for mahogany is obtained by mixing half a pint of rectified naptha and two and a half ounces of shellac. Dissolve the latter by leaving it in a warm place, then shake well and use by means of a brush.

Bare wood can be polished with pumice stone, passing it roughly over the surface until smooth; then take powdered tripoli and boiled linseed oil and polish to a brilliant surface.

The Newspaper as a Forum.

Why do our people so rarely write to the newspapers giving their opinions on matters of home progress? The Anglisize is forever writing to his newspapers about abuses small and great. From the crossing sweeper to the railroad president all fear the influence on public sentiment of these public officials and public service corporations, but it all ends in thin air and nothing is done. The newspapers are left alone to bring pressure to bear on agencies, which come to think that the newspapers represent merely single men or small groups of men. Let the public stand by the newspapers in their effort for better work in public and corporate capacity. Why feel this morbid sensitiveness about seeing your name in print? Why not give the public the advantage of some of these good questions you scatter around in the ineffectiveness of the small conversational circle? Remember that a published letter has hundreds of time more influence than opinions privately spoken.—Trenton Advertiser.

The Grind Begins.

"Do I have to exchange wedding presents in the department from which they were purchased?"

"Not at all," said the floor-walker.

"Thank you," said the June bride. "I want to trade a china vase for a frying pan."—Pittsburg Post.

An Old Story.

Sister's Young Man (at the celebration of his engagement, to small brother)—Now, Charlie, wouldn't you like to taste some champagne?

Charlie—Oh, I know what it's like. This isn't the first time she's got engaged.

PRINCETON CONFERENCE WILL OPEN OCTOBER 17.

Arrangements are being perfected for the fall conference at the Princeton Theological Seminary. This conference has become an established and helpful feature of the seminary year.

This fall the conference will be held October 17 and 18. The opening address will be delivered by the Rev. Dr. John R. Davies, pastor of the Bethesda Presbyterian church of Philadelphia.

Among the others who have promised to take part are the Rev. Dr. Henry Van Dyke, the Rev. Dr. Chas. L. Goodell, of Calvary M. E. church, New York City; Kerr Duncan MacMillan, D. D., of Princeton, and the Rev. James H. Snowden, of Christ church, New York City. Many of the seminary alumni have signified their intention of returning for this occasion.

Among the subjects to be treated are: "The Work of Preaching," "The Physical Life of the Minister," "The Social Life of the Minister," "The Intellectual and Spiritual Life of the Minister," "The Work of the Institutional Church," "Personal and Pastoral Evangelism."

"Why do you always buy an engagement ring on the installment plan?" asked Reginald.

"Because," replied Algernon, "it relieves me of some of the responsibility for getting it back when the engagement is broken."—Yonkers Statesman.

HILL CLIMBING CONTEST

The Plainfield Auto Club Prepares for the Annual Auto Events.

COURSE A FIRST CLASS ONE.

A Description of the Scene of the Forthcoming Competitions Which Promise to Attract a Big Crowd.

Marked interest is being taken in the auto hill climbing contest, which is announced for next Saturday. Unquestionably the course is now one of the finest for the purpose in this part of the country. The average grades of 8 per cent. and 15 per cent. are broken at intervals long enough to allow "runs." There are three sharp curves and one "hair pin" curve; but these have been banked up at the side so as to counteract the effect of centrifugal force without lessening the speed of the cars. The numerous water sheds are near being levelled off by a gang of men under the direction of John Mobus.

The obstructions in the road near the end of the course by the stone entrance to the Grossman school which caused a driver to lose control of his car last year with the result that it plunged over the mountain side, have been removed. A plank across the road partially added to the cause of the accident last year. All such obstructions have been removed.

The roadbed itself is in poor condition in five or six places, but owing to a lack of funds this can not be remedied this year. The worst places, however, will be filled in and levelled off. One of the chief difficulties encountered by drivers last year was in the too free skidding of their wheels in making the curves to the loose and unsound conditon of the roadbed. While this has not altogether been remedied, drivers may expect less hindrance from this than last year. Bissel, one of the famous Ormond Beach drivers had difficulty with this; and this was his only criticism of the course, Robertson, the Vanderbilt Cup course winner, who took part in the hill climbing contest here last year likewise complained of this. He pointed out the defects of the course, which when remedied, he declared would make it the best hill climbing course in the country.

There are eight good vantage points for spectators to view the progress of the machinery in their race to the top of the course. For the use of the course for next Saturday afternoon, the promoters of the contest will pay the township $50.

The contests will be conducted by the Plainfield Automobile Club by the sanction of the American Automobile Association.

SWACKHAMER TALKS ON "CHRISTIAN CITIZENSHIP"

Former Assemblyman S. S. Swackhamer gave a stirring address on "Christian Citizenship," at a patriotic service held at the Netherwood Reformed church Friday night. Although the weather was warm, there was a good attendance of members and friends of the church, and all enjoyed the service. The church was appropriately decorated in the national colors, and Rev. Royal A. Stout, pastor, presided.

For nearly an hour Mr. Swackhamer talked on the necessity of Christian citizenship, the advantages to be gained, the responsibility resting upon every man to embrace this opportunity. He then pictured vividly the work of our forefathers in their fight for the maintenance of liberty, impressing upon all not to forget the great sacrifice made that all might enjoy this liberty.

Throughout his talk, Mr. Swackhamer illustrated his remarks with timely stories, giving facts and figures to show that this is the greatest country on the globe, one of which every man, woman and child should be proud. Mr. Swackhamer's remarks were listened to attentively and at the close he was thanked for his excellent address.

SCHOOL TEACHER WEDS CINCINNATI, OHIO, MAN.

Miss Sadie E. Staats, a teacher in School No. 2, Fanwood township, was married to J. Charles Runyon, at the home of the bride's father, Isaiah Staats, at Port Monmouth, this afternoon. Mr. Runyon is an electrical engineer and holds a responsible position in Cincinnati, Ohio. Miss Staats has been a teacher in the Fanwood schools for some time and is popular among the pupils. Her resignation was handed to the Board of Education early this spring when announcement of her engagement was made. Following a short honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Runyon will go to housekeeping in Cincinnati, where Mr. Runyon is engaged in business.

SCOTCH PLAINS' BIG DAY

Flag Presentation, Bicycle Races, Athletic Events and Band Concert.

CLAY BIRD SHOOTING, TOO.

Dancing Also a Feature of an All-Day Celebration at the Wideawake Village.

An ideal day and one of the biggest crowds that has invaded the town in years made the Fourth of July celebration at Scotch Plains, Monday one of the most successful affairs the old town has ever held. Many visitors were present from out of town, some of them coming in on the early cars to take in the flag raising at 7 a. m. From that time on, until this morning at 1.30, when the dance ended, which marked the closing of the celebration, the festivities continued. At 9 a. m., Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M. presented the flag to the school. The presentation speech was made by William La Rue, State Vice Chancellor of the order. Dr. Frank W. Westcott, president of the Board of Education received the flag, and in thanking the Council for it said that the emblem of liberty would be floated to the breezes every school day of the year. The Juniors then marched back to their lodge room.

Clay bird shooting and athletic sports were next in order and every one journeyed to the picnic ground along Green brook. Between the events the 100-yard dash was held. W. E. Scott, of Plainfield, won. The one hundred yard dash for boys was won by Edward Hatfield. Ernest Wahl won the 50-yard dash. At 12 o'clock the greased porker was turned loose and gave the crowd one of the most exciting events of the day. James Corrona finally got a grip on the hind leg and the pig's ras was run. After dinner the married men and single men played their much-talked-of game, the single men winning the contest after a hard struggle by the score of 16 to 10. Following the game the bicy le races were run on Mountain avenue. The 10-mile open, was won by Beck, Brooklyn. The other results follow:

Ten mile—John Beckt, T. J. Murphy, J. B. Hawkins, R. B. Smith, J. Schister, C. Copsky, George Simon, T. Kennedy, W. Drake, E. Simon, T. Jones, J. Streuber, P. Damiano, E. McNee, A. Buick.

Time Prize—J. B. Hawkins, 28:54 flat; J. Streuber, 28:54 1-5.

One mile—John Becht, C. Ericson, P. Damiano.

Two mile, local boys—Edw. Coombs, Robt. Anson.

Clay bird shoot—First ten birds, George Rinehart, 9; H. Vosseler, won on shoot off; E. L. Hand, Geo. Bishop, 7; Charles Bacher, J. Judwin, 6.

Second event, ten birds.—Harry Hicks and Hand tied with 9; won by Hand on shoot off. Bishop, 8 birds; Edwin Faucher and Rinehart tied with 7; but this was won by Rinehart.

15 birds.—Jahn, 13; Rinehart, 13, won by Rinehart; Hand, 11; Bishop, 11; won by Bishop; Graf, 9; Nichols, 9; Vosseler, 9; won by Vosseler.

There was dancing in the evening. George Harper was chairman of the committee in charge of the affair.

CROWDS ATTEND BIG CELEBRATIONS IN SUBURBS

An all day celebration at New Market under the auspices of Friendship Council, Jr. O. U. A. M. called out a large crowd yesterday. The events on the program were many featured, including a aquatic races of all kinds and field events as well. A band located in Vail's grove furnished music all day long. In the evening there was a display of fireworks. The committee that arranged the affair was composed of: C. I. Rogers, O. H. Drake, Reuel Von Minden, J. Van Nuis, A. M. Johnson.

At South Plainfield the celebration there did not get started until well along in the afternoon. Here the events included field sports and at night a firework's display. Dancing was also enjoyed under covered pavilion.

At Dunellen a carnival was held under the auspices of William G. Holton Council, Jr. O. U. A. M. in the field beyond Taylor's hotel. A merry go round, a band and similar carnival attractions furnished the amusement for a large number of people who visited the borough.

Baptism at Grace M. E.

Infant baptism was a part of the service at the Grace M. E. church Sunday morning. Five infants were baptised by the Rev. Orra M. Shoop, and one member was taken in by letter. The infants baptised are: William Smaller Schuck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Schuck; Richard Henry LeMatty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles LeMatty; Elizabeth Livsey Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Moore; Merriam Neier, and Carleton Winteroth Neier, children of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Everett Neier. Sebor L. Bronnen was taken in by letter.

DUNELLEN CONQUERS LOCAL Y.M.C.A. 14 TO 6

Dunellen sprang a surprise Saturday when it defeated the local Y. M. C. A. team at Dunellen by the score of 14 to 6. The excessive heat seemed to have a depressing effect on the players and as a result the game was slow and was marked by errors. Slocum pitched but two innings for the Y. M. C. A. when his arm went back on him. The game was practically won by Dunellen in the third inning when a big lead of six runs was tallied. On the whole Dunellen played the better game, and Montross pitched a good game. The score and summaries follow:

Y. M. C. A.	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.
Peacock, 2b, lf	2	1	1	0	2
Taylor, 3b	2	2	1	2	1
Hand, c	0	1	4	2	1
Fritts, lf, 2b	1	0	1	0	0
Miller, rf, p	1	1	1	4	0
Marsh, cf	1	0	6	0	0
Murphy, rf	0	0	2	0	0
Dumont, 1b	0	0	3	0	2
Wilcox, cf	0	0	1	0	0
Slocum, p	0	0	1	1	0
Total	6	5	24	10	7

Dunellen.	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.
Gildea, ss	2	1	2	5	1
Giles, 2b	2	2	1	3	0
Ramsberger, 3b	1	1	1	4	2
Mullin, c	2	1	8	0	1
Montross, p	1	1	1	2	0
Piddington, rf	0	1	0	0	0
Nonamaker, lf	1	1	2	0	1
Clark, cf	1	0	0	1	0
Dodwell, 1b	2	1	11	0	0
Total	14	10	27	12	5

Score by innings:

Dunellen .....2 3 3 2 4 0 0 0 x—14
Y. M. C. A.....2 0 0 1 0 0 1 2 0— 6

Struck out—By Slocum, 1; by Miller, 3; by Montross 8. Base on balls—Off Slocum, 1; Miller, 2. Hit by pitcher—Taylor. Sacrifice hits—Fritts, Wilcox, Ramsberger. Two-base hits—Miller, Mullen, Ramsberger. Three-base hit—Hand. Stolen bases—Miller, Giddes, Mullen, Nonamaker. Umpire—R. Scott. Time of game—2hrs. 5 m.

JEFF KNOCKED OUT IN FIFTEENTH ROUND

Reno, Nev., July 5.—Jack Johnson, the heavyweight champion, turned over the sporting world yesterday. He knocked out James J. Jeffries in the fifteenth round.

It was sudden, this defeating of a hitherto unbeaten man. It came swiftly, like the dropping of some bolt that wrecks a 10,000-horsepower dynamo.

Hardly had the bell sounded when the lightning movement of the negro's right arm in an uppercut ended in a thud. The tremendous head of the white fighting man swung back as the glove landed on his jaw just to the right of the mid-chin. His torso relaxed, his knees trembled, then crooked. Down he went.

Sixteen thousand persons leaped to their feet, and the great din of the arena was still. Back those sitting next to the ring could hear the click of the black champion's teeth as he snapped his jaw shut and stood waiting over the fallen fighter.

The timekeeper had counted nine. Jeffries, his head swinging from side to side, his thick arms struggled to his knees—to his feet. Hardly ha dhe straightened when two terrific blows shot over his feebly-rising guard. A right and left upper cut to the chin followed. Down the white man tumbled. This time the body was outside the ropes and his legs were crooked over the white strands. He sat hunched in this spot, eyes closed, hands drooping over knees.

The spell was broken. The arena roared.

In the uproar Timekeeper Harting counted Jeffries out. Nobody heard him. Abe Attell ran over from Jeffries' corner and lifted up the ropes, while the fighter clambered blindly through.

The man stood, half crouched, knowing nothing. Jim Corbett yelled something at him. The words were unheard.

Then came the black man, not knowing that his antagonist was counted out. He came lightly, stepping swiftly like a cat stalking. He jumped to the side of the bloodied, half-conscious man and with his arms jerking back and forth with the thrust of an engine's piston, he pounded and pounded the drooping head of the former champion.

Uppercuts, each one of them. First with the left, and then with the right. Johnson swung back the lolling head. Again the tremendous bulk of the "Big White Man" tottered.

Sam Berger, Jeffries' manager, jumped into the ring and rushed to Jeffries' side. Rickard understood and he waved the tigerish Johnson back to his corner. At the same time he held up his hand and admonished toward the black, retreating. That was the end. The fight was won.

IN THE REAR APARTMENT

Only in New York are such acquaintances possible. We are very near neighbors. Our two apartment houses approach each other at closely on the law permits, and our windows are exactly on a line. We had been enjoying the privacy of having a vacant flat before our windows for months, when our seclusion was suddenly broken in upon. The windows so near our own were thrown open one day. Our neighbors had arrived.

We decided at once that they were bride and bridegroom and that the old colored servant had been in her family for a generation. They were very quiet neighbors, not in the least obtrusive or noisy, and without ever speaking to them, after the New York fashion, we came to regard them with quite a neighborly spirit. The daily routine of the bride's apartment soon became very familiar. We knew the hours of their meals, their plans for calls and callers. If the bridegroom were late in coming home or the couple went away for a day we knew it, and their doings supplied much of our small gossip.

One summer's night when the windows were thrown open on the air shaft we were attracted by a sudden commotion. An elderly gentleman, obviously a doctor, hurried in and we saw a group gathered anxiously about the bed. What is left to flat dwellers of the spirit of neighborliness was aroused. The little bride was very ill. The lights burned in her room throughout the night; nor did the doctor leave till daybreak. Out of pure sympathy we slept little ourselves that night. Then followed a long illness, which we watched with anxious attention. When the doctor's visits changed from three visits a day to a single call it was a source of rejoicing for us all. And one bright morning, weeks after, the little bride appeared in her chair before the window. Silently we all rejoiced in her improvement. She looked very pretty and very frail in her gayly colored dressing gown, with its profusion of pink ribbons. And each day the great bouquet of flowers before her was renewed.

A week passed and then one day we missed the little bride from the window. She had gone back to bed and again the doctor came regularly at at first, daily, but soon, to our consternation, twice each day. Again, however, the calls became fewer and once again the little bride took up her place by the window. But it was a greatly changed little figure, which went straight to our hearts. The gay dressing gown was gone, as were the pink ribbons, and the face looked drawn and pale. Then the effort proved beyond her strength and we saw her no more.

But one night our attention was attracted to the window again and we watched fearfully with anxious hearts. Two doctors and a nurse hastily summoned were beside the bed. The bridegroom sat at the foot, his head buried in his hands, without the slightest movement, and the nurse were obviously working with desperate haste. One, two, three hours passed and then the lights were turned down and the curtain, which had been forgotten, was drawn. We knew all, and throughout that night the loss seemed to be our own. The next morning we saw the undertakers enter the room with their hideous tools.

And the pathetic little family has not yet gone out of our life. The husband and the old colored maid still live in the apartment. At first we marveled that he should stay on alone among so many memories, but we have decided that these memories are all that he has left. He sits by the windows alone in the early evening with the room darkened. We feel that we know him well and that he is bound to us by innumerable bonds of sympathy, and yet we never so much as learned his name.

The Lady of the Telephone.

She is more than five feet tall, she is neat, she is quick, she is never deaf nor dumb, she is invisible when most effective—she is the girl who must be consulted before you can get the telephone you want, says the Baltimore Sun. The government experts find that she can answer 225 calls a minute without shedding a hairpin, but do not mention that she can give you the wrong number three times in five minutes and cause attacks of apoplexy and indignation at both ends of the wire. She must be either very patient or very indifferent, this operator in the conversation exchange, for she deals with many men of many tempers and many women of many tongues. And if she can manage this successfully and emerge from a day of conflict with unruffled temper and smiling face, she must be a wonder.

New Remedy.

Customer—I wish I had as good a head of hair as you have. I have tried everything to remedy my baldness, but with no good results.

Watchmaker—Have you ever tried rubbing your head with steel?

Customer—Certainly not. That's ridiculous.

Watchmaker—Why ridiculous? Isn't it a fact that steel makes the hair spring?

Bled eight feet from the ground, a rubber-yielding tree of 15 inches diameter gives three pints of liquid.

CAMP ORDERS OF CO. K

Captain Harry B. Kitchell Issues Instructions for the Guardsmen.

GO TO GETTYSBURG JULY NINE.

The Plainfield Military Will Spend One Week in Camp on the Famous Battlefield.

Captain Harry B. Kitchell, of Co. K, has issued instructions to his command relative to the forthcoming joint camp of instruction for the regular army and organized militia at Gettysburg, Pa., July 9-17 inclusive. This will be the first time that the company has ever left the State for such a purpose.

The company will assemble in the armory in heavy marching orders Saturday evening at 7.15 o'clock, and will march to the station to take special train, leaving at 7.50. The khaki uniform, with russet shoes, canvas puttees, olive-drap shirt and campaign hat will be worn.

Each enlisted man will take with him, in addition to the clothing worn on the person, the following articles of personal equipment: One shelter-half with pole and pins, one blanket, one rubber poncho, one canteen, one haversack, one mess-kit complete, one house-wife, one cake castile soap, two pairs of stockings with white feet, one tooth brush, one towel, one suit underwear, one pair of marching shoes.

The men previously detailed for special instruction in patrol work should have their motorcycles and bicycles at the armory at 8 o'clock, Thursday night in order that they may be properly invoiced and shipped. The following men are hereby detailed for duty with the regimental quartermaster: Privates Beetham, Dixon and Schwindinger. They will report to the regimental quartermaster at the headquarters' car at 8 o'clock Sunday morning, July 10, and will thereafter be subject to his orders until excused by him.

With a view to the detention and elimination from the camp of contagious diseases, including typhoid ever, each man must be inspected by a medical officer prior to departure, and no man will be allowed to go to camp unless so examined. Therefore, pursuant to general orders No. 30, the company will assemble in the armory at 4 o'clock sharp Saturda afternoon for medical examination by Captain W. Kempton Browning.

WEATHER STATISTICS COMPILED BY NEAGLE

According to the official statistics for June furnished by Weather Prophet John Neagle, the mean temperature was 1.7 degrees below the normal. The precipitation was 1.46 inches above the normal. The deficiency of rainfall from January 1 to July 1, 1910 was 0.24 inches. The statistics follow:

Highest temperature 94 degrees, date 21st; lowest, 43, 5th; mean temperature, 69.7; normal, 69.2; mean maximum, 78.0; mean minimum, 57.3; mean daily range, 20.7; monthly range, 51.0, greatest daily range, 32; total precipitation, 5.24 inches; normal precipitation, 3.78; greatest amount of precipitation in twenty-four hours, 1.47 inches, date, 18th; of this amount 1.37 inches fell in one hour and forty minutes on the above date.

Total rainfall from January 1 to July 1, 1910, 22.97 inches. Prevailing wind, southwest; dates of thunder storms, 7, 18, 21; dates of fog, 16, 17; hail, 18; number of rainy days, 10; days clear, 8; partly cloudy, 13; cloudy, 9.

Praise Work of Local Soloists.

The Bound Brook Chronicle, of last week's issue in speaking of the work of Miss Ruth Harris and William Holmes, *of this city, in the musi*cal program at the Knights of Pythias' memorial service at Bound Brook, says: "Miss Orrel Wrench was unable to sing in the quartet, because of an attack of laryngitis, and at the last moment Miss Harris was secured, and her extremely sweet soprano voice was admired by all within the sound of it. The solo by William Holmes cannot be passed by without favorable comment. Mr. Holmes possesses a deep bass voice, and on this occasion it was under simply perfect control and a pleasure to listen to him."

For Benefit of New Convent.

Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Flatley, of Wack Fifth street, gave an euchre party at their home, Saturday night for the benefit of the new convent of St. Mary's church parish. There were forty guests. Miss Brennon received first honors. Miss Byron second, for the women, while Frank Mackloue and Martin Regan received first and second honors for the men.

HER NEW SUIT

"The only time I really wish I were a man," said the girl who likes to talk, "is when I have to order my new spring suit! All a man has to do is drop in at his tailor's, run through a few samples, say 'I'll take that,' and saunter out

"It's different with a girl. Way back in the winter she begins to worry about that suit. The color bothers. She decides on blue and everybody shrieks in horror. 'Blue! Why, you had a blue suit last year!

"Her brother begins to tell of the handsome suit he saw on a girl downtown made of black and white checks. He says she looked perfectly stunning, and you should have seen her eyes.

"Then her sister vetoes the check because one gets so tired of anything pronounced. A gray would be good.

"Then your best friend comes in with a sample of lavender homespun and you long for lavender, though you know down in the bottom of your heart that it isn't practical, and you'd have to buy a million lavender accessories to go with it, and anyhow, if you did get it your chum would be madder than a hatter.

"When you really go to the tailor's you are in a very low frame of mind and the world looks dark. The tailor is very glad, indeed, to see you, and as for samples—ah! when once you see his sample books you will lose yourself in wonder and amazement, because, really, there never were such samples as he has this spring! You begin to cheer up while he opens the books. There are several hundred samples and surely among all of them—

"But hold! Isn't there anything but gray and blue samples in the world? Have they forgotten how to make any other color? He assures you positively that nothing will be worn this spring but gray and blue. Instantly you decide that you wouldn't have a suit of either if it were given you, and at the same moment you know what you want. You want a light tan and you say so.

"Artfully the tailor shows you more gray and blue till you rise in wrath and shriek for tan. Then he admits that maybe you are benighted enough to desire tan, and reluctantly gets out some. For some mysterious reason a tailor always balks at whatever color you choose. He invariably wants you to have something else.

"After you've decided on an English worsted you remember that Alice had a worsted and it wore shiny. That cuts out worsted. The homespuns look heavy and the basket weaves look bulky. By this time you have a tearing headache and go home with your handbag full of samples and your heart full of bitterness.

"On the way you meet Genevieve, and when you tell her where you have been she says, 'My dear! Whatever you do, don't go to that tailor! Why, he simply ruined my sister-in-law's suit! And tan will get so soiled!'

"Your family likewise elevates its eyebrows in pity when you murmur that tan is your choice. Each member infers that of course if you have taken leave of your senses it is sad but can't be helped, and each will conceal your affliction from the world as long as possible. As for a basket weave—horrors! Don't you know it will sag and pull and look horrid before you've had it a week? Mercy on us!

"When you retire for the night you cry yourself to sleep and wish you could wear a potato sack and let it go at that. You don't care if you never have a suit.

"The next day when you wearily say maybe you'd better get gray, because it doesn't matter how you look anyhow if everybody else is satisfied, your mother asks reproachfully if you've spent all expensive on your panama hat she bought you on your earnest solicitation last year? Don't you intend to wear it again this season, and how, pray tell, can you wear it with a gray suit? Have you no consideration at all for your family?

"Well, you finally order a tan suit, feeling terribly reckless as you do so. There is some trouble over the fact that your idea of a longish cost conflicts with the current mode. The tailor nearly has apoplexy because he says every cost this spring is short and jaunty, and the fact that jauntiness does not appeal to you as an ideal state makes no impression on him.

"After a battle you win the length of coat you want, but you also win the tailor's sniffing disapproval. After several thousand fittings and fights over pockets or no pockets, lapped seams or plain seams, cloth buttons or horn buttons, long skirt or short skirt, your suit is finished and sent home, but you are too sick of the sight of it to open the box, and when you attire yourself in it you somehow do not have that gay and blithsome cheriness which should attend a brand-new outfit.

"Still, you look pretty well. A little bird is beginning to sing somewhere down in your heart as you start out, and you observe that the sky is actually blue—when around the corner you run into a girl who always has hated you.

"Oh,' she says. 'How well your season-before-last suit looks, all pressed and brushed up! You'd never know it wasn't—what? You don't mean to say it is new? Why, how stupid of me, but I never dreamed of such a thing!'

"That's what a girl goes through when she gets a new suit!"

The Soulless Corporation.

A burglar broke into the Clinton & Springfield station at Harrisonville. He found a rubber stamp and an ink pad, which he refused to take away, but he left a note to the agent. The note read: "W'at the 'ell's the country cummin' to when a big ralerode corporashun don't leve enough in its drawers to buy a poor man a meles wittles."—Kansas City Star.

Rabbits in Australia.

Some one has calculated that the rabbits in Australia must reach the number of 1,000,000,000,000. But of course there is no means of taking a census; the calculation is largely guesswork, its foundation being a rough numbering of the rabbits to be found in an acre of country and multiplying that by the number of rabbit infested acres.

Out of Man's Reach.

The old may have their years *stretched out beyond the foursc*ore, but they must die sooner or later; no such necessary limit affects the births, and it is conceivable that there may come a year when there are no births. *Immortality is the only effective an*swer to a cessation of reproduction, and, alas! the King of Terrors still reigns.

Immense Leather Belt.

The largest leather belt ever made was completed recently by a New York manufacturer for a Louisiana lumber company. It was 243 feet long, six feet wide and three-ply thick. The hides of 540 steers were utilized in the manufacture of the belt. As its delivery was a matter of urgency, the great roll of leather was shipped by express, and the bill for this service was $243.67.

Importance of Table Manners.

Emerson declared: "I could better eat with one who did not respect the truth or the law than with a slovenly and unpresentable person. Moral qualities rule the world, but at short distances, the senses are despotic." There is nothing more offensive to truly polite and cultured people than careless vulgar table manners.

Education Never Stops.

Get all the education you can but never remove yourself from the idea that after you know a lot you still *have more to learn. When you gradu*ate from college you are just beginning to understand many themes and subjects that are most important.

Use for Old Clocks.

When a small clock is beyond repair do not throw it away, but keep it for sick room use. Set the hands each time medicine is given to the hour when the next dose is to be given.

Childhood's Protest.

"There's one thing I don't understand," said little Harry, "and that's why good tasting things like mince pies make me ill, while bad tasting things like medicine make me well. It ought to be the other way about."

The End Not Feared.

Lucretia Maria Davidson, the poet, testified in the last bit of evidence she gave on earth, "Death, which once looked so dreadful to me, is now divested of all its terrors."

Anticipating.

"This is what others are wearing, madame." "But I don't want to wear what others are wearing. Show me the style after next."—Kansas City Journal.

Australian Plague Checked.

The rabbit in Australia is now kept in check. The animal is still a nuisance—a most expensive nuisance, but he no longer actually threatens the life of the pastoral industry.

Seattle Can Be Made Seaport.

Government engineers have reported that Seattle can be made a seaport by cutting a canal to Puget sound by way of the Salmon bay, at a cost of about $3,560,000.

Nothing Hard About It.

"People tell me that it's hard to promise anything," says the Philosopher of Folly. "And heaven knows it's the easiest thing I do."

Let Your Light Shine.

Nor knowest thou what argument thy life to thy neighbor's creed hath lent. Therefore, keep your good manners on all the time.

Backward English Village.

A new house has just been completed at Shefford, England, and it is said to be the first one built there in fifty years.

Capacity Not Tested.

A New York man who ate 60 buckwheat cakes and two pounds of sausage said he would have done better if he had been hungry.

Tribute to Patience.

Patience is the strongest of strong drinks, for it kills the giant Despair.—Douglas Jerrold.

Misused Gall.

"The gall a man has," says the Philosopher of Folly, "only embitters other people's lives."

Paradoxical.

The man who pays as he goes frequently receives urgent invitations to stay.

MRS. C. F. ABBOTT DEAD

Survives Her Husband, Former School Commissioner, But One Month.

AFTER A LINGERING ILLNESS.

Prominent in Crescent Ave. Church Work—Leaves Four Children—Funeral Services Held Tuesday.

Mrs. Charles F. Abbott, aged 63 years, died Saturday evening at the home of her daughter, Mrs. James R. Blake, 325 Franklin place, following a long illness. She survived her husband just four weeks, Mr. Abbott passing away a month ago at the Berkeley Hotel, Fifth avenue, New York, after a short illness. Mrs. Abbott had been making her home with her daughter here since March. Although she had been seriously ill a long time, her death was quite sudden.

Mrs. Abbott was born at Gray, N. Y., in 1847, and with her husband removed to this city twenty-nine years ago. Excepting for the intervals of time that she was away from Plainfield, this city was her home almost continuously during that time. She was a woman of rare Christian qualities and beloved by a large circle of friends. She was a member of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, and actively associated with all its many interests, being a regular attendant at services until ill health prevented.

Mrs. Abbott is survived by a daughter, Mrs. James R. Blake, of this city, and three sons, C. Westley Abbott, of Paterson; Gordon W. Abbott, who has been making his home with the family, and Robert Abbott, of Bridgeport, Conn.

The funeral services were held at 12.30 p. m. Tuesday afternoon from the home of Mrs. Blake on Franklin place, Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, officiating. The interment was in Hillside cemetery, where Mr. Abbott was buried a month ago.

BOY BICYCLIST STRUCK BY SLEVIN'S AUTO

Michael Martin, a nineteen-year-old Italian, is lying in the hospital today with a broken nose and a badly lacerated body as a result of being struck by an automobile driven by John Slevin, of Franklin place, on Somerset street, Saturday evening. Slevin is under $1,000 bail.

The accident took place at about 7 o'clock near Jackson avenue. Slevin was driving his machine down Somerset street at a moderate speed when Martin, who was going in the same direction tried to pedal in front of him and then pass in front of him into Jackson avenue.

Martin pedalled faster and got a good distance in front of Slevin but in turning into Jackson avenue his rear wheel caught in the car tracks and the other wheel slipped in the mud. By this time Slevin was upon him and the momentum of the automobile was so great that it could not be stopped immediately. A collision resulted in which the bicycle was almost demolished and Martin sustained several bad cuts and bruises by being shoved along the roadbed for a short distance.

The ambulance was summoned and Martin was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital, where it was found that no bones were broken. Slevin was arrested by Borough Chief Weiss and at the hearing before Borough Recorder Charles M. Dolliver was held in $1,000 for his appearance for trial Friday. Bonds were furnished by David Carney.

EPWORTH LEAGUE MEETINGS AND LEADERS FOR SUMMER.

The Epworth League of the First M. E. church will continue its Sunday evening meetings during the summer. The leaders and subjects will be as follows:

July 10, "The Christian's Resources," Mrs. C. M. Anderson; 17, "The Christian's Rewards Here," Miss Elsie Horn; 24, "The Christian's Rewards Hereafter," Mrs. David E. Dunavan; 31, "The Life Hereafter," Miss Ida Angleman; August 7, "God's Unfailing Love," Marion E. McGrath; 14, "The Signs of the Gospel Day," Samuel Bingaman; 21, "God's Reasonable Expectation," J. M. Lane; 28, "A Righteous Life and Acceptable Worship," leader to be announced.

J. R. Pike, of Rahway, who took part in the cycle races at that place yesterday afternoon, had a bad spill on one of his rounds, and received several bad cuts, lacerations and contused wounds about the head and body. He was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital, where he was treated in the clinic by Dr. N. H. Currie. He was able to leave the hospital afterward and returned home.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST

VOL. XLII PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, JULY 14, 1910. NO. 28.

"Support the Constitution, which is the Cement of the Union, as well in its Limitations as in its Authorities."—Madison.

ZONES CARRY CRAMPS

Therefore the Board of Health Will Not License Their Sale.

PTOMAINE POISON PREVENTED.

Action of Local Authorities Likely to Prove Beneficial—Street Vending of Ice Cream Stopped.

For selling ice cream cones form a wagon, James Costas, a Greek, of West Front street, was arraigned before Judge William N. Runyon, in police court, this morning and received a suspended sentence.

The apprehension of Costas is the result of a crusade started by John O'Brien, the local health officer. From now on no licenses will be granted by the health department permitting the sale of ice cream in cones from wagons on the street.

Last Monday reports from several parts of the State were received here, telling of the ptomaine poisoning of women and children who had indulged in the luxury of a cooling cone.

But these accidents hav not influenced the action to be taken by th local Board of Health. It is a matter of pride with all the officials of the city that the health department has so far taken every precaution known toprevent the propogation of disease and the bringing of Costas to the court room this morning was intended as a preventive measure respecting the sale of ice cream on the streets.

Residents of the city can materially aid the health department by re*fusing to buy the stuff.* It is impossible for any public vendor of the succulent cones to provide a fly-proof vehicle on the streets. It does not matter how many protective screens are thrown over and around one of the perambulating ice cream parlors, the ubiquitous fly is always on the job.

It is no exaggeration to say that ninety per cent. of all the ills of summer are due to the infection carried by the house fly and it behooves those who love their children to see that they do not patronize a street vendor of cones.

Anyway, the Board of Health will not issue any licenses for the sale of the cones in the streets of Plainfield and it appears to be a fact that the local board is the first to take such action in the State.

NEW TRUST CO. HAS ONE YEAR TO BEGIN BUSINESS.

The conversion of the Borough National Bank of North Plainfield into a trust company to be located in this city as authorized by State Banking and Insurance Commissioner Vivian M. Lewis, makes the eighty-third financial institution of this character to be chartered by the State of New Jersey. The backers of the new institution, which is to be known as the State Trust Company of Plainfield, will have one year within which to take advantage of the approval given by Commissioner Lewis, but the latter is advised that the promoters will at once proceed to dissolve the Borough National Bank which they now own, as told in this paper, and reorganize with increased capital and assets as a trust company.

Commissioner Lewis said yesterday that his agents had made a thorough investigation into the affairs of the Borough National Bank and found them in such condition as to warrant the charter which he has granted. As told in this paper exclusively the new trust company will begin business with a capital of $100,000, while the Borough National Bank had only $50,000 capital.

Mission Workers at Dunellen.

The Plainfield Rescue Mission will have charge of the prayer-meeting at the Dunellen Methodist church, tonight. Superintendent John Le Matt will conduct the service, assisted by the converts and other workers. There will be special music, including solos and trios. All interested are invited.

Letter-Carriers on Vacation.

Letter-Carriers Oliver R. Pierson, Charles B. Stephens, Philip Geise, George R. Apgar and Daniel Van-Winkle are now enjoying their vacations. Including Sundays the men will get nineteen days. Upon their return five more carriers will go away.

Sailed for Europe.

Hugh Gormley, the renowned horseman, of Kensington avenue, sailed this morning for Ireland with several commissions for the purchase of Irish jumpers and hunters. Mr. Gormley will be gone several weeks.

THEY LIKE PLAYGROUNDS

Nearly Eleven Hundred Children Enjoy Privileges During First Week.

REPORTS OF SUPERVISORS.

Average Daily Attendance 216 With Absolute Absence of Roughness—Drinking Fountains Installed.

A total attendance of 1,079 children for the first week, or an average attendance of 216 children each day, were the figures, which were submitted by playground supervisors, the Misses Moe and Childs, in their support of the opening week to the playground commission at a meeting of the body with the Mayor's office yesterday afternoon. No accidents were reported, neither was there a case calling for discipline. These results bespeak highly efficient supervision and were in every way satisfactory to the commission.

The playgrounds were opened last Tuesday and from the very start were a tremendous success. The first day's attendance was highly satisfactory to the supervisors, but as the week progressed the number present increased. Miss Harriett Moe was placed in charge of the Bryant school grounds while the Franklin yard was under the supervision of Miss Mary Childs. These two put forward their best efforts to amuse the children and to organize a spirit of comradeship. So successful have been their efforts that the number of children present daily grew larger. Yesterday's report was the first they have submitted, and it was highly gratifying to the members of the commission.

Since the opening, slight improvements, have been made at both grounds. At the Bryant school yard, a large canvas shelter is being erected; here also the children's slide has been covered by a shelter, so that the children are well protected from the sun's rays. Out-door drinking fountains have been installed at both places, and in every way, the grounds are now suitable places in which the city's children may secure relief from the heat.

CHARITY ORANIZATION SOCIETY HANDLED MANY CASES IN JUNE.

Those in charge of the work of the Charity Organization Society appreciate the prompt response to the request for an electric fan, which was made through The Daily Press, and it has been doing good work. The month of June was a particularly heavy one for the society. The total number of cases in charge was 133, with 63 calls by applicants and 127 calls by consultatives. The agents, Miss Margaret C. Holly and Miss Mabelle C. Phillips made 337 visits.

Through the society seven persons were admitted to institutions, seven were referred to the clinic at the hospital, nine cases were investigated for the hospital, nineteen cases of tuberculosis were reported, four children were placed in homes and four cases were brought before the city court.

Regular stock Chalmers (stripped) that made Johnston's Drive Hill Climb in 1 m. 22 2-5 secs.

has been considerable discussion as to whether or not the Chalmers car entered by Thompson Automobile Co., which made such a wonderful showing was a regular stock or a special built car. When interviewed today Mr. Thompson said positively that the car they entered was a regular 2-year-old 1909 model just the same as you would buy for $2,750. The only difference being that it was stripped.

In the piston displacement races, this car burst a front tire on the first turn, making nearly the entire run on a flat tire, yet it beat the time made by all the other cars except the 200 H. P. Flat driven by De Palma.

C. M. Greder's Funeral.

The funeral services over the remains of the late Charles M. Greder, the sixteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Greder, of 27 Jefferson avenue, were held yesterday afternoon at 2:30 from the residence of his parents, Rev. Charles M. Anderson, of the First M. E. church, officiating. A host of friends of the deceased were present at the services. Interment was in the North Plainfield cemetery.

Will Give a Missionary Talk.

Rev. Dr. C. H. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church, will exchange with Rev. E. R. Brown, of the Presbyterian church, Dunellen, tonight, when the latter will give a missionary talk at the local church.

AUTO SIRENS TOO NOISY

Move by Police Board to Eliminate a Screaming Nuisance.

HEALTH BOARD TO CO-OPERATE

Garbage Handlers Must Also Be Careful—Steps to Insure Peace Quiet and Health Takes.

At a meeting of the Police Board of the Common Council held last night it was decided that the noise producing sirens and horns of automobiles are a menace to the health of the community and in order to protect the people from the nuisance steps are to be taken immediately to stop it.

Patrolmen from police headquarters have been instructed to caution automobile drivers of the attitude of the committee and the police, and, if after a warning is ignored they are to arrest the offenders and a suitable penalty will be imposed. Sirens alone are not the causes of all the complaints which have come to the ears of Mayor Fisk. It is notorious that mufflers have been left uncovered apparently without thought of their noise and these, too, are included in the general crusade against noise producers.

The specific charge to be brought against violators of the quiet of the city is in section 2 of the ordinance which relates to the "peace and good morals of the city." Co-operation will be had with the Board of Health which has also begun a fight against certain other violations of ordinances.

Something which handlers of garbage will have to think of while engaged in their regular occupation will be to remember that garbage and ashes must not be mixed. An active campaign has been begun against this class of offenders and in future they will be haled to court and fined. According to John O'Brien, the local health officer, people have been throwing fly-attracting garbage in with their ashes in barrels and other receptacles. As the flies are spreaders of disease and in order to control as much as possible the propagation of disease germs and prevent it the citizens of the city are asked to see to it that their employees do not violate the ordinance which makes the offense a misdemeanor.

OFFICERS ARE INSTALLED BY PHILATHEA CLASS

At the regular monthly business meting of the Philathea Class of the Temple Baptist church, last night, the officers of the class for the coming year were installed by Rev. J. W. Musson, who made a fitting address. These are the officers:

President, Mrs. Edward Baker, Sr.; vice president, Mrs. William Lake; secretary, Mrs. Charles Gullborg; assistant secretary, Mrs. Oliver Waldron; treasurer, Mrs. Harry Bouten; financial secretary, Mrs. C. P. Brewin; press reporter, Mrs. Henry Jaeger; teacher, U. B. Crane; assistant teacher, Mrs. Metler.

The members of the Baraca Class met at the same place and elected these officers for the year:

President, Richard Elliott; vice president, Edward Baker, Sr.; secretary, Joseph Baker; assistant secretary, John Nitchwitz; treasurer, Henry Jaeger; financial secretary, Ira L. La Rue; teacher, Rev. J. W. Musson; assistant teacher, Frank Stewart; organist, David Peterson; press reporter, Peter Lund; librar, Ian. Gilbert H. Van Nest. After the business meeting the members of the Baraca and Philathea classes held a social hour.

Gave a Birthday Surprise.

Roy Guest, of New street, was tendered a surprise party at his home, Monday night, in honor of the eighteenth anniversary of his birthday. The affair was arranged by his mother, Mrs. Edward Guest and W. S. Terry. There were about twenty-five guests and the evening was spent playing games and dancing, after which refreshments were served.

Master Builders to Meet.

The Master Builders' Association is scheduled to hold a regular meeting tomorrow night, to consider routine business. Trade conditions are quiet now and nothing of special importance is likely to be presented at this time.

—I will be good if you take me tomorrow. First Baptist and Temple Baptist S. S. excursion. ***

REGULATION CONCERNS ALL REGISTERED LETTERS

A general order issued yesterday by Postmaster General Hitchcock and received today by Postmaster Elias H. Bird, this morning, makes it imperative in the future for anyone sending a registered letter and wishing a return receipt for the same to write on the envelope these words "Return Receipt Required."

Postmaster Bird desires that everybody who sends registered letters through the local postoffice should pay strict attention to this order of the Washington authorities. The clerk receiving registered mail in the Plainfield postoffice will not be required to see that a return receipt card is sent with the letter unless the special request is written on the envelope.

CRUELTY CHARGE PROVED; NO PENALTY INFLICTED

The case against John Kitchen, pound keeper and dog catcher in which Judge William N. Runyon, deferred decision until this morning, resulted in a technical conviction of Kitchen, but no penalty was imposed.

In the city court this morning after Judge Runyon rendered his decision in the Kitchen case a general discussion took place in regard to the humane killing of the animals sentenced to death. Mr. Rushmore, who has volunteered to provide a "producer's gas" tank for the purpose, explained its working and it seemed to be the opinion that this method will effectually prevent cruelty in the destruction of animals which have no excuse for existence.

The matter of caring for the dogs which are caught by Kitchen is solved by the proposition made by Mrs. S. G. Van Hoesen, the special agent of the S. P. C. A. Mrs. Van Hoesen has declared her willingness to take the animals off Kitchen's hands and after they have been duly executed by gas at the Rushmore tank the Glaser Co. to remove and bury the carcasses.

There was no opposition to the method proposed and Mrs. Van Hoesen will apply to Mayor Fisk for a letter of instruction to the poundkeeper so that the animals may be turned over to her without question as to their disposition.

'MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING' ON RICHMOND STREET

A fire which did not necessitate the calling out of the department occurred on Sunday afternoon between 5 and 6 o'clock, at 302 Richmond street in which F. Saverio Travigno was the principal loser. Some one above the apartments occupied by Mr. Travigno, threw or dropped a cigar butt or a lighted match upon the newly painted awning in which Mr. Travigno takes a great deal of pride.

Friends were visiting the barber at the time and he did not notice the little curls of smoke which ascended from time to time, becoming more pungent every moment, but somebody cried "fire" and in a moment the whole population was out in the street besides the denizens of the surrounding tenements.

"Pull de vire!" shouted one; "Don't do it," screamed another, but what was the use of calling out the fire department? Tony Machalino and his girl, Maria, knew just what to do.

Maria whispered to Tony, that some "black hand" man had attempted to wreck the home of the most popular barber on Richmond street, and she, for one, did not propose to stand by and see the whole block consumed without raising her hand in its defense.

The argument went along for a few moments, but in the meantime the brand new awning and paint were being consumed by the flames. "Tony," yelled aMria, "hurry up and get the water hose, it's just coming down the street."

Tony likes Maria and, as a matter of fact, he thinks a whole lot of her and perhaps, some day, he will put the question to her which will settle forever the question which will either make him the happiest or most miserable of men.

The fire did $10 damage.

Rev. Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Herring, of The Bristol, will go to Lebanon, Hunterdon county, the last of the week, for a short sojourn, after which they will spend some time at Ocean Grove.

SEARCHING FOR W. T. DAY

Missing Station Agent's Clothes Found at Coney Island Bath House.

BELIEVE HE'S NO SUICIDE.

An Uncle, Who Received Letter from Absent Man Thinks Latter is Trying to Scare His Wife.

Wilson T. Day, the former ticket agent at Oak Tree and Potter's Crossing on the Lehigh Valley Railroad, who disappeared from his home Monday morning, as told exclusively in the Daily Press, is still missing. A man answering to his description went to Balmer's bathing pavilion, West 37th street, Coney Island, Monday afternoon.

Day has not been seen since and his apparel, having cards in a pocket bearing the name of "Wilson T. Day," was taken to the Coney Island station. Shortly after 8 o'clock last night, Robert W. Day, an uncle of the missing man, went to the Coney Island station and reported that he had received a letter from his nephew, saying that he intended to kill himself. The letter was postmarked Monday July 11, 5 p. m. The uncle said he believed that his nephew was simply trying to scare his wife.

The letter received by the uncle was similar to the one sent to Mrs. Day. In that letter he said that his body would be found at Coney Island as he intended to drown himself.

The railroad officials have received no further information regarding Day, and the efforts to find the missing man are being made by his relatives and friends. Day left home to visit a dentist, his wife believing that he would return within a short time. No trace of the man can be found in this vicinity. The police think it is incredible that Day would be going about without any clothes, but if he has not made away with himself, they are at a loss to understand what has become of the man.

Day and his wife had rooms over the station at Oak Tree And neighbors say that the pair lived happily together and so far as they know there is no apparent reason why he should have disappeared from home. He would divide his time between Oak Tree and Potter's Crossing, having charge of both stations, and in this way he made a substantial living. The police of the State as well as New York have been asked to keep a lookout for Day.

WATCHUNG AVE. EXTENSION A BIG IMPROVEMENT

The extension of Watchung avenue, in the borough, from Codington avenue to Johnstonn's Drive, has been completed and all that remains to be done to finish the contract is the macadamizing of that thoroughfare. This improvement is considered one of the best made in this section in many years. There is now a movement on foot to extend this road across the Drive and David Stead's farm, which would make a most desirable connection with one of the main roads in the township, and a short cut to some of the towns over the mountains.

According to the present arrangement one can drive through Watchung avenue over Johnston's Drive to Somerset street, a main thoroughfare. It serves as a connecting link between Union, Somerset and Morris counties. As practically all of this improvement is in the borough, the municipality is bearing all of the expense. The road was extended chiefly upon the request of residents of the North Plainfield Township Improvement Association, although residents of the borough favored the improvement, as it affords an outlet without going a roundabout way to Somerset street, the only main thoroughfare across the mountains.

Reduced Bail to $1,500.

William G. De Meza, as counsel for William Jackson, colored, of this city, charged with an atrocious assault on former Patrolman Anderson, appeared before Judge Atwater in the Union County Court, this morning, on the application of a rule to show cause why the $3,000 bail fixed for his client should not be reduced. Judge Atwater said that he thought the bail was excessive after the argument by counsel, and reduced it to $1,500.

—Tomorrow. Tomorrow. How glad. Say, it's all right. Train leaves 8 o'clock. First Baptist and Temple Baptist excursion. ***

MOUNTAIN CAMP OPENED

Informal Reception to Visitors Arranged by King's Daughters.

SEVERAL IMPROVEMENTS MADE.

Change of Buildings Gives Better View—New Porch for Outdoor Sleeping—Screens Needed.

Under bright skies and among two hundred visitors, young and old, the Baby Camp on the mountain, conducted by the circles of the King's Daughters, was formally opened yesterday afternoon. There were no special ceremonies attending the event, but what the children did at the ice cream furnished by the Cup Bearers' Circle, under whose auspices the camp was opened, astonished even the old timers. Thirty-four children, including nine babies, represent the first instalment to be cared for.

Many changes for the better have been made in the buildings of the camp including a porch facing the roadway. The kitchen has been separated from the main building and stands alone on the north side. Here ten loaves of bread are baked every day, but this quantity is insufficient for the mouths to be fed and three large loaves are bought from the baker. It requires ten quarts of milk to supply the daily needs of the children.

Some of the babies and their mothers appeared yesterday to be sadly in need of the recreation afforded by the camp life. There are both white and colored babies there, but, as each has a soul, there is no prejudice shown. One of the youngest of the flock seen yesterday was in a precarious condition, but after a day or two it is believed the child will be on the road to a safe recovery.

All the Circles of the King's Daughters were represented yesterday and the visitors included many who are not members of the Circles. Nearly every church in the city sent a contingent and words of commendation were heard on all sides. The work is a noble one and worthy of support.

Mrs. Bird, the matron in charge, feels encouraged over the outlook for this season owing to the generous contributions being sent in, but more money will be needed as the work goes on. The various circles will take turns in entertaining the children on Saturday afternoons and the religious services will be held each Sunday at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Special programs of music will be features of the Sunday afternoon services, and visitors will be cordially welcomed.

One thing that would add greatly to the comfort of the babies would be a screen to cover the entire front porch of the main building. If this porch could be enclosed with wire netting the babies could sleep out in the air comfortably. Just now mosquitoes are in the majority.

THIEVES AT OTTO KAHN'S.

Caretaker Fights them in Carriage House While Family is Away.

Thieves entered the carriage house at Cedar Court, Otto H. Kahn's country home near Morristown just after midnight yesterday morning and had several sets of harness packed up ready to take away when they were driven off by the care taker, John Tuer.

Armed with a club, he came upon a man tying up a bundle of harness and he whacked him over the head. The thief went down shouting. "Shoot him!" Tuer looked behind him and saw another one at a window. He rushed over there and swung his club, when this man slashed him on the hand with a knife. The two men dashed away then and were soon lost in the shrubbery.

Mr. and Mrs. Kahn and family are at Bar Harbor for the summer.

Receives Suspended Sentence.

On a charge of being drunk and disorderly, James Monfort, of 232 West Second street, received a suspended sentence in the borough court, this morning at the hands of Recorder Dolliver. He was arrested about 11 o'clock, last night on Harmony street by Marshal Kiernan, and was heavily under the influence of liquor. He was also acting in a boisterous manner.

"Now and Then" Entertains.

The young men members of the "Now and Then" Euchre Club gave the young women members a reception and dance at Debele's auditorium last evening. Refreshments were served. Music was furnished by Professor Squier.

ENDORSE JUDGE RUNYON

Plainfielder's Candidacy Given O.K. by Elizabeth's Downtown G.O.P. Club.

SOME PROMINENT SPEAKERS.

Arrangements Made for Big Meeting to be Addressed by Runyon—A Dollar Dinner Planned.

Enthusiastic endorsement was given the candidacy of Judge William N Runyon, of this city, for the Republican congressional nomination in the Fifth district by the Downtown Republican club, the most influential party organization in Elizabeth, last night. Ringing speeches eulogizing the popular Plainfielder were made by prominent Elizabethans and the pledge was given that the members would bend every energy to give him a rousing majority at the party primaries at the county seat.

Among the speakers were President William Woodruff, of the Twelfth Ward Republican Club, Mr. Fowler's district; President Jas. MacMasters, of the Union County League of Republican Clubs; President J. Vaneriski, of the Elizabeth Hungarian Republican Club, and others.

Arrangements were made to hold a big meeting of the club early in August and an invitation has been extended to Judge Runyon to address the members on that occasion. A committee was also appointed to act in co-operation with a similar committee representing the Union County Republican Committe for a dollar dinner to be held at Elizabeth early in September. At that feast, New Jersey's most prominent Republican leaders will be the speakers. John Stamler declined a re-election as president. Charles Wagner, a lawyer, was chosen in his place.

The Rahway Republican Club has also endorsed Judge Runyon's candidacy.

WILLIAM J. STAATS DIES AFTER A LONG ILLNESS.

William James Staats, aged 22 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Staats, of 1016 East Front street, died at the home of his parents this morning following a long illness. For fifteen years he was a patient at the State institution for children at Vineland, and he seemed to improve under the treatment. Recently, the family removed to the present address and it was decided to bring the young man home.

Mr. Staats was born in this city. While at Vineland he always arranged to spend the summers at home. He attended the Temple Baptist church while here. He is survived by his parents and one brother, George Staats. The funeral will be held from the home of the parents Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Rev. J. W. Musson, of the Temple Baptist church, will officiate, and the burial will be in the North Plainfield cemetery.

ASTHMA PROVES FATAL TO MRS MARY SECOR.

Mrs. Mary Secor, aged 70 years, wife of Micajah P. Secor, died last night at her home, 856 Clinton avenue, following a sudden attack of asthma. She had been ailing for some time, but her condition was not serious until yesterday morning when she suffered the attack of asthma.

Mr. and Mrs. Secor formerly lived with their daughter, Mrs. Warren Stuart, on Manson place, but last fall they removed to Clinton avenue. Mrs. Secor was a member of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church and a regular attendant at the services. She is survived by a husband and one daughter, Mrs. Warren Stewart. The funeral will be held from the late home, Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Col. Mulligan Out Again.

Col. James Mulligan, of the Custom House, New York, who recently fractured his shoulder blade as the result of a fall at the Custom House is able to be out again. It will be some time before he will be able to return to work. He and Mrs. Mulligan are spending the summer at the home of Mrs. Ida Slater on Jackson avenue.

Funeral of William Moffett.

Private funeral services for William Moffett were held from the late home, on Elmwood place, yesterday afternoon. Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, of the First Baptist church, officiated. The burial was in Hillside Cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas West, of Norwood avenue, left today for a week's stay at Bay Shore, L. I.

THE CANDY GHOST

Young Mrs. Morway stood on the bottom stair surveying the library table at her left. On it still reposed the five-pound box which she and her husband had left there the night before filled to the brim with the finest chocolates. She had eaten only two and Harold had eaten none. Now the box was absolutely empty.

They stared at each other unbelievingly. Then Mrs. Morway tossed her head and went in to breakfast. If Harold really thought it was funny, let him keep it up. She would find the candy when she straightened up the house. As for Morway, he felt that he was being trifled with.

The constraint lasted several days, during which neither mentioned the mysterious disappearance of five pounds of perfectly good candy. Janet had turned the house upside down without finding the hidden sweets. Then she brought home a bag of molasses chips and the next morning when she came downstairs, Harold with her, they both gasped. The molasses chips bag was empty. Thereupon they made common cause of the trouble.

"There isn't another living soul in the house but you and me!" Janet quavered, almost tearfully. "Even the maid is away on a visit. There isn't a thing disturbed or taken but the candy, and every door and window is locked, as it should be. There's no use talking, Harold; we've got a ghost!"

"Nonsense!" Morway hastened to say, though he said it nervously. "Still, the candy's gone. It's decidedly puzzling."

"It's ghastly!" announced his wife, setting down the coffee pot with a little shivery bang. "Harold, did you ever walk in your sleep?"

"Never!" declared her husband.

"Well, if a ghost didn't take the candy you must have done it," Mrs. Morway insisted. "You've probably dug a hole in the coal pile down cellar and concealed it. Please, won't you shovel off some of the coal and see it?"

"I will not!" said her husband, firmly. "I'd rather endure a ghost. Besides, I tell you—I never do anything else when I sleep except sleep! Maybe you did it yourself."

"Why, Harold!" his wife cried, indignantly. "You know, I'm so afraid of that stuff. But what could have taken it? I'm afraid to stay here alone to-day."

The Morways' candy ghost sprung into immense popularity among their friends, who insisted on a ghost party, but the Morways refused. They said if it was a ghost they didn't want to see it, because somebody would have hysterics. They were sure it was a ghost, because after leaving candy on the library table they tied strings to their wrists and the other ends to the brass rods of the bed to disprove the sleep-walking theory. But the candy disappeared. However, as Tommy Taylor pointed out, there was nothing to prevent a clever sleep-walker from untying a knot in a string and later tying it again.

Two or three weeks later still another box nearly full of candy was emptied during the night. The Morways could not resist leaving the bait exposed. They had endured so many thrills that they had developed an appetite for them. The question of the ghost had turned into a thing of serious consequence. Not a scrap of the missing candy was to be found in the house. Even the coal pile had been explored by a boy.

"There's no use beating about the bush," Tommy Taylor said at one of the Morways' Sunday evening teas which had grown terribly popular because everybody talked solely about the ghost. There was a sea serpent in the house! No mouse could get away with five pounds of chocolates at one fell swoop."

"Besides, there aren't any mice," said Mrs. Morway, with finality. There were shadows under her eyes. "I shall go crazy if we don't find out who—what does it!"

The state of nervousness in which the Morways were tangled made the session of family life too great. In spite of everything each suspected the other. Finally, Mrs. Morway went away on a visit and the night before she left a candy box remaining below stairs was emptied as were the others.

"I'm afraid to leave you alone in this house!" she quavered, as she and Morway started for the train. "Harold—did you forget and leave that plate of chocolate fudge I made for you out on the table? I told you to put it inside the sideboard!"

"I forgot it," confessed Morway nervously. "Oh, it'll be all right!"

The first letter Mrs. Morway got from her husband stated without preamble that when Morway, after putting her on the train and spending the rest of the evening at his cousin's, had returned home at midnight he found the fudge plate empty. "This," he wrote, "proves that neither you nor I have been doing it. I am going to bait several mousetraps and if they don't nail the ghost I shall purchase a bear-trap, establish a salt-lick and spread a net for the sea serpent."

Left alone, Morway devoted himself to catching the ghost. And three days later he wired his anxious wife: "Am having the ghost stuffed and mounted and shipped to you by express. It was a rat!"

OPEN FRIDAY EVENING, CLOSE SATURDAY AT NOON DURING JULY AND AUGUST

IMPORTERS HAHNE & CO. RETAILERS

NEWARK'S STORE BEAUTIFUL
BROAD, NEW AND HALSEY STREETS

The Most Industrious Store In Newark---The City of Industry

Beds, Divans, Cots, Mattresses
In This Great July Furniture Sale.

MAIR MATTRESSES.

The very best mattress obtainable for the money. Covered with best grade A. C. A. and fancy striped ticking; hair filling is of the very best quality in each grade. Prices for this sale are materially reduced.

Sizes 4-6, 45 lbs.	4-0	3-6	3-0	Crib
Reg. price	$11.90	$8.05	$7.40	$4.25
Sale price	$9.50	$6.25	$6.50	$3.75
Reg. price	$14.25	$12.50	$11.00	$5.00
Sale price	$12.75	$11.00	$9.75	$4.25
Reg. price	$17.25	$15.25	$13.25	$6.00
Sale price	$15.25	$13.50	$11.95	$5.25
Reg. price	$22.75	$20.00	$18.00	$15.25
Sale price	$20.25	$17.75	$16.00	$13.50
Reg. price	$25.50	$22.50	$20.00	$17.25
Sale price	$22.50	$20.00	$17.75	$15.50
Reg. price	$27.75	$24.00	$21.25	$18.00
Sale price	$24.75	$21.50	$19.00	$16.00
Reg. price	$32.00	$28.15	$24.50	$21.50
Sale price	$28.00	$25.25	$22.00	$19.25

FOR METAL BEDS.

Of our own construction, made to order at short notice; framework metal, neatly japanned, wirework and cables of best grade; spiral springs are the best quality that can be produced; grade of ticking used is the standard A. C. A. blue and white stripes; fancy-tickings can be had if desired; everything that goes into the construction is A-1 in every particular; we sell a large number and they always give fullest satisfaction; price..... $20

$9.50 BOX SPRINGS $8.

These Springs are of the best spiral construction; twines, tufts, etc., covered with best quality ticking; thoroughly well made in every detail; here in all sizes; regular $9.50 Springs..... $8

MATTRESSES.

Every Mattress we sell is thoroughly dependable and always worth what we ask, no matter what the price. Sale prices are unusually low.

Our Plain Excelsior—Made of good quality ticking, all sizes, 3-0, 3-6, 4-0, 4-6, at..... $1.90

Soft Top Excelsior Mattress—Good grade of plain and fancy ticking, nicely tufted and bound, any size, 3-0, 3-6, 4-0, 4-6, at..... $2.50

Combination Mattress—Filled with excelsior, cotton top, bottom and sides; nice plain and fancy ticking, well tufted and nicely made, all sizes, 3-0, 3-6, 4-0, 4-6, at..... $4.25

Palm Fiber Mattress—Has cotton top and bottom, covered in good quality of ticking in choice colors; a good, sanitary article; we sell many of them; choice of sizes, 4-6, 4-0, 3-6, 3-0, at..... $5

White Cotton Mattress—Thoroughly well made of choice colors of ticking, nicely bound and tufted; can have it in any size, 3-0, 3-6, 4-0, 4-6, at..... $6.50

Felt Mattress—Made of carded cotton felt; good choice grade ticking, it cannot be made by any one better than we turn out; 4-0 and 4-6 size, $14; 3-0 and 3-6 size at..... $12

$30 MATTRESS $22.50.

Filled with black hair of soft quality, made in full size in one part, weight 40 pounds, imperial stitched edges, covered with best grade of ticking, in handsome art colors, neatly tufted and bound and no better workmanship can be put on a mattress; regular price $30; this week..... $22.50

SILK FLOSS MATTRESSES.

These Mattresses have many good qualities. The material is vegetable floss, in which no vermin can live. They are perfectly sanitary and can be remade same as hair. Soft and extremely light in weight; in fact, the lightest mattress we know of. Made one inch thicker than usual mattress. May be had in one or two parts.

4 ft. 6 size, regularly $15.00, special at..... $11.00
4 ft. size, regularly $14.25, special at..... $10.50
3 ft 6 size, regularly $13.50, special at..... $9.50
3 ft. size, regularly $12.75, special at..... $9.50
2 ft 6 size, regularly $12.00, special at..... $8.50
Crib size, regularly $7.50, special at..... $5.00
All other qualities reduced this month.

ENAMELED BEDS.

White Enameled Iron Cot Beds; 1 1-6 in, continuous tube, with filling rods in head and foot; castings nice and smooth; all parts neatly white enameled; equipped with good quality, closely woven wire fabric spring; 3-ft. size; suitable for children's or spare $4.50 rooms; regular $6; special, complete with spring.....

SNUG HOLD SPRINGS.

These are the atest improved bed springs. They have a standard woven wire fabric, vermin proof; some have helical and some bands; full of springy restfulness. Along the sides are separate upright bands of woven wire firmly supported. Framework is made of angle iron and 1¼ inch tubing, neatly bronzed. The edge guard holds your mattress in place and also keeps it from spreading and flattening, and is sure to keep your mattress in shape for a longer time than otherwise.

The prices are regular	$2.50	$4.25	$5.25	$7.50
July sale price	$2.00	$3.50	$4.50	6.50

Other styles of springs woven wire tops, steel frames, neatly bronzed.

Regular prices	$2.00	$2.50	$3.00	$3.00
July Sale prices	$1.75	$2.25	$2.65	$7.00

GOOD PILLOWS.

Filling the best of its respective kind—ticking the best quality A. C. A. blue and white stripe and fancy art ticks. Sizes 18x25, 20x28, 22x28 and 24x30.

Regular prices, each	70c	$1.20	$1.50	$1.90
July Sale Price	55c	$1.00	$1.30	$1.60
Regular prices, each	$2.25	$2.50	$3.25	$4.00
July Sale Price	$2.00	$2.25	$2.75	$3.50

FLUFFY FEATHERS.

Regular Price	60c	$1.10	$1.35
Special Prices	45c	90c	$1.10

HANDY COT BEDS.

Frames of angle iron and tubular castings; head and foot boards fold; double woven wire springs, supported by steel bands; helical springs; wire cables running along the edges; all parts neatly bronzed; fine for boarding-house keepers or cottage use and for servants' or children's room; equipped with mattress filled with soft cotton, covered with a good quality of ticking, pillow edge; a first-class outfit of which we sell hundreds at the regular price—$3.50 for the cot$ and $1.75 for the mattress; we offer the combination one week only.. 4

DAINTY CRIBS.

Height 3 ft. 10 in.; continuous tube posts, 1 1-16 in diameter; extreme high sides, with rods closely spaced; make accidents impossible. Sliding sides, safety catches; best quality tinned National fabric with springy helical ends; hard-baked white enamel finish, smooth and glossy. A safe, snug, sanitary nest for baby at a positive bargain price. Regular price $7.50; July sale price..... $5.50

FOLDING COTS.

Over 60,000 of these cots have been purchased by the United States Government for Army use.

Campers, fishermen, hunters or sportsmen of any kind find them the best cots obtainable. Just the thing for hotels when crowded during conventions and the like.

These cots are marvels of strength, compactness and durability. They will support 1,000 pounds.

When open for use cots are 6 ft. 2 in. long, and 2 ft. 4 in. wide; fold up in a package 4 by 5 inches, and 3 ft. long, weighing 16 pounds. The frame work is of clear, straight grain Wisconsin Rock Elm. The plates or castings are sixteen guage, cold rolled Bessemer steel. The cover is of first quality 12-ounce double filled brown duck; the price is..... $2.75

WIRE COTS.

Handy folding Cots, light and strong; they are made of maple frames, bolted together, not nailed; have a substantial woven wire fabric, supported by coil cable underneath; and steel bands along the edges; sanitary in construction. Spring is well tinned to prevent rust. They are handy for spare room use or an emergency of any kind; fine for camping out.

Regular prices, $1.25, $1.85; July sale..... $1 & $1.50

COMFORTABLE DIVANS.

You can use these Divans almost anywhere. Appropriate for sittingroom and spareroom as a couch. Come in handy for the unexpected guest at night. A mattress with couch cover thrown over converts them into a good bed. Divans, hardwood frame, bolted legs, double woven wire fabric spring, has steel support and four cables underneath.

2.6 size, regular price $2.50; July sale..... $2.25
3.0 size, regular price $3.25; July sale..... $2.75

Every year we make a feature of beds and bedding in our Big Annual Furniture Sale, and this year will prove no exception to the rule. Extraordinary preparations have been made to fulfill every demand that may be made upon us, and the demand is always large. People fitting up their homes for the entertainment of Summer visitors or those having seashore or mountain cottages to furnish, especially those conducting boardinghouses, will find this an opportunity to secure needed bedroom equipment at prices far below usual.

Practically every piece of furniture in the store is now being offered at a reduced price.

Any piece of furniture can be bought on our Easy Payment Club Plan.

SHEETS AND PILLOW CASES.

The most complete assortment of the good kinds, special for two days; 200 dozen hemmed pillow cases, size 45x36, special price at, each..... 15
100 dozen extra long hemmed bed sheets, size 81x108, at..... $1.50

IRON DIVANS.

With pipe frame and strongly constructed legs, with casters; superfine woven wire fabric mattress; supported by four extra heavy cables running through the centre; heavy wire cable support on each side; big selling divan.

2.6 size, regular price $4.25; July sale price, $3.75
3.0 size, regular price $4.75; July sale price, $4.25.

EDGE GUARD DIVAN.

Frame is constructed of strong steel tubing 1¾ inch stock, neatly gold bronzed; has a best quality of woven wire fabric spring; heavy, strong and vermin proof; the edge guards on the side are separate from the main spring, held in place by corner uprights; they do not interfere with sitting or lieing on the divan; the edge guards serve to keep the mattress in fixed position, no slipping about, also it is sure to keep the mattress in shape; it is something new and already a great seller with us.

2.6 size, regular price $4.75; July sale price, $4.00.
3.0 size, regular price $5.25; July sale price, $4.50.

COAL DEALERS.

Rich'd Parrott, Jr.
Dealer in First Quality
LEHICH COAL and WOOD
686 South Second St.
Telephone Number 1569

JOS. HARRIGAN
OLD COMPANY'S LEHIGH COAL
929 South Avenue
Telephone 198.

TenEyck & Harris,
Dealers in
LEHIGH VALLEY COAL
Office: Hewig's Drug Store, 218 West Front Street. Telephone 148-w.

Coal I have on hand some Coal Nut and Stove Coal. Medium Coal. All sizes. Kindershash, Pea Coal.
It costs a ton reduction on cash orders.
L. A. RHEAUME
143 East [illegible] St. Telephone 30-W
Yard, 474 [illegible] and 91. Telephone 121

GORGE O. STILES
747 West Front St.

R. L. CLINE
(Successor to C. H. Mapes & Co.)
Best Quality Lehigh Coal
Yard and office 429 West Third St. Tel. 69

TenEyck & Kelley
Successors to Keeler Co.
COAL
741 SOUTH AVE. Tel. 1155

J. HIMMELFARB,
Ladies' Tailor and Fashionable Dressmaker
Suits to order at very Low Prices for this month. Fit Guaranteed.
My Workmanship Speaks For Itself
309-311 NEW ST.
TELEPHONE 903-J.
Near Trusel's Court

Advertisements
—FOR—
New York Herald,
World, Times, Sun, Journal,
Telegram, American,
Brooklyn Eagle
—and—
Newark Evening News
Received at
The Daily Press
AT REGULAR OFFICE RATES

John Lo Presti's
405 Watchung Avenue,
Come and try our Home-made Ice Cream, delivered to any part of the city.
Fruit and Confectionery.
Cigars and Tobacco.
'Phone 440-J.

Central R. R. News Stands.
You can get it at the C. R. R. News Stands, both depots. Plainfield Daily Press and Elizabeth Journal on sale at both stands. Philadelphia Morning, Evening and Sunday Papers. Largest assortment of Magazines and Weekly Papers in the city. Back numbers procured. Brooklyn Papers. Elizabeth Publications. Daily and Sunday Papers delivered. Orders left at stand receive prompt attention. Open Sundays.

JOHN WINZENRIED'S
Storage Warehouse
216-218 WEST FRONT ST.
Separate Rooms—Clean and Dry. Furniture removed with care. Residence 112 Lee place.

HENRY WIERENGA
Residence 'Phone 217-J.
Furniture, Freight, Baggage Express and Hauling.
PIANO MOVING A SPECIALTY.

Now is the time when you need a
STOVE
and you may as well buy a good stove at a very Low Price. We are selling Stoves—Good Stoves—at low prices.
KADESH & LEVINE,
18 Somerset St.

E. B. Maynard's
Tonsorial Parlors. Electrical Massage for face and hair. Expert hair work. Children's Hair Cutting a specialty.
Tel. No. 159.
141 NORTH AVENUE.

Arrival and Departure of Mails

PLAINFIELD POSTOFFICE.

June 18, 1910.

NEW YORK MAILS.
Arrive—6.30, 8.00, 8.40, 11.45 a. m., 1.30, 2.20, 5.00, 5.30, 8.30 p. m., 12 midnight.
Close—6.30, 8.00, 8.00, 10.30, 11.50 a. m., 2.00, 3.50, 5.50, 7.10, 7.45, 8.00 p. m.

SOMERVILLE AND EASTON.
Arrive—8.40, 10.00 a. m., 12.30, 3.15 and 7.00 p. m.
Close—8.00 a. m., 12.35, 1.30, 4.30, 5.00 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA DIRECT.
Arrive—6.30, 8.00, 8.40, 11.45 a. m., 12.30, 2.30, 7.00 p. m.
Close—6.30, 8.00, 11.30 a. m., 12.35, 2.00, 3.50, 5.50, 7.45, 8.00 p. m.

THROUGH FAST MAIL FOR EAST.
Close—11.50 a. m., 3.50, 7.10 p. m.

DIRECT THROUGH FAST MAIL FOR WEST.
Close—6.30, 11.30 a. m., 1.30, 8.00 and 7.45 p. m.

DIRECT SOUTHERN MAILS.
Close—6.30 a. m., 12.35, 3.50, 5.50, 7.45 and 9.00 p. m.

PENNSYLVANIA, WEST OF EASTON.
Close—6.30 a. m., 12.35, 1.30, 5.50 p. m.

ELIZABETH, DIRECT.
Arrive—6.00, 8.40 a. m., 1.30, 2.20, 5.30 p. m.
Close—8.00, 9.00, 10.30 a. m., 12.35, 2.00, 5.50, 9.00 p. m.

NEWARK, DIRECT.
Arrive—8.00, 8.40 a. m., 1.30, 2.20, 5.30 p. m.
Close—6.30, 8.00, 9.00, 10.30 a. m., 12.35, 2.00, 3.50, 5.50 p. m.

DIRECT MAILS TO SEA SHORE RESORTS DURING SUMMER.
Close—5.30 a. m., 1.30 and 3.30 p. m.

WATCHUNG.
Arrive—1.00, 5.45 p. m.
Close—9.00 a. m., 5.30 p. m.

WARRENVILLE.
Arrive—1.00 p. m.
Close—9.00 a. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.
Office open from 9.30 to 10.30 a. m.
Mail closes at 6.15 p. m.

E. H. BIRD, P. M.

YOUR DULL Headaches

Probably come from overstrained eye sight. Nine-tenths of the headaches are the direct result of eye trouble. Bring those troubles to us and let us prescribe for you.

All work guaranteed.

FREE EXAMINATION BY
Stiles & Co.
PHILADELPHIA EYE SPECIALISTS
at 107 East Front Street, Every Thursday.
Hours 11:15 a. m. to 5 p. m.

PAINTERS AND DECORATORS.

Take a Look in our Window and you will be convinced that the latest in interior work—Aerochrome Washable Wall Decoration—is very handsome and effective.
Woolston & Buckle
Painters and Decorators
143 NORTH AVENUE.

George Washington Couldn't
tell a lie, neither could I and keep my self-respect. Nor would I give any less than the specifications call for. My aim is to paint as good as I know how—even better than I agreed to—for I know that a satisfied customer is my best advertisement.
Jas. C. Hansen
Dealer in WALL PAPERS, PAINTS, OILS GLASS, Etc.
141 East Front Street
TEL. 340 ESTIMATES FURNISHED

M. WARREN
PAINTER, DECORATOR
and PAPERHANGER
85 SOMERSET ST.,
opposite Sangerbund Hall.

TIMBO'S
Stock for Smokers
Romeo and Juliets, La Carolinas, Rocky's, Manuel Garcias, Acker, Merrall & Condit's La Elegancias, and a fine line of New York and Tampa makes. Fancy Smoker's Articles.
133-135 North Avenue.

A. H. ENANDER,
Sanitary Plumbing, Gas Fitting, Steam and Hot Water Heating.
Contractor for Sewer Connections.
125 WATCHUNG AVE.

FURNITURE.
Repaired and upholstered. Equal to new. Send a postal to
HARRISON, 140 CENTRAL AVE.
Cabinet maker, Polisher, Mattress Maker.

Try a Press Want Ad

J. C. FIELD, Jr.
Tel. 991-W. 411 Park Ave.
Fine Stationery. Sporting Goods and Photo Supplies.
Sub-Postoffice in store.
Let us do your developing and printing. The best photographic work may be spoiled by the ineffectual, inability or carelessness of the finisher. The years of experience and constant improvement methods enable us to give your negatives better results than they have ever had. We desire a fair comparison with others and make the following proposition: Bring us your favorite negatives and we will print it without charge.

L. Moraller & Son,
Watchmakers and Jewelers.
Watches, Clocks and Jewelry.
Fine Watch and Clock Repairing a Specialty.
219 Park Ave., Plainfield, N.J.

PLAINFIELD WINDOW CLEANING CO.
H. MERSTRICH, Prop.
Stores, Offices, Private Residences, New Buildings, Cleaned, Scrubbed and Oiled. Office, 145 East Front Street. Tel. 864-J.

—Use Press Want Ads. They pay.

Vail JEWELER AND OPTICIAN
103 Park Ave.,
calls your attention to his
Rimless Glasses.
They Look Good and You See Good.

J. C. POPE & CO.,
INSURANCE AGENTS
120 E. Front St. Plainfield, N. J.

ALEX. LUSARDI.
Foreign and Domestic Fruits, Choice Confectionery, Nuts, Cigars, etc
211 W. Front St. Tel. 807-W

Saturday Closing
Our Store Will Close
Saturdays at 12:30 P. M.
During July and August
Gayle Hardware Co.
General Hardware and House Furnishings
TEL. 398 FRONT ST. and PARK AVE.

USE PRESS WANT ADS

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning July 17, 1910.

Topic.—The Christian use of letter writing.—Ps. xiv, 1; John, 19-25. Edited by Rev. Sherman H. Doyle, D. D.

Writing is one of the most useful and practical of all the arts that have been invented by man and for the use of man. It is also most interesting to go back into the early centuries and study the earliest forms of communications by man in writing, the earliest alphabets and the materials upon which writing was first done and the progress made until we have reached the highest point in this important and useful art. The word alphabet comes from the union of the first two letters of the Greek alphabet, "alpha" and "beta." In all about 200 alphabets are known, fifty of which are in actual use. There are various kinds of materials upon which writing has been done, but the chief ones upon which writing has come down to us are stone, clay, metal, papyrus, wood, leather, wax tablets, parchment and paper. I imagine that all writing started with hieroglyphics upon stones, such as the American Indians used on stones and on trees. Egyptian script began on stone, and the Babylonians first used clay tablets with cuneiform writing. The writing was done in soft clay tablets and then allowed to harden in the sun or kiln-dried. Writing on papyrus by the priests was done in Egypt as well as writing on stone. Leather was used by the Jews, and when it was extra fine—the hides of young animals—and could be written on both sides it was called parchment, and this parchment was used for the sacred writings and was rolled up in a scroll. Vellum is a still finer kind of parchment. For earliest practical uses the Greeks and Romans used a wooden tablet covered with a coating of fine wax and was written upon by a piece of metal, wood or ivory. The opposite end was a palette and was used to erase the wax or to make it smooth. Paper made of vegetable fiber or rags is supposed to have been first invented by the Chinese. In the ninth century it was introduced into Europe by the Arabians, and in the thirteenth century it was used in France for deeds and in the fifteenth for books. Here we see an incident of God's providence. Printing probably was discovered. Printing by movable types was invented by a German about the middle of the fifteenth century. But it would have been useless had not paper been invented and just introduced into Europe, for paper is material for writing hitherto known would have been used on a printing press.

Among the multitudinous uses of letter writing to Christians it has been invaluable. This fact is practically demonstrated in the use of letter writing by the apostles to churches, to individuals and the Christians of the world. Moreover, Christ after His ascension indited to the Apostle John letters for each one of seven churches of Asia Minor. John records in his first epistle that he is writing to three classes of readers, fathers, young men and the children, covering the three general periods of life, childhood, youth and manhood.

To each one of these he wrote a particular message. In our letter writing as Christians we should have a particular object in view, and there are many especial occasions suitable for Christian letter writing: (1) To comfort the sick. Many are timid and cannot visit the sick. In many cases they cannot be seen. In either case a letter, however brief, of comfort and cheer will be greatly appreciated, and any one can take the time to write such a letter. (2) To comfort the bereaved. Much letter writing of this kind is done by friends, but our correspondence of this character could be extended to the humble classes, who seldom receive such letters. (3) In winning souls for Christ how a writing may be made very useful. A written word may have great weight under the blessing of God when you cannot speak to those in whom you are interested. (4) An invitation by letter inviting non-churchgoers to come to church or some church organization through which they may be saved. Write at least one letter a week to some one of these classes of people and you will soon be writing many more, seeing the sacrifice by Him and the joy you will experience in helping others.

BIBLE READINGS.

Job xix, 23-27; Jer. xxxi, 33; Ezek. ii, 8-10; Luke x, 19, 20; Rom. i, 1-12; xvi, 1-4; II Cor. ii, 1-3; iii, 1-6; xiii, 2, 10; II Thess. ii, 15; iii, 14-18; Phil. i, 25; I Pet. i, 3-7, 22-25; III John.

Testimony to Christian Endeavor.

Dr. Francis E. Clark has had several kind letters from former President Roosevelt on the Christian Endeavor society. Here is one:

"Christian Endeavor stands pre-eminent among the organizations which strive toward a realization of the ideal of true citizenship—that is, for the cultivation not only of a high standard of civic and social righteousness, but for the strength, courage and common sense necessary for living up to such a standard."

Growing Gifts.

Statistics are sometimes instructive. For example, the gifts of Christian Endeavorers to the foreign work of the Disciples in 1890 were $212. In 1894 the amount had swelled to $2,280, donated by 251 societies. In 1900 only 353 societies gave anything, the total being $2,955. By 1905 no fewer than 800 societies took part, giving $10,873. Last year 1,104 societies contributed $15,040. This does not look like a weakening of the Christian Endeavor forces.

WHY MR. DUKE'S FARM IS CLOSED TO PUBLIC

In a communication to the Motor Record G. E. Marsh, a member of the N. P. J and M. C., No. 174, makes the following explanation why J. B. Duke has closed his handsome country estate at Raritan to the public excepting on Tuesdays and Fridays:

"Possibly you will recall some time ago I wrote you that J. B. Duke was contemplating closing his beautiful park to the autoists if the vandalism did not stop. Well, the worst has come to pass. Mr. Duke is having heavy bronze gates erected at all of the entrances to his grounds to protect himself from the depredations of the public, especially the autoist. He said that these are some of the troubles he had to put up with:

"Auto parties making the grounds a picnic ground and leaving their rubbish behind.

"Driving over the soft sods and ruining the lawns.

"Breaking carefully trimmed bushes.

"Stealing by the arm-full roses and other flowers.

"Speeding through the drives, and generally making HOGS of themselves.

"Mr. Duke says that he is sorry to deprive any one of the pleasure of driving through his vast park, but that he cannot longer stand the nuisance, and the abuse personally he has had to take from more than one autoist. That is why he closed his grounds to all, on June 1st. It will be entirely discretionary with Mr. Duke if he permits any one to drive in his grounds hereafter.

"He also says to say that a party stopped there and on its auto was carrying the N. J. Auto Club flag. These people gathered an arm full of flowers. That is pretty bad on the rest of us club members. I am sorry that I have not the number of that car.

"The closing of this beautiful private park with its fifteen miles of macadam roads, beautiful lakes, flowers and statuary, will mean the loss to the lover of the beautiful, the respectable, law abiding autoist and others of one of the most lovely and beautiful spots in the world. And for what reason? Because some brainless people, to gratify their own selfish ends, are the means of closing this park to all, by speeding, by theft, by vandalism. It's too bad that the majority must suffer because of these dogs; no other term applies to them that exactly fits 'em."

FORT'S HEAD BREAKS A BATHTUB FAUCET.

"I've been working for the governor," said the plumber. "I been fixin' his bathtub. It was broke. The faucet was busted. It was broke sharp off. And I said to the governor, 'How on airth did you break off that faucet?' And he said, 'I hit it.' And I said, 'How'd you hit it?' And he said, 'I hit it with my head!' And I said, 'Did you knock that faucet off with your head, because if you did you must have hurt yourself awful!' And he said, 'Well, I was takin' a bath and I slipped and fell, and I hit the faucet with my head, and it broke off—the faucet, I mean.' And says I, 'Didn't it hurt your head?' And he says, 'No, it didn't. I don't know why, but somehow it didn't.'

"Then I started to go away, having fixed the faucet which had been broken off, and the governor, he says, 'Now don't you go and tell that to anybody, because there are some fools that don't like me and they'll fools that don't like me and they'll put it in the papers, and folk'll laugh at me my head's so hard it'd break a faucet.' And I told him I wouldn't say a word about it, and I won't. It was up to his house at Spring Lake, but, my, I did laugh, no mistake, to think of Governor Fort knockin' off a faucet with his head and not mindin' it a bit. He's got a good head all in' it a bit. He's got a good head all right, I tell you. But don't mention it."

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN.

Lovely scarfs are fashioned from the Persian bordered chiffons and marquisettes combined with marabou.

The tones known as natural and the white feathery stuff combine prettily with the fragile fabrics.

In using the printed materials only a border of the marabou is necessary for good effect, while when a solid color forms the foundation a third strip must be added through the centre of the scarf. Otherwise the shoulder may look skimpy and lack character.

Another pretty idea in scarfs is to place two different colors over each other and then edge all round with the marabou.

The "umbrella" is the newest fad in shoulder shawls. These are circular in shape and of a generous size, though extremely light in weight because the wool is fine and the design of the crochet is light and lacy. They are serviceable as a light protection for the shoulders when protection for the mountains or strolling on the beach.

They come in black, white, cardinal and the chinchilla grays at $3.50 each, but orders will be taken for any color combination.

NEW SLIPPER TRIMMINGS.

Pumps and slippers owe much of their effect to their bows, buckles or rosettes.

For evening wear the favorite slipper adornment is the large rhinestone or steel cut buckle. Antique gold and silver buckles are also turned to account for footgear.

Another stylish shoe buckle is an oval affair of seed pearls. These are particularly fashionable when worn with belt and neck buckle to match ornaments on the hair ribbon.

The typical shoe decoration is a stiff bow of ribbon. These must be fresh and immaculate, therefore frequently renewed. While they can be bought at any shoe store, it is often more convenient to make them.

Ribbon especially for these bows should be kept on hand for an emergency. Heavy black and white grosgrain or ribbed, one and one-eighth inches wide, is the best choice. Black velvet, the same width and the next size wider, is also used. Ask for shoe-bow quality.

A half yard of ribbon is needed for one set of bows. Cut into two pieces four and one half inches long and two pieces three inches long.

Fold the longer piece into a stiff looped bow and sew the ends flatly together. Make a length-wise fold in the shorter piece and pass over the centre of the looped bow. Do not draw in, but fasten neatly at back in a flat, non-curling bow.

Sew the bow firmly to the slipper. Many girls use small safety pins for this purpose, but sewing is neater and more secure. If the foot is large it is well to catch the loop flat on ends, as well as in the middle.

Though stiff slipper trimming is in high favor, many think fluffy rosettes decrease the apparent size of the foot. These are made of ribbon, chiffon or lace. The two former match the color of the slipper.

A rosette for the white satin slippers of the June bride can be made of inch-wide lace. Valenciennes, Spanish, narrow princess or Mechlin, all are suitable. Two yards of lace are needed for the ordinary sized slipper.

Divid the lace into equal parts, one for each rosette. Gather along the upper edge with a strong silk thread or heavy cotton twist. Fasten into a seven and a half-inch length, then coil into a rosette. Sew firmly at back to hold in place, or fasten to a small round of lawn.

These rosettes are worn plain, or can have a bit of orange blossom showing from the centre. Artificially laced dyed to match colored slippers is used instead of chiffon for rosettes. This is less perishable, but not so smart.

Chiffon rosettes are made from double width chiffon of good quality. Half the width is used for each rosette and the depth should be five inches.

Turn in the raw edges of the chiffon and baste them together in centre of wrong side. Fold over to make the strip look like a double tuck, one slightly deeper than the other. Gather along upper edge with buttonhole twist, fasten in a seven-inch length and coil into a rosette.

Sew in place at the back, or, if easier, make the rosette on a tiny buckram foundation.

DAINTY COOKERY.

Many dishes which are dainty and at the same time nutritious are findable to serve on the home household menu. They are certainly more appreciated than the results of hasty dives into the mysteries of cookery which only a chef can unravel.

For instance consider this risotto made as follows:

Fry a small spring carrot, a small onion, a piece of celery and two shallots (minced fine) in about three tablespoonfuls of good olive oil till browned. Add a quarter of a pound of Patna rice, which has been well washed, cooked in salt water for about eight minutes and strained. After adding the rice cook a few minutes longer, then add three-quarters of a pint of good stock, season it well with salt and pepper and boil for ten minutes, stirring frequently. Add two fresh tomatoes, peeled and cut into small slices, boil three minutes longer and remove together, put the lid on the pan and draw it away from the fire. After standing two or three minutes pour the risotto into a hot dish and serve. A couple of anchovies washed and boned and rubbed through a sieve, with an ounce of butter, are an improvement, but when anchovies are added less salt is required.

Smart Bathing-Slippers.

"No longer are bathing-slippers hideous, unshapely things," says Grace Margaret Gould in Woman's Home Companion for July. "They are still made of canvas and sometimes of satin, but they are cut on trim plump lines and have well-cut soles of cork. They are trimmed, too, with a little frill of ribbon or tape at the instep curve and have long ribbons or tapes which lace across the instep and around the ankle in a truly standard style, setting off a pretty ankle in a most charming manner, and concealing the defects of a homely one in a surprisingly simple way. These bathing-slippers of canvas can be had for only forty-eight cents, while those of satin cost $1.50. They come in black and white."

GO TRAMPING ON HONEYMOON.

A tramping honeymoon is the latest idea for wedding trips. The couple who will try it are Mrs. Gertrude McCloskey Kufer, formerly of Woodville, O., and George E. Kufer, of Baltimore. The young persons have been prominent because of the rapid-fire romance that ended in their marriage. Kufer made a wager with friends in Baltimore more than a year ago he could cover 16,000 miles before October 23, 1910. He was to win $4,000 with this feat, but the promoters offered $500 more if he could win a bride while on the journey. When he reached Woodville on his trip he was taken to the McCloskey home by the girl's father. She had seen his picture in the newspapers and enjoyed at least a newspaper acquaintance with him. He spoke but little to her during the dinner and after the meal he and the girl talked of his undertaking. "How would you like to finish the journey with me?" he suddenly asked. As Miss McCloskey is fond of outdoor life and had learned much of her newly acquainted friend, when he pressed his inquiry more zealously she consented, and they were married within an hour. Now they are on their journey together, and already have completed 14,000 miles of the long hike. At the end of the jaunt, as there is a prize of $4,500 for them, as there is no doubt the conditions will be fulfilled.

NEW HAT POINTS.

One of the new French hats shows around the upper—instead of the under—edge of the brim a quilling of taffeta with a flat bow in the front, a little to the left.

Large velvet flowers, especially such blossoms as daisies and other flat-petalled blooms, are chic. Often these are in blues or greens instead of the natural colors.

The new high toques are fashionable with fine straw for the puffed top and rough, flat straw for the portion next to the face. A loose, wide band of velvet conceals the union of the two varieties.

Another of these toques is trimmed simply with a large Asatian or windmill bow of velvet or changeable taffeta in black.

Still a third toque of black, faced with white satin, has at its left an upstanding cockade, oblong in shape and covered with three vertical rows of accordion-plaited white satin.

A pretty fad is the trimming of a hat with artificial flowers in season, and then wearing it with a boquet of the natural flowers. This is especially charming in the less usual flowers but it is effective also with such as roses and violets.

Straw buttons, large and round, and in natural-colored or otherwise tinted straw, are the latest for hat decoration. Straw buckles are also fashionable, but in all sorts of odd and queer shapes instead of the common straw.

CRETONNE SLIPPERS.

Cretonne comes to the rescue once more, offering a cheap and pretty material for the bedroom slipper.

They are built upon a firm foundation—one of the best pairs of slipper soles that come—care being taken not to have them the least bit too large.

No pattern will be required by the ordinary expert seamstress if she will plant the foot securely on the sole and fit a deep vamp of cretonne over the front of the foot, covering toes and instep.

At its upper edge, across the instep, a casing conceals the elastic that is holded to slipper more firmly, and on the centre front there is placed a small, close bow of three-inch ribbon.

Round the back section of the leather sole there is a binding of the same ribbon in narrower widths; this is sewn on by hand over the usual tape-covered edge.

The variation in cretonne coloring makes it possible to match either the hangings of the room or the negligee, which last is even better.

USES FOR THE SAWDUST.

Don't throw away the sawdust that comes around things in packing cases.

It may be utilized in many ways about the house.

It is good for removing sediment in glass and earthenware.

A handful thrown on a dying fire will help to revive it.

Heated and sprinkled and sprinkled over grease spots in carpets, etc., it is useful in removing these marks.

Heated on a sheet of paper in the oven, it is an excellent remedy for mildew and damp spots on metals or other polished goods.

Slightly moistened sawdust, sprinkled on kitchen, larder and veranda floors, and brushed off with a hard broom, will clean the floor without much trouble.

No Sale.

"I thought surely you'd sell that lot of sausage," declared the grocer. "You praised it highly enough."

"I praised it too darned much," said his assistant. "It overheard me and wagged its tail."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

—Constitutionalist's ads. pay.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Worthy of His Steel.

It is apparent that Honorable Charles Newell Fowler is not going to have things all his own way in his own county in his effort to secure renomination for congress this fall.

Congressman Fowler's attack on Speaker Cannon, United States Senator Kean and other members of the regular Republican organization, has made him persona non grata with the leaders of the Republican party in Union county, and, in fact, in the three counties that form the Fifth congressional district.

It has been made clear to Mr. Fowler that State Treasurer Voorhees, who is the recognized leader of the Republican party in Morris county, is opposed to his renomination upon the ground that Mr. Fowler pledged himself two years ago, when he secured nomination for congress through the support of the Morris county delegates, that he would retire from the field at the completion of his eighth term as congressman.

Mr. Fowler denies that he made this pledge, and insists that he is in the field for a ninth term in the house of representatives.

A few weeks ago, it was announced that James A. McGraw, of Morris county, a prominent lawyer, was a receptive candidate for the position that Mr. Fowler now holds. Later news to the effect that Mr. McGraw is unwilling to make the race. Whether or not this is true, remains to be seen.

However, there is one positive candidate in the field against Mr. Fowler in his own county, in the person of Judge William N. Runyon, of Plainfield.

Judge Runyon's popularity in Union county cannot be denied. He is the oldest son of Judge Nelson Runyon, and is now in his fortieth year. He was born in Plainfield, and graduated from the High School of that city in 1888, president of his class. That year he entered Yale University and was a classmate of Lee McClung, now treasurer of the United States. In the same class was Henry S. Graves, now chief forester of the United States.

In 1892, he received the decree of bachelor of arts from Yale, and matriculated in the New York law school, from which he was graduated two years later, with the degree of bachelor of laws, being president of his class at that time.

While pursuing his legal education, he was chosen a member of the editorial board of the New York Law School Journal. In 1894, he was admitted to the bar of New York, where he practiced his profession for a number of years, associating himself with his father in the practice of law in Plainfield, having been admitted to the bar in New Jersey as an attorney in 1898. Three years later, he was made a counselor.

Judge Runyon has always been an active and ardent Republican. During the first McKinley campaign, in 1896, he organized the Young Men's Republican Club in Plainfield, and was elected its president. For the following two years he served as a member of the common council in the city of Plainfield, and in 1899 was chosen by an overwhelming vote as city judge, which position he has continuously held for four consecutive terms, polling the largest vote of any candidate of his party on the same ticket, and in some instances being elected without the minority party's opposition.

Judge Runyon is prominent in fraternal organizations, and for six-teen years was teacher of the William N. Runyon Bible class at Hope Memorial chapel, where he did a great work among the young men of that city. He resigned his position to assist in the upbuilding of the Park Avenue Baptist church, of which he has been a member for twenty years. He is a lawyer of recognized ability, and a man possessing all the qualities necessary for the making of a distinguished public servant. He is a force in the Fifth district congressional contest that must be reckoned with, and Mr. Fowler will find Judge Runyon a foe worthy of his steel.—Trenton State Gazette.

Judge Runyon for Congress.

In the announcement today of City Judge William N. Runyon, of Plainfield, that he is a candidate for the nomination for Congress from this district in opposition to Congressman Charles N. Fowler, who will undoubtedly seek a re-nomination, opens a campaign which will be hotly contested.

It was earlier expected that a rival candidate to Mr. Fowler would spring up in Mercer county, but no announcement has come from that quarter, and it was Judge Runyon whom it prevailed upon by his friends to enter the contest, it is believed that no further candidate will be announced.

The acceptance of Judge Runyon will please not only those in the Republican ranks who have been factionally opposed to Congressman Fowler, but also to a vast number of those of his former friends who have been alienated from him by his recent unwise, bitter, personal attack upon Senator Kean. This combination will make a formidable opposition to Mr. Fowler, and it will require all his finest political endeavor to win the necessary number of delegates to secure the nomination.

Judge Runyon's standing, his ability as an orator, and his wide friendship among men of affairs in the district and among the great fraternal organizations make him an opponent not to be considered lightly.

The issue is joined; the contest will be a hot one.—Elizabeth Journal.

SHE WAITED UNTIL SHE GOT WHAT SHE WANTED.

"I waited four years for a Jerseyman and I've got one at last. I was married Thursday, June 30, at Camden. You were too slow.

"J. M."

The above-quoted words were the contents of a letter received by H. Russel Farnsworth, of Walnut street, Montclair, yesterday.

"Wouldn't that jar you?" queried Farnsworth, as he showed the letter to a friend. "I expected to marry that girl myself some day although I have never seen her in my life," he added.

When questioned closer about the little romance which the brief note and Farnsworth's words both hinted at, the Montclair man told the story.

About four years ago there came into Farnsworth's possession a new $2 bill on the crisp white margin of which was written a woman's name and an address in Philadelphia. In a spirit of fun, the holder of the bank note wrote a brief letter telling of his find and requesting an answer. He also enclosed a comical "butt-insky" card. The epistle he directed to the name and address found on the bill.

Several days later Farnsworth received an answer. About once a month since then, he says, he has exchanged greetings with the woman whom he would not know had he met her on the street. The correspondence was of the lightest nature imaginable, usually a word or two only on a postal card.

Whatever the Philadelphian's feelings may have been, Farnsworth admits that he was deeply interested and often thought of asking his correspondent for her picture and more definite information concerning herself. This a sense of delicacy prevented him from doing.

"I expect to go to Philadelphia next week and I had intended to hunt my unknown friend up and get acquainted, but I can't do it now," Farnsworth added.

When asked to tell the woman's name, Farnsworth said he did not know, as the letter telling of his marriage did not say who the bridegroom was. Neither would he tell what name the initials "J. M." stood for.

"What's the use? It's all over now as far as I am concerned," he concluded.

FOR BABY.

Baby's bib is an everlasting wonder in the variety it presents to the embroiderer.

Made to wear with the plainest of slip-like dresses, it now is so put together that it is ornamental, yoke as well as bib, in very fact the bib's the thing and holds all the embroidery baby needs at one time.

Tiny forget-me-nots in little perpendicular rows slope from the lower edge upward towards the neck opening, and between the rows are placed ornamental strips of narrow Valenciennes insertion. Round the extreme edge is a frill of lace to match the insertion, and this is joined to the bib by beading.

The shape of this neat bit of apparel is that of a rounded yoke cut deeper in the front, and the material handkerchief-linen lined, when all is finished, with a second layer like the top.

NORFOLK JACKETS.

They are usually good for young girls. Who is young and who isn't? It would a trifle difficult to decide and a little dangerous to state in black and white; but all age limits to the one side, the erect, alert-looking woman is always youthful enough in actual seeming to wear the Norfolk jackets.

Its variations are many, and it is no longer narrowed down to the four box pleats which were its original stamp. They turn sidewise, or they simmer down into one each side. The belt may hold in the pleats or the pleats hold on the belt.

The Norfolk is shorter or longer according to its purpose as a very useful garment or a little ornamental jacket. And in the same way is its material varied:

The rough Scotch and English and Canadian stuffs have given way before those of less rough American weaves, and the linens, have let in linen for summer wear.

But the Norfolk jacket stands fast.

Announcement of Engagement.

Mrs. Helen D. Rue announces the engagement of her daughter, Mary A. Rue, of Homestead, Florida, to Lenox Stanley Karner, of this city.

Couldn't Risk It.

Husband—Did you hunt up the new cook's references.

Wife—No, John, I didn't. I was afraid they might prove prejudicial.

—Constitutionalist's ads. pay.

WANT PRETTY NECKS? AVOID HIGH COLLARS.

The careful woman who grows old gracefully and tardily should keep her throat young, both from the standpoint of voice and appearance.

To most women the second appeals with more emphasis and to them belongs the advise: avoid high collars.

In view of the season and its fashion this advise should be easily followed. There is really no reason why a woman in bathing should become stringy, for such a condition is far too homely and aging in effect for one to permit it to arrive before she has passed middle age, but it is not uncommon now to see a woman of 35 years whose throat shows signs of age from wearing tight, high collars.

These high neck pieces impede circulation, so the tissues starve. This fact also accounts for many severe headaches.

Nervousness, too, accentuates this stringy condition, but neither of these two contributing causes will be fatal to beauty if one is willing to massage and exercise the muscles and flesh of the neck every day.

Incidentally the matter of collars should receive consideration. No dressmaker it is hoped is permitted to make them so tight that they stop a natural circulation of the blood.

Nor is there need of neck dressings being too closely fitting, for if properly shaped and smoothly boned they will be perfect in fit and yet not constricting.

Exercises to keep the throat in condition are of the simplest. They consist merely of stretching the throat cords, working to keep them elastic and strong, instead of becoming flabby and weak. Bare the neck when exercising.

Begin by bending the head down until the chin touches the chest, and then putting it back as far as the throat may be pulled. There must be a sensation of pulling from the cords under the chin, for without it, the muscles will not be used.

Next the head should be twisted from one side to the other, always with a lifting motion, while the chin is held high.

Beyond these movements there are none which will really strengthen the throat cords.

Finally massage, applying a flesh building cream. The latter need not be rubbed under the chin, but the front of the neck should be well soaked with it at night, and this oil should be rubbed in with a firm, rotary movement.

"OH, WHAT A GOOD IDEA!"

There is always trouble when machining hems or tucks in fine muslins. The flimsy material is apt to pucker, and it is not always easy to regulate tensions exactly to prevent this before mischief is done. The matter is simple enough if you know a little trick.

Put your delicate muslin under the needle just as though you were going to sew or work in the usual way. Then have ready some narrow strips of paper and slip one of these under the muslin and proceed to machine away. The effect will be like machining a firm piece of calico, instead of puckering gauze. Of course, the strips are machined to the garment, but it is perfectly easy to break this away after the work is finished, and instead of doing harm it helps to keep the hems straight and firm.

Another little dodge is useful for those who prefer hand tucks for baby and underlinen, but yearn for the accuracy of the tucker on the sewing machine for speeding and straightness. Run the tucks with the machine, but without a thread. Then you have them set ready and the tucks are done by hand where the little holes have already made their mark.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF WILLIAM W. TITSWORTH.

The funeral services of William W. Titsworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Titsworth, who died in Brooklyn, Wednesday night from ptomaine poisoning, were held at Hillside cemetery at 12.45 o'clock this afternoon, and were attended by a number of relatives and friends. Rev. Dr. T. L. Gardner, editor of The Sabbath Recorder, conducted a short service at the grave, in the absence of Rev. Edwin Shaw, pastor of the Seventh Day Baptist church, who is in the west.

Mr. Titsworth, as well as his family, was poisoned by eating chopped meat, purchased from a Brooklyn butcher, but the members of the family were not made so ill and they are now slowly recovering being still under the care of a physician.

Those Hyphenated Names.

"We're in trouble, sir, over this high-noon wedding, sir," said the printer to the editor in the country printing office.

"What's the matter?" asked the scribe.

"We've run out of hyphens, sir!"—Yonkers Statesman.

Society Novel.

Bacon—I see a new novel named "The Upper Berth" is just out.

Egbert—It is a story of the "upper ten." I suppose.—Yonkers Statesman.

The Constitutionalist.

AN INDEPENDENT WEEKLY.

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

Terms: $2.00 per year.

Plainfield, N. J., July 14, 1910.

TOWNSHIP CIVIC CLUB OPPOSES ANNEXATION

Placing itself on record as being radically opposed to the plan, the North Plainfield Township Improvement Society voted down a proposition to annex the township to the borough at a meeting held last night at Dr. M. P. E. Grossmann's school, on Watchung Crest. Contrary to expectations there was hardly any discussion of the question, and from the tenor of the remarks at last night's session, it was perfectly apparent that the residents of the township are well satisfied with its present status.

It took but a very few minutes to dispose of the question, as there was only one speaker on the motion, Dr. Richard Moldenke who talked against annexation. "That the society go on record, as being opposed to the annexation of the township to the borough at the present time," was the purport of the motion made by C. C. Wheeler. It was quickly seconded by George Mobus, township clerk.

When President Francis de la H. Anderson called for remarks, Dr. Moldenke talked briefly:

"At one time there was a strong sentiment in favor of annexation," said he, "but at present it is deemed advisable that the township stand alone, for to unite with the borough now would necessitate the assumption of a portion of expenses recently contracted by the borough." When the question was put to a vote, it was passed without a dissenting voice.

Several committee reports were read, which showed what has been accomplished. Of special interest was the report of Dr. Grossmann, chairman of the roads committee, who spoke of the benefits derived by the township on Johnson's drive as a result of Saturday's hill climbing contest. It appears that $250 was spent by the township committee in preparing the hill for the climb.

President Anderson also reporting for the Somerset street committee, announced that the oil for that thoroughfare between the end of the trolley line and Watchung would be received soon. A coating of fine stone will be laid over the oil. The road will probably be repaired under the direction of the borough street commissioner John Y. Barrett, and will be fixed in a like manner as the roads in the city.

Another matter considered was that of having the attention of the Borough Board of Health called to the old house on Somerset street at the end of the trolley line. The house is in a disreputable condition, is very unsightly and from the sentiment expressed at last night's session is a menace to the health of the community.

President Anderson appointed the following as a committee for attendance at the Borough Council, township committee, and freeholders meetings: C. C. Wheeler, F. E. Bodin and John Herman.

At the conclusion of the business session, Rev. Dr. Charles A. Matos, pastor of the Madison Avenue Baptist church, New York, was called upon by President Anderson for a few personal remarks. He spoke glowingly of the prospects of and benefits to be derived from living in Watchung. He also sounded a keynote looking to the future of the schools of the township.

After the business meeting refreshments were served, and a social hour was enjoyed by the members of the association.

During the social session, Mrs. George M. Sellick, of Jersey City, sang a soprano solo.

For Soccer League.

Plans are being made for the coming soccer season. The secretary reports that he has had letters concerning the forming of an amateur league. A special meeting will be held Thursday night at the club rooms of the Plainfield Association Football Club, to settle some football points, and prepare for an early opening of the season. All interest-

SOMERVILLE.

Announcement has just been made of the marriage of John De Brabander, of Port Richmond, Staten Island, and Miss Bertha Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Thompson. The marriage took place on June 29 at the Central Methodist parsonage in Newark and was performed by Dr. William H. Morgan.

Company M is participating in a camp of instruction at Gettysburg and will be away until July 17.

Mrs. Walter Durling and daughter, Sarah, and Miss Isabel Edwards have returned from Ocean Grove.

Rynier V. W. Veghte is spending three weeks in Europe.

HIS ARTISTIC EFFORT

Dinner was over and Enderby had lighted his cigar, but had not settled down for the evening.

"Suppose you chuck that work basket for once and we go over to mother's," he said to his wife. "We haven't been there in two weeks."

"I know it," she answered, "but I can't to-night. Somebody has to stay with the baby, and Augusta's going out."

"Augusta's going out! That has a familiar sound."

"Don't be unreasonable, dear. You know we never have the least trouble in Augusta when we engage our evenings ahead."

Enderby indulged in a mild snort. "Engage our evenings ahead! If it's come to this, it's time we made a strike for liberty."

Mrs. Enderby dropped her embroidery in consternation. "If you should do anything to make Augusta leave—" she began.

"Don't you worry. If I should act, it would be done so artistically she'd never know it happened."

She took up his newspaper and Mrs. Enderby thought he had forgotten all about it. However, next morning, just as Augusta was bringing in the breakfast, he looked across the table and said:

"You'll forget the reception to-night, Dorothy. We ought to take the 8:03 train."

Augusta went out with a perceptible cloud on her face and Enderby grinned.

"What do you mean?" his wife demanded.

"I mean we're going over to mother's to spend the evening. If it's necessary to invent important engagements, I can do it."

Enderby came home early that night, and Mrs. Enderby thriftily proposed that he put in his extra quarter of an hour opening the crate of fresh eggs that had just come from Wisconsin. Augusta happened to be in her own room at the time and when Enderby came back to the library he was carrying, with furtive glee, a paper bag containing a dozen fresh eggs.

"I just happened to think it would be nice to take these over to mother," he said.

"That's so; I'm glad you thought of it. Oh, we can't, either!" Mrs. Enderby added, remembering the evening's program. "How would it look to Augusta to be started to a reception with a bag of eggs?"

"Why do you suppose I sneaked 'em in here now, if not to guard against that very thing?"

"Well, what are you going to do with them, now that they're here?"

With a masterful stride Enderby walked to the waste basket and buried the eggs beneath its contents. His wife laughed outright at the triumphant look on his face.

"But I'm afraid she'll see us when we start," she suggested. "And here's another complication—we'll have to dress for a reception, just to go over to your mother's."

"That's all right," he answered. It'll be a treat to the folks to see us in our good clothes for once."

Augusta put the baby to bed that night and then came to the library for final directions from her mistress, who was just getting into her evening gown. Enderby, high hat and cane in hand, was impatiently awaiting Augusta's departure, when suddenly, as if prompted by some imp of darkness, Augusta walked across the room and picked up the waste basket.

"I forgot to empty this to-day," she apologized.

"Oh, never mind!" Enderby and his wife gasped in duet, but Augusta, with unprecedented swiftness already was disappearing through the doorway.

"There!" said Mrs. Enderby, turning on her crest-fallen husband. "This whole thing is your affair and you may get out of it the best way you can. I shan't be here when she comes back!" She disappeared into the bedroom just as Augusta's footsteps were heard approaching.

Augusta pushed aside the portiere and bustled, holding at arm's length the paper bag. "There!" she announced. "I found 'em in the waste basket!"

"In the waste basket? How very singular," Enderby exclaimed. Then he raised his voice to craven tones. "Dorothy!" he called. "What do you know about a bag of eggs in the waste basket?"

There was a half-minute of dead silence, but just as Enderby was wondering what to try next a rustle sounded and Mrs. Enderby swept regally into the room.

"I know that a bag of eggs ought to be here on this table," she answered coolly. "I thought we'd have time before the 8:03 train to leave them at your mother's. If you've reached the pass, George, that you absent-mindedly drop a bag of eggs into a waste basket, you need a guardian. Put them on the table, Augusta."

With a pitying look at her hair-brained employer Augusta obeyed. Enderby waited just long enough to let her get out of sight before he took two long steps across the floor to his wife and silently, but warmly, expressed his appreciation.

As soon as she could, however, she held him off with both hands. "George Herbert Enderby," she said, trying not to laugh, "your behavior was simply yellow! And that's the last artistic scrape I shall ever help you out of—so beware!"

OBJECT TO CITY "DUMP"

West End Residents Protest Against a Nuisance in That Section.

THE COMMON COUNCIL ACTS.

Favorable Result When Conditions Are Made Plain to the City Fathers—"Dump" Ordered Closed.

The city "dump" which has been maintained at the foot of Compton avenue, and which was recently closed by order of Mayor Fisk, had a good airing at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, Monday night. A delegation of residents from that section led by Herbert Langford and E. H. Mumford, appeared before the city fathers and told them in plain words something about this nuisance in the West End which has been allowed to continue for two years.

The result was that a resolution offered by Charles C. Randolph and adopted, ordered the "dump" closed permanently, and later a resolution offered by Mr. Clay and adopted, authorized the street committee to make a thorough investigation of the subject, at public expense, and report to the Common Council. It will be a part of the work of the committee to recommend ways and means to separate ashes from garbage, which has not been done and which is really the cause for the kick in the West End.

Mr. Langford, who was granted the privilege of the floor, wanted to know what had become of a resolution passed by the Common Council sometime ago in reference to the city "dump" in the West End. He said that he handed it to Mr. Buxton, noticed by the newspapers that it had been presented, but had learned that it had since been sidetracked. The speaker was also anxious to know who was responsible for allowing all sorts of things to be dumped at the foot of Compton avenue, he was sure that H. C. Compton had never given such permission.

"I think we have been sorely afflicted in the West End," said Mr. Langford. "First they gave us the crematory for the burning of garbage, then the small-pox hospital and now a city dump. Put this dump on Seventh and Eighth streets among the rich nabobs and I will guarantee that it would not remain there long. We should be considered as much as the rich people.

"During the past two years it has been impossible to sit on my front porch owing to the horrible stench. We complained this time a year ago with the Mayor and the dumping was abated for a time, but since that time conditions have been worse. Where is our Board of Health. What is it doing? I assure you we have been great sufferers from this nuisance. I have acted as a special policeman for the past two years in trying to abate the nuisance, but do not propose to do so any longer. I have stopped ashmen who have come to the dump with all sorts of stuff and they have told me that this material came from homes as nice as my own and they refused to take it away.

"I understand that they are now dumping this stuff near the new Jefferson School, and I pity the residents in that neighborhood for I know what it means. My wife has had malaria for the past two years and other residents in my neighborhood have been similarly affected, and what we want is this intolerable nuisance stopped."

Upon the invitation of Mr. Langford, Mr. Mumford also added words of protest. He said that he had been induced to remove here from the city by Edmund Rushmore and other friends, but if he had had any idea that he was going to a neighborhood where a city "dump" was maintained he never would have come to Plainfield. In fact, he had threatened to break his lease and go back to New York if the nuisance was not abated.

Mr. Mumford said that ashmen had been permitted to dump fish heads and all kinds of garbage at this dump and he thought it was time that the practice was stopped once and for all. He described the terrible odors and stench that permeated the rooms of his home, making life almost unbearable.

Mayor Fisk, who was present, explained the origin of the city "dump" adding that it was thought to be an economical way of filling in that section for the proposed opening of Dunellen avenue. At first nothing but ashes were dumped there, but later he found that ashmen were also carting garbage to the place. A year ago the nuisance was stopped and the dump was ordered closed. Similar action was taken recently, and upon the request of the Board of Education, ashes are now being dumped near the new Jefferson School, a man being placed there to see that nothing but ashes and no objectionable matter is carted to that point.

The Mayor said that the residents of the West End, especially in the neighborhood of Compton avenue, have had a just and righteous kick, adding that conditions at the "dump" are simply "rotten." He further explained that he had ordered the dump closed and lime spread over the debris, but Mr. Langford interjected, "It will take several months to remove the odor at that."

It is safe to say there will be no further trouble from the dump for the present, at least for the protest of the residents seemed to impress the councilmen that it was a good thing to remove from that section of the city.

TO MACADAMIZE STREETS

Abutting Property Owners to Be Heard Before Measures are Signed.

THE MAYOR SO ANNOUNCES.

Mr. Fisk Uses a Novel Way of Ascertaining Public Sentiment on the Proposed Improvements.

Several public hearings were granted at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, last night, one of which was regarding the proposed action to macadamize about thirteen different thoroughfares throughout the city. There was one protest, against the improvement of Leland avenue from Front street to Greenbrook, and the ordinance was so amended as to leave out that section and include South avenue to Berckman avenue. The other streets included in the list are Thornton avenue, West Fourth street, Randolph road, Johnson avenue, Putnam avenue, Central avenue, Prescott place, Stebbins place, South Second street, Jackson avenue, Netherwood avenue and Essex street.

Ordinances covering these streets were passed on third reading. Mayor C. J. Fisk stated after the meeting that he had directed postal cards mailed to every property-holder on the line of the streets named for improvement, notifying them that he will give a hearing at his office Friday night to all parties interested before acting on the ordinances. He wants thorough publicity given before the final action is taken.

A public hearing was also granted on the ordinance to vacate New street, between Seventh and Eighth streets, and no one appearing, it was finally passed on third reading. The petitions favoring the project was signed by all the interested property-owners. The part of land to be vacated has been an unused thoroughfare for many years.

After a public hearing on the ordinance relating to the laying and repair of sidewalks and no one appearing for or against, it was adopted on third reading.

VETOED RESOLUTION OF COMMON COUNCIL

Mayor Charles J. Fisk communicated with the Common Council, last night, returning without his sanction the resolution which awarded the $30,000 worth of street improvement bonds to the City National Bank. He informed the members that the sale of such bonds was against the State law, which provides that ten days' notice must be given, allowing for public bids. He stated that while he thought the offer of the local bank an advantageous one, he did not approve the method. No further action was taken last night.

In accordance with a resolution by Mr. Gloak, chairman of the street committee, the contract for the building of the extension to the Richmond street storm sewer was awarded to Edmund Benton, of New York, his bid being the lowest. In round figures his bid was about $900.

A resolution offered by Mr. Buxton and adopted, authorized the borrowing of $5,000 in anticipation of taxes for the benefit of the fire fund.

WESTFIELD.

Theodore A. Ball, of Mountainside, was in Westfield yesterday attending to business affairs. This is the first time he was out since he was injured at Scotch Plains some months ago in a collision between a trolley car and an auto. He has begun suit against the trolley company for $20,000 damages.

The Sunday schools of the Methodist and Episcopal churches went on their annual excursion to Ocean Grove yesterday. There was a very large attendance of local people as well as from the nearby towns.

During the school holidays the Board of Education is having the walks in the Washington School grounds repaired.

John Whelan, of Downer street, is confined to his home by an injured foot caused by stepping on a rusty nail.

The Problem of Glorianna

The teacher called the new pupil to her desk.

"Why," she asked the small colored girl, "didn't you enter with the rest of the class at the beginning of the term?"

"Ah'm very delicate-like, teachah," explained the child. "My maw, she don't nevah expect to raise me, no ma'am." She rolled her great eyes affectedly. "So Ah ain't nevah ben to school much. De teachahs all has took mighty good care of me in the schools Ah've ben at; Ah've ben to five already. De las' teachah she always called me 'angel-chile.' She suah wuz a nice lady, she wuz!"

"What is your name?" asked the teacher.

"Gloryannah Annabel Snow. Yes, ma'am. Ah was named for mah two aunts. Dey wuz very beautiful ladies. Mah Aunt Gloryannah hed the mos' beautifulles' long yellah hair an' w'ite skin an' blue eyes. Mah muthah says Ah takes after mah Aunt Gloryannah terrible close."

The teachah looked at her round chocolate face and kinky little braids and could not conceal a smile.

"An' mah oddah aunt—Aunt Annabel, that wuz—hed the mos' beautifulles' red hair, long an' straight—"

The teacher felt called upon to interrupt this romance.

"What is your father's name?"

"Ah ain't got no fathah. Mah muthah's a widow lady. Hit's awful stylish to be widow ladies an' weah long black veils. Ah don't weah none, mah muthah suah does look fine. When Ah'm growed up Ah'm goin' to be a widow lady, too."

"What is your mother's name?" inquired the teacher.

"Mah muthah? Oh, she's awful stylish with front names. She mos' always keeps heh end name, but she changes heh front names real often. Jus' now hit's Arabella Virlenne."

"What is your mother's occupation?" The teacher glanced at the clock uneasily, regretting the waste of time.

"Oh, mah muthah, she used to wash fo' a few ladies. She say if you want any washin' done she'll do hit right reasonable. But now she say that no ladies goes washin' no moah. Dey all cahries lil' bags an' go manicurin' an' haihdressin'. So when they asks mah muthah wheah she goin' she say she goin' 'out on relation'."

"Very we'l, Glorianna. Now take that front seat and work the arithmetic lesson on the board."

Glorianna took the seat. When the half hour was up the monitors collected the children's papers and reported that the new pupil had none.

"Glorianna," said the teacher, severely, "where is your arithmetic paper?"

"Ah ain't got none, teachah," explained the child. "Ah nevah does no numbahs. Ah don't like numbahs—nevah did. So when the oddahs does their numbahs Ah composes po'try Ah'll recite you the po'try Ah composed when the children wuz doin' theirs instead. Hit's 'bout 'you-all', eyes," beguilingly to the teacher.

"No, thank you, Glorianna. Here after you will do your 'numbers' as the rest do if you intend to stay in this room. All children must be industrious here. What would you do if you grew to be a big girl and couldn't do any numbers? Wouldn't you be ashamed?"

"No, ma'am. Ah ain't nevah gon' to be a big girl. Ah'm goin' to be refined an' delicate when Ah grows up. Yes, ma'am. An' mah muthah says as long as Ah am artistic an' artistic an' hez 'complishments Ah don' need no 'rithmetic an' sech things. Ah kin sing, too. Ah've sung at the nickel theatah lots uv times. Once Ah got 50 cents. Wan' me sing for you-all?"

Fortunately the dismissal bell rang before Glorianna had time to mention any more accomplishments, for the other pupils were spellbound by her eloquence.

However, in the following week the budding poetess was compelled to do her "numbers" three times, much to her disgust. She coaxed, pleaded, scolded, flattered and sulked to no avail. The teacher was callous to her wiles. As that capable young person found she could not curb Glorianna's flow of speech. Glorianna talked almost unceasingly. Her leadership stirred the gentle little ones to disobedience more than once. They all decided that "numbers" was unnecessary and their once idolized teacher was nearly distracted by their disobedience.

Glorianna came to school one day with an added air of importance. She handed her teacher a note written on highly scented pink paper. It announced that her mother was about to move to a "more refined" neighborhood and that Glorianna consequently could go to a school where the teacher would be more "sympathetic."

Justice Demanded.

The suffragette stood up for sentence.

"The evidence shows," said the court, solemnly, "that you hit a police constable with a stone, thrashed a cabinet minister and started a riot."

"Your honor," interrupted the prisoner, "I demand to be treated as a lady. The evidence should show also that I egged an opposition speaker, knocked a platter of food from a warden's hand, bit his thumb and kicked him in the stomach."

Accordingly, the clerk was instructed to amend the records.

NOT TO EXTEND SEWERS TO ROSE STREET NOW

There was considerable opposition to including Rose street, in the ordinance providing for the extension of the sanitary sewer system, when Mr. Gloak moved for its adoption on first and second readings, at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, Monday night, offered an ordinance to have the street included, presenting a petition signed by Peter McDonough and others, who represent 968 feet frontage.

The opposition to including Rose street was led by Mr. Clay, who said that there is not a building on the street to be benefitted by the proposed sewer. Mr. Buxton said he felt sure that it would be needed as Mr. McDonough intends to erect several buildings on that street.

Mr. Mygatt also opposed the extension of the sewer in Rose street. The chief point for opposition was that there is a sewer on Randolph road, where the only building on the street faces, and one in Arlington avenue, near another building.

Mr. Clay's motion to leave Rose street out of the ordinance was carried by a vote of seven to three. Councilman Clay, Holt, Mygatt, C. C. Randolph, Frank Randolph, Taylor and Tolles voting in the affirmative and Councilmen Buxton, Gloak and Wilson in the negative. A petition protesting against the improvement was also read.

REGULATIONS CONCERNING ST. IMPROVEMENT WORK

For the purpose of securing uniformity in the future in the macadamizing of streets in the city, Mr. Holt, chairman of the committee on laws and ordinances, at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, last night, offered an ordinance, which was read for information, covering this matter. The ordinance provides that when it is proposed to macadamize a street plans for the same must be filed, showing that the work shall conform to the established standard set by the Common Council; also that the work shall be done under the direction of the street commission. The ordinance further provides that no public work on streets shall be done except by ordinance of the Common Council; that macadam shall be of a certain thickness and width, but this shall not prevent the laying of sewers in private streets.

Copies of the ordinance will be sent to each member, it being the purpose of the Common Council to pass the same in the near future. President Tolles and others expressed their opinions that the ordinance is a good one.

Mr. Holt recalled the ordinance providing for the regulation of and storage of gasolene, stating that the fire and building committee had thought it wise to withdraw the original ordinance, as several changes had been suggested by the committee desired to offer a new ordinance with the amendments.

These changes are minor ones, but the committee thought it best to incorporate them and make the ordinance that much stronger. It is essentially as printed in The Daily Press recently. The new ordinance was adopted on two readings and again ordered advertised.

On motion of Mr. Clay, the ordinance to license, regulate and prohibit shows, etc., was passed on third reading in its original form. No one was present to speak for or against this action.

Charles H. Hand petitioned the Common Council for permission to erect a corrugated iron awning at 316 Watchung avenue, and the matter was referred to the fire and building committee.

THROWN FROM CARRIAGE; ESCAPED SERIOUS HURTS.

An accident in which Mrs. Theodore Mantz, of East Seventh street, and Miss Edna Oliver, of East Fifth street, were the victims of a runaway horse, occurred on Saturday afternoon near Lebanon. Mrs. Mantz was painfully, though not seriously hurt and Miss Oliver escaped injury.

While driving toward this city the shafts dropped from the harness and the horse took fright. The surrey in which the two women were seated turned over and both were thrown out. Mr. Mantz said this morning that his wife was progressing nicely at their home and that no serious consequences were expected from the mishap.

Horace Vanderbeek, son of Jacques Vanderbeek, of West Main street, has passed his examinations for entrance to the senior class of Cornell University.

The Methodist church has elected the following officers: S. H. Hagaman, Peter Hoppock and A. K. Smith for three years, and G. H. Mundy, for one year.

LAKE HOPATCONG LIFE

Plainfielders Enjoying Summer Days at the Ideal Jersey Resort.

MANY OCCUPYING COTTAGES.

Camp Life Appeals to a Considerable Number—Tom Muir an Officer of the Canoe Club.

According to persons in a position to know, there are more Plainfield people summering at Lake Hopatcong this year than in any of the popular resorts previous seasons. The cottage and camping colonies include many local residents while the hotels number them by the scores. To all appearances, the lake is becoming Plainfield's leading inland recreation point.

Among the cottagers who are now comfortably ensconced until cool weather comes are Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Woodhull, of West Front street, who are at their pretty place, "Barwood," on Halsey Island. Mr. and Mrs. S. P. T. Wilbur, whose cottage "Elkswood" is on the mainland; Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Haynes, at "Chotola" in Chamberlain Cove, and Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Janke.

Camp "Ram's Horn," on Halsey Island, conducted by Tom Muir, has been a mecca for Plainfielders during the recent hot spell. Among the guests were Barton Davis, Hugh Sweeny, Judge William N. Runyon, Thomas Hanna, Albert Koch, Albert Keenan, Joseph Kregar, Edward Byer, John Matthews, William Codding, Elton Giles and Edward Balser, Jr.

Camp "There-He-Goes," situated on Halsey Island next to "Ram's Horn," has for its occupants William and Harry Hoffman, of West Front street, and Wallace Morton, of Orchard place, who will remain all season. The camp is in an ideal spot and attracts many visitors. Morton is chef, and between meals is practicing canoe paddling, having entered the annual races to be conducted in August by the Hopatcong Yacht Club. He is an enthusiastic canoeist and was one of the organizers of the Camper's Canoe Club formed in March with the following officers: Commodore, Ellwin Quick, of Somerville; vice-commodore, William Hoffman, of Plainfield; pennant bearer, S. E. Barnes, of Paterson; treasurer, Tom Muir, of Plainfield. The club had its first cruise up Little Nigger brook and next Thursday goes on a ten-mile paddle down the River Styx.

Another camping party from Plainfield located on Halsey Island last week was composed of Edward Schaub, Gardener Bristol, Will Donnelley, Clarence Williams. Mr. Bristol is remaining over for the rest of the month.

Roy Titsworth, of Madison avenue, is a guest at "Barwood" for the summer. Among the guests on the mainland are Jack Riffert, John Lyness, Taylor Mehaffey, of Brooklyn, formerly of Plainfield. Mr. Riffert will be one of the end men in the annual minstrel show of the Lake Hopatcong Yacht Club to be conducted in its handsome new club house next month.

ANOTHER MEMORIAL WINDOW AT FIRST M. E.

Mrs. Joseph B. Yerkes and her son, George Burgess, have placed a beautiful memorial window in the First M. E. church in memory of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Burgess, who were active members of the church for a great many years. This is the second memorial window given to the church, the first one being that of James W. Jackson in memory of his parents. The latest window is next to the one given by Mr. Jackson.

The window represents the resurrection of the Lord. The other one represents the ascension of the Lord. Beneath the new window is this inscription:

To the Glory of God
and
In Loving Memory of
George H. Burgess,
Died January 9, 1895;
Anna Scott Burgess
Died May 3, 1909.

Plan Fowler Reception.

Plans are being made to tender a reception to Congressman Charles N. Fowler in Hackensack Friday night. The promoters of the reception are George L. Record, of Jersey City; William P. Martin and Lathrop Anderson, of Newark. The three men, together with several men prominent in political circles in Hackensack, held a secret conference in that city last Wednesday night, when the plan was made.

Wheel Wrecked; Elbow Skinned.

Miss Mattie Lyons, a stenographer and typewriter of this city, was knocked from her wheel at the corner of Watchung avenue and Fifth street on Saturday evening at 6:20 o'clock and sustained a slight abrasion of an elbow. She was unseated by an automobile. The bicycle was wrecked.

SUPERVISION OF TROLLEY

Proposed Ordinance Will Prevent Operation of Unservicable Cars Here.

FINES WILL BE IMPOSED.

The Mayor Vested With Power—Street Commissioner to Make Thorough Inspections Quarterly.

The Councilmanic committee on laws and ordinance believes that it has taken a long step forward in a movement to rid the local trolley system of some of its objectionable features. This was shown at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council last night, when Mr. Holt, chairman of the committee, presented an ordinance which was read for information and which it is proposed to pass on first and second readings at the August meeting.

The ordinance, which represents a good deal of work and several conferences with Corporation Counsel Marsh, has many good features, including the maintenance of the Public Service Corporation's entire equipment here in first-class condition: that the street commissioner shall make a thorough inspection every three months and report the result to the Mayor.

For certain specified infractions of the ordinance the company may be fined $20 a day for every day the complained-of conditions confine, and for other more serious infractions, such as the continuance of operating cars with flat wheels, exceedingly noisy motors, etc., after being informed of the fact by the Mayor a fine of $50 a day can be imposed.

Copies of the ordinance will be sent to each member of the Common Council; also the Public Service Corporation. As to the mater of keeping the cars clean and sanitary, the Board of Health will be informed that that is its duty and that it has the power to adopt an ordinance carrying full power with authority to fine the corporation for infractions.

COMES FROM ENGLAND TO GET SOME APPLES

Former Physical Director Haywood, of the Y. M. C. A., who has been in England since leaving here several years ago, is visiting friends in town for a time. Mr. Haywood was physical director of the association at Birmingham, England, for three years, resigning because of the increased hard work. His home is now at Manchester, and he came to this country for the purpose of making arrangements to export American apples. He claims that he can handle ten thousand barrels of apples a week and he proposes to establish an extensive business abroad.

Mr. Haywood witnessed the obsequies of King Edward and was one of the many hundreds of thousands of people who viewed the body as it lay in state. He was in the line for nearly three hours before he was able to pass the bier in front of interest. Mr. Haywood declares that it was the greatest sight he ever witnessed.

TEN YOUNG PEOPLE ENJOYED CAMP LIFE.

A merry party of campers, including Plainfield, New York and Westfield young people, have just returned from Clark's Landing, Point Pleasant, after an enjoyable outing of ten days. Those in the party were Mr. and Mrs. G. Harold Whitney, Miss Edith Mooney, of Westfield; Miss Margretta Runyon, Miss Ethel Prior, Miss Helen Whitney and Martin H. Stutsman, of this city; Leonard Beckley, Irwin Yerkes and Albert Marsden, of New York city.

There was only one exciting incident of the outing and that was experienced by Miss Runyon. While engaged in crabbing on Saturday, one of the lively little creatures fastened its claws on her finger and before she could release the hold, an injury resulted. The finger swelled to twice its natural size, but prompt treatment relieved the pain and now the finger is almost well again.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Boys' Battalion of the First Baptist church will meet Friday night on the church lawn for the weekly drill.

The regular quarterly meeting of the Temple Baptist church will be held this evening after the prayer meeting.

Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson, of the First M. E. church, will preach at the Union service to be held Sunday night at the First Presbyterian church.

Miss Ethel Prior, of Second street, has returned from a visit with friends at Summit.

LOCAL ASSOCIATION WINS A CLOSE GAME

The Plainfield Y. M. C. A. team defeated the Orange Association nine on Crescent Oval, Saturday afternoon, in one of the best contests of the season, by a score of 3 to 1. The locals scored in the first inning through a single to right by Hand, who went down to second on Fritts' hit to short, and a single by Adams to left brought him home. In the second inning Slocum singled over second base, stole second and came in on Peacock's hit. The third tally was made in the sixth inning. Wilcox singled to right, stole second reached third on a sacrifice and scored on a fielder's choice. Orange scored its only run in the fourth inning. Grover singled after McCall fanned, Denny struck out, and a two-bagger by Knowl brought Grover home. Both pitchers worked well, Frederickson fanning sixteen men. The score:

PLAINFIELD Y. M. C. A.

	R.	H.	Po.	A.	E.
Peacock, l.f.	0	2	2	0	0
Wilcox, c.f.	1	1	1	1	0
Hand, c.	1	2	18	1	0
Fritts, s.s.	0	0	0	1	0
Adams, 1b.	0	1	5	1	0
Marsh, 3b.	0	0	2	0	0
Frederickson, p.	0	0	1	0	0
Slocum, 2b.	1	1	0	0	0
Newell, r.f.	0	1	0	0	0
	3	8	27	3	0

ORANGE Y. M. C. A.

	R.	H.	Po.	A.	E.
Pearce, c.f.	0	1	0	1	0
Moore, 1b.	0	0	3	1	0
Wiebereiske, 2b.	0	2	3	1	0
McGall, s.s.	0	1	1	5	1
Grover, 2b.	1	1	3	4	0
Denny, l.f.	0	0	0	0	0
Knowl, r.f.	0	1	0	0	0
Foley, c.	0	1	8	2	3
Robinson, p.	0	0	0	0	0
	1	7	24	13	2

Two-base hits—Newell, Knowl. Stolen bases—Wilcox, Slocum, Wiebereiske, McGall, Knowl. Base on balls—Off Frederickson, 3; off Robinson, 1. Struck out—By Frederickson, 16; by Robinson, 8. Sacrifice hit—Adams. Hit by pitcher—Fritts. Time of game—1 hr., 40 min. Umpire—Ralph Schoonmaker.

Plainfield ..1 1 0 0 0 1 0 0 x—3
Orange ....0 0 0 1 0 0 0 0 0—1

FOUR FLOCKS UNITED FOR SUNDAY SERVICE

That the steps of a good man are ordered by the Lord formed the basis of an interesting short sermon by Rev. Dr. A. A. Chamblies, of the First Baptist church, at the union service in the First M. E. church, Sunday night. Although the excessive heat had an appreciable effect on the congregation, all four churches joining in the service, were well represented. A quartet choir sang an anthem and a trio, while Miss Jessie Haynes, alto soloist, sang a selection as an offertory.

Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church, read the Scripture lesson, and Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church, offered prayer.

Dr. Chambliss took his text from Psalms 37:23-24, in which it is shown that the Lord directs the footsteps of a good man. "There is something heroic in the man who looks to God," said Dr. Chambliss, "and says by His grace I'll climb up to it. It is not a question whether we are living above sin, but whether after falling from grace we are still able to press onward. We are told that the Lord arranges not only life at large, but every detail.

"We know that he was always busy with details when on earth, giving minute directions. He visited the prisons, healed the sick and made the blind see and He promises the reward to those who are faithful in little things. Sometimes it looks as though life was one series of accidents, but we must remember that not one single step is taken at random and these conditions is it any wonder that He should order the steps of a good man.."

Referring to wrecks in life, Dr. Chambliss said that they were all due to a disregard of the proper signals. There are no wrecks when the Lord orders one's steps. If a man follows God's rule he need have no fears for worry and what a blessed assurance it is if one only commits their way unto the Lord.

The Union service next Sunday night will be held at the First Presbyterian church, and Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, of the First M. E. church, will preach the sermon.

The local ball team meet Flemington, Saturday afternoon on the Flemington diamond. Manager Alberts will present a strong line-up and expects to come home with the game.

A stage load of the members of the B. Y. P. U. of the Baptist Church enjoyed a day's outing at the lake at New Market.

SUGGESTION OF RACIAL PREJUDICE AN INSULT

"It is an insult to the American intelligence to suggest that the supremacy of either the white race or black race is to be determined by a fistic combat," declared Rev. C. E. Herring at the First Presbyterian church, Sunday morning. "It is a dangerous thing for the public welfare to permit such a contest where such is the chief motive, when one of the principals has been called out of retirement to take the title for the white race.

"The Christian Endeavor Societies and kindred organizations speak the thought of millions of the best people of our land in their vigorous opposition to the presentation of the Jeffries-Johnson fight pictures. If it is unlawful to have prize fights in a State, because it is thought unwholesome for the best interests of the community, it should be unlawful to reproduce the prize fight in moving pictures.

"Supreme Court Justice Hendrick says that there is vested in the police, the power to stop exhibitions that tend to degrade the morals of the community and create public disorder." If so, we cannot understand why the Mayor of New York is at a loss what to do. The Mayors of other cities have settled the matter against the pictures. Such an exhibition tends to lower the moral tone of those who go to see them. We learn with much satisfaction from management of the local theatre that the Reno fight pictures will not disgrace our city.

"The racial antipathy that was very much in evidence in the recent fight at Reno has another suggestion. We have had this message of Jesus Christ and His apostles for two thousand years, that 'God hath made of one blood all men, that he has appointed the time of their living and the place of their habitation and that all men of whatever race are members of His family. If this be true, why do professed followers of Christ allow their minds to be dominated by racial antagonism?

"The Heavenly Father as He looks down upon His children does not say, 'I think a great deal more of you because you are a white man and less of you because you are a black man.' The truth will come to your life when the supreme question will not be, 'Who are your ancestors or what is the color of your skin, but what is your relation to God and what did you do for His cause on earth?' That is the all-important thing in this day of opportunity.

PERSONAL.

Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Peck, of West Front street, are sojourning at Asbury Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rowe, of Newark, have returned home after a visit with friends here.

Miss Rodman, of East Seventh street, has gone to Cold Harbor Spring, L. I., to visit friends.

Mrs. Millard F. Elderton, of Park avenue, is sojourning at Asbury Park, being registered at the Arburton.

Miss Grace Clark, of Grandview avenue, is planning to spend her summer vacation in the mountains.

Among the guests registered this week at the Lafayette Hotel, Asbury Park, is Mrs. S. G. Robertson, of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Waring and daughter, of West Seventh street, will spend the summer at Southampton, L. I.

Mrs. Eleanor Frank, formerly of North avenue, is now making her home with her daughter on West End avenue.

The Misses Cahoone, of Watchung avenue, have taken possession of their cottage at Telland, Mass., for the summer.

Mrs. Long, wife of Dr. Samuel Long, of New Brunswick, accompanied by her family, is occupying her summer home in Washington Valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick S. Thompson, of West End avenue, are planning to spend their vacation at their former home of Mrs. Thompson, in Vermont.

Miles Roberts, of Kensington avenue, who has been spending several days with his family at the Tunis Club, Telland, Mass., returned home yesterday. He will spend the last week in July and three weeks in August at the club.

PLAINFIELD WALLOPED BY NEW BRUNSWICK.

The Plainfield nine was no match for the New Brunswick team in Saturday's game at New Brunswick, and as a result the local players were beaten by the score of 10 to 3. McLaughlin and Egan were the opposing twirlers. The score by innings follows:

Plainfield .1 0 1 0 0 1 0 0 0— 3
N. Bruns. . .7 0 0 3 0 0 0 0 x—10

If the streets are to be oiled this summer the work should be done now while the roads are so dusty, so that the residents of the town will not be obliged to remain indoors during the hot weather.

RECIPROCITY WITHDRAWN

New York Physicians Recognized on Treaty Entered Into in 1907.

RELATIONS NOW BROKEN OFF.

Correspondence Between Representatives Shows Animus and an Apparent Discourtesy.

New Jersey doctors can no longer get the privilege of practicing medicine in New York by formal application, following the breaking of the arrangement that went into effect between the two States January 1, 1907, whereby doctors could offer their licenses in the other State and be permitted to practice. The Board of Regents of New York annulled the reciprocal relations on the ground that the New Jersey standard of qualifications for medical students was below that of New York. But New Jersey physicians object to this stand on the ground that the compact was made after long investigation of the medical statutes of both States, and that as no changes were made in New Jersey the action taken by officials in New York is unfair.

The New York Board of Regents held that the New Jersey authorities, working under an opinion of the attorney-general, lowered the standard of requirements as insisted upon by the regents of the Empire State and the latter thereupon refused to license New Jersey doctors, with the result that New Jersey in the future will not indorse licenses that are issued to medical men in New York.

Assistant Commissioner of Education Augustus S. Downing, of New York, said yesterday that it was not a question at any time of the New Jersey authorities refusing to indorse licenses granted in New York, but the regents had been compelled because of interpretation of the statutes to rescind the relations.

"The attorney-general of New Jersey," said Mr. Downing, "gave an opinion last fall that the medical statutes allowed the authorities to receive men who did not have the preliminary education required by the statutes of New York State. They require three years of high school work, and the fourth year work must be made up before the end of the second year of the medical course.

"But the decision of the New Jersey attorney-general was in effect that a man without a high school training might go to the medical school and there complete the high school work. If he had finished his medical course there was nothing for the authorities to do but to graduate him.

"Then you will see the high standard insisted upon by the State of New York was lowered. Last winter the Legislature of New Jersey tried to pass a remedial act so that the statutes would conform to those of New York State. The bill did not get through, however, and there remained nothing for the regents to do except to discontinue indorsing the medical certificates held by New Jersey physicians."

Resentive action of the regents of New York in annulling the reciprocal relations in medicinal affairs, the New Jersey State Board of Medical Examiners decided to refuse indorsement of the certificates of medical licenses issued in New York until such time as New York shall lift the ban.

New Jersey medical examiners, physicians and surgeons take exception to the declaration of the New York authorities that the medical statutes of this State have lowered the standard for applicants for medical license. They contend that ample care is still taken to protect the public from inefficient practitioners.

Dr. H. G. Norton, of Trenton, is secretary of the State Board of Medical Examiners, and he says this State was unfair in placing a ban on the certificates issued there. He has sent the following letter to Mr. Downing:

Trenton, July 12.—The following letter, which seems self-explanatory, has been directed to August S. Downing, first assistant commissioner of education at Albany, N. Y., by Dr. H. G. Norton, secretary of the Board of Medical Examiners of New Jersey:

Your communication of June 23, in reply to mine of 22 ult. in reference to the annulment of the reciprocal relations between the States of New Jersey and New York, has been duly considered.

In reply, I have been directed to advise you that this board feels that the Board of Regents of New York, in rescinding the reciprocity agreement between these States acted without sufficient consideration of the subject, or due regard for the interests of the medical profession.

This reciprocity agreement was reached after long and thorough investigation of the medical statutes of both States on October 25, 1906, and went into effect January 1, 1907. The medical statutes of New Jersey have not changed in any respect since that time nor have the standards of the examinations been lowered. This agreement has worked satisfactorily in the past; is highly prized by the medical profession of both States and promotes the interests of the public and of the profession. This board, therefore, requests that the annulment be reconsidered and the reciprocity agreement be renewed.

Knowing that the medical societies of the State of New Jersey are opposed to indorsing the license of any State which refuses to indorse the license of New Jersey, the Board of Medical Examiners this day passed the following resolution:

Resolved, That on and after November 2, 1910, further indorsement of the certificates of medical license issued by the State of New York or issued by the State of New York agreement of reciprocity between the States of New York and New Jersey is renewed in the interim.

LITTLE FALLS DROPS BEFORE DUNELLENITES

Dunellen had but slight difficulty in scoring a walk over in its game with Little Falls on the Madison avenue field, Saturday afternoon, the home nine winning by the score of 11-2. Coakley was in the box for Little Falls and had he received a semblance of support, there is no doubt but what the fans would have seen a good game. As it was, he had no catcher able to hold him, and every ball he pitched, excepting a straight one got away from his backstop. The Little Falls infield was also erratic and wild, and the game finally resolved itself into one, in which the pitcher, Coakley, was forced to do all the playing.

As a result of Coakley's inability to "speed 'em up," the Dunellen batters enjoyed a slugfest. In the feast Miller and Ramsberger showed to advantage. The score and summary follow:

DUNELLEN.

	R.	H.	Po.	A.	E.
Giddes, ss.	3	1	2	4	0
Giles, 2b.	3	2	4	0	0
Miller, 1.f.	1	2	3	0	0
Ramsberger, c.	2	2	3	1	1
Montross, p.	0	2	0	6	0
Piddington, l.f.	0	1	1	1	1
Nonamaker, 3b.	1	1	7	2	1
Clark, r.f.	0	0	0	0	0
Garretson, r.f.	0	0	0	0	0
Dodwell, 1b.	1	0	9	0	0
	11	12	27	14	3

LITTLE FALLS.

	R.	H.	Po.	A.	E.
Young, 2b., 3b.	0	1	1	2	1
Aldrich, ss.	1	1	0	1	0
Robb, l.f.	0	0	0	0	0
Hughes, 1b.	0	1	12	1	0
Radcliffe, 3b., c.	0	1	5	2	0
Crosley, c.	0	1	2	0	1
Shaefer, r.f., 2b.	0	1	1	1	2
Coakley, p.	1	1	0	5	0
Lake, c.f.	0	0	4	1	0
	2	6	24	13	4

Score by innings:
L. Falls ..1 0 0 0 1 0 0 0 0— 2
Dunellen ..2 4 0 4 1 0 0 0 x—11

Summary:
Sacrifice hits—Miller, Montross, Aldrich. Stolen bases—Giddes (3), Giles, Ramsberger, Nonamaker, Dodwell (2), Young, Aldrich, Radcliffe, Coakley. Two-base hits—Montross, Radcliffe. Struck out—By Coakley, 6; by Montross, 3. Bases on balls—Off Coakley, 6; off Montross, 2. Hit by pitcher—Nonamaker. Wild pitch—Coakley. Passed balls—Radcliffe, (2). Double plays—Lake to Shaefer; Coakley to Hughes to Radcliffe. Left on bases, Little Falls, 4; Dunellen, 6. Time of game, 1.50. Umpire, Frost.

ATLANTIC CITY FOR ELKS' 1911 CONVENTION.

Detroit, Mich. July 13.—In the Grand Lodge of Elks, yesterday, Atlantic City was unanimously chosen for the 1911 convention. For the office of Grand Exalted Ruler there was no contest, the honor going to "Garry" Herman, of Cincinnati. Others elected were: Edward Leach, New York, grand treasurer; P. H. Shields, Clarksburg, W. Va., grand tiler, both re-elected.

A fight is expected for grand esteemed leading knight, Dr. James H. Price, of New Haven, Conn., is hot after this position and his friends are doing a lot of work for him. All the other offices are being contested and the results will not be known until tonight.

The report of Grand Exalted Ruler Sammis shows that the Elks made much progress during the year. The total membership of the order is now 321,288, with 1,206 lodges. The year's net increase in membership was 26,242. The order has spent $3,347,248 in charity since 1880.

Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., will meet tomorrow night and a full attendance of members is desired.

John Hand Camp, No. 28, Sons of Veterans, will meet at Reform Hall, tonight, when it is expected that the division commander will be present. A full attendance is desired.

—Ralph Auerbach, of West Front street, while riding his motorcycle near Morristown on Sunday, severely sprained his wrist. He was attended by Dr. Thomas D. Blair.

DENTISTS OF STATE PLAN FOR A SESSION

Copies of the official program for the fortieth annual session of the State Dental Society have just been issued. They describe the convention as a four-day post-graduate course in modern dentistry." The sessions will be held July 20 to 23, inclusive, in the Beach Front Casino, Asbury Park.

The order of business outlined is as follows:

Wednesday morning—Reading of annual address by President Dr. Charles H. Ditts, of Trenton; miscellaneous society business; proposal of new members; opening of exhibits. Afternoon—Clambake at Green Gables, on Pleasure Bay. Evening—"The Danger of Tuberculosis Infection in the Dental Profession," Dr. David Russell Lyman, Wallingford, Conn.

Thursday morning—"The Opportunities and Possibilities of a Profession," Dr. Andrew J. Flannagan, Springfield, Mass.; "Sugar vs. Civilization," a contradiction of the generally accepted theory of sugar being beneficial, Dr. Robert Roessler, Hoboken. Afternoon—Chair clinics. Evening—Illustrated lecture, "What Dentists Have Done for Other Professions," Dr. B. J. Cigand, Chicago.

Friday morning—"What Free Dental Clinics Have Done for Children," Dr. Alonzo Southard, Boston; report of State Board of Examiners and other committees and election of officers and members. Afternoon—Table clinics. Evening—General reports of all committees, discussions and adjournment.

PROBE IN TO THE RATES OF JERSEY ROADS, JULY 12

Washington, D. C., July 6.—Orders were issued by the Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday providing for a consideration on July 12 of the recent advances in commutation passenger fares out of New York City. The hearing will be held at the Commission's offices in this city. The defendants in the proceeding are the Erie, New York Central, Central of New Jersey, Philadelphia & Reading, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, and Lehigh Valley Railroads, all of which operate out of New York city into or through New Jersey.

The main important question to be determined is the jurisdiction of the Commission over commutation rates, and the arguments probably will be directed to that point particularly.

GOLF.

At a meting held at the Astor House, New York, Monday, the Eastern Professional Golfers' Association voted to conduct its annual championship tournament on Tuesday and Wednesday, July 26 and 27, over the Salisbury links, at Garden City. More than passing interest will be attached to the coming meeting, for the reason that conditions have been changed so as to combine medal and match play.

Contestants will qualify in an eighteen-hole stroke round and then fight it out in flights of eights according to the merit of their scores. There will be three eights. Only on rare occasions have professionals been pitted against each other at hole play and the innovation is bound to prove popular. It was voted to charge an entrance fee of $5, as there is some uncertainty as to the exact amount of money likely to be raised.

A year ago the Eastern championship was held at Scarsdale, and Alec Smith, present national and metropolitan open title holder, won. The usual medal play conditions then prevailed, Smith is not in sympathy with the match play idea, however, so there is some uncertainty as to his competing in the coming affair.

Three new members were elected at Monday's meeting. They were F. H. Bolwood, of Garden City; Dan Mackie, of Dunwoodie, and James Thomson, of the Philadelphia Country Club.

Yale and Politics.

"The ambitions of politics seem to be more and more a divisive force in the family of Yale graduates," says the Springfield Republican. "The troubles of Gifford Pinchot and others with William H. Taft, Yale, '78, are reasonably familiar. Now comes along William N. Runyon, of Plainfield, N. J., who was graduated from Yale in the class with Lee McClung, present United States treasurer, and announces himself as a candidate for the Republican nomination to the seat in Congress held by Charles N. Fowler, who has aired his troubles with and his disapproval of Speaker Cannon on sundry occasions. Mr. Runyon, if we mistake not, was a songster on the Yale Glee Club in his day, while Mr. Fowler was a member of the Yale crew a dozen years earlier."—Elizabeth Journal.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL
My new barber shop at
143 NORTH AVE.
a new open ready for business.
All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.
EDWIN B. HAYNARD.

W. R. CODDINGTON,
Counsellor-at-Law,
Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-Chancery, Notary Public. Offices corner of Park avenue and Second street.

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.
Men and women of good address to represent us; $900 salary guaranteed yearly; others for local work looking after our interests; $500 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and expenses, rapid advancement, old established house. Grand chance for earnest man or woman to secure pleasant, permanent position, liberal income from start. Spare moments may suffice. Write at once.
STAFFORD PRESS,
33 Church St., New Haven, Conn.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Sanitary Plumbing
Brick and Portable Furnace
Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,
Etc., Etc., Etc.
I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.
Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in all cases.
D. W. LITTELL.

DIED.

BALDWIN—On Monday, July 4, at his home in Henderson, Texas, Hugh Gardner Baldwin, son of the late Augustus C. Baldwin, of this city.

LITTELL—Suddenly, at Willow Grove, Fanwood Township, N. J., on Thursday, July 7, Henry Stites Littell, aged 71 years.

ALBERT—On Friday, July 8, 1910, Adeline, wife of John H. Albert, aged 58 years.

PIERCE—On Wednesday, July 6, 1910, Harry, beloved son of Sarah Jane and the late Edward T. Pierce, aged 10 years.

TITSWORTH—At his home in Brooklyn, New York, on Wednesday, July 6, 1910, William W., son of T. B. and Clara Titsworth, aged 42 years.

MOFFETT—Suddenly, at South River, New Jersey, on Thursday, July 7, 1910, William E., son of Susan and the late Elmore D. Moffett, aged 42 years.

SCHMEYER—On Saturday, July 9, 1910, Loretta Francis, daughter of Charles and Bridget Hepner and wife of Edward T. Schmeyer, in her 22d year.

GREDER—In North Plainfield Saturday, July 9, 1910, Charles M., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Greder, aged 15 years and 6 months.

WOMAN IS HELD UP; WATCH ONLY BOOTY

Martha Mock, an employe at the Brass Kettle Inn, near Scotch Plains, was held up last night by an Italian and robbed of her watch. Fortunately for her she had her pocketbook at home. The Italian escaped without being recognized and Miss Mock could give the police no description of him.

The holdup and robbery occurred just after Miss Mock had alighted from the trolley at 8:15 o'clock last night and while she was crossing the fields in the direction of their hotel where she is employed as a maid. The highwayman at first demanded the woman's money, but when she declared that she had none he snatched a silver watch which was dangling from a pin and chain at her shirt waist and made a get-a-way.

Miss Mock gave the alarm as soon as she recovered her equilibrium and senses, but it was then too late to make a pursuit successful.

—Constitutionalist's ads. pay.

SCRAMBLE FOR JUDGESHIP

Runyon Will Not Be a Candidate and Others Want His Place.

WIRE PULLING BEING DONE.

Friends of F. J. Blatz, J. H. Crane, W. G. DeMeza, R. N. Crane, and Others Are Active Already.

As he will be a candidate at the Republican primaries in September for the Congressional nomination in the Fifth district, William N. Runyon, whose term as city judge expires this fall, will not be a candidate to succeed himself. He has served for sixteen consecutive years.

Already there is a scramble for the judgeship and wires are being pulled in every direction to bring down the plum to one of half a dozen aspirants. More prominently mentioned is Francis J. Blatz, who has strong support among some leaders in the "organization." He is conspicuous in fraternal circles. William G. De Meza, another popular young lawyer announced himself as a candidate today.

Robert Newton Crane and J. Henry Crane, the latter a member of the Union County Republican committee, are also in the race. Assessor Harry C. Runyon and V. W. Nash, Jr., are also said to be gunning for the nomination.

J. Henry Crane, like William G. DeMeza and Robert Newton Crane, had done good work for their party in the past. The same is true of H. C. Runyon. Mr. Nash also has many strong friends. All of the candidates are popular and the contest promises to be an exciting one.

None of the "organization" leaders would commit themselves on the subject today when approached by a Daily Press reporter. They said that it was too early to talk about the matter and pointed out that Judge Runyon had not formally announced that he would decline a renomination although they admitted that he could not run for two offices at the primaries.

From what could be learned today through reliable sources the "progressives" have not as yet considered the city judgeship nomination. It is expected, however, that they will name a candidate at the proper time.

MUST PAY $5 WEEKLY FOR HIS CHILDREN

After hearing the story of Mrs. Ada Cruse in the city court last Saturday Judge William N. Runyon placed her husband, Walter Cruse, under $200 bonds to furnish his wife $5 a week for the support of the family of four children. Mrs. Cruse brought the action through Overseer of the Poor Alexander Ayres, who was represented by Robert Newton Crane.

Mrs. Cruse produced a letter written by a Mrs. Ida Robertson, of North Plainfield, which showed the motive for her husband's delinquencies. The letter, written in lead pencil, was full of endearing terms and spoke of a broken heart and other things. The letter fell from the pocket of Cruse's coat unnoticed and it was picked up by his wife. The evidence against Cruse was so strong that Judge Runyon believed the story of neglect and failure to provide and imposed the penalty named. The Cruses are colored folks and the husband is employed at Hillside cemetery.

IT WILL COST HER $20 IF SHE REPEATS OFFENSE

In an endeavor to promote the peace between the families of Joseph Erner and Hannah Minor, the latter was fined twenty dollars with a suspension of its payment on Saturday by City Judge Runyon, but in event of her forgetting herself and repeating her language the fine will have to be paid.

In court this morning Counsellor Samuel S. Swackhamer, who appeared in behalf of Mr. Erner and his family, showed that the trouble had been of long standing and that Mrs. Minor had been the aggressor in all the troubles of the two families.

Judge Runyon in imposing sentence asked the two families to keep apart and Mr. Swackhamer said that his clients would in no way provoke further trouble. The whole fracas was a controversy over a clothesline and occupied nearly an hour of the court's time.

Heard Them.

"If the walls of your flat were so thin why didn't you move?"

"We did, and the other tenants complained that my wife was always dropping pins on the floor."—Harper's Bazar.

BOOMED FRELINGHUYSEN

Assemblyman W. W. Smalley Would Have "Uncle Joe" as Governor.

PRAISED SOMERSET'S SOLON.

He Also Lauded Union County's Representatives in the Lower House at Trenton at Elizabeth Banquet.

President of the State Senate Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, of Somerset county, was boomed for Governor by Assemblyman William W. Smalley of Bound Brook, at a meeting of the Twelfth Ward Republican Club, in Elizabeth Friday night.

It was at first intended that Senator Frelinghuysen would address the meeting, but at the last moment he telegraphed William G. Woodruff, president of the Elizabeth club, that it was impossible for him to appear. As a substitute he sent Assemblyman Smalley.

Before launching the Gubernatorial boom the speaker paid high tribute to Frelinghuysen's State work. He praised teh Senator's automobile and pure food and drug laws, which, he said, Frelinghuysen was largely instrumental in passing.

Smalley also urged that Assemblyman Augustus W. Roberts, Carlton B. Pierce and Lloyd Thompson, representatives of Union county in the assembly, be re-elected. He complimented the people of Union for having, as he said, such able representatives.

During his address Mr. Smalley did not seem confident that the Republicans would triumph in the coming election. Again and again he urged that the local Republicans select god men for the different offices and advised them not to rely on a man's ability for an office, but on his power as a vote-getter.

His address in part follows:

"Not only the best Republicans in New Jersey politics is State Senator Frelinghuysen. During the time he has been working for the State he has been instrumental in passing several laws that showed his sagacity *and far sightedness. The automo*bile and pure food and drug laws were two of the most needed in the country, and much credit is due Mr. Frelinghuysen for their passage.

"Mr. Frelinghuysen is now on a board that is investigating the alleged exorbitant cost of the maintenance of schools. It was by such probes that overnor Hughes, of New York, reached the Gubernatorial office, and it will do the State a world of good if Mr. Frelinghuysen has the same success as the New York executive. The higher he goes the better we shall like it.

"At the present time the Democrats are laughing under their sleeves and mustaches in victory in the fall. We should be careful; we need every vote. It is not sufficient to say that Union county is Republican and that you can elect a Republican nominee without any trouble. The State is in need of your vote, and be sure that you place it where it is most needed."

The president endeavored to have Judge William N. Runyon, of this city, who a few days ago announced that he is a candidate for Congress, speak at the meeting but the judge replied that he had an important engagement.

COSTLY MAUSOLEUM FOR W. P. SMITH PLOT

William Palmer Smith, of Belvidere avenue, has contracted with one of the largest granite works in Vermont for the erection of what will probably be one of the finest and most costly mausoleums in this part of the country. It is to be built at Hillside Cemetery, in memory of his wife who died several months ago. It will occupy a large piece of ground recently purchased by him.

The plans for the mausoleum, it is said, include a small chapel, where services may be held, and the tomb will be a magnificent one from an architectural point of view. The tomb and land together will approximate a cost of many thousands of dollars and will be an imposing structure in that cemetery where there are many handsome ones.

It is proposed to start the work on the mausoleum within a short time, but it will require several months to *complete the same. The site chos*en is on one of the highest points in the cemetery from which an unobstructed view of the surrounding country may be obtained.

A Fearful Fancy.

If all the suffragettes in the world were one big suffragette,
And all the mice that were ever born were in one big mouse, you bet,
And all the anguished cries in the world were gathered in one big peal,
And if that mouse ran after that lady, would that lady squeal?

—New York Evening Sun.

TO PRESERVE BIRD LIFE

U. S. Delegate to International Audubon Society Sessions Returns.

SUPPORTED BY 14 POWERS.

William Dutcher Talks Interestingly of the Work Accomplished At Berlin Convention.

"Women will eventually have to deny themselves the pleasure of adorning their headgear with feathers and plumes of the aims of the International Audubon Societies recently held in Berlin, Germany, are realized. The fact that fourteen of the Powers have taken up seriously the *preservation of birds in the va*rious countries means that the wanton killing of the feathered beauties must stop."

William Dutcher, of Central avenue, who returned Friday on the Cunarder Mauretania, made the foregoing declaration. Mr. Dutcher represented the Department of State, the Smithsonian Institution, the National Museum of American Ornithology and the National Association of Audubon Societies, at the recent convention in Berlin. Two hundred and fifty delegates representing Germany, France, Russia, England, Italy, Denmark, Norway and Sweden and other countries convened during the week of May 30 to *June 5 and during the several ses*sions resolutions were adopted with unanimity regarding the saving of birds and safeguards outlined for their protection.

The discussion on the subject of the preservation of birds in all the countries represented lasted at intervals during the entire week and resulted in the drawing of tentative plans which will lead to final executive action everywhere. It was finally decided that the killing of birds for their plumage would have to be stopped and stringent measures will be taken, especially in tropical countries, to create a feeling of regard for the lives of all birds.

A resolution was passed relating to the exportation and importation of birds which has for its object the prevention of the traffic. An international commission was established to look after this end of the warfare On this commission are Mr. Dutcher, Dr. T. S. Palmer, of the United States Agricultural Bureau, at Washington, representing this country, and Lord Avebury and James Buckland, of England, representing the other powers. Mr. Buckland is one of the foremost ornithologists in the world and his influence will be felt in every part of the world.

Each member of the commission was instructed to present to his respective governments for investigation and reports will be made within the next month covering the results of the convention. Mr. Dutcher said that in Switzerland he had found the people heartily in sympathy with the movement to preserve the bird life of that country and in fact wherever he traveled the sentiment against using bird plumage for adornment. Mr. Dutcher materially assisted Lord Crewe and Sir Edward Grey to pass a bill through parliament which had for its object the prevention of the use of plumage in women's hats in the British realm. The result of his special trip to London in behalf of the bill was successful.

Another interesting feature of the congress was the receipt from Mrs. Russell Sage of a gift of $5,000 for three years, a total of $15,000 which Mrs. Sage desires to be used to conduct a special campaign for the protection of robins. In the letter accompanying the gift Mrs. Sage declared that the slaughter of these birds by foreigners was fast killing off the species in several parts of the United States, and she hoped that by the judicious use of the fund thus provided some measures might be adopted to preserve this distinctly American bird.

The Mauretania did not escape the terrific wind storm which swept the Atlantic on July 4 and had it not been for the counterstemps would have undoubtedly broken the record. The Fourth of July celebration which had been planned for that day had to be postponed until the fifth. Martin Littleton was the speaker on that occasion and made one of his inimitable speeches bringing out the fact that the audience of over five hundred people. Aside from this incidental had day the voyage home was a pleasant one.

*The campaign for bird preserva*tion will be pressed from now on and it is hoped by the societies interested that laws will be passed within the next year which will put a stop forever to the wanton destruction of bird life.

The Protecting Trees.

Redd—It is said that the average annual death rate among all the armies of the world is nine in each thousand.

Greene—That doesn't look as if the trees were disappearing from the face of the earth, does it?—Yonkers Statesman.

N. Y. AMUSEMENTS

To drive away the cares and the heat, there is no place to spend the summer evening like at the Lyric, Forty-second street, west of Broadway, where Louis Aldon is distributing laughs in "The Cheater," a comic opera, composed by Mr. Fun Bacteria. At Lew Fields' Herald Square, Broadway and Thirty-fifth street, Miss Marie Dressler, the chieftess of happyland, is to be seen in "Tillie's Nightmare." "The Summer Widowers," with Lew Fields, generalissimo of the side-splitting army, and Miss Irene Franklin, are packing the house every night at the Broadway, Forty-first street and Broadway. Read the morning papers for matinee performance announcements and when the day's grind is over take your choice—there are bunches of fun given away free at each show. Last time tonight at the Casino for "The Mikado"—an all star cast.

Greater Dreamland's gates at Coney Island are open wide and the greatest collection of laugh-makers ever placed in New York's big playground—this is the management's announcement. General Manager Gumperts has sought the wide world for novel amusements and he is more than satisfied with the result. In fact he has a world's fair, congress of nations, an exposition of world-sought wonders. Among the big new things will be a Borneo village peopled with savages; Alligator Joe's alligator and crocodile farm, a reproducesion of Florida's everglades, with 1,500 living specimens; "The Devil's Thumb," a black art show; and Allas Kid Allen, a spectacle of events in the life of a convict. The Glaciers and "Trip to the Pole," the new ride in Dreamland, is the largest and most picturesque on the island. A big free circus and a dozen fun-making devices and tricks, all free, will add to the merriment. Being on the sea, Dreamland has an ocean boardwalk, promenade and beach, fine bathing and fishing.

LITERARY

There was no surprise in any quarter when, last month, Congress voted to promote Arizona and New Mexico to the rank of statehood. A hard fight, led by Senator Beveridge in his capacity as chairman of the Committee on Territories, gave us the present State of Oklahoma with suitable population and boundaries. Arizona and New Mexico ought to have been united and brought in as one State with a population of not less than fifty years the State might be divided into two if it had population and wealth equal to twice the average of the rest of the tSates of the Union. Let us hope also that their four United State Senators may prove to be men of sound character, even though of limited public experience. —From "The Progress of the World," in the American Review of Reviews for July.

If one may judge from the printed announcements, the remaining numbers of Lippincott's for the year 1910 will fully equal if not surpass, the extraordinary fine ones brought out since the first of the year. Complete novels by George Randolph Chester, author of "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford," "The Cash Intrigue," etc; Zona Gale, who wrote "Romance Island," "The Loves of Pelleas and Etarre," etc.; Grace Livingston Hill Lutz, author of those popular books, "Marcia Schuyler" and "Phoebe Deane"; and others equally popular and well known, will appear in the near future. The complete novel for July is "The Lady Thalia," by Henry C. Rowland, author of "Germaine," "Sea Scamps," and other stirring books.

One of the most moving and intensely human stories the Red Book magazine has ever published is "In the Black Shadow," which Edward Price Bell has written for the July issue. An episode in it is a fight in the water between two men, and the reader is unquestionably thrilled by the vividness with which the conflict is portrayed.

"Success Magazine" for July presents the marriage problem from the business girls viewpoint in an interview entitled "The Business Girl's Ideals" Robert Haven Schauffler. "The Chambleas Roadtown," by Milo Hastings, contains a plan whereby every home-dweller may enjoy the combined comforts of country and city life. "The Cost of Political Pork," by Arthur I. Street, shows how every citizen helps support Congressional extravagance. Orison Swett Marden's editorial for the month appears under the title "The Paralysis of Fear."

Mr. Lounsbury Retires.

Fred C. Lounsbury, who has been the active head of the Dreamland Embossing Co., since its organization some twelve years ago, has disposed of his interest to out of town parties, who have taken over the management of the business, and will operate the plant loacted in this city. Mr. Lounsbury, who was president and treasurer of the concern, will take a much needed rest during the summer months.

WANT AUTO LAW CHANGED

The New Jersey Motorists Demand Reciprocity with Other States.

PLANNING FOR A CAMPAIGN.

First Meeting To Be Held Under Auspices of the Plainfield Automobile Club in August.

The first meeting of an extensive campaign of New Jersey automobilists, advocating the passage of a law properly registered in their home States, to tour in this State free, will be held in Plainfield during the first week in August. It will be held under the auspices of the Plainfield Automobile Club, one of the members of the Associated Automobile Clubs, following which will come meetings in Middlesex, Newton and Hunterdon counties.

The campaign is under the direction of a joint committee of the Associated Automobile Clubs of New Jersey and the New Jersey Automobile Trade Association. The former is a federation of all the automobile clubs of New Jersey while the latter is an organization composed of practically every automobile dealer in the State.

Last Wednesday night, in Newark, the organization meeting of the committee, W. Clive Crosby, past president of the New Jersey Automobile *and Motor Club, of that city, an or*ganization having over 2,000 members and ranking second in this country, was elected chairman. W. H. Ellis, a motor car dealer of the same city, and an official of the State Trade Association, was made secretary. The other members of the joint committee representing the Associated Automobile clubs are: Joseph H. Wood, president of the federation; J. H. Edwards, past president of the Automobile club of Hudson county; George A. Post, of the North Jersey Automobile club, having its headquarters in Paterson, and Harry Marshall, of the Plainfield Automobile Club. The Trade Association's other delegates are George Blakeslee, of Jersey City, president of the dealer's organization; George Paddock, of Newark, past president; George H. Smith, of Newark, and Charles R. Zackarias, of Asbury Park.

MUST LET HORSE REST; THE S.P.C.A. IS ACTIVE

While John Crowley, of Rock avenue, was found technically guilty of cruelty to his horse in the city court this morning no fine was imposed by Judge Runyon, Crowley was ordered to allow his horse to remain idle and to procure necessary veterinary medical attention and to report the result to Judge Runyon before putting the horse to work.

The action against Crowley was brought by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, represented by Mrs. S. G. Van Hoesen, who had as counsel Robert Newton Crane. Mr. Crowley was defended by William G. De Meza.

It was alleged in the complaint that Crowley had maltreated his horse by driving it to a plough when in an unfit condition. Several witnesses were called for the defense and only two for the society.

*According to the testimony ad*duced by the society, Crowley was using a horse which had sustained an injury to its ankle and was consequently unfit for work. Dr. F. C. Herbert gave a technical description of the injury and said that it was his opinion that the animal could not be cured. Dr. Herbert also declared that the horse could not step on the injured member without pain and believed that it would be cruel to keep the horse at work.

Dr. Herbert asserted that the animal had so strained the tendons of impossible to bring them back to their normal condition. Dr. Pocock who was called for the defense said he believed the horse could be cured with proper attention and complete rest.

Mr. DeMeza's argument in behalf of his client was such as to make Judge Runyon take a lenient view of the matter with the above result.

A CENTRAL FASTENING.

To fasten the summer frock down the very centre of the back, as it should always be fastened if the best effect is to be got, reverse the old theory of plackets, which demanded a broad hem on top and a narrower one beneath.

Make now a one-inch hem on the left side at the back, and make a half-inch hem on the right side. Draw a line of basting thread down the centre of the wider hem, and to this line lap the right side half-inch hem.

Use either buttons and loops or hooks and eyes, and the fastening will be absolutely in the centre of the back.

HIS 'PULL' NO GOOD HERE

R. J. Hartman, of New Brunswick, is Fined for Fast Driving.

BOASTED OF HIS INFLUENCE.

Kelly Locked Him Up and Court Complimented the Policeman After Prisoner Had Called Him "a Cad."

When E. J. Hartman, of New Brunswick, who claimed to be immune from "persecution by the police" because of his intimate political acquaintance with the authorities in his home town, was fined $10 in the city court on Saturday by Judge William Runyon and at the same time had to listen to a eulogy of the patrolman who arrested him and his friend Henry Weber, of Richmond street, New Brunswick, he nearly fainted.

Patrolman John Kelly arrested Hartman and Weber on Thursday afternoon for reckless driving at the busiest corner in the city, Park avenue and Front street, incidentally saving the lives of two little girls who were crossing the street at the time. Hartman and Weber were released on cash bail on Thursday evening by Judge Runyon and when their case was called this morning Hartman relieved his system of a few choice excerpts from the English diplomatic code during which he announced that Patrolman Kelly was a "low lived cad" and had no right to arrest him and besides was entirely wrong in his conception of his duties.

Hartman and Weber, according to Patrolman Kelly's statement, drove around the corner of Park avenue and Front street at reckless speed and when asked to stop failed to pay attention to the policeman. Kelly ran after the rig and stopped it receiving abuse for his trouble. "You can't scare me" said Hartman, "I'm the friend of the Mayor of New Brunswick and the Chief of Police of that city is also my friend," accompanying these sage remarks with epithets unprintable. Patrolman Kelly thought *differently about the au*thority vested in him and drove the rig to headquarters where Mr. Hartman and his friend were locked up.

In deciding to fine Hartman this morning Judge Runyon referred with pride to the reputation of Patrolman Kelly who has not yet been accused of losing his temper nor of ever having been delinquent in his duty. Hartman was represented by Walter L. Hetfield and when fined paid his money promptly.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

"Dreams are curious things," remarked the amateur psychologist. "Time does not seem to enter into their composition at all. For instance, the other day I was sitting on the porch of a hotel with a friend of mine smoking after lunch. It was a drowsy day, and conversation lagged. Presently I saw my friend nodding in his chair. He had dozed off, holding his lighted cigar in his left hand which was folded over his right. His left hand relaxed and the end of the cigar came in gentle contact with the right hand, inflicting a slight burn.

"'The hell it won't!' exclaimed my friend, waking with a start.

"The sentence sounded so incongruous that I burst out laughing. 'Won't what?' I asked.

"'How long have I been asleep?' he asked.

"'Not more than a couple of minutes,' I replied.

"'It doesn't seem possible,' he said. 'During that time I had a dream that pretty nearly took me around the world. I sailed for Southampton, did England, France, Switzerland and a part of Italy, then through the Orient into India. It was in India that I became much interested in one of the native snake charmers. He had the snakes crawling all over him and offered me one to fondle. I told him I was afraid it would bite me. He assured me that it wouldn't, and I took the reptile in my hand. It promptly fastened its fangs in me. I said 'The hell it won't' and dropped it, and then I woke up.'

"I explained the episode of the lighted cigar," concluded the amateur psychologist, "and we both laughed."—N. Y. Sun.

WITH MANICURE SCISSORS.

The small curved scissors is an invaluable little implement in the hands of the all-around capable woman. It belongs to the manicure tray.

We all know of its use as a stencil cutter, and it will prove equally necessary for the cutting out of embroidery, whether machine or hand made, and for the cutting away of material under laces to make them transparent.

Theer are curved lines in sewing that will be more safely cut out and small spaces into which no other scissors will so successfully get as the manicure blade.

THIEF ALSO BIGAMIST?

Robert Cameron, Alias Mac Gowan, It is Alleged Has Two Wives.

LOOTED THE ABBOTT TRUNKS.

Pawn Tickets in Pockets Leads to Discovery of Local Thefts —Auctioneer Out $12.

Through the arrest in Trenton on Wednesday afternoon of Robert Cameron, alias Robert MacGowan, there has come to light one robbery committed in this city during the past month in which the property of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Abbott was stolen from trunks while being packed for shipment to New York. It also develops that the thief is an alleged bigamist, having a wife in Trenton, it is said by the police, and another with whom he lived here and whom he married in Camden a year ago. This latter wife has disappeared and she is being sought by the police of two cities.

On last Wednesday morning Robert Murray, the auctioneer, reported to Chief of Police Kiely that he had come into possession of some fine linen towels, tablecloths, etc., on which there were initials and that he was suspicious of the ownership of the goods. Upon examination they proved to be about $150 worth of the lacking goods and were proven to be the property of the late Mr. and Mrs. Abbott. On questioning Mr. Murray, Chief Kiely learned that he had purchased the stuff from Cameron.

Cameron secured the goods while working as assistant to a local furniture packer. The woman whom Cameron had introduced as his wife assisted in the disposal of the goods and immediately vanished. On Wednesday evening Chief Kiely received word from the Trenton police that they had arrested Cameron or MacGowan on another charge and that having found several pawn tickets in his pockets dated Plainfield asked the chief to look the man up. The investigation resulted in the above findings.

While here Cameron lived under the name of MacGowan and with his wife boarded with William Hauser, a fireman, on East Second street. It is believed that Cameron succeeded in looting other homes during his short stay here and after the goods represented by the pawn tickets are found they will probably be recovered. Cameron will have to face the charge of bigamy as well as two charges of robbery and it is not at all likely that he can be prosecuted in this county until after serving possible sentences. In any event it looks as though Mr. Murray were out his twelve dollars and the recovery of the stolen linen assured. The goods had been stored in Stillman's ware house pending their packing and removal to New York. The total amount of Cameron's stealings cannot now be ascertained.

MAY SOON ESTABLISH A TUBERCULOSIS CAMP

The Board of Freeholders at its July meeting in the Courthouse, Elizabeth, Thursday, decided to make some changes in the improvement of Turkey road, connecting Cranford with Springfield. It is proposed to cut out a short section of that thoroughfare for improvement and substitute another section, which will necessitate going over all the plans again.

The committee on the establishment of a proposed county tuberculosis camp, yesterday held a meeting and it is now believed that favorable action will be taken this year, instead of waiting until next year. It will approximately cost $150,000 to establish such a camp to say nothing of the cost of maintenance, but considerable pressure is being brought to bear to have the matter taken up at this time.

While a site has not been selected, an excellent one proposed is on the mountains between Scotch Plains and Westfield, within easy access of the trolley line. Freeholder J. Hervey Doane, of this city, is chairman of the committee who now has the matter under advisement.

The Pessimistic Argument.

"Here's an Alabama man, 97 years of age, says he has eaten hot biscuits regularly all his life," said the optimist.

"Oh, well," replied the pessimist, "just see how much older he would have been if he hadn't eaten hot biscuits."—Yonkers Statesman.

Way to Serve Them.

He—Do you know how to serve mushrooms?

She—Yes; on toast.

"And do you know how to serve toadstools?"

"Yes, leave 'em alone."—Yonkers Statesman.

ORGANIZATION SUPPORT FOR JUDGE W. N. RUNYON

Many Leaders Declare Themselves in Favor of Plainfielder as G. O. P. Congressional Candidate.

Offers of support and congratulations have kept Judge William N. Runyon's time occupied more than ever since the formal announcement of his candidacy for a congressional nomination was made by him Wednesday afternoon through the public press. Already a movement is on foot here among the business men to organize a club to boom him for the Republican nomination. As predicted yesterday, the "organization" leaders throughout the district today announced that the judge would make an ideal candidate and that he would receive their support.

Republican County Chairman Frank H. Smith, who Charles N. Fowler, in the public announcement of his candidacy labelled an "echoing parrot" and insinuated that he handled 'the long green," was wired last night for his opinion. This was the telegram sent to Westerly, R. I., where he is spending his vacation: "Judge Runyon today announced his candidacy for Republican nomination for Congress. As Union county chairman, what have you to say." This is the prompt reply received early this morning:

"Heard of Runyon for Congress last week when I was in Plainfield. I found sentiment for him in other parts of the county. My opinion is that he would make a good man and would reflect credit on our district. He has marked ability, a sound education, is an eloquent speaker and a man of good judgment. Sometimes he has been opposed to me in matters of party policy, but I have always respected him. I don't know of a better man. He will help the party to win this fall if he is nominated. I will do everything I can to elect him."

State Treasurer Daniel S. Voorhees, of Morris county, stated to a reporter that a high class man should be the standard bearer of the Republican party in the Fifth district and that in his own opinion Judge Runyon measured up to the requirements. He said that it is essential that the party win the congressional fight this fall for President Taft would need strong men at Washington to help him carry out the Republican platform and policies.

"Judge Runyon is well known to us over here in Morris county," said Mr. Voorhees, "and I think we all agree that he is an efficient, capable and conscientious man. No, so far as I know, there is no man in Morris seeking the congressional nomination. We had hopes that James H. McGraw would announce himself but he is not in the best of health and has decided to spend the summer abroad recuperating. John D. Capstick would also have been a first rate man but he does not desire to be nominated. So far as I can learn there is no candidate over here. I consider Judge Runyon well qualified to serve as our congressman."

William Jeffery, president of the Plainfield Board of Trade, stated that he could only talk in his private capacity as a voter and exercising that privilege he desired to say:

"I think that Judge Runyon not only possesses every qualification for the office but he possesses rare ability. In my opinion, his candidacy should appeal to every voter, irrespective of party affiliations, and I believe that he will receive an overwhelming majority at the primaries. I am going to pull off my coat and work, too, him in all three counties."

A. P. Force, president of the Plainfield Merchants' Association, is enthusiastic over the announcement made by Judge Runyon. To a representative of this paper he said this morning:

"I tell you, you can't beat h'm. It made my heart glad to read the judge's public letter in the papers last night. I have talked to a whole lot of the business men and not one of them had anything but the best thing to say about the judge. Everybody seems to be for him. You ought to have seen the ovation he got when he appeared at the banquet last night. It was simply great. We want him nominated and we want him elected."

When asked for his opinion on Judge Runyon's candidacy, Assistant Prosecutor Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., chairman of the City Republican Committee, said today:

"Personally I regard Judge Runyon as a strong man and a vote-getter. He should prove acceptable to all and his candidacy I really believe will have the effect of ending any factional difference. I am elated over the judge's announcement, for with him the Republican party here should sweep the city—he's the strongest man that could be named so far as Plainfield is concerned and I believe this is true in Union county."

"There is no one I would rather see run for Congress than Judge Runyon, of Plainfield," said Captain Robert Kirkland, of Elizabeth, the sheriff of Union county. "He is a good, capable man and without a particle of doubt he will get the nomination. The judge is a crackajack candidate and I am sure he will make a good run."

Prosecutor Addison C. Swift, of Elizabeth, said: "The judge is a most capable man and is peculiarly fitted for Congress. He is an excellent candidate and I am sure the party will give him liberal support."

"Farmer-Orator" James E. Martine greeted Judge Runyon this morning and told him how he had watched his career and was overjoyed to hear of his announcement.

"Judge, I want to say to you," said Mr. Martine, in the presence of a Daily Press reporter, "that I am darned glad to hear the news. I never did take any stock in that man Fowler. Charlie Fowler, I believe is a fakir. You're an honest fellow, a conscientious fellow, a clean fellow. It is too darned bad that you are not a Democrat. You ought to be one. I always give the devil his due and that is why I give the Republican 'machine' its due for approving of Will Runyon. You're the strongest man that band of pirates could agree upon. I say this, although Bill, I won't vote for you, as much as I admire you."

ENCOURAGING REPORT FROM HEALTH BOARD

Fewer cases of scarlet fever and diphtheria were reported than during the previous month at the July meeting of the Board of Health last week as shown by this table: Scarlet fever, 5; diphtheria, 1; tuberculosis, 3; chicken-pox, 3; measles, 3; typhoid fever, 1; total, 20. During June 105 inspections were made in connection with the plumbing, 174 in connection with the milk supply and 547 in connection with general work. The last named work included inspections on complaints, rear yards, vaults and cesspools, house-to-house canvass, ice cream manufacturers, butcher shops, dumping grounds, restaurants, etc.

The sample of city water taken for analysis showed it to be of the usual excellent quality. Fifty-nine samples of milk and five of cream were analyzed during the month. Eighty-four per cent. of the milk was above the same as last month, but the bacteria was considerably lower.

These returns were made to the office during the month: Marriages, 29; births, 44; still births, 2; deaths, 24. Over fifty per cent. of the deaths were of persons over sixty years of age.

Jacob Voehl, Jr's., plumbing boad was accepted and ordered filed. These men were granted permits to conduct barber shops in the city: William C. Burns, Michael J. Devine, Angelo Brancati, James H. Bolling and Eugene Phillips. These were granted permits to sell milk: A. J. Deutsch to sell milk from a restaurant and Russell Edson to sell a few quarts of milk. A permit was also granted to Isaac White to collect small dead animals.

Permits were granted to the following to sell ice in this city: John Morton, Plainfield Ice and Supply Company, Frank T. Ostrom, Crystal Ice and Coal Company, B. Epstein and George R. Schenck. The 1909 annual report of the Board of Health has been distributed among many taxpayers of the city. Copies will be furnished to anyone on application.

Miss Vail's Birthday Party.

Theodocia Vail, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Vail, of Elmwood place, was eleven years old yesterday and in the afternoon a party was given in her honor. The affair was held from 2:30 to 5:30 o'clock and the company enjoyed playing all kinds of games, after which refreshments were served. Miss Vail received a number of gifts from relatives and friends. Among the children present were Laura Jack, Marie Moffett, Grace Vail, William Volk, Anna Volk, Helen Dobbins, Theodocia Vail; also Mrs. J. E. Jack and Mrs. G. Elmer Volk.

Pinto in a New Role.

Effingham Pinto, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Pinto, of West Eighth street, who scored such a success in the "Climax," which had a phenomenal run in New York and throughout the country, is now rehearsing a new play entitled "Baby Mine," to be produced in about three weeks by William A. Brady. The company is rehearsing the play at Atlantic City, where it will be seen for the first time. "Baby Mine" is a comedy and gives promise of being a success.

Gets Contract at Westfield.

Joe Manhattan, of this city, has just been given a $6,000 contract by the town of Westfield, for sidewalk and curbing work on New York and South avenues and North street. The work was started today and according to the contract must be completed by September 1.

MR. SCHWED THEIR GUEST

Veteran Merchant Honored by His Fellows at the Hotel Waldorf.

AFFAIR WAS ELABORATE.

Representative Men Paid Tributes to Guest of Honor—An Ovation for Judge Runyon.

Herman S. Schwed, of 99 Wedgewelt avenue, was paid a glowing tribute by some 75 fellow merchants Wednesday night, at the Hotel Waldorf, who assembled to bid him "bon voyage" on his trip to Europe, which he, in company with Mrs. Schwed, is to take shortly. The dinner was given by the members of the Board of Trade and the Merchants' Association, of which organizations, Mr. Schwed is a member. The invited guests were selected from the various walks of life, with whom Mr. Schwed in his long successful career in this city, has come in contact.

Mr. Schwed has been in the clothing business in Plainfield for over a quarter of a century. During this period, he has been actively identified with the civic affairs of the city, devoting much time and attention to the work of both the Board of Trade and the Merchants' Association. That his efforts and endeavors have not gone unappreciated, was manifested splendidly last evening, as evidenced by the tributes, which were paid him by the speakers on the toast list.

Of these Judge William N. Runyon was perhaps the most forceful, as he dwelt to no little extent upon Mr. Schwed's good work in the city. A. E. Force, president of the Merchants' Association, was toastmaster and the other speakers of the evening were: Judge Newcorn, William Jeffery, president of the Board of Trade, Judge William N. Runyon, ex-Sheriff Coriell, Prof. A. S. Herr, J. V. E. Vanderhoef, Francis Blatz, M. C. Van Arsdale, Postmaster Bird, H. C. Duttenhofer, W. Arthur Clark, president of the Borough bank, John Becker and Charles Schwed, a brother of the guest of the evening. The latter comes from Somerville, and was well pleased at the esteem which his brother was held in by his townspeople, as evidenced at the evening's gathering.

When Judge Runyon, who announced his candidacy for Congress yesterday morning entered the banquet hall after the other guests were seated, he was given a tremendous ovation and hailed as "Our next Congressman." Cheers rang through the hall and the judge was visibly affected.

The menu as offered by the management of the Waldorf was splendid, and the committee in charge of the dinner, consisting of A. E. Force, H. Adelberg and George W. Christian, expressed themselves as well satisfied with everything. Suhr's orchestra furnished the music.

The menu card contained this list of toasts:

"Our Assets," Watch Dog Arnold; "Our Guest," Bill Oldcorns; "Nothing," Bill Clark; "Ourselves," Georgie Grief-in; "What I Am Doing and Who I Am Doing," Anna S. Herr; "How I Made Plainfield Circles," Jeff; "Just Something," Bo Mark Bidwell; "Where I Get On," Suspended Sentence Runyon; "Cut Me Out," Highman Adelberg.

Those present were: Moses Hellman, F. M. Ward, Charles R. Goldsmith, John Becker, Isaac Schwsed, Charles Schwed, Somerville, A. E. Force, F. A. Duttenhofer, J. V. E. Vanderhoef, Jr., Francis J. Blatz, J. S. Johnson, Herbert Schuldenfried, W. A. Clark, M. C. van Arsdale, J. Weinberger, C. Levy, J. Fass, Elias H. Bird, William N. Newcorn, J. P. Emmons, Steven Schlief, F. J. Blatz, B. F. Coriell, Henry Liefke, A. S. Herr, L. B. Wobleton, H. Adelberg, P. S. Sadler, Leo Sloslin, C. Applegate, W. N. Runyon, George Christian, Thad Doane, Jr., V. G. Pierson, George Griffin, William F. Arnold, Herman Schwed.

PICNIC ENJOYED BY WARREN CHAPEL'S MISSIONARIES.

The members of the Missionary and Aid Society of Warren chapel enjoyed their annual picnic Thursday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Gavett in the Watchung valley. About forty members attended and the affair was voted the most enjoyable ever held by the society.

Nearly everyone carried a basket lunch and at noon the big barn which had been decorated with Japanese lanterns and bunting, was an enlivening scene. A happy throng it was, gathered around the bountiful baskets and when Mr. Gavett and Rev. J. O. McKelvey arrived there was additional interest added to the scene.

After the luncheon a peanut hunt engaged the attention of the picnicers and upon its conclusion rather interesting games were played. At 4 o'clock ice cream and cake were served and at 5 the members left for home. A vote of thanks was given to Mrs. Gavett for the reception and her efforts to make everyone comfortable.

FOURTH OF JULY DANCE HAS 'SEQUEL IN COURT

An echo of the Fourth of July celebration held in a dance hall on Plainfield avenue by some of the colored population was aired in the police court Thursday with the result that James Spring, of West Third street was fined five dollars which was paid.

Patrolman O'Keefe told the story of the arrest and the abuse heaped on him by Spring, but the policeman did not know of the motive actuating the assault of which Spring was accused by two colored boys and which resulted in the imposition of the fine.

On the evening of Independence Day some colored fellow be... a dance in the Plainfield Hall and during the evening William Peterson and Thos. Jones had an altercation with Spring during which it was alleged by Peterson that Spring threatened to shoot him. What the trouble was about did not appear, but it is sure that it was of a nature calculated to arouse the demon jealousy in Spring.

Spring in an endeavor to drown his disappointment over what he termed was a frustrated love affair engulfed all the whiskey that he could hold and started up the street with fire in his eye. After knocking Peterson into the gutter with a right hand uppercut he attempted to administer the same dose to Jones. The latter eluded the punch and started to run. Jones alleged that Spring drew a knife on him, but the officer who made the arrest failed to find any weapon. All the above came out in the stories told in court this morning before Judge William N. Runyon.

CANCELLED 46 YEAR DEBT; COULDN'T PAY INTEREST

Mrs. Carrie F. Searles, 76 years old, of East Jersey street, Elizabeth, has canceled a $5 debt which she incurred at the store of Black Brothers in Mansfield, Ohio, forty-six years ago. It required many sacrifices in which she saved a few pennies at a time to wipe out the debt. Mrs. Searles, upon whom fell the responsibility of rearing and educating her own child and three grandchildren, has a very small income. Several times she was able to pay the principal of the debt, but refused to do so without including interest.

The Black Brothers are dead, and the debt was forgotten until William G. Black, son of one of the brothers, received this letter and a money order for $5.

"Forty-six years ago I bought $5 worth of goods in Mansfield. I was a poor widow with one child. Fortune has always smiled on me by giving me plenty of friends, but has always given me a poor purse. After a few years I could have sent the $5 with sacrifices, but I was ashamed to send it without interest. Then my son died, leaving me with three little orphans to rear and educate. Now this is accomplished, and I am 76 years old, with a small income. I despair of ever being able to pay both principal and interest. But, I do not wish to die in debt."

"The debt has hung over me like a pall. Now it is paid and my conscience is greatly relieved. A debt is a debt, no matter how long it stands."

HE SAYS A GOOD WORD FOR THE COLLEGE MAN

Isaac Sharpless, president of Haverford College, read a paper on "The Religious Education of Boys and Young Men" at the Friends' Conference at Asbury Park yesterday. Speaking of young men who go to college for higher education, President Sharpless said that these had a decided advantage over the less fortunate youths.

The young men in college, as a whole, lead a better, cleaner and more moral life than others. The tendencies and influences surrounding them are toward such a life and were steadily improving. Of course, in many colleges, the smaller ones especially, there was a set or class of individuals whose influence was not for the best, and sometimes the whole body of young men was affected by this.

It was the duty of the Friends was to overcome this evil influence and substitute one which would work for good instead.

To Remove Paint and Ink.

Paint can be removed from glass by rubbing it with hot, strong vinegar. Stains on the hands can be removed by the cold juice of a lemon, and ink marks will soon yield to pumice stone.

To remove ink stains from linen, dip the articles in milk and let it soak for about two hours, then take out and wash with soap while the milk still remains on the spots of ink. This will remove any long-standing stain.

BAR ASSOCIATION SPLIT?

Stormy Session at Annual Election With Many Uncomplimentary Remarks.

TWO FACTIONS ARE BITTER.

Samuel S. Swackhamer Elected President—Opposition to Judge Newcorn—Borough Gets All the Offices.

Whether or not a new Bar Association will be formed in this city will depend altogether upon the action to be taken later by the younger element in the membership. It developed at the meeting of the association this morning that the present operations of the Plainfield Bar Association are not acceptable to the new members, and in fact two factions are opposed to each other in the matter relating to the social side of the membership. Some are content to allow the present condition of inactivity to continue while the younger men want more action.

At the meeting of the association in the court room of the district court this morning some bitterness was shown when the nominations of the association as prepared at a caucus held on Tuesday night were put before the meeting. According to the original plan the young lawyers had outlined a series of meetings, the changing of the by-laws, an annual dinner and a reference library, but these innovations did not strike the older members as being the best thing for the association and the ticket which had been prepared was sidetracked and the wishes of the older members prevailed.

Judge William Newcorn, whom the younger men wished to have as president of the organization, made a speech in which some of the members of the older organization were scathingly rebuked.

A tilt between Judge Newcorn, W. V. Nash, Jr., Judge Isaac P. Runyon and F. J. Blatz followed the nominations and many bitter things were said. Some of the lawyers present were characterized as shysters and political tricksters, and in fact, the meeting was one of the kind where professional courtesy appeared to have been thrown to the winds.

According to the best information obtainable, the young men of the association had believed that the old bar association had become defunct. But they discovered that after a four years' absence and apparent desuetude they had suddenly come to life and were on the job to frustrate the plans in view. It was suggested by Mr. Nash that the object of the organization ought to be one in which all the membership could concur without friction. In support of this opinion he offered as an amendment to the present by-laws which would make every lawyer in the city a member. In supporting his idea Mr. Nash said that if all were agreed on a tariff of fees there would be none of the petty scurrying after petty cases and a more complete and fraternal understanding would ensue.

Another suggestion which found favor with the young lawyers was the establishment of a reference library. This seemed to please the majority and will in all likelihood become a part of the common property of those who want information when cases are tried, which no one lawyer would care to keep in his book-case unless he had one bigger than the average Carnegie library.

It was a matter of common report this morning on the street that illegality was complained of in the matter of the election of the young lawyers who had selected Judge Newcorn as their president; F. J. Blatz, vice-president; W. V. Nash, Jr., secretary, and A. C. Randolph, treasurer.

The explanation was simple. There were many who believed that the old organization which was formed in 1906 had ceased to exist, as it was known that no meetings had been held during the past four years and its activities apparently had become a thing of history. The young men, therefore believed it incumbent upon them to establish a bar association upon a permanent basis with something besides the plain routine of business to occupy their time in it. They even went so far as to suggest an annual banquet and other diversions, which coming to the ears of the original organizers caused the fracas.

The new officers of the association elected this morning were: President, Samuel S. Swackhamer; vice-president, Judge Isaac P. Runyon; secretary, Charles M. Dolliver and treasurer, A. C. Randolph. The trustees elected were: Craig A. Marsh, Nelson Runyon and W. R. Codington.

Instructor in Eye Diseases.

Dr. H. V. Hubbard, of Central avenue, has been reappointed instructor in diseases of the eye at the New York Post Graduate Medical School and Hospital, New York, and will have full charge of the clinic during the summer season. This is the fifth year that Dr. Hubbard has been honored with this appointment.

MARRIAGE LAW POINTS OF INTEREST TO ALL

Many persons are in doubt or unaware of the requirements of New Jersey's new marriage license law. Among these are not only persons destring to enter matrimony and who don't know how to get there under the new order of things, but also clergymen, magistrates and others qualified by law to perform the marriage ceremony.

For the benefit of these, the following list of features of the new license law and its obligations are set forth:

A license is required in every case where marriage within the State of New Jersey is contemplated. This applies to residents as well as non-residents.

Both parties to each contemplated marriage must appear in person before the city clerk or other local registrar of vital statistics and give satisfactory replies to a stated list of questions to determine their qualifications. In townships where there is no registrar, the assessor of taxes is the official authorized to issue licenses.

An identifying witness in addition to the parties contemplating marriage, is required, in case where the principals are not known to the city clerk. The identifying witness must also establish his or her own identity to the city clerk.

No license to marry can be issued to any person who, at the time of applying for the same, is under the influence of intoxicating liquor or a narcotic drug, or is an imbecile, epileptic or of unsound mind.

If the prospective bride is a resident of this State, application for a license must be made in the municipality in which she resides.

If both parties are non-residents, the license must be obtained in the municipality in which the marriage ceremony is to be performed.

The marriage license and marriage record are on the opposite sides of one certificate. The license when issued is presented to the person performing the marriage, who fills in the record on the reverse side of the paper. This certificate must be filed within five days of the marriage with the proper official of the municipality in which the marriage shall have taken place. Where the license is issued in one municipality and the marriage is performed in another, the return must be made to the proper official of the latter.

Any person hitherto qualified by law to perform a marriage ceremony retains such qualification under the marriage license law.

Persons authorized to perform marriages are also empowered to require statements from contracting parties under oath in order to ascertain whether impediments exist, and to administer such oaths. False statements made under an oath so administered are punishable the same as other forms of perjury.

No fixed period of time need elapsed between the issuance of a license and the performing of the marriage ceremony. The marriage may be solemnized immediately upon the issuance of the license or later, at the convenience of the contracting parties.

Section eleven of the new law provides that "nothing in this act contained shall be deemed or taken to render by common law or other marriage, otherwise lawful, invalid by reason of the failure to take out a license as is herein provided.

The penalty for performing a marriage ceremony without the presentation of a license is imprisonment for a term of six months, a fine not to exceed $500, or both.

The penalty for any person making a false certificate of marriage is $100 fine.

The penalty for failure to file the certificate or official record of marriage within five days with the proper municipal officer is $50 in each instance.

Woman's Way.

Two burglars were on their trial and had engaged a smart lawyer for their defense, who, on cross-examining one of the witnesses, said:

"You say that on the night in question the moon was so bright that you could see the burglars in the room. Was your husband awake at the time?

Witness—I don't know.

"Was his face turned toward you or not?"

The witness answered that she did not know.

"What! You don't know? Now, come; tell me, was his face turned toward you or the wall?"

"I don't know."

"Ah, ha! I thought so" (turning to the jury). "She could not see. She who identifies the prisoners could not see which way her husband's face was turned. Explain that if you can."

"Well, sir, my husband is so bald that in a dim light I can't tell his face from the back of his head."—The Tatler.

UNION CO. G.O.P. TICKET

Senator Ackerman Likely to Be Unopposed at the Party Primaries.

TO NAME THREE ASSEMBLYMEN

Thompson, Pierce and Schwartz Are Said to Be Anxious to Be Returned—A Coroner to Be Selected Also.

It is generally believed that State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, of this city, will be a candidate for a third term in the upper house at Trenton. The Union county lawmaker is in Europe, but will be home earlier this summer than usual because a candidate for the Senatorship will be chosen at the September primaries.

There is no one else announced as a Republican candidate and it is said to be quite certain that Mr. Ackerman will be unopposed. The "organization," it is said, is strongly for him and, it is believed, that the "progressives" will give him their endorsement.

Three nominations for Assembly will be made at the September primaries. Each of the present assemblymen, Augustus Schwartz, of Elizabeth; Lloyd Thompson, of Westfield, and Carlton B. Pierce, of Cranford, are reported to be seeking renominations. Mr. Pierce has already served three terms capably and there appears to be no opposition to his getting a fourth.

Lloyd Thompson is ending his first term and therefore, it is said following the custom, the "organization" will back him for a renomination. "Gus" Schwartz has already filled two terms and is now actively working to secure a third. He appears to be the only one about whom there is doubt as to the "progressive" attitude. It is reported that he will meet with the opposition of the "new idea" men.

A corner is also to be nominated, but there is no interest shown regarding that office.

LAWN FESTIVAL AT GRACE M. E. CHURCH

The two nights' lawn festival which was held on the lawn of the Grace M. E. church under the auspices of the Epworth League of the church, and which closed Friday night was a decided success in every particular. Besides the entertainment part, which was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone present, at least $100 was cleared. This, in view of the fact that rain fell on the opening night, makes the affair more than a success.

The entertainment was undertaken by the cabinet of the Epworth League of that church, of which Benjamin Shuck is president, and to whose efforts the success of the affair is in a large measure attributable. The other members of the cabinet, who composed the general committee for the festival were: First vice president, Miss Mabel Stevens; second vice president, Miss Mary G. Steiner; third vice president, Miss Della Voehl; fourth vice president, Miss Nettie Bauersachs; treasurer, Russell Harden; and secretary, Rhey Miller.

Taken all in all, the committee is well pleased at the result of the festival, feeling inwardly that the affair was a decided success throughout. For yesterday afternoon, and evening, the decorations, which were done by the fair ones of the cabinet, who had to be erected again, which necessitated a double amount of work. The wiring and lighting also had to be reconstructed, and was ably taken care of by Harry Shuck. Dr. Buchanan's orchestra of eleven pieces furnished the music last night as it did on the previous night.

DISMISSES A CHARGE AGAINST A. LAYMAN.

Justice Snape in the borough court Wednesday afternoon dismissed the charge of assault and battery against Adolf Layman as brought by Peter Fugman. The complaint was the sequence of one brought by Layman against Fugman on the same charge, and as a result of which Fugman was held to await the action of the grand jury.

Fugman brought a counter complaint against Layman, setting up that he had been assaulted by the latter. Justice Snape decided that as he had no ground for action and dismissed the complaint. William G. De Meza represented Fugman, while Layman was represented by Winfield S. Angleman.

Will Spend Summer in Scotland.

John Morton, of Watchung avenue, who was taken seriously ill with heart trouble on Thursday, is reported as being much improved. He plans to spend the summer in Scotland and will leave just as soon as his health will permit.

Constitutionalist ads. pay.

FIGHT PICTURES CRUSADE

Local Endeavorers' Union Decides Action Here is Unnecessary.

AN APPEAL TO GOVERNOR FORT

State C. E. Society Gets Busy to Prevent Jeffries-Johnson Moving Pictures Being Shown in New Jersey.

No action will be taken by the Plainfield Christian Endeavor Union in the movement of the State Endeavorers' Union to prevent the showing of moving pictures of the Jeffries-Johnson fight here. This decision is due to the fact that Manager Harry S. Sanderson, who holds the only theatre license in the city announced some days ago that he would not permit such pictures to be shown in any house he controls. And it is well known that the Mayor and Common Council, who are vested with authority in such matters, would not grant a license to any moving picture promoter who might want to use the films here. As for Dunellen, New Market, Scotch Plains and other nearby places, where the Endeavor Societies are members of the local union, it would be impossible to show the pictures particularly as the company producing the fight pictures charge a fee of $1,000 a day for their use.

State President John T. Sproull, of Arlington, president of the State C. E. Society, told a reporter that he issued a letter to each of the eleven hundred societies in New Jersey asking them to indorse a telegram sent to Governor Fort yesterday by Rev. Dr. F. W. Johnson, of Washington, N. J. The Action of the State Endeavor Christian citizenship chairman is similar to that of General Secretary William Shaw, of Boston, who on Tuesday requested the Governor of Massachusetts, to prohibit an exhibition of the fight. Mr. Sproull will bring the matter before the State executive board at its July meeting.

The minister is chairman of the Christian citizenship department of the New Jersey Christian Endeavor Union, and his telegram to Governor Fort reads:

"Twenty-two thousand Christian Endeavorers of New Jersey beg of you to prohibit moving picture scenes of prize fight."

Dr. Johnson followed up the telegram by the following letter which he mailed to Governor Fort yesterday:

"In the name of every Christian Endeavor Society in New Jersey, embracing, as they do, thousands of our truest and best young men and women, I beg of you to use all powers vested in you to prohibit the exhibition by moving pictures or by any other method the brutal and dehumanizing prize fight that has disgraced this nation and has drawn forth the protest of the better portion of mankind. We appeal to you with confidence in this matter, for your attitude on moral questions such as the sanctity of the Sabbath make us believe that while you are Governor of New Jersey the best interests of the people will be conserved.

"We beg of you to count on 22,000 Christian Endeavorers as at your back in the prohibition of these moving picture prize fight scenes."

Clarence La Rue, vice president of the Union County C. E. Society, and formerly president of the local union, said today that he was "very glad that Mr. Sanderson would not permit such pictures to be used at Proctor's Theatre," and that as Mr. Sanderson would not allow them at the Plainfield theatre, that there is no need for the local union to take any action.

GREAT JULY SALES.

L. S. Plaut & Co. have announced their great July sales which are now in full swing of selling.

This is one of important annual trade features of this store, dating back to the first year it came into existence. Each year these sales have been added to, their scope increased, until in the tremendous selling event now taking place it finds a fitting climax in the presentation of interest to all buyers, both men and women.

Economy combined with genuine merit in the goods is held by this old time concern to be the quintessence of successful value giving. By the buyer it is looked upon as the superlative of satisfactory shopping.

That this shopping ideal will be realized in no uncertain degree in the L. S. Plaut & Co. Special July sales may be accepted as a fact in advance, the strict policy of square dealing pursued by this firm consistently for so many years acting as its own guarantee.

It may likewise be said to be a double assurance to shoppers that they will not only find everything precisely as represented, but at a price that will mean a considerable saving over what they must of necessity pay at any other period of the year.

A DAY IN POLICE COURT

Well Assorted Variety of Cases Occupy Judge Runyon's Attention.

CITY TREASURY IS ENRICHED.

Men and Women Who Have Disobeyed the Mandate of the Law Haled Before the Local Court.

The city court room held the biggest crowd that it has seen in many a day this morning when Judge Runyon took his seat on the bench. Arrests for everything from plain drunk to forgery were on the docket. Some were fined and others let go with reprimands. Michael Flaherty had to contribute three dollars for being drunk and disorderly on Saturday night and Ann Bedford, Andrew Bedford and Barney Tracy helped the city treasury to the extent of five dollars each. Edna Walpole who was caught in the dragnet along with the Bedfords and Tracy, got off with a suspended sentence.

Kate Stevens, colored, was found lying helplessly drunk on Arlington avenue near Eighth street at 1 o'clock on Sunday morning and when arrested by the patrolman refused to go home. Her fine was $5. A fracas in which five colored people figured and in which Joshua Diggs was the goat occurred on West Third street on Saturday night and the police arrested besides Diggs, Nannie Vanderveer, Harold Gray, James Wade, and John Jordan. It seemed to the judge that it wall as a misunderstanding and after lecturing the quintet told them all to go and sin no more.

Joseph Erner and Morris Minor, whose family troubles have had much airing in the city court recently, because of the belligerancy of their wives, evidently patched up their differences this morning before court convened, as when the judge asked for the complainant neither one wanted to press any charge. They were allowed to go with the judge's advice to keep the peace.

Michael Skinner and Patrick Hartridge, two husky employees of the water company had a more than jovial time on Saturday night which ended in a scrap. Both men are the best of friends and created some fun in the court room when they described their experiences with each other. They lost some new clothes which they had just bought and could not remember any thing that had happened and thought they were "birds in a gilded cage" when they awoke in a cell. Judge Runyon suspended sentence on both men.

FRESH AIR CAMP OPENS WITH 237 CHILDREN

The eighth annual opening of the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp was formally made yesterday afternoon when besides the 237 children and mothers a large number of visitors attended the services. President J. D. Loizeaux was in charge and the principal speaker was Rev. E. G. Snowden, of Elizabeth. Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Young, Mary Miller, Martin A. Korff rendered solos and Clifford A. Braider presided at the organ.

The meeting began with some hearty singing by the children, after which Miss Miller sang "Not Half Has Ever Been Told. Mr. Korff accompanied by Mr. Braider played a violin solo, "The Last Chord." After the reading of the Scripture, by George A. Chapman, Mr. and Mrs. Young sang a duet, "The King of Love."

President Loizeaux gave an address of welcome during which he declared that while the association was in a prosperous condition, it is still dependent upon contributions for the work and hoped that during the season there would not be a falling off in the offerings of those who are interested in the work.

After a cornet solo by Mr. Young, Rev. Mr. Snowden talkrpd for twenty minutes to the children taking for his topic, "Weeds." He drew many simple lessons from an ordinary garden and warned his young hearers that bad habits were the weeds to be avoided, so that good character might develop unhindered. Mrs. Young followed with a solo.

The oppressive heat kept many away yesterday, but even so the pavilion was nearly full. The meetings for the rest of the season will start promptly at 3.30 o'clock on Sunday afternoons.

Several needed improvements have been made in the grounds notably a covered walk from the home to the pavilion designed for protection in stormy weather. Miss Sarah Curry, who is in charge of the camp, believes this will be the greatest season of any and is looking forward to big results.

Constitutionalist Ads Pay.

AN APPEAL IS MADE BY THE LOCAL S.P.C.A.

The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, through Special Agent Mrs. S. G. Van Hoesen, has purchased more than a hundred "bonnets" for horses which may be had by applying to L. M. French's establishment on Somerset street. The idea of furnishing these straw hats for horses while not a new one, is good and Mrs. Van Hoesen wants it understood that peddlers and other drivers of horses can procure these bonnets by paying a small sum, but in event of inability to pay they will be furnished free.

Mrs. Van Hoesen said yesterday that it was the aim of the society to eventually establish a hospital for animals similar to those in existence in Philadelphia and New York which will have a "ride a wee" auxiliary where dogs and cats may be taken care of during the absence of their owners in the summer. The project is one which will undoubtedly meet with favor among animal owners not only in this city but in other nearby towns.

The expenses of the society have increased considerably during the past year owing to the active campaign carried on here and in this vicinity and funds for the prosecution of the work are needed. No animal lover will be excluded from contributing and the amount may range from ten cents up. Mrs. Van Hoesen will personally acknowledge any contributions to the society which may be sent to her home at Fanwood. The Daily Press will forward any amounts subscribed to the cause and will make acknowledgments in its columns.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF MRS. E. T. SCHMEYER

The funeral service of Mrs. Edward T. Schmeyer, aged 22 years, who died Saturday, following a long illness from tuberculosis, was held this afternoon at 4 o'clock from the late home, 1224 Cameron avenue. Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church which the departed was a member, officiated, and the burial was in Hillside Cemetery. The pall-bearers were from Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F., of which Mr. Schmeyer is a member.

Mrs. Schmeyer was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hepner, of Lee place, and lived here practically all her life. Besides her parents and husband, she is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Catherine Mc Cracken, of Middlebush; the Misses Bridget and Mamie Hepner, of this city; also one brother, Frank Hepner, who is on the U. S. S. Battleship Delaware.

CHILDREN'S SERVICE AT CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

At the morning service in the Congregational church yesterday and immediately following the sermon, Rev. Charles L. Goodrich gave a short talk to the children of the Sunday school. He illustrated his remarks with a lighted candle and a rover under which at times the candle was hidden showing that the children should not hide their lights "under a bushel," but should let them be always shining for Jesus.

At the conclusion of the talk twelve pupils of the school were presented with a golden candlestick for perfect attendance during the months of May and June. Their names follow: Russell Allen, Emma Barrott, Laura Bowers, Carter Goodrich, Harold Goodrich, Ernest Tomlinson, Elizabeth Martin, Eugene Martin, Margaret Rice, Lucy West, Grace West and Margaret Weseman.

The Sunday school will join in an excursion to Asbury Park on July 21.

EVANGELISTIC SERVICES AT SALVATION ARMY TENT

Evangelistic services conducted by Adjutant Palmer and Capt. McMillan, of the National Staff and Band, were held at the Salvation Army Tent last night. The text of the evening's sermon was chosen from Isaiah and was "Watchman, what of the night? The watchman said, the morning cometh and also the night.'"

Following the service ice cream was served and a pleasant time was enjoyed by a large number.

On Saturday night, the services were conducted by the same two men. A series of recitations, entitled "A Night with the Poets," was the theme of the evening's preaching. Ice cream was served.

Buys Out Bound Brook Firm.

John Johnston for many years a coal dealer here, has bought out the firm of Voorhees and Sons, hardware dealers in Bound Brook. He is well known among the coal dealers here and has an enviable reputation among the business men of this city.

DE PALMA THE WINNER

Takes 200 H. P. Fiat Up Johnston's Drive in 1 Minute 20 Seconds.

CHALMERS "40" A COMPETITOR.

Hupmobiles Perform Splendidly in Difficult Climb—Mitchell Car Does Well.

The second annual hill climb of the Plainfield Automobile club under the auspices of the A. A. A., on Saturday afternoon attracted a crowd of nearly ten thousand people. No accident occurred to mar the sport and the record for the climb, made last year during the Charter Day celebration by Deane Rankin in a Chalmers car, was broken by Ralph De Palma in a 200-horsepower Fiat machine, doing the distance in 1.20 flat. The previous record was 1.28.

Local automobile dealers were well represented in several of the events and their cars did all that was expected of them and just a little bit more. For instance, the Chalmers car entered by the A. C. Thompson Auto Company came within two and two-fifths seconds of equalling the record hung up by the big Fiat car. The Chalmers was driven up the tortuous path by D. Rankin and made the distance in 1.22 2-5. This car was closely pressed by the Houpt-Rockwell car which made the climb in 1.22 3-5.

The little Hupmobiles perhaps more than any of the cars to go over the course surprised the spectators with the ease with which they negotiated the hill. Five of these cars were entered in the first event, three of them belonging to the F. L. C. Martin Automobile Co. The best time in this class was made by a Hup owned and driven by A. C. Dam, whose time was given as 2.04. E. B. Libbey in a Hup was second in 2.05 and Martin, driving a Hup, was third in 2.19 4-5.

No one has done so much to promote the sport of automobiling more than F. L. C. Martin, whose cars have made records for themselves wherever they have been put to the test. Besides th victory of the Hup runabouts he has to his credit the easy win in the second event.

Many complimentary things were said by the contestants in the various events for the splendid policing of the course. Chief P. S. Kiely with Roundsman Maurice Higgins and ten patrolmen did admirable work in keeping clear every foot of the hill. It was a strenuous week, however, and caused the perspiration to pour down the faces of the men. Chief Marshall Weiss with three assitants aided Chief Kiely materially in the work. Ralph de Palma whose time was the best, said to a reporter of The Daily Press that in all the contests he had ever seen this was the best. Not a hitch occurred at any part of the game and he took pains to compliment the officials as well as the police.

These are the officers having the climb in charge: A. A. Wood, representative of the A. A. A., referee; Technical committee, chairman, A. F. Camalco, R. D. Williams, J. O. Ball and H. A. Todd; starter, Arthur Smith; timers, Dr. F. C. Ard, C. E. Varian, A. L. C. Marsh, E. A. Lowe, George J. Tobin and E. Rushmore; contest committee, H. A. Todd, Alexander Milne, A. B. Laing, F. L. C. Martin, C. B. Brokaw, A. C. Thompson, Kent Bender, Gus Barfuss and Hiram A. Woodruff.

Summaries follow:

Event No. 1 Class A—Div. 1 A—Open to any gasolene stock car selling for $800 and under, first, Hupmobile, owner and driver, A. C. Dam, time 2.04; second, Hupmobile, E. B. Libbey, owner and driver, time 2.09; third, Hupmobile, owned by F. L. C. Martin Auto Co., driven by R. D. Martin, time 2.19 4-5.

Event No. 2, Class A—Div. 2 A—Open to any gasolene stock car selling for $801 to $1,200—Mitchell, F. L. C. Martin Auto Co., driven by W. Schuerring, time 2.02 4-5; second, Maxwell, owned and driven by F. V. Hobbie, time 2.10 4-5. A. Buick, driven by C. Jones burst two front tires and did not finish and an Oakland, driven by Howard Bauer, broke a clutch.

Event No. 3 Class A Div. 2 A—First, Correja, Correja Motor Car Co., driven by J. M. Taylor, time 1.40 2-5; second, Mitchell, F. L. C. Martin Auto Co., driven by Florence McCarthy, time 1.57 2-5. The Clapp entry was withdrawn.

Event No. 4—Class A Div. 4 A—Open to any gasolene stock car selling for $1,601 to $2,000—First, Buick, Buick Motor Car Co., driven by Phil Hines, time, 1.32; second, Oakland, Oakland Motor Car Co., driven by Howard Bauer, time 1.35 2-5. A Buick driven and owned by R. E. Beardsley, was disqualified.

Event No. 8—Class E—Free for all—First, Fiat, E. W. C. Arnold, driven by Ralph De Palma, time 1.20; second, Chalmers, Forty, Thompson Auto Co., driven by Deane Rankin, time 1.22 2-5; third, Houpt-Rockwell, H. S. Houpt Mfg. Co., driven by Stanley Martin, time 1.22 3-5.

Event No. 9—Won by Buick, Buick Motor Car Co., driven by C. Jones, time, 1.40; second, Krit, owned and driven by John Owen, time 2.01 2-5; third, same Krit car, driven by W. R. Rodden, time 2.02 3-5.

Event No. 10—Class B, Div. 3—Open to any gasolene stock chassis with piston displacement of 231 to 300 cubic inches. Won by an S. P. O., driven by J. Juhasz. The only other competitor in this event, the Correja car, bent an axle and was unable to finish.

Event No. 11, Class B, Div. 4—Open to any gasolene stock chassis with piston displacement of 301 to 450 cubic inches. First, Chalmers Forty, stock car, driven by Deane Rankin, time 1.27 2-5; second, Berkshire, owned and driven by S. H. Clapp, time 1.29 4-5; third, Buick, Buick Motor Car Co., driven by Stanley Martin, time, 1.31 2-5. In this event the winning car burst a tire at the first turn and finished on three tires.

Event No. 12, Class B, Div. 5—Open to any stock gasolene chassis with piston displacement of 451 to 600 cubic inches—First, Houpt-Rockwell, H. Houpt Mfg. Co., driven by Stanley Martin, time, 1.22 3-5; second, Stearns, owned and driven by J. A. Rutherford, time, 1.29 4-5; third, Stearns, owned and driven by C. W. Winslow, time 1.30.

In the last event only two cars, both Stearns, were entered and resulted in a victory for Mr. Winslow's car who made the ascent in 1.253-5; Mr. Rutherford did the trick in 1.29 1-5.

THERE'S ONE VICTORY SAYS NEWARK PASTOR

That the Christian life is one of struggle, and that the struggle of the present day Christian is far less strenuous than that of the men who were first brought into the life of Christ, were truths emphasized by Rev. Albertus Broek, at the Trinity Reformed church, yesterday morning. Mr. Broek, who is the pastor of the Clinton Avenue Reformed church, of Newark, occupied the pulpit in place of his brother, Rev. John T. Broek, the pastor. He selected for his text, "The Victory that Overcomes."

In support of his truths, Mr. Broek brought to the minds of his listeners, the fact that in the olden days, the disciples of Christ were surrounded by a thoughtless civilization, in which the aim of society was to undermine the existence of those, who openly proclaimed themselves constituents of the Lord, while at the present day these hardships are unknown to the Christian.

Again he brought out the fact that it is only by hard work, coupled with a true belief in the Lord, that the world can be overcome. The victory he made the more difficult because human nature does not seek the hard things of life. The disciples of Christ must have realized this, but they also realize that it would require hard work to overcome the world and with this purpose in view, they left their easy tasks and took up a burden surrounded with difficulties. Mr. Broek also dwelt upon the necessity for a true belief in the Lord, fixing this in the minds of his hearers, as a necessary requirement for the conquest of the world.

In conclusion Mr. Broek said: "That is victory, which overcomes the world; there is but one way in which we can live our lives, and there is but one way in which we can achieve success. And that is by a true belief in Jesus Christ."

In the evening Mr. Broek preached at the Netherwood Reformed church for the pastor, Royal A. Stout.

OLDEST FRANKLIN MEDAL WINNER IN NEW JERSEY.

The Boston Journal of recent date announces that the much coveted Franklin medals, distributed annually in connection with the will of Benjamin Franklin were this year awarded to twenty-one boys in the Boston Latin, the English High and the Mechanical Arts High Schools.

It adds that the oldest Franklin medal student living today in Boston is Charles J. Capen, who won his medal in the Latin School in 1853.

One of our Plainfield citizens has been able to come within three years of Mr. Capen's record, for William L. Gavett received his in 1856. The medal is of silver about the size of a half dollar, and is decorated on one side with a fine head of Franklin and reverse, "Gift of Franklin, A. D., 1788."

The reverse bears the inscription: "Reward of Merit by the School Committee to W. H. Gavett, 1856."

Mr. Gavett will celebrate his eighty-sixth birthday on the 15th of this month and he is doubtless the oldest of the few Franklin medal owners in New Jersey.

Formal.

"They're very formal people."

"Very. They actually try to maintain table manners at their summer cottage."—Detroit Free Press.

—Constitutionalist's ads. pay.

GET TRUST CO. CHARTER

And Borough Bank Directors Resolve to Wind Up Its Affairs.

OFFICES IN MARSH BUILDING.

Change to Be Made on September 15—E. F. Feickert to Be One of the Chief Officers of New Concern.

The Borough National Bank went into liquidation today at a meeting of the directors held at the institution, 406 out of 500 shareholders being represented either in person or by proxy. The decision was made through a resolution and there was not a dissenting vote. This action was necessary according to the banking laws so that the new institution, to be known as the State Trust Company, may be incorporated in the right way. September 15 was the date fixed for the actual change.

It was announced at the meeting that the first floor of the Marsh building at Park avenue and East Second street, would be the home of the new concern. It was also learned that ten of the directors of the Borough National Bank will be the incorporators of the new trust company, and it is stated that some new officials will be identified with the company.

While nothing definite has been decided as yet regarding the officers for the new institution E. F. Feickert, formerly of the Plainfield Trust Company, will be one of the chief executive officers. Frederic E. Corlell, now cashier for the bank, will continue with the trust company, probably as cashier.

At the meeting today reports were received regarding the progress of the bank; also the progress of forming the new institution. Everything was reported to be in first-class condition. It was stated that application for a charter for the trust company had been granted, following a very careful examination by State officials into the condition of the bank's affairs. The examiners spent four days at the borough institution. The directors will file a certificate with the comptroller of the currency setting forth the decision.

The State Trust Company will start with a capital of $100,000 and $50,000 reserve. It is proposed to equip the new quarters in the Marsh building with all the latest equipment.

CRANFORD PAIR BEATS TRAVERS AND BREMMER

A thirty-six hole foursome on the links of the Cranford Golf Club, yesterday, attracted unusual interest. It required an extra hole to decide the match between Edward Wild and Max Marston, who were matched against Jerome D. Travers and W. B. Bremmer, the crack players of the Montclair Golf Club, who met defeat at the hands of the home pair. The visitors were defeated in a close match by 1 up.

On the 32 hole Travers and Bremmer were 2 up. The home pair won the 33, halved the 33, won the 34, halved the 35 and 36, necessitating the playing of an extra hole. Both Wild and Marston had beautiful drives, a trifle better than their opponents. Wild laid a pretty approach about seven feet from the hole and ran it down in the next shot getting a three and winning the match for the Cranford team on the 37th hole. The match was followed by a gallery of nearly two hundred, both morning and afternoon, including a number of the fair sex. A return match will be played on the

MR. AND MRS. ALEX. ANDREWS RETURN TO SCOTLAND.

Rev. and Mrs. Alexander Andrew, of Glasgow, Scotland, left for home Saturday on the Anchor liner "California." They have been visiting Mrs. Andrew's sister, Mrs. Campbell MacKillop, of 147 Somerset street, for the past two months. During their stay Mr. Andrew occupied the First Presbyterian pulpit at three services and left pleasant memories of his ability as a preacher. He also preached twice at Richmond, Va. They visited the principal eastern cities as far as Boston and were most favorably impressed with the people. They hope to return for another visit in the near future.

Ran in Front of Auto.

Gladys Adelman, a twelve year old daughter of H. Adelman, of 118 Liberty street, ran in front of an automobile belonging to the F. L. C. Martin Co., and driven by John Kline on Saturday evening, and was slightly injured in the foot. Kline picked the little girl up and carried her to her home, where her injuries were found to be slight. The accident occurred at the corner of Liberty and Second street.

SALESMAN IS DROWNED

William Moffett Loses His Life While Bathing at South River.

HE WAS OFF ON HIS VACATION.

Body Recovered This Morning—Forty Years of Age—Survived by Wife and Three Children.

Notwithstanding the report that William Moffett, of Elmwood place, whose body was found at South River, Saturday, was a suicide, it has since been learned that his sudden demise was the result of an accident.

While enjoying a ten day's vacation Mr. Moffett went to South River where he had a number of friends, and it is believed that while he was bathing he was suddenly seized with cramps and sank before assistance could reach him.

Mr. Moffett had been in the employ of Max Weinberger, a clothier of West Front street, for a number of years before the business was taken over by J. Weinberger, the present proprietor, and had always borne a good reputation and was a fine salesman. When Mr. Weinberger was interviewed this afternoon he showed his sympathy with the family of Mr. Moffett by referring to the dead man as one of his best employes.

Reports concerning the sudden drowning of Mr. Moffett reached this morning. According to the stories told to Chief of Police Michael O'Connor, of New Brunswick, and Coroner John G. Hubbard, of the same city, Mr. Moffett jumped from the pier at South River with the intention of showing his ability as a swimmer. It is a well known fact that Mr. Moffett could not swim and in fact was afraid of the water. It is believed that while bathing he was suddenly seized with cramps and instead of trying to impress the onlookers he was really trying to signal for help.

Identification of the body was made through a business card found in the pocket of a coat worn by Mr. Moffett and a letter addressed to him by his wife and several postal cards found in other parts of the clothing.

Mr. Moffett is survived by a wife and three children, the eldest of whom is fourteen years old. He was forty-two years old and was well known to a host of friends in this city.

MUSLIN AND CHIFFONS.

Cheap and dainty muslins, tinted or figured, are combined this year with chiffon instead of lace.

If lace is used it is in the form of plaited frills on neck and sleeves.

Embroideries this year are not so much in evidence—striking effects as to color and material being sought for instead.

Shoulder wraps of silk and marabout continue in favor. Decidedly handsome ones are all marabout—the centre being white—edged with a double row of dark brown.

These wraps are now made in all materials and all degrees of elegance. One of the daintiest seen this season, evidently intended for boudoir wear, was of white crepe de chine, scalloped on the edges and embroidered in a buttonhole stitch.

A NURSERY SUGGESTION.

No one knows better, or will more appreciate the suggestion than the unfortunate person to whose lot it generally falls to "tidy up" the nursery. It is always to be found in the possession of the little ones for a lengthy period. It is always an excellent thing to instill tidy habits into the children, and to apportion a place in the nursery in which they can deposit all their litter, after they have amused themselves, is a plan which is well worth carrying out.

One of the best ways of doing this is to procure a good-sized packing case and place it in the extreme corner of the room. The two outer sides may be easily draped with some pretty remnant of cretonne, which can be tacked on to the upper edge of the box.

The material should be folded over at the top to form a flounce and from underneath this flounce plaits of the material are arranged to reach the ground and entirely hide the exterior of the box. The box can, of course, be periodically emptied, and a corner of the nursery cannot be better utilized than in this manner.

The little ones should always be made to clear up all their rubbish after they have done playing, and if there is something at hand in which it may be placed they will not mind doing this, and it will save other people the trouble. The interior of the box may be lined with brown paper, either tacked or pasted to the sides.

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Cottrell and children, of Central avenue, left today for Tolland, Mass., where they will occupy their cottage for the rest of the summer.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST

VOL. XLII — PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, JULY 21, 1910. — NO. 29.

"Support the Constitution, which is the Cement of the Union, as well in its Limitations as in its Authorities."—Madison.

PLEA FOR LOCAL OPTION

Mr. Swackhamer Speaks on Third Magna Charta or Democracy's Opportunity.

CHAMPIONS PEOPLE'S RIGHTS.

Former Assemblyman Makes an Eloquent Speech Before a Large Crowd at Saengerbund Hall.

Eloquently advocating the cause of local option and championing the referendum, the initiative and the recall, former Assemblyman Samuel S. Swackhamer, at Saengerbund hall, enthused a crowd that taxed the seating capacity of the auditorium. It was the opening gun of the campaign in Somerset county. William J. Conroy presided at the meeting which was held under the auspices of the North Plainfield Democratic club and was in the interests of no candidates or factions. Mr. Swackhamer's topic was "The Third Magna Charta, or Democracy's Opportunity." He spoke as follows:

"United States Senator Owen asked a crucial question when he said, 'If the people really rule, why don't the people get what they want?' The people wanted economy in the administration of government; they got extravagance in the administration of government. The people wanted a revision of the tariff downward; they got a revision of the tariff upward. The people wanted a scale of prices for the necessaries of life, fair alike to the bread-winner and the Trustite; they got a scale of prices that flattens the pocketbook of the bread winner, and fattens the pocketbook of the 'Trustite.' The people wanted more honesty and less rascality in public office; they got more rascality and less honesty in public office. The people wanted public servants who could be trusted behind the scenes; they got public servants who have turned State's evidence and confessed to bribery and corruption on every hand.

"In the realm of National politics it is manifest that the present administration has served the classes and betrayed the masses. As evidence of this fact, let the leading Insurgents be called to the witness stand or turn over the pages of the public records. The State the people wanted a 'public utilities' commission with ample powers to enforce rates and inflict penalties; they got a thing called a public utilities commission with no powers except to issue orders that need not be obeyed. The people wanted a corrupt practices act to prevent the use of money for bribery purposes in elections; it was denied to them by their representatives. The people wanted the extension of the direct primary to nominations for governor and congress; it was denied to them by their representatives. Of about twenty measures upon which the people and the special interests clashed in the last Legislature, the people won one victory; the special interest eighteen, and one resulted in a compromise.

"Whom then, do the representatives at Trenton represent, the classes or the masses? Who are served at the State house, the people or the politicians and their political pets? The last Legislature increased the tax burdens of the State $1,400,000; exhausted the funds in the public treasury; threatened the public school moneys; and left bankruptcy standing on the steps of the capitol. But there is another count in the indictment of the machine politicians and bosses. In three successive years the people of this State have petitioned the Legislature for the privilege to vote on the license question. Once the appeal was made to the Assembly and twice to the Senate; but the Assembly and the Senate said, 'No! You have brains and sense enough to vote for us and send us here, but you haven't brains and sense enough to vote on the saloon question, and we won't let you do it.'

"That right of self government, denied to men and fathers, made America free. They said, 'A day, an hour of virtuous liberty is worth a whole eternity of bondage.' They were men who knew that 'War is Hell,' but who deemed that slavery to men of pride, is hell with the devils multiplied.

"When the fate of Free Government was trembling in the balance, the men stood appalled and pale before the awful issue; Samuel Adams stood up in the Continental congress and said, 'I should advise persisting in our struggle for liberty though it were revealed from Heaven that nine hundred and ninety-nine were to perish, and only one in a thousand survive to retain his liberty. One such freeman must possess more virtue and enjoy more happiness than a thousand slaves, and let him prop-

(Continued on page 4.)

SUB-STATION NO. 3 P.O., WILL OPEN ON AUG. 16

Another sub-station to be known as sub-station No. 3 of the local post office will be opened by Postmaster Elias H. Bird in the confectionery store of Elmer R. Mills, at 1217 West Front street, thus adding another convenience to the people of the city, particularly those living at the west end.

There are sub-stations now on Somerset street, in the borough, which was the first to be established; another at 411 Park avenue, opened a few months ago. It is confidently expected that still another branch will be established before the year is out in the Netherwood section for the accommodation of the citizens of the east end of town.

Y.M.C.A. BOYS HAVING A FINE TIME IN CAMP

C. W. Bingaman, who has charge of the boys' work department of the Y. M. C. A., came to the city yesterday for a stay of a day from the association's camp, Waywayanda in Sussex county, bringing with him glowing reports of the progress of the work and the enjoyment of the life at the camp. Mr. Bingaman says that every one of the boys is in the best of health, and apparently all are having a glorious time.

The camp this year has been moved from the mainland, where it had been located for the past nine years to the island in the lake. This necessitated a large amount of hard work and earnest endeavor, but the willingness and earnestness of the campers are made short work of the task.

On Monday an athletic meet was run off under the direction of G. L. Hamilton, physical director of the local association, and although the Plainfield boys secured but a tie for second place, their showing was far better than that of the Summit team, which took first place. Plainfield had four point winners, while Summit had but two, one of whom was an all around athlete and who did much to boost their total to 37 points. Plainfield and Montclair, who were tied for second place, each had 26 points, Elizabeth, 8, and Paterson, 2.

In the "unlimited class" Franklin Newell, of Sherman avenue, was the only point winner for the locals, he taking second place in the shot put. George Leigh and James McNamee counted for the local team in the "120-pound class." The former won second place in the 100-yard dash, while the latter tied for first in the high jump and came in second in the 50-yard dash. Craig Blair in the "95 pound class" won first in the standing broad jump and second in the 50-yard dash. An acquatic meet under the same conditions will be run off today.

A new large crude fireplace has just been completed in the lodge. It is the gift of the Y. M. C. Ladies' Auxiliaries of the State, but the earnest work of the local ladies aided much in making its erection possible. The Plainfield Y. M. C. A. presented the camp with a beautiful set of andirons, which are to be set before the fireplace.

FREEDOM CASTLE K. G. E. INSTALLS NEW OFFICERS.

The newly elected officers of Freedom Castle, Knights of the Golden Eagle, were installed last night at the lodge rooms in the Babcock building by Grand District Deputy Powlison and staff, of Somerville. Tonight Freedom Castle goes to Orange to participate in a similar service with the lodge there.

These were the officers installed last night:—Past Chief Horace J. Martin, noble chief, N. J. Wiley; vice chief, Henry Weiss; Sir herald, George Church; high priest, John Bosterli and venerable hermit, Harry Joseph.

The installation was followed by a collation and speeches were made by Grand Deputy Powlison and the newly installed officers.

Visit Tuberculosis Headquarters.

J. Hervey Doane, president of the Tuberculosis Committee of the Union County Board of Freeholders, with the other members of the committee, visited the tuberculosis hadquarters in New York on Monday and obtained some useful information as to the newest and best appliances for the fighting the disease. The buildings now in use by the various tuberculosis societies throughout the country were of special interest and much was learned of the advantages of each of the approved types.

—Jersey tomatoes, Georgia peaches at Neuman Bros., grocers.

R.R. RATES GO UP TODAY

All Commuters Must Face a Twenty-five Cent Increase in Fare.

INCREASE EQUALS $625 MONTH.

Injunction Proceedings Would Be of No Avail, Decides New Brunswick Board of Trade.

The fateful twentieth has arrived and the Plainfield commuter will have to face the twenty-five cent increase in the fare between here and New York. There are about 2,500 commuters in this city and the increased revenue accruing to the company on account of this one little quarter means about $625 a month. The other straight fare rates will correspondingly increase the income of the company.

There is considerable soreness, and counter accusations of indifference and incompetence were in circulation among the commuters interested in the fight against the railroads, as a result of their inability to postpone further or prevent the arrival of the evil day.

In East Orange, where Terry Parker, counsel for the Commuters' League, is the spokesman Governor Fort is being criticised for his refusal to call a special session of the Legislature to deal with the problem. The Board of Trade of New Brunswick, has it in for the Interstate Commerce Commission because, its members say, that body misled them, caught their counsel unprepared, and then gave the railroads the benefit of the doubt. Other commuters are complaining that the leaders in the fight took too much time playing politics.

But out of it all there will probably arise a stronger organization of commuters capable of a State-wide movement to demonstrate the unreasonableness of the increased rates before the commission in Washington. The commuters of New Brunswick, Metuchen and similarly situated points along the Pennsylvania Railroad will centre their energies and pool their resources in pressing the charges contained in the complaint and petition filed by the Board of Trade, of New Brunswick, the first passenger rate complaint filed with the commission under the recent amendment to the interstate commerce law.

At a meeting of the executive officers of the New Brunswick Board of Trade, the Commuters' League of New Brunswick and the Commuters' League of Metuchen, held on Monday night, it was decided that injunction proceedings in the courts would be of doubtful validity and that the effective prosecution of the pending proceedings was the wiser course. The active co-operation of Rahway, Elizabeth and other towns is counted upon.

Terry Parker said yesterday that he had dropped the fight, convinced that there was not another step to take that promised even a fair hope of relief.

"We have made every effort," said he, "and though we say it with much reluctance, we are forced to cease our efforts to hold up the advances any further."

But all Jersey commuters see encouragement in the fact that they were able to postpone the increase in the rates on all the roads for three weeks. This was accomplished through the Interstate Commerce Commission at the eleventh hour by the New Brunswick complaint and those filed with the commission by Attorney General Wilson of New Jersey. On some of the roads the new rates were scheduled to take effect on June 28 and on others on July 1. The commission got the roads to postpone the advances until July 20.

In instituting an investigation of the reasonableness of the advances, probably early in the fall, the commission will proceed on its own initiative, as permitted under the new law.

Harry De Meza Ill.

Henry G. De Meza, of 94 Jackson avenue, who has been on his vacation for the past two weeks at Swartz*wood Lake, has been forced to re*main there for the past few days owing to trouble from an abscess on his right leg. It is probable that the abscess has broken, which will necessitate his confinement at the Lake for the next few days. The trouble is not serious.

An Ice Cream Festival.

The second ice cream festival of the Junior Aid Society of St. Peter's Lutheran church will be held in the Sunday school rooms of the church, corner Grove street and Mercer avenue, on Wednesday, July 27, afternoon and evening, beginning at 3 o'clock.

—Photo by Langhorne, V. W. Nash, Jr.

WOULD BE CITY JUDGE.

Vincent W. Nash, Jr., son of former Justice of the Peace Vincent W. *Nash, was born in this city twenty-*nine years ago and has always resided here until two years ago in the second ward. His early education was received at the public schools but since the time he was fourteen years of age has applied himself to the study of law having first prepared himself by attending civil and criminal hearings in the various courts in the city and county until he took up the study of law with Clarence L. Murphy and Francis J. Blatz finishing his course with the class of 1902 at the New York University. He was admitted to practice in this State in November, 1902, and to the United States courts in September, 1903. Mr. Nash is a member of Plainfield Council, No. 711 Royal Arcanum, Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F., Mantonomo Tribe, I. O. R. M., a Past Master Workman of Columbia Lodge, No. 58 A. O. U. W., and at present a member of Grand Lodge Committee on Necrology with Assemblymen Nichols of Cumberland County, a Past Chancellor Commander of Per*severance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P.*, and at present Trustee and Grand Lodge Representative, also belonging to Crescent Company, U. R., No. 13, K. of P.

STATE W. C. T. U. MEETS

Annual Convention of New Jersey White Ribboners at Asbury Park.

MRS. M. D. TOMLINSON SPEAKS.

"Wasted Resources to the State and Nation," Subject of a Local Temperance Advocate's Address—The Program.

Delegates to the State convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, which opened at Ocean Grove today, began to arrive and many are registered at the hotels. The State president, Mrs. Emma Bourne, has been there several days.

The session opened today at 10.30, when Dr. A. E. Ballard, president of the *Ocean Grove Camp-Meeting As*sociation made an address. Mrs. E. J. Whitler represented the formal greetings of the delegates and other speakers and topics included "The Value of a Child to the W. C. T. U.," by Mrs. May T. Sparks, of Bridgeport; "How Many Can Advance W. C. T. U. Work," by Mrs. Ida Lillian Page, of West Hoboken; "How to Prepare for an Essay Contest," by Mrs. A. Swan Brown, of Passaic.

At the afternoon session Mrs. M. E. Perrine, of Newark, spoke on "The Uplook and the Outlook," and Mrs. I. H. Demarest told why the society opposes home prescription of alcoholics.

Mrs. M. D. Tomlinson, of this city, and Mrs. Ella Boole, Ph. D., of New York, talked of "Wasted Resources in the State and Nation." Bishop Luther B. Wilson and Professor Samuel Dickie, L.L.D., of Michigan, will be the evening speakers, the topic of the latter being "The American Anarchist."

Probationer Sent to Jail.

Aaron Reid, a probationer, was given ten days in the borough court this morning by Recorder Dolliver. Reid was supposed to report at the borough headquarters every Saturday night. He failed to show up last week and was rounded up yesterday by Chief Marshal Weiss.

Station is Looted.

The Elizabeth avenue station, on the Long Branch division of the Central Railroad, at Elizabeth, was broken in to Monday evening and $30 in cash and 600 tickets, valued at $90, were taken. The police believe that the robbery was committed by amateurs, probably boys.

HELD FOR EMBEZZLEMENT

William Brown, is Released in $100 Bond for Action of October Grand Jury.

TOOK HOD CARRIERS' $21?

After a Lively Scrap on July 6 Brown was Ejected From Meeting, But Wouldn't Give up the Coin.

The fighting spirit as it pervaded the whole country on July 4 broke loose in the meeting of the Hod Carriers union on the night of July 6, when William Brown, colored, who had been deputized to collect money from several applicants to the union, refused to turn over to the treasurer of the union twenty-one dollars which he had collected. Three men working on the Jefferson School contributed ten dollars and others whom the negro had approached gave the balance. For refusing to turn over the money or give an accounting of its disposal, Brown was held for the action of the October grand jury in the sum of $100 this morning by Judge William N. Runyon, on a charge of embezzlement.

So far as could be learned this morning Brown defied the entire meeting on July 6, declaring he could "lick the whole bunch" and inviting any member who doubted his ability to step up and get a taste of what Johnson gave Jeffries. Nobody seemed anxious to "step up," but at the suggestion of President Patrick Newell, Brown was ushered out into the hall of the Trades Council with little ceremony.

Subsequently Brown was notified to produce the money by July 13, or take the consequences. He failed to produce the coin and on Monday President Newell swore out a complaint against him *before City Judge William N. Run*yon and last night Brown was arrested. He had nothing to say for himself this morning and was held as above. W. V. Nash, Jr., appeared for the union.

FAREWELL SERVICE FOR REV. MR. ENGLUND.

There will be a very special time at the Salvation Army tent tomorrow evening when the Rev. Mr. Englund, of the Swedish church accompanied by the string band and choir will have charge of the service This will be the farewell service of Mr. Englund at the Army as he leaves in a short time for a new appointment. The service will be an interesting one for in addition to the farewell address there will be string music and singing in abundance by the members of the string band and choir.

On former visits the tent has been packed to its capacity and a repetition is looked for tomorrow evening. The address will be in English and the singing will be in Swedish and English. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

SUDDEN DEATH OF JESSIE R. NIELSEN.

Jessie, the six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew N. Nielsen, of 815 Second place, died at Camp Joy in the Adirondacks on Saturday last, very suddenly. The funeral was held today in Brooklyn, the interment being made in Greenwood cemetery.

Mr. Neilsen was the only one of the family to attend the funeral as his wife and other children remaining at Camp Joy. Florence, the other daughter is ill apparently from the same malady which caused the death of Jessie. Harold Nielsen was also attacked, but has recovered. The nature of the illness has not been learned here.

MISS O'BRIEN TAKEN HOME; JOHN MOTLEY BANISHED.

As a result of the police investigation of the escapade of John Motley and Fannie O'Brien, of Brooklyn, who were apprehended here under suspicious circumstances on Monday night, the mother of the girl, Mrs. Mary O'Brien arrived here this morning and took her daughter to her home in Brooklyn.

City Judge Runyon administered a scathing rebuke to Motley and told him to give Plainfield a wide berth in future. Motley could not be held on the charge of stealing his father's watch as the elder Motley did not appear to press the charge against his son.

Raymond E. Miller, of Fairview avenue, has returned home after spending a week at Hackettstown.

—Jersey tomatoes, Georgia peaches at Neuman Bros., grocers.

MISS FRANCES RAFFERTY A. W. TREADWELL'S BRIDE

A quiet wedding took place at noon today when Miss Frances A. Rafferty, eldest daughter of Mrs. John Rafferty, of Sanford avenue, became the bride of Arthur W. Treadwell, of White Plains, N. Y. The ceremony was performed by Rev. B. M. Bogan, at St. Mary's church.

The bride was attired in a cream colored travelling suit and was attended by her sister, Miss Annie Rafferty and her brother, William. The groom's gift to the bride was a diamond sunburst that of the bride to the groom a diamond stick pin.

Immediately after the luncheon which followed the ceremony the couple started on a wedding trip which will take them along the coast of Maine, visiting all the points of interest for several weeks. On their return they will reside in White Plains.

"TRUTHS FROM TROLLEY" AT NETHERWOOD CAMP

The services at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home were conducted last night by the members of the Christian Endeavor Society of Temple Baptist church and were well attended. The pastor of the church, Rev. J. W. Musson, was in charge *and chose as his subject for the even*ing's talk "Truths from the Trolley."

Mr. Musson's topic gave him abundant opportunity to draw a striking comparison between the Christian life and a trolley car. In each he declared, four component parts were necessary.

First he took up the track, which was a necessity that the car might run its course. This he likened to the Bible, which directs the path of the Christian.

Secondly, he dwelt upon the power, which allows the trolley to move, and said that to the power of the electric car, there were three qualities, it was invisible, instantaneous and inexhaustible. This he likened unto God's power. He took up for a third part, the trolley pole, which he compared with faith and prayer, and fourthly dwelt upon the motorman, *likening him to Christ, who con*trolled the Christian lives. Mr. Musson's sermon was interesting and his comparisons were entertaining.

PLAYGROUND SUPERVISORS' SUGGESTION TO PARENTS.

The supervisors of the playgrounds report that in some cases children have been forbidden by their parents to visit the playgrounds because they return from play with soiled clothing. The supervisors suggest to these parents that a child's oldest dress or suit is the most suitable for this out door amusement and that the children should be dressed in such a way as not to interefere with a full participation in all games.

Even the supervisors themselves do not dress in their best attire when they are on the grounds nor do they expect that any child should come attired as for an excursion or for Sunday school, but just as though they intended having a carefree and happy time without having to keep their clothes immaculate.

Dentists at Shore.

The fortieth annual session of the New Jersey Dental Association is now being held at Asbury Park and will last until Saturday. It is expected that every member of the association living in Plainfield will attend this session on different days. Tomorrow a goodly number will take advantage of the Sunday school ex*cursion of the Park Avenue Baptist,* Congregational and First Presbyterian church, while others will go on other days. Several hundred are expected to attend during the four days session from all over the State.

Shamrocks Won.

The Shamrocks had an easy time winning from the Front streets this morning on Hyde Field, the score being 11 to 2. Kyle and Mullen were the battery for the Shamrocks while Luthman and Stiger were in the points for the Front streets.

Miss Grace Woolston and Miss Leonora Miller, of Fairview avenue, left yesterday for a two weeks' stay at Belmar.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Penn and son, of West Seventh street, are registered this week among the automobilists arriving at the *Hotel Wan*dell, Pittsfield, Massachusetts. Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Williams, of Darrow avenue, motoring through the Berkshires, are registered at the same hotel.

MISS COCK PASSES AWAY

Much Beloved Woman, Who was Identified with Good Works, is Dead.

AGED SEVENTY-THREE YEARS.

Prominent in Grace Epispocal Parish, Women's Exchange and Muhlenberg Hospital—Sister of W. R. Cock.

Miss Elizabeth R. Cock, daughter of the late Dr. Thomas Cock, and Mrs. M. Margaretta Cock, and one of the most prominent charitable workers in the city, breathed her last at her late residence, 235 East Fifth street, at 8 o'clock this morning. She had been in failing health for some time, and her death was due to a complication of diseases.

Miss Cock was born December 25, 1837, and was in her seventy-third year. Her father, Dr. Thomas R. Cock was a physician of great importance in New York in his day. He was for fifty years a member of the staff of the New York Hospital, and was so connected when he died. Two years after he passed away his family, moved to this city, where since that time she had been actively identified with charitable church work.

Miss Cock was a woman of exceptional intellect and had a host of friends to whom she had endeared herself. Early in her life here, she identifid herself with the work of public philanthropic institutions and soon became recognized as a tireless toiler and a leader among those who help people in sickness and other adversity.

Miss Cock was a member of the Woman's Auxiliary Board of the Muhlenberg Hospital, a position which she held to the last. For three years, she was president of that body. She was prominent in the work of the Grace Episcopal church parish from the time she first moved here, taking much interest in the advancement and upbuilding of the Sunday school particularly. For a long time she was a teacher in one of the classes and was recognized as one of the most efficient and painstaking instructors in the school. She was also a member of the executive board of the Women's Exchange and was prominent in the Monday Afternoon Club. Although an invalid for several years, Miss Cock kept in close touch with her work along charity and church lines and maintained her interest to the east. Hers was a most useful life.

Miss Cock is survived by one brother, William R. Cock, one of Plainfield's most prominent men, with whom she resided. The funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at 5 o'clock at Grace church. The rector, Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson will officiate. Interment will be in Hillside Cemetery.

ANOTHER JERSEY AIR SHIP NEARLY READY TO FLY

*While Clinton Hall is making re*pairs to his demolished aeroplane another ambitious aviator has come to the front, but not in this city. The new aspirant for aerial honors is Henry Albisser, who conducts an automobile garage in Rahway.

Mr. Albisser has completed his aeroplane, which now requires only the adjustment of its respective parts in order to be complete. The parts in order to be finished. The owing to the lack of space at the garage, Mr. Albisser will be obliged to secure other quarters before the flyer can be put together.

The aeroplane when completed will weight less than 300 pounds, and in general construction is graceful and compact—the wings, rudder, propeller and, in fact, the entire machine, showing careful and painstaking work. The motive power will be furnished by a small engine of twelve horsepower located directly in front of the seat of the driver, which Mr. Albisser does not think will interfere with the balance of the machine, but if it should, he says it can easily be arranged otherwise.

The woodwork of the machine is largely of spruce, which proves light and durable for constructive work of this kind. The two wings of the machine weigh only sixty pounds, while the powerful little engine tops the scales at forty-five pounds.

The aim of Mr. Albisser is to obtain an operative buoyancy to the machine and if the balance is not properly adjusted, to remedy that feature after it has been found whether or not the machine will fly as constructed. The aeroplane has been built during Mr. Albisser's spare moments and is a credit to his ingenuity and skill.

SURPRISE AT SEA

It was evening in the West Indies. On a pier overlooking the ocean nearly the whole population of the town of D. were lounging, the men smoking, the women gossiping and watching the children who were romping on the beachy planks. One young fellow, a fine specimen of a man, was walking back and forth.

"Ned Chamberlin seems uneasy this evening."

"He's expecting Rose Bickford from Havana—they're engaged, you know—and that villainous picaroon the Marguerita has been reported scurrying about beyond the point there."

At the moment a sloop rounded the point mentioned and bore steadily up to the wharf. When within hearing distance her master shouted:

"The Marguerita is chasing the Inez. We left them ten miles out, both becalmed. We caught a breeze three miles this side of them and got away."

All looked at Chamberlin, for all knew that the girl he loved either had fallen or would doubtless soon fall into the hands of the pirate. He sat down on the top of one of the projecting spiles of the pier and covered his face with his hands. His neighbors thought that he was giving way to his feelings. This was not true—at least not for long. He was forming a plan to save the Inez.

In another hour the Alice, the sloop that had brought the news, sailed away under command of Ned Chamberlin. The moon, slightly past the full, came up out of the water, illuminating all within the circle of the horizon. The breeze began to die away and bade fair to cease altogether. This gave the hope that the picaroon had not been able to move against the Inez. The Alice within another two hours becalmed, but not before Ned Chamberlin saw on the horizon two ships in the doldrums which he strongly suspected were the ones he sought. Ordering half a dozen men to man a boat, he sent them ahead to tow the sloop and while it was still night placed her between the becalmed ships.

At the first gray light in the east the young captain brought his glass to bear first on one, then the other, of his neighbors, and soon made up his mind that the one on his port was the Inez, the other the Marguerita. Breathing a sigh of relief, he leaned against the taffrail, folded his arms and waited.

What was he waiting for? There was not a gun on his deck nor protruding from portholes below. But half a dozen men were visible, and they were lounging about apparently waiting for a breeze. When the sun came up there was a stirring aboard the picaroon, while the crew of the Inez raised every sail to be ready to take advantage of the first morning breeze. Vain hope!

Presently the picaroon assumed the appearance of a daddy longlegs, sweeps being thrust from her sides, and she began to move. Ned Chamberlin's only hope was that she would stop by the way in her journey toward the Inez to take the sloop. In this he was not disappointed. The Marguerita was obliged to make a slight angle to reach the sloop, and when Ned saw that she was heading directly toward him he seized a basket standing on the deck and climbed the rattlines. On came the pirate, her captain doubtless laughing in his sleeves at the fool who had pulled directly in his way during the night.

Ned Chamberlin kept his eye fixed on the picaroon, and when he saw the grappling irons fixed to the port side he concluded that they were making ready to board on his starboard. Calling to the men on the deck below, he ordered them to swing the gaff on which he stood to the starboard and lash it. When the pirate came to within fifty feet and was slowly moving toward the sloop Ned ran out to the peak and, holding on to a line with his left hand, began to swing with his right a ball on the end of a rope in circles about his head. Presently letting go the rope, it slipped through his fingers, and the stone landed on the pirate's deck. There was an explosion, the deck was ripped to pieces, and three-quarters of the men on it were blown to atoms. The shock dislodged Chamberlin, who fell, fortunately escaping the side, into the water, whence he was dragged back on to his vessel. The hatches of the sloop were opened, and out rushed fifty men armed with rifles and cutlasses, with the former of which they shot every living man on the picaroon.

On the Inez the captain, the crew and the passengers watched the Marguerita approach the sloop, not doubting that the latter would fall an easy prey and that they would soon see her crew walking the plank, after which the pirates would turn their attention to the Inez. There was scarcely a weapon aboard, and the ship rolled helplessly in the long swells. Suddenly there was a boom, and a cloud of smoke shot up from among the two vessels. They could not at first tell from which, but presently saw that the sloop was unharmed, while the waist of the pirate showed a great gap. Puffs of smoke appeared on the sloop's deck, growing less frequent till at last all was quiet. Then, and not till then, they began to realize that they had been saved, and a wild cheer went up, which was answered by the men on the sloop.

A few minutes later a boat left the side of the victor and headed for the Inez. When it reached the vessel Ned Chamberlin, followed by his first officer, climbed her side and in another moment was locked in the arms of Rose Bickford.

THE WAY IT GOES.

"Officer, what is the charge against this negro?"

"He was wearing a blue, red and yellow necktie that was so loud I arrested him for disorderly conduct."

"Good. And the next one?"

"I found him in company with a felon and arrested him as a suspicious character."

"What kind of a felon?"

"A bone felon, sir."

"Quite right. And the third one?"

"Incendiary, sir. He's a stoker, and I found him in the very act of firing the furnace."

"Send 'em all to jail for 30 days. I am determined to protect the public from this dangerous class of criminals."

Anxiously Waiting to Find Out.

Cincinnati Tourist (who for the first time has just entered a restaurant in Paris)—Have you ordered?

St. Louis Tourist (who has reached the table some minutes before, and who looks up from a French bill of fare)—Yes.

Cincinnati Tourist—What did you order?

St. Louis Tourist (impatiently)—How do I know?

Getting in the First Blow.

Martin—Why were you in such a hurry to speak to that man you met across the street a few minutes ago?

Pupleigh—He's my tailor; and if I hadn't gotten in the first word and taken the heart out of him by telling what a botch he had made of my suit he would have struck me for payment."

All Kinds.

"It takes all kinds of people to make a world," said the ready-made philosopher.

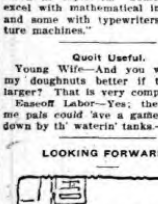
"Certainly," said the plain person; "look at explorers. Some of them excel with mathematical instruments and some with typewriters and picture machines."

Quoit Useful.

Young Wife—And you would like my doughnuts better if they were larger? That is very complimentary.

Easeoff Labor—Yes; then me an' me pals could 'ave a game o' quoits down by th' waterin' tanks.—Ideas.

LOOKING FORWARD.



Lady—Poor boy, have you no home to go to?

Kid (who has played hookey)—Yes'm. That's wot's botherin' me.

Just So.

There is no rose without a thorn.
There are specks on all our peaches;
We never sat at a banquet
But were bored to death by the speeches.

Instruction.

"Paw, what is a sonnet?"

"Fourteen lines of language, rhyming according to certain established rules."

"It's poetry, isn't it?"

"Not necessarily, my son."

Rubbing It In.

"Yes," said Miss Upson, proudly, "my ancestors came over in the Mayflower."

"I don't doubt it," rejoined Miss Cutting. "I understand only steerage passengers patronized that boat."

A Cruel Insinuation.

Dealer—I am looking in this neighborhood of antiques. Can you tell me of any?

Miss Pert.—Why, yes. There's been Miss Oldgirl, who came out the year before I was born.

The Proper Ones.

"I should think fiction writers would be the men to call on for juries."

"Why so?"

"Because they are natural born talesmen."

Waste of Time.

Ethel—How is it you refused to go automobiling with Sloboy again?"

Maude—Oh, what was the use? It took both his hands to steer the machine."

As Early as Possible.

"Did that young man go away early, Mattie?"

"Very early, pa," she answered. "About one in the morning."

Proud of It.

"Gracious! I never heard such a little boy use such language!"

"You bet ye didn't; I'm de champeen of me age."

A Hero.

"A man must be something of a hero to go to a charity bazar."

"Why?"

"Because he has to take chances."

Woman.

Wives and mothers generally serve as the chief corner stones of model homes. Sometimes they embody the pillars, the framework and the embellishments in addition to the financial support. The delicate artistic touches of all home sentiment are expected to emanate from the heart, brain and hand of woman. She performs the bulk of service from the foundation to the capstone of the home.—What-To-Eat.

Cleopatra's Envy.

Her caller picked up a little round gilt mirror that was on the arm of the big willow chair. "Dainty little thing," he said, holding it up and turning it over and over. "What would Cleopatra have given for such a little mirror as this, to put where she could find it when she wanted it! Worlds! To think of that beauty, whose only mirrors were polished silver. We don't know what an age we live in," he reflected as he laid it down.

The Way of the World.

Four-year-old James awakened early one morning and found his father dressing by lamplight and asked why he was up so early. "To earn potatoes for you, my lad," was his father's reply. Presently James slowly climbed out of bed, and his father asked why he got up so early. "Why, to eat the potatoes," came the answer. —Delineator.

Maori Legend.

In New Zealand the Maoris say that a man went out one night and on stumbling hit his ankle. Whereon he lamented so loudly that at last the moon came down and took hold of him. In his fright he seized a bush, but the moon pulled that up by the roots and sailed back into the sky with both man and bush.

Why He Was an Artist.

"You always say my last husband was nothing of an artist," said the little widow. "That he was only a fake, but I think he must have had something of the artist in him." "Why?" asked her friend. "Because," she explained, "every little while you exhibit the same abominable disposition that he did."

Acute Heart Trouble.

"Yes, I remember him," said Alkali Ike. "He died very sudden." "Heart disease?" asked the eastern tourist. "Waal, now, I don't know as you kin say it was the heart any more'n the club, spade or diamond. Anyway, he dealt himself four aces."—Philadelphia Press.

The Producer.

"It must be annoying to have to ask your husband for money," said the intrusive woman. "I wouldn't think of doing so," replied Mrs. Cumrox. "We finalist on family games of bridge and in that way avoid being under the slightest obligations for what he contributes."

Pointers for Orators.

There are three things necessary for the after-dinner speech. The first is to be able to stand up, the second to be able to sit down, and the third (and perhaps the most important of all) is to be able to shut up.

The Voice of Experience.

"So you've decided to build a house? How soon is it to be finished?" "The contractor says it will be ready for me in the fall. We are going to found the place in October." "And where do you expect to live next winter?"

The True and The False.

"She has a wealth of golden hair," said the poetic youth. "Are you sure," rejoined the practical young person, "that some of that wealth isn't counterfeit?"

What It May Come To.

"I've just thought of a brand-new philanthropy," said Mr. Dustin Stax. "What is it?" "I'm going to found a home for ex-billionaires who impoverish themselves by donations."

An Exception.

Binks—"Here is somebody who says that no woman is a suffragist unless she has a husband to some man." Binks—"That's queer. My wife isn't a suffragist."

Fault That Is Common.

Some people are so much occupied in going about doing good to others that they have not time to become good themselves.

London's Vast Wealth.

London, in monetary value, is worth two and a half times as much as Paris.

Earnest Man a Natural Leader.

What a wedge, what a catapult, is an earnest man. Who can resist him?—Thoreau.

Rulers of the City of London.

The city of London corporation consists of the lord mayor, 25 other aldermen and 206 common councilors.

Falls in with Their Desires.

Only the base believe what the base utter.—Bellers.

Generally a Misfit.

Greatness which is thrust upon people seldom sets well.

Physician's Great Ally.

He is the best physician who is the best inspirer of hope.—Coleridge.

WALKS
We Construct Them
Trap Rock, Cement
Experience
R. G. BUSH
Tel. Con. 743-5 South Ave

AUTO TIRES
Repaired & Guaranteed
at Trautman's
64 Somerset St. Plainfield
Branch of 131 Sixth Ave., B'klyn, N. Y.
7 8 1mo

To Whom It May Concern.
This is to notify the Trade in general, Hotels, Saloons, etc., that D. Loprete, of Newark, N. J., the largest Bottle Dealer in the State, has opened a Branch of his business at No. 40 Maple Avenue.
Anyone having Bottles, Papers, Iron and Metals, etc., to dispose of, call No. 3653 Telephone, and same will be promptly attended to.
I have on hand all kinds of Bottles, new and second-hand.
Hotel Trade a Specialty.
Newark address, 189-203 Frelinghuysen Avenue.

PAINTERS AND DECORATORS.
Take a Look in our Window
and you will be convinced that the latest in interior work—Aerochrome Washable Wall Decoration—is very handsome and effective.
Woolston & Buckle
Painters and Decorators
143 NORTH AVENUE.

George Washington Couldn't
tell a lie, neither could I and keep my self-respect. Nor would I give any less than the specifications call for. My aim is to paint as good as I know how—even better than I agree to—for I know that a satisfied customer is my best advertisement.
Jas. C. Hansen
Dealer in WALL PAPERS, PAINTS, OILS GLASS, Etc.
141 East Front Street
TEL. 346 ESTIMATES FURNISHED

M. WARREN
PAINTER, DECORATOR
and PAPERHANGER
82 SOMERSET ST.,
opposite Sangerbund Hall.

J. C. FIELD, Jr.
Tel. 991-W. 411 Park Ave.
Fine Stationery, Sporting Goods and Photo Supplies.
Sub-Postoffice in store.
Let us do your developing and printing. The best photographic work may be spoiled by the indifference, inability or carelessness of the finishers. The years of experience and constant improving methods enables us to give our customers better results than they have ever had. We invite a fair comparison with others and so make the following personal offering:
FREE! Bring us one of your favorite negatives and we will print it without charge.

J. C. POPE & CO.,
INSURANCE
AGENTS
110 E. Front St. Plainfield, N. J.

ALEX. LUSARDI.
Foreign and Domestic Fruits. Choice Confectionery, Nuts, Cigars, etc.
211 W. Front St. Tel. 867-W

JOHN WIRTH
(Successor to Henry Wenke.)
BAKERY AND CONFECTIONERY
203-205 West Front St. Tel. 72
Orders delivered at short notice.

A. H. ENANDER,
Sanitary Plumbing, Gas Fitting, Steam and Hot Water Heating.
Contractor for Sewer Connections.
125 WATCHUNG AVE.

FURNITURE.
Repaired and upholstered. Equal to new. Send a postal to
HARRISON, 140 CENTRAL AVE.
Cabinet maker, Polisher, Mattress Maker.

PLAINFIELD WINDOW CLEANING CO.
H. MERSTRICH, Prop.
Stores, Offices, Private Residences. New Buildings Cleaned, Scrubbed and Oiled. Office, 145 East Front Street. Tel. 864-J.

SUBURBS.
HOTEL WALDORF
EAST FRONT STREET.
HENRY WINDHAM, Prop.
Gottfried Kruger's Extra Beer on draught. Imported Wines, Liquors and Cigars. Hotel accommodations and private Dining-Room.

G. J. WEINMAN
CAFE
213 Park Ave., Tel. 1527

HOTEL KENSINGTON
NORTH AVENUE
UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT
HOUSE THOROUGHFY RENOVATED
SUNDAY DINNER From 12:30 to 2 P.M. 50c

THE
Hotel IROQUOIS
Conducted on the European Plan
Park Ave. and Second St.

EDUCATIONAL.
Plainfield Business College & School of English
Students may enter at any time.
PROF. A. S. HERR, Prin. and Prop.
Tel 795-w. Woodbine & Martin Building.
SEND FOR BOOKLET.

THE STARR PIANO CO.
Established 1872.
Branch Factory Office.
CHAS. M. BUHR, Mgr.
614 East 6th St., Plainfield, N. J.

DRUGGISTS.
Hodge's Pharmacy.
Y. M. C. A. Building.
BELLE MEAD SWEETS.
Tel 62

For $1.50
per month we will clean and press 4 suits and one overcoat. Call for them and deliver the same. Payable $1.50 per month.
Repairing and altering neatly done
Suits to order $20 and up.
Howard W. Cobbs
(Successor to Leslie M. Cobbs.)
146 E. 5TH St. 'Phone 461-L
near Woman's Exchange.

SMALLEY BROS.
147 North Avenue.
BUTCHERS
CHOICE MEATS.
GAME IN SEASON.
ROASTING AND BROILING
CHICKENS A SPECIALTY
Orders called for and delivered.
Telephone 88-A.

Kindling and Grate Wood
Cedar Posts and Bean Poles. Prompt deliveries. Orders received at 80 SOMERSET STREET.
JOHN MOBUS.
P. O. Box 320. Telephone 19-F-41

L. Moraller & Son,
Watchmakers and Jewelers
Watches, Clocks and Jewelry.
Fine Watch and Clock Repairing a Specialty.
219 Park Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

McCULLOUGH'S STEAM MILL,
21 Steiner place, North Plainfield
R. H. McCULLOUGH, Prop.
Sash, Blinds, Doors, Mouldings, Scroll Sawing, Turning etc.
Estimates cheerfully furnished

William H. Pope
ELECTRICIAN.
All kinds of Electrical Work done.
Reasonable Prices
116 NORTH AVENUE.

Lincoln Market Frank Neidig Prop rietor
94 Somerset St Tele. 781
CHOICE MEATS, FISH AND VEGETABLES.

Heinz's Sauer Kraut

KODAKS
Complete line of Photo Supplies
Printing and Developing
At Doane's 115 Park Ave.

PARQUET & HARDWOOD FLOORS
Old Floors Refinished
GEO. E. WATT
150 North Ave. Tel. 333-w

FOR THE CHILDREN

A Young Pirate.

The career of the disreputable young cuckoo is one of worldly success from his first chipping the shell to his late departure from our shores. He is born with a special contrivance in the structure of his back to enable him to hoist his foster brothers out of the nest and never rests till he has done so and made things quiet and comfortable.

The foster parents then pamper the young cuckoo with a silly infatuation, due apparently to its size and appetite. "See what a fine child we have got!" is the obvious feeling of wagtails or hedge sparrows fussing round a young cuckoo, which, though fully fledged, is too lazy to feed itself.

Even other young birds if placed in the same cage with a cuckoo soon begin to feed it. Yet after all the spoiling which it receives the cuckoo is a thoroughly ill conditioned, surly and spiteful bird. A young one which was daily fed by a thrush no older than itself, which was confined in the same cage, pecked the poor bird's eye out because it ventured to eat a worm itself.

Writing Tricks.

Can you write your name with your left hand? It is a good thing to know how in case you ever hurt your right hand.

Can you write a looking glass letter? That always amuses children, so if you have a friend who is ill send her a looking glass letter to cheer her up. Practice by writing on a piece of paper held in front of a mirror, and soon you will find it is quite easy to do looking glass writing. Looking glass writing is done backward, so that it looks all right when it is held to the mirror. Also see if you can write your name backward—that is, begin at the last stroke and go back to the first—and as a last trick try to write your name upside down. That is not at all easy, but copy your signature upside down and you will be able to do it quite well after a little practice.

After you can do all these things learn to write a good clear hand in the proper way, like a sensible person.—Chicago News.

Soap Bubbles.

If your father happens to be smoking when you are blowing soap bubbles, get him to blow some bubbles for you. He just fills his mouth with smoke and then blows an ordinary bubble with the clay pipe. The bubble will generally grow very large and will, of course, be filled with smoke. Floating in the sunshine, some of these present a very beautiful appearance.

If you want to make a very large bubble, first cover your hands well with soapsuds and then place them together in the shape of a cup, leaving a small opening at the bottom. Then hold your hands about a foot from your mouth and blow into them. The bubbles obtained in this way are so large that they immediately burst on touching the floor.—Chicago News.

Conundrums.

Why is a steam engine at a fire an anomaly? Because it works and plays at the same time.

Whose best works are most trampled on? The shoemaker's, because good shoes last longer than bad ones.

When is a lawyer in a pantry like a poacher? When he walks into the preserves.

Why are clergymen like brakemen? Because they do a lot of coupling.

When are two persons said to be half witted? When they have an understanding between them.

Why is a jailor like a musician? Because he fingers the keys.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Bits of Advice.

Each person is given a slip of paper and pencil. The leader then tells the players to write a bit of advice, original if possible, on the paper, fold it and drop it into a basket as it passes by.

The papers are all mixed together and the basket passed around again, each player taking one, but not opening it until called on to do so.

Before opening the papers each one must say whether the advice is good or bad, necessary or unnecessary and whether he intends to follow it or not. When the paper is unfolded and read aloud it may prove the very opposite of what he has said.

Vacation.

Hurrah! Hurrah! Vacation comes,
When lessons are all done.
And, oh, how glad I am to say
I know nine days in June!
I've ciphered hard and learned to add,
Subtract and multiply,
But now the season has come round
To put my ciphering by.

I've drawn the maps of every state
In our republic grand.
I've seen the rivers rise and run
And where the mountains stand.
The towns which are called capitals,
The cities large and small,
And great seaports along the coast—
I know the names of all.

I've learned about the foreign lands
And foreign people, too,
Their customs, different from ours,
And curious things they do.
And queen's that rule and box me so
I've studied night and day
Till I am tired of book and slate
And long for rest and play.

I want to sail my little boats,
I want to catch some fish.
I want to wander in the woods
And do just what I wish.
Lessons are fine for winter days,
But now the summer sun
Is calling me on every side
To three good months of fun!
—Youth's Companion.

SHE TOOK A CHANCE

"Clarice," cooed the bride's dearest girl friend, "you've never told me how you and Jack happened to get engaged."

The bride held back her head and studied the effect of an embroidered initial on something white and fluffy.

"I've never told a living soul," she said.

"Goodness!" How exciting! What in the world—"

"Not one living soul! But if you promise you'll never tell anybody—"

"Clarice! You know me better than to think I'd ever breathe a word."

"Well, it was one night last spring. I'd been writing letters in my den and was bored to death. I'd just broken off with Howard, and I hadn't any hopes of a caller, for Tom was in Canada and Martin was working nights on his law cases and Herbert was out of town and that nice Mr. Seibert you kiris were all crazy over—"

"I wasn't, if you mean me, Clarice, you horrid thing! I didn't think he was nice at all, and I always said he'd turn out something we didn't expect."

"Well, he did, when they arrested him for highway. But, then, that hasn't anything to do with how Jack and I got engaged.

"It was one of those lovely spring nights, all lilacs and full moon, and people out walking, and I was cooped up in my den all alone, with every blessed man I knew out of the question and nobody at home except Mabel studying her Latin on the porch. You know my den opens right off the end of the front hall."

"The bride paused.

"I'd just fixed up that den," she went on, "and I felt so proud of it that I had everybody come in there. So when I heard somebody mount the front steps as if he belonged to the family, and they say something to Mabel, I didn't budge.

"When Mabel called, 'Somebody you know to see you, Clarice,' I just said, 'Tell him to come straight to the den.' I thought maybe Martin had got tired of his law cases and come over for a few minutes.

"Whoever it was walked in as confidently as if he'd been to see me the day before. I liked his step. Don't you think there's a lot of character in the way people walk? This man's walk was firm and even, just as if he knew what he wanted and never would stop until he got it if it took him years and years.

"Then, what do you think? You'd never guess in a thousand years!"

"How perfectly romantic!" murmured the girl friend. "I never could guess, so hurry and tell me."

"He came right into the den and before I could turn around he put his hands over my eyes and said in the nicest voice, 'Guess who!'

"I racked my brain for a minute, for I knew I'd heard the voice before, though whom it belonged to I hadn't the slightest idea. He might be almost anybody, but I knew he was nice, just the way he walked and the way his voice sounded. Besides, I was half crazy for some excitement, and—I think it was just direct inspiration—I said softly:

"'There's only one man in the world who has a right to do that, and I'd know him among a thousand.'

"What do you think of that for nerve! But, goodness! I didn't have time to reflect on what I'd done. Things happened too fast.

"The next thing I remember is that I was all bunched up in Jack Phelps' coat collar and asking him why he'd never written me from Colorado all these months. He'd been away ever since he left college, you know, and he was my first sweetheart—in fact, we were about half engaged when he went away.

"When I saw how perfectly dear he was and how handsome he looked—don't you think he has the loveliest nose?—why, I never said a word; anyway, I was in love with him before I knew what was happening.

"He still thinks I remembered his voice and knew who he was when I said that—don't thinks it's perfectly wonderful. Maybe, when I'm an old married woman and Jack's baldheaded I'll tell him about it."

"But not now!" murmured the girl friend, recovering her breath.

"Oh, by no means!" said Clarice.

Facts About Farms.

Nearly 1,000,000 new farms have been created in the United States during the last ten years. In the last ten years the total number of farms has increased 18 per cent. In the older states, those in which most of the farms has been going on for 20 years a tendency toward the amalgamation of farms distant from market into larger holdings. On the other hand, this section has witnessed the cutting up into smaller sizes of many farms nearer to market. There are now almost three times as many farms as in 1870, and an unprecedented increase in the value of farm lands and live stock.—American Agriculturist.

A Proof of It.

"Do you think people can ever get to the north pole by aviation?"

"I don't see why not. The question of those who claim to have reached it seems to be all in the air."

Wrong Diagnosis.

Him—Miss Upson claims she has blue blood in her veins.

Her—She is mistaken. She has it only in her imagination.

ATTACKED BY NEGROES

Morris Kunzman is Set Upon and Beaten in West Third Street.

ILL FEELING AMONG NEIGHBORS

James Carr Fined $10 in Police Court and Others Implicated in Attack Will Be Haled Before Judge Runyon.

When next Morris Kunzman, a tailor goes walking in the neighborhood of West Third street and Plainfield avenue, he will probably keep his eyes wide open for the colored folks who object to the presence of people of another race on the public thoroughfares. James Carr, a young negro, who lives in the neighborhood, the only one convicted in the assault upon Kunzman, was fined ten dollars by Judge Runyon Friday morning; it is expected that others will be apprehended.

According to the story told by Kunzman Friday morning he was on his way to Mann's grocery store with his two children, one held in each hand. As he attempted to pass by Carr the latter shoved him from the sidewalk at the same time applying a vile epithet to him.

In attempting to defend himself and his two little children Kunzman was knocked down and in a moment a crowd of two hundred negroes were about him some pounding and kicking him, he alleged. Samuel S. Swackhamer who appeared for Kunzman drew out the facts upon which Carr was convicted.

In his testimony, in which he was corroborated by Julius Sharger, Joseph Hays and Hyman Rosenthal, the negroes set up the cry of "kill 'em" and "let's kill them all." This was denied by Carr and Hassell Pollard, who was arrested with Carr. But the evidence on two witnesses for Kunzman prevailed.

Young Pollard's mother who testified in behalf of her son did much to acquit her son. She said positively that her son could not have been implicated in the scrap as he was in company with a "lady friend" when the row started and fearing that he would get into trouble she went in search of her "little boy." Pollard is about six feet tall and looks like the published pictures of Jack Johnson, the pugilist. At any rate the mother's testimony seemed to impress Judge Runyon and in his case sentence was suspended.

It is said that bad feeling has existed between the colored people and those of another race in the neighborhood for some time and the near riot Thursday was the culmination of the racial hatred. The fining of Carr and the possible arrest of others alleged to have been implicated in the affair Thursday it is expected will stop any further trouble.

LODGE OF MOOSE IS ORGANIZED HERE

With 247 charter members, Plainfield Lodge Order of Moose, was inaugurated Thursday at a meeting held in Knights of Columbus hall on West Front street. Dictator George B. Stockton presided at the formation of the new lodge. Mr. Stockton as well as Henry and Charles Trefiz, the organizers of the new order in this city, came from Lambertville in order to give the new organization the proper send-off.

The officers appointed Thursday are as follows: Past Dictator, Andrew McArdell; Dictator, Theodore J. Shirley; vice-dictator Francis J. Blatz; treasurer, C. H. Holatein; prelate, John Green; secretary, J. J. Carty; trustees, H. P. Greenwood, C. W. Fogarty and W. W. Wilson; sergeant-at-arms; William Addis; inner guard, Miles Wilson, and outer guard, Fred Dunn.

Only the obligation was given after preliminary organization Thursday. This ceremony was performed by Superior Dictator of Records, M. H. Ketlen, of Camden. Delegates from New Brunswick and Perth Amboy were present and the members of the new lodge will go to New Brunswick on July 20 to witness the installation of a new lodge there. The charter of the new lodge closes within thirty days from Thursday during which time the installation of officers will have to be made.

Extending Heart-Rending Sounds.

Bacon—The army is experimenting with transmitting bugle calls for long distances with the aid of the megaphone.

Egbert—Speak low. The first thing you know if that gets out someone will be trying it on the bagpipes! —Yonkers Stateman.

That Old Question.

"My wife insists on a six-foot train, but her dressmaker claims that a three-foot train is sufficient."

"I see; they're fussing about the long and short hauls."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Heroes.

What a hero one can be without moving a finger! The world is not a field worthy of us, nor can we be satisfied with the plains of Troy. A glorious strife seems waging within us; yet so noiselessly that we but faintly catch the sound of the clarion ring- ing of victory, borne to us on the breeze. There are in each the seeds of an heroic ardor, which need only to be stirred in with the soil where they lie, by an inspired voice of men, to bear fruit of a divine flavor.—Thoreau.

Didn't Care for Him.

Little Eleanor's mother was an American, while her father was a German. One day, after Eleanor had been subjected to rather severe disciplinary measures at the hands of her father, she called her mother into another room, closed the door significantly, and said: "Mother, I don't want to meddle in your affairs, but I wish you would send that husband of yours back to Germany."—Ladies' Home Journal.

Called on "Mr. Anthem."

At an English school, once upon a time, when a concert was being held, the choir was on the program to sing an anthem, and their place was designated by the single word "Anthem." The gentleman who was master of ceremonies, a high-toned, pompous individual of the old school, when he came to that part of the program, announced, in a dignified way: "Mr. Anthem will now favor us."

Delaware Farmer's Mouser.

N. H. King owns a remarkable English mocking bird, which has established a reputation as a mouse catcher and takes the place of several cats. While King was the field with the bird it caught ten mice in less than an hour, killing them all. King puts the bird in his barn at night, and says it is keeping it freed from rats and mice.

Wanted Fare of Native Land.

After hearing a French menu Dr. Johnson said to Boswell: "Sir, my brain is obfuscated with the perusal of this heterogeneous conglomeration of English ill-spelt and a foreign tongue. Bid the rascals bring me a fish of hog's puddings, a slice or two from the upper cut of a well-roasted sirloin and two apple dumplings."

The Cataracts of Life.

The years between 50 and 60 are often the years of great prosperity and power. They are often also the years of calamity. It does seem as if between those years the cataracts of life are often reached and the soul awakened to the full experience and intelligence of tragedy.

All the Same to Him.

Rev. Dr. Munhall, a Philadelphia evangelist, has been telling an audience in Pittsburg that it was a short and a whale that swallowed Jonah. It is rather difficult for a layman to see what difference this would make to Jonah.

Theater Box for Minister.

One theatrical manager in New York reserves a box in his house for clergymen and their families one night every week. The rates are shaded, but just how much is known only to the manager and his treasurer and to the clergyman.

Busy City Railroads.

Steam railways of the United States carry a large number of passengers each year, but the railways of New York city carry 6½ per cent. more than all of them combined. During the last year these lines carried 1,300,000 passengers.

A Trifle Miffed.

"I've been owing you a call for the past three years" began the lady of the first part. "Never mind about paying it," responded the lady of the second part. "The debt is outlawed now."

New York's Thieves.

It is estimated that there are about 11,000 professional thieves in New York city. Those who steal only when the opportunity is offered have not been estimated.

Modern View of Crime.

Fifty or 60 years ago crime was ruthlessly dealt with in this country. Modern aims are directed to the uplifting and improvement of the community.

Spoke from Experience.

"I see by the papers that the oldest whaler has been cast away," says the Philosopher of Folly, "but it's a canard. I saw father yesterday."

Vast Original Forests.

The five great original forests of the United States covered 850,000,000 acres, and contained 52,000,000,000 feet of lumber.

Hard to Conceive.

The thickness of a razor edge has been reckoned at about one-millionth of an inch.

India's Public Journals.

India has 744 newspapers and 973 periodicals.

Merely Guessed At.

A woman who is perfectly stunning isn't always stunningly perfect.

Bulb Cultivation in Holland.

Holland has over 10,000 acres devoted to the cultivation of bulbs.

MAYOR FISK WON'T RUN

He Confirms Report That He Will Not Accept a Renomination.

OTHERS ARE MENTIONED.

President of Common Council Ralph I. Tolles a Favorite—Clay, Mygatt and Mellick Also Mentioned.

Charles Joel Fisk will not be a candidate at the Republican primaries to succeed himself as mayor. This report was confirmed by the mayor, himself, when talking to a representative of this paper over the telephone from his banking house in New York Thursday.

Charles J. Fisk.

Ralph I. Tolles, president of the Common Council, is the likely man as the choice of the "organization" forces at the primaries and his opponent will be George W. V. Moy, a prominent lawyer, who is backed by the "progressives." Mr. Tolles has told his friends that he does not desire to make the run and does not want the office but it can be stated positively that his friends are now urging him to announce his candidacy and that they expect that within a few days he will consent to do so.

When Mr. Fisk was asked if his decision was final he said that it was and he admitted that for several days the city committee had had in its possession a letter so stating. He would not give out the letter and referred the newspaperman to Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., the chairman of the Republican city committee, for further information. Mr. Hetfield is out of town today.

Ralph I. Tolles.

"I am not a candidate for renomination," said Mayor Fisk. "I have been giving much of my time as a citizen in one capacity or another for about nineteen years in the city's interests and I feel that I should be allowed to step down now. Of course, I shall always keep up my interest in the city's welfare but I can not spare the time for a fourth term as mayor." Many warm friends have asked me to be a candidate again, but I cannot comply with their requests."

In addition to Ralph I. Tolles several others are prominently mentioned for the nomination. These include Councilmen George S. Clay, and Frederick E. Mygatt and former Council Presidents George P. Mellick and Leslie M. Daniel. Mr. Clay, it is reported, does not want the office. Mr. Mellick declined four years ago to run and it was then that Mr. Fisk consented to accept the nomination.

Mr. Fisk has been one of the most, if not the most prominent man in Plainfield for many years. He is a son of the late Harvey Fisk, the noted New York banker, who floated Civil War loans, and was born in Jersey City, July 16, 1858. He received his only education at the Charlier Institute, New York City. He started as a messenger boy in the banking house of Fisk & Hatch when eighteen years of age after working on his grandfather's farm in Ewing township, Mercer county, N. J. Nine years later he became a member of the well-known banking firm formed by his father and his brothers.

In 1892, Mr. Fisk was chosen a member of the Common Council, of this city, filling the unexpired term of State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman. He served for two terms and in 1896 was elected mayor. He declined renomination and was chosen by Mayor Rockefeller as a member of the Board of Health and was president of that body when he resigned in 1907. He was elected Mayor again in 1906 and again in 1908. While in the Common Council and while as Mayor he has had the department of accounts systemized. As head of the fire bureaus, he had the department brought up to date and had several new fire houses built, as he did when head of the street department by having sidewalks laid throughout the city and having numerous thoroughfares macadamized. Plainfield's model sewage disposal system is largely due to his efforts. During his first term he re-organized the police department and was also instrumental in having the Martin act applied to Plainfield. He reorganized the board of health and made its usefulness greater.

For a number of years, Mayor Fisk was chairman of the Republican city committee and was also a member of the Union County Republican committee. He has been twice a delegate to Presidential conventions and a number of times to State conventions of his party. For a long time he was a member of the congressional committee in the Fifth district. Until recently he was president of Muhlenberg Hospital resigning when as mayor he became an ex-officio member of the board of governors. Through his efforts the institution was removed to its splendid new house which it now occupies.

During his present administration as Mayor, Mr. Fisk has brought about a score of improvements, including brick pavements in the business section, a new police headquarters, a new fire house in the Netherwood section, and has been instrumental in having many new and costly school buildings erected. A year ago he appointed a playground commission and there are now two public playgrounds here.

Mayor Fisk brought about the present excise regulations in Plainfield years ago which formed the basis for the Bishops' law. In 1898, he was appointed by Governor Fort president of the State Excise Commission, whose findings led many cities to improve and make more stringent their excise regulations.

The Mayor is a former president of the Watching Hunt Club and is a member of the New Jersey Park Association.

SCHOOL OF METHODS TO RETURN TO PARK

The School of Methods conducted by the New Jersey Sunday School Association will meet again in Asbury Park next summer. In a communication to the Board of Education, Alice B. Hamlin, the secretary, thanked the board for the use of the high school building and class rooms there for the week and asked for similar privileges July 5 to 12 next summer. The board granted the request.

The total enrolment was 276; enrolled for the entire week, 240; number attending lectures outside of scholars enrolled, 85—109 more than attended last year; new students, 154; number of students from New Jersey, 233; Pennsylvania, 19; Maryland, 12; New York, 7; Connecticut, 3; Delaware, 1; North Carolina, 1; number from each county of the State: Essex, 50; Passaic, 28; Camden, 24; Union, 18; Somerset, 17; Mercer, 15; Cumberland, 15; Ocean, 11; Monmouth, 9; Gloucester, 7; Hudson, 4; Warren, 3; Atlantic, 2; Sussex, 2; Middlesex, 1; Salem, 1; Ocean, 1; enrolment by grades, teacher's training, 5; adult, 22; intermediate, 70; junior, 58; primary, 15; beginners, 41; not classified, 25.

SOME BUILDING PERMITS ISSUED BY INSPECTOR DOANE.

The following is a list of the building permits issued by Building Inspector Doane for the first half of the present month:

George Buss, 1511 South Second street, alterations.

John B. Giles, Jr., 1220 Weyland Road, removal of building to 1224 Lake street.

Auby Artillo, North avenue, one family dwelling.

Emile Bey, Loraine road, two one-family dwellings.

Simon Roth, 335 East Fifth street, two two-family dwellings.

Mrs. E. E. Banks, Netherwood avenue, store.

F. L. C. Martin, Cameron avenue, one family dwelling.

H. Le D. Forest, Hillside avenue, garage.

H. LeD. Forest, 955 Hillside avenue, alterations.

Queen Bee Pigment Co., West Front street, alterations.

Board of Education, Arlington avenue and Fourth street, alterations.

E. D. Morgan, George street, one-family dwelling.

C. D. Manning, Watchung avenue and Woodland avenue, one-family dwelling.

Mrs. K. D. Knoll, 930 Kensington avenue, one-family dwelling.

P. Delano, Watson avenue, one-family dwelling.

Public to View Relics.

The so-called treasure of St. Peter at St. Peter's, in Rome, hitherto not accessible to the general public, will hereafter be exposed to view on the payment of a small fee. It consists of several old church vestments, among them the dalmatic worn by Charlemagne at his coronation. The collection of vestments is the most complete in the world and every kind of embroidery is represented.

Horrible Method of Suicide.

There are many ways of taking one's own life, but that chosen the other day by a Swedish sailor, chief engineer of a boat lying at Queensborough, Ireland, was crude and horrible. Having suffered from insomnia, the man soaked his clothing with paraffin and then set himself alight. He suffered fearful agonies and lingered for 48 hours.

Humorous Hobo.

The professional tramp or hobo is not without humor. At Stroud (Eng.) police court the other day one of the fraternity was sentenced to 14 days for tearing up his clothes while at the workhouse. He had only one eye and when asked how he lost the other optic, with a sardonic grin he answered: "Looking for work."

Borrowing Trouble.

A college professor says, "There will be no births 150 years hence." If we were a college professor and could not find anything more interesting to worry about than that, we would get out of the professor business, if we had to peddle phonographs for a living.

True Source of Wealth.

The improvement of the ground is the most natural obtaining of riches, for it is our great mother's blessing, the earth's; but is slow, and yet where men of great wealth do stoop to husbandry it multiplieth riches exceedingly.—Bacon.

New Yorkers Will Not Walk.

In the borough of Manhattan approximately 9,000 passenger elevators and 12,000 freight elevators are engaged in the daily transportation of 6,500,000 people. In the six years 1902-1908 more than 4,000 of these machines were installed.

Bar "Closing Out Sales."

"Closing out sales" and the like are being placed under ban in many of the leading cities of Russia, where strict rules are established governing such sales to prevent an imposition upon the public.

It Won't Come Off.

When you see a woman plodding around on a rainy day the inference is justified that she has one of those kinds of complexions that are not rubbed off every night and put on again in the morning.

Our Self-Eclipsing Heroes.

A person's error will make a hero of a hero, but isn't the error of somebody else that the average hero has most to fear in this connection.—The Standard.

Heat Adds to Absorption.

Researches in Germany show that a given quantity of red-hot coke will absorb four times the amount of water that will be absorbed by the same coke if cold.

One of the Worst.

One of the worst bores in the world is the man who goes around complaining because he had a chance to get an education and didn't.

Life's Injustice.

"What do you think? Mrs. Zizzel, who never goes to church, has won the first prize in the church lottery!"

Uncle Ezra Says:

"Don't give no too easy, unless you are facin' a cocked revolver."—Boston Herald.

Londoners Flock to Work.

Between eight and nine every morning 164,000 persons enter the city of London.

Minute Screws.

The smallest screws are those made in watch factories. An ordinary thimble would hold 100,000 of them.

License, but No Muzzle.

"He's got no license to talk the way he does." "Oh, he's got a license all right. What he lacks is a muzzle!"

Never Thinks of Himself.

"A man will complain av his ines, an' slape wut th' woorst wan, ivery night."—Cleveland News.

New York's Waterfront.

Any one who would take in the entire waterfront of New York would travel a journey of 341 miles.

Parents, Study Up!

Those who cannot answer their children's "Whys?" have no right to have children.—Dr. Campbell Morgan.

Hard to Eradicate.

The original savage in us is responsible for war.

Enormous Industry.

A single salt works in Brazil covers an area of almost 24 square miles.

Woman's Superiority.

Women have infinitely more tact than men.—Exchange.

RUNAWAY BOY TELLS A STORY OF ABUSE

A tale of alleged cruelties, suffered at the hands of his aunt, was unfolded to Chief Marshall Weiss, Thursday afternoon, by Cecil Smith, a thirteen-year-old runaway, who was picked up earlier in the day at David Flammer's blacksmith shop on Somerset street. The cuts on his hands and the general unkempt condition of his body, the boy claimed, were due to his treatment. Smith, whose mother died when he was eight years old, and whose father's whereabouts are unknown, he said, has been working for his aunt. She has a large farm just back of Mt. Bethel and took the youngster from the Bellevue Home, an institute for orphans, located near New York City, about a month ago. Since then she has been making Smith work and he says that any disobedience on his part has been met with severe punishment.

Smith, who is a bright hardy lad, declared to Chief Weiss that his aunt never hesitated in selecting a weapon, with which to administer punishment. The youngster had a couple of bad cuts on his left hand and elbow, which had been recently inflicted. On his hand especially there was a deep incision, which it appeared had never been dressed, and which caused the runaway to wince when it was bandaged up Thursday.

Young Smith selected Flammer's shop as a place of safety because he happened to know a man named Whitman who worked for Flammer. He reached there, barefooted, shortly after noon, and Whitman seeing the lad's plight notified Chief Weiss. The chief took charge of the little fellow, and took him to his home, where he was bathed and clothed. Friday he notified Overseer of the Poor Becker of the case and the latter in turn notified Miss Holly, of the Charity Organization Society, who will immediately institute an investigation.

The youngster when asked his reasons for running away declared that he was afraid his aunt would harm him.

PLAINFIELDERS CONDUCT FRESH AIR HOME FOR GIRLS

The fresh air work at Riverton, Conn., in which the Misses Merrill and Goddard, of this city, have been interested, and toward which many Plainfielders have contributed, is meeting with much success. The Miles Loomis homestead, at Riverton, which is being used for the entertainment of these fresh air girls from New York, was opened this week for the summer. There are now sixteen girls at the camp, which is located in one of the most picturesque spots in that section of Connecticut. Miles Roberts, of Kensington avenue, is a liberal contributor to this work, having donated a portion of his property for the girls.

For the past two summers this settlement has been used by the Union settlement of New York as a vacation home for some of the working girls connected with the settlement clubs. In the summer of 1908 the homestead was opened during August and twenty-four girls entertained. Plainfield friends paid the running expenses and the Union settlement paid for the transportation. Last year the homestead was open during July and August and seventy-three persons enjoyed the privileges.

The Union settlement has acknowledged its indebtedness to Mr. Roberts and other members of the family who have made it possible for the settlement to use the homestead for the important branch of its work, which has made many friends.

VIOLATORS OF HEALTH LAWS ARE FINED IN CITY COURT.

Among the eight men arraigned before Judge Runyon Friday a. m. for violations of the health ordinances were four negroes, two Greeks and an Italian. These men have been dumping garbage and ashes, mixed in violation to specific provisions against the law. A fine of ten dollars was imposed in each case and execution of sentence suspended.

Some of these men accused of dumping garbage in the rear of the new Jefferson school where a dump was formerly authorized. Others were found guilty of disposing of garbage in other illegal ways.

Reckless.

"Is he a reckless driver?"

"I should say he is. Why, he'd even drive his auto full speed past a public school when the children were being dismissed."—Detroit Free Press.

Affectation.

"There's absolutely no affectation about her."

"So?"

"No, she never says 'pass the cream,' when she means milk.'"—Detroit Free Press.

SPENT 31 YEARS ABED IN RAGE OF SILENCE

When Silas Hoffman died last week in Bedminster township he had spent nearly one-half of his sixty-seven years in silence. Both his vocal organs were not affected, and in bed, though his health was excellent until shortly before his death. For years he had been known as the holder of the world's record for treasuring up a "grouch." Gossipers speculated on whether or not Hoffman would get up, or speak again, or die first. He died without saying a word, his silence having been maintained from the day, thirty-one years ago, upon which a mortgage was foreclosed on his farm.

Opinion was divided as to the real cause of Hoffman's withdrawal from human association. Some declared that he just hated the world and all its people and works. Others, and they were in the majority, held to the opinion that when the mortgage he had signed came back to gall him he determined never to speak again to any one who might suggest that he sign anything and to stay in bed because in bed he would be in less danger of using a pen.

During his long rest Hoffman ate only one meal a day. One of his sisters kept his house and waited on him, the township authorities paying her for his maintenance, as he was practically a pauper after he lost his farm. At one time he was regarded as being wealthy as wealth went in those days and in this place. Four brothers and two sisters survive him.

Ambassador Hill's Epigram.

Because Ambassador David Jayne Hill is an American, his countrymen have been much pleased that the epigram he coined evoked much applause when he said in his Fourth of July speech at the American celebration at Gumeau-on-Spree that America is a country with a "brief past and an immeasureable future." Plainfielders may be pardoned for especial pride in the remembrance that Ambassador Hill is a Plainfield boy the son of Rev. Daniel T. Hill, pastor of both Baptist churches and a power in his generation.

101 RANCH WILD WEST SHOW HERE ON JULY 26

The general organization of the 101 Ranch Wild West Show that will be here on Tuesday, July 26, is such that it is a class peculiarly its own. Wild West exhibitions of late always been popular, but they have always lacked just the essential western atmosphere that has made the 101 Ranch so extremely meritorious. Under the title of "Wild West" numerous exhibitions have toured the country, giving performances in which Indian yells and pistol shots were the main factors. The title of Major, or Colonel was given some long haired individual, who surrounded himself with a few cow boys to whom the plains were unknown and a few Indians from an eastern reservation and amid shouts and pistol shots, a portrayal of what was alleged to be an Indian battle was given. If the Miller Brothers who are the owners of 101 Ranch at Bliss, Oklahoma, were ever Indian fighters, they never tell of it, nor do they effect the long hair and empty titles. They pose for years, where they are only cowmen and ranchmen. The early life on the plains as depicted by the 101 Ranch exhibition, is only what has occurred during the early struggle westward of progress. Many of the scenes reproduced are those in which they have figured and many of the true western incidents are such as take place daily on the vast ranch. There is nothing in the least artificial about the performance, nor about the characters. There is a complete absence of gilt and tinsel, and the life of a ranch man and cattleman is but lived over for the entertainment and instruction of those who have never had the opportunity to observe it on the plains. There are nearly a half thousand Indians with the show and not one of them have ever before been east of the Mississippi River.

Heptasophs Initiate Class.

Protective Conclave, No. 505, Improved Heptasophs, last night initiated a class of twelve young men Friday night. This is the outcome of a movement started July 1 to build up the order in this community. There will be another class number- in twenty-five to go in at the meeting to be held next month. O. Dodd Bryan, of Philadelphia, is in charge of the work and is meeting with splendid success. The Heptasophs is one of the solid fraternal orders and numbers among its membership some of the leading business and professional men in this city. Mr. Bryan is being assisted in his work by J. V. E. Vanderhoef, who has been actively identified with the order for over fifteen years and who is now a member of one of the supreme committees.

—Constitutionalist's ads. pay.

The Constitutionalist.

AN INDEPENDENT WEEKLY.

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

Terms: $2.00 per year.

Plainfield, N. J., July 21.

E. W. TOWNSEND TO RUN AGAIN FOR CONGRESS.

"He has worked for his living with his hands and his head," declares the Montclair Democratic Club in an appeal to the voters of the Seventh Congress District of New Jersey in support of Edward W. Townsend ("Chimmie Fadden"), of Montclair, who is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress at the primaries in September. The appeal recalls that Mr. Townsend two years ago, in a Presidential year, led the Democrats in a hopeless fight in this district.

The appeal says: "Mr. Townsend knows his country. Our party representatives in Washington will be measurably improved in character if we send a man of his type from the Seventh District of New Jersey. He is experienced in politics. He has written and published, besides the delightful stories that show his sympathies with all sorts and conditions of men, a serious historical study of the Constitution of the United States which has won high praise from competent critics."

Warm Weather Sleeves.

Undoubtedly the short sleeves are here, and it is delightful to be able to couple comfort with the new style.

In blouses the sleeves come just below the elbow and are edged with a turned-back cuff or a pleated frill of net or sheer linen.

A latitude that should appeal to every woman is allowed in the matter of fulness. The kimono sleeve, gathered into a straight band, with no fulness at the shoulder, vies with the slightly full pattern with its gathers at the armhole. Then, again, there is a closely fitting French monarchy model that many are using.

"It is so much easier to wash one's forearms than to discard a blouse after a single wearing," said a woman the other day. The question of cleanliness is decidedly a point in favor of the short sleeves.

Beautiful Hands.

The distinction of having the smallest hands in the world belongs to the Austrian women, and next to them come the ladies of Austria, Spain, France and Italy. Russians have long but beautifully shaped hands; while those of Spaniards are often spoiled by the thickness of the fingers, which are apt to be rounded at the tips. The hands of aristocratic Englishwomen are generally well shaped, but they are somewhat long, and are apt to be too dry. No one takes such good care of her hands as the French grande dame. Germans generally have somewhat large, fat hands, with very large fingers.

The Decline of the Classics.

"What did you think of the play?"

"Worst I ever heard."

"Nonsense. She's a remarkably clever performer. Because she plays classical music you don't appreciate her."

"What's that! I don't appreciate her, don't I. Well, then, I don't. But that's no proof that I ain't on when good music is played. Did you ever hear that red-headed little Mame Doherty play 'Has Anybody Here Seen Kelly?'"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Omelet Recipe.

Jules Gouffe, the once famous chef to royalty, in his cook book, now out of print, gives the following rule for a flaming apricot omelet: Beat six eggs with a fork and add two pinches of sugar and a small pinch of salt. Fry the omelet in the usual way, and before folding it spread it with three tablespoonfuls of apricot jam. Fold the sides of the omelet over the jam and put it on a dish. Sprinkle fine sugar over the omelet, and glaze it with a salamander. Place on the dish in which it is to be served and pour over it a gill of hot Jamaica rum. Set the rum on fire and serve the omelet burning.

Modern cooks have modified or changed this rule to suit themselves. Escoffier uses mincemeat instead of the jam and calls it Christmas omelet. In making the omelet he adds for six eggs two tablespoonfuls of cream, a pinch of either orange rind or lemon rind and one tablespoonful of rum.

Any kind of jam or preserves may be used, or the filling may be omitted altogether, the rum being poured over a plain, sweet omelet glazed with sugar. In order to make the omelet especially delicate, the yolks and whites are sometimes beaten separately and folded together.

"Charley, dear," said Young Mrs. Torkins, "the paper says that the Prohibitionists have trouble with bootleggers."

"I believe so."

"Men are so stupid! Why don't they put a step to it by compelling everybody to wear low shoes?"—Detroit Free Press.

LITERARY

The National Magazine for August will be found crowded with interesting and timely reading. In "Affairs at Washington," Joe Mitchell Chapple reflects the general weariness and feeling of relief with which members of both houses closed up the last gaps in imperatively needed legislation, and turned from the struggle of contending interests for recognition, to the homeward journey or the summer outing. Cloak-room anecdotes, senatorial persiflage and references to the principal events of an increasingly strenuous national progress present many tidbits to the appreciative reader.

Mr. Roosevelt's article, which leads the July Scribner, contains one of the most interesting episodes of his trip, the journey which he took alone, cutting loose from the rest of the party, and making a trek to the head-waters of an equatorial river, "The Guaso Nyero," in pursuit particularly of the oryx, "a bold and hard fighter, which when cornered, will charge a man." During this excursion Mr. Roosevelt took his own photographs, a number of which are reproduced in the article. "These days alone in the wilderness went by very pleasantly," he says, "and, as it was for not too long, I thoroughly enjoyed being entirely to myself so far as white men were concerned." Later he joined the main safari and heard an account from Kermit of an exciting lion hunt. One incident of this journey was that, when at Neri, he received from Pearv the following cable: "Your farewell was a royal mascot. The Pole is ours."

The July Metropolitan is a "Roosevelt number," with a striking cover cartoon of the ex-President and a leading article, "Lo! The Conquering Hero," in which Walter Wellman offers an interesting explanation of how and why Roosevelt captured Europe. An article that will cause a sensation is "The Capitalization of Amateur Athletics," by James B. Connolly, bare-handed attack on the methods of the Amateur Athletic Union and its business connection with the Spauldings.

Two articles in the Strand Magazine for July are of exceptional interest. These are "The Assassination of Plehve" by one of the Assassins and "What is the Practical Use of Polar Research." In the former article the secrets of the Russian Revolutionary Party are revealed to the public (for the first time) by a member of the terrible "Fighting Organization." There is a tragic note running through the entire narrative which renders it highly interesting.

The July Everybody's celebrates the glorious Fourth on the cover in most amusing fashion, and within it contains a generous supply of varied material of uncommon interest and value. "A City's Dream of a City," by Ernest Poole, is an inspiring article, well-chosen to head the number, for it voices the ideals and aspirations as worthy as those we honor in the national holiday. "Fake Mining Schemes," by Emerson Hough, is a revelation of the manifold frauds that feed on green investors and cast odium on a legitimate industry. Also it suggests a remedy in certain legislation that is badly needed.

The latest periodical war scare has an English source this time. Mr. Gerard Fiennes, a writer of some prominence, predicts a conflict between this country and Japan before 1915. "Japan," he says, "will fight the United States very much for the same reason that prompted Bismark to fight France." Europe, he believes, would not interfere to save the Philippines. Here, however, his logic fails; for if Europe considers that Spain at the point of the bayonet would the matter be mended by the islands going to Japan? Warmaking on paper is the refuge of sensational writers, when other topics fail to interest. If all the paper predictions of war came true, the world would be a miserable place to live in.—The Christian Herald.

Miss Hunter to Teach Out West.

Miss Gertrude Hunter, of West Fourth street, who was valedictorian of the City High School in 1906 and valedictorian at Barnard College this year will teach out west next year. Miss Hunter had a tempting offer to teach in Morristown but declined it. She recently returned from the conference of the Y. W. C. A. college women. She was the alumni representative of Barnard.

Will Give a Carpet.

The women of Trinity Reformed church have decided to give their church a new carpet, each contributing one dollar to the fund. The one dollar is to be earned by them and will be turned into the general fund at a meeting to be held in August. The manner of their earning the money will also be recited, and a number of humorous incidents are looked for.

The Natural Question.

"Poor thing, she means well."

"What horrible break has she made now?"—Detroit Free Press.

SURE PREVENTATIVE OF TUBERCULOSIS CLAIMED

Pittsburg, Pa., July 15.—The State Board of Health in Pennsylvania has just completed experiments in preventing tuberculosis, which it is claimed will in time completely stamp out the disease which is carrying off two millions of persons annually. The announcement of this discovery was made Saturday by Dr. S. G. Dixon, of Philadelphia, State commissioner of health, at a banquet given in McKeesport.

Dr. Dixon was slated for an address, but before beginning he said he had a little surprise for the physicians gathered, and it was in the shape of an announcement that a sure preventative for tuberculosis had been discovered. The State Board of Health is now working hard on the principle that the same preventative may be used as a cure also for cases partly developed. This, however, has not yet been assured.

Dr. Dixon said he was not yet at liberty to give out the secrets of the preparation, which, he said, would be used to inoculate both sexes when quite young. It is something along the same lines as the famous lymph of Dr. Koch, though three times as powerful. Dr. Dixon said the authorities in Harrisburg had been working on the process for several years and that the first principle involved was the discovery of an obscure country doctor.

The State Commission of Health will ask the State of Pennsylvania for a large appropriation to be used in the erection of an institution so the discovery can be applied.

YOUNG WOMEN RESCUE A BOY FROM DROWNING

Risking their own lives, three Brooklyn young women who are spending the summer at Lake Hopatcong, Monday, rescued John Rush, 23 years old, from drowning, and then went to the rescue of Fred Schroeder, who sank before they could reach him. The young women refused to give their names. They declared they had done no more than any other girls would have done. Schroeder and Rush were out canoeing when their craft upset. Rush was able to keep afloat until the girls could haul him into their boat. Schroeder was unable to swim. Schroeder and Rush, both of Brooklyn, arrived at Castle Edwards, a hotel at Landing, a week ago, to spend their vacation. They were on the water a great deal, although only Rush could swim, and he could do little more than keep himself afloat. Early on the morning Brooklynites were out on the lake Sunday night with two of the girls who figured in the rescue yesterday. An engagement was made for another boat ride yesterday, but at the last minute the two girls refused to ride in the canoe Rush and Schroeder had engaged, and the young men went out alone. About half an hour later the two girls with a companion set out in a big rowboat.

Rush and Schroeder, after paddling several miles, were hauled in toward the beach in front of Colonel Brasher's Corinthian Cottage, when the girls, rowing along close to the shore, called to them. One of the two men stood up in the canoe to wave to the girls, and the craft tipped over.

The canoe drifted away from the young men. Rush, by violent struggles, kept himself on the surface and tried to aid his friend Schroeder. He was unable to make any progress. Schroeder soon went down.

The girls headed their rowboat for the scene of the accident. They came first upon Rush, whom they dragged into the boat. They rowed toward Schroeder, who had just appeared for the second time. He sank before they got to him.

Rush was almost insane when the girls got him ashore. He blamed himself for the loss of the life of Schroeder. The body of Schroeder has not been recovered, although scores of men in boats are dragging the lake for it. The tragedy occurred at a point about fifty yards off shore and in plain view of hundreds on the verandas of the hotels and cottages.

So Like a Family.

"Dear," said Mrs. Newcome, to her husband, on the evening of their first day at Lonesomehurst, "Mrs. Grabbitt—that's the lady next door—called upon me today, and she tells me all the people here are like one big family."

"Yes, yes," replied her husband, "always knocking each other."—Catholic Standard and Times.

Disqualified.

That little fellow there with his toes out may be President of these United States some day," said the man passing to a companion.

"You're mistaken, mister," said the poor boy's little mate.

"Why am I mistaken, my little man?"

"Because Jimmie's a Democrat!"—Yonkers Statesman.

ENDEAVORERS' LAWN FESTIVAL A SUCCESS

The Japanese lawn festival of the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church, held Monday night at the corner of East Front and Church streets while not so great a success financially, was beyond criticism from an artistic viewpoint. Nothing prettier in out door decorations has ever before been seen in this city. The electrical effects under the supervision of Elmer E. Gayle were brilliantly effective and elicited much favorable comment.

Cold weather was the cause of a limited attendance, but even so the young people gathered in enough to leave a balance on the right side of the ledger of about thirty dollars which will be added to Trinity's church building fund.

One of the pretty features of the festival were the costumes worn by the young women of the society. Unless one were personally acquainted with the young women it would not take much of a stretch of the imagination to think one was far away in Japan, where the maidens dress so quaintly and so attractively. Really the cold evening was responsible for the poor attendance, but it did not discourage the members of the society who acted as enthusiastic as though the little garden were full of visitors and buyers.

DAVIS AND D'ARCY NOT SUPPORTING DR. WILSON

Dr. Woodrow Wilson's Gubernatorial boom received Monday setbacks when several statements were issued concerning it. Robert Davis, Democratic leader of Hudson county, authorized a denial that he had indorsed the candidacy of Dr. Wilson. He said:

"There is a quantity of available Gubernatorial timber. And, as yet, I have indorsed no one."

John J. D'Arcy, a State labor leader also issued an appeal to union men, quoting Dr. Wilson as having deprecated the influence of trades unions in his baccalaureate speech last year. He quotes Dr. Wilson as saying:

"You know what the usual standard of the employe is today. It is to give as little as he may for his wages. Labor is standardized by the trade unions. And this is the standard to which it is made to conform. No one is suffered to do more than the average workman can do. In some trades and handicrafts no one is suffered to do more than the least skillful of his fellows can do within the hours allotted to a day's labor, and no one may work out of hours at all, or volunteer anything beyond the minimum.

"I need not point out how economically disastrous such a regulation of labor is. It is so unprofitable to the employer that in some trades it will presently not be worth his while to attempt anything at all. He had better stop altogether than operate at an inevitable loss.

"The labor of America is rapidly becoming unprofitable under its present regulation by those who have determined to reduce it to a minimum. Our economic supremacy may be overthrown in the country grows more and more full of unprofitable servants."

Dr. Wilson's chief political sponsor is said to be Col. George B. M. Harvey, but the politicians here seem to think that as a political backer, although he has several wealthy and influential friends in New York. Col. Harvey does not amount to much.

The Montclair Democratic Club has appealed to the voters of the Seventh New Jersey Congressional District in support of Edward W. Townsend, author of "Chimmie Fadden" and other stories, for the Democratic nomination for Congress.

"Our party representation in Washington will be measurably improved in character if we send a man of his type," is the wording of the appeal.

Cleaning Lace.

Pure alcohol can be used with wonderful success as a means of cleaning black Spanish or chantilly lace. The alcohol should be poured into a clean basin and whipped with the hand until it is frothy, when the lace should be dipped into it and well worked about with the fingers until the dirt is removed.

After gently squeezing out the liquid the lace should be laid on a folded cloth, the patterned edge pulled out, each scallop or picot being fastened down with a pin.

When perfectly dry the lace should be unpinned and pressed gently between the palms of the hands until smooth, in place of ironing it, as this would flatten the pattern and spoil the color.

How to Cook Bacon.

Have your butcher slice your bacon on his dried beef slicer, and then crisp it in the oven. This bacon will be the right degree of thickness (or thinness) for wrapping oysters for "pigs in blankets."

FLAG POLE REPAIRED; PLAYGROUND OPENED

Fearing that children playing in the Bryant school playground might be hurt by a falling flag pole, the playground was closed Tuesday for the first time since the opening after Independence Day.

The 150 foot flag staff in the yard of the school was struck by lightning Saturday afternoon and the iron band about the upper pole was completely loosened from its bolts, with the result that the upper pole which is about 40 feet long was suspended on one pivot-like iron band joined to the second pole which is fixed in the ground. A heavy wind would have furnished sufficient force to upset the balance and blow the pole over.

The discovery of the condition of the pole was made yesterday morning by Jesse Scull, janitor of the Bryant school, who went to the playground to raise the flag. He immediately notified Miss Harriet Moe, of the dangerous condition of the pole, and it was decided to dismiss the children until repairs had been made.

Tuesday the pole was lowered carefully and new spiked were driven in to clutch the old iron band. The job was well done and it is believed that for the present this will afford sufficient temporary safety. The playground has been reopened.

NEW BARACA CLASS AT AT SOUTH PLAINFIELD

A Baraca class has been formed by the men of the aptist church of South Plainfield with a membership of twenty-five. Over forty men gathered in the church parlors at the invitation of the pastor, Rev. J. J. Allen.

A supper was served at 8 o'clock and following this interesting session Rev. E. R. Allen, of Philadelphia, gave an inspiring address on the "Elements of Success In a Complete Life," from which lessons were learned by the young men which will be remembered throughout their lives. Pastor J. J. Allen then addressed the men on the Baraca work and invited all those present who were interested in such work to give their names. There was an immediate response and in a short time more than a score of the men announced their intentions of joining. Sunday, July 17, was announced as the day set for organization of the new class and the following officers were elected:

President, Edward TenEyck; vice-president, Oscar Thorne; secretary, Howard Mellick; treasurer, Milton Rose; assistant secretary, Monroe Pyatt; hustlers, Emil Bittner and Mr. Pyatt; chairman social committee, Joseph Horne; chairman athletic committee, Elwood Johnson.

Aggressive work will be commenced at once, the men showing an enthusiasm which presages success. The class meets for Bible study Sundays at 12 o'clock noon.

MERCHANTS TO PLAY BALL ON HALF HOLIDAYS.

At the meeting of the Merchants' Association Monday arrangements for a series of baseball games were made to take place on the Thursday afternoons during August when the half holidays are in vogue. It is proposed to play four games between the men on the East Front and those on West Front. If there is a tie at the conclusion of these games the deciding game will be played on Labor Day. The trophy for which they will play is a silver cup which may be retained by the winning merchant for one year. The cup is donated by the entire association.

The committee having the matter in charge is composed of A. C. Lohrman, chairman; Charles H. Greer, J. Weinberger and A. E. Force.

Howe Wins Mascot Cup.

Franklin Howe who married Miss Lillian Fangboner Wood, in October, 1907, is the father of the mascot of the class of 1907 of Williams College. At the recent reunion of the class, Franklin Howe, Jr., was found to be the first boy baby born to a member of the class. As a result a large silver loving cup was given him. Last year Erwin Leland, of Westervelt avenue, won the cup for being the father of the first boy born to a member of the class of 1906 of Williams College.

Long Branch Bench Show.

Plans for the second annual bench show of the Monmouth County Kennel Club are about completed. The show this year will be given at the West End Casino next Saturday. There are 998 entries at this year's show, scattered over half a dozen States and two score of cities and towns. The prizes will be silver cups.

"Ted" Overton, of the borough, has returned from a sojourn at the seashore.

Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Peck, of West Front street, have returned from a sojourn at Asbury Park.

MRS. FLANDERS WEDS GEO. E. WEBB, OF TEXAS

Mrs. Hannah Y. Flanders, of Grove street, daughter of Mrs. D. J. Yerkes, and George E. Webb, of San Angelo, Texas, were married at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the home of her sister, Mrs. Walter McGee, of Rockview avenue. Rev. Dr. J. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiated. There were no attendants. Only the relatives and the immediate friends witnessed the ceremony. Following the wedding, a reception was held.

Mr. and Mrs. Webb will reside at San Angelo, where Mr. Webb is a prominent business man. He is president of the First National Bank, in that city, and is vice president of the American Banking Association of Southern Texas. His bride is a daughter of the late Rev. Dr. David J. Yerkes, who at the time of his death had been pastor of the First Baptist church for thirty-nine years and was one of the most prominent clergymen in the State.

FORMAL FAREWELL TO MR. AND MRS. T. LEECH

A largely attended service was held in the Rescue Mission Monday night the object of which was to bid a formal goodby to Thomas Leach who left today with his wife to take up mission work among the miners at Sterling, Ill.

A fine musical program was rendered and gifts were presented to obth Mr. and Mrs. Leach by members of the mission and their friends. Short addresses were made by Robert Love, John Lematty and other workers in the mission. Following is the program:

Song service, led by Mr. Lematty; Hymn, No. 295, "I am Thine;" Scripture, Joshua, 1-9; prayer, John Lematty; address, Robert Love, superintendent of the West End Tabernacle, John Lematty, Superintendent Lematty, of the Rescue Mission, and other officers.

The Ladies' Bible class of the West End Tabernacle at this point presented to Mr. Leech a handsome fountain pen. Following the presentation Miss Bennett, Mrs. Honeyman and Mr. Barretson sang a trio and the quartet from the West End Tabernacle sang a selection. The concluding prayer was by Mr. Love. Refreshments were served after the service.

PLAYGROUND ATTENDANCE MATERIALLY DECREASED.

According to the reports of Playground Supervisors, the Misses Moe and Hilda, a total of 982 children were in attendance at the two playgrounds for the second week. This is a falling off of almost 100 children over the opening week's figures. The week's decrease was directly due to the extreme heat, which necessitated keeping the children indoors. However, the average daily attendance since the grounds were opened is 187 and speaks well for the supervision. No accidents have been reported, neither has there been a case calling for discipline.

The playgrounds are now completely equipped. Drinking fountains have been installed at both yards and large shade shelters have been erected. The work is carried out in a systematic order and the supervisors are prepared to meet the needs of all children in attendance.

Mygrant Reappointed.

William H. Mygrant, of Saugerties, N. Y., formerly of Fanwood, has received the appointment for the ensuing summer to play in Prospect Park, Brooklyn. Mr. Mygrant is leader of the Seventh Regiment band, and has played before numerous distinguished audiences. There was much competition for the appointment this year.

The Miracle.

She's but a little colleen gay,
Scarce thicker than me thumb,
But oh, the word she spoke the day:
"Tis blind I am, and dumb."
Her small mouth had a pleadin' twist
As though 'twas wishful to be kissed;
I thought it gave the true word whist
And hope lept in the heart of me.

But when I tried it—oh, the blow
The little hand laid on me cheek!
'Twas but a feather's weight I know
But sure, it left me faint and weak.

And oh, the look that changed her eyes!
'Twas like the change of Erin's skies
From shine to storm—the black surprise
And sorrow burst the heart o' me.

She stood there lashin' me bold ways—
So weak the gentle tongue of her,
Compared with some I've got 'twas praise—
Then somethin' sudden, seemed to stir
Within me breast. The truth it lept
Straight out, belike as if't had slept;
Then—right into me arms she crept.
Sure, joy's near crazed the heart of me.

FLAMES CAUSE BIG LOSS

Three Thousand Dollars Damages in the Schepflin Building.

CAUSE OF FIRE UNKNOWN.

Schiller Bros. Skirt Factory, R. B. Van Arsdale, H. E. Hansen, Clothiers' Supply Co. and Co. K Losers.

A serious fire, which threatened destruction to the whole building broke out shortly before 7 o'clock Monday night in the Schiller Bros.' skirt factory, which is located on the third floor of the Schepflin building and before it was extinguished, estimated damage to the amount of $3,000 had accrued to the building and effects from fire, smoke and water. The cause of the fire is unknown, uth it is possible that rats and matches were at the bottom of it.

The skirt factory occupies the third floor in the Schepflin building, as well as in the adjoining building. Above it, is a dance hall, while on the floor below Company K has its headquarters. The ground floor is occupied by R. B. Van Arsdale's mantel store, H. E. Hansen's paint shop and the Clothiers' Supply Co. All places with the exception of the dance hall suffered heavily.

A large amount of stock as well as a portion of the building suffered in the skirt factory. In order that the firemen could get at the flames, sections of the floor had to be torn down, and when they did locate the fire, large volumes of water were played on it. This damaged the stock of the skirt company and much of the water leaked through to the floors below.

What the damage to the equipment of Company K will be has as yet not been ascertained. Many blankets and much paraphernalia of the soldiers was damaged by water, but it is thought that considerable property can be reclaimed. An elegant piano was saved from any damage whatsoever, by being carefully protected and covered by blankets.

On the second floor Hansen's paint shop and Van Arsdale's mantel store, which are located in the same shop and the Clothiers' Surprise Co., suffered heavy damage from water soaking. Much of their stock is a complete loss as considerable water leaked from the upper floors down into their stock. A computation of the actual loss will take several days.

The fire had gained much headway before the alarm was rung in and a delay of five minutes would have meant that the building would have been a total loss. When the apparatus from companies 1 and 2 arrived on the scene, the flames which were eating up the third floor were attacked from above and below. Picks, axes and water were all used in extinguishing the fire, but it was not until a full hour of hard work had been consumed that the blaze was finally quenched. The firemen in order to get at the seat of the trouble were forced to tear down many partitions. This involved both a delay in getting the arteams onto the flames and also an expenditure of much hard work. When the water was finally played on the flames, the blaze was soon gotten under control.

HERE AND THERE.

"I trust it will be many years before I have to wear crape on my sleeve," said the city salesman, "but when that sad time does come perhaps I shall profit by a tip I picked up the other day in a tailor's shop. A customer gave an order to sew crape on his sleeve while he waited.

"'Who is dead?' the tailor asked.

"'My wife,' said the man.

"'First or second?' said the tailor.

"'Second,' said the man.

"'Without further remarks on either side the tailor sewed on the crape. When the man put his coat on he looked at the mourning band doubtfully.

"'What did you put it away down there for?' he said. 'Why didn't you put it in the usual place between the shoulder and elbow?'

"'Because that isn't the proper place for mourning a second wife,' said the tailor. 'A second wife calls for the mourning band between the elbow and the hand, and any tailor who knows his business will put it there.'"

Kickin'.

Kickin' 'bout de sunshine
'Cause it comes so strong;
Kickin' 'bout de cold wave
Dat's sure to las' too long;
Kickin' 'bout de rainstorm,
Kickin' 'cause it's dry,
Don't do nothin' much but kick
As time goes driftin' by.

Kickin' 'bout de scarceness
Of de things dat grow;
Kickin' 'bout de plenty
When de prices fall too low.
Might as well staht singin',
Wif yoh feelin's on de mend.
'Cause if you gets to kickin'
Dar ain't never any end!

Washington Evening Star.

PERCY A. COOK IS HOME

Returns from Bermuda with Record for Fishing and a Relic of Ancient War.

GUEST OF GOV. KITCHENER.

To Act as Judge at Hamilton, Bermuda, Poultry Show in December—Has Many Other Accomplishments.

Percy A. Cook, of Mountain avenue, near Scotch Plains, has returned home after a three weeks' fishing trip in the Bermuda Islands. With John Sheppard, of Brooklyn, N. Y., he was living for three weeks on Castle Island, Bermuda, one of the most picturesque in the West Indian group.

"All sorts of rare and game fish were caught by the two anglers by rod and line. Among the fifteen species captured were angel fish, red and white tuangs, grasbys, murrays, groupers and mackerel. Three cassias are located on the island, hence the name. They were erected in 1619. Mr. Cook found a cannon imbedded in a coral reef and dug it out and he now has it at his home near Scotch Plains.

General Kitchener, the Governor General of the Islands, entertained Mr. Cook during his recent visit there. He will return there in December as the Governor General's guest and will act as a judge at the Hamilton Poultry show to be held that month.

Mr. Cook and Mr. Sheppard stopped in Atlanta, Ga., on their trip down to Bermuda, to visit friends. Word came to him there that a lion was ferocious because its trainer was ill and unable to manage it. Mr. Cook volunteered to subdue it and with the aid of a policeman's club entered the lion's cage and tamed the animal single handed. He was Honored during the remainder of his stay there.

Referring to him, the Atlanta Georgian contained this account:

"Chicken raiser, lion tamer, big game hunter, auto racer, aviator and Boer fighter, running the gamut from the most peaceful occupation to the most dangerous.

"That is Percy A. Cook, of Scotch Plains, N. J., who is attending the Atlanta poultry show, where his fowls are represented by a large number of entries. He is the head of the American branch of William Cook & Sons, England, originators and world breeders of the famous Orpington chickens.

"In none of his spectacular accomplishments, however, does he take more genuine pride than in producing fine specimens of his remarkable fowls.

"To meet the demand for a heavy table chicken, which would also be a prolific layer, the Orpington was originated by the late William Cook, of Kent, England. Since his death the business has been conducted by his two sons, Percy A. Cook and A. L. Cook, and his daughter, Mrs. E. J. Clark.

In addition to the farms in England and the United States the firm has two farms in Africa, one at Johannesburg, Transvaal, and the other at Durban, Natal, and also a farm at Sidney, Australia.

"Of all the farms Mr. Cook states that the American one is the best and most profitable one, the sum of $28,000 being realized as clear profit on th's branch alone last year.

"He was at one time sub-lieutenant in the British navy, and as a member of the naval brigade saw shore service in the Boer war, his command participating in 27 engagements and forming a part of the relief of Ladysmith.

"He is an enthusiastic hunter and naturalist and has spent several months in Central Africa shooting lions and other big game. As a naturalist and lover of animals he has at his home in Scotch Plains, two African lions, two leopards, and two bears, which he has himself tamed and trained, and so well has he done this, that in one of his cages a lion, a dog and a monkey are all living together in peaceful relations.

"He is a member of the autos touring cars to conduct visitors to his farm and racers for his own use. He has raced on all the New Jersey tracks and as an amateur has more than a local reputation. He states that he intends to race in the next meet on the Atlanta track.

"Recently his fancy has turned to flying machines. He invented one of his own design, but in a trial flight it received a smash-up and was destroyed. There is now building for him in France an "Antoinette" monoplane of the Latham design. "When I get my machine," said Mr. Cook, "I am going to fly right up with all the rest of the flyers."

At the William Cook and Sons' Orpington farm, near Scotch Plains, are the famous Orpington prize winners, an aviary containing peacocks, cockatoos, cranes and numerous rare and precious birds. They also have a lion, a tiger and several rare species of monkeys, an aeroplane and motor cars.

Mr. Cook will race in the motor boat "Togo," in Bermuda Islands next December.

JOSEPH H. WRIGHT DIES, AGED SEVENTY-FOUR YEARS

Joseph H. Wright, widower, aged seventy-four years, of 523 West Front street, died Saturday, following an attack of kidney trouble of which he was a sufferer for years. He was taken ill on Friday night. Dr. J. Herrey Buchanan was summoned, but Mr. Wright did not respond and on Saturday morning he passed away. He had been a resident of this city for six years, removing here from New York, the year following his wife's death.

No immediate relatives survive him. Herman Tietgan, his executor, is a cousin.

Mr. Wright was born in New York City. He received his education in a private school in Hackensack. He entered the employ of a manufacturing jeweller and learned the trade. During the Civil war, he was a shipping clerk for the Federal Government. Later he became a manufacturing jeweller. He was successful and remained in active business until he was fifty-nine years old. He was a thirty-second degree mason. He was also a member of Ancient Lodge, Triune chapter, Trinity Commandery, Mystic Shrine, Scottish Rite, and Rose Croix of New York city and of the Asbestos Club of this city.

MAN AND WIFE DRUNK; THEY TAKE THE PLEDGE

On their taking the pledge, Recorder Dolliver suspended sentence in the cases against Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Ward, of 356 Somerset street, on Monday in the borough court. A year old baby belonging to the two was turned over to Miss Holly, of the Charities, until the couple are adjudged competent of taking care of their young one.

The two were found on Somerset street Saturday night in a stupidly intoxicated condition. To the mother's arms was clinging the baby. Chief Marshal Weiss, who made the arrest, was forced to call in a nurse and a doctor to attend to the little one, whose condition was pitiful.

When the facts of the case were brought out this morning Recorder Dolliver decided that it would be for the best interests of all concerned to turn the baby over to Miss Holly. The latter will probably find a place for the child in the Day Nursery. The recorder then suspended sentence in the case of the parents.

The name of the place where the couple got drunk was obtained and a complaint against the proprietor will be made to the license committee of the Common Council of Plainfield at once.

PLEA FOR LOCAL OPTION

(Continued from page 1.)

agate his like, and transmit to them what he hath so nobly preserved."

"If this right is so precious that it was paid for with martyr blood; if it was pursued by our fathers with naked bleeding feet over the ice and snows of New Jersey, and through the midnight perils of the frozen Delaware, and into the lingering agonies of Valley Forge; if for it, our fathers pledged their lives, their fortunes, and their sacred honor, and Nathan Hale facing the scaffold could say, 'I only regret that I have but one life to lose for liberty'; why then, did a Republican Legislature, holding in its hands this sacred, blod-bought right, deny it to the people?

"Not because it is a novelty in legislation, for in all but five States of the Union, this principle of majority rule, on this question, has been recognized and given to the people. Not because there is any doubt of its constitutionality, for the first article of New Jersey's constitution declares that all political power is inherent in the people. Not because its legality can be called in question for the highest court in the State, the court of last resort, has decided that it is a positive legal right. Not because the sweet-faced mother, kneeling with her little son, prayed that the right might be denied to its father, for that prayer was the cry of mothers were pleading for that right. But because our representatives declined to represent. Because in the estimation of the law-makers, the 2,144,000 plain citizens of New Jersey weighed less than the 'Brewer's Trust.' The people wanted the law; the brewers opposed it, and the people's representatives, standing between them and the brewers, deliberately decided against the people.

Here is Democracy's opportunity! The Republican party has betrayed its trust and sinned away its day of political grace. The Republican bosses and machine men in 1910, have placed the Republican party exactly where the Democratic boses and machine men had placed the Democratic party in 1892. In 'Modern Battles of Trenton,' the author describes the situation in which the Democratic party had been placed in 1892 by the bosses and machine men of 1892, and says 'they had to come to the open and meet, without adventitious shield, the charge that they had abused their trusts, sold the rights of the people outraged their consciences conspired against their welfare, stained the escutcheon of the State with shame, and treated public office as a private emolument. * * * When the election came, the Republican majority in the State approached 30,000. Never in its history had the State so emphatically repudiated her rulers, and sent new men forward to power, to undo old wrongs, and inaugurate a cleaner government on a higher plane.

"And now my friends, the Republican machine runs truer to boss dictation in 1910, than did the Democratic machine in 1892. The Republican managers of 1910 are in closer alliance with trust magnates and venal interests and corrupt powers, than were the Democratic managers of 1892. The Republican administration of 1910 has defied the will of the people with as much audacity as that will was defied by the Democratic administration of 1892, and it has deprived the people of the dearest right—the right of self-government, the right of majority rule. Are the people less virtuous in 1910 than they were in 1892? Are the appeals of pulpits, or the prayers of wives and mothers and sisters less potent and persuasive in 1910 than they were in 1892?

"If the political freebooters of 1892 could not stand against an aroused public conscience, will the political freebooters of 1910 be able to withstand the lighting strokes of that same white hot public resentment? Here, then, is the opportunity of opportunity through which the Democratic party, with a patriot-statesman at its head, may march to certain and honorable victory; and is it not the path of duty? It is well to put the Republican party in the wrong but it is better to put the Democratic party in the right. The Republican party, in the last Legislature, either said to the people of New Jersey, 'We cannot trust you,' or it said to them, 'There are others we prefer to serve.'

"It has written itself into history as the tool of the trusts; the caretaker of the corporations; the guardian of special interests; the political embezzler of the people's rights; the ally of law breakers and the open enemy of free government. I said the Republican party; I meant the Republican machine, the men who make politics their trade. The Republican organization, dominated and controlled by these men, is committed to the policy of denying to the people the right of self-government; the right of majority rule; the American method of settling their own questions. The immortal founder of our party said, 'governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed'; and the builders of our constitution laid hold of this vital truth and embalmed it in the organic law of the State.

"If we are Jefferson Democrats; if we believe in the people, and in their capacity for home-rule, let us say so in simple, direct, honest words. I believe these words, mentioned into the political platform which will be framed by Democrats in the coming subernatorial convention, would be clearly understood by every voter of the State, namely: Recognising the constitutional doctrine that all political power is inherent in the people, and firmly believing in the principal of municipal home rule, we demand the submission of the question of granting or denying liquor licenses in the several municipalities of this State, to a direct vote of the people.

"If we say that every Democrat will support our cause, for we are declaring only what Jefferson declared, namely: 'No man is good enough to govern another man against that other's consent.' I am sure that the voters of this State will trust us to keep that platform pledge, for they will know that it was not dictated by bosses, and that it shys clear around the cunning that equivocates; they will know that the words in that plank will not dodge and run when they hear the footfalls of the brewer and distiller, and yet that they are fair and just to them as to all other citizens.

They will know that the choice was between a silent bid for the support of the liquor trust, and an honest, open stand for the right of local self-government. The people are expecting this declaration; for the Democratic party is the only present hope of the friends of popular rights and civil liberty, as in 1852 the Whig party was the only hope of the friends of popular rights and civil liberty. The Whig party temporized, became politic, straddled, and a new party slipped by it into power.

If we fail to make that declaration, and preserve a servile silence, or adopt darklantern methods, or cover that plank with velvet phrases, or use the ruse of a Talleyrand or a Machiavelli; the voters of this State will know that we have tried to dodge the issue; that we intend to serve the saloon and not the State; that we have placed the liquor oligarchy above the virtuous citizenship of New Jersey; that for the hope of gaining the high seats of Mammon and power, we have deliberately chosen to go through the campaign covered all over with run-labels.

'What Democrat, that has not, for an adequate price, secretly bargained ahead for a platform and candidate that will insure success to the Republican party, or serve as a plaster tool, will hesitate in the vestibule of such an alternative?

I do not mean to say that this plank is the only one that should be spliked down into the Democratic platform. The crying need of the hour is a return to the people; and it is the duty of the Democratic party to strive after the initiative and referendum, the recall, the election of U. S. senators by direct vote of the people; the extension of the direct primary to nominations for governor and congress; a public utilities commission with ample powers to make rates and to serve as a plank; corrupt practices act to prevent bribery in elections; and other reform measures, all of which should be set out in the platform in plain, simple, concise terms, so that the promises of the party may be clear cut, positive and capable of exact performance.

The people of this State do not want from the Democratic party a tremendous pronunciamento to be followed only by a miserable performance. The situation that confronts this State at this time, is momentous, and we should not let our platform resolutions this fall, is less rhetoric and more logic,—an appeal to experience and the judgment, not to the passions. Hat in the air and shouts, may please and stimulate for a moment, but you must lodge ideas that will shadow the face with thought, and put the deep wrinkle of intense reflection between the eyes. I am convinced that the home rule plank cannot be spared this fall; first, it is right; second, it is expedient.

Every Democrat here, knows that the citizens of this Borough have just decided the question of the local option vote; and that the citizens of Plainfield are just about to decide the voting machine question by a local option vote. Can the heaviest brain God ever packed away in the bony skull of a man, tell why those same citizens should not be allowed to decide the license question by a local option vote? Why their opinions should be ignored, and that question sent to a judge ten miles away? Every Democrat knows that local option, that is a political 'yes' or 'no' to a given question, is a hereditary right of the citizens of this State. He knows it is monstrous that the people should have to fall on their faces, prostrate themselves in the dust, and supplicate their representatives for the exercise of this right.

"He knows that the fathers of New Jersey only ask the ballot of a freeman to protect their boys; just as the saloon men must have that ballot to protect their bars. He knows that the brewer, fighting for his vats, should touch no tenderer chord in the legislator's breast than the sorrow stricken widow trying to save her son. He knows that no one knows what a local option vote on the license question in New Jersey would show—whether the voice of the majority would be 'for' or 'against' the license. We are concerned about the right, not the result. Democracy says, 'The voice of the people is the voice of God,' and this is the challenge of this campaign.

"Democrats, there is a moral sense that we cannot afford to disregard. There is a public conscience that we cannot afford to defy. Thrice is he armed that hath his quarrel just, and he but he armed, though locked up in steel, whose conscience with injustice is corrupted. Adopt that platform, and put a man upon it who has the courage to say in the words of the immortal Lincoln, "The time has come when these sentiments must be uttered, and if it is decreed that I shall go down, let me go down linked with truth. Let me die in the advocacy of what is right and just," and victory is inevitable.

"I know that the grafter will oppose this policy, but that will commend it to the virtuous citizenship of the State. 'If Tweed is against it, it must be good.' I know that the trust magnate will oppose this policy, for the people's gain is his loss; but to one robber, there are thousands of the robbed.

"I know that the neutral will oppose this policy, for 'white livered indifference is always dismayed by earnest convictions.' I know that the opportunist will oppose this policy, but he is an unsafe counselor. Daniel Webster, whose brain weighed more than any other statesman's, was the idol of the nation, and to my mind it is an open question whether his reply to Hayne in the United States Senate was not a more potent influence for the preservation of the American Union, than Grant's battallons in the field; but he made his Seventh of March speech, and I it sent him into political exile, and his party to political death. When the Republican convention of the State of Illinois met at Springfield, June 17, 1858, it nominated Abraham Lincoln for a seat in United States Senate, then held by Stephen A. Douglas. This action was expected, and Mr. Lincoln had prepared himself to accept the nomination in a speech which he foresaw would be the pivot of a debate with Douglas. That speech he submitted to a council of at least twelve of his personal and political friends, all of whom advised him to omit or change materially the first paragraph. This Lincoln refused to do, even when challenged by the opinion that it would cost him his seat in the Senate.

"It did cost him his seat in the Senate, but the speech would have been delivered had he foreseen that it would cost him much more. After its delivery, and while the canvass was going on, he said to his friends, 'You must think that speech was a mistake, but I never have believed it was, and you will see the day when you will consider it was the wisest thing I ever said. If I had to draw a pen across, and erase my whole life from existence, and I could only save one piece left as to what I should save from the wreck, I should choose that speech, and leave it to the world unerased.' The words which startled his political friends were these: 'A house divided against itself cannot stand.' They would offend the friends of slavery, but they put the 'Rail Splitter' into the White House and crowned his party with a victory unparalleled in the history of parties.

"Democrats, we are called to a great work; momentous issues are at stake. Let us head the lofty summons, and with souls serene and consecrated prepare to tread the path of highest duty.' Let us serve our party by serving our State."

Business Women.

Business women have to admit one handicap in an independent business life and that is business wears only a temporary aspect to most girls. For if she is normally constituted, every girl hopes that some day she will be happily married.

This idea being firmly established in everyone's head, it is harder for a woman to get capital to start in business and more difficult for her to throw herself with the necessary intensity into what she undertakes.

She has the brains, but she lacks the daring, the willingness to risk the chances necessary to a successful business career, partly because in so doing she is fighting all the set traditions that have taught her that it was for her to reserve to hold back; to keep the level of security upon which the family life best flourishes, and partly because there is little inspiration to build up only to give up.

Time is modifying one of these conditions, and the fact that more and more women are going into independent business and bringing the other to the point where the women may sell out a well-run establishment with dignity and profit—not simply shut up shop.

"So you have joined the suffragettes?"

"Yes, indeed," said Mrs. De Style, "And I'm thinking of having my social secretary throw a brick at a policeman." — Louisville Courier-Journal.

EBEL GETS HEARING; DECISION IS RESERVED

Recorder Charles M. Dolliver in the borough court on Monday reserved his decision until next Monday in the case against Carl Ebel, of 222 Grove street, who is charged with disorderly conduct. Ebel was arrested early in the morning of July 4, on complaint of Alonzo Terry, the latter alleging that Ebel had called him abusive names. Ebel denied the specific charge this morning and Rec rder Dolliver after hearing the evidence in the case reserved his decision for one week. William G. De Meza represented the complainant, while S. S. Swackhamer was counsel for Ebel.

MISS BEEKMAN'S FUNERAL WAS LARGELY ATTENDED.

The funeral of Miss Caroline V. D. Beekman was held Saturday afternoon from the late home on Clinton avenue, and was largely attended by relatives and friends, including several societies of the church.

The burial was in Somerville and the pall bearers were Samuel and Edwin Beekman, Charles C. Randolph, Blanchard Randolph, Samuel Saums and Louis V. Tallamy.

Cholera Mixture Causes Death.

Four ounces of cholera mixture a day taken to relieve pain caused the death Sunday night of Mrs. Lillian Porley, wife of Herbert Porley, of Bloomfield. It was thought that an overdose brought on convulsions that ended in her death. It was said that six years ago the woman was operated on for appendicitis, and since that time had been in distress, and the only relief she could obtain was from the mixture. County Physician McKenzie issued a burial permit.

Dr. J. A. Coles' Gift.

Dr. J. Ackerman Coles, of Scotch Plains, presented the Y. M. C. A. with two sets of modern literary works, in twenty volumes, on Saturday. They are "Modern Achievements" by Edward Everett Hale, in ten volumes, and "Masterpieces and the History of Literature," by Julian Hawthorne in ten volumes, and both are bound in half leather. An interesting fact about the gift is that Oliver H. G. Leigh, of Plainfield, is an associate editor of both works.

Rain Ends a Picnic.

Twenty-five members of the Y. P. S. C. E. of Hope chapel enjoyed a picnic Saturday afternoon at the "Notch," Scotch Plains. A thoroughly informal social hour was enjoyed, followed by a picnic supper. The shower which came down at 6:30 ended up the festivities and the picnickers scampering for shelter. W. Morris Hunter and Miss Eunice Eckert were in charge of the arrangements for the picnic.

Tailor Shop Looted.

Twelve suits of clothes and forty pairs of trousers were stolen from the tailoring shop of Nathan Freeman, 202 Watchung avenue, sometime after midnight Sunday morning. Entrance was gained by a rear window. The garments were mostly those of patrons who had left them with Freeman to be cleaned and pressed. The police say they have no clue to work on.

His Canoe Upset.

Roswell Duncan, who figured in a canoe upset at the New Market lake about a week ago is confined to his home with a severe cold. The lad was apparently uninjured after the untimely wetting; but several days afterward a heavy cold set in followed by its usual minor complaints.

COURT WARNS HUSBAND AND WIFE TO KEEP APART

The marital troubles of Mr. and Mrs. Caesar Taylor, of Westervelt avenue, were aired in the borough court on Monday with the result that although Caesar received a sus*pended sentence on* an assault charge, he and Mrs. Taylor have come to a tacit understanding that that they will both avoid each other's company for some time in the future. Caesar objected to the manner in which his wife was accustomed, he alleged, to be in the company of other men. Mrs. Taylor said that she felt that as she was earning her own living, it was all right for her to do as she pleased.

The climax to the affair came Sunday, when Caesar strenuously objected to her conduct. Mrs. Taylor claimed that her husband assaulted her while Caesar declared that he was acting only in self defence. As there were no witnesses to the encounter, Recorder Dolliver suspended sentence in Caesar's case, with a warning to both that they must keep the peace in the future.

THE "IMPORTANT DAILYS" AS PASTOR SEES THEM

Laying emphasis on the fact that the Christian religion is one in which every day devotion plays an important part, Rev. C. L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church, made a strong address to his flock yesterday. He choose for his text, "The Three Important Dailys."

Mr. Goodrich selected three verses of Scripture in which the word "daily" occurred from which he chose his text. He selected first the Lord's prayer, in which the Christian asks for his "daily bread." This, declared Mr. Goodrich, showed that the Lord wished his followers to ask for one thing at a time. Following up this thought, he brought out the fact that the Lord helps the man to bear his burden daily, and that the future burdens will be taken care of as they come along. For a third example of his "great daily," Mr. Goodrich pointed to the passage in the scripture, which says that a daily sacrifice must be made by the true Christian. Mr. Goodrich used numerous examples with which to illustrate his sermon and with which he impressed his thoughts upon his flock.

To Erect Memorial to Priest.

Announcement has been made that $750 has been contributed toward a fund for the erection of a monument to the late Rev. Joseph Mendl, who was for many years pastor of the Immaculate Conception church in Bloomfield. This fund will be added to, and when a sufficient amount is available a memorial to the priest will be erected over his grave, in the Catholic cemetery in Upper Montclair.

W. W. Warnock's Gift.

The feast of ice cream which was given to the children at the Nethermood Fresh Air Camp on Sunday afternoon, was from a gift of forty quarts made to them by W. W. Warnock.

Watchung Avenue Opening.

The work of opening up Watchung avenue to Johnston's Drive is progressing rapidly. Thus far the greater part of the way has been cut and the road will be graded and ballasted as soon as this is done. Street Commissioner Barrett, of the borough, is in charge of the work.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL
My new barber shop at
143 NORTH AVE.
a now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.
EDWIN B. MATHARD.

W. R. CODDINGTON,
Counsellor-at-Law,
Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-Chancery, Notary Public. Offices corner of Park avenue and Second street.

Guaranteed Salary
$900 YEARLY.
Men and women of good address to represent us, soon to travel appointed agents; others for local work looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and expenses, rapid advancement; old established house. Grand chance for earnest man or woman to secure permanent, permanent position, liberal income and future. Enclose stamp. Write at once,
STAFFORD PRESS,
23 Church St., New Haven, Conn

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Sanitary Plumbing
Brick and Portable Furnace
Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,
Etc., Etc., Etc.
I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanlike manner.
Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in all cases.
D. W. LINTELL

DIED.

SECOR—On Tuesday, July 12, 1910, Mary, wife of Micajah P. Secor, aged 70 years.

STAATS—On Wednesday, July 13, 1910, William James, son of George B. and Mary J. Staats, aged 22 years.

BEEKMAN—On Thursday, July 14, 1910, Caroline V. D., daughter of the late Samuel H. and Sarah Beekman.

FLYNN—In this city July 13, 1910, *Mrs. Mary A. Flynn in her fifty-*fourth year.

McNAMARA—In this city July 15, 1910, Patrick J. McNamara.

ALBERT—At Scotch Plains, N. J., July 15, 1910, Elizabeth, widow of the late George Albert, aged 63 years.

MARTIN—On Friday, July 15, 1910, Eliza M., widow of Luther Martin, aged 83 years.

FERRIS—In this city, Sunday, July 17, 1910, Alice Ferris, in her fifteth year.

WRIGHT—On Saturday, July 16, 1910, Joseph H. Wright, aged 74 years.

WILLIAMS—On Monday, July 18, at the residence of Mr. Nicholas Manger, 703 West Seventh street, Eliza H. Williams, widow of George Williams, in her 91st year.

HIS BODY TOUGHER THAN THE ROADWAY.

A near-serious accident which in the end developed a humorous side occurred Monday afternoon at the corner of East Fifth street and Washington avenue. A motor cyclist, who was rounding that corner at a fast rate of speed, cut the curb too close and the result that he was thrown heavily to the street. Occupants of nearby porches, who saw the accident, thinking he might be seriously hurt, dan to his assistance.

By the time they had reached him he had arisen from the ground and was brushing himself off. When questioned as to whether he was hurt or not, he answered in the negative and with a grin, that caused his rescuers to smile, he mounted his wheel and was off. He refused to give his name.

East Fourth Street Repairs Done.

The Public Service Corporation has completed repairs to its track on East Fourth street and now the street is again entirely open to traffic. New ties were put in and the roadbed was reballasted. During the improvements much inconvenience was caused commuters who had to drive around Park avenue to approach the depot.

HEALTH LAWS ENFORCED

Campaign for Cleanliness Being Waged by City Officials.

MORE ARREST MADE TODAY.

Section of Law Relating to Exposure of Foodstuff Printed for Guidance of Dealers.

The section of the law under which the Board of Health may prosecute dealers in fruits, vegetables and meats is found in the laws of 1909, chapter 231, which reads as follows:

"The floors, sidewalks, ceilings, furniture, receptacles, implements and machinery of every establishment, or place where food intended for distribution or sale is produced, manufactured, prepared, packed, stored, sold or distributed, and all cars, trucks and vehicles used in the transportation of such food products shall at no time be kept in an unclean or unsanitary condition. All food intended for distribution or sale in the process of production, manufacture, preparation, packing, storing, sale, distribution or transportation shall be securely protected from flies, dust, dirt and, so far as the same is possible, by the use of all reasonable means, from all other foreign or injurious contamination: the refuse, dirt and waste products subject to decomposition or fermentation incident to the production, manufacture, preparation, packing, storing, sale, distribution or transportation of food, shall be removed daily. The clothing worn by all operatives, employes, clerks and other persons while engaged in work in any of the places where food intended for sale or distribution is produced, manufactured, prepared, packed, stored, sold, distributed or transported shall be in a clean condition at all times. No person shall transport any such food in such a manner that the purity or wholesomeness thereof shall be in anywise impaired."

Health Officer O'Brien is prosecuting the work of helping Plainfielders to obtain pure food, as well as prevent the disseminating of disease germs through the means of garbage. Several arrests were made Friday and Saturday morning three more men were arraigned before Judge Runyon for offenses against the statutes.

Louis Kornfield, of Spruce street, who received a suspended sentence Friday for violating the garbage ordinance had to pay his original fine of $10 and an additional $2 for a second offense committed Friday. The second fine was made small owing to the fact that the garbage was dumped without the knowledge of Mr. Kornfield.

William Carter, colored, and Sumner Randolph had fines suspended over their heads for $10 each. Carter violated the garbage ordinance while Sumner was carting garbage without a license.

OUR NEWEST RESIDENT SANG SONG OF LIBERTY

Martl Augustus Dessaux, an eleven-year-old French boy, who arrived in New York Thursday all alone on the White Star liner Majestic, his destination being Plainfield, where he expects to make his home with his aunt, Mrs. Joseph Cleary, aroused considerable interest among the passengers as the ship steamed past the Statue of Liberty.

It was a weak little voice and the enunciation was most imperfect, but it carried a world of patriotism to passengers as the lad sang "America." They all know about the Statue of Liberty in France, and they know what it stands for, and Martl greeted the country of his adoption with the national hymn.

The lad's English is not too good, but his heart is in the right place and the sight of the goddess brought forth a song. He then sang the "Marseillaise," with less effort. According to reports, Martl was popular in his home in Cherbourg, for 200 schoolmates bade him farewell at the warf.

Because the lad has not reached the age of sixteen years, the officials refused to allow him to accompany his aunt to this city yesterday, even though she proved the deed for her property here. The boy was sent over in care of the steward of the Majestic, and with the full consent of his parents. Mrs. Cleary, who resides on Ann street, went to New York yesterday to make another attempt to get possession of the boy.

A Wise Boss.

"What are you taking your vacation so early for?"

"Well, you see the baseball team will be out of town for a month now, and I want to be sure that my employes are looking after the business while I'm away."—Detroit Free Press.

WHY WATER PRESSURE BECOMES LOW AT TIMES

The Plainfield-Union Water Company Saturday revoked 20 permits for the use of lawn sprinklers throughout the city, and has started a crusade against residents who pay the fee of $5 a year for the privilege of using a hose during certain contract hours, and then let the water run any old hours. The hours fixed by the company for the use of a hose in the contracts are from 6 to 9 o'clock in the morning and from 5 to 8 o'clock in the evening.

An investigation has shown that people who have a permit to use a hose turn on the water during the afternoon and let the water run until almost midnight and then start the water a running the first thing in the morning. With so many sprinklers in use throughout the city and at all times of the day and night, it is not to be wondered at that the water pressure is low; besides it is a great waste of water.

Another thing that the company has turned its attention to is the person who uses a sprinkler and has no permit for doing so. The company has evidence against a large number of such people and steps will be taken to stop the practice. With such a large territory to cover it has been a little difficult for the company to keep track of every one who uses city water, but it has a system now in force which simplifies matters and makes detection easy.

REVOLUTIONARY SOLDIERS' GRAVES WILL BE MARKED

Gen. J. Madison Drake, of Elizabeth, who was given supervision of the burial of Civil War veterans in Union county, recently reported to the Board of Freeholders, the name, age and army record of every soldier buried in the county. He is now engaged by direction of the board, securing the names, age and record of places of burial of all Revolutionary soldiers, together with those who served in the War of 1812. He will not be able to complete this task before the end of the year.

Gen. Drake visited Evergreen cemetery, Elizabeth city, last week, and ascertained that the remains of seven soldiers of the American Revolution and six who served in the War of 1812 repose within that enclosure. Not one of these graves have been marked by the Sons of the Revolution, or by the county or Government, and the board of Freeholders have directed Gen. Drake to make requisition upon the Government for white marble monuments to mark the resting places of the dead heroes.

CAN THIS BE TRUE? GOP FOR FANWOOD TWP.

The Fanwood Township Committee, at its meeting, last night decided to engage a night policeman for the village, the action being the result of several escapades in that vicinity during the past few months. A delegation of citizens appeared before the committee in favor of the proposition and when the vote was taken there was not a dissenting vote.

For many years the township has lacked proper protection and it is believed that the presence of an officer at night will have a good effect on the whole community; that as soon as the people learned that the authorities meant business, the community would become orderly and quiet.

The depredations at the Baptist parsonage several weeks ago, as well as the pranks in the village on the eve of the Fourth have had a tendency to bring the matter to a head. Numerous "growler" parties have also had a bad effect in the village, and whoever gets the appointment will have no sinecure things. A majority of the residents favor the appointment of a marshal and as soon as a suitable man can be found the committee will make the appointment.

FIRST DEATH IN FAMILY FOR OVER SIXTY YEARS.

The funeral services of Mrs. Cramer, aged 82 years, mother of Mrs. Joseph A. Haynes, of the borough, were held Wednesday at her home in Annandale, and were largely attended. The death of Mrs. Cramer marked the first one in that family in sixty-one years about the length of her married life. She and Mr. Cramer had lived in the house in which she died about sixty years. She was well known here, where she was accustomed to visit at times. Mrs. Cramer was born on July 4, and her relatives and friends were glad that she was able to celebrate her birthday the fourth of this month.

WILSON FOR GOVERNOR

Princeton University President Would Accept Democratic Nomination.

OTHERS WANT THE PLACE.

State Senator George Silzer and Mayor Otto Wittpenn Are Making an Aggressive Campaign for the Nomination.

Responding to the urgent appeals of a number of Democratic leaders of this State, Dr. Woodrow Wilson, president of Princeton University, has consented to become a passive candidate for the party nomination for Governor this year. In consenting, it is understood, Dr. Wilson imposed certain conditions.

Principal among these conditions was that it must be made clear to the Princeton president that the sentiment of the voters of New Jersey is so strongly in favor of him that the situation shall not assume the aspect of a fight on his part to secure the nomination.

Since a conference last Tuesday in New York, at which Dr. Wilson gave his passive consent, events have taken place that cast doubt upon the ability of those men who assumed to know the party sentiment to prove to Princeton's president that what they said was true.

The lure of bringing to the coming political contest such a man as Dr. Wilson has not been attractive enough to at least some of the other men, who have publicly announced themselves candidates for the nomination, to induce them to withdraw their own ambition in that direction and come out and shout for the learned head of Princeton. State Senator George S. Silzer, of Middlesex, and Mayor H. Otto Wittpenn, of Jersey City, both made positive knowledge of Dr. Wilson's tacit consent to become a candidate, that they are still active aspirants for the nomination and propose to remain in the race.

Dr. Wilson personally confirmed yesterday the truth of the unofficial announcement that he was in conference Tuesday with a number of Democrats and that the subject discussed was the opportunity to win success in the State this year with himself as the candidate for Governor. Dr. Wilson then announced that he would make a formal statement of his position in the present situation.

Dr. Wilson admitted that he had learned from Mayor Wittpenn that the latter did not propose to retire as a candidate for the Gubernatorial nomination. He did not see that this fact made any difference to him in view of his passive attitude on the question of the nomination.

Mayor Wittpenn was the guest of Dr. Wilson Thursday at Lytne. On his return yesterday Mr. Wittpenn declared that he spent a very pleasane day with the President of Princeton. They discussed the Gubernatorial situation, he said. Mayor Wittpenn says he learned that Mr. Wilson is not a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor. He also learned other things, he said, about the way the political game is being played in New Jersey, things which he had suspected and he did.

"I was nicely entertained by Mr. Wilson," Mayor Wittpenn said, "and I feel that I am accurately informed now as to the position that Mr. Wilson takes in the matter of the nomination. He had been misinformed as to my candidacy. He had been told that I would withdraw.

"What truth was there in that story that you, Senator Silzer and Frank S. Katzenbach were all three to withdraw to leave the field open to Mr. Wilson?"

"So far as I am concerned, that story is entirely false. I entered the race at the request of many Democrats from all over the State, and I intend to stay in it until the Democratic State convention.

"There is no promise or price that will induce me to withdraw. From today I shall start to fight to elect delegates to the State convention who are pledged to me from every election district in Hudson county.

"I want this statement made as emphatic and as public as possible, so that my friends will know that I am in this race to a finish. I am more confident than ever that when the primaries are over that I will have a decisive majority of the delegates from Hudson county, as well as the delegates from other parts of the State.

"I am in earnest and I believe that I will be the next candidate for Governor on the Democratic ticket."

Mayor Wittpenn refused to make any further statement as to his talk with Mr. Wilson, but it is understood from friends that he heard much that enlightened him as to the hostility there is to him in Hudson county.

Not less emphatic than Jersey City's Mayor was State Senator Silzer in declaring that he will not retire from the Gubernatorial field to make room for Woodrow Wilson or anybody else for that matter.

"I authorized nobody to speak for me in any conference at which the Gubernatorial situation was discussed with Dr. Wilson or any one else," said Mr. Silzer. "I was not consulted about the conference said to have been held in New York last Tuesday, nor am I in sympathy with the apparent purposes of such conference. In fact I knew nothing about it and nobody has any right to say I would withdraw in favor of Dr. Wilson or anybody else.

"My position is simply this," went on Mr. Silzer. "I was induced to announce myself a candidate for the nomination for Governor at the solicitation of many of my friends in all sections of the State. I shall remain in the field, an active aspirant, unless the friends who induced me to enter the race advise me to retire.

"I believe it is the sentiment of my friends and of Democrats generally that the standard bearer to represent the rank and file of the party in New Jersey this year should be one who in the last four or five years has by his activities in the people's cause, whether in or out of the Legislature, helped make victory possible this year, rather than one who has merely been a figurehead in the party."

DR. CHAMBLISS TO PREACH WHILE ON A TRIP ABROAD

Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, of the First Baptist church, will close his house the last week in July and on the Sunday, August 7, will preach in New England. On Wednesday, August 10, he will leave on the Steamship Oceanic for a trip abroad. While away he will preach in Glasgow, Northampton and Bristol, returning to this city between September 15 and 20. The supplies at his church during his absence will be as follows:

July 31, Rev. Dr. Pogson, of New York City; August 7, Rev. Dr. G. W. Nicholson, of Bridgeport, Conn.; 14, Rev. Dr. Bergen D. Steile, of Clarksburg, W. Va.; 21, Rev. Dr. McBride, Nicholson, of Bridgeport, Conn.; September 4, Rev. Dr. S. J. Skevington, of Newark; 11, Rev. F. St. John Fitch, of this city. There will be no evening services during August.

BLAZE AT A GARAGE; FAULT OF EMPLOYE

The carelessness of Frank Miller, employed at the garage of the Barfuss Auto Company, on Somerset street, in failing to turn out the lamps on a machine while filling a gasolene tank, was directly responsible for a fire at the garage Friday night, the flames causing a loss of thousands of dollars, as there were over a dozen autos in the place at the time.

Miller was engaged in filling Geo. Voehl's Pope-Toledo car with gasolene, and in some way the liquid became ignited. In an instant the car was enveloped in flames. It was then that Miller displayed some heroism and banishing all thoughts of personal safety, rushed into the flames and screwed the cap on the gasolene tank, thereby preventing an explosion. His arms and hands were frightfully burned, but he did not stop until he had succeeded in running the car out of the building.

Simultaneously, alarms of fire were in from Front and Somerset street, and the borough, and both departments responded quickly. It required but a few minutes to put out the flames with a couple of extinguishers. Miller's burns were of such a character that he was obliged to seek the services of a physician, and it will be several days before he will be able to return to work.

The automobile garage is located in the same building as the L. M. French carriage factory, and Miller's heroic work doubtless saved the entire building and contents from destruction. The damage to Mr. Voehl's machine will aggregate several hundred dollars.

TEN BILLION STAMPS.

Big Order for Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

More than ten billion postage stamps will be printed at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing at Washington, D. C., in the coming year. This amount represents only a rough estimate of the number of stamps necessary to meet the requirements for one year of the American people, and will be divided approximately as follows: Two-cent stamps, 5,500,000,000; one-cent stamps, 4,000,000,000; one-dollar stamps, 100,000, and the rest in other denominations.

The estimated value of the stamps required for the year is $177,783,000, or $7,000,000 more than for those wanted last year.

Early Sweet Corn and Tomatoes.

Constable Robert Pierce, of New Market, is priding himself on the fact that he has already had sweet corn from his garden. It is of the Golden Crown variety and is unusually sweet. Mr. Pierce has been eating potatoes from his garden for several weeks, as well as tomatoes.

KEPT MULES ON THE MOVE

Hitched to Speeding Automobile Team for a While Had the Time of Their Lives.

Here is a story from Manhattan with vaudeville features, not to mention the hard luck:

A farmer living on Deep creek, several miles north of Manhattan, had a thrilling experience with an automobile and a team of mules. The farmer recently had purchased a new machine, and on one of his first trips tried to cross the creek at a ford. He put the clutch at high speed and, for some reason the engine went dead in midstream. Cranking failed to revive it. After a number of useless efforts, the farmer secured a team of mules, hitched them to the stubborn auto and dragged the machine across the creek and up the bank. The driver had left the clutch on at high speed, and from some unaccountable cause as soon as the machine was on level road the engine suddenly revived, the machine started forward with a bound and struck the mules squarely in their kicking apparatus. There was something doing immediately thereafter. The mules started off full tilt with the machine chugging after them; the driver being occupied with the mules, could not steer, thus causing it to strike a bank of earth, thus bringing the strange runaway to an abrupt end.—Kansas City Journal.

WANTED HER TO KNOW VALUE

Shipper Didn't by Any Means Object to Having the Girl Find Out What His Gift Cost.

A young man brought a package into the main office of an express company on lower Broadway the other day and asked the receiving clerk to send it to a town up state.

The clerk weighed the package and then asked the young man if he desired to declare the value of it. The young man said he would and put the figure "$75." Then the clerk marked in a corner of the package in very small letters "V75."

The young man asked the meaning of "V75."

"That is the abbreviation of value $75," said the clerk.

"Why do you print it in such small letters in an out-of-the-way place?"

"Because most folks do not care to have the value marked in letters that will attract attention," replied the clerk.

"Well, I tell you, if this was just an ordinary package, I would not care," said the young man, "but the truth is that this is a present I am sending to my intended up state, so if it is agreeable, will you kindly mark that 'V75' in big letters up near her name, where she'll be sure to see it?"—New York Sun.

Post Offices in Competition.

When the post office was first opened at Kai Fong, China, the clerks had a fight. Some men who bought stamps and refused to go away until the stamps were licked and stuck on their envelopes for them. The foreign post offices in Palestine are usually convulsed by a spirit of keen competition. If a parcel exceeding the regulation weight or size is taken to an office and refused the traveler in the majority of cases has only to threaten to take it to a rival office and it is straightway received without a murmur. So keen is the rivalry between some of these offices that residents in Palestine possess a free post within certain districts of Jerusalem and the surrounding colonies, and also within Jerusalem, the German and Austrian offices make no charge for the delivery of local letters.

Cast Bronze Coronets.

A curious archaeological discovery has been made in the Russian province of Poltava. It consists of two antique coronets of cast bronze. One is 5½ inches in diameter, about one inch high, and has 20 denticulations, and the other five inches in diameter, 1¾ inches in height, and has 17 denticulations. Both are made in two pieces, joined together by a hinge. The time rust with which they are covered and their general character leave no room for doubt as to their authenticity. The articles were found in the possession of a Russian peasant, but where and how they were originally unearthed is unfortunately not known.

Small Talk as an Art.

The art of small talk is one that many women try to cultivate, and there are instances of clever talkers who find employment as exponents of the art of light conversation. Their method is to read the newspapers daily, to keep in touch with the latest books, to know something special about all the new plays, and to invent small scraps of information just bordering on the scandalous. While the society woman is undergoing treatment at the hands of the hairdresser her expert conversationalist sits by her side and chats, as it were casually, on the subjects of the moment, so that her bon mots may be remembered for repetition.

Unnecessary.

Hewitt—You are married, aren't you?

Jewett—That's a nice question to ask the father of three children.

MISS BEEKMAN DEAD AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Miss Caroline V. D. Beekman, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel B. Beekman, died Thursday at her home, 37 Clinton avenue, following a long illness from tuberculosis. The young woman made a plucky fight to stay the progress of the disease, undergoing treatment at a sanitorium for a time and then for the past year or so living out-of-doors practically all of the time. This only served to prolong life awhile longer, it being realized that the end was only a question of time.

Miss Beekman was one of the charter members of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, and was a faithful Christian. For a time she taught a class in the Sunday-school and was also active in the Epworth League and other departments of church work. Miss Beekman's mother died just eleven months ago, while her father has been dead for nearly twenty years.

Surviving are six sisters, Mrs. Isaac Randolph, Mrs. Mary Beekman, Mrs. Samuel Saums and the Misses Beekman; also one brother, Samuel Beekman.

SILVER BAY DELEGATES HAVE RETURNED HOME

The eleven young women from the local Y. W. C. A., who have been attending the large eastern city conference of the Y. W. C. A., at Silver Bay, Lake George, returned home Friday afternoon, after having spent an enjoyable ten days there. They report having discussed a large amount of association work as well as having had a good time.

Those who took in the trip were Miss Amy Tapping, general secretary; Miss Maud Van Blarcom and Miss Margaret Mosher, assistant secretaries; and the Misses Florence Prior, Helen George, Clara Runyon, Mary Gray, Laura Hangliter, Lizzie Joos, Myrtle Fedderman and Nettie Steiner.

Each morning of their sojourn there, was spent in technical councils, in which the different phases of the association's work was thoroughly discussed. At the same time there were four Bible classes being conducted in different parts of the convention hall.

The afternoons were given over entirely to recreation, and it was then that the young women had their enjoyment. There is a beautiful bathing beach on the lake and the whole local delegation took advantage of the opportunities offered. Several of the local delegates were so successful in their enjoyment of the water that they even learned to swim. It was after dark when the party, a launch trip to Paradise Bay on the lake being one of the features of the week's fun.

One day of the ten was known as "stunt day" or "Association day" in which the various delegations were dressed in costume peculiarly adapted to their section of the country. The local delegates essayed the role of Jersey mosquitoes, and many comments of praise were heard from their efforts.

Several of the nights were devoted to vesper services, which were held either on the dock or in the orchard. The principal speakers at these services were Rev. Harry Fosdick, of Mount Pleasant, and Dr. John M. Dowell, of Newark. Two of the nights were turned over to the reviewing of stereopticon views, which showed the audiences which the work of the association has made the world over.

Plainfield's delegation at the conference was an average one, the usual number in a representation ranging between twelve and fifteen. Newark with forty-five delegates led the list.

Miss Tapping, general secretary of the local branch, announced today that the rooms would be kept open as usual during the summer and that until August 1 she would remain in charge. During August, Miss Van Blarcom will assume her duties.

"THIRD DEGREE" INQUIRY.

In the near future the special Senate committee oppointed by the Vice President under the Heyburn resolution will begin an investigation of the so-called "third degree" methods of police officers. The committee consists of Senators Brandegee, Borah, Brown, Stone and Overman.

It is probable that Senators Brandegee and Overman will take charge of the investigation of police methods in the East and that Senators Borah, Brown and Stone will investigate the methods of the police in the West. In this way it is purposed not only to save time, but also to save the expense of bringing witnesses from the Far West to Washington. The Western Senators as a sub-committee will take the evidence in the Western cities. It is expected that a report will be made to Congress at its next session.

Constitutionalists Ads Pay.

LAST OF THE CENSUS RECORDS ARE SENT IN

The last of the 155 portfolios containing the official census of the Fifth Congressional district of New Jersey have been sent to Washington by Census Supervisor Louis V. Hoagland and everyone of them have been receipted as being "O. K." Mr. Hoagland feels elated over the fact that none have been sent back for retabulation.

The fact that all were correct is due to the untiring efforts of the Supervisor, who refused to ship any of the records until all were exactly as desired by the Census Bureau. With the shipment of the last portfolio, the official census of the Fifth Congressional District becomes known, but only to the Supervisor. His lips are sealed, however, and no one will know the population of Plainfield, Union County or the district until it is given out from Washington.

Mr. Hoagland is unstinted in his comment upon the work done by his enumerators. They were a bright, intelligent force and it is to their credit that he ascribes the success of the taking of the census in this district.

The Supervisor has written a letter to Washington, telling of the courtesy extended to him by the newspapers throughout the district. The school children also come in for their share of credit.

There has been a lot of speculation as to the population of this city and wagers have been made in many quarters. It will be some time before the result will be announced by the United States Census Bureau.

ALMOST BITTEN TO DEATH BY SKEETERS

After an all-night battle with mosquitoes in the Watchung mountains near Morristown, two Montclair men and a Newarker, returned to their homes Friday with little more than their lives. Their faces, arms, hands and ankles were livid from hundreds of punctures made by the pests. They declared that they had undergone a form of torture which no sum of money would tempt them to endure again.

The three men—Assistant Fire Chief Patrick J. Farrell and Robert Jones, of Montclair, and William Loughlin, of Newark—became stranded on a steep hill in a sand road after nightfall. They had left Montclair Thursday afternoon in Mr. Farrell's automobile for Okanico Lake on a fishing expedition, intending to return in the evening.

They had good luck, Mr. Loughlin catching a bass weighing six and a quarter pounds with a bullfrog lure. It was after dark when the three men started for Montclair, and believing that they could return by a nearer way than they had traveled to the lake, Mr. Farrell set out in a different route.

When about seven miles from the lake Farrell saw a long steep hill ahead of him and he put on full power. He soon discovered that he was going through sand about six inches deep, and although he kept on all power, the machine came to a stop long before the top of the hill was reached. The men looked for a light in some friendly farmhouse in which to get assistance, but none could be seen.

It was not long, however, before the men discovered that the place was alive with mosquitoes, and they were beset with the pests. They tried to turn the heavy car in order to go back, but this they found impossible, neither could they drive the machine backwards.

Seeing that there was no other plan of escape the men set to work clearing a way through the sand for the wheels of the automobile to travel on. It was slow work, their hands and feet being the only implements, and there was no let up on the part of the mosquitoes, which kept up a constant attack on the men, almost driving them mad.

It was nearly daylight before they got a clearance through the sand that enabled them to drive over the hill and finally reach Montclair. Their faces, neck and hands present a pitiful sight, being covered with bites of the venomous insects, and are greatly swollen.

Farrell says that he cannot imagine more severe punishment than they went through during the time they were on that hill.

Showered by Their Friends.

Miss Lucetta Clark, of Grandview avenue, was tendered a variety shower by her friends at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dyckman Winkler, on Grandview avenue, Thursday night. At the same time, J. Russell Harden was tendered a hardware shower by his friends. Miss Clark and Mr. Harden have been engaged for some time and will in all probability be married early in the fall.

No Meetings Until September.

The W. C. T. U. has given up its Sunday and Thursday meetings until after September 1, when they will be resumed for the fall and winter.

UPHOLDS PUBLIC OPINION ON FIGHT PICTURES

Supreme Court Justice Francis J. Swayze dealt a severe blow to the promoters of the Jeffries-Johnson fight pictures at Jersey City Wednesday afternoon. He went there unexpectedly and charged the grand jury that if an exhibition of moving pictures of the Reno fight is given in Hudson county he will call the grand jurors together in order that an indictment may be presented for action by them.

His action is the first official and judicial one of its kind that has been taken in this State and the only one where the attention of a Metropolitan district grand jury has been staged on the fight pictures. It may affect the entire State.

It was understood that the grand jury was to go into court to present several separate indictments to either Judge Blair or Judge Carey and that the jurors would be discharged for the term. When announcement was made that Judge Swayze would receive the jury it was noised about that there would be something doing. Judge Swayze started off his charge by saying:

"The court has determined not to discharge you for the term. More than two months intervene between the present time and the opening of the September term, and serious matters may in the meantime make it desirable to have prompt action by a grand jury.

"Last week there was a prize fight in the State of Nevada. An attempt may be made in this county to show moving pictures of that fight, although I hope that the timely action which the police authorities intend to take may prevent it. There seems to be some doubt about the law in other States.

"There can be none in New Jersey. The law is thus stated by a legal writer of repute: 'A public exhibition of any kind that tends to the corruption of morals, to a disturbance of the peace of the general good order and welfare of society is a public nuisance. Under this head are included all puppet shows, legerdemain, obscene pictures and any and all exhibitions, the natural tendency of which is to pander to vicious and disorderly members of society.'

"Conceding, as we ought, great liberty in exhibitions for the amusement and entertainment of the public, that liberty does not permit exhibitions that tend to corrupt public morals, to cause a disturbance of the public peace or of the general order and welfare of society, or pander to the vicious and disorderly. In considering the question what tends to corrupt public morals we ought to look into the declarations of the Legislature, the official declarations of the State. Our Legislature has not only made the prize fighting a crime, has enacted that any person who is present at such a fight for the purpose of witnessing the same is guilty of a misdemeanor. With such a declaration on the part of our Legislature it cannot be questioned that an exhibition of moving pictures of such a fight, which are well calculated to encourage practises denounced by the act, tends to the corruption of morals and is a public nuisance.

"If the pictures are accurate and an actual reproduction of the scene their effect upon spectators must approximate the effect of the actual fight. If they are made up and not photographs of the actual fight their effect can hardly be less, and there is, besides, the possible element of fraud upon the public.

"It is no answer to say that such an exhibition like the fight itself may attract worthy and estimable citizens. In fact, it panders to the vicious and disorderly elements of society; it causes them to gather in crowds under circumstances likely to lead to a disturbance of the peace. This danger seems especially probable in the present case.

"If such an exhibition occurs in this county the court will call you together in order that an indictment may be presented to you for your action.

A Gift to Trinity Reformed Church.

A friend of Trinity Reformed church, whose name cannot be ascertained because of modesty, has presented the church with a hundred new hymn books for use in the lecture room where the prayer meetings of the congregation are held. The gift is appreciated. The books are of the series of "Church Hymns and Gospel Songs," as compiled by Ira D. Sankey, James McGranahan and Geo. C. Stebbins.

Announce Engagement.

Announcement was made today of the engagement of Miss Mary Mohan of Madison avenue, Dunellen, and Frank Ricardo, of Nashville, Tenn. The wedding will take place the last of this month at St. John's Catholic church, Dunellen. Miss Mohan is the daughter of Mrs. Peter Mohan, and has a large circle of friends.

Will Preach for Pastor Brock.

Rev. Edwin Shaw, of the Seventh-Day Baptist Church, will preach for Rev. John Y. Brook at Trinity Reformed church, Sunday, August 1, at the morning service. There will be no evening service.

LITTLE MONEY IN OSTRICHES

Australian Raisers of Beautifully Feathered Birds Get Small Returns for Their Work.

The first attempt to raise ostriches in Australia was made by a Mr. Malcom, who in 1880 brought 100 young birds from South Africa to South Australia. In the following year the parliament of South Australia enacted a law which granted to the first person who should exhibit 250 ostriches more than one year old about 2,400 acres of land suitable for ostrich farming. The conditions were satisfied by the South Australian Ostrich Company, which was founded in 1888 with a capital of $75,000. The company received a grant near Port Augusta on Spencer bay, but in spite of this assistance the company has never paid a dividend, although it now possesses 1,100 ostriches, all of which were imported from South Africa. There is a still larger ostrich farm on the shore of Lake Albert, and smaller farms are scattered through the colony.

In New South Wales ostrich farming was first attempted in 1837, by Robert Duff, who imported six pairs of ostriches from northern Africa, and now possesses 84 birds.

Queensland and Victoria possess only small ostrich farms, which have not proved very encouraging results. In all there are now about 2,000 ostriches in Australia. The inferior feathers are used at home and the more valuable ones are exported, chiefly to Germany.—Scientific American.

FOR THE CONTRIBUTION BOX

A Convenient Arrangement for Giving Early and Often in Use in a Greek Church.

A custom among attendants of the Greek church at Trebizond explains the use of certain tokens which have been presented to the American Numismatic society.

According to the Journal of the society sometimes several collections are made during the service in these churches. Even should there be but one, the visitor may desire to make a special contribution at the shrine or picture of some of the saints whose intercession he desires to secure, or he may wish to purchase a candle for use in some of the ceremonials in public or private devotions.

On entering the church, therefore, he exchanges a certain sum of money with the deacon at the gate for an equivalent number of the tokens. He is thus able to respond to the calls for the various offerings during the service or to deposit his gift at the shrine of the saint by using one of the tokens. As soon as he may be disposed, yet without any heavy demand on his purse. These church tokens are sometimes of brass and sometimes of paper.

The Transfer Was Old.

With a transfer ticket punched to expire at 12 o'clock, an elderly woman got on a car.

"I can't take this, lady," said the conductor. "You see, it's marked for 12, but now it's ten minutes of two. The ticket's been dead for nearly two hours."

"Well," was the woman's reply, "I took the first car I could get after leaving the bank. I had to wait to have my interest figured up."

"If it took 'em two hours to figure the interest on my money I wouldn't argue about a transfer. I'd pay my fare or ride in an auto," said the conductor.

The woman made no retort, but fished a nickel out of her handbag and gave it to the conductor.—New York Press.

Deadheads Who Must Be Coaxed.

Concert givers in Germany find it more and more difficult to get an audience. Free tickets by no means insures one. A Berlin journal tells how audiences at recitals (Berlin often has a recital or two of them in one week) are apt to be made up.

Miss N——, who plays or sings, sends out about 200 tickets, some of them to prominent persons. One of these is the wife of Prof. X——. She kindly accepts the tickets, but has no intention of attending the concert, so she gives them to her dressmaker, who in turn bestows them on her assistants, who possibly may go to the concert. In one case it was found that of 200 free tickets only 47 were used.—Musical America.

Filipino Dolls' Houses.

Filipino youngsters are by no means badly provided for as regards amusement, seeing that they enjoy the luxury of a life-sized doll's house, though the latter, it must be remarked, is but slightly different in proportions and appearance from the residences of the adult population of the Philippines. The climate in these parts is so equable that the inability of most of the parents to provide their offspring with other than very scanty clothing is of no consequence; indeed, clothing for children under the age of ten years is regarded as redundant and an unnecessary expense.—Wide World Magazine.

Almost Libelous.

A speaker at a recent press banquet, recalled a quarrel between two editors, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

"But Smith," he said, "got the best of Brown unquestionably when Brown, who owned a small farm, bought a mule.

"Smith printed a paragraph about this purchase and headed it, 'Extraordinary Case of Self-Possession.'"

THE GENTLE CYNIC.

Most of us believe in eternal punishment—for our enemies.

The good don't all die young if we are to believe the tombstones.

A man never fights so hard for a principle as he does for results.

When a fellow tells a girl she is a dream it is cruel of her to wake him up.

The things that make a man discontented are not what he has, but what he wants.

Some people take a melancholy satisfaction in always being prepared for the worst.

Occasionally you find a grown man who seems to eat almost as much as a small boy.

Even the man who borrows trouble is apt to kick if he gets more than he bargained for.

Some men are so rich that they even seem to think they can pay their respects in dollars.

It is quite natural that a fellow will never have a show unless he has the price of admission.

The man who suffers from dyspepsia has little patience with a woman who merely has a broken heart.

It always worries an absent-minded man to think he can't remember what it was he was going to worry about.

TRUTH IN TABLETS.

Some people's breakfast is a sort of cereal story.

A truck has wheels—unless it is garden truck.

Vanity leaves its footprints on a woman's face.

An officeholder never retires until the voters pry him loose.

A woman isn't necessarily gifted because she has the gift of gab.

The nearer you approach many a great man the smaller he looks.

Flour by any other name would smell as wheat—to the shorts.

The antique assertion that "figures won't lie" is a lying figure of speech.

The wise man keeps his temper even when he is getting the worst of it.

A man will confess to one bad habit for the purpose of hiding a dozen others.

A woman may claim to be as young as she likes, but she doesn't always look it.

It's simply impossible to love thy neighbor as thyself if he is an amateur cornet player.

It takes an expert female shopper to get rid of a dollar's worth of energy in an attempt to save two cents.

WAYSIDE WISDOM.

Opportunity is a gum-shoe artist.

It is an odd man that never tries to get even.

Some people cannot think without making the noise of a boiler shop.

The trouble is that people who have money are content to think money.

Don't wait till somebody offers to turn the grindstone before you sharpen your ax.

It is very hard to tell where patience leaves off and laziness begins in most people.

A woman's idea of slaying the fatted calf is to put the best tablecloth on the table.

The devil finds mischief for idle hands to do. The busy ones find their own mischief.

It shows the innate superiority of the masculine sex that a man can be bald and still be loved.

You can't tell just what a man expects who puts a rabbit's foot in his pocket when he goes to call on a pretty girl.—Illustrated Sunday Magazine.

CHEERFUL COMMENTS.

Bathing suits nearly everybody on a hot day.

Even the straw hats have a bewildered, disappointed look.

If the price of ham goes much higher the ham sandwich will soon be out of season.

You think you've had a pretty hard time, but the native strawberry has had to bear it also.

There hasn't been so much hurrying to get the hunk of ice off the sidewalk as there will be later on.

While on the other hand probably nine out of 10 jokesmiths who make fun of the June bride were married in December.

DECISION SEVERE BLOW TO THE ROYAL ARCANUM

Judge Kelly in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, gave a decision Friday that may cost the fraternal and beneficial order of Royal Arcanum thousands of dollars, and it is therefore naturally of unusual interest to the members of the orders in this city.

The decree was the outcome of a suit brought by Samuel Greene, of DeWitt Council, Brooklyn, to restrain the Supreme Council from suspending him as a member. Greene was threatened with suspension because he refused to pay $6.80 a month in assessments instead of $1.80, which was the sum fixed when he joined the order.

The Arcanum changed its method of assessment in 1898 and instead of issuing assessments whenever money was needed to pay death claims, made a flat rate assessment once a month, which made Greene's assessment $2.16 a month. Greene paid that amount, but in 1905 the Arcanum made another change in its methods of assessment and fixed the assessment age of each member as his age October 1, 1905, instead of his age when he joined the order. This added twenty-two years to Green's assessment age and made it $6.80 a month, besides increasing the assessment by adding each member $16.50 a month when he reaches the age of sixty-five. Greene will be that age in two years.

Judge Kelly holds that the order having contracted to assess Greene at his age when he entered the order had no legal right to change the contract without his consent.

AN IMPORTANT ELECTION.

Fear was expressed by Assemblyman Smalley at the Twelfth Ward Republican Club meeting the other evening that the importance of this year's election might not be realised by the voters. He pointed out that in order to win this fall it will be necessary to appreciate the fact that there is a real fight ahead. Assemblyman Smalley did not go into details. That was not necessary. Anyone who will take the trouble to look of the list of political positions to be filled in November, will appreciate the importance of the approaching contest. Not only is a Governor of the State to be elected, but a member of Congress, and, in this county, three members of the State Legislature, who will play an important part in the election of a United States Senator. Clearly the whole Board of Freeholders is to be chosen in the county, while in the city the choice of a Mayor adds largely to the interest in the campaign. The municipal contest is, in fact, sure to attract much attention, with the terms of so many officials expiring this year. There is enough at stake in the fall campaign to arouse the most lethargic citizen to a new sense of responsibility; and Assemblyman Smalley and others who speak in Union county from now until election time will do well to keep pointing out to the people the necessity of taking a thorough-going interest in the campaign.—Elizabeth Journal.

HONOR NEW JERSEY PRIEST.

Many Attend Testimonial for the Rev. J. A. Reynolds at Red Bank.

About $1,500 was realized by the jubilee testimonial benefit given for the Rev. James A. Reynolds, of St. James' Roman Catholic Church, at Keith's Lyceum, Red Bank Thursday. The Lyceum was filled with parishioners and friends of the priest, and in the boxes were the wealthy residents of the Rumson section and many theatrical persons.

An entertainment was given by vaudeville performers at Red Bank for the summer, including Maggie Cline, Annie Hart, George Gaskin, Tony Pearl, the Four Masons, Ben Welch, Nelson and Milled e, Gracer and Burnett and Monahan and Giblin. The St. James' Dramatic Club presented a farce, entitled "The Two Lunatics."

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the ordination of Father Reynolds will be celebrated on August 24. Father Reynolds took charge of St. James' Parish in 1883. The present church in Broad street was built June 17, 1894.

SERVICES FOR MRS. MARY A. FLYNN'S FUNERAL.

The funeral services over the remains of the late Mrs. Mary A Flynn, whose death occurred Wednesday, were held Saturday at 8:15 from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Jerome W. Leary, at the Hotel Iroquois, and at 8.45 from St. Mary's Church. Father Hogan officiated at the church services where a requiem mass was said for the repose of her soul. Interment was in New Haven, Conn.

Waiters Repartee.

The Diner—You had your thumb in that plate of soup of mine?!

The Waiter—Yes, sir; but be thankful for one thing.

"And what is that?"

"That my fingers are not all thumbs, sir!"—Yonkers Statesman.

Bee Culture in Switzerland.

The flora of Switzerland possesses qualities that produce delicious honey, and thousands of colonies of bees may be seen in the country, being utilised by the people to increase the food supply and commercial products; in fact, the production of honey and wax constitutes an industry of considerable importance to the confederation, as is shown by statistics furnished by the Swiss Society of Apiculturists.

A Primer of Life.

No use to tell people not to be millionaires, for they can't help it when the money-making instinct is born in 'em; and no use to preach to 'em about the happiness of poverty, for some are born to get all the happiness there is in it—which won't fill an old steel thimble. Folks are sure to take the road they were cut out to take, whether there's a golden calf or a hungry lion waiting for 'em.

To Be Taken Into Account.

"You seem to be pretty well pleased with yourself. What's happened? Been hitting it right in the stock market?"

"No, my doctor has ordered me to go to Europe for my health." "That doesn't strike me as a thing that should make a man step high and bulge with self-satisfaction." "But, say, old man, think of the compliment there is in such an order."

The Woman in the Moon.

About nine days after the new moon a pretty unmistakably feminine face appears on the western half of the disk. This lunar lady, who is worth watching for, is formed by the mountains and tablelands embraced by the Seas of Tranquility, Vapors and Serenity, and is best seen through an ordinary opera glass.

The Japs' Stamp.

Japanese postage stamps are considered to be the most artistic in the world. There is a great demand for them at present. The first stamps were issued in 1871. There are comparatively few rare ones, the highest price ever known to have been paid for one being $50.—Home Notes.

Dampening the Gloves.

If new gloves are placed between the folds of a damp towel for an hour before being worn they are much easier to put on. The damp causes the kid to become more pliable so that they will stretch to the required shape without cracking or splitting.

How Mountain Ranges Are Formed.

Most mountain ranges are formed by gradual process. Some, however, are formed by sudden upheavals at times of earthquake, some by volcanic eruptions, and some by circumdenudation, that is, by gradual wearing away of the surrounding materials.

A Stickler Indeed.

Hewitt—"He's a stickler for etiquette." Jewett—"I know it. I've known him to say that he wouldn't mind walking to the top floor of a skyscraper if the elevator would simply say, 'Pardon my not rising.'"

Belles of New York.

The American woman does not forever strive to cause a sensation. She makes it a rule to be always conventional and stylishly dressed, and she insists on being in the vanguard of fashion.—Town and Country.

Part of the Scheme.

"Oh, Willie!" exclaimed little Elsie, "what did you open that oven door for? Don't you know that will spoil the cake mamma's baking?" "Sure!" replied Willie, "an' if it's spoiled she'd let us eat all we want of it."—Catholic Standard and Times.

Arduous Times.

"Your husband looks all tired out. Is his business heavy?" "Not particularly. But he puts in so much of his day discussing pennant prospects that he has to work at night."

The Horrible Butcher.

Mabel, aged three, taken to the butcher shop for the first time, gazed in horror at the sawdust on the floor. "Pa," she whispered, "does he butcher dolls?"

The Philosopher of Folly.

"The reason so many of our professional athletes aren't properly trained," says the Philosopher of Folly, "is that they have to spend so much time being photographed."

From a Business Standpoint.

"Marriage is not always a failure," says the Philosopher of Folly, "but if you're careful to marry a rich girl, it's nearly as profitable."

Job.

Job never had a telephone hung up on one side of his tent.—Oklahoma (Kan.) Globe.

Control of Temper Important.

Your temper controls your life; therefore you should learn to control your temper.

A Word for Economy.

He who accustoms himself to buy superfluities may be obliged, ere long, to sell his necessities.—Simmons.

Unnecessary.

One never has to put salt on the tail of trouble in order to catch it.

Unwise Neglect.

Never take off to-morrow the collar you should change to-day.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning July 24, 1910.

Topic.—A life lived with Christ.—Gal. ii, 20; I John v, 1-12. Edited by Rev. Sherman H. Doyle, D. D.

It should be the aspiration of every human being to live the highest life possible. This is made possible in many cases by taking as our examples the lives of great men. We study them, catch the spirit that actuated their lives and so frequently ponder upon them that our minds and souls are saturated with their very being, and we are thus inspired to reach a higher plane of life. If thus living, as it were, in the minds and thoughts of men who, however great, are yet withal frail and weak, how much more we should reach the high aspiration for noble lives if we live with Jesus Christ, the only perfect pattern of a human life that the world has ever seen.

A life with Christ is not simply a life that takes Him as an example. This is so as applied to man, but not as applied to Christ. We actually live with Christ, and He lives with us. True, it is a mystical union, and yet it is no less a real one. Christ says, "Abide in Me and I in you." Paul in Gal. ii, 20, adds, "I am crucified with Christ, and it is no longer I that live (R. V.), but Christ liveth in me." Christ dwelt in him. What Christ wanted Paul wanted. Paul had so surrendered himself to Christ that Christ actually lived in him, and Paul simply became a channel through which Christ did His own will. Visitor once looked at the door of an aged saintly hermit, asking, "Does Mr. —— live here?" The answer came back, "No; Jesus Christ lives here." Would that we could all so live with Christ that we could say with such assurance that Christ lives in us.

The life lived with Christ is begun by faith. Paul continued his statement by adding, "And the life which I now live in the flesh I live by the faith of the Son of God, who loved me and gave Himself for me." The death of Christ revealed to Paul inspired faith in him, and by that faith Christ lived in Paul and ruled and directed his life. For the Ephesians Paul prayed that Christ might dwell in their hearts by faith." Life with Christ begun in faith continues in prayer and service and the study of His word. In prayer we talk to Christ. In the Bible He talks to us. Thus we live in communion with Him. In serving Him we live with Him in that we do what He wants us to do.

Life with Christ helps us to overcome sin, to bear fruit for God. Greater still, if we live with Christ here, bearing His cross and denying ourselves for His sake, we shall live with Him in glory and, having suffered with Him, shall also reign with Him.

BIBLE READINGS.

Matt. ix, 27-31; xi, 28-30; Mark x, 46-52; John i, 1-11; vi, 16-21; xv, 1-11; I Pet. iii, 15; I Cor. xv, 1-5; Eph. iii, 1-10, 14-21; II Tim. iv, 16-18.

Training Its Mission.

Rev. Dr. Francis E. Clark in an address at the St. Paul Christian Endeavor convention said:

The mission of the Christian Endeavor society is as plain as the sun in the noonday heavens. It was written in its first constitution, and it has been acknowledged by the churches throughout the world. That mission is to be the training school of the church. This training is along four great lines; they might be called the "four major courses" of Christian Endeavor:

First.—The expression of the Christian life in deeds.

Second.—Its expression in words.

Third.—Its expression in loyalty.

Fourth.—Its expression in fellowship.

The boy who goes to college indicates his desire for an education. The courses that he takes largely determine his future life. The boy who joins the Christian Endeavor society indicates his desire for a practical Christian education, and the thoroughness with which he takes its courses will largely determine his usefulness in the kingdom of God. All these courses in our Christian Endeavor college in the nature of the case and by reason of the constitution and requirements of the human soul are compulsory because necessary for the building up of a fully rounded, symmetrical Christian character. None of them is optional. The first course, the expression of the Christian life in deeds, finds its class rooms in our many committees; the second, expression in words, in the prayer meeting; the prayer meeting; the third, the expression of the Christian life in loyalty, is learned in all the multifarious services for the church, and the fourth, the expression of the Christian life in fellowship, is taught in the thousand Christian Endeavor conventions and union meetings held every year throughout the world.

Estimate of Christian Endeavor.

I believe that Christian Endeavor is the greatest movement to which Christianity has yet given birth. It stands for the fullest development of the individual Christian and for the evangelization of the whole world. It has in it unlimited possibilities. All that is needed is that pastors and people use it in a more thorough manner for the highest and widest spiritual results. Its ideal is the highest that a Christian can conceive of—full surrender to Christ, Christlikeness of living, Christ's zeal for the conquest of the world. As a training school for efficiency it gives the pastor an unequaled opportunity to make his work count both in character development and in evangelistic results.—Rev. J. Spencer Voorhees in Evangel.

OPEN CARS SOON ON SOMERSET STREET LINE

Within the next two weeks, it is expected that the closed cars, which have been running on the Somerset street and Arlington avenue lines will be taken off and substituted by an open car service. That the open cars have not been put into service before now is due to the fact that the trolley roadbed on Somerset street, between Grandview avenue and Johnston's Drive is undergoing repairs, and while these conditions exist, the open cars could not be run to advantage on the line.

These cars have long bodies and short trucks, and as a result are subject to considerable jolting. This fault is aggravated the more so, because of the roadbed, and it has been deemed incompatable by the officials to run these cars until the fault is remedied.

The roadbed will, in all probability be repaired by the end of the next two weeks, and following this the open car service will be inaugurated. A number of complaints have been heard of late concerning the condition of affairs on this line, and the news of the relief will be eagerly welcomed.

JEFFERSON PUBLIC SCHOOL NEARING COMPLETION

So rapid has been the progress of the work on the new Jefferson School which is located at the corner of Washington and Darrow avenues, that in all probability there will be no hitch in throwing the building open to the children in September, as is required by the specifications. The Ross-Bush Co., of New York, is the general contractor, and are doing the masonry and carpentery, while George J. Tobin, of this city, is taking care of the plumbing and heating this fall.

The school is an up-to-date building with all modern improvements. It is an eight-room building and is heated with one of the latest improved heating systems, direct radiation and ventilation being employed by means of a large fan in a general pleman chamber. All machinery in the building is to be electrically driven and the radiation is to be thermostatically controlled. The inside plumbing has been all but completed, all that remains to be done, being the setting of the fixtures. The inside of the building is now in the process of plastering, which shows the advanced stage to which the work has progressed.

The grading and outside ground work will probably not be finished by the opening of the school in fall, but this will not deter the Board of Education from making use of the building.

BICYCLIST IS FINED IN THE POLICE COURT

For knocking down Mrs. Walter Conover, of North Plainfield, on Watchung avenue Thursday night with his bicycle, Tony Bulros, an Italian youth was fined three dollars in the city court Friday morning by Judge Runyon.

Patrolman Nick Meyers arrested the boy immediately after the accident and when he took the stand this morning told the court that he had called to the boy to stop as he was carrying no lamp on his wheel. The boy responded in a derisive manner and in a second had run Mrs. Conover down.

Bulros refused to answer the judge's questions this morning, saying he did not understand, but he was made to talk through an interpreter. He did not deny the charges brought against him and his fine was promptly paid by a friend. In fining the youth the judge declared that any further infraction of the ordinance which requires lights on vehicles or the one which prohibits riding bicycles on the sidewalks will be severely dealt with no matter who the offender may be.

REALTY TRANSFERS.

County Deeds Registered at Union County Court House.

These real estate transfers and contracts have been recorded at the office of County Registrar F. H. Smith at Elizabeth:

David Hand, et ux., to Verner U. Ramsing, southwesterly side Leland avenue, 250 feet of Charles Hyde, $1; Pasquale Deinno with Charles Bickwell, carpenter, mason and painting work, new building, $1,750; Trinity Reformed church with Charles McDonald, carpenter work, new extension $1,258; samee with William C. Smith, mason work, $824; Same with James C. Hansen, painting work, $145.

Constitutionalist's ads. pay.

NEW JERSEY RETALIATES

State Resents Discrimination Shown Against Its Automobilists.

MOTOR VEHICLE CHIEF ACTS.

J. B. R. Smith Sends a Sharp Letter to the Penna. State Highway Commissioner—Auto War is Now Begun.

Feeling that New Jersey automobilists are being persecuted in New York, Pennsylvania and other adjacent States in an effort to break down all automobile restrictions here and throw New Jersey's good roads open to unrestricted automobile traffic, J. B. R. Smith, State Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, is considering a method of retaliation that is likely to result seriously for nonresident automobile owners and drivers.

Beginning with Pennsylvania, Mr. Smith Saturday wrote a letter to the Highways Commissioner of that State, calling his attention to the fact that the police authorities of his Commonwealth refuse to recognize New Jersey licenses. He adds that unless there is a modification of that attitude he will feel constrained to refuse to Pennsylvania automobilists in the future the privileges of the Nonresident amendment to the New Jersey law.

By this amendment, which was passed last winter, non-resident automobilists may be given tourists' licenses without cost. These permit the use of New Jersey roads for four periods of thirty days each, or one period of eight days, in each year. They may be refused at the discretion of the Commissioner.

These tourists' licenses have already become popular with nonresidents who desire to tour this State and their abolition would doubtless have a far reaching effect. Commissioner Smith's letter to Joseph W. Hunter, the tState Highways Commissioner of Pennsylvania, in part follows:

"New Jersey motorists desiring to operate their cars in Pennsylvania have on several occasions called the attention of the department to the construction placed on the provisions of the Pennsylvania reciprocal law relating to motor vehicles, which provides that privileges granted to non-residents 'shall not apply to residents of this State that do not extend similar privileges to residents' of Pennsylvania. The privileges referred to are that non-residents shall be exempt from the provisions of the act for a period of ten days if they have complied with the registration laws of the State in which they reside.

"To New Jersey motorists reciprocity is denied, notwithstanding that the New Jersey law provides nonresident privileges of eight days upon registration and the payment of a nominal fee, and yet in dealing with residents of other States, many of whose registration laws are in many respects wholly dissimilar to those of Pennsylvania, a liberal construction of the reciprocal provision is made, and residents of other States are accordingly extended courtesies which are denied residents of New Jersey. In addition to this the police departments of many Pennsylvania municipalities have issued orders specially directing that the automobile law shall be strictly enforced against residents of New Jersey.

"For this reason two of the largest clubs of New Jersey have by resolution, and many motorist have personally, urged me to exercise my prerogative of the department and refrain from issuing tourists' licenses to residents of Pennsylvania.

"I dislike very much to pursue such a course, and will not do so except as a last resort. Retaliatory measures seem to me to be methods of warfare coming to us from a less enlightened civilization, to be used only when individual rights can be obtained in no other way. I am confident that some way may be found whereby citizens of New Jersey will not be discriminated against while touring in your State and your law is to be strictly construed. I am sure that your authorities will upon reflection, so construe it to affect all alike. If a liberal construction is to be employed, I trust all will receive the benefits. * * *

"I am not unaware of the popular demand among motorists of your own and of other States for the action of your authorities have taken. These motorists have felt aggrieved at the attitude of the New Jersey Legislature in not providing non-resident privileges without cost, and they have not hesitated to advise persons in authority in your state to retaliate on the innocent motorists of New Jersey touring in your State, in the hope that they might thereby force New Jersey motorists to insist that our Legislature give free privilege to non-residents. This is a spirit of oppressive coercion which, if forced to its logical conclusion, would stop all motor travel between the States, of which I am confident that in their cooler moments they will greatly regret as unbecoming fairminded men."

CRNAFORD NO MATCH FOR PLAINFIELD NINE

In a one-sided game, which virtually carried with it the championship of the county, Plainfield had little difficulty in taking Cranford into camp by the score of 9 to 0 on Crescent oval Saturday afternoon. The visitors were completely outclassed from the start of the game and not once dur'ng the nine innings were they considered as dangerous.

McLaughlin, the local twirler, who was backed up by stellar support was not forced to exert himself during the game. He had his opponents at his mercy throughout and only slipped them but one real safe hit. The other hit credited to the visitors was a scratch bunt, which Senator barely managed to beat out to the initial bag. Another evidence of McLaughlin's control is evidenced by the fact that but two of the Cranford players got beyond the midway station.

On the other hand, Farrell, who was twirling for Cranford, was wild and ineffective, and had no control whatsoever. He was hit by the Plainfield battery at will, and unquestionably was completely outclassed.

A feature of the game was the fielding of Schott, the local left fielder. He is credited with six put outs and every one of them were difficult chances. In pulling one of his catches, he was forced to leap through the air and only managed to get the sphere after doing a semi-somersault in the air. His work was excellent and spoiled more than one of the Cranford players' wallops which would have been good for a safe hit.

The score and summary follow:

CRANFORD.

	R.	H.	P'o.	A.	E.
Knowles, ss.	0	0	1	1	1
McMahon, c.f.	0	0	0	0	0
Schrienbeck, 2b.	0	0	1	0	0
Harsell, 3b.	0	1	2	3	2
Steiner, 1b.	0	1	7	0	1
Ryan, r.f.	0	0	0	0	0
Lawrence, l.f.	0	0	4	0	2
Farrell, p.	0	0	1	1	1
Drake, c.	0	0	8	2	1
	0	2	24	7	8

PLAINFIELD.

	R.	H.	Po.	A.	E.
Martin, 1b.	1	1	9	1	0
Boyd, 2b.	1	1	1	2	0
Emery, 3b.	1	0	1	3	1
Carlstrom, ss.	1	2	5	1	1
Barnes, c.f.	1	0	1	0	0
Nelson, c.	2	2	5	2	0
McLaughlin, p.	0	2	0	3	1
Schott, l.f.	1	2	6	0	0
Mullin, r.f.	0	1	0	0	0
	9	11	27	12	3

Score by innings:
Cranford ...0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0
Plainfield ..1 1 1 1 2 2 1 0 x—9

Summary: Sacrifice hits—Ryan, Martin, McLaughlin. Stolen bases—Boyd (2), Carlstrom, Nelson, Schott. Two-base hits—Boyd, Nelson. Struck out—By McLaughlin, 4; by Farrell, 7. Bases on balls—Off Farrell, 5; McLaughlin, 2. Wild pitches—Farrell, 3; McLaughlin, 1. Hit by pitched ball—Carlstrom, Drake. Double plays—McLaughlin to Carlstrom to Martin; Martin to Nelson to Martin; Harsell to Steiner. Left on bases—Cranford, 5; Plainfield, 8. Time of game, 1.45. Umpire—Payne.

LOOKS BRIGHT FOR ASBURY AIR CARNIVAL

With one-half of the $15,000 necessary for the aviation meet at Asbury Park subscribed, the promoters feel so enthusiastic that plans are already under way for closing a contract with E. M. Johnson, manager of the Wright Brothers. The meet will be held during the week beginning August 10.

The largest individual subscription obtained was $1,000 given by Mayor Appleby by Scott F. Hazelring, president of the Atlantic Coast Electric Railroad. Steinbach Company gave $500. Other subscriptions and guarantees to the executive committee brings the grand total up to nearly $8,000, leaving but about 700 more shares of stock to be subscribed. Each share of stock has a value of $10. The aviation meet will be managed by the stockholders, or subscribers, and all profit will be returned to them.

Incorporation papers, prepared by Asbury Park City Attorney Carton, will be signed and forwarded to the secretary of State today. The corporation will be known as the "Asbury Park Aero Club," capital stock $25,000, divided into shares of $10 each. The object of the club is known to be the promotion of aviation carnivals and the development of the aviation art.

A. H. Neville, of the Stormfelt, Lovely, Neville Company, representing the Interlaken Land Company, Friday night filed an agreement for the free use of the Brower farm, west of their property. It had been proposed to hold the air carnival on Mr. Bradley's land, along the beach, but it was found that the conditions were not satisfactory there.

Constitutionalists Ads Pay.

NORTH PLAINFIELD, 2; GARWOOD WELFARE, 1

In a close and exciting game the North Plainfield Baseball Club defeated the Young Men's Welfare Club, of Garwood, on Saturday by the score of 2 to 1. It was the first game that the Garwoods lost this season. The winning run was made in the sixth inning on successive hits by Allen, Jacot and G. Perry, Allen crossing the plate. Perry pitched a fine game keeping the hits scattered while Dusbenckе was not so fortunate, they being bunched in the first and sixth innings.

Line up and score by innings:
NORTH PLAINFIELD B. B. CLUB.

	R.	H.	E.
Reiman, r.f.	0	0	0
Allen, l.f.	1	2	0
Jacot, 1b.	1	2	0
G. Perry, c.	0	1	0
Driver, c.f.	0	1	0
Conroy, ss.	0	1	1
Lambertson, 3b.	0	0	0
Feiring, 2b.	0	0	0
W. Perry, p.	0	0	0
	2	7	1

Y. M. W. C. OF GARWOOD.

	R.	H.	P.
Ryan, 3b.	0	1	0
Rogoski, 2b.	0	3	3
H. Dushenckе, ss.	0	1	2
Lambert, r.f.	0	0	0
Packer, c.	0	0	1
Slater, lf.	0	0	0
Stumpf, c.f.	0	0	0
H. Dushenckе, p.	1	1	0
Brown, 1b.	0	0	0
	1	6	4

N. P. .....1 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 0—2
Y. M. W. C..0 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—1

Struck out—By Perry, 5; Dushenckе, 3. Bases on balls—Off Perry, 4; of Dushenckе, 1. Double plays—Garwood, 4; North Plainfield, 1. Umpires—Day and Allen.

PLAINFIELD Y.M.C.A., 2, AND METUCHEN TEAM 1

In a fast and interesting game the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. took the Metuchen team into camp on Metuchen Saturday by the score of 2-1. The contest was a nip and tuck affair and the victory was won only after the last man had been called out in the ninth.

The features of the game were the all round playing of Crooker, and the fielding of Taylor and Wilcox of the local boys, and the batting of Rupert of the Metuchen team. Frederickson, the Y. M. C. A. pitcher, was always strong, and was backed up by gilt-edged support. The score and summary follow:—

PLAINFIELD Y. M. C. A.

	R.	H.	Po.	A.	E.
Peacock, l.f.	1	3	2	0	0
Wilcox, c. f.	0	0	0	2	0
Lake, c.	0	1	3	2	0
Frittz, ss.	1	1	2	2	0
Dumont, 1b.	0	0	13	1	1
Taylor, 3b.	0	0	2	7	0
Frederickson, p.	0	0	0	1	0
Koller, r.f.	0	1	0	0	0
Brokaw, 2b.	0	0	4	0	1
	2	6	25	15	2

*Clarkson out, hit by batted ball.

METUCHEN.

	R.	H.	Po.	A.	E.
Weinegar, 1b.	0	0	9	0	0
Druse, ss.	0	1	0	2	2
R. Kempson, c.f.	0	0	3	1	0
Noe, 3b.	0	1	2	1	0
Rupert, r.f	0	3	1	1	0
Clarkson, l.f.	0	1	0	0	0
J. Kempson, 2b.	0	0	3	3	0
Compton, c.	0	0	7	0	0
Harrison, p.	0	0	3	1	0
	1	6	27	9	2

Plainfield ..1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1—2
Metuchen ..0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1—1

Summary:—Two-base hits—Peacock (2), Noe. Double plays—Frittz to Taylor to Brokaw; Druse to J. Kempson to Weinegar. Struck out—By Harrison, 6. Bases on balls—Off Frederickson, 1; off Harrison, 2. Stolen bases—Peacock, Noe, Druse. Time of game, 1.25.

FEW SCORES RETURNED AT THE PARK GOLF CLUB

The events at the Park Golf Club, Saturday, were the weekly competitions for the President's and golf club cups, and the Ladies' Summer cup, nine holes. There was a good field out, although not many scores were returned in either event. R. H. Titsworth, Miss Lydie Loizeaux and W. E. Lough won the points for the President's cup, and the same trio won the points for the golf club cup. These scores were posted:

R. H. Titsworth, 93, ...1: Miss Lydie Loizeaux, 97, 23-74; W. E. Lough, 101, 24-77; Charles P. Morse, 102, 19-84.

These scores were returned for the Ladies' Summer cup:

Miss Lulu Fuller, 61, 23-38; Miss Harriet R. Shreve, 61, 15-46.

—Constitutionalist's ads. pay.

RUNYON THRILLS CROWD

Congressional Candidate's First Speech Has the True Ring to It.

WILL REPRESENT THE PEOPLE.

Popular Judge Says He Will Have no Masters—Promises to Issue Statement Telling Where He Stands on Issues.

Declaring that if nominated and elected he would be a true representative of the people and would neither be a master nor serve any master, Judge William N. Runyon thrilled a big crowd at the Elizabeth Sixth Ward Republican outing on Saturday afternoon. As he frankly and eloquently spoke to the Republicans gathered at Matthews' grove, near Roselle, he was interrupted time and again by spontaneous outbursts of applause as he made telling hits. A rousing "three cheers for our next Congressman!" was given at the conclusion of his remarks in a fashion that made it plain that he had won the hearts and support of the Republicans within the sound of his voice.

"I believe in coming face to face with the men whose support I ask," said the judge, "and during the next few weeks I shall devote my time in talking and conferring with them. It is better for them to know me and for me to know them; for me to understand where I stand. I don't want the vote of any man who does not believe in me and no man should give his support to me who does not believe that I am the man to represent him at Washington.

"The Republican party makes promises to the people. I believe that those promises should be kept. If nominated and elected, I pledge you to the utmost of my ability, I will strive for the fulfillment of the party pledges. I do not believe in gaudy, rainbow promises. If nominated, I shall stand upon the partly platform. If not nominated, I shall support the man who is nominated.

"My good friends in Plainfield asked me to become a candidate. They did this, I believe, because they knew me. They acted in all sincerity, I shall act with all sincerety to them and to all the people. All shades of political ideas within the Republican party were represented in the signed petitions presented to me asking that I become a candidate.

"For a few days, I shall issue a statement setting forth frankly, honestly and unequivocally where I stand on the issues of the day and the party problems. I want you to know where I stand and I don't want your vote if you don't agree with me. I want to say right now that there will be no personalities, no mud-slinging in this campaign so far as I am concerned. The people are not interested in mud-slinging—they want to know the facts and want to know where their candidates stand. I want to be a representative of the people and will be a representative of the people if they see fit to nominate and elect me."

Surrogate George Parrott made a speech in which he lauded the Taft administration. Other speakers included James MacMasters, president of the Union County League of Republican Clubs, and Charles Wagner, president of the Downtown Republican Club, of Elizabeth. President Wagner told the Sixth Ward Club that the Downtown club had endorsed Runyon, and suggested that the Sixth Warders do likewise. They did.

In the crowd were County Clerk James C. Calvert, Sheriff Robert Kirkland, Edward Bauer, George Smith, John J. Stamler and others prominent in Union county politics.

MISS FLORENCE MARTIN BRIDE OF E. L. PIERSON

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Martin, of Grove street, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Florence Bertha Martin, to Ernest Lyman Pierson, of Chester, N. J. The ceremony took place on Saturday at Santa Anna, California, where Mr. Pierson is engaged in the cement and lumber business.

The bride is a graduate of the Plainfield High School and until this June was a teacher in the Franklin School. She is a graduate of the Trenton State Normal School. Mr. Pierson is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Pierson, of Chester, and like his bride has many friends here. Mr. and Mrs. Pierson will reside at Santa Anna.

Jessie Neilson.

Jessie, the six year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Nielson, of 815 Second place, died in the Adirondacks on Saturday. The child had been ill for some time, but it was not thought that her condition was serious. She was with her parents, at Fourth Lake, Inlet-in-the-woods. Interment will probably be in Brooklyn.

DUNELLEN WHITEWASHED BY JERSEY CENTRAL NINE

